E. Heathman Is Best Nominee In Search for 'Santa'

W. E. HEATHMAN
Second Male Santa Nominee

W. E. Heathman, Littlefield, 55, is the male nominated for the Lamb County's Year-End Santa Claus. His nomination was submitted to the Chamber of Commerce. A native of Oklahoma has been in Littlefield for 25 years. Mrs. Hulise's nomination has been in Littlefield for 25 years. Most of those who have been the Phillips have been the Phillips.

he always had candy, gum or something in his pockets, not only for me, but for every child. "The Heathmans' Christmas list would amaze you. They give to so many, just out of love and generosity. They don't limit their giving to Christmas time but throughout the year they give gifts and do kind deeds for others especially those less fortunate than themselves. "I can think of no one more deserving to be called Santa Claus than 'Pappy' Heathman. As in the words of the poet, 'his eyes, how they twinkle, his dimples, how merry,' make him a true picture of Santa Claus in every sense of the word."

Cancellations To Hit 150,000 By Friday

Carriers Making 1 1/2 Rounds A Day

Postmaster C. A. Joubin of Littlefield Monday predicted a 10 per cent increase of the Christmas mail volume this year over 1953.

The cancellation machine at the post office as of Monday had ticked off 95,400 pieces of local mail, mostly Christmas cards, since the Christmas mailing which started Dec. 13. "We should hit 150,000 pieces or more before Christmas day," Joubin said.

Carriers were making 1 and a half rounds Monday and Tuesday to take care of abnormal mail. "We're hoping that one delivery a day will be back in by Wednesday," Joubin said.

No additional help has been added at the post office this year but regular employees are working 14 or 15 hours a day to keep abreast of the heavy mailing.

"We've managed delivery on parcels each day," Joubin said "and any parcels not delivered before Christmas eve will be delivered Christmas morning."

An average of 15 to 16,000 pieces of mail have been going through the cancellation machine each day since the rush began.

One postal employee Monday despite bulging mail sacks made two round trips on his city routes, a distance of some 28 miles.

Cubs Make Gifts For Families

Members of Cub Scout Den 3 have met each Tuesday afternoon at the Littlefield Community Center to work on gifts for parents of the members.

The boys have covered match boxes with red felt and glued sequins and glitter onto them as gifts for the home. They used a wood burning needle to make tie racks for their fathers.

They had a log cut into ten inch blocks and split to lie flat. The blocks were sanded and shellaced, then three holes bored in the top. Into these were placed white candles. The boys glued sprigs of evergreen, pine cones, bells and a red poinsettia on each to make centerpieces for their mothers.

YULE PARTY

A Christmas party for the Den was held in the home of Mrs. Homer Howard, Dec. 21. The members sang Christmas carols and listened to poems. Gifts were exchanged and a model airplane presented to Den Chief Ken Wilmon. Vernon Dunagin Honored With Birthday Party Vernon Dunagin was honored with a birthday party on his third birthday Saturday, given at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Dunagin.

A Christmas red and green color scheme was used. The red and green cake, topped with a sleigh and reindeer, was placed on the green cloth-covered table. Red cups held Christmas candy and reindeer. Plate favors were balloons.

New Weapons Tested Against Cotton Insects

New weapons are being tested in the war against cotton insects which may result in some decisive victories for the farmer.

The Texas Experiment station has turned up some promising new systemic insecticides that are lethal not only to certain sucking insects but also to such plant choppers as the boll weevil and the cotton leafworm.

Unlike the more common insecticidal sprays and dusts that form a protective layer over the outside surface of the plant, systemics are absorbed into the plant and carried by its sap. They may be applied to foliage, soil or seed. In this way, the stalk, the foliage and sometimes the fruit of a plant can be made toxic to feeding insects by treatment with an effective systemic poison.

Not New to Growers

Systemics are not new to some cotton growers. A few may have used systemics as foliage sprays or dusts against sap-sucking aphids and mites. But the chemicals under tests are the first that also kill insects that chew at stalks, leaves and fruits.

Two of these systemics have been tested in Texas in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Agriculture. They proved lethal to the cotton boll weevil, the cotton leafworm, the cotton leaf perforator—all chewers—and to the cotton aphid and spider mite (suckers) for more than a month. These tests were run under laboratory conditions however.

When applied to cotton planting seed in field tests, both compound gave protection against thrips, aphids and spider mites for more than a month.

Research Early

Research on these systemics is still in the early stages and their desirability is not yet proven. It is still necessary to work out a dependable method of seed treatment that won't lower germination. Also under study is how the new chemicals affect plant growth and to what extent they can build up injuries chemical residues in the plant.

