Both propositions were approved by the voters of the district 4 to 0. "One hundred per cent approval! This happens only at Pep!" is the way A. G. Jungman sums up the election results.

From Your Chamber Office

By Gene Garrison

Mr. Ralph Douglas gave the office a large, up-to-date map of the City of Littlefield. Mr. Boyd Allen worked out a plan that is ideal for either hanging the map on the wall or rolling the map to take to meetings etc. We certainly appreciate the contribution of both of these fine gentlemen.

In the not-too-far distant future, I hope we can obtain a layman's map of Littlefield. A map that could be reproduced in quantity for newcomers etc.

BUK-NIK days are progressing nicely in spite of the "bugs" that always appear in a first run program of this nature. The Retail Council and the Jaycees hope to repeat the celebration next year and then launch a magnificent celebration for our Littlefield 50th anniversary year in 1963.

The term "kiddy rides" had me fooled. The Lone Star Amusement Company has set up a lot and street of professional size rides that are enjoyable for the entire family. They are open every day and evening through Saturday night. The rides, the special bargains in our stores, the $1,000.00 in BUK-NIK drawings and the beauty contest are providing a lot of activity in Littlefield this week. Hope everyone in the county will be with us several days during the week.

Last Sunday night, after Church Howard Horne confiscated a Southwestern Public Service Company truck, Howard, Kenneth Ware, Otis Bennett, Slow Grissom, Ray Keeling, J. R. Haney and myself strung the pennants we see hanging around town. The group restrained Ray and myself from climbing the ladder for obvious reasons. One slight mishap occurred when we were moving from one location to another on Phelps Avenue. We heard a loud voice that made itself heard above the regular activity of the Sunday night "Main dragging sight-seers." We discovered that we had driven away leaving Otis Bennett clinging to the top of a light pole. Actually it was not intended that Otis should be a part of our BUK-NIK days decoration.

Other activities to be expected in the future are: The farm dinners being planned by our Agriculture Committee; A full report on the industrial survey completed by the Board of City Development Committee; also the B.C.D. is investigating the feasibility and possibility of a solution to the drainage problem on U. Highway No. 84. Finally, the City Council will host a joint meeting of General Telephone Company and the 5 area Telephone Co-operative in the near future. All of these programs are of potential benefit to Littlefield and should be of interest to all of us.

The next monthly meeting of the Chamber will be held June 15 speaker will be Mr. Paul Marable of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Marable will discuss the problems of industrial development in general and the Littlefield potential in particular. The reason for this program is obvious - it is useless to compile a survey of factual information unless we secure some expert interpretation of the data and plan an intelligent course of action. Again, industrial development is a community-wide problem. Unless most of us are interested, there is

PENN POINT

Doggone it just looked like we couldn't win for losing last week (Sunday's Paper). When we went to press about 9:15 p.m., Saturday night, Bill Blakley was leading the state by over 19000 votes according to the Texas Election Bureau. About 10:15 the same night the TV program was interrupted to announce that John Tower had taken the lead. Realizing that the election could go either way, we took a calculated guess at the outcome... and we guessed wrong. To all the staunch supporters of John Tower, we can only say that we hope he does as good a job and you think he will. To all the Blakley supporters (if there are any still left) we say only better luck next time. My only hope is that when Andy Rogers and Ralph Yarborough come up for election again they suffer the same plight as did Blakley. I want to thank Charles Jones and his wife for the close cooperation in Saturday's coverage of the election.

And while we are on the subject of the election there are a few words that should be said to the eligible voters of this fair county who stayed home Saturday and didn't express their opinion one way or the other. I am just wondering what would happen if the government made an edict stating that these people had lost their right to vote because they failed to exercise it? These 2000 plus Lamb Countyans would rise up in terror and scream from the tallest building that they were being deprived of one of their constitutional rights and they would be... but they shouldn't scream too loudly since they deprived themselves of this right just last Saturday.

Just a little over half 2168 of 4251 eligible) of those who could vote did, while the remainder of the voters either just didn't care enough for this right as a free American or didn't care for either candidate and wouldn't vote. In this day and time, not a single one of us can afford to give up any of our freedoms... or any part of any of our freedoms. The Communists have said they are going to take us over by 1969 and to relinquish our precious harping on errors and failures after the game - so as to obscure the basic facts of sportsmanship, teamwork and fair play. Mr. McNeil is scathing in his criticism of fathers and mothers who abuse their sons before their teammates, officials and other parents by not playing like professionals.

