ACTIVITIES PLANNED THIS TERM

Hemphill Believes
Enrollment Will Reach 1400

Enrollment of 1336 school bells rang this morning at the Littlefield public school opening exercises Monday morning. Enrollment compares with figures, 1,336, which were at the end of the school last year. The ratio of enrollments to proportion to scholars, Supt. F. A. Hemphill believes there is every reason to expect that the enrollment will reach a total of 1400 pupils. This includes the school which has, to date, approximately 50 pupils. Figures were reported after school in the school, 365 pupils had enrolled with 390 at the first month of last year's enrollment. 488 students have enrolled in the intermediate grades. Enrollment will probably reach 483 within the next few days. The first month last year, 433 pupils enrolled, and at the last of the year, there had been 483 students enrolled. The school opened with a very busy and much activity has been planned for the coming year. Hemphill expressed his pleasure with the school's most productive and successful year. He reports an exceptionally fine group of teachers and many new pupils have been instituted and considered.

P.-T. A. To Hold First Meeting Of Year In Auditorium Wednesday

The initial 1938-39 meeting of the Littlefield Parent-Teacher Association will be held at the high school auditorium next Wednesday afternoon, September 14, at 4 p. m. Mrs. Warren Rutledge, president elect, is extending a wide and urgent invitation to the patrons of the Littlefield schools to be present. Plans for the year's work will be outlined, and steps to develop a very functional organization will be taken. Two items to be treated at this opening meeting, which should be of particular interest to the parents, are the discussion of the type of report cards desired by the parents and explanations and discussions of some of the methods of pupil adjustment, and grade placement now in use in the local schools. The discussion concerning the report cards should attract a large attendance since these cards are for the parents, to give them such information concerning their children's progress in school as they desire. It is hoped that a report form which best meets the parents' wishes, will be the outcome of the

LOSES ARM IN ACCIDENT

W. TOWNSEND IS VICTIM IN AUTO- TRUCK MISHAP

Reported To Have Had Arm Out Of Car
Window

Wendell Townsend, 23, suffered the loss of his left arm above the elbow, when about 1:30 o'clock Tuesday morning, about a mile east of town, the car he was driving was sideswiped by a truck.

Riding with him in the light sedan at the time of the accident were Curtis Heard and Carl Weathers, who reported that Townsend had his arm either out of the car window, or resting on the window, when the truck, in sideswiping, cut his arm off.

Curtis Heard is reported to have changed places quickly with Townsend and brought him to the Payne-Shotwell hospital in a very few minutes, without even stopping the car.

The truck is reported to have gone on, the driver probably not knowing what had happened. A glass in the window of the sedan was broken and the left fender slightly damaged.

Mr. Townsend is married and he and his wife are making their home with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Townsend, six miles southwest of Littlefield.

Inch Moisture Here

Beneficial rains fell generally over Littlefield and trade territory Saturday, continuing showery and cloudy until Tuesday, when a total of 83/100 of an inch had fallen. The moisture falling quietly as it did was especially helpful to parched crops.

Reports from the surrounding territory indicate the rainfall as follows: Bula 2 inches, Pep 1 1/2 inches, Spade half an inch; Fieldton, an inch; Valleyview 1 1/2 inches; Amherst, Sudan and Muleshoe one inch; Olton 1 22/100 inches; Morton and Enochs 2 inches, and Anton 1/4 of an inch; Levelland 1 1/4; Post 3/4 of an inch; and Crosbyton half an inch.

"Mary!" he called.

There was a sort of muffled cry for an answer and Dave shot the lock off. He knew the two men after the horses would have heard the shots and would probably be running back now.

Once in the dark room, he made out a figure sitting tensely on the cot.

"Dave!" she said.

She was in his arms sobbing before he could recover from his surprise.

"Dorsey. Mary isn't here?"

"No. No. I don't think so."

"Who has the keys to the leg irons?"