The new chemicals are not yet available to growers. So entomologists advise farmers to stick by current recommended methods of insect control for the present and continue to apply insecticides as foliage dusts or sprays. But the tests show promise and may mean a new era in insect control.

Lum's Chapel H-D Club Has Yule Party At Wren Home

WHITHARRAL—A chartreuse cloth covered the table at the Christmas party Thursday afternoon when Mrs. Wayne Maner and Mrs. Bruce Wren, Jr., were hostess to the Lum's Chapel Home Demonstration club at the Wren home north of town.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. H. J. Allen, Jan. 13.

Texas Soldiers To Go Sailing To Get Seasick Cure

SAN ANTONIO, Tex.—When army troop ships go sailing, sailing over the bounding waves in the next four months, somebodies going to get seasick. The army knows this.

And that's why a small crew of specialists headed by Dr. Herman I. Chinn of the Air Force School of Aviation Medicine here will be on these ships.

Dr. Chinn and his men want to try to find a nearly perfect "motion sickness" pill. One that doesn't make you sick when you take it and also doesn't taste too bad.

Several compounds they've tried before have shown marked protection. But they also produced side effects, such as drowsiness, dry mouth, headaches and blurred vision.

On a typical crossing from New York to Bremerhaven, Germany, the air force medical specialist will run simultaneous tests with several drugs.

The tests will cover 10 crossings in four months.

The "motion sickness" remedy would come in handy for pilots and plane crews, too.

Dr. Chinn, who head the Aviation school of Medicine Pharmacology-Biochemistry department, received an Armed Services award for preliminary studies in motion sickness in 1950.

"Precious soil, I say to myself, by what singular custom of law is it that thou wast made to constitute the riches of the freeholder? What should we American farmers be without the distinct possession of that soil? It feeds, it clothes us, from it we draw even a great exuberancy, our very meat, our richest drink; the very money of our bees comes from this privileged spot. No wonder we thus cherish its possession."

—Letters from An American Farmer, 1782.

Originally, 90 percent of our people lived on farms and produced their own food, clothing and shelter. Now 20 percent of our people are producing all the Nation's food and releasing the rest of us to become engineers, lawyers, dentists, doctors, business and professional men — in fact, butchers, bakers, and candlestick-makers.

"Thanks to G-E push-button control, son— Starting our pump is easier than turning on a faucet!"

"It sure is easy to start our pumps with General Electric controls. Just push a button and the pump starts—that's all there is to it with G-E magnetic starters! And you can forget about this control once it's installed. That's because its all-weather case is so well protected from rust, rain, and all kinds of weather. Even the push buttons are weather-resistant! Now take the over-load relays that protect our motor from overheating. They're in a special ventilated compartment so that the heat from the sun will not cause them to prematurely shut off the motor. This compartment is also protected with a rust-proof screen to keep out insects. All-weather protection for the control means continued protection for the motor because the control guards our motor against damage from overloads and short circuits. And the motor itself is built to last a generation or more! Its controlled bearing lubrication and sturdy cast-iron housing keep it ready for service whenever we turn it on. Son, General Electric knows our irrigation pumping problems and has the right motor and control team to solve them completely!"

Getting To Know Your New Baby

By Dorothy V. Whipple, M.D.
New Features

A newborn baby is a tight little bundle of reflexes.

He lies in his crib all hunched together. His arms are bent at the elbows, his hands right clenched. He keeps his legs bent both at the hips and the knees. Even in his sleep he doesn't relax. If you pull his legs out just enough to put a diaper on him, he's furious and yells at you.

When he sleeps, he constantly moves about. He can't turn over yet, but he wiggles a leg or an arm or both his head up and down.

All his movements are on a "reflex" level. His brain is all there, but it's not in working order yet and doesn't control what he does.

His reflexes all work, but they just move at random. The baby cannot control them. He cannot make his neck muscles hold up his head, nor his back muscles support him in a sitting position. So he must stay lying down all the time.

Your newborn keeps his eyes closed most of the time. "Just like a baby city," said three-year-old Sue when she saw her new brother. Of course, it's not like a kitten because the baby can open his eyes, though he doesn't do it very often. A baby's eye muscles move about in the same jerky fashion as the rest of his muscles. If you don't know it ahead of time, you may get your eye stuck if your baby does happen to open his eyes for you. One eye may look fast and the other slow. Don't worry; this doesn't mean he's going to be amblyopic. He'll bring them together when he gets ready to use his eyes. At birth a baby cannot see much.