"My blood still boils," he writes, "as I recall the mother screaming epithets at her eager little boy of ten who unthinkingly caught off base for the third out. And the high-voiced father who dictated from the stands, by shouts and hand signals, what pitches his boy should make when in trouble out on the mound. And the fathers who pay money for hits; extra money for extra base hits - ten dollars for a home run - in my family I know. At this point, Little League baseball loses its purpose."

The McNeil article "Little Leagues aren't Big Leagues" is most reading for all Little League parents - and uncles and aunts, brothers and sisters, too.

It's the Law in TEXAS

Vacation time is near. Soon millions of people will be driving about the country and automobile accidents will occur with increasing frequency. What should a person do when involved in an accident?

At such times it is hard to keep your wits about you and know just what to do. It is therefore a good idea to plan in advance just what you would do in event of a smash-up. Here are a few simple rules that every driver should commit to memory:

1. Stop! Failure to stop can result in serious criminal consequences.
2. Render Aid. If anyone is injured: (1) Render first aid. (2) Stop bleeding. (3) Call a doctor or an ambulance or both. (4) Do not move an injured person in any way that could possibly add to his injury.
3. Protect the Scene from further damage. You may be liable for damages to approaching drivers; unless they are properly warned. If the highway is obstructed at night, have someone turn his headlights beams on the wrecked vehicles.
4. Call an Officer, Police-men; Highway Patrolmen; Sheriffs and their deputies are trained accident investigators whose testimony may be invaluable in establishing your civil claim for damages.
5. Gather Information ... Write it down. Don't trust

WATER, WATER EVERYWHERE--AND TOO, TOO MUCH TO DRINK--Above is the intersection of Highways 385 and 84 Sunday afternoon after Littlefield was hit by heavy rains. This is the fourth time in less than two weeks that the intersection has been flooded by heavy deluges. Several cars were drowned out as the drivers attempted to go through the deep water. Sunday afternoon's rain flooded many Littlefield streets and a bolt of lightning struck the First Baptist Church causing some damage. (Staff Photo)

Cherished American Freedom Right of Privacy in Home

HOME IS A SACRED PLACE TO a place of refuge, of nourishment body and soul, of growth and love.

This is our world within a world. And just as we wish man's bigger here to be free and secure, so do insist on the safety and sanctity of our individual homes.

The Founding Fathers, steeped in the belief of man's dignity and worth, in a wary of jack-booted tyranny against his home and his person, sought safeguards for themselves and all Americans who were to come after them.

Article IV of the Bill of Rights the first 10 Amendments to the Constitution—they showed their concern these words:

THE RIGHT OF THE PEOPLE TO secure in their persons, houses, papers and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no warrants shall issue, upon probable cause, supported by oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, the persons or things to be seized.

This fundamental right of privacy one's home is a cherished part of America's freedoms today because we contrast it with the absence of a decent regard for the individual other lands.

The abode may be humble; it may be stately; it may be bare, or adorned with elegance, or harbor secrets.

But the law-abiding citizen can retire at night, secure in the knowledge that his privacy will be respected; that he will not know the dread of the rap on the door; the unwarranted intrusion into the world of the free American family.

THE FREEDOM OF OUR HOMES is closely allied with another right we hold dear: the right to move about freely at home and abroad.

We move freely in our cities and counties and between states, subject only to the regulations which have been adopted freely for the safety and well-being of society.

The regulations on travel abroad are not denials of the right to move freely, but actually expressions of the government's concern for the individual's freedom when he is away from the homeland.

The withholding of passports to areas wherein an American's freedom and safety cannot be assured—such as Communist China—is an example.

WE BELIEVE THAT A MAN WAS meant to be free—free to come and go at his will, so long as the exercise of this freedom does not infringe upon the freedom of another.

We believe a man should be free to wrap himself and his family in the intimacy of his home, and be guaranteed against unlawful prying and entry.

These are bulwarks of the American way of life.

Editorial

Millions of dollars are paid out weekly by the states and the federal government in unemployment compensation to workers who, for one reason or another, do not have jobs.

