Texas Has Largest Congressional District In Population In Nation

WASHINGTON, October 25 (AP)—Texas' eighth congressional district, consisting of Harris county and represented in Congress by Albert Thomas, is the largest in the nation—in population. Final 1950 census figures by congressional districts, just released by the Census Bureau, show a population of 806,701 in the Houston district. The smallest district of any is the second district of South Dakota, with 159,099. The Texas district with the fewest inhabitants is the 17th, whose Congressman is Rep. Omar Burleson of Anson. This district has a population of 226,739. It embraces 12 counties, with Abilene the largest city. The second smallest district is the fourth, represented by Speaker Sam Rayburn of Bonham. It has a population of 227,735. While most congressional districts in the nation have between 300,000 and 400,000 persons, two others in Texas besides the eighth exceeded 500,000. The fifth, Dallas county, has 614,799. Its Congressman is J. Frank Wilson. The 20th, Bexar county, has a count of 500,460. It is represented by Paul Kilday of San Antonio. Ten congressional districts in Texas have populations ranging between 200,000 and 300,000 and five have populations between 400,000 and 500,000. Only three have populations in the 300,000 to 400,000 bracket, the average nationally. Although there are 435 members of the House, there are only 424 (Continued on Back Page)

Suffers Heart Attack On Street Friday

Marvin Mitchell about 35, a transient, was said to have suffered a heart attack while standing on the corner of XIT Drive and Delano Avenue about 10 a.m. Friday morning. Twelve Mexican Nationalists Are Injured When Trailer Overtakes on Anton-Whitharral Road

Twelve Mexican Nationals, here under contract and working for Paul A. Tulles, whose farm is located on the Anton-Whitharral road, as cotton pickers, were brought to Littlefield Hospital early Thursday morning, suffering injuries in varying degrees. Half were almost immediately released, and the other six were given medical aid and in some cases a few stitches. None was seriously injured. But there is more to the story than just the facts stated above. The injury of the dozen men was the result of two highway mishaps or wrecks. The first was when the trailer in which they were being taken to the cotton field, overtook, injuring and spilling all of them. Mr. Tulles, who was driving the car which towed the trailer, called his son, Paul D. Tulles, and the son loaded the most seriously injured in his Oldsmobile, and started for the hospital. Enroute to the hospital, with the injured Mexicans, his car and another driven by a Mexican were involved in a rear end collision, overturning the Tulles car, and again hurting the already injured Mexicans. Two ambulances from Hammons took all of the injured to the hospital. Mr. Tulles' Oldsmobile was damaged about $1,200, and the Ford belonging to the Mexican, Eduardo Rodriguez, was also damaged. Hospital records here list the names of the six seriously hurt Mexicans as follows: Alberto V. Mora, Acarnasen Mendez, M. Jose Marcel, Manlio Garcia, Perca Velasco Torres Huerta. Neither Mr. Tulles nor his son was injured.

HALEY WRITES STIRRING HISTORY OF WEST TEXAS

By The Associated Press Heroic history of West Texas, sweeping out from old Fort Concho—present day San Angelo—to cover the drama and adventures of the vast plans from the Panhandle to the Rio Grande, has been written by J. Everts Haley of Canyon in a beautiful new book, "Fort Concho and the Texas Frontier." Covering 50 years of the West's most dramatic era, Haley tells the story not only of a frontier fort, but of the dynamic period of Western American expansion. In his sixth book, the Panhandle cowman and author leaves behind the rugged individuals, Goodnight, Littlefield, Jeff Milton and Schreiner, about whom he has written volumes to paint the larger panorama of the West Texas of the Concho country in all its color, toughness and action of Indian fighting days. Dr. Eugene C. Barker, distinguished professor of history at the University of Texas, in tribute to Haley's new book, says it embodies his unequalled knowledge. "It could have been written only by a man familiar by personal ac-

New Flowers In U. S. Gardens

A top horticulturist recently returned from England with 300 varieties of plants, all strangers to America, most of which will eventually find their way into U.S. gardens.

T. H. Everett of the New York Botanical Garden said that most of the plants are quite rare although he was primarily concerned in importing plants that would thrive in America and be of interest to gardeners.