But a baby hears well by the time he is a day old. You'll notice that he jumps with his whole body at the sound of a loud noise. Also you'll notice that he likes soft quiet sounds. From a very young age a baby will respond to your singing or to music. The lullaby has not existed since time immemorial for no good reason.

Smiling and frowning seem to be quite well developed at birth. A tiny baby will smile breast milk and will begin rooting around for it when he is an hour or two. A hungry newborn has a reflex which will make him open his mouth and grin for a nipple to suck when he feels something brush against his cheek. For this reason never try to open his mouth by putting your hand on his cheek. You just confuse him. It's better to adjust the nipple to make it easy for him to grasp with his mouth and keep your hands away from his face.

A newborn will let his wants be known by his good lusty yells. When he gets his needs satisfied, he tumbles back to sleep. He has no interest in playing yet.

"When things begin, other arts follow. The farts & therefore, are the founders of human civilization." Daniel Webster.

Highest-Paid Santa

CHRISTMAS AND hospitality, closely interwoven as they are, give the Yuletide a particularly unique flavor in Richmond, Virginia, with its tradition of gift-giving in unusual ways. Its dramatic store displays thrill adults. For kids, there's Santa—in the flesh!

COMMUNITY'S favorite Santa is William Sander, cashmer-poon human. He, actually, 75,000 youngsters at his lap at two-day December shows.

STROTHER, PAID $1,000 weekly, draws attention with Felix Adler, Hutching Brothers' cases and his pig, "Annita," when he, and the Fairy Shop Queen.

MILLER & RHODES department store, mammoth Richmond trade center, carries the world's highest-paid Santa. Adler and Queen's familiarity of holiday treat reflects in firm's year-round holiday. Typically, division of company's Internationals are known.

Baugh and Zaharias To Be Added To Texas Hall Of Fame

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

The sports faithful will be coming to Dallas Dec. 30 to see a couple of Texas' greatest inducted into the Hall of Fame.

Texans do a lot of bragging and popping off and some of them actually believe it. The athletes who have tested the finest in the world know Texas is no greater spawner of mighty men and women of sport than any other section. It's just bigger and has more people from which to produce the finest of the athletic field.

But the Texans who are fortunate enough to be added to the exclusive ranks of the Texas Sports Hall of Fame consider it the top honor. That so many greats of sport come from the state lets them know it is quite an accomplishment to be numbered among those "peeps, male or female, living or dead, whose achievements in athletics have brought lasting fame and honor to Texas."

Ben Hogan, a man who gained more glory in golf than any other, was obviously quite proud to be called the greatest football player of all time. At least, that's what Texans consider him and Texas, as Texans know, is the biggest part of the world.

Less than two years ago the Texas Sports Writers Association wondered if it could vote the Babe into the Hall soon enough that she might answer in person when the plaque was passed out. Mrs. Zaharias has dread cancer. There never was any doubt but that the Babe should be in the Hall of Fame but the association just hadn't gotten around to voting her in. It got quite busy and she came into the Hall of Fame by a landslide.

But there really wasn't any need of the hurry. The Babe licked cancer just like she had been licking the greatest athletes in the world for a quarter of a century. She decided that the Lord was with her and that the Lord helped those who helped themselves. It is one of the greatest stories of sport.

There never was any doubt that Baugh should be in the Hall either. There were just a lot of other real athletes in their particular field who deserved it, too. So the process of selecting an athlete to the Hall of Fame was slow.

The Texas Sports Hall of Fame is an institution that never will become a closed corporation. There are enough athletic greats—Byron Nelson, Cecil Smith, Wilmer Allison, Dizzy Dean, Lee Baldwin, Clyde Littlefield, Ted Lyons, Don Walker, Jack Johnson, Ad Toppertwein, Matty Bell, to mention only a few—to fill the Hall to overflowing. But it's quite elastic and can take care of any number. Every year brings another one or two worthy of its designation.

And why not a sport writer? Know anybody who ever did more for sport than the late Jinx Tucker?

Homely Hounds Part Of Law In West Texas Town

SEAGRAVES, TEX. — A couple of homely hounds named Scotty and Skinny are part of law and order in the far West Texas county of Gaines.

They're used by Sheriff-elect Val A. Harris and City Marshal Fred Buchanan as trackers — to catch crooks or find lost persons. They got the dogs from the Texas State Prison at Huntsville, which breeds tracking animals for officers in all parts of the state. Scotty's a brown and white pointer, and Skinny's a pointer and pointer mix. Both are about 10 months old.