Most of these laborers have valid claims to draw subsistances from unemployment agencies--but some, and this cost runs too high, some are "professionals" who make their living by drawing illegal money that employers have paid in taxes.

At a workshop for employers held by the Texas Employment Commission in Lubbock last week, J. J. (Jake) Pickle, TEC Commissioner, gave a few tips to those attending that could help them in keeping down the cost of taxes paid out to unemployed workers.

Pickle suggested that employers:

1. Know the Texas Unemployment Compensation Act. If possible, designate one employee to be responsible for having thorough knowledge of the act and all its provisions. This will be a safeguard for both employer and employee.
2. Inform all employees that it is the employer who pays for this act in taxes -- not the employee.

3. Seek to stabilize employment. A smaller turnover of help decreases the possibility of anyone needing compensation. If possible, schedule vacations during slack periods rather than laying off help. Remember, only one check paid out to a claimant means that the employer is charged for the full amount that the worker is entitled to under the act. So, if he draws only one week's unemployment, the employer is still charged for the full 24 weeks (length of benefit payments under the present act)

Screen and interview job applicants closely. Remember that once a worker is on the payroll, the employer is liable for him under the act. There is no provision in the Texas laws for probationary employment.

5. Protest all claims that the employer feels is unjust.

Below are listed the conditions that workers must meet in order to qualify for benefits and the provisions that can disqualify him.

ELIGIBILITY CONDITIONS

The law requires that a claimant must meet these conditions:

1. Be registered for work.
2. Be able to work.
3. Be available for work.
4. Must have earned sufficient wages in his base period.

DISQUALIFICATION PROVISIONS

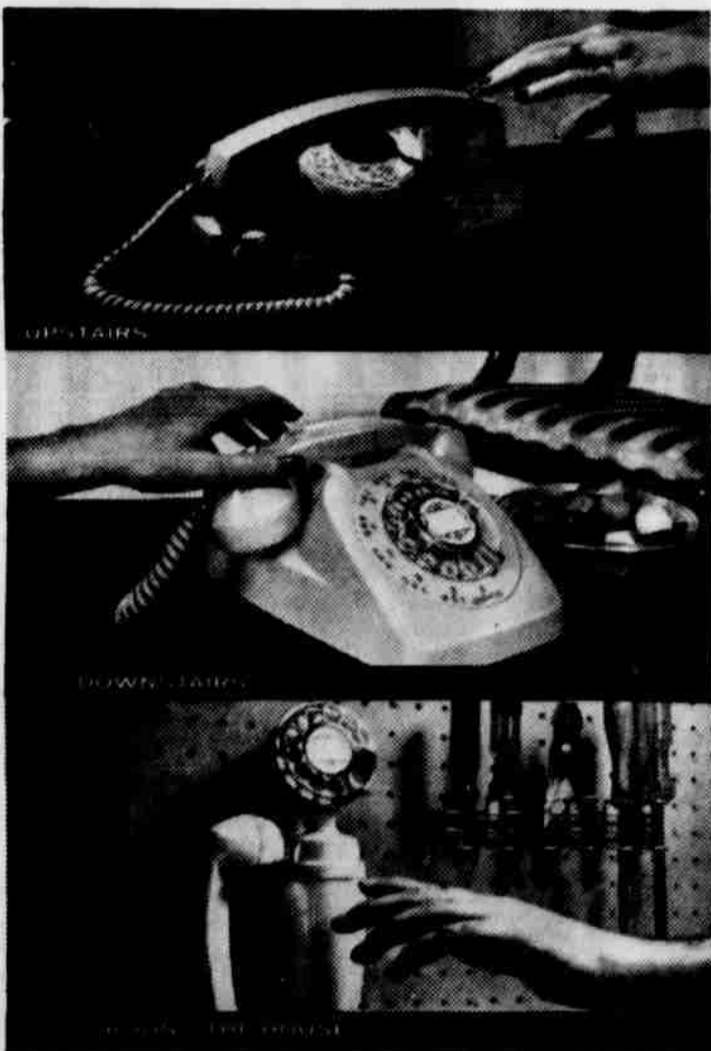

A claimant may be disqualified from receiving unemployment insurance if:

1. He quit his last work voluntarily without good cause connected with his work. (1 to 24 weeks disqualification)
2. He was discharged for misconduct connected with his last work. (1 to 24 weeks disqualification).
3. He, without good cause, refuses or fails to apply for suitable work or to accept suitable work offered him. (1 to 12 weeks disqualification)

The Law also disqualifies a claimant from receiving unemployment insurance if the claimant's stoppage of work because of a labor dispute at the place where he was last employed. The law also provides other disqualifications for false statements made by a claimant in connection with a claim for unemployment insurance.

