LEADER BRINGS SPECIAL SERVICE

Election Returns For You

For important service, at a time when it is so much appreciated, you have always found the Lamb County Leader enthusiastically working to serve you, individually, or the entire county and district.

Such service is particularly noted at election time . . . the first primary . . . the second primary . . . and again in November.

Saturday night, wherever you may happen to be, you can get the election returns by tuning in on KVOW . . . the results of the election will be available to you in your home, the home of a friend, in your place of business, at the Leader office, or wherever you can "get your ear glued to a radio."

Truman Support Is Switched To Stevenson

Balloting for President was the order of business as the fifth day of the 31st Democratic National Convention opened in Chicago Friday at 11:30 a.m., after a grueling 14-hour nominating session on Thursday, which saw 12 names placed on nomination.

Estes Kefauver of Tennessee received the largest vote of any of the candidates on both the first and second ballots.

The result of the first ballot, completed about 3:30 showed as following for the six leading candidates:

By A. S. Perin

TEXAS Judge Sarah Hughes, who had been announced for the honor of being the first woman ever to be nominated for Vice President didn't get her nomination. She made the mistake of wearing a Maverick badge—the Shivers delegation was seated. They wouldn't nominate Sarah.

DEMOCRATIC National Convention wasn't split in two as the fifth day meeting opened as was the Republican convention. It was split in three—right, left, middle.

LONE STAR delegation alternates, several of them, came into surprised full delegate status, when balloting started Friday. Regular delegates, had summarily departed for home, not because they were homesick, but because of the fact that the Democratic primaries (to them) were even more important.

ALASKA, in its continuing bid for admission to statehood, was watched with interest as its delegation cast its first vote in the Presidential race. The vote went to Estes Kefauver.

HAWAII also with statehood uppermost in mind, played it safe. They split their vote four ways.

PRESIDENT Truman's delegate on the first ballot was cast by his alternate, Thomas Gavin of Kansas City. The vote was for Stevenson. That tipped the hand of the Administration and where its support would go—maybe.

BARKLEY, beloved of Democrats, north and south, got the greatest ovation of the convention. Nobody objected. Everybody joined in.

West Texans Wake Up To High Plains Water Situation

The general con- ... seems to be that the supply is ... inexhaustible; so why worry ... about it? The people seem to have ... forgotten that when ever a gallon ... of water is PUMPED OUT, it must ... come from SOME PLACE. Serious- ... thinking citizens in West Texas ... are beginning to view with alarm ... the ever increasing demand for wa- ... ter. Many who are now concerned ... about the situation never before ... thought anything about the water ... resources of their land.

Today with rapidly increasing ir- ... rigation developments in the rural ... areas and far reaching municipal ... and industrial projects in the ur- ... ban areas, many, many gallons are ... going to be pumped on an ever in- ... creasing scale.

Repeated warnings have been is- ... sued by water engineers against ... pumping out holes in the Ogallala ... Formation. If we allow this prac- ... tice to continue in enough places ... over the High Plains, the static wa- ... ter level is bound to be lowered, to ... replenish the water in those de- ... pleted sands.

But there is a solution to the ... problem: well spacing and a long- ... er, slower pumping rate which as- ... sures a more uniform drawdown ... in the sands.

Danger arises from heavy all-out ... pumping in an area of closely lo- ... cated wells. This can most assured- ... ly do the very thing geologists ... have warned against so vigorously ... —pump out holes. Even areas that ... are blessed with a formation that ... yields its water very rapidly can ... be ruined by pumping wells at too ... great a rate per minute.

With fast pumping methods the ... rate of discharge is so great that ... the cone of depression does not ... spread to a very wide area, but ... takes the water from the imme- ... diate area surrounding the pump, ... thereby pumping a hole and lower- ... ing the water level to a great ex- ... tent at that particular point.

1,000 To Attend Farm Event

Interest in the Regional Agricultural Improvement Field Day program scheduled at Brownfield Experiment Station for July 31, is rising like a thermometer on a hot day. Present indications point toward an attendance in the neighborhood of 1000.

The program opens at 2 p.m. in the experiment station headquarters. At 2:45 the crowd will leave to tour the station.

