COONSKIN HAIRCUT

COTTAGE HILLS, Ill. (AP)—Lacking money for a coonskin cap Jerry Powell, 10, had his dad give him a special hair cut.

Following Jerry's instructions for a Davy Crockett cut, Powell provided a shaved head with a curled forelock left sprouting above the forehead, and a bristle of hair on the back of the head in the approximate shape of a coontail.

Jerry says he likes it better than a coonskin cap because, "I don't have to take it off when I go to bed at night."

Integration Problems Are Studied

VOLUME 23

LITTLEFIELD, LAMB CO., TEXAS, THURSDAY, JULY 14, 1955.

NUMBER 7.

Seasonal Labor Reaches Peak In Area

The peak of the mid-summer migratory agriculture labor boom appears to be at crest this week, according to businessmen and agricultural observers. The cotton and weed chopping crews are in this area in large numbers, and resultant business increases have been reported by many merchants in Littlefield and over the county generally.

The Texas Employment Commission office in Littlefield reports that early predictions were that about seventeen thousand migratory and transient laborers would be in the four county area in mid-July.

However, hail and storm damage have reduced growing crops in the area, that there now appear to be less than 3,000 choppers working at the present time.

The TEC reports that the valley area is desperately in need of about 11,000 workers in the cotton areas there, but that migratory crews are not inclined to work the valley because of the heat and insects in the Harlingen area.

The TEC also reports that in addition to the migratory crews chopping in the cotton fields, a large number of workers are employed in the onion, potato, and cantaloupe harvests in the counties to the north of Lamb, and northern Lamb county.

Most observers feel that this week is the peak in the number of migratory crews to be working in this area, and that future weeks will see a decrease in their numbers.

Saturday afternoon, downtown Littlefield was crowded with workers and crews as it has not been crowded since last fall during harvest time.

Merchants reported as much as a 20 per cent increase in sales over the previous Saturday, and expect even greater increase this weekend.

City police and Highway Patrols are busy with heavy traffic and minor law violations as a result of the influx of migratory workers, their families, wives, and trucks.

Many of the seasonal workers are back this summer working on the same farms they have worked in the past several seasons. Most of the crews will move on to other seasonal farm work in other parts of the country when the peak of the chopping season is passed here.

Sweepers, Man Your Brooms Helps Avenue Sweep Down to Begin Tuesday Morning at 6:30

Merchants with businesses on Phelps Avenue will be joined by their volunteers Tuesday morning at 6:30 to sweep and wash down the length of Phelps from the city hall to the Santa Fe depot, according to Howard Horne, chairman of the volunteer street cleaning committee.

Horne asked that all merchants have Phelps Avenue businesses be on hand at 6:30 Tuesday morning to help sweep the street down.

Members of the fire department will follow the sweepers with fire hoses and wash the street down behind them.

All volunteer workers are asked to bring heavy push brooms, shovels and pickup trucks.

This is the second time this summer that the volunteer group has cleaned the main street of Littlefield. The previous street cleaning was June 7 when about 50 men took over the job.

As in the past, refreshments will be served at the finish of the project.

Laymen Talk Integration Tuesday Night

The lay committee appointed to study the integration problem met Tuesday evening and came up with some unexpected answers and some equally unexpected questions.

With Jack Christian representing the school board, the lay committee is composed of Bob Manley, Harry Vanderpool, Carl Locke, Judd Walker and John Nail. Representing Dunbar patrons are H. E. Henderson, H. B. McCarty, T. A. Hodge, D. C. Stewart and Walter Griffin.

Christian explained to the group that the school board has two tentative plans to offer for this year. The first plan is to continue the school at Dunbar with the addition of two more teachers and whatever equipment is necessary to have school this year, but to provide bus transportation for colored school children within the school district. Private transportation has been used in the past for colored children who live in the district and in some outlying areas where no school exists.

The second plan was to integrate the first grade of Dunbar into the white school this year and continue this plan each year until all the pupils are going to one school.

When polled, members of the colored delegation said they believed that their people would prefer to wait a year before any integration was made, and then make it for all the pupils at one time.

These comments were heard: "We would prefer our children to go to Dunbar if facilities were equal." "We don't expect any..." (Continued on Page Four)

Public Square Project Draws No Bidders

"I FIND NO FAULT"

By TOMMY WILLIAMS, Minister

We live in a time which is separated by a good many centuries from the time when Jesus lived and died upon the earth. Some find it easy to question the truth of the claims of Jesus in that distant age that he was and is the Son of God. Perhaps it will help to look at the question from the standpoint of people who were there, especially those who were there at his trial and death—witnesses who are capable of giving dependable testimony.

First, there was Pilate. Hear his pronouncement: "I find in him no fault at all" (John 18:38). This was not the ungrounded opinion of a deluded man, but the sound judgment of a man of authority and responsibility who had been under terrific pressure to find some fault.

Next, there is the testimony of the Roman soldier at the crucifixion. He said, "Truly this was the Son of God" (Matthew 27:54). He had seen many men die, but he recognized in Jesus one who was not merely human.

Then there was Thomas, a disappointed disciple who would not believe in the resurrection of Jesus, without the most conclusive proof. When the proof was presented, he was constrained to say, "My Lord, and my God" (John 20:28).

