Top Students At LHS Named

At Honor Festival IN ALL OF LITTLEFIELD Gee...Only 1 Store

Public relations men claim any kind of publicity is good publicity, and that's just about the kind of publicity Littlefield got last week, thanks to a Dallas newscast after the tornado that bounced across the city.

According to a newscast in Big D, Littlefield, a town of 8,000 plus, has one store.

The "publicity" came to the attention of Jim Joyner, Chamber of Commerce president, through a letter from Joe Wilson, a former resident who is now vice president of the First National Bank in Plainview.

The text of Wilson's letter to Joyner reads: "I was very sorry to hear about the high wind that damaged Littlefield last week. I was in Dallas and heard on the newscast the following story: 'High winds struck the Littlefield area this evening and blew THE windows out of THE store there.'"

A businessman in a town of this size should have such a monopoly?

Littlefield Man Wounded By VC

The war in Vietnam claimed another casualty from Lamb County recently when Lance Cpl. Romeo Sierra, 19-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ramon Sierra of Littlefield, was wounded.

The soldier's parents were notified by Gen. Wallace M. Green, Jr., Commandant of the U.S. Marine Corps., that Cpl. Sierra was injured April 5, in the vicinity of Quang Ngai.

He sustained fragmentation wounds to the right hand, right elbow and lacerations of the abdomen from a hostile explosive device while on an operation.

Cpl. Sierra is presently receiving treatment at the First Medical Battalion where his condition is good.

Sierra has lived in Littlefield most of his life.

Feagley Is Named Region 'Comeback Farmer Of Year'

Johnnie Lee Feagley, Lamb County "Comeback Farmer of the Year," was chosen "Comeback Farmer of the Year" in Region 1 of the 22nd annual Save the Soil and Save Texas conservation awards program sponsored by the Fort Worth Press.

The region encompasses 51 counties in the Panhandle and South Plains. Feagley earned the honor after accomplished results with his formerly run-down farm near the Rocky Ford community north of Littlefield.

Feagley brought his farm from an eroded, weed grown area to a producing farm by the application of conservation and diversification.

The production of a wide variety of crops such as cotton, small grains, grass, grain sorghum, forage sorghum, and corn illustrate Feagley's diversification methods. In addition his family produces their own poultry and fruits and vegetables. He is also involved in a program of cattle and hog production.

Feagley will be among those honored at the regional awards banquet May 19 in Pampa.

FARMERS AND CHAMBER They Need Each Other

Why should a farmer be interested in the planning, the chamber can get the work done.

Proof that Littlefield's and Lamb County's economy rests on the fate of agriculture is seen in the value of the crops here.

Agriculture in Lamb County is an industry that features 5,200 irrigation wells, 188,163 acres of cotton, 240,000 acres of grain sorghum, 15,000 acres of soybeans and 8,700 acres of wheat. Total value of the crops are in excess of $36,000,000.

Then kick in more than $22,000,000 each year for payments on diversion.

So much for the land. But now consider the livestock industry here, where the gross income is $5,510,000 per year. Then, Plains Egg Producers, another Littlefield-based agricultural asset adds more to the economy.

As Jim Joyner, president of the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce, put it: "Everything here depends on agriculture, and we might as well face it."

"As a team, the businessmen and farmers could join their ideas and resources and do great things. If the chamber could get enough members, they could give their ideas and let the town men put them to work."

Dival is so interested in getting more farmers into the chamber that he may propose a change in the organization's name.

"At the next board of directors meeting of the chamber it may be well to propose changing the name to Littlefield Chamber of Commerce and Agriculture. We are both interested in the same thing, and that would identify us more closely," he said.

Federal $$ Are Force In County

How great an influence do Federal dollars have in the operation of the Lamb County government?

How much of the money needs of the local area -- for roads, schools, police and fire protection, welfare and the like -- come from this source? Approximately $1,175,000, it is estimated.

Broad studies made by the Tax Foundation, the Department of Commerce and the National Industrial Conference Board show that city and county governments in Texas, as well as in most other parts of the country, rely heavily on Federal funds.

This is based upon a breakdown of the total revenues of each state and its localities and a determination of the sources of these revenues. It assumes that there is an equitable distribution within the state of the money received from the government.

The figures show that approximately 15.4 cents out of every dollar of revenue available to Lamb County to carry on its functions and provide necessary services comes from Washington, directly or indirectly.

In the State of Texas, the total receipts of all levels of government, state and local, in fiscal year 1965 averaged $324 per resident, the Commerce Department reports.

Of this amount, $50 are listed as coming from Federal funds, $93 from property taxes, $114 from other taxes and $67 from special assessments, tolls and miscellaneous charges.

There is considerable variation, from state to state, in the size of these Federal grants. The smallest amount, $32 per capita, goes to New Jersey. Except for Alaska, the biggest beneficiary is Wyoming, with $234 per capita. The national average is $57.

The Tax Foundation contends that the growing size and complexity of grants made by greater to lesser governmental bodies poses a threat to the fiscal well-being and independence of the smaller units, which must depend on the higher government's largesse.

State and local governments need and feel compelled to accept Federal funds when obtainable, even though they may have to modify their operations to meet Federal requirements.

Despite this, local communities have had to turn more and more to Federal and state sources for money, it is noted, "because their own effective power to raise the necessary revenue has lagged."

AMY'S ADLIBS

Hello, Tree

By Amy Turner

SOME PEOPLE have it and some don't. And I am definitely one of the "have nots" when it comes to that illustrious, illusive green thumb.

Try as I may, I just never seem to have any luck growing things...children excepted. So I have come to the conclusion that that's just what it is...luck...and I was not exactly born unlucky but maybe the stars weren't right or something.

