A large number of attractive dollar specials are being offered on desirable staple merchandise through the many advertisements appearing in this week's issue of the Leader.

The merchants are also making plans to extend the Dollar Day specials through Tuesday should weather conditions be unfavorable on Monday.

Work on Highway 7 On Both Sides City Going Rapidly Ahead

Improvement project of Highway 7, both east and west of Littlefield, is moving rapidly ahead, according to Sidney Shumaker, state highway department man in charge of the job.

From the Hockley County line west, four miles are under water treatment and ready for asphalt topping, and about 3 and a quarter miles of the first course have been laid. Sub-grade has been cut through to Peyton Packing Co., about a mile from town. This job is in charge of J. A. and Lee Vilbig, contractors.

A seven-mile strip from Sudan east to the Amherst depot is also ready for topping, with both base courses laid and treated. This strip is a "hot" job, or one handled by the state road department.

When the job east of Littlefield reaches Peyton Packing Co., the entire project will be carried on from Amherst west to Littlefield. Topping for the seven-mile strip on the county's west end is delayed until further action at Austin.

Oma Carves A Niche On Volley Ball Slate

Oma Carpenter, clever little volleyball player on Coach Killough's squad, was one of five outstanding performers in the preliminary rounds of the County Meet last week.

Oma was awarded a mythical prize as the most graceful player. Other standouts were Rachel Hively, Olton, best captain; Bird, Spade, most aggressive player; Bundick, Spade, most consistent server. Best sportsmanship in several years was displayed this season, according to Principal E. J. Moore, of Olton High school.

WORK ON WATER JOB SCHEDULED TO BEGIN TODAY

Twenty Men Scheduled To Begin Digging Today If Weather Permits

About 20 laborers under Foreman R. E. Biffle, representing Forney Combustion Engineering Co., were to begin digging ditches alongside Highway 7 Thursday as the opening step on the city's $48,000 water works improvement project.

"PWA officials at Washington wired us Tuesday that the funds were expected to be released there by the end of this week," said City Secretary W. G. Street Wednesday.

If weather permitted, preliminary digging to take up some 2,200 feet of six-inch pipe for replacement by eight inch pipe alongside the highway, was to begin today.

"We have made arrangements with State Highway men to delay, if need be, road work along this strip until we have laid new pipes," announced Commissioner Pat Boone.

Average daily employment, all local labor as nearly as possible, will include about 60 laborers and 20 skilled workmen, according to Mayor L. R. Crockett.

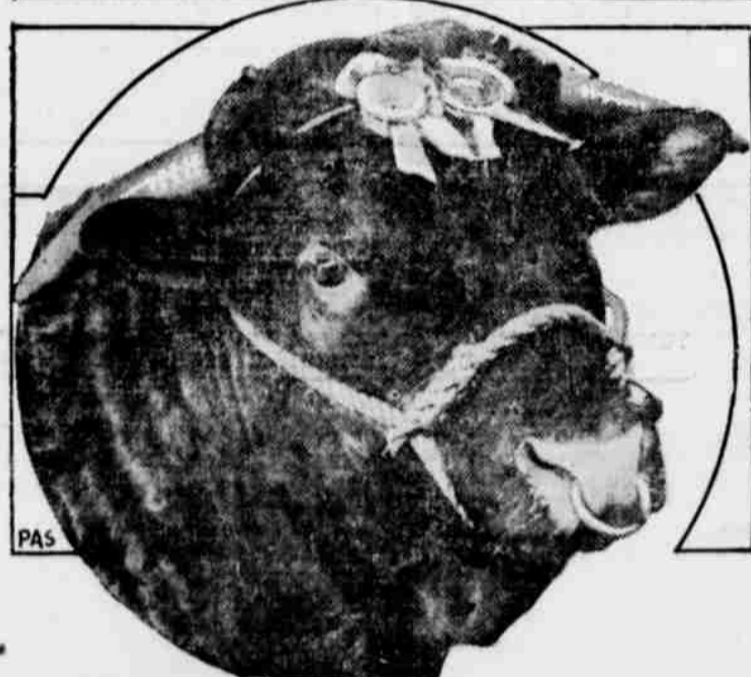

Mr. Biffle, along with a clerk Fred Duff, has established Forney Company offices in the P. W. Walker Grain and Feed location on Highway 7. J. H. Munro, general Forney superintendent, will be in and out of Littlefield at intervals keeping contact with progress of the project, according to Mr. Biffle.

Final Polish Will Be Put To Style Show Numbers Next Week

Final polish will be added next week to the brilliant numbers of the Junior Study Club's annual spring style show, according to George Alguire, director.

Choruses have been arranged and choirettes are marking time until dance rehearsals are finished. Dess Key represents the study club in rehearsals. Bill Norris is pianist.

CITY DADS BEGIN WORK ON TWO CITY PARKS TUESDAY

City officials swung into their park beautification program Tuesday by taking up about 100 old trees in the City Hall park for replacement with Chinese elms.

Texas Relief Commission late last week set up $1,512 to match the city's $1,332 on the $2,844 job which includes tree planting, landscaping, and sodding of both the City Hall park and Laguna Park on the west side.

About 250 additional elms and some 400 shrubs will be set out. Stone ovens for use of picnickers will be erected at Laguna Park. Work for 22 men for 30 days is provided by this job.

"The Women's Study Club and R. L. Burdette, high school instructor, are a great help to us on this job," declared Commissioner Pat Boone Wednesday.

P. T. A. Sponsoring Minstrel To Be Presented Apr. 1

The Parent Teachers' Association of Littlefield will present their big show of the year, an old-fashioned negro minstrel on Monday night, April 1, in the High school auditorium.

