

LAMB COUNTY'S GREATEST EVENT . . . !

county is going to have . . . the dates have been set as Sept. 23, 24 and 25 . . . committee are being held and are underway to make Lamb county's second annual an outstanding success. Just whether it will be county's greatest event largely on the cooperation of the Fair association, which was organized at a meeting of directors of the Lamb county Fair.

Are we going to make it Lamb county's greatest event? We can do this by each one of us thinking, advertising it, and actively taking some part in the Fair from the present time until September 23, when the gates open.

Henry Stanley, manager of the trade extension department of the Dallas Chamber of Commerce once said: "Pohunk, your neighboring community may stage a peanut rolling contest that you might think is puny in its significance, but if that is the annual event in that town, it's the biggest thing that comes along to them, and if you expect to sell your wares to your neighbors, you cannot afford to miss an opportunity to attend their functions and congratulate them." Since Dallas has had phenomenal success in its growth and development, wouldn't it be a good suggestion for us to consider this, the second annual

Lamb county Fair as the "biggest thing", work to that end and in that way, the event will not only reach our expectations, but will far exceed them.

At a meeting of the directors of the Lamb county Fair Tuesday night, the Fair association was organized with E. O. Melver, president; Glenn Burgess, manager; J. C. Elms, treasurer, and Miss Ila Greene, secretary, and it was agreed to incorporate for the protection of the members.

It was also agreed not to limit Fair privileges to Lamb county alone, but to extend same to Lamb and adjoining counties, inasmuch as a portion of each of these counties are in Littlefield trade territory, extending a general invitation to our neighboring counties to make entries and otherwise participate in the event in very easy . . . and help us make of this one of the greatest exhibitions of its kind, and one to be looked forward to each year by this section. By extending an invitation to adjoining counties to Lamb, this will give the farmers of this area an opportunity to exhibit their produce, cattle, horses, poultry, or what have you . . . and discuss the many farm problems of the day, as well as enjoy the recreation. It will give Littlefield the opportunity to demonstrate to the people of this territory their hospital

High Wind Thursday Lands 6 Large Grasshoppers on H. L. Smith Screen; Where Did They Come From?

H. L. Smith of one mile east of Littlefield on Oklahoma Avenue was displaying downtown Friday, six large grasshoppers in a jar which he gathered off his screen door, following the north wind the night previous. Just where the good-looking grasshoppers had come from was the main topic of conversation among those he came in contact with. One guess was about as good as another. Mr. Smith said: "I know they came down from the north with that wind last night about midnight. I have never seen a hopper on my place before. Some farmers originally from Kansas, say they came from there. I came from Iowa they have the big 'umbo there, these are not as big as the 'umbo. These hoppers have a brown fan on their wings, a perfect marking." The hoppers which are light yellow, have a white streak down their backs, and brown on wings, and are plenty fat and good-looking. The trouble is no one as yet has been able to say where they were when that high wind blew up about midnight Thursday night, which landed the hoppers on Mr.

Smith's screen door. Postmaster Storey's solution is probably as good as any . . . he believes they did come from Kansas, because as he expresses it, "they are tinted like the sunflower." (Editor's Note: Anyone having suggestion to offer as to where these hoppers came from . . . bring same to Leader Office.)

SHIPS THAT PASS IN THE NIGHT

Itinerant peddlers have provided the subject for much discussion by the Leader in the past, especially in the selling by house to house canvass of merchandise that could be purchased to the advantage of the housewife or other local residents in Littlefield. The price, of course, may sound low, but what guarantee do you have as to quality; whereas the local merchant stands behind his product and gladly makes good.

Glenn Burgess, Littlefield's Chamber of Commerce Secretary, in his news bulletin this week, brings out the thought that the goods bought from itinerant peddlers provides enough business to support another store here; and that the patronage extended by Littlefield residents to other cities in this section, would support still another such establishment in Littlefield.

In his news letter, Mr. Burgess states:

"Did your wife purchase a portrait from itinerant photographers this week? There is no question but that their work was good and that the price was reasonable. The picture broken down: Salesman's part—50c, four negatives—at 12 1-2c—50c, cost of chemicals—3c, cost of paper—7c, total cost—$1.10. Cost to you—$1.00. Cost of reprint to company—10c and therein lies the profit. What we are driving at is that goods bought out of town by Littlefield people would keep up a new store. Also, goods bought from itinerant salesmen that could be purchased in Littlefield would keep up another store. Do we have the right to criticize our farmers for patronizing mail order houses when we buy groceries, clothing, and what not from other towns? Granting that merchants from neighboring towns have helped to develop this country of ours, the itinerant is only a parasite, paying no taxes, taking no part in civic development, and if his goods do not come up to sample, 99 chances out of a hundred you have no chance to exchange your goods."