I have tried just about every type of house plant imaginable and, although the results are not exactly the same, the outcome is predictable.

Some turn yellow, some turn brown, some develop the droopy, some shrivel and some just plain take one look at me and drop dead.

I READ a magazine article recently that explained the whole situation. It seems the proper thing to do is to talk to plants.

Well, I must admit that's one I haven't tried and, to be perfectly honest, I have no intention of doing so.

Not that I would mind talking to the plants. The idea rather presents a challenge but the problem would come in explaining it.

I have enough trouble, already yet, explaining what I just do normally without adding this little jewel.

And I am fairly certain that there are very few people who would understand about such an unusual conversation partner. In fact, I doubt they would ever even THINK of it.

THERE ARE those, however, who just seem to have a special talent with plants. Take my mother-in-law, for example.

Her home is a profusion of beautiful, green growing somethings. (Maybe that's my problem, I can never remember the names of any of them.)

This charming lady...mother-in-law, or no, she really is...can take a leaf, a stick or just any old thing, plunge it in some water or some dirt, sprinkle on a little fairy dust, stomp her left foot three times, spit over her right shoulder and PRESTO... one 40-ft. house plant.

Well, it's not exactly like that, but it just SEEMS that way.

She has given me any number of perfectly healthy, glowing, gleaming plants which I have carefully transported home, cared for lovingly and then...buried.

AT PRESENT, we're having a real guessing game around our house and I'm taking wagers on what all those things coming up in the yard are going to turn out to be.

We're having a special ball with the fruit trees. At least, I think they're fruit trees since they look like what I think any decent, respectable fruit tree ought to look like.

There's one that just has to be either a peach or an apricot and I can hardly wait to take that first bite to find out what we're going to be eating this summer.

There are two others that I can't quite figure out because they look so much alike and, yet, they don't. Maybe they're first cousins or something.

There is one other tree that I really can't make too much comment about since it is still in bloom and the bees and I definitely disagree as to why I am snooping around.

MAYBE I should take that suggestion from the magazine and just walk right up and ask them what they are.

"Mr. Tree, just what are you, anyway?" But that sounds so rude that they probably would disdain to even answer me and, besides, the neighbors might be listening.

I can't help but wonder, though, if this isn't my mother-in-law's real secret. Maybe she talks to those things when I'm not around.

This makes a lot of sense, really, because I know that if I were going to talk to any plants, I would most certainly do it when there was no one around.

But, then, I suppose I'll just wait and see since I never have been very good at conversation and long silences always did bother me.

OWNER'S REPORT

Thieves And Liars

By Bill Turner

LAST YEAR there was a cultural exchange between the United States and Soviet Russia involving newspapers and newspapermen.

It was initiated by the Soviets who sent a delegation to this country early in the year. Then a delegation of US newspapermen visited the USSR during the summer. Their report was recently made public by the American Newspaper Publishers Association, and an interesting statement it is.

By American standards, Soviet printing equipment is antiquated. Even the Moscow edition of Pravda, the nation's largest newspaper, is run off in a plant that is decades past its prime. But the government runs the presses, and its runs them with typical bureaucratic inefficiency.

There are shortages of newsprint and other necessities, naturally. Salaries are low, except for reporters and editors who command a premium as propagandists for the government. While there are trade unions, their role may be judged from the report's one-line comment: "Strikes, of course, are unknown."

WE WERE especially interested in the following, which is most appropriate for this page:

"What about editorials in Russian newspapers?"

"We had difficulty getting this question passed through our hard working interpreter, of getting it understood by our Russian counterparts, and getting their answers back.

"We had difficulty on the question of editorials and a number of other questions. The words simply didn't mean the same by the time they had gone through so many hands. And, keep in mind, we were all professionals picking each others' minds with good will and strenuous effort for understanding.

"SOME PAPERS use editorials. Some are signed and some aren't. Many papers have signed columns -- Walter Lippman's, as it were.

"No paper has what we would call an editorial page. I think it is fair to say that all papers editorialize in their news columns. Or else."

There was one other thing that intrigued us, an interesting commentary on friendship, Communist style. Here's how the report put it:

"... In fact, the fellowship and mutual regard flowed as freely as the vodka. And that's freely. While we were toasting, I even ran off its evening edition featuring on the front page a lead story denouncing the American press as 'thieves' and 'liars'."

PAUL HARVEY SAYS

Stops At Waters' Edge

"At least, you can bet Lyndon will know how to horse-trade with the Russians." I heard that and similar expressions so many times following the '60 election. Even home-staters who had remembered the election hanky-panky in Paar County -- who had resented the LBJ way of promoting his personal businesses from his public offices -- figured that maybe we needed some enlightened selfishness in dealing with the rest of the world.

"When those Commies get up from the conference table from now on, they'd better count the fillings in their teeth!"

It didn't work that way. The Senate Majority Leader who had been so adept at converting political opponents in the Capitol cloakroom has appeared a babe in the wilderness of international affairs.

In domestic matters, his customary dexterity is recognizable. He has hewed to the Democrat Party line of a caretaker Big Government taking care of its children. This is hardly the "government by the people" which once characterized our republic, but it is a "government of the people" inasmuch as we got what we voted for.

It is in dealing with other nations that President Johnson has been conspicuously ineffectual. The French threw us out. The British aid our enemies. And even in hard-bargaining with Latin America, we got the short end of the stick.

This President's domestic policies are sufficiently liberal to satisfy even the so-called "Harvard crowd." Though they don't really talk the same language, they share the Big Government philosophy.

But President Johnson, in such matters as Vietnam -- is influenced by the same timidity which caused the Bay of Pigs invasion to abort. It is generally conceded that Adlai Stevenson convinced JFK that we must withdraw our air support, thus dooming that effort to disaster.