Because of the success of the Womanless Wedding last year, in which the business men of Littlefield were starred, P. T. A. has decided to put on a bigger and better show than ever this year, again starring the business men of the town.

If you want an evening full of fun and laughter, be sure to see the minstrel on April 1st. The show will begin at eight o'clock. Tickets will be 25c for adults and 15c for children.

We Do Our Part

IT WON'T BE OUR WAR

The action of the Hitler Government in tearing up the Treaty of Versailles and openly announcing to the world that Germany intends to conscript a huge army and mobilize an immense fleet of military airplanes is the most serious threat to world peace since 1914. It is difficult to see how this can lead to anything but another European war.

For months the other European nations have been aware that Germany was secretly arming, in defiance of the provisions of the Versailles treaty. Negotiations were under way, indeed almost at the point of conclusion, which would have relieved Germany of most of the more onerous restrictions imposed upon her by the Peace of 1919. But the Hitler Government, apparently under the domination of the military element, was not content to wait.

It would be foolish to say that a new European war would not touch the United States. There is only the most remote possibility of our being drawn into the actual conflict, but such a war would inevitably affect our foreign commerce, which is beginning to pick up. It would put an end for all time, it is likely, to any lingering hope of getting back from the European nations the money we lent them with which to fight the last war. Nor would there be the profitable business in supplying munitions to one side or the other which America enjoyed for nearly three years, before we actually entered the last great war, the three years in which the DuPonts were selling gunpowder, Bethlehem Steel was building submarines, every rifle factory in America was working overtime making weapons for the British and the Russians, and every American ship that would float, even though it leaked like a sieve, was under charter to carry food and war supplies to the Allies.

No European country can float a war loan in America again, as England and France did through the international bankers in 1914-15. We have more money than we did then, but we are not going to lend it on the doubtful security of national promises.

We probably would not and could not refuse to sell food and non-military supplies to any nation, war or no war—for cash. But as for financing their wars, or lending them money again for war purposes, the United States is through with that sort of thing.

which amounts to ninety-eight billion dollars. The comparison suggests the possibility that people might use more care in buying life insurance. Life insurance companies have a selfish purpose in trying to reduce the high lapsation of life insurance. It is also true that a reduction in the lapses of life insurance would be beneficial for the insurance buying public. Life insurance companies have found out that insurance which is bought for specific purposes stays in force better than life insurance which is bought without a specific purpose in mind. For that reason the life insurance business has developed plans for special purpose life insurance. Special purpose life insurance may be designed for three principal purposes:

1. To provide an income to a family during the period which is necessary for the rehabilitation of the family following the removal from the family circle of the principal income producer.
2. To provide a monthly life income for a designated person. This designated person may be the widow of the insurance buyer, or the life income may be for the insurance buyer if the insurance buyer lives beyond the working years of life.
3. To provide educational funds for the higher education of children.

The Southwestern Life Insurance Company reports that during the last six years there has been a ten-fold increase in the use of life insurance for special purposes. The argument for special purpose life insurance is not only that it will reduce the lapses of life insurance but also that it will conserve the proceeds of life insurance that have been accumulated from savings resulting from the unselfish sacrifices of many millions of life insurance buyers. Countless illustrations could be used to indicate the advisability of conserving the proceeds of life insurance. One illustration will be used here. A survey of two hundred people that invested $10,000 in 1928 and 1929 shows that 8 1-2 per cent of these people increased the value of their investment. 10 1-2 per cent broke even, and 50 per cent suffered an average loss of $5,875. The average annual loss to these two hundred people in the last three years has been per cent. Life insurance companies receive 3 or 3 1/2 per cent on the proceeds of life insurance policies. It is customary to increase the average annual return. Beneficiaries are now receiving anywhere from 4 to 5 per cent on the proceeds of life insurance that have been with life insurance companies conservation.

Designed in Sizes: 4, 6, 8, 10, 12 and 14 years. Size 10 requires 2 1/2 yards of 35 inch material with 1/2 yard contrasting and 2 1/2 yards of ruffling.

PRINCESS FROCK

Pattern 8420: There is a good reason for the popularity of the style sketched: it looks adorable on little girls and equally nice on older sisters. Also the making of it is so delightfully simple that even amateur dressmakers need not hesitate.

The back is made with just three panels, which flare slightly at the hemline. The front simulates a closing down its entire length. This may be a real closing with buttons and buttonholes, if so desired. The softly rolled collar and cuffs further lose their severity by the addition of a narrow ruffle.

Puff sleeves are quite necessary to young girls and the small inset pocket adds its note of chic. Materials may be either woolen or cotton, challis or silk, with white or contrasting collar and cuffs.

THIRTEENTH INSTALMENT

SYNOPSIS . . . Ellen Church, 17 years old, finds herself alone in the world with her artist mother's last warning ringing in her ears, to "love lightly." Of the world she knew little. All her life she had lived alone with her mother in an old brown house in a small rural community. . . . Ellen, alone, turned to the only contact she knew, an art agent in New York. Posing, years of posing, was her only talent so she was introduced to two leading artists, Dick Alven and Sandy Macintosh. Both used her as a model and both fell in love with her. . . . But, Ellen, trying to follow the warped philosophy of her mother, to "love lightly," resists the thought of love. Her circle of friends is small, artists and two or three girl models. Ellen attends a ball with Sandy. While dancing a tall young man claimed her and romance is born. A ride in the park, proposal, the next day marriage to Tony, and wealth. But she'd "love lightly", Ellen told herself. She would never let him know how desperately she loved him, even though she were his wife. Ellen insists upon thought Tony is wealthy. . . . Jane, of Tony's sudden marriage to Ellen, living her own life, maintaining her home in her own small room, even Tony's wealthy set, is disappointed in Tony was standing.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

Ellen, reading Sand's note, gritted her teeth and realized that she was indeed in a box.