Last of all, there were 3,000 who had cried for the blood of Jesus when he was on trial, who heard the gospel story, and were convinced that they had called for the death of the Son of God. They became his disciples (Acts 2).

Surely, this constitutes enough testimony to establish all the claims Jesus made.

trouble from our people. If any comes, it will come from your people. Any pressure likely to develop will come from the Whites rather than from our folks, and "We are in favor of having school at Dunbar as long as we can."

Comments from the white representatives indicated that they generally agreed with the colored men. Both sides expressed the idea that a year of conditioning both white and colored children to the idea of integration would go a long way toward making the move smoother when it is made.

The men feel that there will be less difficulty integrating the children than there will be integrating the parents.

Both groups will poll their patrons and will meet again tonight (Thursday) at 6 to report to the board. They will also meet with the board to make formal recommendations for the board to carry out.

Vets Beat S&B; WOW Takes Rotary

WOW Beats Rotary 10-0 Tuesday Night

The WOW behind the five hit pitching of Max Ball, shut out the Rotary 10-0 in Tuesday night's Little League game. Ball picked up his fourth win of the season against one loss. Eugene Reeves who was relieved by both Shelley Duval and Larry Elder, was the losing pitcher.

Eugene Reeves led off the first inning by flying out to left fielder Jerry McCain. Shelley Duval followed with a hard hit single between second and first. Paul Keeling knocked a hard hit ball to third baseman Keith King who cut off Duval at second for the second out. Larry Elder then flew out to Roger Morris to end the first half of the first inning.

Roger Morris and De Pierce both grounded out to start the bottom of the first. Keith King walked and Koller followed him the same way. Jerry McCain struck out to end the threat for the Woodmen and King and Koller both died on base.

The Rotary was up and down in order in the top of the second as Jimmy Zoth struck out. Joe Paul Shepperd grounded out to the pitcher and Jimmy Glover went down on called strikes.

Craig Brestrup walked for the Woodmen and Ball followed by striking out. Brestrup stole second but was thrown out by pitcher Reeves when he tried to steal third. Tom Mangum went down on a called strike to end the second inning.

Jackie Gage started the third inning by striking out for the Rotarians. Bobby Dow followed with a clean single. Eugene Reeves again flew out. Dow got to third on Shelly Duval's hard hit single to right field. Through A Glass Darkly

By CARROLL POUNCEY

And of course, there is the story about the two ordinary Texas who, having finished their lunch at the Shamrock, walked in to look at a solid gold Cadillac.

One ordinary Texas said, "I believe this what I want", and started pulling out his wallet to pay for it.

His friend quickly protested, "Oh, no," said his friend, "this is on me. After all, you did for our lunch."

No one could have been more surprised than I when the City voted to hire a city manager. After writing all those articles about city government, the city just coincidentally pulls a fast one on me. I believe I've been taken in. And if so, am glad of it. It still, you would think they would have let me I was playing into their corporate hands with my so-called objective articles just what they had in mind all along. Oh, I'll tell you, those politicians are tricky.

Next week KOGHE will take a questionable well deserved leave of absence from this newspaper for a few days. We are unquestionably state of mind and outlook and hope at the small vacation will refresh what which be admitted is an old mind.

At any rate, kindly old Uncle Howard will be pinch hitting as guest columnist in this space with a couple of galleys of reminiscence of the old old days when even was a boy.

Uncle Howard writes with a goose quill dipped in walnut bark juice and his memory just amazing. Who else can tell you what for General Beuregard's horse was but Uncle Howard.

Uncle Howard grew up in the terri-by-geo-ry, and he remembers some hair-raising tales of Indian scalping parties. He hasn't told which side he was on, but we can guess. For a man of his age, he is remarkably well preserved, and we think local historians will get a thrill out of reading how they used live back in the olden times. Don't miss it if you can.

IPSTICK LOGIC

By LOUISE C. ALLEN

All of us hate to be photographed. At least that's what we say: "No, it might look like me." "They always snap me with my mouth open." And so on.

But the other day, a man whose business being written up for a national magazine, he his wife a hurry-up call to get a dozen men there right away. The photographers were there and wanted to pose a group of wives watching a demonstration. She let about half an hour in which to call the men and have them get to his place of business.

Of the twelve she called, eight came, one of her teenage daughters. One of the others was shampooing her hair, at least two weren't at home. We saw one of these women and she said she didn't like having her hair made, but would have come, "just help Mary out." Some of the women arrived in hat and gloves, others in becoming slippers and play shoes. Their chatter was delightful.

"I was in the yard; didn't even have time to wash my hands." "I told John to wait a minute and I'd fix him some lunch." "I was watering radishes." "I had just come in from the party, so I was dressed."

How many of them could have moved that far for any other assignment? Most of us are honest, however, in saying we don't want our pictures made. When we look at ourselves in the mirror we're usually, we concentrate on such things as a tight nose or a mole. We rarely fully see ourselves. But in a photograph it's all in black and white.

$5000 An Acre

The Upper Colorado River Project Bill, now pending in the U. S. House of Representatives, if passed, would have a direct and adverse effect upon every taxpayer in America.