Wayne B. Smith, manager of the Brownfield Chamber of Commerce and coordinator for the field day, reports that much new farm equipment and machinery will be exhibited. Projects for the afternoon will cover poison demonstrations, defoliation and conventional poisoning, fertilizer demonstrations, and deep breaking work. Henry Williamson, soil conservationist, will discuss types of grasses.

Agricultural leaders and Chambers of Commerce of Lamb, Hockley, Terry, Bailey, Lubbock, Gaines, Lynn, and Dawson counties joined in planning and promoting this event with the cooperation of West Texas Chamber of Commerce. Farmers of the South Plains area are invited and urged to attend.

To Receive Higher Social Security Payments

About 3,500 people in the South Plains area will receive higher social security payments beginning early in October as a result of the social security amendments which President Truman signed into law last Friday, July 18, 1952.

John G. Hutton, manager of the Lubbock social security office, emphasized that no one needs to apply for the increased payments. "The Social Security Administration is already changing the amounts," he pointed out. "We expect to get them changed in time to have them in the mail October 3, the regular delivery date, but if in a few cases we don't meet that schedule we'll send the regular check and make up the difference in a later check."

Mr. Hutton pointed out that although nearly every family receiving payments would receive an increase, the additional amount would not always be divided among all the members of the family receiving monthly checks. In some cases the entire increase will go to the retired worker.

Under terms of the law, most families will get an increase of about $5; some will get less, some will get more. A few benefits now being paid, and most of those payable in the future, will be based on earnings after 1950 instead of after 1936. The amended law provides a new formula for determining the amount of the payments in these cases. Under it, a retired worker's monthly benefit would be 55% of the first $100 of his average monthly earnings plus 15% of the remainder up to $300.

Beginning September 1, the new law increased to $75 a month instead of $50 the amount of money a beneficiary may earn and still receive the monthly benefits. Self-employed people entitled to old-age and survivors insurance benefits may receive the payments for each month of the year if their net earnings during the entire year are not over $900.

The amended law contains a provision of special importance to self-employed people who have retired or plan to retire during 1952. Before the passage of the amendments their earnings for the year in which an application was made could not be used to figure their

Prices On Pork Modified By OPS

The Office of Price Stabilization has modified limitations which had been set on sales of prefabricated retail cuts of pork to permit a qualified seller of such cuts to sell them to any class of buyer, according to the district price officials.

A prefabricated cut is a consumer cut fabricated from any primal cut of pork which is priced and defined in the regulation. The action was taken by issuance of Amendment 10 to Ceiling Price Regulation 74, the wholesale pork regulation. The seller is also relieved of a provision which required that he obtain a written request from the buyer on such sales. Before these changes, the seller was restricted to certain specified types of buyers.

The OPS has also widened the spread now existing between wholesale ceiling prices of veal hindquarters and foresaddles. The hindquarter ceiling prices are being increased while the foresaddle ceiling prices are being reduced. No changes are made in ceiling prices of meat graded as "calf."

The action is being taken, the agency said, to bring about a better balance between the prices for the two major cuts of veal. While this will raise retail ceiling prices on such cuts of veal as steaks and cutlets, it will reduce retail ceiling prices for rib chops, shoulder cuts and breast of veal.

In another action concerning the meat industry, the Office of Price Stabilization announced more species of livestock permitted to slaughter of livestock.

Furthermore, persons to have one or more species of stock slaughtered for sale are permitted to have all livestock slaughtered. Present record keeping requirements concerning the effect, however.

GI Railroader Goes Behind Iron Curtain

AP Newsfeatures
FRANKFURT, Germany (AP)—The portly man handed his travel orders to the major and asked anxiously: "There won't be any shooting, will there?"

Maj. Charles Woerple smiled and motioned the man aboard the Berliner, waiting on the track for the highball toward the Iron Curtain.

"Nothing to worry about," he said. "It's just another train ride."

As the man swung aboard, Woerple's smile broadened to a grin. "We get 'em like that sometimes," he said. "They think a trip to Berlin is like traveling through the jaws of death."

