

FEED BUSINESS ESTABLISHED BY LON CAMPBELL, JESS SEALE

A new enterprise for Littlefield is the feed business just established by Lon Campbell and Jess Seale in the building formerly occupied by Cox Machine Shop, which is being completely remodelled.

This building is on East Third Street, near the intersection of Highway 7, and immediately to the rear of the Continental Wholesale Oil Co.

Mr. Seale and Mr. Campbell need no special introduction to the residents of Littlefield and section. Both of these men are pioneers of the South Plains, and have both been in business a number of years in Littlefield.

A new Bear Cat hammermill and grinder, powered by a Minneapolis Moline gas engine, has been installed. This equipment has a capacity of 50 tons in 10 hours.

A complete line of special feeds will be carried in stock.

Japanese Troops Reported Moving Towards Indo-China

The United State government made plain Saturday as news dispatches from the Orient reported Japanese troops were moving toward French Indo-China, that it would regard any attempt to alter that colony's status by force as a threat to peace in the entire Pacific area.

Questioned at a press conference about the reported Japanese activities, Secretary of State Hull said he knew nothing other than the press reports, but called attention to his previous statements concerning maintenance of the status quo in the Pacific.

In the field of foreign policy nearer home, Hull said that all the 20 other American republics had replied favorably in principles to this government's suggestion that they consult shortly on problems growing out of the European war.

He said he could not yet disclose when and where the Pan-American consultation would be held, nor whether he would be the United States representative. It has been widely assumed that the meeting would be about July 15 in Havana. In his remarks on the Pan-Amer-

Miss Leona Lane And Clinton O. Woody Wed Sunday

Miss Leona Lane of Spade became the bride of Clinton O. Woody of Lubbock in a beautiful double ring ceremony performed at the First Baptist Parsonage here Sunday morning, June 23.

Rev. Roy Shahan, Pastor, performed the ceremony at 9 o'clock A. M.

The bride is the popular daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Lane of Fieldton, while the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Woody of Fieldton.

The bride was becomingly attired in a navy and white sheer dress with white accessories. The groom wore a blue suit.

The couple were attended by Miss Gwendolyn Durham and D. H. Allen, both of Spade Community, and Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Woody of Lubbock. Mrs. Woody is a sister of the bride, and Mr. Woody is a cousin of the groom.

Immediately after the ceremony the newly weds and their attendants returned to the home of the bride's parents, where Mr. and Mrs. Woody were honored at a dinner given them by the parents of both the bride and groom.

Mr. and Mrs. Woody were both graduates of the Littlefield High School. They will make their home at 2413 15th street, Lubbock, where the groom is employed.

New $12,000,000 Anchorage, Alaska Air Base Underway

Reports from the War Department officials at Washington would indicate that civilians are being put to work with war-time swiftness on new construction for the expanding army.

Five hundred workers were rounded up in two weeks for the new $12,000,000 Anchorage, Alaska, air base.

Civilian workers similarly were put quickly to work on construction jobs at Camp Ripley, Minn., and Fort Benning, Ga.

A list of clerks and stenographers ready to go on duty at once was turned over to officials at a middle western post the same day on which orders arrived to employ 200.

The war department, which already has some 120,000 civilian employees, is using a short-cut hiring procedure perfected after the European conflict started. Jobs are in prospect for some 20,000 in the next few months.

ican conference, the secretary of state said that tentative United States proposal for an inter-American trading arrangement was almost ready for submission to the individual governments in this hemisphere, but that plan would not necessarily be taken up at the forthcoming Pan-American consultation.

To meet the demand for skilled workers in the defense industries, meantime the national defense commission has proposed a system of training men already working in the factories.

4-H Girl Will
Vaccinate Pullets

"This next week I am going to vaccinate all our young pullets for fowl pox," Pauline Lucy told the Spade 4-H club girls at Mrs. H. A. Sheffields home. This will cost her 1-2 cent a bird. The virus is applied with a small brush to the follicles where three feathers are pulled out on the leg. This method gives the chickens lifetime immunity to sore head or fowl pox.

Pauline blood tested the hens in the spring for pullorum disease and sold the reactors as culls. As healthy chickens will produce more eggs. Pauline expects to reap the benefit of the vaccinating this fall when her 700 pullets begin to lay. Pauline is the poultry demonstrator for the Spade club.