This project calls for numerous dams and irrigation works in Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming. It would saddle an added tax burden of 4 billion on the American people but the four states benefitting would pay less than two per cent of the cost! The balance would be paid by the taxpayers of the rest of the states who would not benefit at all.

A recent editorial in the New York Times states that it would be possible to grow bananas on the top of the Rockies if one wanted to spend the money but asks if this money could not be spent more advantageously elsewhere.

The editorial also asks if it is essential to produce hydro-electric power at great cost when steam power can be produced in the same area at fraction of the price, and when atomic power is just around the corner.

The Senate already has passed one version of this bill that calls for six major dams and 34 irrigation projects. The House bill calls for a somewhat lesser number of dams and irrigation systems but proponents of the project have indicated they still favor the Senate version and plan to push for its adoption.

The objectionable features of the Upper Colorado River Project are far too numerous to list. However, the following few should suffice to show that this project is not in the best interests of the American people.

1. Construction costs and hidden subsidies contained in the bill would cost the nation's taxpayers in excess of $4 billion in added taxes for the benefit of a privileged few.

2. The President's Materials Policy Commission, headed by William S. Paley, has reported that production from present acreage might be increased 200 per cent through technology now available to farmers.

3. The concealed subsidies in the bill before the House would cost the American taxpayers nearly $5000 per acre to irrigate land that will be worth less than one-tenth that after irrigation.

4. The Upper Colorado River Project would provide water to grow the kind of crops which are already in great surplus in this country, and which are now heavily subsidized by the taxpayers.

5. Approval of the project would open the door to invasion of our national parks and could lead to the destruction of many stretches of natural beauty set aside for us and our descendants to enjoy.

In view of these and the many other bad features of this project, it is clear that the Upper Colorado Project should not be jammed down the throats of the American people.

The best way to prevent this from happening is for taxpayers from every part of the country to write to their Congressmen asking them to help defeat the Upper Colorado River Project.

Geologists Under the Water

An entirely different world exists below the surface of the water — one of diffused light and shadow and strange marine plant and animal life. It is as old as time—and yet entering it has become a fascinating new experience for thousands of people who have enthusiastically taken up the postwar sport of skin diving. The skin diver, equipped with independent oxygen supply, face mask, and rubber flippers on his feet to provide better maneuverability, can move about under water without being hampered by any surface connections for an hour or more at a time.

Always on the lookout for new tools and techniques of possible use in locating oil deposits, a group of oil geologists recently appropriated the paraphernalia of the skin diver. They have taken to rummaging around the bottom of the Gulf of Mexico in 30 to 60 feet of water. The idea is to gather information and data leading to a better understanding of what are called stratigraphic traps. These are sand bars and limestone reefs of ancient seas, which when covered by mud and silt, hardened into a nonporous rock which prevented oil from seeping out. Since they are formed in undisturbed layers of rock, their presence can't be predicted by the geophysicist's instruments. The skin diving geologists are coming up with the answers to a lot of questions concerning the habits and environments of marine animals and the formation of sediments. The answers will provide valuable clues which may aid in the discovery of oil deposits in many far-flung corners of the globe.

This unusual activity is another striking illustration of why our competitive oil industry has made the United States the foremost oil producing nation in the world. Every avenue of approach is going to be tried by someone, because what one doesn't think of, another will. You can't get that kind of enterprise through compulsion or under five-year plans.

Dear Douglas:

Operation "TALL CORN" (Peruvian Cusco)

As a recipient of some of the Peruvian Cusco corn last Spring, I thought you would be interested in what the corn in doing in various parts of the nation. More than one hundred and fifty in Texas received seed and approximately fifty real dirt farmers and city farmers from other parts of the country to make an interest in growing "something different" were supplied with Peruvian Cusco seed.

First report was received from Dooley Dawson, Vice President of the Second National Bank of Houston, who reported his corn about six inches high when the freeze got it early in April. It came back again and is now taller than he (Dooley is only 6'4") with no sign of shooting an ear. More encouraging news comes from Mrs. James Jenny, 114 Pigan St., San Antonio, Texas who reports her corn 15 ft. all with ears starting to form late in June.

I saw Jack Creel's corn on June 28th at Lubbock which made me kind of proud of mine at Denver, as mine is taller than his. My corn was planted May 15th (we sometimes have frost as late as June 5th) and is now 4 ft. tall and growing like weeds. Jack explained he planted his corn late as he thought it had a better chance to make ears in the Fall than during hot July and August. I believe we are going to find out what this corn will do under a wide variety of conditions and that is exactly what was wanted.

May I suggest that if you have not given your corn an application of fertilizer in the last 30 days that you do so now. Any high nitrogen content fertilizer spread on the ground and water in, or dissolved in water and poured on a wide area around the stalk, will help. Remember the roots now probably extend 4 or 5 feet way from the stalk as corn will reach out a long way for plant food and moisture. You may have to stake lot to keep it from blowing over. With so much hail this year, I wish the corn had been "hail proof" but so far I have not been able to find any of this variety of corn. If your was hulled, give it a shot of nitrogen every two weeks and plenty of water as hulled corn can make a rapid recovery.