Unusual Train

Maj. Woerple runs one of the most unusual trains in the world. Its passengers must have orders written in Russian to ride it under American protection through the East German countryside.

Maj. Woerple is a pretty old hand at traveling himself. He went through World War II in the 32nd Division, where he won the Silver Star, Bronze Star, and a couple of Purple Hearts in the South Pacific. Later he came to Europe and became rail transport officer. Now he's deputy chief of the rail transport section here, and sees that military trains are run by the book.

The Berliner gives him his odddest job.

Since it traverses 100 miles of the Russian Zone of Germany, the Russians take a proprietary interest in it. They keep a close check on the passenger lists.

Men Wanted for USO Work

AP Newsfeatures

GIRLS are the top favorites of U.S. servicemen when it comes to USO entertainment. But men have their place in the work of the organization. Thousands of men all over the country have found their skills and time valuable in making life easier for men in uniform. They run movie machines, teach golf, drive cars, and give legal advice. These pictures show some of them at work.

close check, too. From the time the Berliner leaves either end of its run, the train is sealed. Two military policemen, a baggage guard, and a train commander keep things under control.

Military personnel, their dependents, high commission employes and some tourists with good connections, can obtain order to ride the Berliner.

The Berliner's big stop is at Helmstedt-Marienborn, where the Russian Zone begins. There the train commander drops off with an interpreter and hands over a copy of the passenger list to a stolid Russian officer.

Lt. Ronald D. Smith of Lakotah, N.D., is one train commander who can give and take with the Russians. At Helmstedt the Communist loudspeakers often play American jazz records, heavily larded with anti-American propaganda speeches.

"I just stroll down the platform and listen," Lt. Smith says. "This always makes the Russians nervous. They figure I ought to get mad at speeches calling us war mongers. I pretend I like the music and it really throws those guys."

Icy Politeness
The Russians treat the American military crew with icy politeness and for more than a year have not made any trouble. Sometimes Russian military police talk to their U.S. opposite numbers.

Most annoyances riding the Berliner come from inside the train. Maj. Woerple and his men sometimes have trouble with the Saturday night funster who sneaks a bottle aboard. Drinking on the Berliner is prohibited. There is also the railroad romantic who finds the rules of sex segregation obnoxious. He is dealt with summarily.

Maj. Woerple and his assistants are like the skipper of a liner at sea—they are in complete charge and, if necessary, can tell a general what not to do.

Tips On Trouser Pressing

HERE'S HOW—Summer wash trousers are easy to iron if you know how. Place trousers on board, turn out pockets and iron them and waistband first. Turn iron both sides of front covering. Then place flat on board and be sure trouser seams match. Fold back top leg and press inside of bottom leg to match. Then reverse top leg and press toward waistband. Last turn trousers over and repeat. Steam iron helps.

Phone Company Seeks Increase Of 40 Per Cent

At a meeting Thursday night at 8 p.m. in City Hall the City Commissioners received representatives of the Southwestern Associated Telephone Company, L. D. Shelley and T. Wade Potter. The two groups entered into a discussion of the 40 per cent rate increase which the local company is seeking. In putting through the proposed increase the company desires the moral support of the city fathers. The commissioners received the rate increase proposal under advisement, but took no action in the case.

A street light at the intersection of East 6th and Wroe Avenue was authorized. This is the corner on which stands the new Educational Building of the First Baptist Church.

The City Commissioners also worked out some modifications in the building code. The ordinance now in effect was passed May 10, 1932. It is felt that the twenty-year-old law needs revision. At the time it was drawn up, little was known about building materials other than brick construction, and this outdated ordinance limits building in Littlefield almost exclusively to brick. It is self-evident that the ruling is too rigid in view of modern construction improvements. Modifications on which the city fathers are working would broaden the city building code, making it more liberal so that it will include structures of concrete and other approved materials.

Government officials, including Secretary of Labor Maurice J. Tobin, will be principal speakers at the meetings.

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce, co-ordinator of the series, estimated West Texans will need 20,000 more braceros this year than in 1951, when approximately 90,000 were processed to producers of the region.