Among the more unusual plants are a yellow-flowered lilac, a double flowered sweet rocket, five new varieties of goldenrod. Everett said the British Isles are the treasure house of the world for cultivated flowers. "For centuries—ever since the Crusades—the British people have been gathering different varieties of flowers from all over the world."

The flowers will be kept in the New York Botanical Garden until it is certain they are bearing no alien blight. Then they will be distributed throughout the country. Various garden clubs sponsored the varieties of geraniums and even some specially bred flower-hunting expedition.

"He's so nearsighted he can't see his hand in front of his face!"

A mistaken tendency is to separate all who don't have normal eyesight into two great classes: the nearsighted and farsighted. Yet, even the child who is farsighted may have vision so bad he can't see in the distance without his glasses, or a man who has progressive nearsightedness can reach the point at which it is impossible for him to read.

More accurate names for these conditions are "myopia" for nearsightedness and "hyperopia" for farsightedness.

There is no such thing as an optically perfect eye. Those which have normal or almost normal vision, however, have a couple of qualities in common. In the first place, all of the substances through which light must travel to reach the back of the eye, the retina, are clear. Next, the rays of light are focused in such a way that they fall exactly on the retina. An eye meeting this latter requirement is called "emmetropic," which means "an eye within measure."

If any part of the eye is constructed so that the rays of light come to a focus somewhere in front of the retina, the condition is known medically as "myopia." If the light rays tend to focus somewhere behind the retina, the reverse is true and the condition is called "hyperopia."

The focus of the myopic eye can be corrected by placing before it a concave lens, which when viewed from the side appears "scooped out" in the center with thick edges. Just the opposite, a hyperopic eye can be corrected with a convex lens, which is thicker through the middle than at the edges. A magnifying lens or reading glass is convex.

In addition to myopia and hyperopia, there is a type of seeing difficulty called "astigmatism," in which because of a defect in some part of the eye, rays of light may focus perfectly on the retina in one direction but not in another. To correct this type of poor sight, lenses called "cylinders" are set at the proper angle.

Astigmatism may be associated

Sgt. DeSautell, Jr. Awarded Bronze Star Citation

Sergeant Clifford O. DeSautell Jr., son of Mrs. Nurene DeSautell Box 653, Littlefield, a member of Baker Company Anti-Tank, 7th Marines, 1st Marine Division, FMF, was awarded a Bronze Star Citation at an informal ceremony held near the Chajipo village in Korea.

The citation read in part: "For heroic achievement in connection with operations against the enemy while serving as a tank gunner with a Marine Anti-tank Platoon in Korea on July 10, 1952. The citation continues: The platoon was heavily engaged with the enemy approximately one thousand yards in front of the friendly lines. The assistant driver left the tank for necessary repairs and was wounded by an enemy bullet. Sergeant De Sautell, disregarding his own safety and under a forward slope to safety."

He is presently serving as a tank commander with his present unit. He was born in Buffalo, New York, December 1931 and enlisted in the Marines at Lubbock, Texas in May 1951 and was promoted to sergeant June 1952. Sergeant DeSautell was graduated from Monta Vista High School, Colorado, where he lettered in football.

either with myopia or hyperopia, in which case the astigmatism must be corrected in addition to the other condition.

"Cross eyes," when the eyes turn in, or "wall eyes," when they turn out, are names used by the general public for what is medically known as strabismus or squint. This condition not only makes the eyes unattractive, but there is danger that the one which turns in or out may lose its sight. Correction lies in the use of eye drops, glasses, eye exercises, or surgery, or a combination of these methods of treatment.

As with astigmatism, strabismus may be connected with hyperopia or myopia. Sometimes the correction of the latter two conditions may cause the squint to disappear. However, if not, prisms can be ground into the glasses to bring the eyes nearer into line. A prism viewed from its side is wedge shaped.

For those who think they may need glasses and are about to have their first eye examination, a few definitions may be in order.

An oculist (or ophthalmologist) is an M.D. who is licensed to practice medicine and surgery but who limits his practice to the eye. His specialty is in diseases and surgery of the eye and he also tests eyes for glasses.

An optometrist is a nonmedical practitioner trained to test eyes for glasses; he also may do some visual training and muscle exercises.

An optician is a maker and dispenser of optical instruments or glasses.