Don't forget to get pictures of the corn with your kinfolks in the pictures. Maybe the newspaper would use the picture if you have done a very good job. (Mean of both growing the corn and taking the picture). There is a possibility of winning a Blue Ribbon at your Fair for the tallest stalk of corn.

I will appreciate hearing a report on your corn together with a picture if you have one.

Yours for taller corn,
A. K. Hepperly,
Burlington Lines, Agricultural Department, Denver, Colo.

P.S. Keep your corn wet and well fed and watch it grow.

Sport Shots

By HAROLD V. RATLIFF
Associated Press Sports Editor

The baseball "vintages" haven't reached the stretch and the weather isn't conducive to football, but still a major topic among sports fans is what the Southwest Conference gridiron even holds in store.

General agreement among the experts is that never before has the conference had as many good teams and as many matchups that could be picked as favorites. The season will have as many angles as an owl's eye.

Texas A&M will be trying to pull out of its worst slump in history and will have a challenging month to show the coaches of college football or how the Aggies, if you didn't know it, are under probation because of overzealous recruiting.

Aggie backers take the attitude that they were doing no more than the others and were discriminated against. So the team will be mild and popping when it plays the schools that voted the probation. It could be like the long ago days when Cowboy Moran was let out as coach through the alleged assistance of the University of Texas. The football team celebrated Texas last year and when the Aggies made "twos" and "threes" they'd snarl. This is for what you did to me, Charlie.

Texas also faces a midweek incentive to win the championship. The most remarkable feature in conference history is sweep to the title last year, the Longhorns were huge dogs. The boys were innocent of injuries, practice, and not making the extra effort. So there's an incentive to make sure that if Texas doesn't have a good season, there'll be a big explosion with the coaches if the title is lost. If over a team's head for a while, Texas has the best players, coaches, and with the past few years could win the championship.

Defending champion Arkansas has the work cut out for it. No one is rating the Razorbacks with the top teams although they lost a few of the ones who made 1954 a good season. Arkansas has a new coach—Jack Mitchell—and he's going to install the Red Wilkinson split T to replace the single wing used by Howard Wyatt, the coach who announced his abrupt return's "I" will remain in Tennessee.

Unluckily Mitchell will be handicapped in getting in a new formation and it may be mid-season before the Razorbacks start clicking. A "T" split could be too late for championship aspirations.

Woody Woodford is starting his third year at Southern Methodist. He had a team control, meaning they expected him to get a win next season together in three years. He got one last year, but it missed the championship by a half-point. This year Woody has everything it takes except depth at end and quarterback. In fact, it has only one quarterback and he is questionable. He is John Nisbet and he has had enough experience at captain to run the team, but he doesn't appear to be the kind of passer needed to make an effective SMU might wind up with Ray Masters, the sophomore, at quarterback. Masters, though, might not be a top man at the job although he's quite a football player in other ways.

Utah will try to do something about that "fade" it has in the last weeks of a campaign. The Golden Bears have the man to combat that, the championship will most likely come out some way to surprise down the stretch, especially against Utah. Steve Owen, the old Texas coach who is a master of defense, is being brought in to try to break the Bears for the closing weeks when championships are won and lost.

Utah is a good and could win the

"Ellen, there's something I've been wanting to ask you all evening long. Did you bring any money with you?"

championship and occasion no surprise. The Owls have some sophomores who can really throw the ball. Sophomores are likely to beat out such a capable hand as quarterback John Nisbet. That's how tough the Owls are going to be.

Texas Christian expects to have its best team in years. The only thing they're worried about is Chuck Curtis' knee. He is a fine quarterback, excellent ball-handler and an adept passer. But he has a knee injury that might lay him low. Behind him there just aren't any quarterbacks. The Frog ground attack should be almost as potent as Southern Methodist's, and SMU is due to have its greatest running game in history.

Forced to make a pick of the way the championship race will wind up we'll take them like this:

1. Southern Methodist.
2. Rice.
3. Texas.
3. Baylor.
5. Texas Christian.
6. Arkansas.
7. Texas A&M.

Final Details Worked Out For FFA Convention in Houston

Most of the final details of the 27th annual Texas Future Farmers of America Convention have been worked out according to an announcement by Archer Romero, chairman of the Houston arrangements committee, and David Risengro, state FFA president from Ferris.

The convention opens here in the air-conditioned Sam Houston Coliseum Wednesday, July 20.

Near 6,000 of the farm youth from every section of Texas will be on hand for the opening session.

The state president and his nine vice presidents will arrive Monday, July 18, and will be entertained by leading Houston business and agriculture leaders. The Southern Pacific Railway is sponsoring a luncheon and tour of their freight yards for the youth.

The impressive Lone Star Farmer banquet will be held in the Coliseum Thursday night, July 21. A large group of the youths who study vocational agriculture in high school will receive the Lone Star Farmer degree, next to the highest honor attainable in FFA work. Special cash awards to various contest winners and outstanding chapters totaling near $5,000 will be awarded by Howell B. Jones, awards chairman and chairman of the Houston Chamber of Commerce Agriculture committee. Jones is an honorary Lone Star Farmer.

Ten skilled tractor operators will compete in the state tractor operators contest Tuesday, July 19. The contest, sponsored by the Stewart Company of Dallas, state distributors for Ford tractors, will be followed by a banquet at which John Ben Sheppard, attorney general of Texas will speak. The FFA winner will receive a new Ford tractor.