Presently the same "Harvard influence" -- and I am using that phrase because it has come to be identified with an otherwise nameless ultra-liberalism -- is restraining our President from more effectively bombing our enemies in Vietnam.

The President is caught in a terrible tug-of-war between his military advisers and "the Harvard crowd."

In Congress, LBJ was a master gettalonger. In the White House, trying to please all factions -- desperately desirous of being loved by everybody -- inhibits whatever facility he has for decision making.

Every day I care less whether we drive it or park it in Vietnam. The history of appeasement suggests to me that we should let our military men bring this conflict to a swift and decisive conclusion.

But I also comprehend the Harvardian position -- that Vietnam is none of our business.

For President Johnson to follow the advice from either side would be more to our advantage than his presently unbecoming and cruel posture.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

A Quiet Mind

BY BOB WEAR

It would be unrealistic to suggest that peace of mind is easy to come by in the world of today. There are enough happenings during any one day to disturb most anyone. With international turmoil, domestic problems and difficulties, and social upheavals on all sides, it is difficult to be quiet in mind. Many people, the majority perhaps, assume that this very badly needed personal tranquility is impossible. There seems to be a general feeling that we human beings are the helpless victims of a harsh and cruel fate.

Most of us are seeking peace of mind. We try to buy it, we seek it through academic pursuits, we try social climbing, we make concessions, we compromise our principles, we run to and fro, and do just about everything we are able to do in our search for inner calmness and peace. Since none of these ways are effective, many folk do not know what else to do; and this hopeless feeling adds to their distress and their disquietude. In this condition of life, there is gradual erosion of the basic qualities so important in each individual's life. When this happens, the person's general condition gradually deteriorates, and discouragement and despair become daily handicaps in the life experience.

In our search for quiet minds, we must not depend upon improvement in world, national, domestic or social conditions. Success in finding inner peace is not dependent upon externals. This also means that the blessing we seek is not a fruit of material success. The fact is that peace of mind is not from without, but is from within and exists, if it does at all, in spite of one's environment. There is good reason to believe that we can learn to be calm even in the midst of the turmoil of modern-day living.

This desirable state of being can be developed and cultivated if we will be honest, intelligent and diligent in our efforts to do so. It is possible for us to cope with the necessary and important activities of daily living with a serenity and poise that will make our lives joyful; and help us to be a source of strength and encouragement to those with whom we are associated.

We think that Robt. Louis Stevenson has given us a very good comparison in the following: "Quiet minds cannot be perplexed or frightened; but go on in fortune or misfortune at their own private pace like a clock in a thunderstorm." Looking back to our childhood, we can remember the unhurried ticking and peaceful chiming of the old clock on the mantelpiece while the storm raged in the night. Now, that my parents are dead, I have this same old clock in my home and these memories are renewed daily. I often see people whose stability and calmness remind me of the clock undisturbed by the storm. They remain calm and of quiet mind, and, to some extent, make life seem less feverish.

Someone has said, "To really weather life's storms stay calm." When our trust is properly placed, and our souls properly set, the strain and stress of modern life will lose much of their destructive power.

Our Creator says, "Be still and know that I am God."

CAPITOL COMMENTS

Money, Time, No Riots

By Larry Fuhrmann

Our State Capitol Correspondent

The "Black Power" movement in the United States -- the movement intended to stir Negroes into a powerful, forceful and rebellious organization -- may be achieving some of the goals it has set up for itself. Particularly the goal of gaining publicity and inciting people into spur-of-the-moment rebelliousness.

Those civil rights workers who in the past have been so willing to give of their time, money and effort find their feet dragging when black power takes over. They don't care to be there when the Molotov cocktails are thrown and the riots begin.

"The educated populace should consider itself fortunate," says one college professor. "For too long, we have had to confine our laughter to only one set of racial bigots. Now, the Black Power crowd has offered us an alternative choice.

"In joining the democratically hypocritical in gutter fighting, they have denied the issue deeper social and philosophical meaning. Thus, they mistake etching eternal verities on stone tablets with chalking dirty slogans on sidewalks."

Stokely Carmichael, well-known Black Power leader, claims the only solution to the racial problem is to abolish it.

Perhaps this is true; but Carmichael's actions are creating enough hate to forestall any solutions for some time. He cuts down civil rights workers by proclaiming, "If one listens to some of the moderate Negro leaders, he would think the Negroes want to be abolished."

As national chairman of the Student Non-Violent Coordinating Committee, Carmichael says the Negro's strike against "white imperialism" lay in organization. The "white racist press" is responsible for unfair reporting of the Black Power movement, he believes -- but if someone can find a way to make Carmichael's words look good on paper, perhaps that can be changed.

Unless the Negro race is organized independently of other groups, it will be pushed around, Carmichael asserts. "Then if they throw us out, we can destroy them."

This Black Power leader claims to be opposed to violence. But his statements are ones that create the riot, that set blood to boiling before time has been given a chance to have its usual rational effect.

The Negro's independence, he says, will not only show his strength, but it will also make it difficult for the white community to talk of prestige and patronism to a few select Negroes.

Stokely Carmichael is opposed to violence; yet he has publicly urged Negroes to burn down the Nation's Capitol if they don't get home rule. In Harlem, he has said that dynamite will have to be used for destructive purposes if the Molotov cocktails aren't powerful enough.

"In choosing sensational evangelism rather than humanitarian reason, Black Power leaders gather a following of the emotional and ignorant. But they also lose their power of influence, and alienate the rational, lawful, and mature," asserts an educator. "In their youthful naivete, the Black Power herd are having fun, getting rich, and gaining notoriety at the expense of historically important social issues."