Work on making the mattresses will begin as soon as the cotton arrives. Ticking to make 240 mattresses has already arrived. This will be done under the supervision of the home demonstration women at the eight centers set up in the county. The home demonstration agent will spend two days training the supervisors in each center in the method of making mattresses according to Extension methods.

Photographic Unit
To Visit So. Plains

A photographic unit of Scientific Films Inc. is to be routed through Texas in the near future and Lubbock Chamber of Commerce wants to know whether there may be subjects in the South Plains area which might attract it here.

The company produces the "Popular Science" and "Unusual Occupations" short subjects in color for release through Paramount Pictures.

A letter to the chamber of commerce from Dick Diamond, head of the research department of Scientific Films, said that the unit will visit Texas in the near future and that "we would be deeply grateful for names and addresses, and details of any people in your vicinity whose work or hobby may be of sufficient interest to warrant inclusion in either "Popular Science" or "Unusual Occupations."

Illustrative of the subjects used in "Unusual Occupations" was that of a man who tastes soap for a soap manufacturer, a woman who makes clothing from snake skins and a doctor who makes knives of such strength that the blade of a pen-knife can be driven through sheet steel.

Typical subjects in "Popular Science," according to the letter, have been the use of cotton textiles in Texas for road building, the Baylor University "blood bank" and a de-

Urge Congress To Repeal Johnson Act

Waco, Texas, June 21—An appeal to the people of Texas and the South to urge upon the Congress the repeal of the Johnson Act and the Cash and Carry provisions of the Neutrality Act, was made here today by Burris C. Jackson of Hillsboro, Past President and Chairman of the Committee on Legislation of the Texas Cotton Association.

"The events in Europe spell disaster for the American cotton industry unless something is done to alleviate the situation," Jackson said. The Johnson Act prohibits credit sales of American products to any debtor country, and the Cash and Carry provisions of the Neutrality Act applies to all nations at war. The Hillsboro man's statement said.

"These two acts not only prohibit effective aid to the Allies but they are ruinous to the American cotton producer. Great Britain, our biggest cotton customer, needs all the help we can give her in every possible way. The least the cotton industry of this country can do is to demand of the Congress that all trade restrictions involved in the two acts be removed, and by such action we will also be making it possible to market some of our own products."

The present world cotton situation and the effect that it has upon the cotton industry of this country will be fully discussed at the Cotton Research Congress to be held in Waco on June 27-28-29, Jackson said. Some of the best-informed

Veteran Cowhands To Gather July 2, 3, 4 At Stamford Reunion

Veteran cowhands of Texas will gather in Stamford July 2, 3, and 4 for the eleventh annual Texas cowboy reunion. Membership of the Association, now numbering 1,800, includes the following from Sudan, Texas: R. E. Cleveland, J. H. Dameron and R. E. O'Keefe.

Membership is limited to men who were actively employed as cowboys on ranches at least 35 years ago. Members who have paid their annual dues of $1 will be issued badges which entitle them to dinner at the oldtime cowboys' chuck wagon at noon each day and free admission to the rodeo and grandstand.

The Association will elect new officers at the annual business meeting which will be held in the Will Rogers Bunkhouse, the headquarters building of the oldtime cowboys. Since both of the vice-presidents of the organization have expressed an unwillingness to serve as president, J. Ellison Carroll of Big Lake is being boomed for president of the association. Carroll is now a member of the board of directors and men prominent in the Reunion association believe his election is practically assured.

Among the new features added by the Texas Cowboy Reunion this year are a Quarter-horse Show, in which $1,000 prizes will be awarded and a gaited horse show with prizes amounting to $480. Featuring the entertainment program will be the cowboy rodeo, with $2,600 in prizes, cowgirl sponsors' contest, old fiddlers contest, square dances at the Coombes Roundup hall and modern dances at the Reunion pavilion. The grand parade will be held on the opening day, Tuesday July 2, at 11 a. m.

One of the coveted honors awarded at the Texas Cowboy Reunion each year is the title of "most typical cowboy." Two are selected—one under 55 years of age and one over 55—and prizes awarded each.