"I don't know their names, but it's the boss."

He ran over to Sayres, rolled the body over and fumbled through the pockets. His hands paused and he listened, hearing the pounding of running feet. Slowly, his hand left Sayres and settled to his gun-butt, his eyes narrowing. The running ceased, and a man stepped through the door hesitantly, guns already drawn.

Dave shot just once more and the man pitched forward on his face. Suddenly, a window shattered and Dave laughed.

The second outlaw had chosen wisely. He was fortified behind a rock sixty yards in front of the house.

Dave found the keys on Sayres and returned to Dorsey, who white and trembling, had witnessed through the open door the duel with the outlaw.

"We kill coyotes because they kill our cattle," Dave said softly, "And we have to kill these hombres or they'll kill us."

"I know."

"No, you dont," Dave said, "but you will when you understand. It's just bloody and cruel."

"Do you feel that way about it too?" Dorsey asked wonderingly.

"More than you," Dave answered.

"More because I'm the one that's out to kill and kill."

"Then this isn't the end?" she asked.

Dave shook his head grimly. The outlaw in front of the cabin was still to be accounted for.

"Can we get away?"

Dave nodded. He stepped to the back door of the addition and shot the lock off.

"Step through here and wait for me outside."

"What are you going to do?"

"A dirty job," Dave said slowly, "but a decent one, I reckon, at that. I'm goin' to fire the place."

When she had stepped outside Dave went into the main room and scattered lamp oil on the floor and the blankets. Then he touched it off and stepped outside.

"That hombre, out front has only got a six-gun," Dave said. "He can't hit us—I don't think he can even see us. Make a run for the barn and I'll follow you."

"Look out! Dave."

Dave dropped on his face as a shot blazed from the corner of the cabin. He landed on his stomach, rolling on his side, his free arm whipped out his gun. Only the edge of a hatbrim and a gun showed, but Dave Dave emptied his gun at them as he watched the other gun explode. He felt a hot searing pain in his arm and then the shooting ceased.

V. L. Bitner Home Destroyed By Fire Early Saturday

The home of Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Bitner, 2 1-2 miles east of town, was destroyed by fire about 7:15 Saturday morning, and everything lost with the exception of the clothing Mrs. Bitner and the children were wearing.

Mr. Bitner was brought home from a local hospital the day previous, and was obliged to return when the fire occurred.

The fire was caused by the family gasoline cook store leaking gas, which exploded, throwing the fire about the room.

Herbert Martin and R. S. Beyer made a business trip to Amarillo Wednesday.

Rev. Murice McPherland of Bryson, Texas, visited his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. H. McFarland, here, Tuesday of last week. He was accompanied by his friend Winston Kuykendall, also of Bryson.

Dave shuddered and looked away.

"I reckon we better hightail it," he said finally, and added slowly, "I'm sorry about that, but there was no other way out."

Dorsey stood up suddenly.

"Take me home, please."

Dave remembered the stinging scorn in her voice when he had seen her in Dr. Fullerton's. "We'll get the horses."

"Where are they?"

"About a mile from here. Can you walk it?"

"Yes, I—" Dorsey at last lifted her eyes to his set white face.

The blouse of pattern 8129 is designed to be worn with separate skirts and suits and many women choose this pattern for the added practicality which it offers. ## Lamb County Has 417 Births In 1937; 20 Children Die

Austin, Texas, Sept. 3, (Special to Leader)—"In Texas during 1937, 698 mothers lost their lives through childbirth and associated conditions. Fatality struck 8,618 babies under one year of age and 3,972 infants were stillborn. These facts become particularly distressing when it is realized that at least two-thirds of this motherhood mortality could have been avoided," states Dr. Geo. W. Cox, State Health Officer.