Payment of benefits may also be delayed or reduced by a claimant's receipt of wages in lieu of notice; Old Age and Survivor's Insurance, Workmen's Compensation, wages from partial employment, vacation pay, etc.

hills Philosopher Says

TV ALL DAY IS BORING BUT PLOWING IS ALSO

The Sand-Philosopher on his grass farm sits the television set this week, with noticeable effect. He said he was reading a newspaper at night while my wife watching television. He says this for television is easier to read than going on than your wife is. I mean whatever faults television has, it sure cuts down on the conversation; at any rate, what I was reading was an article by the new chairman of the Federal Communications Commission, the outfit that's supposed to supervise the airways.

According to Chairman Minow, television has got to get better if it's to stay on the air.

He said if you want to find out how bad television is; "sit down in front of your set when your station comes on in the morning and stay there until it signs off that night." He said you'd see a procession of junk, violence, silliness and commercials, with only a few things you'll enjoy, and most of all, he added, "boredom."

Now I'm no authority on television, but I'm not sure watching the thing fourteen hours in a stretch and complaining because you came out bored, is any real test. I have a notion if Chairman Minow will get on my tractor, glue himself to the seat, bend his head over, and watch the rows fourteen hours a day while he goes up one and down another, he'll get off extremely bored, not to mention other things.

As for violence on television, I'll admit it's bad, but saying it'll have to be eliminated if T.V. is to stay on the air is like saying crime stories will have to be eliminated from newspapers if they're to stay in business. It's like saying violence will have to be eliminated from history books, if they're to be read. It's like saying Shakespeare would have been an enduring success if he had cut out all them suicides and stabbings and swordplay.

Understand, I'm not in favor of violence. For one thing, it takes more energy than I'm interested in spending, but on television when an outlaw gets shot, even the kids know it's only acting; the bullets are fakes and the same characters will get shot again next week; but where the Federal Communications Commission will run into trouble is when it tries to convince the kids only fake bullets are used in war.

Television can continue its violence and stay on the air, but can man continue his and stay on the earth? I could give you the answer, but excuse me, Wagon Train is coming on, just as soon as the news cast about the violence in the Congo goes off.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

$6,000 in cash and awards will go to real cowboys and those who take part in the Cowboy Reunion in Stamford, July 3 and 4. The largest amount will be rodeo prizes of a $3,000 in cash plus saddles and spurs. In addition to the rodeo cash and award prizes to be made to sponsor quarter horse and western parade, more than a thousand horses are expected to back the sounds and memories of years

Reunion president Eugene Swenson says "The Cowboy Reunion has the distinction of being the largest show of its kind in America - where only actual working cowboys and cowgirls take part and professionals are barred. In 1961, on July 1, 3 and 4 we are expecting the biggest western show in the history of the cowboy reunion, with the largest number of riding cowhands and the biggest crowds. West Texas' working cowhands are just as capable today as they were years past, and we expect several records to be broken this year."

June Is Dairy Month In Texas

June is Dairy Month. This year the observance takes on added significance, said A. M. Meekma, extension dairy specialist, for a 25th birthday is to be celebrated. He said Texans are happy to have a part in the nationwide tribute to the dairy industry. During the past 25 years, June has been a time of recognition by the nation of the industry's vital contributions to America's economy and the health of her citizens. June is the month when milk production reaches a peak and the industry makes its greatest effort to tell its story and promote the use of its products. The observance is actively supported by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and hundreds of special events are staged to make dairymen better known to the public they serve, Meekma said.

During the month, he added, food editors, nutritionists and others concerned with the diets of Americans are called upon to discuss "nature's most nearly perfect food" and its rightful place in the diet. Many special events planned for Texas will feature such discussions, the specialist said. Troy E. Kern, a Delta county dairyman, is Texas chairman for June Dairy Month activities. He is a director of the North Texas Producers Association, the American Dairy Association of Texas and of the national ADA.