KNEED BREAD On Canvass Cloth

Mrs. Bob Askew told the Yellow House Demonstration Club members that she liked using a canvass cloth over the board when she kneaded her bread. This prevents working too much flour in the dough, especially as extra flour worked in second kneading will make streaks in bread. Using a canvass for rolling out pastry dough and biscuits will make them tender as less flour may be used. The rolling pin may be covered with top of a child's No. 6 white hose.

HEARTS WALKING

Mrs. Harry Pugh Smith

CHAPTER XIV SYNOPSIS

Since her husband's death, Anne Hillips has worked to support her children. She feels confident in the happiness of two—for her older daughter, Berenice, and her husband, Jim, who have been reunited. Jim, her father, has just become engaged to a girl, whom Anne loves. But the younger daughter, is unhappy and Anne worries about her. Tony Ryan has become engaged on trial to marry the rich Priscilla Leigh.

her with an abandon which Janet found peculiarly revolting. "If you have no objections, Key," murmured a cool, self-contained voice behind them, "I'll do all the kissing my fiancée requires." Gordon with a violent start dropped his arms. "Jane twas mine before we ever heard of you, you big stiff!" he stammered. Tony Ryan turned and looked at him. "Scat!" he remarked pleasantly. Gordon hesitated, eyed the set of Tony's jaw and then suddenly and ignominiously scatted. Tony looked at Janet. There was a gleam in his blue eyes which terrified her. "As you reminded me, I haven't made love to you," he said. "This to correct the oversight." He swept her into his arms. He held her as if she were a small helpless kitten. He kissed her not never were in love with him, were you?" "N—no." "You called me a realist once. I am in a way. I've had to be. But I have my dreams." He smiled wryly. "If you'd bother to pry under surfaces you'd probably discover that I am a realist with idealistic trimmings. In any case you're the only woman I ever asked to be my wife." "How can you expect me to believe that when you've been pursuing Priscilla Leigh all summer?" cried Janet, burning with indignation. "At the risk of sounding insufferably egotistic I shall have to tell you that I've never pursued Priscilla. I simply allowed her to pursue me as long as it suited my purpose." He laughed. "Priscilla made an effective smoke screen, Janet murmured something unintelligible and fled. Her cheeks were white and it did not improve her state of mind when she walked into the lounge and confronted Priscilla in the act of caressing a small red eared in the lapel of Tony Ryan's suit. "So sorry," said Janet. "Didn't mean to intrude." She fled for the second time, and landed blindly out upon the screen-terrace which ran across the side of the clubhouse. The sun had in a riot of violet colors. Janet raved unsteadily to the end of the porch. Not until she bumped into him did she realize that she had cornered Gordon.

"Yes," she said sadly, "it would be like that." "You aren't in love with Tony Ryan, are you, Janet?" Janet could feel her heart flinch. "Certainly I'm not in love with Tony Ryan," she said. "Love's nothing we've never discussed." Gordon made a distracted little smile, and Janet turned abruptly. He stood at her elbow, his lips curved in a lazy grin. "So sorry," he murmured, imitating the tone which Janet had employed upon him a short while before. "Don't mean to intrude, but everybody's going in to dinner now."

"I trust that's satisfactory," he murmured. "I hate him thought Janet, and I love him. She had just strength enough to run away. In the dressing room she cried furiously for ten minutes, then she washed her face, repowdered her nose, painted a fresh smile on her lips and came down the stairs, the light of battle in her eyes.

Then for a moment she could not move or speak, she could only go on staring at Tony Ryan's back. Over his shoulder Priscilla's eyes met Janet's. Priscilla's arms were tightly wound about Tony's neck. Janet could no more have helped what she did next than she could have stopped breathing. Drawing the glittering diamond off her finger she flung it in Tony's general direction.

"Catch," she said. "You bought it for her anyway." And then she turned and walked out the front door. She was past connected thinking, but she had no intention of remaining anywhere in the vicinity of Priscilla Leigh and Tony Ryan. It was six blocks from the Country Club entrance to the nearest trolley through a subdivision which had never been developed.