Lamb county had 117 total live births of which 405 were white, 8 were negro, and 4 Mexican; 217 of the infants were male and 200 female. Physicians attended the births of 408 infants and midwives attended 6; 100 of the total births were in hospitals and 317 at home; 10 children were stillborn, giving the county a rate of 2.4 per 100 live births; 20 children died under one year of age, a rate of 47.9 per 1000 births, and 1 mother died in childbirth, a rate of 23.9 per cent per 10,000 live births.

The FEUD at SINGLE SHOT By Luke Short

WHITE'S VERMIFUGE Killing Round Worms reducing Pin Worm in children. Price 35c. DRUG STORE

Single Shot, the sheriff tells Dave he is not wanted. Quinn defends Dave but Dave and Rand go to Soledad to meet Mary, Dave's sister, and proceed on horseback to the ranch. Mary reveals she is married and tells Dave that the ranch is doing poorly, being beset by nesters and involved in a claim dispute. Suddenly a shot from the darkness topples Dave from his horse. Rosy fires and kills the unknown assailant and they rush to the ranch to treat Dave's severe scalp wound. Next morning, at breakfast, Dave and Rosy discover that Mary is now cooking for the ranch hands—a bad sign. After discussing financial matters with Mary, Dave and Rosy saddle horses and leave for Single Shot to deliver a corpse to the sheriff and see the town banker. Identity of corpse reveals him to be ex-employee of Hammond's. Dave, Rosy and the sheriff immediately confront Hammond with facts. Fight between Hammond and Dave prevented by sheriff. Dave plans to raise alfalfa on his land and use money to pay off mortgage. Someone blew up the lake. Hammond thought it was Dave and the latter suspected Hammond or his men. A chance meeting of the two gives them an opportunity to clear away this false impression. The hunt now turns to Crowell, the mysterious man of means and ambitions. Rosy rushes to Winter's home to tell Mary of his suspicions about her husband and asks her help to prove his findings. Laredo evolves a scheme to arrest Crowell as a murder suspect in order to hold him for questioning.