Before Carmichael's speech on the University of Texas campus at Austin, the Negro Association for Progress staged a rally with some 300 students, both black and white, participating; the demonstration was planned to promote spontaneous audience participation in the expression of grievances. Several Negro students voiced complaints and disapprovements in the supposedly integrated school; needless to say, their grievances will receive no attention whatsoever.

Stirring the group was Lee Otis Johnson of Houston, who has been closely associated with Carmichael. Johnson says the Negro need not accept "gifts" from the white man -- but that he should reach out and take what is justifiably his. He has to elevate himself to the same place as his white "cousin."

The cause of human rights is something to die for, Johnson reminded the students gathered. "If you don't have something to die for, then what are you living for?"

The Upper Room

"These are the men who have turned the world upside down and have now come here." (Acts 17:6, Phillips)

In a yacht harbor near Chicago there is a sign with these words: "Cause no wake." This means that boat pilots must go slowly so that hardly a ripple will be made in the water behind their boats. Those who use the harbor must not disturb the serenity of the situation.

This is a good rule for the harbor. But there are many people who seem to have adopted it as a philosophy of life. They believe in keeping things as they are -- never disturbing the status quo. They believe in keeping their privilege to themselves, sharing with no one. Christians are about as guilty of this attitude as anyone else.

Early Christians turned their world upside down. Today some things in our world need to be explored, changed, and improved. "Cause no wake" is a good sign for the harbor but it would be a tragedy for any Christian or any church to obey such a sign in living the faith.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY: Christians need to be among those who act, not merely react. --Jesse H. Roberts (Illinois) Copyright--THE UPPER ROOM

The Countrywoman

By LIBBY MUDGETT

She watches the billowing tops of the boiling clouds of an approaching storm.

She sees the lightning and silently counts until she hears the rumble of thunder and judges the cloud's distance and rate of speed.

And the thought crosses her mind how much simpler life would be if one could always see it's storms coming and closely predict the time of their arrival.

She walks in the sandhills after a great windstorm and finds an arrowhead and a broken piece of painted pottery. She thinks about the Indian woman who made the pottery and wonders if she knew the Indian man who made the arrowhead and if they loved the land as much as she now does.

She suspects that they did; they fought so long and so hard and so bravely to try to keep it.

National Library Week Credits Hard Work, Service Of Librarians

A clergyman or physician's life is one of the nation get due. That's National Library Week.

There is a lot of talk about the impact of electronics on our lives -- computerization, said C. A. Kührsch, general manager of the product division of the company, manufacturer of the machines used in libraries. "The computer will help, but never the lady behind the desk at your library. Her job is to give you what you need, whether you know exactly what it is you are looking for. And only a librarian can give you that assistance. We can't do it without the librarian," he said.

"She's a combination of an encyclopedia, Swami, a reader, administrator and a relations woman," said Franklin, American inventor and innovator. "She is credited with the father of the public library system. In 1731 he and the Library Company of Philadelphia, forerunner of the public library as we know it."

Libraries have improved the general conversation of the means, made common men and farmers as in the past as most gentlemen of other countries, and perhaps contributed in some way to the stand so generally through the colonies in defense of their privileges," the said Franklin said.

There would dispute his statement, a life insurance plan for the special purpose of paying your final expenses. Call today. Check the low cost and get the full story on Woodmen of the World's outstanding fraternal and social benefits.

Libraries have enriched the minds of generations of Americans, shedding light on the path to progress. The U. S. Office of Education states that there are now more than 7,300 public libraries in the U. S., employing 21,000 persons full time. In addition, there are some 100 librarians in college and university libraries; add to that 13,000 in special libraries. And still there is a shortage of professional librarians.

According to the Special Libraries Association, the special libraries which include state, federal governments, police, industry and others, will need 18,000 more librarians by 1970. Such is the demand for the librarian's Houdini-like talent of coming up with the right thing at the right time.

Pressed by a shortage of trained personnel, plagued by the modern information explosion and beleaguered by the flood of paperwork, the librarians are doing yeoman service in giving their communities access to a wide variety of reading sources for information as well as for enjoyment.

The importance of their efforts is not going unrecognized.

Last September President Lyndon B. Johnson established a committee on libraries "to appraise the role and adequacy of libraries, now and in the future, as centers for the distribution of knowledge and as links in our nation's rapidly evolving communications network."

The committee is charged with developing recommendations for action by the government or private institutions, to ensure an effective and efficient library system for the nation. Its report is due this year.

Federal Land Bank Month Is Proclaimed By Governor

The Federal Land Bank Association were cited by Governor John Connally as he declared April "Federal Land Bank Month." In an Official Memorandum, the Governor praised the Federal Land Bank System and called upon all Texans to pay tribute to those engaged in farming and ranching.

The Federal Land Bank System, encompassing 73 local associations in Texas and 700 associations throughout the United States, is observing its 50th anniversary this year. The anniversary year is dedicated to America's farmers; Providers of Plenty.

The Federal Land Bank Association of Littlefield is participating in the year's activities by recognizing the farmers and ranchers of Lamb County.

April, 1917, marked the beginning of the Federal Land Bank, thus providing the first nationwide means of making private capital investment available to farmers and ranchers so that their holdings could be improved and the productive capacity expanded. The Federal Land Bank of Houston made its first loan on May 22, 1917, and from a modest beginning the 73 local associations today have recorded long term real estate loans of more than $1.1 billion to 185,000 Texans.

The Federal Land Bank of Houston -- which serves all of Texas -- ranks among the leaders in providing long term real estate financing on farms and ranches. The history of the Federal Land Bank of Houston and its 73 associations closely parallels the agricultural growth of Texas, and the dynamics of agriculture are such that great strides are anticipated for the state.