Janet realized abruptly that she was running, running with tears streaming down her cheeks. It seemed to her she had been stumbling along for years, choking down her sobs, when she heard a car corning down the gravelled road behind her. The glaring headlights of Tony Ryan's powerful black and silver roadster impaled her like a bedraggled butterfly on a pin.

"Nice night for a walk," Tony remarked, bringing the machine to an abrupt halt six feet away. He rummaged in his pocket, found a cigarette, lit it and lowered himself lazily to the ground. "You know," he observed idly, "I believed your explanation about this afternoon and I didn't hold you responsible for being caught in the boy friend's arms tonight."

"No?" "It would take somebody more naive than I to imagine a swell girl like you in love with that plush rabbit. All the evidence of your friends to the contrary, you once, but three times, as thoroughly as he did everything else, and Janet realized that she knew nothing in the world about being kissed.

"I trust that's satisfactory," he murmured. "I hate him thought Janet, and I love him. She had just strength enough to run away. In the dressing room she cried furiously for ten minutes, then she washed her face, repowdered her nose, painted a fresh smile on her lips and came down the stairs, the light of battle in her eyes.

Then for a moment she could not move or speak, she could only go on staring at Tony Ryan's back. Over his shoulder Priscilla's eyes met Janet's. Priscilla's arms were tightly wound about Tony's neck. Janet murmured something unintelligible and fled. Her cheeks were white and it did not improve her state of mind when she walked into the lounge and confronted Priscilla in the act of caressing a small red eared in the lapel of Tony Ryan's suit. "So sorry," said Janet. "Didn't mean to intrude." She fled for the second time, and landed blindly out upon the screen-terrace which ran across the side of the clubhouse. The sun had in a riot of violet colors. Janet raved unsteadily to the end of the porch. Not until she bumped into him did she realize that she had cornered Gordon. "Yes," she said sadly, "it would be like that." "You aren't in love with Tony Ryan, are you, Janet?" Janet could feel her heart flinch. "Certainly I'm not in love with Tony Ryan," she said. "Love's nothing we've never discussed." Gordon made a distracted little smile, and Janet turned abruptly. He stood at her elbow, his lips curved in a lazy grin. "So sorry," he murmured, imitating the tone which Janet had employed upon him a short while before. "Don't mean to intrude, but everybody's going in to dinner now."

you'll admit. I made up my mind to marry you the first time I saw you."

"Oh!" gasped Janet. "You were defending your mother, remember? You said you never had been able to be flippant about her. My mother worked too, Janet. She worked herself into an early grave taking care of me. I've never been able to feel flippant about that either. When I stood there in the doorway and looked at you, something in my heart clicked. I knew then you were what I'd been looking for."

"Don't you think I have any pride?" she blazed. "It was then the owl screamed in a bush about a foot from Janet's ear. She did not know it was a screech owl calling to its mate. She heard something ghastly, shrieked and tumbled into Tony's arms.

"Precious!" whispered Tony, holding her very close, so close she could hear the wild pounding of his heart against her cheek. "Oh, Tony!" whispered Janet. He kissed her, so tenderly she trembled, and then so fiercely she could not get her breath. "I adore you!" she cried. "Sure," said Tony Ryan in a husky voice and kissed her again.

Anne and Stephen Hill had returned from the movie. They were on her front porch. The light from within the living room faintly illuminated Anne's sensitive face. "You worry about your babies," she said slowly. "From the day they are born you're never free from responsibility for them. You waken in the dead of night and you can't go back to sleep. The dark's people with all the dire things which might happen to your offspring. Even in broad daylight sometimes you can't forget the bugaboos. After all, other women's children go wrong."

"Your's won't, anne," said Steve

Hill. "You put your own steel into the sword of their spirit. While the tempered blade may bend under pressure, it springs back to form." "And I feel," sighed Anne, "for the first time in twenty-five years almost totally unnecessary. As if—as if I'd completely outlived my usefulness." He put his hand over hers. "Not to me." "She colored, "I—I—" At that moment Janet burst into the hall, closely followed by Tony. "Mother!" she cried, her voice radiant. "Tony and I—we—he and I—" She blushed furiously. Her tongue failed her. She could not put her happiness into words, but her eyes proclaimed it as Tony's arm tightened about her. "I take it," said Steve Hill with a chuckle, "you have discovered that you are madly in love with Tony, Janet, and he with you."