Half way up in its arc, the horse started a sunfish, and when it landed Dave felt as if he were going to be ripped out of the saddle with the sudden fall. The horse had gone over the trail edge. With Dave's weight on its back the horse started to plummet down the steep slope. Dimly, Dave realized that in the quick descent, Lew, who had held to the rope trying to fight the horse down, had been swept from his saddle by the swift yank on it. "Steady, boy," he called. "Steady, steady," he muttered soothingly and part of his calm was communicated to the horse, who stopped, trembling. He had to be quick. Closing his eyes he pulled savagely at the thongs binding his wrists to the saddle horn. A sickening rip of skin and one hand was free. Soon the other was able to help him as he turned in his saddle, struggled to free his slicker. The slicker free, Dave unrolled it swiftly and found the gun Hank had given him. Then reaching down and setting the bridle as reins, he spurred the horse slowly from behind the rock, looking up at the trail. He listened for the sound of horses in the canyon bed. They were coming, both cursing savagely, at a gallop. Dave pulled his roan close in to the rock and balanced his gun lightly in his bloody palm his eyes thin, flinty slits in his face. Lew was the first to charge by, and Dave yelled. Reilly, close on Lew's heels, lunged into sight. Dave wheeled his horse broadside, in a high arc, slowly, crashed and bucked up. Reilly screamed as he catapulted from his saddle across his horse's neck and to the ground. "Two," he muttered thickly. Spurring his horse over, he looked down at the two men. Lew was dead, drilled through the head. Reilly was dying, if not dead. He started at the men dully, sunk in a stupor of pain and fatigue and thirst. He shook himself. The knots to the ropes were under the horse's belly where he could not reach them; so, loading his gun again, he shoved the muzzle of his Colt against the rope beside his foot and cut it with a shot. Dismounted, he was so weak his legs gave way under him. "I've got to drink," he thought dazedly, sitting on the ground. Crawling over to Lew's horse, he pulled the canteen from the saddle horn. After the first slow drink he paused, then took a deep draught, which strengthened him. Then he lay down in the shade of the rock, tore the slicker into strips and, after washing his wounds, bound them. He considered the two dead men. He pulled them over to the opposite side of the canyon. Laying them side by side, he piled a cairn of stones over them. Then he turned to the horses standing in the sun. Dave mounted Lew's pinto and cut Reilly's horse across the rump with his rope. Dave had no idea where the cabin lay, but he knew if given their heads the horses would make for it. Then he settled down, keeping his eyes and ears alert, riding close to Reilly's horse. His own mount followed wearily behind. As the time went on, he became more wary and moved closer to the lead horse, watching it. When he heard it whinny and saw it increase its pace, he spurred his horse and headed it off. Dismounting, he halted the horses to the ground, laying heavy rocks on their reins. He looked around. Ahead of him, the land rose, broken and rocky, to the lip of a ridge. Directly below Dave lay the barn nestled snugly against the rock out of the wind. In the corral adjoining it, he counted six horses, but Mary's was not among them. Watching the house and seeing no signs of life, he decided that no one was likely to come out and surprise him. He looped the lariat around a point of rock, tested it, then let himself down hand over hand to the barn roof. Flipping the rope loose he let himself down to the ground behind the barn. His eyes roved the barn, settling on a bearskin lying in a far corner. A plan formed slowly in his mind. Going out into the corral again, he moved toward the gate, which consisted of loose poles. The horses watched him. In the barn again, Dave picked up the bearskin and went to the stable door. He sailed the bearskin out into the middle of the corral, then dodged back quickly for the back of the addition. The horses, smelling the bearskin, milled wildly out the gate in a stampede. They fled past the south end of the house, heading down a narrow canyon to the east. Dave crawled softly around the north end of the shack. At the corner he stopped, listened. "Goddemighty, it's them horses scatterin'. Who left that corral gate down?" Dave did not recognize this voice, but he did the voice that answered. It was Sayres. "You did, Ed, damn you!" "But I never," Ed protested. "Shut up and round 'em up," Sayres ordered. "You help him too, Lafe." Dave edged his head around the corner of the house in time to see two men file out and head down the canyon afoot. He gave them time to get out of sight, then he edged around the front door on his hands and knees. He heard two men, one of them Sayres.

"Fat'll send word where the posse's headin' for. He'll have some one in the posse, don't you worry. If they crowd us, we better take the gal back to the line camp in the timber, north. "Shes a pretty gal," the second voice said. "Ain't she, though?" Sayres drawled. Dave straightened up and swung the door open. Both men were seated at one end of the table, a bottle before them. In the least part of a second Dave divined what Sayres was going to do. Seated, the outlaw could not get at his guns. He made a leap to place himself behind the stranger, his hands clawing at his guns. Dave's shot was quick, hasty, hardly allowing time for his Colts to clear leather. The shot caught Sayres in the side and pitched him into the stranger. The impact sprawled the both on the floor. Then Dave's rage broke, as he emptied his guns into Sayres and the stranger. A feeling of sickness and weariness and disgust enveloped Dave as he let his gun sag. Sayres lay sprawled over the upset chair, face down, his guns fallen out of his lifeless grip. The stranger lay peacefully on his back. He shucked cartridges into his guns as he strode to the padlocked (Continued on McCormick Page)

LOAN RATE ON 1938 COTTON SET AT A BASE RATE OF 8.30 POUND FOR 7-8 INCH

"The cotton loan rate is a very satisfactory one from every angle," Geo. Slaughter, Wharton, chairman of the Texas Agricultural Conservation Committee, has commented. The U. S. Department of Agriculture has set the loan rate on 1938 cotton at a base rate of 8.50 a pound for 7-8 inch middling, with differentials for other grades and staples lengths. The loans will actually run from 5.30 cents on 13-16 inch or shorter low middling to 10.75 cents on 1-8 inch or longer good middling or better cotton. "The main function of the cotton loans should be to set a bottom to the market and to help growers who wish to hold cotton off the market for possible higher prices," Slaughter said.