Other highlights of the convention are the finals in the FFA talent and public speaking contests, and the election of a new state president and sweetheart.

This Big Buick SPECIAL 2-Door, 6-Passenger Sedan delivers locally at a small-car price

(Come in and check it!)

We'll mince no words. You can buy a Buick SPECIAL like the one shown here if you can buy any new car. You can boss this big and brawny Buick Sedan for just about the price of the smaller cars—even for less than some models of the three most well-known smaller cars. The price tag we'll show you proves that. But you can't get anywhere else for the money what you get in this Buick, or any other new Buick—and that's something you really ought to look into. For Buick sales are soaring to all-time best-seller highs this year just because more and more people are discovering how much more automobile their dollars buy in a Buick than the same dollars buy elsewhere. They find Buick a bigger package of sheer automobile for the money—bigger in power, thrill, in stretch-out comfort, in ride steadiness, in structural solidity.

They find Buick size and styling an added prestige—Buick roadability and handling ease an added pleasure—Buick brawn and precision an added reassurance. And they find Buick performance a thrill without peer—for where else can you get the whip-quick response and bettered gas mileage of Variable Pitch Dynaflo? Maybe you'd better drop in and see how much real automobile and fun and deep-down satisfaction your money buys in Buick. cause the second baseman seldom covers and he couldn't hold the throw if he did.

The first one who shows any ability to stab and hold wild throws is tagged for first base. Those who can stop an occasional grounder and reach first base with a throw get the other infield spots. The ones who can't do anything become outfielders. Nobody is going to hit one as far as the outfield anyway.

For a while you don't call balls and strikes or let them steal. If you did, everybody would be walking and stealing bases.

Sometimes a batter hits a grounder and dies for second as the fielder juggles the ball. You yell at him to hold up at second, but he keeps right on going. The fielder throws the ball over the third baseman's head and your runner scores standing up.

Everybody wants to bat first, until you tell them that the best hitters usually bat third and fourth. Then you can't even get a leadoff man until you tell them he should be the fastest man on the team. The pitcher reluctantly goes to the bottom of the batting order, when you tell him that's where he should be.

You stop the action every few days and try to explain to them how it should be done. A few of them listen.

Some of them don't come back after a few sessions. You hope you haven't been impatient and scared them, remembering that eight really is a tender age to be playing a man's game. You tell yourself that some kids just don't care for baseball and would be better off doing something else anyway.

June turns into July, and some of them start to develop. You listen to solid hits and watch catches and throws that are pretty good. They're a long way from a precision machine, but they're more a team and less a mob. You've accomplished something. You feel good.

The real payoff comes the next year, when you go out and watch your boys try out for the majors. Some have lost interest, but the best of them are there.

Taller, stronger, more confident, they take a vicious cut at the plate and whip the ball around in the field. They're still boys, but they're beginning in a small way to become men. And you've helped them a little. It was well worth the time and trouble.

A Man Gets Big Kick Guiding Boys In Little League Baseball

By RON GILBERT
Newsfeatures

INDIANAPOLIS—If you like boys a lot and baseball a little, get out and manage a minor league team in the Little League.

They probably need help, especially if it's a young operation like ours, and you'll have the time of your life.

The minors aren't for serious ex-ballplayers, to whom precision and victory are important. They're up in the majors managing 10, 11 and 12-year-olds who have developed some skill and discipline.

That's why you have to like boys a lot and baseball a little in the minors. You're surrounded by a screaming mass of the one, and you see very little of the other, from the point of view.

You're dealing with green 8 and 9-year-olds who may know a little of what's going on, and a scattering of older boys who haven't made the majors.

The logical way to start is to drill on fundamentals like throwing and catching, fielding and batting, but you can't keep them at that very long. The boys would rather play than practice.

Somehow they get sorted into squads, and you start out to build a team. You ask, "Who can pitch?" and eight of the nine wave their hands and shout. Some of them probably can't throw the ball as far as the plate, but they're eager.

You try different ones and finally find one who can cut the plate occasionally. You pick out the biggest and slowest and put him in a catcher's mask and protector. It doesn't matter that he can't throw to second base, he

Wheat Growers To Get Full Allotment Credit If '56 Crop Is Below Allotment

Wheat growers whose 1955 wheat acreage is as much as 25 percent below their farm wheat acreage allotment will get credit for full allotment acreage in calculating future farm allotments. In other words, Troy Armes, Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee chairman, said that if the farm's wheat acreage for next year's harvest is only three-fourths of the farm allotment, the future wheat acreage allotment established for the farm will be figured as though the full allotment had been planted. Here are the rules of more than 10 percent were considered in calculating future allotments. Each year's farm allotment, the chairman explains, is based primarily on the farm's wheat acreage for the previous 3 years under the new ruling, even if the wheat acreage is as much as one-fourth less than the farm allotment, future allotments will be calculated as though the full allotment had been harvested.

Snack Picnics Are Easy On Cooks

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
EATING OUTDOORS is your next best picnic. You can have a fine picnic at supper this way.