And so it came about that, with the advent of the week end, Ellen found herself en route to the house party—in a car with two men.

On the way out Ellen had been picturing that home. She had seen it, in her mind's eye, as a magnificent place of stone and stained glass. But in a way she had been wrong. For Jane's home, though it was large and stately and magnificent, was magnificent in the early colonial manner. It was a simplicity so reminiscent somehow of a certain old house with its shabby garden, that brought the quick tears to Ellen's eyes.

And then the door was opening and the butler was unbending from his dignity to give Tony a personal greeting. And Tony, with an air of one who belonged in the white house, was instructing the butler to tell Miss Jane that they had arrived.

Miss Jane, Miss Jane! As she appeared in the doorway of the drawing room, she seemed more attractive than she had at any of their previous meetings, Ellen thought.

At the moment of meeting, Ellen was glad of Sandy's support rather than for Tony's. For Sandy was barging in with his usual carefree manner.

Now the three of them were following Jane into the drawing room to meet Mother, and to have tea. Mother—a faint reflection of Jane herself—offered a greeting from behind the heavy silver service, while around the room rose shouts.

"Hello, Tony, it's about time you were getting here!"

"How's the boy—how's the married man?"

There were quick introductions—introductions to people whom Ellen had met only on certain magazine pages.

Sandy had already disappeared with the girl Margie, who was among those present. Ellen had seen him drag her, unprotesting, to a window seat behind a flowing damask drapery. Ellen was telling Tony that she took her tea without either cream or sugar or lemon, and Tony, his arm lightly around her waist, was drawing her from one side of the room to the other, saying, "This is my wife, y' know!" And, "Jack here, was in my class in college."

Ellen heard her own voice making polite responses; catching the double entente of a sentence here and tossing it back. She had dragged off her small hat and was running her slim, nervous fingers through the tangle of her curls. Jane was still standing by the doorway of the drawing room with one hand resting on a bell cord, with the other outspread over her heart. Ellen, though the veil of her own lashes, could see the hurt in Jane's eyes as they followed Tony's broad tweed-covered back down the length of the room.

All at once, for the first time since Jane had dawned upon her horizon, Ellen was being sorry for the other girl!

Jane's mother was saying something, and Ellen bent near to listen. "We're all so fond of Tony," Jane's mother was saying gently. "We've all been anxious to meet his wife. Jane's description of you hasn't been very clear. You're so pretty, my dear—" Jane's mother sighed. "and so young. Tony's a very fortunate boy."

All at once, impulsively, Ellen's hand was reaching out to touch the hand of the slim woman tinted in silver and amethyst. Here, at least, in this mad room, was one oasis—one, cool, friendly oasis.

As Ellen dressed for dinner in the room to which she had been allotted, she felt that she was touching on a part of life so softly upholstered that it was unreal.

Her suitcase had been opened by some unseen but deft maid. Her underwear had already been laid carefully in bureau drawers. Ellen was glad that it was pretty. Her best evening frock was spread out upon the bed, and beneath it stood her satin slippers.

Rather wearily Ellen climbed out of the dress in which she had journeyed from the city, but her weariness vanished after a warm scented bath.

She wondered what time dinner would be served, and whether she would be seated next to Tony at inner. While she was wondering, there came a knock at the door which, with a fluttering of the pulse, she answered. It was a maid, correct in taffeta and white organ-dy.

Ellen smiled involuntarily at sight of her, and the maid beamed back. Here again was friendliness. "Miss Jane," the maid told her, "is having the young ladies in her dressing room for a first cocktail. She said to come in negligee—the others will be that way. Just—the maid was quoting, "a breathing space before dinner."

Her negligee? As she wrapped it around her small slender body, Ellen was conscious of its deficiencies. But then she hadn't expected her negligee to be under observation. It was a plain little thing of dark figured silk, cut along boyish lines, and with pockets.

As she knocked upon the door, the mirth died down suddenly, and then Jane's clear, crisp voice called, "Come in!"

Ellen pushed the door wide and entered. Ellen feared that she looked as alien, in her plain little coat, as she felt—for the other girls were dressed in cleverly cut satin, in wide ankled pajamas, in negligees that fell from gleaming shoulders to swish around gleaming slippers. Frankly, as Ellen became one of the group, they appraised her.

Jane was shaking the cocktails—Jane in the white satin that she so often wore; only this time the white satin was cut with trousers and a mandarin coat that had clever touches of peacock blue and silver in its embroidery.

Nearby stood the girl Margie, draped against the mantle shelf like one of the loose-limbed debutante dolls that are so boneless and so decorative.

"Hello, Ellen," said Margie, and there was more warmth in her voice than there had been in Jane's. "Say, I'm glad you brought your boy friend. He's amusing—the one with the whiskers, I mean."

Ellen laughed. She didn't dislike Margie.

"He thinks you're amusing, too," she said. "He's mad to paint you." "Nude?" asked Margie. Her voice had a slightly rising note. "Isn't that the way artists usually paint their women?"

Ellen felt her color rising, but she answered levelly.

"Some do," she answered, "but not Sandy. He's a fashion man primarily, although he does stunning illustrations."