Loan rates at a higher level, as desired by many, would have tended to hurt rather than help the cotton situation, he believes. "A large proportion of the crop would have gone from commercial channels to the hands of the government. This would have further aggravated our foreign market problem, and while cotton farmers would have been helped temporarily, the long time effect would have been disastrous."

Workers of the Texas A. and M. College Extension Service were pleased with the provisions of the loan plan which dealt with variable rates for different grades and staple length. The movement to improve the quality of Texas cotton, they felt, had been hindered in the past by a blanket loan rate.

Reports from Dumas were that Moore county received an average of 1.75 inches over the county and crop prospects were "much revived there."

Texico got 1.25 inches; Bovina, Friona and Black, an inch, and from Hereford to Amarillo about a quarter, although rainfall at Amarillo proper was about .6 of an inch. Panhandle, White Deer and Pampa received a quarter-inch. Follette, Darouzzette and Booker, in the extreme northeast corner of the Panhandle, each received an inch.

A National Safety Laboratory

The use of the Baltimore-Washington Highway as a national laboratory of traffic safety has been proposed by the American Legion. It looks like an important, practical step in attacking the nation's traffic accident problem. Automobile fatalities in the United States numbered close to 40,000 in 1937.

The plan, as explained by Bruce T. Bair, retiring Commander of the Maryland Legion, calls for the Baltimore-Washington Boulevard, one of the most heavily traveled highways in the country, to be modernized to incorporate the most advanced methods in road construction and traffic planning. It will be provided with personnel for adequate enforcement and accident research and should serve as an admirable laboratory for the study of all traffic and safety factors. Because 26 of the 31 fatalities occurring on the highway in 1937 happened after the Legion is urging the installation of modern highway lighting along its entire course.

Because it leads to and from the nation's capital, this is about the one highway in the country which would attract widespread national interest. Every state might well develop similar model, safety highways, in the light of the experiments and experience developed here by the Federal government.

A Harry Moore, Governor of New Jersey and Chairman of the President's Accident Prevention Conference, has assured the Legion of the interest of the Conference. The project has also been endorsed by Governor Nice of Maryland and other. It would seem appropriate that such a Federal safety laboratory should be established at the Capital's front door.

Industry And Agriculture

The best news that has come out in a long time is the report from Detroit that the big automobile companies are calling men back to work and that the rains have changed the "dust bowl" back into productive farms which promise the largest yield of wheat in a quarter of a century.

The motor manufacturers reduced their output for 1938, with the result that most of the stock is practically sold out, and in the higher-priced cars buyers are gobbling up the best of the "used" cars of last year's models. Now the makers of the popular-priced cars are looking forward to larger sales than ever of their new models, and are preparing to put them on the market earlier than usual.

One of the reasons for the car-builder's optimism is the certainty that there will be many millions more dollars flowing into the pockets of farmers as this year's bounteous harvest is marketed. That much of this money will be spent for new cars is regarded as certain, for the motor-car is as essential to farm life as the horse and buggy used to be. Probably the worst examples of worn-out cars still doing duty can be found in the regions where farmers have seen little or no money coming in for the past few years.

Prosperity in America has always been measured by the productivity of our farms and the ability of the rural population to buy the product of our factories. That is as true today as it ever was, though the proportion of farm folk to city dwellers continues to diminish.

There are still more than six million families living on farms, twice as many more living in rural communities and small towns dependent in large measure upon the prosperity of the farmer. And the automobile industry is only one of many equally dependent on farming.

Howdy Folks: Friend of mine is building a new home via the F.H.A. route. I asked him how many years the loan would be payable in and he told me that he confidently expected to finish the payments out of his old age pension. Oh—he's still comfortably young so—you can figure it out for yourself.