For picnic treatment, we suggest this good way to fix the grub rolls you eat any at the bakery. No time at all needed to get these Combination Baby Subs ready, whether the summer cook does it herself or has helpers. Add pickles and olives, even as the girls, fresh fruit and hard-boiled eggs, and you are all set. For fun at the beach, try a non-spicy picnic in waders, no work no fuss and less. Choose an assortment of "snack" meats, fish and shellfish that can be served at serving time. Bring along cheese, hard-boiled eggs, and fresh vegetables as finger-food accompaniments. Pick to serve assorted rolls and nuts, too, to give your spread a lift, and an appetizer make their own sandwiches. Bottled soft drinks and a wine or watermelon will make a happy evening.

COMBINATION BABY SUBS
Ingredients: 4 slices white, 1 1/2 pound butter or margarine, 2 tablespoons prepared mustard, 1 small tomato sliced, 1 medium onion sliced, 1 1/2 hard-boiled eggs, 1/2 pound cheddar cheese sliced.
Method: Spread rolls with thin slices of butter, alternating this with mustard. Place sliced tomato on buttered part; broil until cheese is bubbly and broil with bread. Makes 6 servings.

1955 COTTON MEASUREMENTS
Cotton measurements began in Lamb county June 13, 1955. The farm operator or his representative must be available to assist the reporter in measurements. The operator or his representative must sign the report before the acreage can be determined. Your cooperation in this matter is greatly needed and appreciated. If you are overplanted, YOU MUST DESTROY THE EXCESS IN 20 DAYS FROM DATE OF NOTICE AND THIS OFFICE NOTIFIED. Also, a fee for checking the excess must be made to this office which has been established at $2.00 for the first plot plus $1.00 for each additional plot over one per farm. If cotton is not destroyed within the 20 days, you will be considered overplanted and a marketing quota penalty will have to be paid.

1954 COTTON LOANS
The U. S. Department of Agriculture announce that Commodity Credit Corporation Loans on 1954 upland crop cotton, which have a maturity date of July 31, 1955, will be carried in a past due status through October 31, 1955. This will give producers an additional three months in which to redeem their 1954 crop upland cotton. The 1954 crop upland cotton not redeemed prior to November 1, 1955, will be purchased on the date by CCC.

Is A Nice Jam To Get Into

CECILY BROWNSTONE
 Talgia Overtake you, the fresh fruit of summer? Remember lovingly, as we remember jars of jams and jellies were put up during the months to offer sweet in the winter season? Are you of a mind to make a row of small jars of jam? Suggest you try the following recipe featuring a combination of strawberry, pineapple and rhubarb. Then when you want some crisp cookies, use some of the cookie recipe we are giving you.

cookies will remind you of the fashioned days, too, because they are the thumbprint and mothers used to make them. Roll out one-third of the dough at a time and cut it into rounds. Then you place half the dough on an ungreased cookie sheet and drop a half teaspoonful in the center of each. Now roll out the centers of the dough cookies with a thumbprint. These rounds gently press jam-speckled ones.

Strawberry, Pineapple and Rhubarb Jam is fine for filling cookies.

STRAWBERRY, PINEAPPLE AND RHUBARB JAM
 Ingredients: 1 pint ripe strawberries, 1 small fully-ripe pineapple, 1/2 pound (about) rhubarb, (2-4 pounds) sugar, one (1/2 ounce) powdered fruit heat and skim off foam with metal spoon. Then stir and skim for 5 minutes to cool slightly and prevent floating fruit.

Ladle quickly into sterilized glasses. Cover jam at once with 1-8 inch hot paraffin. Makes about 7 medium glasses—3 1/2 pounds jam.

ROLLED THUMBPRINT COOKIES
 Ingredients: 1 1/2 cups sifted flour, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup butter or margarine, 1/2 cup sugar, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, 1-4 cup milk, 1/2 cup (about) jam.
 Method: Sift together the flour and salt. Cream butter, sugar and vanilla. Add sifted flour and milk; mix thoroughly. Roll out one-third of the dough at a time, refrigerating dough if you are not rolling. Use a well-floured pastry cloth and stockinet-covered rolling pin. Roll dough 1-8 inch thick and cut out rounds with a 2-inch cookie cutter. Place half the rounds on an ungreased baking sheet about 1 inch apart; drop about 1/2 teaspoon jam in center of each. Using a thumbprint, cut out the centers of the other rounds. (Re-roll scraps of dough) Place cut-out rounds over jam rounds on baking sheet; press edges

Air Force Offers New Program For Reenlistment By Veterans

All veterans of the Littlefield area, regardless of former military affiliation who have been discharged since July 1951 and who possess a skill needed by the Air Force can now reenlist with an attractive grade adjustment. It has been announced by TSgt. Otto Havins, local Air Force recruiter.

The reenlistment program is part of a new policy designed by the Air Force to benefit the veteran and also insure the procurement of the much needed prior service technician. In addition the policy allows veterans the theater where he would like to serve.

In the past, one of the drawbacks to reenlistment was the 90 day after discharge time limitation. For veterans who possess skills which are needed by the Air Force, that time has now been extended. From time to time the classifications of the specialties will be changed depending upon the needs of the Air Force.

For skills presently classed as surplus, grade determination will depend mostly on date of separation. Veterans reenlisting with a surplus skill will be offered the opportunity to train in a specialty of their choice which is currently on the needed list.