Journey To The Past
 BY EVALYN PARROTTSCOTT

William Northrup (Bill) Humphreys was born in 1887 in Taylor County, Texas. His parents were Mr. and Mrs. William Humphreys and the family moved to Runnels County before Bill entered school. He attended and graduated from the Wingate Public School and attended the Draughton's Business College in Fort Worth. After graduating in 1917 Bill returned to the ranch and his favorite pastime, "Breakin' Broncs".

In the meantime he met the future Mrs. Humphreys, who was Mary Magdalene Taylor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. I.D. Taylor. She was born in 1898 in Bell County near Bartlett, Texas.

Lena attended Bartlett Public Schools until she was forced to withdraw to help take care of six younger brothers.

W.N. Humphreys and Lena Taylor were married April 14, 1917 at Cleburne, Texas. They lived in the Bartlett vicinity and farmed. After hearing of the new frontier in farm land that was opening up on the great Plains of Texas, Bill and his brother came out to have a look-see, and Humphreys bought land and built a two room dwelling and a barn.

Upon completing the buildings Bill returned to gather up the family and belongings and started the journey to the plains in a Model T Ford. The family arrived Christmas Eve Day, 1924 and as they approached their place they saw clouds of smoke in the sky. And, just as they feared, it was coming from their place. When they drew near they saw five men fighting a grass fire trying to save their house and barn. The group was successful and helping with the fire fighting was a young man, W.T. (Toke) Vereen, another area pioneer.

The Vereen farm (where the James Fishers reside now) and the James Brothers Ranch House were the only houses within miles of the Humphreys. Within the next few years, however, several families had moved into the area.

The Humphreys brought to the Plains four children including Arles who married Inula B. Thompson and resides near Amherst. They have four children and nine grandchildren. Dorothy Humphreys, who married Loyd Franklin and lives in Clovis where they are theatre owners. The Franklins have 3 children and 3 grandchildren. John married Edith Nicholson, farms near Sudan, and has 3 sons. Jim Humphreys, the youngest when the family moved here, married Viola Quillet and farms near Amherst. They have two children.

In 1925 the Humphreys built the "Big house" and moved into it. Later the Humphreys were blessed with three more children born after their move to Lamb County.

They are, Roby Loe, who lives in Lubbock and has four children; Raymond, married Artie Jewel Wilson, farms near Amherst and operates the Amherst Variety. They have one son, Carl Don Humphreys, the youngest of the children, married Anna Wilson, and is assistant coach and teacher in the Lorenzo schools.

Living closer to Amherst than Sudan in the early days, the family traded in Amherst as there were no roads, just trails and the route to Sudan was so winding that it added up to several more miles than the present route of 10 1/2 miles.

The Humphreys remember their first trip to Sudan and seeing the old General Store, the

No Danger Of Losing Licenses

Senator Jack Hightower today dispelled rumors that national nurses were in danger of losing their licenses as a bill revoking the state national nursing practice act.

"Nothing could be further from the truth," Senator Hightower said.

"It certainly is not the intention of the authors to revoke the license of any vocational nurse nor put in jeopardy the license of any qualified vocational nurse who has qualified for license under waiver."

The Senator said "spread rumors and misconceptions" about the proposal caused unnecessary apprehension among the state's vocational nurses.

The measure, S. B. 460, proposes seven major changes from the present vocational nursing practice act, including an up-dated definition of a vocational nurse. Senator Coll of Houston is co-sponsor.

Senator Hightower said S. B. 460 and S. B. 363 were designed primarily to provide professional and vocational nurses with an effective, up-to-date practice act.

"Our hope also," Hightower said, "is to see the nursing profession up-graded in order to attract more young women into its ranks."

The Senator said that at present only about 16 out of every 1,000 17-year-old girls in Texas were entering the nursing profession. The national average is 34 per 1,000.

A special report, commissioned a year study of the needs of the nursing profession in the state, was released Monday by a Senate interim committee.

Senators Hightower and Coll were members of the panel appointed by the 59th Legislature.

Texas Traffic Picture In 1966 Gruesome, Costly Sight

1966 traffic costs soared to a new high. There were 3,406 traffic accidents, an increase of 53,984 over 1965. As a result, 3,406 lives were lost in traffic accidents, an increase of 378 over 1965. 208,310 were sent to hospitals, an increase of 22,248 over 1965, some of these injured being maimed for life. Some 890,000 automobiles were damaged or demolished. The economic loss came to an astounding figure of $557,414,000, an increase of $59,327,000 over 1965.

Lamb County's contribution to the 1966 Texas traffic cost was five killed, 59 injured, and an estimated property damage of $82,525.00.

If the 3,406 dead traffic victims were stacked in a pile, the dimensions would be about 3.7 miles in length, or 1.1 miles in width, or .5 of a mile in height. The dimensions of the some 890,000 damaged or demolished vehicles would be about 2,907 miles in length, or 1,113 miles in width, or 852 miles in height. The dimensions for the 208,310 injured would be about 227 miles in length, or 66 miles in width, or 33 miles in height.

Now for a descriptive look at the $557,414,000 estimated economic cost of the traffic accidents. The playing area of a football field measures 300 feet by 160 feet, or 48,000 square feet. United States currency measures about 2 5/8 inches by 6 1/8 inches. If a football field were completely covered with one dollar bills, then a layer of two dollar bills, then a layer of five dollar bills, then a layer of ten dollar bills, then a layer of twenty dollar bills, then a layer of fifty dollar bills, then a layer of one hundred dollar bills, then a layer of five hundred dollar bills and on top of these eight layers of paper money dump 8,806 tons of silver dollars, this would represent the economic loss in Texas for the year 1966.