Let us think this over folks . . . and the next time we are tempted to buy out-of-town, or from an itinerant peddler, let us call on our local merchants, and if he doesn't have the merchandise requested, he will gladly order it for you.

"THE REST OF THE RECORD"

BY JAMES V. ALLRED
Governor of Texas

AUSTIN—There are times when every public official wishes he could lay before the people all the facts in a current controversy, so that the people themselves might judge whether his acts were justified.

Several editor friends to whom I made this comment have replied, "Well, Jimmie, why don't you write out those facts as you see them?" So I have decided to do just that, and take advantage of the generosity of these editors by laying before their readers what I call "the rest of the record." This is my first try at it.

SCHOOL CRITICISM UNFAIR—

It's a strange thing when public officials are criticized for reducing taxes—for reducing taxes without detracting one iota from public service. Yet, believe it or not, that is exactly what is happening in the current controversy over the state's public school apportionment.

Because State Comptroller George Sheppard and I cut the property tax rate for school purposes from 20 cents to 7 cents, we are accused by other public officials—who should be as deeply concerned as we are over the average man's tax burden—of taking something, somehow, from the school children of Texas.

I tell you flatly, that is not true. At their best, these statements give you but a part of the record. And a very distorted part, at that.

Every informed school official knows that since I have been governor, the schools have received far more aid from the state than ever before in the state's history.

RECORD FRIENDLY—

For parents in general, who are not apprised of the mechanics of state aid, this explanation is in order: The state helps support schools through two means. First, there is the available school fund, which is divided among the districts on the basis of registered children of school age.

Then there is the "rural aid fund" or the "equalization fund," so-called, which is an additional grant to poorer rural districts.

Rural aid has jumped two and a half million dollars each year I have been in office! When I was inaugurated, it totolled three million dollars; today it is five and a half million. The present controversy isn't over rural aid; it is concerned with the available school fund, distributed on a basis of so much for each child—the state "per capita."

Now this fact is undisputed: During the first year of my administration, the state contributed $19 per student in the per capita apportionment toward the education of each of approximately 1,500,000 Texas children—and this payment likewise was the highest amount in Texas history!

But here is the fact which the critics want you to forget: the per capita this next year will be even greater—at least $20, and perhaps a little more—and at the same time property tax payers will get a tax reduction! The revenues will come from other sources than ad valorem taxes on property.

Does that sound like taking anything from anybody?

TAX REDUCTION STAND—

Upon what are the critics basing their charges? Well, here's how it all happened:

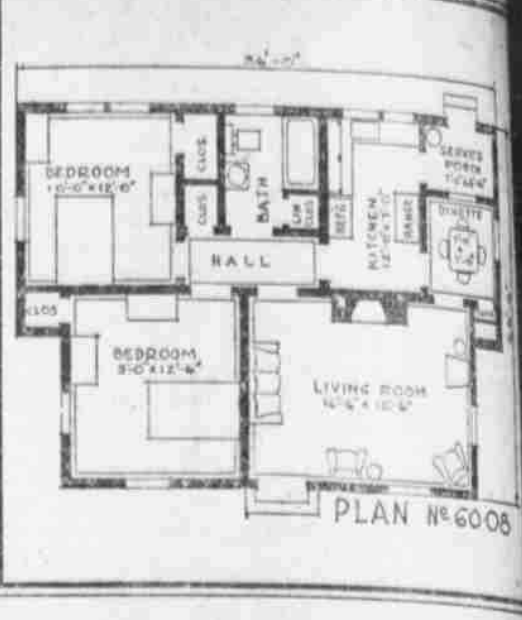

The law says the per capita shall be fixed by the State Board of Education, on or before August 1st. At this time, the Comptroller shall furnish the Board of Education with an estimate of available funds. The Board is then required to do a simple problem in arithmetic—divide the total anticipated revenues by the total number of pupils—and the answer is the per capita.

Now another law says that the Automatic Tax Board, of which Mr. Sheppard and I are members, shall meet by July 20th and set a property tax which will insure enough anticipated revenues to pay $17.50 per capita.