TEEN TALK

By VIVIAN BROWN

AP NEWSFEATURES

Get out your biggest black cauldron, stir up your most potent witches' brew—it's Hallowe'en party time.

All spooks aside, your gang should enjoy a party now that they've outgrown their Tricks or Treats routine.

There are new games, recipes and decorations to amuse the crowd. Carolyn Coggins, party consultant for Fanny Farmer candy shops, knows just what young party goers like, and she's cooked up a big pumpkin full of suggestions.

To get the party rolling, assemble the fellows and girls at a spot not far from where the party will take place. All the lights should be out in the house except for the Jack o'Lanterns and black cats. When the guests arrive a huge witch silently greets them. The witch is a girl or boy standing on a chair with long robes reaching to the floor. The tallest member of your crowd in this role can give a particularly scary start to the party.

In the party room, a witches' cove can stand in one corner of the room. It should be decorated in orange and black, with cutouts of bats and witches pasted about or hanging from strings from the ceiling.

To get the ice broken, have a March of Witches. This is particularly exciting if everyone is in costume. It works like "musical music stops. This is a good way to mix the crowd.

Super-ghost, as played on television, permits adding to a word at the beginning as well as the end of the word to prevent becoming a ghost. If you're forced to complete five words, you're a super-ghost and you're haunted for the evening. Refreshments can include a "Skeleton's Delight," an orange soda with chocolate ice cream. Use orange or chocolate colored straws to complete the effect. An inexpensive cake can be concocted by starting with a pound cake which can be cut into layers and filled with orange icing. On the top of the cake, arrange some gum-drops in the shape of a pumpkin; add a piece of green licorice for the stem of the pumpkin. A chocolate witch placed on orange sherbet is another Hallowe'en treat.

Orange paper napkins and orange plates with skeletons imprinted add zest to the eating. Kiddy-pops in the shape of pumpkins can be scattered around the table. Late autumn flowers, dried leaves, colored corn can form decorations on the tablecloth to symbolize the completion of the harvest which Hallowe'en signifies.

An apple race can help stir up action after the food. The idea is to see who can walk across the goal line first balancing an apple on the back of the hand.

A game to test your lungpower is the ping-pong ball contest. Take two pieces of string and place them about a foot apart across a table. Paint the ping-pong ball to resemble a Jack o'Lantern. Boys on one side, girls on the other. Place the ball equidistant from the strings. The object is to blow the ball across the opposite string to opponents territory. Three invasions win.

The candy race is fun. Tie a piece of candy to a long string. Get a guy and his favorite girl to start chewing the ends of the string, working towards the piece of candy. The one who reaches the piece of candy wins. The object is to reach it together, however.

Another apple race is a big favorite. Have four couples line up ten feet apart in parallel lines facing each other. Give each one a toothpick and give four of them an apple. Stick the apple in the toothpick and put the toothpick in the mouth. The players must carry the apple to his opposite corner, stick the apple into his partner's toothpick, and run back to his starting position. He then carries the apple back to his partner. The team who carries the apple five times wins.

That old Hallowe'en standby, dunking for apples, can't be skipped at any Hallowe'en party. Written fortunes or pennies, dimes or quarters can be inserted in the apples to add incentive to the game.

Maybe it would be cheaper to clothe a woman.

Start The Day Right

The importance of starting the day with a good breakfast to fortify our bodies with the needed energy for the tasks of the day is now well recognized by housewives and meal planners. But what of the importance of a spiritual tonic to give inspiration and stamina for the mind and soul?

Thousands of families have found that breakfast time is the ideal occasion for a brief period of meditation and prayer which gives a spiritual touch to the whole day. With the aid of a devotional guide and the Bible, any family can have a meaningful, inspirational, and helpful family worship. It proves to be an important factor in strengthening family ties and in giving a feeling of family unity to have father and mother or one of the children read a Bible passage, a devotional message, and a brief prayer.

Dr. J. Manning Potts of Nashville, Tennessee, editor of The Upper Room, the world's most widely used devotional guide, points out that any family can easily arrange to share the few minutes that such a program requires. The experience of countless families showing the importance of starting the day right—giving each member of the family a sense of well-being and a renewed faith to help them meet the problems of the new day—is the result of morning devotions.