The $557,414,000 estimated loss would have bought 10,000 homes at $20,000 each; 10,000 refrigerators at $400 each; 10,000 cooking ranges at $350 each; 10,000 TV sets at $350 each; 10,000 dishwashers at $300 each; 10,000 automobiles at $3,000 each; 10,000 central air conditioning units at $1,400 each and furnished the head of each of the 10,000 households with a bank account of $29,941.

If the problem is serious today, what about tomorrow? The state will continue to grow. The population will increase, which means more drivers and automobiles and more miles driven.

If the present problem continues, in Texas by 1975 there will be 1,000,000 traffic accidents resulting in 7,000 persons killed, 500,000 persons injured, and an estimated property damage of over $1,000,000,000.

Journey To The Past

BY EVALYN PARROTT SCOTT

THE FRANK STARK FAMILY John Franklin (Frank) Stark, Jr., son of John Franklin, Sr. (Boston, Ky.) and Martha Woods (Williams) Stark (Randolph County, Mo.), was born Oct. 16th, 1901 at Yates, Mo. The family came to Texas in 1902 and settled in Iowa Park where Frank started to school. In 1911 the family moved to Wilbarger County and settled in the small community of Oklaunion. It was there that the parents, John Franklin, Sr. and Martha Stark died, and they were buried in the Stark family plot at Vernon, Texas. John Franklin (Frank) Stark, Jr. and Bessie Mae Greathouse were married Oct. 17, 1920 at Vernon, Texas.

Bessie Mae, daughter of Paul Early and Mary Elizabeth (Teague) Greathouse was born May 20, 1901 at Cookville, Texas, and her first school was at Lone Star in Titus County. On Oct. 12, 1912 she, with her family, arrived in Oklaunion, Texas. Bess finished school there and was one of the basketball stars along with one of her team mates Eva Jo (Nettles) Doty of Sudan.

Shortly after Bess and Frank were married they resided in Wichita Falls but returned to Oklaunion where their only child, Charles Franklin, was born April 13, 1926. Bess and Frank first arrived in Sudan in 1925 when they helped their brother and sister Joe and Blanche (Greathouse) Stark to settle into new surroundings. After much debate they decided to return to their farming interests in Wilbarger County. After numerous trips to Sudan the family finally made the move in 1936, making their first home on a farm that was part of the old Davis Ranch for a short time. Later they bought a farm from the Furneaux Bros. which was sold after a few years to his brother, Joe Stark, and the family of three moved into town. Frank became engaged in carpentry. He and his brother-in-law, Dee Bernethy, helped construct the brick homes in the Shannon addition. Bess was employed by Claude Wiseman and the late Chock Blanchard.

Charles married Venita Lilly on March 24, 1944 at Sudan. He was inducted into the Army in July, 1944. He took part in several major battles in the South Pacific and was awarded the Purple Heart. Upon returning to the States he was stationed in Seattle, Wash. where he was joined by Venita. Their first child, Charla, was born there March 27, 1947. After Charles was discharged, Venita and Charla moved to Weatherford, Texas, where Charles (Chuck) Franklin, Jr. was born Aug. 5, 1957.

In 1951 Bess and Frank moved to Weatherford where they owned and operated a grocery store until Frank's health forced them to sell in 1958. After traveling for awhile trying to find a suitable climate for his health they moved to Danglerfield, Texas, Feb. 1959, where Frank died May 27, 1959. He was buried in the Stark family plot at Vernon, Texas.

Bess returned to Sudan Jan. 1960 and made her home with her sister, Lula (Greathouse) Bernethy, until she bought her home at 410 Furneaux Ave. from Mrs. F.E. (Edith) Miller of Amarillo, Texas, where she is now residing.

Amarillo Dragway Slates Funny Car Matched Races

The big news in drag racing this week was the announcement by Earnest Walker, president of Amarillo Dragway, of the big NHRA Drag Festival and Open Fuel Meet to be held this Sunday.

According to Walker, there has been much planning and effort put into the preparation of this event.

Featured will be the funny car match races. Kelly Chadwick, "The Flying Professor" of Floydada, Tex., has challenged "The King of the Hill," Gene Snow from Dallas, to a best two out of three matched race.

Chadwick, a Floydada High School teacher, pilots a 1967 Chevy Camaro called "The Wild Thing." Snow's car is a 1966 Dodge Dart named "Rambunctious." It will be Chevrolet against Dodge for the Amarillo Dragway "King of the Hill" title. Both cars have turned in excess of 160 mph in the quarter so this should be an interesting and exciting event.

Also featured will be the Open Fuel Meet between the best 16 low E. T. "AA" fuelers. Competing in this event will be such outstanding drag racing names as "Bearded" Bobby Langley, Vance Hunt, Fred Rowsey, John Wilson, Anderson Bros. & Bailey, Danny Rightsell, Ernie Spickler and many many more. Each car is designed with one thought in mind, and that is to turn the quarter in less than eight seconds elapsed time at a speed in excess of 200 mph.

Walker says the real highlight of the day will be the special exhibition runs by Bill "Maverick" Golden in his famous 1966 Dodge truck called "The Little Red Wagon." This hemi-powered Dodge A-100 does the near impossible as it accelerates through the quarter at such tremendous speeds until 15 foot wheel stands are a standard thing. Golden and the "Little Red Wagon" have been real crowd pleasers throughout the entire nation and have been brought to Amarillo direct from Sun Valley, Calif., just for this drag racing spectacular.

The time trials are slated to get underway at 7, all entries are to be in by 11:30 and final races will start at 2 p.m. The Amarillo Dragway is located 7 miles south of Washington Street in Amarillo.

...Littlefield and the area are agriculture, or some other field, will be the guide. There's no question about it. So, it's going to be a joint effort of both the businessmen and farmers.