I construe these two laws to mean that the tax board must meet first, find out how much money will be available for schools, and vote enough property taxes to make up the difference. Last year, that's what we did. We found we could reduce the school tax from 35 cents to 20 cents, and still pay the schools $17.50. Not a soul objected. Happily, revenues from other sources were greater than expected, and a per capita of $19.00 was possible.

But this year, for some mysterious reason, the Board of Education met first, and presumed that we would continue the 20 cent tax, regardless of need. Why they so presumed is as deep a mystery as why they met before they possibly could know what the revenues would be—for they couldn't know until after the tax board met. With the 20 cent tax rate, they could make a per capita apportionment of $22, or expressed another way, an increase of $4,080,000 over last year.

I firmly believe that certain people thought they saw a way to tie the hands of the Tax Board and force Mr. Sheppard and me to yield to political expediency at the expense of the taxpayers—who certainly ought to be entitled to some consideration. Everybody knows how burdensome real estate taxes have become.

Right here I want to say George Sheppard showed unusual courage. Most everybody knew how I felt on the matter; so they concentrated on him and he was deluged with telegrams, letters and personal visits to play politics. He is a fine public official, and I suggest if you approve his course, you drop him a note. He will appreciate it.

Mr. Sheppard and I saw eye to eye on this matter; we believe that the law makes it mandatory on us to see that the schools get $17.50 per capita. We did that and they're going to get $20; and at the same time, the taxpayers are going to get a tax reduction.

As a final citation of the record, concerning the attitude of public school teachers: In February of this year, one of the heads of the Teachers Association told a legislative committee that if they could "hold the $19 and maybe get $1 more they would be tickled to death." By that statement, the teachers have reason today to be plenty happy.

The Government of Mexico has invited Mrs. Allred and me to visit that country. We are leaving Sunday, August 1, by train, and next week I hope to have something interesting to tell you about our neighbors. This will be our first real vacation and we are looking forward to a lot of sightseeing.

TILDEN WRIGHT DESCRIBES MONTH'S VACATION AND SIGHTSEEING TRIP

After a 7447 mile tour of the north and west through some of the most beautiful and interesting country we have ever seen, we still salute the Texas flag, a la Littlefield, with good old western fervor. Leaving Littlefield July 1, our first stop was Colorado Springs. At the top of Pike's Peak, after a drive through sunshine, dust, rain, sleet, and snow, we were able to see parts of four states, an area of 60,000 square miles. We visited Seven Falls, fed the pet chipmunks, and drove through the Garden of the Gods. One interesting side trip included a stop at the Van Briggie Art Pottery where we witnessed the oldest art in history—"throwing on the potter's wheel."

After driving through some very beautiful farming sections where alfalfa and clover fields were being irrigated, we reached Salt Lake City and saw the famous salt beds. A swim in the Great Salt Lake convinced me that I can really float. We were extremely lucky in being able to visit the regular Sunday broadcast of the Tabernacle choir with Frank W. Asper at the organ in the Great Mormon Tabernacle.

Driving through beautiful irrigated valleys where many varieties of fruits and vegetables are grown, we reached Yellowstone National Park. "Old Faithful" is still the core of interest. We had quite a time convincing one bear that the inside of the car was no more interesting than the outside. A forest ranger relieved our worries about the footpaths by informing us that snakes cannot exist above 8000 feet.

After three days of sightseeing in this magnificent natural park, we left for Canada. Driving through Glacier National Park we entered Alberta, Canada via Babb, Montana and caught our first glimpse of the Canadian Rockies. The majestic peaks, topped by glaciers and perpetual snow, lonely sentinels standing guard over the unusually beautiful blue lakes, were really an impressive sight for prairie-trained eyes. Lake Louise, at the foot of the Victoria Glacier, with the beautiful French Chateau at its edge, was crystal clear and offered fishing, swimming and canoeing privileges of the highest order. We visited the spiral tunnels, Kicking Horse Pass, Kootenay, Banff, and Yoho National Parks, and Radium Hot Springs. An official call on the Royal Canadian Mounted Police confirmed the brilliant uniforms.

We experienced our first view of the mighty Pacific from the highway in Oregon. No artist will ever be able to capture the beauty of the lonely windblown cypress standing guard on a salt encrusted crag. The Redwood Highway through the Redwood Empire in California is really a scenic drive. Our West Texas mesquite bushes seem like dwarfs after those gigantic redwoods. In San Francisco everyone was wearing heavy furs and winter clothing. Chinatown and the new Goldengate bridge were very interesting. In Los Angeles, swimming in the Pacific offered new thrills to a sand-reared Texan. Sunset over the Pacific is really colorful, but it has nothing on our prairie beauty.