Doc. Orr is very busy these days. He is studying equipment and fancy furniture descriptions. Getting ready to have his offices and laboratory at the new hospital, fixed right up to the next minute. Hot and cold door knobs, running gas, incandescent lights and all the other gadgets that make tooth pulling a positive pleasure. If I had a couple of extra teeth I'd love to take an afternoon off and enjoy myself in Doc's modern, streamline molar extractorium.

I sure felt sorry for Jack Farr the other day. A friend of ours had just returned from New York City, and was telling about his trip, when Jack butted in with the question: "Well, the cotton crop isn't much up there?" You just can't take the country out of these Hill Billies. Even after they get into the diamond business—all they can think about is cotton. No—Jack the only way they produce cotton in New York is in all wool suits and things like that.

That Quizzing Bee conducted by professors Donald Harris and William Chesher, at the Rotary luncheon last week, was entirely unfair and altogether too sudden. They asked us youngsters a lot of questions about things that occurred before our time and happened a furr piece away from the home plate. No wonder they struck most of us out.

I am asked to announce that there will be a mass meeting of all the landlords who have reduced rents since the depression. They're all going to meet in Telephone Booth No. 2.

One of my store-keeper friends, rushed out of his shop the other morning. He had just received his monthly bank statement and exclaimed—"Got to hurry down to the bank—they made a $132 mistake in my account." Of course I wouldn't accuse him of bragging but I know darned well that such a thing could never happen to me. No—Herman, I'm not going to tell you why it couldn't happen to me—your guess is as good as mine.

To put at ease—the many anxious and curious Thespians who have been wondering about the Little Theatre, I wish to announce that we will positively not produce Strange Interlude, Uncle Tom's Cabin or King Henry The Eighth; we have no vacancies for Hamlets, Julius Caesar's or Charley McCarthy's. Furthermore—I intend to play Romeo myself—when, as, if and how.

IRISH EYES SMILE AGAIN!

A few months ago, at the graduation exercises of the Littlefield grammar school, a handsome young lad—J. C. Moody, was singing, "When Irish Eyes Are Smiling." Our hearts were filled with song and cheer as we looked and listened. Last night a frail remnant of this boy, came up to me and said, "Mr. Schein I was afraid I wasn't going to see you any more." By a miracle of modern surgery J. C.'s life had been saved. For 47 days he hovered between life and death at a hospital in Wharton, Texas. The significance lies in the fact that he CAME UP SMILING. He also laughed when he said, "They can't kid me now about being a freshman because I'm so little," and—he was still smiling. You can't down a chap who refuses to stop smiling. I wonder how many of us grown-ups would come up out of the shadows with a grin on our face and a jest on our lips?

Maureen Opposite Robert Taylor In "The Crowd Roars"

Maureen O'Sullivan wins the feminine lead opposite Robert Taylor for the second time in "The Crowd Roars," dramatic story of the modern prize ring, which comes to the Palace Theatre Saturday midnight.

is going to raise a crop of journalists at the Littlefield High school. It's going to make it kind o' tough on us poor copy grinds, news-shop slaves and cubs. Oh—I'm just jealous of the opportunity that the youngsters are going to have to climb to the Fourth Estate on the sturdy ladder of specialized training. Seriously—I think it's a wonderful innovation. The majority of newspapermen of the future—will come up through the class room and they will be fully equipped to meet the trillion problems that face the editor aside from mere copy grinding.

So long, DAVE SCHEIN.

continuing through Sunday and Monday. The new teaming is the result of their work together in "A Yank at Oxford."

As Shelia Carson, Miss O'Sullivan enacts the daughter of a big time gambler, Edward Arnold, who uses "Killer" McCoy, the starring character created by Taylor, as a pawn in his shady dealings. Her father's activities are unknown to Shelia until she is kidnapped by rival racketeers on the night of McCoy's championship fight. The story reaches its climax when McCoy, who is in love with Shelia, decides to throw the fight to save her.