...reasons why go back to a statement by F. J. Spencer were published recently in News-Leader. Spencer, one of a lot of folks listen

...ically, a set of eight specific projects have been developed. The biggest one—and the one that will take the longest—has to do with Littlefield's own best asset, AGRICULTURAL PRODUCTIVITY.

...went on to say that cotton is a hard time and it's the best for us to look toward. Then he said: "Again, a diversified agriculture seems to be the long-range bet."

Spencer continued by saying that other opportunities are seen in the areas of agriculture equipment supplies, apparel and garment manufacturing, soil conditioners, commercial and consumer products made from wire, truck farming and livestock feeding. These are all related to agriculture.

Then he said something about if we're going to get any of these things we must try to go the same way.

Spencer closed his remarks by saying: "The next phase of the program calls for much pulling together, IN THE SAME DIRECTION, to present these specific opportunities to specific prospects. If this is done persistently enough, you are bound to get one or more industries to come to town."

The farmers should definitely be interested in getting an industry in here that will use the products they grow. The businessmen are vitally concerned about it because a new industry means new payrolls.

By becoming members of the chamber, farmers could offer ideas in guiding the chamber towards this goal. Then the chamber could use its contacts, resources and organization to achieve the goal.

Ag Improvement To Be Discussed

A year-long study of Texas agriculture will be climaxed at College Station on April 24 when industry leaders and Texas A&M University personnel meet to hear recommendations on how the state's great basic industry can be improved and expanded.

Five task forces have studied all phases of Texas agriculture and will make their reports during the afternoon session. The day-long meeting will be held at the Ramada Inn. Registration begins at 7 a.m.

Soil Stewardship Week Scheduled April 30-May 7

Soil Stewardship Week will be observed April 30-May 7, according to Merrill Brigrance of Olton, chairman of the Lamb County Soil Conservation District.

"This makes 13 years that Soil Conservation Districts have called upon the public to consider the moral responsibility of caring for our natural resources," Brigrance said. "The emphasis for our observance this year is upon the private landowner's responsibility."

"The stewardship of a piece of God's earth calls for a special sense of service," he said. "The landowner knows that the responsibility entrusted to him is unique. How each bit of land is tended affects neighbors near and far. That is one reason why millions of landowners join together and practice soil conservation district programs."

Ministers and laymen who desire assistance in preparing for a soil stewardship observance should contact W. E. Mitchell of Spade, chairman of the local Soil Stewardship Committee.

Mitchell, a member of the SCS district board, was appointed head of the committee by Brigrance.

4-H Boys Enter Cotton Contest

Two Littlefield 4-H Club boys were selected to represent Lamb County in the District 4-H Cotton Contest.

They were Larry Birkelbach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emil Birkelbach, and Terry Ogerly, son of Mr. and Mrs. Rufus Ogerly.

Each boy planted five acres of either dryland or irrigated cotton, and then harvested and processed it. Winners were picked on records, lint production per acre and overall management.

Birkelbach's cotton was on irrigated land and Ogerly's was on dryland.

Their records were sent to Lubbock to compete for district awards.

COTTON TALKS

From Plains Cotton Growers Inc.

20-member Cotton Board adopted tentative regulations governing the collection of $1 a bale from U. S. producers to fund a cotton research and extension program, designating the first buyer as the collector of the assessment.

Regulations were adopted by the Cotton Board on April 7. They will not be final until interested parties have had an opportunity to voice their views and comments and the Secretary of Agriculture has given final approval.

Comments must be filed by April 12 with the Hearing Clerk, 112-A, U. S. Department of Agriculture, Washington, D.C. 20250.

The collecting handler, or buyer, is described in the regulations as any person who purchases a bale of cotton from a producer. This person must make the collection when the producer makes any payment or credit to the producer's account for the cotton, and he is required to give the producer a receipt indicating that assessment has been paid.

The collecting handler will be the ASCS County Office when a loan is tendered to Commonwealth Credit Corporation for a loan except when the person such as a market cooperative advances the value to the producer, in which case the collection responsibility rests with that other person.

Producers who consume domestically or export their own cotton will be considered the collecting handler, and the producer for other eventualities, such as cotton bought from the producer in the field, is also considered.

These first buyers, as designated, will remit their collection to the Cotton Board twice a month along with a report for the period. A separate report will be required of the buyer from each gin, bearing the name and address of all buyers from whom collection was made.

The Cotton Board will either collect or make available the necessary forms for these reports.

The ginner's involvement in the procedure, except when he is also the buyer, is limited to in-session reports and a final report at the end of the season. During active ginning operations, each gin will report to the Cotton Board the cumulative number of bales ginned as of the close of business on July 31, Aug. 15, Aug. 31, Sept. 15, Sept. 30, Oct. 17, Oct. 31, Nov. 15, Nov. 30, Dec. 12, Jan. 15 and Feb. 28.

Within 10 days following the end of its ginning operations each season, but in no event later than Feb. 28, ginners will report an alphabetical list of producer names, addresses, and the number of bales ginned for each.

These reports, too, will carry the gin code number, and will presumably be used as a control check against first buyer reports.

When the regulations have been finally approved by the Secretary, they will have the force of law. Handlers required to make reports will be required to "maintain such books and records as are necessary to verify the reports." It is specified that these records shall be retained by the handler for at least two years beyond July 31 of the year in which they are applicable.

A producer is defined by the regulations as "any person who owns or shares in a cotton crop or the proceeds thereof as landlord, tenant or sharecropper."

Producers may request a refund of the assessment by submitting to the Cotton Board a prescribed form within 90 days after assessment is paid. Where more than one producer is involved refund requests may be filed either separately or jointly, specifying the proportionate shares of all producers.