The only unpleasant drive of the trip was in crossing the Arizona Desert to Phoenix. The All American Canal, now in the process of construction across the desert, will some day (perhaps) change it all into an oasis.

Juarez, Old Mexico, is very picturesque. The old Mission, Market, and Bull Ring were interesting side trips. After about thirty minutes of arguing in broken high school, Castilian Spanish, the Chief of Police was finally convinced that our visit was not government business, and we were permitted to go through the old jail.

After a two-day drive we were half way across Texas—Dallas. The Greater Texas and Pan American Exposition, including the All American Calvacade, was very impressive. We spent a week in Dallas with M. H. White and family visiting friends and enjoying the city. The drive up on the caprock still gives the same relief in breathing as always.

The crops all over the country, Texas included, appeared to be in fine condition, although about two weeks after we passed through Colorado and Wyoming, we learned that the grasshoppers had adopted that section.

Texas were not the only people on the road this summer. We saw cars from provinces in Canada, the Canal Zone, Old Mexico, and all but four states in the Union. Yellowstone, the Canadian Rockies, the Pacific, the Redwoods—all were all really a treat, but Main Street, LFD and XIT drives in Littlefield still have the best riding pavement for at least two natives, I know.

Sudan Eliminates Littlefield From Tournament

Newty Moore Puts Up Good Fight; Stagg For Locals Pitched Fine Ball

With a double bill on schedule Saturday on the Sudan tournament docket for Littlefield and half of the troubled seas behind. The determined Sudan ball club piloted by Skipper Newty Moore put up such a fight that they practically annihilated all Littlefield hopes of overcoming the five run spurge in the fatal seventh when they batted around before they were retired.

Stagg, who worked for Littlefield pitched a fine brand of ball up to this point of the game, and was not responsible for all the trouble that cost runs in this rally. Bad umpiring was very noticeable and over bearing to the losers. But this situation was like many others that decided who did or did not get the breaks. Mynard, who was quite effective, particularly when men were on bases, went the route for Sudan.

LITTLEFIELD WINS FROM TIP TOPPERS 15-5

Walker, Edwards And Ratliff Account For Bulk Of Scoring

The Littlefield Cats were matched with the Lubbock entry in the Sudan tournament for the second time, and took their measure to the tune of 15 to 5. Short, a youngster who was drafted from the Taboka team did the hurrying for the locals and Stacy who hails from the Big Spring's Couden Oilers opposed him on the mound. The game was played on a fairly even terms for the first three innings and then the roar of Littlefield war clubs that boomed across fourteen tallies in the next three innings put the game on ice for the Panther nine. Seven bingles were the total damage done to Jimmie Short and his offerings for the full nine frames. Walker, Edwards and Ratliff welded their bats in no uncertain fashion and accounted for the bulk of the scores and scoring. Doran, catcher for the Lubbock team was the toughest with his bat. His two hits and two walks in five trips was fair on anybody's team.

Score by inning—

Littlefield	006 350 010	—15 18 2
Lubbock	002 300 000	—5 7 2

Littlefield Is Loser In Amherst Go—Score 9-1

Duncan Pitches Well And Puts Silencer On Littlefield Bats

Last Friday the Amherst Red Pants crossed bats with the Littlefield team and behind the air tight pitching of one "Bill Duncan" who has chosen baseball as his bread and butter profession, were easy winners over the Littlefield entry. Duncan had the situation well in hand and was supported by his team mates in sensational fashion. Sixteen base hits were collected by the winners that netted them nine scores, while our boys failed to produce more than one base blow per inning, and the sum total for the contest being six in all. Edwards, who played in the center garden blasted a long homer over the left field fence in the fourth frame for the only Littlefield tally.

Tommy Hall, who has been most dependable in the most trying situations on the diamond, was confronted with a string of bat welders who got by with everything but murder. Getting base-hits off of their thumbs to all parts of the playing field. Faulty infield plays by shortstop Miller made more tense the punishment in the form of runs. With three scores in the third and a like number in the fourth gave Duncan a most substantial margin to go on until the finish. These two clubs were counted on to play the finals Sunday and were holding the interest of all baseball lovers. Aldridge, who relieved Hall in the third frame with two on and nobody out got along very well after the third inning, keeping the base-hits well distributed and allowing but three more counters in the remaining six innings.