Building Is Under Construction For Lawrence Nickels

Construction began Thursday morning on a building to house the Allis-Chalmers dealership which has recently been purchased by Lawrence Nickels. The site of the dealership will be next to Culligan Soft Water Service at 1016 East Ninth street.

Contract for the new building has been let to Dutch Higgins, general contractor, from Lubbock and a former Littlefield resident.

Foundations had been dug and concrete was being poured early Thursday. When questioned about a completion date, Mr. Higgins, with one eye still on the seven-man crew he was directing, said confidently that the new place of business would be finished in "about 40 days."

The Nickels Allis-Chalmers agency will be housed in a brick and tile structure with a steel-truss framework. Floor and roof will be of concrete.

The structure will be divided into two parts. In the front a 40x50 ft. area will contain office, display, and parts department. The workshop in the rear will be 40x50. Estimates on the entire cost of the building are in the neighborhood of $16,000.

"Quo Vadis" Will Be Featured at Palace Theater IN Littlefield July 27 to 31

Rome in flames while Nero fiddles from atop a nearby hill; human stampede through the crumbling streets to leave the inferno; Christian captives slaughtered by lions; martyrs burned on fiery crosses; headlong chariot races by Roman centurions—those who buy tickets to see "Quo Vadis" next week at the Rio Theatre in Littlefield will be rewarded in full measure with that which brought them to the theatre. The glance of the spectator will be dazzled by spectacle, color, and panoramas of huge masses captured by the all-seeing eye of the technicolor camera. "Quo Vadis" will be featured at the Rio Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, July 27-31.

Robert Taylor portrays the arrogant Marcus who is drawn away from the lusty philosophy and behaviorism of corrupt Rome to a sense of justice and truth through his love for Lygia, the beautiful, auburn-haired ward of an old Christian couple. Marcus is a magnetic physical specimen of a Roman young blood and military commander fresh from triumphs in Gaul and ready for anything to entertain himself.

Deborah Kerr is softly lovely and firmly convincing as the Christian hostage whose love for Marcus supplies the element which personalizes the procession of pageantry and physical movement that give "Quo Vadis" its principal appeal.

"Quo Vadis," considered as a motion picture event is eminently outstanding for its astonishing management of crowds, expansive array of costumes, groups, and movement.

Final scenes of the torture of the Christians bring to spectacular climax all of the pageantry that has gone before the spectator in the two-hours and fifty-one minutes that it takes to see the film. And it is these scenes of physical action and blunt heroics that the audience will find most exciting and memorable. You cannot afford to miss this great epoch in the history of the world and the epic-making movie which tells its story. See "Quo Vadis."

Ethan Allen, head baseball coach at Yale, jumped from the University of Cincinnati campus straight to the major leagues. He played pro ball in both the American and National Leagues for 13 years.

Oklahoma Tempts Tourists Scenery and History

The Oklahoma Planning and Resources Board is trying to tempt tourists with "Did you know Oklahoma has:"

The oldest petrified tree known to man in a petrified forest; sulphur springs; salt plains; two of the biggest man-made lakes in the country; zinc, lead and coal mines; basic industry of agriculture?

GRAND LAKE in Oklahoma is a source of electricity and also a recreation area. Above, a sight seeing boat noses into lake.

Governor Spearheads Program
 Since taking office two years ago, Gov. Johnston Murray has pushed plans for greater facilities at state parks, a better information service for tourists and generally improved accommodations.

A dozen informative booklets have been issued about tourist attractions, and one of the most interesting is a travel stamp album. It lists all of the state's attractions and has a place for stamps with pictures of 50 of the spots. The album is given free and as the tourist visits each of the spots, he purchases a stamp to put in his book.

The best known and most widely visited place in Oklahoma is the Will Rogers Memorial, nestled on the rolling hills in northeast Oklahoma. The large, native stone structure contains many rooms filled with Rogers' saddles, ropes, battered typewriter and other personal possessions. Rogers, his wife and youngest son are buried there.

Million Dollar Lodge
 Lake Murray State Park in South Oklahoma comprises 21,000 acres including a 6,000 acre lake. The state has just completed a million-dollar air-conditioned lodge and there are dozens of modern cabins which attracted 700,000 persons last year.