In all instances the first buyer will give the producer a receipt for payment of the assessment, and this receipt or a copy of it must accompany refund requests as proof of payment. The Cotton Board will be required to make the refund within 60 days from the date it receives a properly executed application.

A complete copy of the proposed rules and regulations may be obtained from Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., Lubbock, or by writing the Cotton Division, Consumer and Marketing Service, USDA, Washington, D.C. 20250.

Figures just received by Plains Cotton Growers, Inc., from the U. S. Bureau of Census reveal a total of 1,278,616 running bales of cotton ginned from the 1966 crop in the 23 High Plains counties represented by PCCG.

This compares with 2,204,897 reported for 1965—a reduction of 42.0 per cent and 926,281 bales.

Two factors joined forces to bring about the big cut. First, acreage planted to cotton in 1966 under the newly initiated cotton program dropped 28.2 per cent from 1965. Then weather, in the form of heavy rains and low temperatures in September and August and a killing freeze in mid-October, accounted for the other 13.9 per cent.

Only one of the 23 counties showed an increase in production. Howard County, on the southern end of the area and almost totally dryland, showed a 23.3 per cent rise from 46,190 bales in 1965 to 56,875 bales last year.

Production cuts in other counties in the area ranged from a low of 12.2 per cent in Dawson to a whopping 65.6 per cent decline in Briscoe.

Cong. Price Lambasts Imports As Big Agriculture Problem

Congressman Bob Price speaking at a Farm Bureau Federation meeting in Spearman Saturday night lambasted imports as one of agriculture's big problems.

The new Panhandle Congressman, a member of the House Agriculture Committee and also a Republican Task Force on Agriculture is a rancher himself and holds a college degree in agriculture.

He said he had introduced bills to restrict dairy imports which increased 300 percent last year and are still going up this year. He blamed imports for low returns to dairy farmers and the recent milk-dumping by a national farm organization.

Another of his bills, Price said, would give either the House or Senate Agriculture Committees authority by resolution to direct the Tariff Commission to conduct hearings and set quotas on any imports determined to be harmful to a domestic industry including beef imports. "Only the President now has this authority," Price added.

"I will introduce a bill next week," Price told the group, "that will amend the Meat Import Act of 1964 to include all cured and canned meats which were not included in that act." "Also," he added, "under my bill, quotas would be applied when imports reached 100 percent of the base formula rather than 110 percent as allowed under the present law."

"Meat imports are now running at an estimated rate of some 960 million pounds for this year which is well above the 905 million base figure. They will have to reach 995 million under the present law before quotas could be imposed by the President and then only to the base figure. If canned and cured meats and lamb, which is exempt, were included the figure would be about 250 million pounds more."

"Total imports of all beef and veal are having a most depressing effect on cattle prices and it is imperative that these loopholes in the law be tightened. Our livestock industry that has survived the ups and downs of the market and droughts and is still unsubsidized is entitled to some reasonable protection from cheaply produced foreign imports."

"Beef imports in January of this year increased more than 51 per cent over the same month the year before."

"Textile imports are wrecking our cotton and wool industries," Price continued. "Senator Dirksen recently made a point of the fallacy of our assistance to developing nations."

"One of the first things we do," the Senator said, "is to furnish the machinery for the new and underdeveloped nations to set up a textile industry to clothe its people. Then the next thing we know they have a surplus and are demanding a part of our domestic market for the products they produce with cheap labor and unsubsidized cotton and wool they buy at world market prices. It doesn't make sense."

"Certainly we must have reciprocal trade but we cannot continue to sell the farmer and rancher down the river in the interest of manufactured products we export to these countries," Price concluded.

1967 Castor Outlook Highly Favorable

A favorable situation confronts Texas castor producers as planting time draws near.

The demand for castor seed is great, says Dr. Raymond D. Brigham, research agronomist at the South Plains Research and Extension Center here.

Only 15 per cent of the 158 million pounds of castor oil consumed in the United States last year were produced in this country, Brigham pointed out.

With the recent breakthrough in the use of castor meal as an economical, high protein livestock feed, increased demands for castor seed should result.

The price situation also presents a favorable front since oil prices were up in 1966 and appeared to be on the increase in early 1967.

Another enticing situation to growers is that this year they are allowed to plant castors on the 20 per cent mandatory diverted feed grain acreage, says the agronomist.

Furthermore, seed producers have a good supply of high yielding castor planting seed available in the form of six hybrids and two varieties. Brigham points out that these firms also will contract with growers to purchase their castor production at a guaranteed price.

Last year's yields in the state's castor producing areas were reduced by 20 to 30 per cent due to unfavorable weather conditions, says the agronomist. The cool, wet weather in late August and early September slowed growth and an early killing frost in mid-October shortened the growing season.

Yields in the Kress area on the top five farms averaged 2,083 pounds per acre while the top four farms in the Plainview area yielded 1,982 pounds per acre. One of the top per acre yields of this area was the 2,368 pounds produced by Jack Rhine of Hale Center. In the Lockney, Muleshoe, Hereford and Dumas areas, yields ranged from 1,800 to 2,000 pounds per acre, reports Brigham.

The state's top yield of 3,150 pounds per acre was produced by Preston Underhill of the Higginbotham community, Gaines County. Near that mark was the 3,000 pounds per acre produced by Stanley Ancinec of Loop, also in Gaines County. Brigham says the primary reason for the higher yields in this county was due to more favorable growing conditions.

According to the agronomist, the dwarf-intermode hybrids produced higher yields than the open pollinated varieties.

Research is continuing at the South Plains Research and Extension Center to find high yielding, disease-resistant hybrids which will increase yields and thus make castors a more profitable crop.

Brigham says that yields could be increased by 10 to 15 per cent if capsule mold diseases were effectively controlled.