"Oh," said Margie. That was all. The other girls were bending forward, frosted glasses in hand, cigarettes held before carefully rouged lips. One of them, a dark young person, spoke languidly.

"You're the first model I ever met," she said. "Do you pose for the figure?"

Again Ellen answered as casually as she could.

"Only for my mother, years ago," she told the dark girl. "She was an artist, you see. She was rather an important artist. You probably wouldn't know. . . . I'm afraid that even if I wanted to pose in the altogether I couldn't compete with some of the models who go in for figure work. My own figure—" she laughed, apologetically and smoothly—the dark silk that shrouded her knees.

Jane stopped shaking the cocktails. She poured one for herself, with a steady hand.

"I won't offer you a glass, Ellen," she said at last. "I know you don't drink. You've none of the obvious vices. Is it—" she paused, and the dark girl, whose name Ellen didn't know, went on.

"It is a pose?" drawled the dark girl. "Your Elsie Dinsmore attitude? If so, it's a good one."

Ellen stretched her feet out in front of her, and regarded the toes of her plain little black slippers.

"Call it a pose, if you want to," she said, at last. "I'm not the type to smoke and be catty and get tight. One has to be dark and dramatic to get away with that, I fear—"

Margie, still draped against the mantle, chuckled.

"Atta, kid," said Margie, almost inaudibly. Margie was blonde.

Dinner was again a magnificent jumble—all the way from the caviar in its little ice molds to the magnificent birthday cake that was carried in, blazing, by the butler.

Ellen didn't sit next to Tony—she sat next to Sandy, at the extreme end of the table. "Below the salt," Sandy whispered to her. Tony sat at Jane's right.

Somebody was toasting Jane. It wasn't Tony—that was all Ellen could tell. But it was somebody with a voice well bred and assured like Tony's.

"There's nothing we can wish her," said the voice, "she has everything!"

"Yeah," said Sandy under his breath, to Ellen, "not quite everything, we know."

Ellen wanted to slap him—to do more, to murder him!

They danced after dinner, in the same drawing room. When the dancing began, Jane held out her hand to Tony with an air so proprietary that it gave Ellen a little kicked feeling in the pit of her stomach. But she scarcely had time for any definite feelings, for she was being whirled off in the arms of the stout boy who, like many stout youths, was an exceptionally good dancer.

And then somebody was cutting in—one of the Jacks or Jims or Charleys who had been in Tony's class in college.

It was the fourth dance before Ellen found herself in her husband's arms—found herself being steered, with a directness of purpose, toward a conservatory that opened out of the room in which they danced.

"I've got to see you alone," Tony murmured in her ear. "This is the queerest situation I've ever been mixed up in."

"That," said Ellen, "goes double!" "Gosh, almighty!" said Tony. Just that.

And—

"I wonder why I came—" Ellen asked of him, very seriously.

Tony's hands were holding hers so tightly that her wedding ring bit into the two fingers next to it.

"Have they been giving you a buggy ride?" he asked Ellen. "I heard that they looked you over before dinner, Margie told me."

"They tried to," Ellen told him, "but I can take care of myself." "Sometimes," said Tony, "I wish you couldn't!"

"What was the idea, anyway?" Ellen wanted to know. "This party, I mean. If it hadn't been for Sandy, and for the way he precipitated me into it, it would have all the earmarks of being an announcement for you and Jane of something or other. I feel like a guilty secret."

"You may be guilty," said Tony, "but you're no secret—not any more! To tell you the truth, Ellen," he admitted, "I don't quite get the hang of this thing, myself. Believe it or not—when the party came up that night, it was just sheer devilishness on Jane's part. I realized it at the time; it took me off my feet for a moment. She'd said nothing about any party to me, before. She just said it to get your goat. I'm not even sure it's her birthday, tonight—I never can remember dates. I wouldn't have told you this if Sandy hadn't made her come through in a big way. When he did I was tickled to death. It gave me a chance to be with you again. I told a dozen lies—white ones—about how my friends would feel—and yours—"

So that was that! Ellen all along had suspected, from Tony's bewilderment on the night of the impromptu meeting, that there had been something odd in back of the birthday party arrangements.

BOOSTER GROUP LAYS PLANS AT WEEKLY MEET

Cooperation of City Clubs Sought For Gigantic State Birthday

J. S. Hilliard, vice president of the booster group, presided over the weekly luncheon meeting of the Chamber of Commerce when a good attendance reported.

Mrs. H. W. Wiseman, on behalf of the Woman's Study Club, as a part of the club's preparations for the Texas Centennial Celebration in 1936, asked the cooperation of the Chamber of Commerce and other clubs of the city in the planning of a flower cycle for Littlefield. "It is the plan to begin this beautification this year, so as to be prepared to have a town in 1936 that will be remembered by everyone who passes through it," said Mrs. Wiseman.

The plan would be to have a succession of flowers, used by the entire city, so that from spring until frost the same flower would be seen throughout the city at any time.

In her talk, Mrs. Wiseman quoted from a letter received from Mrs. T. V. Reeves, Chairman Division of Parks and Historic Spots, 7th District, Texas Federation of Women's Clubs, as follows:

"For instance, tulips, zinnias, shasta daisies, petunias and chrysanthemums might be planned. Then be neighborly, and have seed and plant exchanges, or buy seeds and plants in quantity, so that every home can carry out the plan. Consult your best amateur gardeners and your florist, making your town the prettiest it can possibly be. Let every curb space and every home be a tiny, well planned park. Let Texas be beautiful in 1936."

"Find the spots of historic significance in your neighborhood; let the children know why they are significant. Mark them, if possible. Build appreciation of Texas through appreciation of your own community."