In children the establishment of the basic habit of daily renewal of their spiritual strength will be a resource that will aid them throughout their lives. The Upper Room, which provides a daily meditation for each day, is available through 50,000 churches in the United States.

Littlefield Invited To Have A Part In Fort Worth Stock Show

Littlefield has been invited to have a special day at Southwestern Exposition and Fat Stock Show, to be held at Will Rogers Memorial Coliseum in Fort Worth, beginning January 30 through February 8, according to a letter received by the local Chamber of Commerce.

The invitation in part expressed the following: "We hope to present a still better show this year, to do so we need your help. Your city is invited to have a special 'day.' Name a Cowgirl sweetheart, bring the band and a whoopingly enthusiastic caravan of citizens displaying badges and hat-bands to publicize your city and our own rodeo, fair or other civic enterprise. You will all enjoy the trip and the publicity department will do its best to give publicity to your plans."

Mobile Power Meets Emergencies

(AP Newsfeatures)

Emergency power is provided by a truck-mounted generator which has been developed by a tractor company (Caterpillar). The pilot model seen in this picture already has been used to meet a power emergency when the main generator of a New Jersey town broke down. It is designed to produce 315 kilowatts of electricity, burning furnace oil in its engine. It is planned to sell the units to government and business organizations for use in providing power where regular sources are out of operation. The truck can speed over ordinary highways at 60 miles an hour and go into operation within 15 minutes after arrival. A radio phone keeps it in touch with dispatchers.

THIS TASTES GOOD IN TEXAS

HONEY APPLE CRISP
 4 cups sliced apples
 1/4 cup sugar
 1 tablespoon lemon juice
 1/2 cup honey
 1/2 cup flour
 1/4 cup brown sugar
 1/4 teaspoon salt
 1/4 cup butter or margarine
 1/4 cup nuts, if desired

Spread sliced apples in a shallow baking dish, sprinkle with sugar and lemon juice and pour honey over all. Combine flour, brown sugar and salt. Cut in the fat to make a crumbly mixture. Spread this mixture evenly over the apples and bake in a moderate oven (375 F.) for 30 to 40 minutes, or until apples are tender and crust browned. Serve warm with cream, or whipped cream topped with a dash of cinnamon.

Let's eat this for one day:
 Breakfast: Stewed Prunes, Scrambled Eggs, Sausage, Whole Wheat Toast, Milk, and Coffee.
 Dinner: Cheese Souffle, Sweet-Sour Green Beans, Squash, Cabbage Slaw, Rolls, Butter or Margarine, Honey Apple Crisp, and Tea.
 Supper: Cold Sliced Ham, Potato Salad, Tomato Wedges, French Bread, and Milk.

Follow these rules when cooking with honey: If using honey instead of sugar in recipes calling for sugar, reduce the liquid according to the consistency of the honey and according to the proportion of honey used. For example, if medium-thick honey is substituted for one-half the sugar in cake or quick bread recipes, reduce the liquid one-fourth. If honey is substituted for all the sugar reduce the liquid one-half. If the honey is very thin or very thick, this proportion may have to be altered.

Serve honey with hot buttered waffles, biscuit or griddle cakes.

About 3 per cent of North Carolina's cropland is devoted to the growing of peanuts.

National 4-H Achievement Day To Be Observed By Two Million Boys and Girls

November 8 is national 4-H achievement day. More than two million members in 88,000 4-H clubs under the guidance of nearly 300,000 adult leaders are preparing to report to the nation on this occasion.

Floyd Lynch, state 4-H club leader for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service says the 1952 achievement day culminates the work for the year of 117,000 members in nearly 5,000 4-H clubs in Texas. "Serving as Loyal Citizens Through 4-H" has been the 1952 theme and November 8 will be achievement day for the club members in the state. They will observe the work done by individuals and clubs and give special recognition to parents and the 4-H leaders and friends who support their activities.

"If you are familiar with the 4-H club members and their activities in your community, you will enjoy being their guests on November 8 for many special occasions they are planning," Mr. Lynch says. "If you do not know what 4-H stands for and the young persons who are members of the clubs in your community, November 8 will be a good time for you to take notice," he adds.

The state committee is the Texas 4-H Council," Mr. Lynch says. The officers of the state-wide organization of 4-H club members are Delbert Taylor, Tarrant County and Dorothy Poltyn, Lamb County, co-chairmen; Jo Jon Hall, Martin County secretary; Agnes Ann Warren, McLennan County, and Johnnie Halbert, Nacogdoches County, publicity co-chairmen.