Lake Texoma on the Red River between Durant, Okla., and Denison, Texas, is the largest of Oklahoma lakes and the reservoir is the fifth largest in the United States. The dam is the largest earthen dam of its kind in the world and inundates 60,000 acres. Private facilities are available for fishing, hunting, boating and vacationing.

Grand Lake in the northeast corner covers about 60,000 acres and is the site of a large state electrical project. There are an estimated 100 good-sized man-made lakes in Oklahoma.

Belle Starr Hangout
 The state parks range from Robbers Cave in the semi-wilderness of southeast Oklahoma, where the famed bandit chieftain Belle Starr hid from posies, to Bolling Springs Park, which is like an oasis in the semi-arid section of the northwest plains.

The state has historical markers to show the points of interest. Several of the old Army posts have been rebuilt and many spots memorable in Indian history are preserved.

A shock to most tourists is the fact that they fail to see any Indians in the full native dress of the story books. Virtually all Indians have adopted the customs and dress of the white man and only during pow-wows and other ceremonies do they dress in tribal costume.

"Reaching From Heaven," Religious Film, Will Be Shown Here July 30-31

According to Frank Benson, special representative of the motion picture, "Reaching From Heaven," which shows at the LFD Lincoln Theatre Wednesday and Thursday July 30 and 31, ministers of all faiths are enthusiastically endorsing this picture. Dr. Albert Freeman, president of the Wichita Falls Ministerial Alliance and pastor of the First Methodist Church in that city, had the following endorsement printed without reservation in the management of Mr. Benson in both daily newspapers:

"It was my pleasure to see 'Reaching From Heaven,' and it was a genuine religious experience. I would be happy for every person in Wichita Falls to see this picture because I think it will revive their spiritual life and make them better citizens."

A pastor in one city where "Reaching From Heaven" played, announced he would cancel Sunday night services if the congregation would go see the film.

A 35-year old great, great grandmother, Mrs. E. L. McKee of Wichita Falls, who had never seen a talking picture, and who objected to motion pictures on religious grounds, attended the film during the Wichita Falls engagement. According to Mr. Benson, Mrs. McKee said it was an experience that was glad God had let her live long enough to enjoy.

Non-Denominational Film

"Reaching From Heaven" is non-denominational and can only be identified as Protestant. It will do for Protestant ministers, who have often claimed Holy-wood portrayed them as uneducated and sometimes ridiculous, what "Going My Way" and "Bells of St. Mary's" did for Catholic priests.

Benson states that "Reaching From Heaven" has the big name stars and was produced on a low budget, but that the film and the public's reaction is amazing everywhere. The characters are all well-known Hollywood personalities and competent actors. The stars are Hugh Beaumont, who has the made lead, was besides being a side actor, is also a noted author, his stories appearing frequently in the Sunday Evening Post and other publications. Cheryl Walker has the feminine lead and very capably portrays a girl whose father says, "I had church poked down my throat three times on Sundays and twice a week, and no child of mine is going to have to go through that."

Regis Toomey gives a brilliant performance as the pastor in the story. John Qualen, who played Papa Malone in the Quinlan pictures, plays the part of a diagnosed refugee from Europe, around whom much of the story centers. Also seen in the cast are Name Bryant and Charles Evans.

Mr. Benson says even though the picture has a very happy ending, he advises the ladies that, according to his system of rating pictures, it's a three handkerchief picture. He also warns the men that they can expect some good-sized bumps to come in their throats.

West Texans —

Texas and New Mexico have many common problems in developing the water belt along the State lines. At a recent meeting between four members of the Board of Directors of the High Plains Water District and members of the Board of Water Engineers in New Mexico discussion led to a suggestion that the two neighbor states cooperate for their mutual benefit. Investigations by the U.S. Geological Survey in both States will be requested to decide if it would be practicable and possible to set up a regulator not permitting a well to be drilled within an estimated one-half mile of the State line on either side. It is the opinion of the High Plains board that such a regulation might do away with the competition among farmers adjoining the State line on either side.

Final decision will be announced jointly by the U.S. Geological of each State.

Decide precinct and county races—then from the counties of the state as state primary election results become known.