Pat Boone reported the Relief office had allowed the city 20 men for thirty days; and that they were going to plant grass seed, 400 shrubs, and a number of trees in their beautification program of the city. He stated that the undesirable trees in the city park would be taken up and others planted and that the men who started to work Tuesday were then employed in the beautification of the City Hall Square.

Mr. Boone also reported on the waterworks project, stating that work would be started Thursday morning, and that local help would be used almost exclusively on this work.

He stated that the contractor had assured the City Commissioners that the only help he would bring in would be his supervisor and the timekeeper.

He also reported that he believed the water project would be completed in about 50 days.

Mr. Boone mentioned that by buying the shrubs and trees in large quantities that they were getting them at wholesale prices, and that any of the clubs who wished to secure anything in this line might club in with the city and get the benefit of quantity buying, but that they would need to do this at once.

Dr. Wm. N. Orr, on behalf of the softball league, stated that they had the rules and bylaws drawn up, and teams organized, and will start the games April 15, and play under the lights about May 6.

Prof. A. B. Sanders reported a recent official visit by the State Supervisor of Education, Mr. Holbrook, who approved the new courses adopted by the local school along the vocational line.

The home was beautifully decorated with apple blossoms. The guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Beeman Phillips, Mr. and Mrs. Mallory Etter, and daughter, and Mr. and Mrs. Jim Etter and family.

The bride was beautifully attired in a white corded crepe dress with white accessories and wore a corsage of sweet peas. She formerly made her home in Littlefield.

METHODIST CHURCH

John Witt Hendrix, Pastor

This is to do two things: first, to issue a great big invitation to worship with us; secondly, to endeavor to describe some of the points of profit and interest in our program.

The services open in the morning, Sunday, at 9:45 o'clock the Church school hour. It closes in the evening with evening worship—8 o'clock. At 11 a. m. we have public worship featuring a large crowd of worshippers, a good sized choir singing a carefully selected list of church hymns, and a crisp, to the point sermon by the pastor. His subject will be, "The Blind Man's Buff." In the course of his remarks it may appear there is more than one man playing in this game! The service is over just about 12 noon.

First in the evening is the meeting of the Leagues. These services are provided to help the young people both in theory and practice of Christian life, 7:15. It is the desire of the church this service begin on time and end in time for the evening worship. At 7:30 we have adult study. ALEXANDRA NEWS

Too Late for Last Week
Maggie Atkins and Elba Cardui spent the day with Evie and Fannie Carter Sunday.

Little Larkin Taylor is back at home. He seems to be doing fine.

The women of the community surprised Mrs. Brogden last Thursday evening on her 52nd birthday with a shower. They all met at Mrs. Western's and slipped in on her. She was lying down asleep. Her daughter, Mrs. Owens, had baked her a lovely birthday cake. She got several nice gifts but she had to follow twine all over the place before she found the gifts which had been hid in their car. Then all were served with cake and pie.

Those present were Mesdames Nickles, Moore, Hibdon, Parker, Western, Owens, Harrison, Davis, Wall, also Mrs. Loyd Wall, Courtney and Carden. Hostess was Mrs. Brogden and Misses Atkins, Carter, Nickles, Brogden. Then Thursday night several families surprised Mr. G. H. Hibdon as it was his 54th birthday. He got 2 cakes and several other gifts he gave the crowd some good music. Then all was allowed to sample his cakes with a cup of coffee. This seemed to be a day of surprises, but there were other surprises, Saturday night an old time pound or fruit supper was given at Mrs. Edd Rice's in honor of Mr. Wall on his 44th birthday, but right at the last it had to be given away as Mrs. Wall's mother and father come and she didn't get to attend. There were some 12 or 15 cakes and lots of good canned peaches and pears, with lots of good cocoa to go with it. Ye writer was not present but think would be safe in saying there were 75 in all there. It was also Little Jackie Carden's 8th birthday. She carried her birthday cake along and celebrated too.

Raymond Hibdon spent the night with Fletcher Brogden Saturday night.

Local Home Ecos. Club Attends Lubbock Meeting

The Littlefield Lively Home Economics club attended the District Home Economics meeting at Lubbock High school auditorium Saturday, March 16. This was the fifth annual District Home Economics club meeting.

Littlefield was representing to scenes from 1890 to 1900. The different scenes that were shown were Indian costumes, dances, lovely old fashioned costumes with laces and frills, old dances, scenes of home making as spinning, shucking corn, knitting, embroidering and feathers.

The day was filled with good entertainment and fun. A barbecue hour.

In the afternoon, stunts were given by different clubs. After a short business meeting at which time Littlefield was voted to be hostess of the next district club meeting for the coming year. The meeting closed with a reception which was given in the dining room of the High school.

Those who attended and took part in the pageant were Misses Ruth Pumphrey, Francis Barton, Mildred Wiseman, Ruth Griffin,

Very Much Improved After Taking Cardui

"I have suffered a great deal from cramping," writes Mrs. W. A. Sewell, Sr., of Waco, Texas. "I would chill and have to go to bed for about three days at a time. I would have a dull, tired, sleepy feeling. A friend told me to try Cardui, thinking it would help me—and it did. I am very much improved and do not spend the time in bed. I certainly can recommend Cardui to other sufferers."

Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

Farrah Beckner, Jewell Gibson, Pauline Wallace, Ada Belle Mason and Bernice Gattis.

Others who attended were Misses Betty Ann Hilliard, Evonone Hawthorne, Messrs Griffin, Barton, Pumphrey and Miss Luella Walters of Lockney, who spent the week end visiting her sister, Miss Mildred Walters, home economics teacher in Littlefield.