This is the way it happened in play by play form:

FIRST INNING
White opened with a two-base hit, Craig popped to Miller at short. Bradley's grounder was handled by Miller, making two out, with White on third, Pippin flied to Edwards in center for the third out. One hit, no runs, no errors.

SECOND INNING
Clark drew a base on balls, Thomas drug one down the first base line for an infield hit. Bennett doubled to left center scoring Clark. Jones was retired, pitcher to first. Duncan's hit scored Bennett and Thomas. White singled and Craig whiffed, while Bradley ended things when his pop fly was taken by Miller. Four hits, 3 runs and no errors.

THIRD INNING
Pippin doubled to right, Clark singled to center, scoring Pippin; Aldridge replaced Hall on the mound for Littlefield.

FOURTH INNING
Craig got a bingle over short. Advanced to second on a pass ball. Bradley popped to Miller. Pippin hit to center for one base and Craig scored. Clark's fly was taken by Edwards, Aldridge handled a roller to retire Thomas.

FIFTH INNING
Bennett went out second to first. Jones safe on Miller's hobble. Duncan took a third strike. White hit to right scoring Jones. Craig whiffed. One run, one hit and one error.

SIXTH INNING
Ballard threw out Bradley at first, Pippin fluked a hit off his thumb to rightfield. Craig forced Pippin at second and Clark went out Ballard to Hanks. No runs, one hit and no errors.

SEVENTH INNING
Bennett got a bingle through short-field. Jones singled to right. Duncan whiffed. White forced Jones out at second. White was caught in pickle between first and second for the third out. One hit, no runs, and no errors.

EIGHTH INNING
Craig, popped to short. Bradley fanned, Pippin doubled to left. Clark flied out to center. No runs, one hit and no errors.

NINTH INNING

AMHERST HAS WON OVER HOME TEAM TWICE

Littlefield Will Try To Win After Taking It On The Chin Lately

A good share of the population of Amherst is expected in Littlefield Friday night of this week when the highly touted Amherst team comes here to continue their winning streak over the Littlefield Panthers.

The two teams tangled twice last week and Littlefield was rolled in the dust both times. They will be out to avenge their lickings Friday night beyond all doubt.

The Littlefield boys claim that Amherst hired a good share of the Phillips "66" team of Amarillo to play with them but no one will admit this so to date it has only been a verbal battle.

The game will start in the Littlefield ball park Friday night at 8 p. m. and plenty of action should be the keynote.

FIRST BAPTIST REVIVAL DRAWS LARGE CROWDS

Rev. Willis J. Ray, pastor of the First Baptist church, who is conducting a two weeks open air revival on the lawn by the church building, which began Sunday morning with services at 10 a. m. and 8:30 p. m., announced Wednesday that they are having record crowds, and that the attendance is increasing with each meeting.

Rev. Ray stated they were working and looking toward a great revival, and are expecting three hundred in attendance at Sunday school next Sunday.

H. W. Minor, Jr. of Pampa is leading the singing, and has a choir of 50 voices, and urges all singers to join the choir.

Mr. Minor conducted the opening service at the church Sunday morning, and gave a very splendid address. Numbers of the congregation spoke in very complimentary terms of his message.

The PENTHOUSE MURDER

by Caleb Johnson

THIRD INSTALLMENT

SYNOPSIS: A card game is in session in Elmer Henderson's penthouse atop a New York skyscraper. The players are: Henderson, Police Inspector, Flaherty, Martin Frazier, Archie Doane, Max Michaelis, and his friend Williams, a stockbroker.

They are waiting for Stephen Fitzgerald. When he fails to appear a telephone call brings the information that he is out with a girl. Fitzgerald and Henderson are both romantically interested in Lydia Lane, the famous actress, but Archie Doane reveals that she is engaged to marry him.

Doane leaves the party early when Fitzgerald fails to appear. A short time later he telephones Inspector Flaherty with the frantic news that he has found Fitzgerald and Miss Lane dead in Lydia Lane's penthouse apartment.

"I wish you'd phone me, Frazier, as soon as you find out more about it," Henderson requested. "You understand my curiosity? Will you let me know? I'll be waiting for word from you."

"I'll do that gladly, old man, I'll tell you as much as Dan Flaherty will let me tell. He's the boss."

"That's all right," grunted the policeman. "We'll give you a ring. Come on, Max. Come on, Frazier. Going now, Mr. Williams, or staying here?"

They had settled their poker winnings and losses while waiting, and all moved toward the elevator. Williams glanced again at Henderson.