Kill The Rats And Save Foods In Short Supply

Rats are mighty expensive rodents to have around the farm. It is estimated that each will actually eat $2 worth of food but the big loss comes in what is wasted and destroyed—about $20 worth. In addition, says J. E. Poore, assistant district leader, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, rats are known to be carriers of some 27 different diseases including typhus fever and bubonic plague.

With the coming of cooler weather, Poore says these undesirable tenants will be moving into their winter quarters especially into grain bins, feed stacks and buildings where the winter's feed supplies are stored. The first step in a successful rat control program is a farm clean-up.

Pile posts and lumber on supports at least two feet above the ground and scrap lumber, not worth saving, and junk should be destroyed or removed from the farm. Stack bottoms, other feed waste and manure piles should be scattered in the field so they will not provide hiding places for rats. Tall weeds also make fine rat hideouts if left standing.

A strip of galvanized metal, three feet high, placed around the building will keep rats out, says Poore, provided they can't get in through the floor. If a new granary is being built, "set it in piers at least two feet above the ground, and then construct it so rats can't get in."

Poore recommends following the farm clean up with a poisoning program. Last year, in a campaign which he supervised, 11,898 rats were killed at a cost of about four cents per rat. Warfarin bait was used and the amount needed to kill a rat averaged a little less than one quarter of a pound.

In some cases, other types of poison must be used to completely rid a farm of rats, says Poore. Other effective poisons are available but many must be used with extreme caution, he adds, because they are deadly poisons. He suggests before using these poisons that a rodent control service fieldman or the local county agent be contacted for advice.

After a complete program has been carried out on a farm, don't let re-infestation occur, says Poore. Watching for signs and getting new arrivals before they have a chance to become established will keep the farm relatively clear of rats. With feed supplies short in most sections of the state, Poore says farmers just can't afford to feed rats. The $22 per head they

TRAIN TROUBLE

VIENNA (AP)—One thing Communism in Czechoslovakia can't do is make the trains run on time. The Prague newspaper Rude Pravo recently complained that "the irregularity of trains is threatening the security of our railroads."
The newspaper said 65 per cent of all trains arriving and leaving the Slovak capital of Bratislava were late. "The total loss of time of trains in and out of Bratislava is 800 minutes a day," the paper said.

GET CALORY INFORMATION

NEW YORK (AP)—Persons on a diet who dine out will no longer have to get themselves in a dither over whether the food on the hotel menu is fattening—at least not at the Hotel Edison.

Next to each dish on the menu will be listed the number of calories it contains. In addition, a note at the top of the menu will give the dieting women the advice that they limit themselves to 800 calories for the meal, while dieting men shouldn't have more than 1,200.

BILLINGS, Mont. (AP)—A young man who had asked three friends to cut his hair claimed in court he was butchered instead of barbered.

Bible Words to Live by

My favorite Bible verses are II Corinthians 5:18-19:

"And all things are of God, who hath reconciled us to himself Jesus Christ, and hath given to us the ministry of reconciliation;
"To wit, that God was in Christ, reconciling the world unto himself, not imputing their trespasses unto them; and hath committed unto us the word of reconciliation."

These words have always impressed me, because in them is contained the very heart of Christianity.
The Christian religion is concerned with faith in God.
It is concerned with the place of Jesus Christ in history. Here, it seems to me, St. Paul has the insight that leads us to an understanding of the fact that God works in history, that His supreme work in history was in the person of Jesus of Nazareth. The supreme work was to reconcile and to win man back into the fellowship with Himself.
However we interpret Jesus Christ from a detailed theological point of view, the words of St. Paul in the 18th and 19th verses of this Second Epistle stand out as containing a great truth which we all know and experience.

Whenever two or more applicants seek to operate on the same channel in the same area the case goes to a hearing. Reception normally extends for a radius of some 60 miles.

The FCC has designated for hearing, the date yet to be fixed, the applications of the Lufkin Amusement Company of Beaumont and of Port Arthur College, both seeking to operate on channel four, and the applications of the Enterprise Company, Beaumont Broadcasting Corporation, and KTRM, Inc., all for channel 6 in Beaumont.