FORD V-8

In A Class By Itself

THERE is no way to compare the Ford V-8 with any other car because there is no other car like it.

The Ford enables you to step up into the fine-car class in performance, beauty, comfort and safety. But there is no stepping up in price. That is kept down by Ford low-profit policies and unique manufacturing methods. These are as different as the car itself.

It takes eight cylinders to give the modern performance you need these days. The Ford is powered by a V-8 — the finest type of eight-cylinder engine. You have to pay more than $2000 for that in any other car.

Mr. and Mrs. Tremain Return From Fishing Trip to Florida

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Tremain and son, A. C., returned Friday night from a three weeks' fishing trip to Florida.

Mr. Tremain reports they had a splendid time. They spent the greater portion of their time at Tallahassee, Fla., on the Gulf Billoxi, fishing, and say there were all kinds of fish available.

They state there has been so much rain in Florida that it has washed many bridges away, and in some instances homes. Mrs. Tremain said she saw some folks moving in row boats from their homes to higher ground.

They drove 3385 miles going to Florida and return. Leaving here Monday noon they reached their destination Wednesday night.

Coming back they visited the penitentiary at Huntsville, where there are in all about 6,000 convicts, and 1,200 in close confinement. The day they called there were seven in the death cell. Mr. Tremain says they are all dressed in white, with the exception of those who have tried to make a get-away, and their uniforms are striped.

"The Mighty Barnum" To Be Featured At Palace Sat. Midnight

"It's Colossal!" — "Stupendous!" — "Gigantic!" Thus Hollywood modestly cries its wares, and the world credits Hollywood with originating the practice of applying superlatives to the commodities one has to sell. But Darryl F. Zanuck in producing "The Mighty Barnum," for 20th Century Pictures, discovered that Hollywood is merely following in the footsteps of the world's greatest showman in this matter. This wonderful picture will be featured at the Palace Theatre, Littlefield, Saturday midnight, Sunday afternoon, Sunday night and Monday. For it was in exhibiting such discoveries as General Tom Thumb, the world's smallest man, the Cardiff Giant, George Washington's 160-

Eyes of County Turned On Olton Friday, Saturday

SEVEN THINCLAD TEAMS TO MEET

Sudan Has Largest Entry List; Locals Strong

Eyes of the entire county are focused this week on the County Interscholastic track-field and intellectual meet which will be run off at Olton Friday and Saturday.

Sudan, with a wealth of power, has thrown men into every event of the track-field meet. Olton and Spring Lake are depending, from the looks of the entry records, upon first in only a few departments to sweep them out in front.

Littlefield and Spade, with about an equal number of entries, are fairly well represented. Amherst appears potent in the dashes and most field events.

Fieldton is short of men, and Hart Camp had not entered the meet Monday. Belief is that Coach Barksdale's thinclads will provide a few surprises in the dashes. Pierce is an almost certain first in the pole vault, and McKnight and Carter have been flogging the 100-yard sprints, and longer, in fast time.

Bryant of Olton, Turner and Cook of Spade, Cook of Spring Lake and McKnight, Pierce and Carter of Littlefield, are all certain point winners, directors and coaches in the league believe.

Spade and Amherst will meet Friday at Olton to settle the grammar division volley ball issue. Littlefield, downing Olton and Sudan, was third.

NEW ALL-STAR

"Hard Botted" Schrimpscher has filed with Secretary Orr to replace T. L. Kimmell, Jr., who recently dropped out of the All-Star softball line-up. Kimmell will be in Henson, Texas, on business most of the playing season.

Spade, Olton in Volley Ball Finals; Locals Third

Spade will oppose Olton in the finals of the girls volley ball division of the County meet at Olton Friday. Spade emerged undefeated in a round robin preliminary last week, and Olton was second, bowing only to Spade.

Coach Thelma Killough's Littlefield girls rolled over Sudan, Spring Lake, Hart Camp and Amherst, only to drop the conventional two-out-of-three games to Spade and Olton in later stages. Littlefield was third.

Littlefield's two teams included Capt. Hazel Todd, Co-Capt. Anita Hodges, Gma. Carpenter, Almeta Edwards, Annie Laura Town, Opal Walker, Opal Carpenter, Lucille McCurry, Bernice Scott, Geraldine Mills, Virginia Cunningham and Faye Foust.

Pasturites All Set To Meet Brownfield Here

Littlefield's golf team, suffering from a 13-0 drubbing at the hands of Slaton last week, is prepared to entertain Brownfield in the second League joust here Sunday afternoon.

Greens are being re-sanded and the course put into shape for the Terry County invaders. Inclement weather made steady workouts impossible, but occasional cards turned in indicate a closer score than last week against Slaton.

NEW FLYERS

Leo Duffey, Allen Kendrick and Kent Rooks have been added to the Flyer softball lineup, according to Manager G. A. Dunn, Jr.

SUDAN C-C MAN PICKED

W. A. Fincher, formerly of Lorenzo, is new Secretary-Manager of the recently organized Sudan Chamber of Commerce. The organization was formerly known as the Business Club.

SOFTBALL DADS MAP SCHEDULE

Split Season Arrangement Calls For 224 Games

The lone obstacle in path of opening softball play, arrangement of a split-season schedule, has been eliminated and teams are hustling through peppery practice games and workouts this week in gleeful preparation for the League's official Spring bow on April 15.