"You're sure you don't want me to stay with you?" he asked.

"Sure," replied Henderson forcing a smile. "You're good to offer it."

"By the way, Mr. Henderson, have you got a flask, or can you spare a bottle of that Scotch?" asked Max Michaelis. "Archie may need it, I would, in his situation."

"Certainly. Take this bottle. It's nearly full," said the inventor.

Warned by Inspector Flaherty, the little group of four said nothing about their errand in the presence of the night elevator man and doorman of the Highhart Building. Williams said good night at the door and started off on foot, through the three inches of fluffy snow. The others had but a few minutes to wait before a big sedan with the Police Department shield on the radiator and a brass-buttoned policeman driving, pulled up before the door. Not until they were inside the car did any of them speak.

Dan Flaherty was first to break the silence.

"This looks like a tough case, Max," he said. "Sort of thing makes a policeman wish he didn't have any friends."

"Jumping to conclusions, Dan, as usual?" asked Michaelis. "You talk as if you thought Archie did it."

"Suppose he did," retorted the Inspector. "I've got to bear down on him harder than I would if I'd minutes to get here, to look around, and been talking to Miss Lane out eleven o'clock. She's alive then. If the 'ribble' which she said was the shooting of Fitzgerald, that must have occurred that. It's a quarter of whatever happened occurred within the last minutes."

"If he's telling the truth," ed Dan Flaherty.

"I can't make any statement," replied Michaelis.

"One thing we've got to remember," said Martin Frazier, "the car pulled up in front of 213 West Fifty-ninth, in the Doane is an actor. A trained to simulate emotion. He does not feel to what at will."

"A point well taken, but set by the fact that when feel emotions he has difficulty in hiding them," commented Michaelis. "We have only to this evening to realize this."

Another Police Department was standing at the curb of the converted dwelling in Lydia Lane had her apartment a uniformed policeman, at the door, saluted Inspector Flaherty as he and his two companions alighted.

"Medical examiner got here asked the inspector.

"Five minutes ago, with plain-clothesmen," replied the ceman.

"Is this the only entrance building?"

"Except the trap door from cellar, and that's right here."

"Where's the Medical Examiner? What does he say?"

never known him; the best I can do I'll be accused of trying to shield a friend."

"I get you," agreed Michaelis, "but let me remind you that his calling you up was the act of an innocent man. He didn't have to do it. For all we know now, he could have slipped away and said nothing."

"But his asking for you is the act of a man who realizes that circumstances look bad for him," countered Dan Flaherty.

"Agreed," said Max Michaelis. "And I realize your position, Dan." "I don't need to tell you that I'll play fair in anything relating to Archie," growled the Inspector, "and I'll be glad to have your help, Max. You know that."

"Even then, we've got a personal interest, all of us, in finding out who killed Rita," Max Michaelis reminded them. "Our first concern must be for the living, but we must not forget our duty to avenge the dead."

"All right, Dan, I wish you'd tell me just what Archie said to you over the phone," Max Michaelis responded, as the car halted for the stream of after-theatre traffic going up Seventh Avenue into Central Park, its progress slowed up by the fleet of scrapers and trucks of the snow-removal gang, already on the job. "What's the starting point? How did he come to be at Miss Lane's rooms? Did he explain that?"

"Yes," replied the Inspector. "He said that he went to his own rooms when he left the game and had been there only a few minutes when his telephone rang and Miss Lane, apparently greatly excited, asked him to come at once. Something terrible had happened, she said. He got no answer at her door. Got in through some sort of back entrance — he knew his way about there — and found Fritz and the girl both dead — shot."