Sgt. Havins said that since this program revises the Air Force reenlistment policies completely that all veterans should be aware of the many new benefits, he will be in Littlefield each Monday, or contact dat Room 202, Post Office Building in Lubbock, in the event any veteran has any questions regarding their status under these new provisions.

Important thought to keep in mind:

When it's safe to pass, make sure you've got the gasoline that lets you enjoy full working octane performance. Stop in at your Gulf station and ask the man for New Super-Refined Gulf NO-NOX. And make sure your engine is protected with New Gulfpride H.D. Select, the motor oil that controls carbon.

New Gulf No-Nox Gasoline delivers not just the highest octane but full working octane because it's super-refined to burn clean

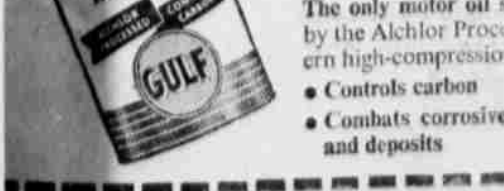

See what a difference Gulf super-refining makes. Gulf takes out the "dirty-burning tail-end" of gasoline—at the refinery—to bring you new clean-burning Gulf NO-NOX.

NO GASOLINE, no matter how high the octane, will let your engine deliver full power performance—mile after mile—unless it burns clean. That's why it pays to always use new NO-NOX. Gulf NO-NOX is the clean-burning fuel that gives you full working octane day in, day out. In addition, you get...

- more complete engine protection
- extra gas mileage in short-trip, stop-and-go driving
- freedom from vapor-lock, engine stumbling and stalling
- no knock, no pre-ignition—even in today's high-compression engines

Now! For the ultimate in working octane performance, always use Gulf's super-refined gas-oil team... New Gulf NoNox Gasoline and New Gulfpride H.D. Select Motor Oil

The only motor oil super-refined by the Alchlor Process for modern high-compression engines.

Obey God's Laws

Lesson for July 17, 1955

LAWs are of various kinds. Some laws are arbitrary, some are made by the nature of things, or rather express the nature of things. To take an example of an arbitrary law: What is the fine, where you live, for exceeding the speed limit or for parking in the wrong place? Let's say it is ten dollars for going too fast, and three for illegal parking. If the alderman, or whoever it was that made the law, should decide next Tuesday to change those fines to fifteen and four dollars, respectively, they would have a right to do it. There is nothing in the nature of things that makes parking on the north side of Main Street wrong, and nothing that makes three dollars the exact amount to charge the offender, practical though it may be.

Some Laws Cannot Be Broken

There are other laws which are not on the statute books but are much more rigid, and rightly enforced, than regulations about parking or school attendance. We sometimes call these laws of nature; but they are really laws of God. There is no law, printed in a book anywhere that says that if a person neglects the care of his teeth he will get a toothache; but that is a law nevertheless. It is not to speak, written into the physical constitution of every man. There is a higher sort of law still, called Moral Law, which is likewise rooted in the nature of things. Examples of moral laws: To every man belongs his due; whatever a man sows, that shall he also reap; hate and you will be hated; love and you will be loved. Such laws can be disregarded; they are disregarded every day; but they cannot be broken. They are not at all like arbitrary laws. There is a ghost town where parking spaces can still be seen marked on the pavement. But you can leave your car there now for a month and never get a ticket. The town government has just folded up and gone away. But God never folds up nor goes away. There is a corner in a city where once a left turn was permitted; now it is against the law. The traffic department changed its mind. But God does not change his mind.

How Nations Break Laws

Now, every nation, every community, every club or organization of people, has the right to make up its own constitution and by-laws, its rules, ordinances, regulations, laws and statutes. And it has the right to change those. Most nations, however, do not like to admit that there are laws which bind them. They do not like to feel that there are unchanging and unchangeable laws which govern them and all nations. Nevertheless, there are such laws, laws of God; and nations have been broken for trying to break them. Consider the case of the country of Judah. Prophets had been warning that country, its leaders and its people, for years, that disobedience would bring disaster. Ezekiel, whose book makes fascinating though often puzzling reading, did make one thing quite plain: that Judah's sin had reached the breaking-point, that God's axe would fall, that Jerusalem would be destroyed. Scarcely any one believed him. But when Jerusalem actually and finally fell, then "they knew that a prophet had been among them."

Crime and Punishment

What were some of the divine laws, rooted in the nature of things, which Judah as a nation had been breaking? We can name the two most important: Love and Justice. The nation lived by hate, fear, distrust and selfishness. As a nation, they hated other nations. They tried to build a little iron curtain around themselves. They would not trust other nations and they would not keep treaties they had made themselves. They let down their moral standards to the point where the typical Judahite (to judge from the pictures the prophets paint) was loose in his relations with women, undependable and dishonest in his business dealings, irreligious even in his "religious" acts, irresponsible in his civic duties. You can fill out the discouraging list from the pages of Ezekiel, or other prophets. You cannot build a good country with bad citizens; that is another law that cannot be broken, though Judah tried hard enough to break it. When disaster finally struck, the citizens were astonished, but God's prophets were not.