Messrs. Rowe, Seely, Cundiff, Mueller and Woods have drawn up a schedule for a split season. Each team will play the remaining seven outfits twice each half-season, or 14 games apiece each half. Winners of each half will meet in a three-out-of-five championship series, beginning Aug. 26, and the cellar teams in each half will decide a "consolation" trophy in like manner.

Ties will be played off at the end of each half. Games during the first three weeks will be at 6 p. m. One game a night will be played five nights a week, Monday through Friday.

Lighted play will not begin until Monday evening, May 6, at 7:30, at which time two games will be played. This will also mark inauguration of two games each Monday night, and one on each succeeding night through Friday.

Beginning April 27 starting time of games will be set up to 7:45 to allow for longer days. On June 17 play will be moved up to 8 p. m. and remain thus through remainder of the season.

Jim Davenport's All-Stars, 1934 champions, will engage the Legion ten in the first game April 15 at 6 p. m.

A schedule of each week's games will be published on this page the preceding week throughout the summer.

SPORT WORLD

By BILL NORRIS

Ghost Town

The city lights, Once brilliant hue, Were black as pitch, AAd plumb subdued.

"Please tell me why?" A hanger-on Demanded as His stein was drawn.

The keeper of The tavern smote His chest, and growled Deep in his throat.

"This town," he groaned, "Has gone to pot— The folks are at The softball lot!"

A mild picture, friend fans, of what you will see in a very few more weeks. With playing schedules completed, and half the teams on the ledger with full lineups already, King Softball, who will do more reigning this summer than Weatherman Cawthon could ever hope for, is about to begin swinging his willow scepter. You can hardly wait, and you know it.

Everything is in readiness. Beginning April 15, there will be one game each afternoon until Monday, May 6, which will mark the opening of night play. On that evening, and each Monday thereafter, two games will be played, with one game slated for the other four nights each week.

Schedule calls for each team to play every other team twice each half season, or 14 games per team per half. Each outfit will play 28 games during the full season, except the two half-season champions, which will play a three-out-of-five game championship series during the week beginning Monday, August 26.

On second thought, the lowly laggards will come in for something besides a Bronx cheer this time. The League schedule committee, Ed Seely, E. S. Rowe, Dr. Ira Woods, E. C. Cundiff and Arthur Mueller, have arranged for the cellar warmers in each half to fight it out as an added feature of the championship series in August. The worm will turn, as 'twere.

The All Stars, 1934 champs, will open League play against the Legion ten Monday, April 15 at 6 p. m. Games during the first three weeks will be played by daylight at 6 p. m. sharp. Night games will begin at 7:30 and on Monday's the second game will be called at 8:30. As days get longer, starting time will be moved up 15 minutes every few weeks.

Playoff of first half ties, in both top and cellar places will be held Friday, June 21. That is, if a tie occurs.

Several teams are in good shape right now and others are working out at regular intervals. All seem impatient for the season to begin, and there's still 17 days before the opening game. Any bright suggestions about how the boys can spend their time to keep from growing stale will tickle eight good managers to death. Write them a letter.

Bouquet of the week goes to Miss Genave Mason, stylist, who last week knocked County Meet girls singles tennis competition into a cocked hat.

Genave blazed her way into the finals against Mildred Gartrell, Amherst, then soundly drubbed Miss Gartrell to retain her 1934 championship.

Followers of baseball hereabouts will tell you that Manager George Brannen of the Jackson Senators, East Dixie League, picked up a very salty outfielder when he signed

Local Golfers Take Whipping by Slaton

Littlefield golfers received a setback in their opening South Plains League tourney at Slaton Sunday. The locals lost 13 matches.

Faced with a shortage of the powerful material they had last year, the Littlefield boys threatened only once, when Hendricks carried Slaton's Taylor to the 17th before dropping the match. Dave Keithley, Littlefield's Number One, went down before Farrell, 5 and 4. Lambert, Number Two, was stopped by Reynolds at the 18th, 2 and 2.

Other results, with Littlefield losers' names last, were Lewis and Cundiff, 8 and 6; Bates and Harrell, 6 and 5; Cummings and Lyman, 5 and 4; Butler and Aldridge, 4 and 2; Garland and Arnold, 4 and 3; Wilson and Anderson, 3 and 2; Anderson and Eagan, 4 and 2; Cates and Dobbs, 3 and 1; Ragsdale and Pass, 7 and 6; Carter and Angsley, 5 and 4.

young Durwood Howell of Enochs, son of G. P. Howell of the Enochs Land Company.

Howell hit .352 last year and has eked out quite a name for himself in West Texas baseball. What he will do after the Senators break camp April 25 to open the East Dixie season remains to be seen—but almost every fan in Bailey county, and a wealth of West Texas lovers of the game, can paint you a glowing picture, right now, of how the boy will fare this year.

COUNTY TENNIS IN WHITE

Mason Is Girl Champion; Towns Are In

Paced by the champion of Genave Mason, Littlefield, Lamb County, in the final play wared week-end at Olton.

Miss Mason, 1934 champion, whipped entries at Hart Camp and Amherst out on top once more, against Mildred Gartrell, herst, Genave maced the set without a serious struggle.

Bernard Lambert, Littlefield player, drew a promptly smashed the 6-3 and 6-3. He will meet Olton, in the finals during week-end.

"Lambert appears to be edge over Rich," advised Moore, Olton.

Linnie Bea Thornter of Willis, who teamed in Fieldton, 6-3, and 6-4, Camp 7-5 and by forfeit, ed to trounce Sudan's boys, who defeated earlier in the tourney.

Tyler and McKnight boys, dropped their Littlefield, 6-4 and 6-4. Olton, in the finals against Amherst, which drubbed Spring Lake, 13-11 and 6-3, and Spade and 7-5.