One of these doors opened as he spoke and the Medical Examiner himself came out. He reached for the telephone on a stand between the doors.
 "The girl's alive!" he said. "I'm going to call an ambulance."
 The penthouse apartment in which Lydia Lane lived consisted of a large studio on the north front of the building, overlooking Central Park, a smaller but still commodious bedroom on the southerly side, connected with the studio both through the entrance foyer and by a dressing room which opened into both rooms, off which was a bathroom. Also opening off the foyer, at the rear, was a little kitchenette with a tiny room for a maidservant adjoining.
 At the front, the structure, really a bungalow built on the roof, was set back some six or seven feet from the cornice, making a little roof garden on which French doors gave entrance. At the rear there was a much larger roof expansion, running back perhaps twenty-five feet, where an L-shaped extension had been constructed. The windows of the bedroom, the kitchenette and the maid's room opened upon this part of the roof, and there was another French door leading from the bedroom directly to the roof.
 To give the janitor access to the roof and as a means of exit for tenants below in case of fire, another door, on the opposite side of the elevator shaft, opened from the elevator and stair landing on to a narrow passage which led also to the rear roof garden of Miss Lane's apartment. And up the side of the elevator shaft ran a vertical iron ladder, for the use of workmen in making repairs to the elevator machinery or the roof of the penthouse itself. At the rear of the roof extension which formed Miss Lane's roof garden an iron fire escape ladder led down to a courtyard.
 There were windows only on the front and back of the apartment. On both sides the building was hemmed in by the windowless side walls of the adjoining structures, which rose fifty feet or more above the roof of the little house.
 All of this was not, of course, immediately clear to Inspector Flaherty and his companions. Their first concern was with the facts, and with Archie Doane.
 They followed Detective Marinelli into the bedroom while the Medical Examiner was telephoning to Roosevelt Hospital.
 Smoke from the police camera man's flashlight was oozing out of a window which had been lowered from the top, and the first sensation of the new arrivals was the acrid odor of magnesium powder.
 Stretched on a chaise lounge in the farther corner of the room lay the body of Lydia Lane. She was attired in a flowered silk kimono, which had been partly pulled or thrown aside, revealing the dainty silken lingerie beneath.

 The face whose pure profile had made her the darling of the screen was as beautiful in its white waxiness as when the pulses of life had colored it. Her boyishly cropped golden hair seemed dark by contrast.
 One bare arm hung limply over the edge of the couch, its whiteness marred by a dark streak which began at a blue-bordered hole midway between elbow and shoulder and coursed down to the ends of the tapering fingers which touched, it seemed almost caressingly, the face of the man who lay on the floor in a crumpled, disorderly heap.

CAMPAIGN STAGED TO RID TEXAS OF ILLICIT AND SPURIOUS ADVERTISING BY SHERIFF'S ASSOCIATION OF TEXAS

A campaign to rid Texas of illicit and spurious advertising is being sponsored by the Sheriff's Association of Texas, and Sheriff's, Police and other peace officers, with the Better Business Bureau, Chambers of Commerce and Retail Merchants Association cooperating.

In a letter of warning being sent out to all cities by the Sheriff's Association of Texas, the following appears:

- "Whenever a solicitor calls on you to sell you advertising: (1) "Examine his credentials. (2) "Investigate him and the publication he represents. (3) "Insist on knowing what he represents. (4) "The street address of the headquarters of his publication or association. (5) "Who its officers are. (6) "How often the magazine is published. (7) "Just what becomes of the money you might pay him for advertising. (8) "Check up on him through your local organization. "If he is a bona fide salesman, representing an accredited and official magazine, he will welcome such action. If he is a fake, he will probably beat a hasty retreat.

"We ask you to take this precaution in the interest of law enforcement and also to save yourself from being bilked by the many "fakers" who are now, and have in the past, reaped an illicit harvest from Texas business men with no return to you for the investment made. Keep in touch with your Chamber of Commerce, Better Business Bureau, Retail Merchants Association—consult the secretaries of these organizations before buying advertising from these salesmen.

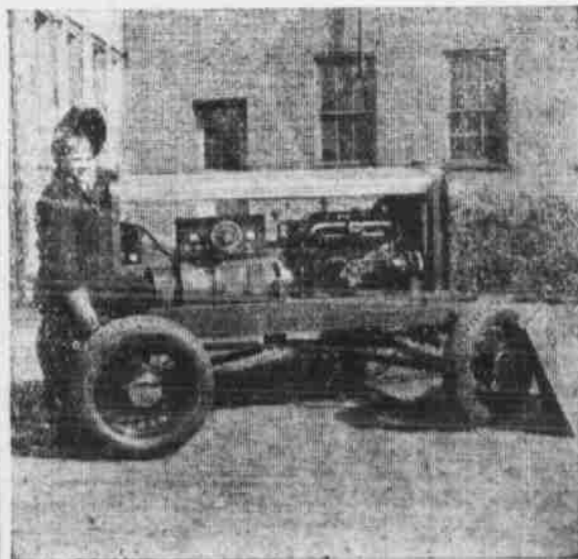

"When a solicitor calls on you selling advertising, demand his credentials for your protection. "Investigate before you invest—read before you sign—and then keep a copy.

"Yours truly, "Sheriff, Bee County, "President, Sheriff's Ass'n of Texas."