Land Values up In Plains Area

Purchase price of Texas farm and ranch land in 1954 was two percent more than in 1953, or an average of $70.20 an acre. Although this slight gain represented a new price level, the number of sales dropped to the lowest level since 1940 and the acreage transferred was the smallest in land market history.

"Continued drought, decreases in agricultural prices, average a lot of land and 'tight' holdings of land tended to depress land market activity," William G. Adams, agricultural economist at Texas A&M College, explained. Federal Veterans Land Board purchases and modifications of that program helped push the sales volume down.

Attempts to enlarge units, demand for irrigated acreage, rural activity and urban industrial development were factors tending to increase market activity.

Adkins reported that operators were the principle buyers in 1954 and farm size tended to grow. Tenants made up 10 percent of the purchases, but "farm units continue to be in strong demand, bring premium prices.

Land price increases were significant in the Panhandle, High Plains and Lower Rio Grande Valley. In Upper Rio Grande Valley irrigated area, the Post Oak country in the Rolling Plains.

If all the iron ore, coal and stone consumed by the U. S. industry in one year were placed in railroad cars and attached one train, the train would be 38,228 miles long.

Many Factors Considered In Successful Use of Defoliants

The ever-increasing use of machines in the harvesting of cotton has also increased the use of defoliants and desiccants. The success or failure of the job, says Fred C. Elliott, extension cotton specialist, depends on several factors. These include the characteristics of the chemicals and the rate and volume applied; method of application; climatic conditions, especially moisture and temperature; cultural practices such as fertilization and plant density and the varieties grown.

Under conditions of normal growth and with low potential Elliott says calcium cyanamide dust should give good results. The material should be applied when plants are wet with dew and remain in leaf moisture for at least two hours and preferably four.

If dew is not present and with lower soil moisture and weather conditions, the specialist says amino triazole, Esolthol and the various chlorophyll work better. Good to excellent results have been obtained from a mixture of half the recommended rate of amino triazole with one of the water soluble defoliants also at half the recommended rate applied as a spray. This may prove to be a growth retarder and will be available for use this year.

As desiccants for use in conjunction with stripper harvest, Elliott recommends the use of "Foliar" formulations of Cotton Defoliant 713-D. These materials are suggested for dry conditions where the soil moisture is low and the plants small. These materials should not be used with a spindle type picker and only after 90 percent of the bolls are open.

Elliott suggests to any cotton producer interested in detailed information on cotton defoliation, a visit to the local county agent's office. Ask for a copy of L-145, Cotton Defoliation Guide in Texas. The leaflet has recently been revised. It may also be obtained from the Agricultural Information Office, College Station.

Texans In Washington

By TEG EASLEY
Special Washington Service
WASHINGTON — The two Texas in the top congressional offices—Speaker Sam Rayburn and Senate Majority Leader Lyndon Johnson—are heading up toward the department of Congress by July 15.

"That's not a target date," says Johnson, "but if we can keep going at the present rate we will get through by then."
Only twice since 1938 has Congress wound up its business and quit for the year that early. It made it in mid-June in 1948 and in early July in 1952. But in 1948 President Truman called Congress into a special session in September.

Aside from the fact that Johnson and Rayburn work alike in getting business transacted, they have moved in various other ways to speed the handling of legislation.

The latest move is to expedite the handling in committee of all bills. Committees have been asked to give special attention to such measures.

Often in the past a Senate committee would specify a House should bill first and it would then be introduced in the Senate. It is now proposed by a majority of the Senate to give consideration to a number of bills at once.

These measures have been discussed with Senate leaders here. Many when a House bill is introduced in the Senate committee the date of the committee report is made public. This has been done in the past with some bills. It is now proposed that this be done with all bills. This would mean that the date of the committee report would be known to the public before the bill is introduced in the Senate.

committee chairman of the situation. The result is that such measures frequently are put before the committee for prompt approval.

AROUND THE CAPITOL:

The Health, Education and Welfare Department plans to spend 13½ million dollars in Texas in the year starting July 1.

Grants for hospital construction amount for 7½ million. Other probable expenditures are $3,983,000 for direct operations for the Public Health Service in the state. The figures represent tentative estimates made public during Congressional consideration of the department's appropriation bill.

The main "door prize" offered at a family frolic staged by the National Press Club's was a real, live burro and Mexican saddle donated by Gib Sandifer. The former Hardin-Simmons' Cowbo band manager, now concert tour manager for the Navy and Air Force bands, had the burro shipped from the Southwest and kept in the Washington National Zoo for a week before the big event.

Sen. Lyndon Johnson takes strong exception to a Hoover Commission recommendation which he says would scuttle the the REA that justifies such a recommendation," he says.

He cites figures to the effect that only 24 per cent of the farms in Texas had electricity in 1934, as compared with 88 per cent by June 30, 1954. Other figures show he said, that more than 345,000 consumers are served through the 96 cooperatives and the city of Bryan, which borrowed funds from the REA. Their loans totaled 202 million dollars at the end of April and repayments totaled 31 millions in principal, plus 17½ millions in interest.

"I am afraid those who say the REA has completed its job are thinking the same way as those who thought, 20 years ago, that the job should never have been started," he said. "I am confident their view is not going to prevail—in congress or among the American people."