The FCC has found that 19 other applications from Texas will require hearings. Notification to this effect has been sent to these applicants, a preliminary step before the hearings are ordered.

These applications are for Corpus Christi, where three seek to operate on channel 10, two on channel 6, and two on channel 22; El Paso, where two applicants originally applied for channel 13—although one now has proposed a change to channel 20; Harlingen, two on channel 4; Waco, two on channel 11 and one on channel 34; Lubbock, two on channel 5; Weslaco, three on channel 5.

The TV application boom is much like the flood of radio station applications which swamped the FCC during the 1930's. Most hearings are long and costly affairs, with batteries of lawyers arguing.

congressional districts proper. Eleven of the legislators are elected at large in their states. Texas' 22nd representative, gained as a result of the 1950 census, will be among those 11 at-large members. Former Rep. Martin Dies of Lufkin won the Democratic nomination for that seat. He, therefore, will represent the whole of Texas just as do the state's two U.S. Senators.

The census report gives the total Texas population as 7,711,194.

LIQUID STEAK

COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—That he-man meal, steak smothered with onions and mushrooms, can now be poured into a glass and sipped like a drug store fountain drink.

H. Ned Draudt, graduate student at Ohio State University and research chemist for Kingan and Co. of Indianapolis, Ind., is the man who turned the trick.

The liquid steak is made to order for persons with dietary problems or persons having difficulty chewing. It can be drunk either like a cocktail or spooned like soup.

It is an ideal solution to persons having waistline worries, Draudt said, for it is high in protein and low in calories. He said the steak would retail for 59 cents a can.

APRICOT MEAT LOAF—Penny saver

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

Here's a new meat loaf recipe that combines thrift and glamor. Serve it with snap beans and parsley potatoes and you'll have a delicious main course.

Another economical supper dish is this Tuna Casserole, with green lima beans added, to make it hearty. National Tuna Week is being featured from November 6 to November 15, so you'll probably find some good buys in this handy canned fish at that time.

APRICOT MEAT LOAF
Ingredients: Meat Loaf— $\frac{1}{2}$  pound ground beef,  $\frac{1}{2}$  pound ground pork,  $\frac{1}{2}$  pound ground veal,  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup rolled oats (uncooked quick or old-fashioned), 2 eggs,  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup milk, 3 teaspoons salt,  $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon nutmeg. Filling and Sauce— $1\frac{1}{2}$  cups cooked dried apricots,  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup water,  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup apricot juice.

Method: Mix together the beef, pork, veal, rolled oats, eggs, milk, salt and nutmeg; refrigerate for  $\frac{1}{2}$  hour. For the sauce, cook  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup of the apricot juice until apricots are soft enough to put through a coarse sieve. Spread meat loaf mixture on waxed paper 7x18 inches. Reserve 3 apricot halves for topping on meat loaf. Spread remainder of apricots over meat loaf and roll up, jelly-roll fashion. Loosen meat from wax paper with spatula if necessary. Place meat loaf in 9x5-inch pan. Decorate with the remaining apricot halves. Pour apricot sauce over loaf. Bake in moderate (350 F.) oven 1 hour. Remove from pan and let stand 5 minutes before slicing. Makes 8 servings.

TUNA CASSEROLE

Ingredients:  $\frac{1}{4}$  cup butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons flour, 1 cup milk, 1 egg yolk (well beaten), 1 teaspoon lemon juice, one 7-ounce can solid-pack tuna (drained),  $\frac{1}{2}$  cup sliced ripe olives, one 12-ounce package frozen green lima beans (cooked according to package directions and drained),  $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon salt,  $\frac{1}{2}$  teaspoon paprika, cayenne.

Method: Melt butter in a saucepan over low heat. Blend in flour. Add milk and cook and stir until thickened. Gradually stir in egg yolk and lemon juice. Break tuna into large chunks with a fork. Add tuna, lima beans, salt, paprika and a dash of cayenne; mix lightly but well. Turn into 1-quart casserole; cover. Bake in moderate (375 F.) oven 15 minutes. Makes 4 servings.

acquaintance with the location of every water hole and spring, the exploration of every trail from Coronado's to the Overland Mail, the great cattle drives, the establishment of every military post and the shifting Indian policies of the United States.