LARGE NUMBER ATTEND C. OF C. LUNCHEON MEET

Talks Made On Several Matters Of Importance

Several matters of interest were discussed at the monthly luncheon meeting of the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce Tuesday noon, when a good attendance were present at the meeting, which was presided over by Homer Hall, president.

Special Number on Program
As a special feature of the program, Miss Thelma Crockett gave a couple of numbers on her accordion, which was much appreciated by the group.

Reports On Finances
Following the luncheon J. W. Keithley reported regarding finances, stating that the treasurer needed additional funds with which to carry on, and suggested that more members be contacted to assist in a financial way.

Highway Ass'n Formed
Glenn Burgess, Secretary, reported on the organization of Highway No. 51 Association, which took place at the Dimmitt meeting, stating that the members of this body would go to Austin Friday of this week to confer with state officials, saying—"everything in the next few years hinges on our highway construction."

Elms Speaks On Fair
"What the Fair will mean to Littlefield," was the subject of an address by J. C. Elms, stating among other things that it would give the merchants of this city an opportunity to demonstrate the good service they are capable of rendering the trade territory.

Discusses Adv. Committee
Dr. Ira E. Woods discussed the many advertising schemes that are often promoted by strangers in Littlefield, and suggested that the Chamber of Commerce appoint an advertising committee to pass on such, when and as they develop. He brought out the suggestion that with an active committee in this regard, the merchants, when approached by some out of town promoter, should require that the party selling the advertising have the project first Oked by the committee, and stated that in this way the business establishments would be protected.

Garlington Addresses Meeting
J. O. Garlington also addressed the gathering, bringing out the fact that sometime ago such a committee was appointed and active, which was composed of Mr. Garlington, R. T. Budger, L. B. Stone and Morley B. Drake, and that much good was done through the service of this group.

Mr. Burgess also spoke briefly on his experience in Gonzales, stating that he knew several cases where collections were made there by persons claiming to be maimed, when upon investigation, it was found they were not worthy cases.

Says Good Business Town
Rev. Willis J. Ray also addressed the gathering, stating that "as I travel about, I found three towns in this section recognized as good business towns and these are—Brownfield, Lamesa and Littlefield." He said he believed that such an advertising committee would be an asset to the business men.

Discusses Highway Matters
J. H. Hilliard spoke on the North and South road, stating that the highway committee should get busy and secure a date with the State Highway Department and secure a project to connect the road leading from the Herring Spring to Highway 28. He said that Spring Lake and communities in that district would come here to trade, if we could get a good highway through.

F. O. Boles reported that all schools in Lamb county were now fully accredited.

lity, and the up-to-date service extended by the local establishments to the trade.

A suitable location has been suggested as the field just east and south of the ball park, believed owned by the Santa Fe Railway, and large tents will be used to house the exhibits.

A large premium list has been worked out, and fair catalogues will be mailed to each farmer in Lamb county.

Exhibit space will be sold to all business establishments wishing to have a booth at the Fair.

All school children in Lamb and adjoining counties will be admitted free first day of the Fair, which will be September 23, when a number of big free attractions will be staged, and which will be opened by plenty of band music.

The attractions of the Fair will include high-class carnival, amateur contest, old fiddlers' contest with several money premiums, rodeo, individual, school and agricultural, soil conservation exhibits, as well as livestock, poultry and flowers.

Those exhibiting at the Lamb county Fair will have the privilege of taking exhibits later to Lubbock Fair if they wish.

In discussing Tuesday night the possibility of staging a big fair with the manager of the Fair association, he said: "the committee members are all working . . . they are really going to put it over good." So now folks, farmers, merchants and everyone, let us render every assistance possible to this Fair organization, and when they call on us for help . . . whether it be to buy a space at the Fair . . . take tickets at the gate . . . judge the livestock . . . or any of the many things we can do to help, just let us cooperate in making this second annual Fair . . . Lamb county's Greatest Event!

for the game. He says some of the donkeys are plenty wild and spills will take place about every ten seconds.

Billy Hall, county attorney, has been secured to umpire but it is not known if Hall will be astride a donkey or not. The man who will bring the donkeys for the game says he has ordered a donkey big enough for Hall and it is hoped by local ball fans that the "large size" donkey will be here so Hall can be one of the Northwest Mounted.

Spills, Thrills and plenty of action is promised here the night of August 13 at 8 p. m. when the two teams take the field on the backs of the donkeys and play the entire game so mounted.

State Planning—