"Are we supposed to be surprised?" murmured Anne, laughing softly. Janet stared at them in ludicrous amazement. "You suspected?" she stammered. Anne smiled. "Dearest, you probably can't imagine, but I was once in love myself. The symptoms are universal." Tony caught Janet's hand and hurried her out. "I'll pick you up when I come back, Steve," he called over his shoulder. Tony put his arm about Janet's shoulders and raced her down the stairs. "Give the guy a break," he said kissing her startled mouth.

"Tony, you can't mean!" she cried. "Sure," said Tony Ryan with a grin. Back on Anne's dim front porch Steve put out his hand and took hers. "Of course you know I've been biding my time," he said softly. Anne's heart gave a start. "You are a very understanding person." "Life isn't over for you, Anne," he said, "or for me." "I love you." She thought of another who had spoken those words, the mate of her youth. "I think," said Steve, "if you'd let yourself, you could love me, too." "Not as I loved him." Littlefield Cats Defeat Whitharral 6 To 4 Here Sunday

In a fast, furious, hard fought game Sunday afternoon on the local diamond, the Littlefield Cats defeated the Whitharral crew 6 to 4.

Parker, the pitcher for the Cats, set the visitors down with six hits and four runs. Two of the runs were un-earned, but they helped make the game a little more exciting.

Letsinger proved to be the big gun in the hitting department with two smashing hits that counted for two runs each time. Letsinger has been on a hitting spree for the last four games and it has been the sorry disadvantage of the opposing pitchers.

The game was called in the eighth inning because of the sandstorm that blew up, and made it impossible to play.

The game last Sunday was witnessed by some 250 rabid fans. This was the best turnout for a Littlefield baseball game in several years, and it goes a long way in helping to boost the boys who try to give the fans a good ball game and a good ball game.

Every Serpent Of Burning Oil Latest Defense Of Texans

... Texas, June 26.—A fiery flames hundreds of feet high and would continue to burn fiercely as long as the oil flowed into the river," Sadler, one of the three members of the Texas Oil Industry Regulatory Body, explained.

Other suggestions coming before Sadler have been: A barbed wire fence along the Rio Grande. "Electrify the fence," suggested another. A concrete pill box every hundred yards. Flood lights every 100 yards (like night baseball).

Although there are numerous oil fields in the Southern tip of Texas, Sadler counts on the famous Yates pool to feed his military furnace. Yates wield has a 24-hour potential yield of about 8,000,000 (M) barrels. Located in West Texas, about 240 miles east of El Paso, Sadler says this field would be tapped by pipe lines running to the river. A line already runs down to Del Rio, within three miles of the river bank. Its capacity is 40,000 barrels every 12 hours if equipped with booster stations at grades. This line could be tapped 17 miles north of Langtry to pour crude oil into the Rio Grande upriver from Del Rio.

Another oil pipe line runs parallel to the Rio Grande at a distance of about 70 miles—which is no distance at all to Texans. After rounding the rugged wilderness of the Big Bend, the Rio Grande cuts north to within 70 miles of the Yates pool itself, before slanting back to the southeast. Sadler says another spigot could be put there. Preferably, he suggests running pipe lines parallel to the river and feeding his serpent of fire through strategically placed feeder lines.

The Yates pool is the perfect reservoir, he points out, not only because of its enormous supply of oil, but because there is a terrific gas pressure that eliminates need for pumping. The field is located at an elevation of about 2,600 feet. The Rio Grande at Langtry is at elevation, 1,315 feet. Sadler isn't particularly worried about a motorized enemy crossing through the Big Bend region where the Rio Grande has cut St. Helena Canyon 1,516 feet deep and Mariscal Canyon 1,675 feet.

Feeding his fire line between the Big Bend of the Rio Grande and El Paso seems feasible to Sadler because already there is another pipeline now running from the midst of Winkler county's 14 oil fields—north of Yates—to El Paso.

Census In Morton Goes From 25 To 1,132 In Ten Years

The following article about Morton, county seat of Cochran county, appeared in the Fort Worth Star-Telegram recently.