We invite you to be our guest and the guest of Radio Station KVOW at this special Radio broadcast starting shortly after the polls close Saturday evening—as we follow our time-worn custom of seeking to bring you the important news of our community—daily, and FIRST.

Steve that complete harmony was achieved in Chicago this week, no more needs his head examined than do the Texans who believe that the Maverick and Shivers factions in the state exactly love each other—even now.

HE WHO laughs last best. Harry T. sets to go on a long vacation. A late report from the District of Columbia says that he has not, as yet, applied for his Old Age Pension.

AFTER listening to the noise and bedlam of two conventions on the Radio, we sorta long for "the good old days." Those old times didn't know convention results, for days and even weeks—until the horse-pot arrived, weren't doing so bad—not so bad.

THERE is no truth to the report that President Truman flew to Chicago to announce that he was deferring his annual Thanksgiving until after election day—Tuesday, November Fourth.

LAST BUT NOT LEAST let's not forget that there are several hundred thousand boys in Korea, who were not represented at EITHER convention.

First Baptist Church Revival Opens August 3; Dr. Porter Bailes To Preach

The First Baptist Church of Littlefield is initiating a distinguished new team of evangelists to the city in another revival service during the week of August 3-5.

Dr. Porter E. Bailes who will preach the week's sermons has been pastor of the First Baptist Church, Dyer, Texas for the past twenty-five years. Under his direction the church has experienced a marvelous growth during these years. It is now a church of some 250 members.

For many years Dr. Bailes has been a leader among Texas Baptists serving in many important positions. The outstanding contribution of his life has been as a pastor-evangelist. He has given much of his time to evangelizing in Dallas. Mr. Bailes has worked previously with Dr. Bailes in revival services.

Two services a day will be conducted throughout the week. The morning service at 10:30 a.m. and the evening service at 8:00 p.m.

At 8:00 p.m. before each evening service, prayer groups will meet in the church sanctuary. A different church organization will sponsor and be recognized in the services each night. Monday, W.M.U. and Brotherhood; Tuesday, Training Union; Wednesday, Sunday School; Thursday, Family night; and Friday, Young People.

As a preface to the messages which will be brought to the congregation during the week, Rev. Lee Memphis, pastor of the church, will speak from his vacation this weekend to deliver a special sermon, "New Testament Revival" which looks forward to the thoughts of the amazing services.

Preparation for the revival by the staff and members of the church has been extensive. Thursday, July 31 was designated as a day of visitation in the homes of all church members and recent arrivals in the city. The staff wishes to announce for the benefit of families with small children that the church nursery will be open during all services.

Dr. Bailes and Steve Heather have won the hearts of Texas Baptists with their preaching and singing. Both are geniuses at winning the attention and interest of their audiences. The First Baptist Church feels fortunate to be able to present them to the people of the Plains area and extends a cordial invitation to everyone to come and hear this great, soul-winning team.

Kefauver Leads —

*Richard Russell	263
Averil Harriman	125 1/2
Senator Kerr	65
Alvin Barkley	45 1/2

*The solid Texas delegation cast its first vote for Russell.

Kefauver Holds His Lead

The second ballot was completed at 5:15 Friday afternoon. The result, the shifts on the second ballot, brought some surprises. Senator Kefauver, leading, gained 12 1/2 votes; Stevenson, gained 45 1/2 votes; Russell gained 26 votes; Harriman lost 4 1/2 votes; Kerr lost 59 1/2; Barkley gained 30 votes.

Following is the result of the second convention ballot standing of the top six candidates:

Estes Kefauver	362 1/2
Stevenson	324 1/2
Russell	129
Harriman	78 1/2
Barkley	5 1/2
Kerr	5 1/2

Favorite Sons Get Votes

The six other nominees of the party, made up mostly of favorite sons from various states, received a scattering of votes. They included: Sen. Humphrey of Minnesota, McMahon of Connecticut, Senator Fulbright of Arkansas, Gov. Devers of Massachusetts, and Security Administrator Ewing, President Truman, Sen. Douglas of Illinois, and Murray of Montana (not nominated) received scattering first ballot support.