Adapted to the screen from a story by George Bruce, author of "Navy Blue and Gold," the picture includes in its cast such outstanding names as Frank Morgan, playing Taylor's father, an ex-vaudeville "ham"; William Gargan as Johnny Martin, ex-light-heavy-weight champ who is killed in the ring by his former pupil, Taylor; Lionel Stander as Taylor's trainer, and Jane Wyman as Maureen O'Sullivan's school chum and rival for the star's affections. Richard Thorpe directed.

Much was accomplished during the first week of school, regular classes starting immediately after enrollment. An assembly was held on Monday of last week, and was well attended by patrons and other members of the community. Both old and new teachers were introduced, and given an opportunity to make a short talk.

The faculty for this year is composed of: Clifford Patterson, Supt. Miss Pauline Hawthorne, Principal and High School English; Miss Fae B. Bratcher, high school math; Miss Lilac Yeates, girls basketball and social science; Miss Allene Bowers, home economics; Frank Roberts, boys basketball and commercial subjects; Miss Lorene Hays, Math Science in the grades; Roach Allen, Social studies in the grades; Miss Bobbie Rivers, language and arts in the grades; Mrs. Clifford Patterson, Music and Arts in the grades; Miss Ina Merle Cooper, second and third grades; Miss Cleone Martin, first grade.

Wednesday of last week the P. T. A. had its first meeting. Plans were made for the County Council and school of instruction, which will be held at Spade on September 17 to get new members at contest between four parts of the district. Each division has two captains; and the winning group is to be entertained by the losers. Mrs. B. H. Hunt and Mrs. V. T. Lynch are captains of the Northwest corner; Mrs. G. M. Vann and Mrs. D. H. Allen, captain of the Northwest corner. Mrs. Jack Fowler and Mrs. Floyd Dyer are leaders in the Southwest corner, and Mrs. W. A. Bentley and Mrs. E. C. Hardman are captains of the Southeast corner.

The four high school classes were organized during the first week of school. The Freshman class with a membership of 27-12 girls and 15 boys—elected the following students as officers: Eulie Hall, president; Mary Nell Hurley, vice-president; Edward Fowler, secretary; Billie Verne Weatherly, reporter; Miss Bratcher was elected sponsor.

The Sophomore class chose Maurice Hall, president; Margaret Hurley, vice president; Ina Mae Padon, secretary; Jewel Caster, reporter; Miss Bows was elected sponsor. There are 28 in the sophomore class.

With a membership of 32, 20 girls and 12 boys, the Junior class elected Norvell Strawn, president; Mary Lou Rochester, vice-president; Edith Allen, secretary; Maurine Hale, reporter; Miss Yeates was chosen as sponsor.

The Senior class has a membership of eleven girls and thirteen boys. Fred Smith was elected president; Mary Ellen Ramage, vice-president; Evelyn Stanfield, secretary; Pauline Farr, reporter; D. H. Allen, Sergeant at Arms. Miss Hawthorne was elected sponsor.

Unusual interest has been shown this year in school and in school functions. Several entertainments are already scheduled, the first a high school picnic for Sept. 19.

The first high school play "Wild Ginger" will be given September 29. Miss Bratcher will sponsor the play and will announce the names of the characters within a few days.

Miss Yeatts, girls' coach, and Mr.

Roberts, boys' coach, have matched games with Cotton Center for October 6. Although Spade lost several of her good players last year, the teams are training like winners and promise basketball victories for Spade in the coming season.