"Haley has an intimate knowledge of hundreds of salty characters who played their picturesque roles in transforming the land from nature to civilization.

"Haley possesses all this equipment—gained from intensive study, personal experience and thoughtful reflection—for writing a vivid story. It is no less than a history of West Texas in the heroic age."

Behind the new book is a story as fascinating as Evetts Haley's own writing. For many years the San Angelo Standard-Times has been gathering material for a history of Tom Green county, which originally covered half West Texas. Stripped of some of its spacious grandeur, twelve counties were cut away. A history of Tom Green county was impossible without telling the story of all the country drained by the Conchos Rivers.

Two attempts to get the material into book form were abandoned as inadequate. Finally, in 1945 Evetts Haley, the erudite West Texas cowman who is himself a native son of the Concho country, accepted the task. Harold Bugbee, the cowboy artist of Clarendon, drew the authentic pen and ink sketches that lift the illustrations to a very high level. The maps are by Jose Cisneros, the El Paso designer, and the art of Carl Hertzog, the El Paso printer is evident on every page.

In the preface, Haley writes the book "owes its existence completely to the devotion and drive of Houston Harte, publisher of the San Angelo Standard-Times, who through a period of many years unstintingly spent his time, money and influence to bring it to completion."

Thus the definitive history of the Concho country and a unique example of the bookmaker's art, was created entirely in West Texas by printer Carl Hertzog, artist Harold Bugbee, designer Jose Cisneros and author Evetts Haley.

The author carries the story through the last Comanche forays in the summer of 1879. Ten years later, when its military value was past, Fort Concho's flag was pulled down for the last time, and with loaded wagons and its band playing "The Girl I Left Behind Me," the troops pulled out. Fort Concho was abandoned and across the little river, Saint Angela, now San Angelo, moved into a new era.

Loneliness Among The Push Buttons

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newfeatures Writer

The American housewife, with a cute apartment or neat little suburban home, may be the luckiest woman in history, but she's also the loneliest.

She has an electrical washing machine, dishwasher, deep-freeze, vacuum cleaner and TV set. The furnace is stoked automatically. The bread and cake are baked at the bakery. The preserving and canning isn't her concern. But what household chores she must do, no matter how efficiently, she does by herself.

We seem to have a major preoccupation with the problems of getting along with people. Pick up any magazine for women and you're almost certain to find an article on how to be popular, how to be a fascinating conversationalist, how to meet new people. Yet the combination of our ideals of good housing and our miracles of mechanization seem to serve to isolate our young married women into single units of industry.

In those good old days everyone talks about and doesn't want to return to, a woman's world was a family world and one of communal industry. More people lived in small towns and cities, most families lived in houses, big houses. And families consisted of several generations, aunts, uncles and lots of children. Everyone shared in the work, whether it was the old-fashioned spring cleaning, now rendered obsolete, or fall canning in big kitchens. They worked together, and they also kept each other company.

Today, young married couples start out their life together in a small apartment or house. Living with in-laws is frowned upon and referred to as "doubling up." Household isn't a back-breaking chore any more, but what company she has when she goes through the routine is largely confined to her radio. And the children, when they come, require constant care. Grandmother or aunt isn't around now to take over the changing and feeding of little Willie on schedule so mother can have a few hours for a breathe.

In a life such as this—with plenty of compensation in many ways, certainly—but inescapably with plenty of hours of boring loneliness—shopping can turn into an exciting expedition and so can a couple of hours in a play area talking to other young mothers supervising their children.

It takes plenty of planning, determination and a real knack for happy solitude to beat this system. And it's hard for husbands—or even women who work for salary checks—to understand that life for the housewife with full mechanical equipment isn't a breeze.

Rare indeed is the woman who can keep up unflagging enthusiasm for emptying the same ashtrays every night, vacuuming the same rug daily and facing the same old problem of feeding Willie and Papa every night. Those of us with jobs to go to, with the shifting scene of business and all the human contacts flowing around us, are lucky, as far as our social lives are concerned. When we get home at night, we're happy to sink into the rest, quiet and peace of our homes.

But that's just when life really begins for the lady with all the mechanical household aids. That's when her loneliness is broken. She can get in touch with the world of adults and adult ideas again. And can talk and talk back.