A quickie analysis of the first ballot, seemed to point out that

Insurance Firm Seeks Formal Opening

The Mangum-Chester held open house Friday to 5 p.m. in their new building at 430 XIT Drive.

The beautifully appointed office was almost hidden by a profusion of floral arrangements, friends, business firm visitors of this general firm. At least 20 baskets of soft and roses were on desks, office partitions and floor.

A casual glance at the front of the building might be taken off any prospect who was easily induced by a brown bear, who glances but not look at the persevering visitor.

The persevering visitor were met with welcome and courteous attention by A. Hilburn, secretary and manager of the firm, and per Mangum, T. A. Hilburn, Chesler.

Visitors were encouraged to look at the whole building, the "back room" which there was the possibility of a long drawn out which might continue to day.

At that hour, the commended, with the third balloted at 8:00 p.m. Friday.

Truman Reached Chicago

President Truman arrived in Chicago during the taking of the second ballot, and was scheduled to visit the convention Friday evening. He has publicly endorsed Adlai Stevenson, and his appearance at the convention was expected to give impetus to a swing to Stevenson. If a nominee had not been made at that hour, whether it would give him the 616 votes necessary for nomination was anybody's guess, with both Kefauver and Russell fighting desperately to stop him.

No Hint On Vice President

As to where the Vice Presidential nomination may go, thus far there is no definite trend, and even a trend must await the naming of the top candidate. Several of the Presidential nominees, are being mentioned for the Vice Presidency.

Deadline A Possibility

With a deadline not generally expected, beyond probably the third or at the outside fourth ballot, such a possibility could not be ruled out. Alvin Barkley and Sam Rayburn, were still mentioned as the men, most likely to be named in a deadlock circumstance.

More Ballots Coming

As of 6:00 p.m., Friday evening, as the Leader went to press, the nomination had not been made, and slipped but he got from dead. Three Roosevelt, Eleanor, Jimmie and F.D.R. Jr., each addressed the convention. Eleanor was for United Nations; Jimmie by Kefauver; Franklin for Hartman.

RAM Rayburn, permanent chairman, maintained a open big compromise—a limited number ones—to keep three Southern States, in order, in the convention. Texas, has at least that many reasons for being proud of Ram—repeatedly mentioned as a possible "compromise" candidate in case of deadlock.

FOURTEEN Hours of continuous sessions, undoubtedly set an all-time record of convention endurance. It took a fire to get them to adjourn. That marks the first time that a City Fire Chief took over as the permanent chairman of a National convention.

COLORFUL Jim Farley was still a big man in the convention. His choice and his support to—Barkley.

ALL HOPE of a first ballot nomination for anybody went out the window, as with few exceptions, every delegation split their vote on the first ballot.

NOBODY could expect a harmonious convention with twelve candidates nominated. Nobody, was disappointed.

DESPITE Reports to the contrary, W.D.T. Storey has NOT been in hourly contact with the White House.

TWO of the twelve nominated candidates had withdrawn before the balloting started Friday. McMahon of Connecticut who was ill, Alvin Barkley of Kentucky had a lot of troubles.

LITTLEFIELD is getting the convention on television, and at times very clearly. Zachary electric with a television in operation at their place of business, has been the most crowded place in town. Report was current, that the TV reception here came (via houses) from North Carolina.

THERE was no outstanding leader or boss, if you prefer to use the word, at this Democratic convention. There were many indications at times, that there was a crying need for such, as delegates often floundered. Democrats have got used to being told what to do for 20 years, Republicans say, too long.

CONVENTION was very short of Generals. The shortage was temporarily alleviated, when "Captain Harry" flew in from Washington.

AFTER sixteen years of "FDR" and "HOT," as this is written the prospects are that we may have four years of "AR," which is maybe synonymous, but not exactly correct spelling of the Democratic symbol.

HARDY Shelby has carried a big grin all week. With every radio working, and lights blazing long after usual hours—business was mighty good—as Southwestern Public Service meters worked overtime.

OTHA Dent, Lamb county representative at the convention, was reported as the best-fed delegate at the convention—thanks to our advice to carry his sandwiches with him.