Tennessean Is Very Enthusiastic Over This Section

J. E. Clark, of Kingsport, Tenn., arrived last week end and is visiting his cousin, Dr. J. E. Neims and family. This is his first trip to Texas, and he is very much elated over the vastness and beauty of the Western Plains, and the crops thereon. His county and home town, Kingsport, is in the north eastern corner of the state of Tennessee near Bristol, Virginia, a large manufacturing town, set in the mountains between two rivers. He was taken out to an irrigation well, and farm, and he really got a big thrill out of it. He stated that he had seen that in a movie once, but had never really believed it until now. It was raining when he arrived, and that was something also, for he had heard so much adverse news of Texas, that he thought it never rained here at all.

Mr. Clark likes Texas so well, especially West Texas, that he is considering a return here for his future home. In his state the average farm in size is approximately ten acres. Not a thing too dull a hoe on, but an occasional weed and row so long he states that it's like taking a trip to travel the entire length of one. Sunday he visited Lubbock, and Lynn counties, but believes that he would like it better in Lamb county. He was reared on an eastern farm, but has been employed by a manufacturing company for the past fifteen years.

The State Fair of Texas will honor its founders and pay a tribute to the newspapers of Texas for their success in building the "world's largest and most beautiful fair" during its first fifty years, with a monument to be unveiled on opening day, Saturday, October 8, which is also Press Day.

Every newspaper in Texas has been invited to send in a front page of its paper, upon which has been published a story on its community, which will be placed in a metal chest and placed in a crypt under the tablet "acknowledging a debt of gratitude to the Press of Texas."

The monument will stand eight feet tall on a base six feet in height. It will be finished in sand and ground granite. The monument is being executed by Jose Martin and Roual Josset.

Western Auto Associate Store Established Here

An addition to the business establishments in Littlefield is the Western Auto Associate Store, established this week by H. T. Bartley and son, Frank of Fort Worth, in the Dow building on the west side of Phelps Avenue, formerly occupied by Eddins Grocery.

According to Mr. Bartley, this concern is "home owned" and will be operated by him and his son under the name of "Western Auto Associate Store."

The owners of this new business have lived in Fort Worth for the past 18 years. They will be joined by Mrs. Bartley and another son, Eugene, within a short time.

The new store will carry the Davis De Luxe and Wear-Well Tires, Wizard Batteries, bicycles, Truetone radios and a general line of auto parts and repairs for almost every kind of car, household electrical appliances, such as irons, percolators, toasters, waffle sets, which represents an investment of several thousand dollars.

The Dow building has been completely redecorated with aluminum-metallic paint throughout, and a large stock of the above merchandise arrived Saturday. Since that time preparations have been underway to open the new store. It is expected that everything will be in readiness and that the doors will swing open to the public this week end.

The new store is equipped with metal unit shelving and counters, that are the last word in store efficiency and display facility.

The program will include musical numbers, reports of individual projects by Beatrice Taylor, Lois Lee, Mildred Haley, and Carlene Parker; reports of group projects, by Juanita Terrell, Reba Walker, and Marjorie Lee Wilson.

Refreshments will be served, and Ladies! I stumbled on the most amazing bargain this week, and it's the Pressure Cookers at JONES HARDWARE that are priced so low. A 25 quart cooker for only $8.25, and they've been priced in the past for not less than $15 and $18. It's such a pleasure to can with a new cooker, and the larger ones will hold so many more jars and cans. Through the fall, there will be a large supply of vegetables and fruits that you will want to can for the family winter needs. Mr. Jones has all sizes of cookers.

Chase C. Cooper, who recently visited his father, C. E. Cooper, here, remembers the last time he was in Littlefield, nineteen years ago, when most of the roads were cow trails and the land was all ranch land. Happy?—Of course she's happy, and she's rested too, for even though her children are in school, and that means more laundry, she never lets Wash Day worries interfere with her social life. Every week she takes her laundry to the RC LAUNDRY for the Helpy-Seely service that is so popular these days. To do your work at the RC LAUNDRY doesn't cost any more than home laundering, but is certainly better, and you can do it in half the time. Next washday, give them a ring, and they will call for your clothes, then when you finish, they will deliver them home. They also do splendid finished work, too.