DEBATE EVENTS

The leading member of the literary events of the Interscholastic League is debate. Our school is very interested in this particular event, because, as is the custom, if a school wins in certain events three years in succession, it may have a trophy permanently, otherwise it passes around from school to school in the order that it is won. Littlefield debaters have kept the debate cup two years and if we win this year, the trophy is permanently ours.
The school is depending this year on Ellereine Vause and Alice Lynn Street as the girls team, and A. B. Taylor and Emery Glass as the boys' team to keep the cup in our trophy case.

The question these debaters have before them is a very difficult question which concerns all citizens of the United States, as a whole, and one which many learned men have not been able to comprehend. It is resolved, "That the Government Should Own and Operate All Electric Light and Power Utilities."

Practically all of the debaters hand material is furnished by the state. Their coach, Miss Lillian Hopping, has coached them thoroughly on the discussion and has taken them to various tournaments where they have learned additional material.

The contest between our schools' debaters and the other competing teams will not be held at the regular Interscholastic meet which is March 22 and 23, but will be withheld till Monday, March 25, because of several disadvantages which the regular teams will give.

PUPILS ENTER INTO MUSIC CONTEST

The purpose of the music memory contest is to cultivate among school children an appreciation of good music. The only contestants that are eligible to enter the contest in independent school districts are from the fifth to the seventh grades. The team shall be composed of two or more members from each school.

HISTORY OF LEAGUE MEETING

What is now known as Interscholastic League was organized in December, 1910, at the State Teachers' Meeting at Abilene. For the first year the league's activities were confined to debates among the high schools affiliated with the university. The following year contests in declamation were added and membership in the league was thrown open to all the schools of the state below college rank. Subsequently there were also added contests in spelling, essay writing, arithmetic, music, memory, etc., until the present schedule of events was made.

In 1911 a total of 28 schools joined the league and in 1931 there were 6150 schools in the league. This league is the most highly organized and has the largest membership of any similar school organization in the United States. Its purpose is to organize and direct, through the medium of properly supervised and controlled contest, desirable school activities, and thereby assist unpreparing pupils for citizenship. The organization should have the active cooperation of every school teacher and patron in Texas.

TENNIS PROSPECTS FOR COUNTY MEET

Mr. G. M. Irvin, the tennis coach of high school, thinks he has some of the best or all of the best players in Lamb county and hopes to win at least three of the four places at the county tennis meet to be at Olton, Sat., March 23. Due to the bad weather to practice tennis, Mr. Irvin thinks that his players are in as good a shape as possible.

The boys' singles will be represented by Bernard Lambert. Boys' doubles, A. B. Taylor and Robert McKnight. The girls singles, Genave Mason. Girls doubles, Linnie Ben Thornton and Clyde Willis.

The high school tennis players defeated Amherst Monday afternoon in all the matches without losing a set.

TINY TOT STORY TELLING

There is only one division in the tiny tot story telling contest and it is open to children in the second and third grade only. Any school can enter one contestant. First, second, and third grade winners shall be announced. There will be three judges who shall be instructed to rank all contestants on the following points: (1) Spontaneity, (2) originality, (3) delivery. The judges will not be permitted to hear stories as they are told to contestants. No contestants shall receive prompting of any kind. He is supposed to make up the plot in his own way if he forgets.

In addition, there will be an exhibition contest for the first grade pupils. Story telling will occur at one thirty, Friday afternoon.

First grade exhibition winners are Perry Mack Pierce and Maxine Winters. The representatives of Littlefield Grammar school are Ernestine Short and Bobbie Faust.

RENTS LEN IRVIN PLACE

Leonard Plunkett has rented the Len Irvin place a mile west of Olton, which the sheriff recently bought from Mr. Dill, and has moved his family there. He is also moving his blacksmith and welding shop to the property.

Bilious Attacks

For bilious attacks due to constipation, thousands of men and women take Theford's Black-Draught because it is purely vegetable and brings prompt, refreshing relief. "I have used Black-Draught," writes Mr. T. L. Austin, of McAdenville, N. C. "There is a package of it on my mantel now. I take it for biliousness. If I did not take it, the dullness and headache would put me out of business. It is the quickest medicine to relieve me that I know."

CONTESTANTS CHOSEN TO REPRESENT LOCAL SCHOOL

A short time ago four students were chosen by out of town judges from a number of twenty contestants to represent Littlefield High school in the Declamation Contest to be held at the Interscholastic League meet at Olton on March 29 and 30.

Marshall Burleson, senior boy representative, can satisfactorily hold the attention of the audience with his declamation on "The Potency of Roosevelt's Spirit."

Opal Carpenter, senior girl declaimer, persuades the hearers that education will save democracy with her excellent interpretation of "Education and Democracy," by Edward Keesling.

Hall Rowe can sway very strongly the minds of the audience in appreciation of a great statesman with "Lincoln, the Man of the People," by Edwin Markham.

Ruby Nell Cobb inspires to an appreciation of the west by the poem, "A Prairie Schooner," by Edward Everett Hale.

These represent the school in junior boy and girl declamation and are required by interscholastic league rules to give poetry as declamation, but the seniors representatives are required to give prose selections.

The declaimers of the Grammar school have not been chosen yet. The contest will be between Pat Boone who gives "The Tribute to Washington," by Elga Cook, and Avery Sullivan, who gives, "Young Fellow, My Lad," by Robert W. Service. The girls will be represented by Evelyn Griffin or Margaret Brannen, who will give, "Let Me Serve in My Place," by J. Vernon Stone.