Kern and Meekma said emphasis in Texas and the nation will be placed on the need for proper nutrition and diet habits, including the consumption of milk and milk products as recommended by leading health authorities. Milk and milk products consumption in the United States, they said, is lower than consumption in more than a dozen other countries. Citizens, especially con-

Pullet Raising Is Basically The Same

For all practical purposes, managing pullets on the range differs very little from confinement management, says Joe Wakefield of the poultry Science Department at Texas A & M College. A group of pullets that have been well managed in the brooder house should do equally well when turned onto the range.

The first step in transferring birds from the brooder house to the range is to cull the flock for unhealthy or diseased pullets. When culling, care should be taken not to remove a healthy bird that looks a little thin and underfleshed, because the bird is building her bone structure and this is her normal appearance. By production time, this bird will probably be laying just as well as the others.

sumers, are urged by the leaders to take advantage of food bargains from the dairy industry and also visit a local dairy or dairy processing plant when plans for local activities are announced.

Once the flock has been culled, weather is the deciding factor on when to move the pullets to the range, Wakefield continues. Six weeks old birds can be ranged successfully after the weather moderates and grasses begin to show good growth.

When the pullets are placed on the range they must be closely supervised until they become accustomed to their new environment.

Their feeding habits must not be upset by changing or adding new ingredients to the feed. It is also important to make sure plenty of feeders and waterers are available. The pullets will be taking more exercise on the range, resulting in an increase in their food consumption. Wakefield says to provide at least 12 feet of feeder space and 6 feet of water space per 100 birds.

About Your Health

AUSTIN If you suffer from "ten o'clock hunger," better revise your breakfast habits, State Health Department nutritionists advise.

More and more people are falling into the habit of skimpy breakfasting. Surveys show that two out of every nine children leave for school without breakfast, and four out of ten workers leave for work with nothing to eat.

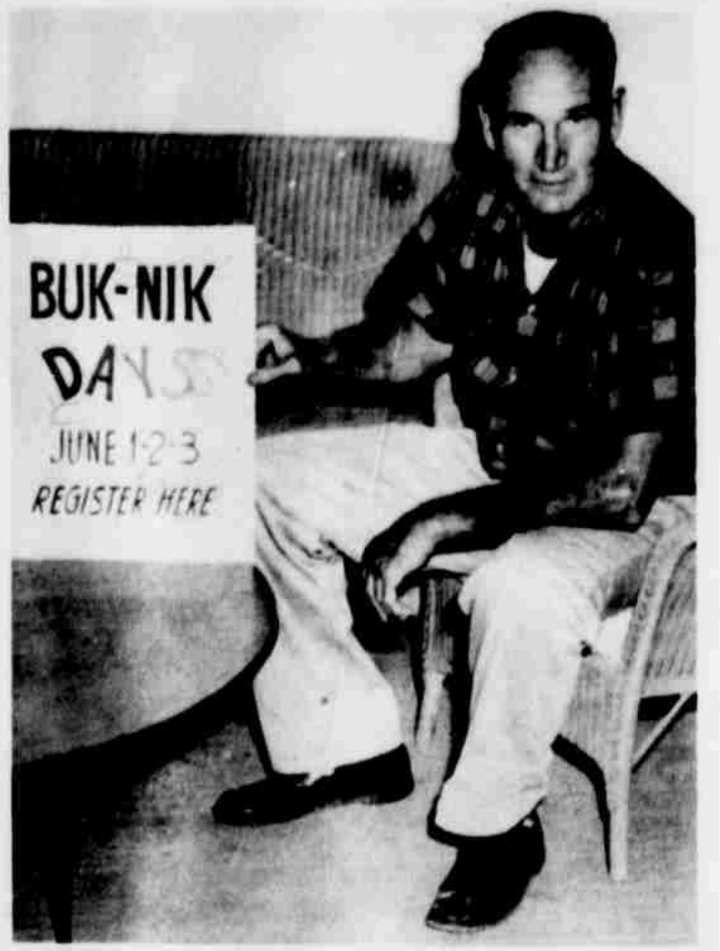

"Ten o'clock hunger" is the expression nutritionists use to describe the body condition which comes with an inadequate breakfast. Victims usually feel weak and giddy by mid-morning. They may be hungry, yet have no taste for lunch. Or, if they are able to eat a big lunch, they will become unbearably sleepy by early afternoon. Studies with volunteers of all ages have proved conclusively that poor breakfast habits are directly responsible for fatigue, dullness, irritability, and a general feeling of cussedness. Volunteers fed a good breakfast were more productive and alert; easier to get along with than their hungry counterparts.

Ten o'clock hunger therapy; nutritionists say calls for the "patient" to eat a solid breakfast. What it should consist of is dependent on physical activity, age, sex, weight and other factors about which a physician can readily advise.

The daily dietary needs of the average man can vary, depending on how active he is, from 2400 to 4500 calories, according to findings of the National Research Council.

Here are some suggestions to meet minimum breakfast requirements for the average adult of relatively sedentary habits:

Fruit or fruit juice for vitamin C, required for normal wound healing and to prevent scurvy; cereal for vitamin A which is essential in resisting infections, and vitamin B, insufficient quantities of which are responsible for the irritability and fatigue occasioned by ten o'clock hunger; bread or grain derivative such as rolls or pancakes for its mineral content; an egg or meat for protein, and a beverage.

It is a false idea that skipping breakfast is a good way to reduce. If anything, this highly injurious practice adds pounds. It works like this:

Skip breakfast and by noon you have lost your appetite or else are afraid to eat for fear of being groggy all afternoon. Then for supper you eat the food your body has been demanding all day. Now you go to bed and your supper is converted into fat rather than energy as would have been the case had you eaten properly during hours of greatest activity. (A weekly feature of the Health Education Division, Texas State Department of Health.)

Project
Underway

Ninety thousand persons—a few dozen of them living in Littlefield, are being "hunted" by a national research project. It was learned today by Glenn Reeves, Superintendent of Schools.

The "search" stage of Project TALENT, the national talent research program, was begun this week as the University of Pittsburgh project staff announced that follow-up questionnaires were being mailed out to 90 thousand persons, all former high school students who took the tests of Project TALENT.

In the TALENT project, financed by the Cooperative Research Program of the Office of Education and other agencies and supervised by psychologists of the University of Pittsburgh, more than 440,000 high school students were given two days of testing in their abilities in school subjects their basic aptitudes and their general information and other subjects.

This testing was done in 1,353 high schools in the spring of 1960, the purpose being to measure the abilities, not just of superior students, but of all kinds of students, in all kinds of high schools throughout the country.

In Littlefield the tests were given to students at the Littlefield High School. With the help of the school staff, including the Principal, James Pirkey, and Reeves, the staff of Project TALENT is seeking to mail the follow-up questionnaire to each of the 90 students who were seniors at the time of testing. In December, the headquarters of Project TALENT mailed to each high school the scores made by the students on the tests. These test results are being used by each high school in accordance with its own educational and guidance program.

As the first stage in the follow-up, said Professor John C. Flanagan, Director of the research project, the first questionnaire to get information on the students' careers after high school was put in the mail this week. The questionnaire asks the ex-high school student whether he is in college, what jobs he has had, and how well he is getting along.

Turkey Farms
Drop

From 1954 to 1959, the number of farms in the South Central States raising turkeys declined 47 per cent, while the national figure dropped 49 per cent.

In the number of turkeys raised per farm, however, the national total rose 150 per cent for the same period, while that of the South Central States rose only 100 per cent. F. Z. Beanblossom, extension poultry marketing specialist, says this information indicates turkey producers in Texas will need to increase the size of their operations and continue to become more commercialized if they are to maintain their competitive position.

Since December 3, 1960, hatcherymen in the ten largest turkey producing states have reported slightly less than 40 million poult hatched. Of that total; 26 per cent were heavy whites, 64 per cent were bronze and other heavies, and 10 per cent were lights. Hatchings for the same period a year earlier totaled slightly over 31 million with approximately the same percentages of heavy whites, bronze, and lights.

For Texas, a total of slightly more than 2 1/2 million heavy breed turkey poults has been hatched since December 3, 1960. Heavy breeds hatched to this date last year totaled slightly over 2 million.