"In 10 years Morton has grown from a population of 25 to 1,133. At least half of this astounding increase had no connection with the development of oil properties in the southwest part of Cochran County, which began in 1935, since Morton had a population of about 500 in 1934.

"Cochran County was organized in 1925 and a new courthouse was built on a rising prairie knoll. The townsite was laid off around the courthouse and the man who divided his acres into blocks and lots—Morton J. Smith—gave his first name to the town.

"The town was incorporated in 1934, to facilitate securing a WPA grant for the erection of a water-works.

"Morton profited from the establishment of Duggan oil pool and completion of Highway 290 from Morton to Lubbock opened new markets for produce and livestock and aided the growth of Morton as a distributing center. Gins and feed mills were built and a cotton warehouse was erected.

"Today Morton's churches, without exception, are clear of debt, the schools are modern in curriculum and equipment and civic and fraternal organizations are actively engaged in building a progressive and beautiful community."

Appropriations For Emergency Defense Reach New Level

Last minute, emergency defense spending will push congressional appropriations for the fiscal year beginning July 1 to a record peacetime level of nearly $14,000,000,000.

About $5,000,000,000 of that total will go for preparedness. More than $3,627,000,000 will go for so-called permanent appropriations—interest on the national debt, a debt sinking fund, and various trust funds. The remainder will pay regular government expenses.

Except for Presidents Roosevelt's request May 31 for a supplemental defense fund of $1,062,185,249 plus $324,136,761 in contract authorizations, the aggregate for all purposes would have dropped nearly $429,000,000 below the current year's total.

Armistice Is Signed By French Saturday

France made a final surrender, it is reported, to Germany Saturday night, signing in the forest of Compiègne, a peace based upon the broad dictate laid down by Adolph Hitler.

The Armistice, however, was still conditioned on a second capitulation—to Italy—and still men fought on in the conflict, which was a war no longer.

The price Adolph Hitler demanded for peace, however, will not be announced officially until after France reaches an agreement with Italy and the cease firing order is given.

It was an agreement that will bring a real armistice only after the French have made their terms with Premier Mussolini.

Six hours after the notice of this second armistice has been received by the Nazi high command, the guns will cease to speak.

In the same old railway car in the Compiègne forest where the Kaiser's delegation bowed in defeat to Marshal Ferdinand Foch on Nov. 11, 1918, two ranking generals at 6:50 p. m. (10:50 a. m. C.S.T.) put pens to the French surrender of 1940.

The weary French delegation took a plane almost immediately for an undisclosed city in Italy to begin their conversation with Mussolini.

This French surrender at an old and bitterly remembered scene of German defeat—the railway car in the forest—was signed by Col. Gen. Wilhelm Keitel for Germany and by General Charles Huntziger for France.

New Officers Of Rotary Club To Be Installed Today

S. R. LeMay of Athens, candidate for State Superintendent of Public Instruction, was a visitor at last Thursday's luncheon of the Littlefield Rotary club. A charter member of the Athens Rotary club, Mr. LeMay made a brief talk at the meeting of the local club. He was accompanied by P. O. Smith, superintendent of schools at Whiteface.

The program at last Thursday's luncheon was in charge of E. O. Melver. A pleasing program of quartet and solo numbers was presented. The members of the quartet were Arthur Mueller, Jack Norman, B. L. Cogdill, and Mr. Melver. The accompaniments were played by Miss Maxine Cash. The new officers of the club for the coming year will be installed at this Thursday's luncheon. Mancil Hall will be the new president, succeeding Les Hewitt.

Two Men Arrested On State Charges

A man giving his name as David J. White was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Sid Hopping in Littlefield on June 6, on charges filed by W. F. McBride for the State of Texas, and was lodged in the Littlefield Jail.

White and a man giving his name as Murray W. Steele, who was arrested in Brownfield, were alleged to have sold to farmers in Lamb and other counties an egg mash.

White was arrested on alleged violation of Article No. 708—sale of misbranded drugs; and on alleged violation of Article 704—Occupation Tax Law. He pleaded guilty, and was fined $100 in the first case, and $75 in the second. He is serving out these fines, which will be concluded July 21.

Steele was arrested in Brownfield by Sheriff Gore of Terry County on complaints filed by the State. Three complaints were filed for alleged violation of Article 708 and one complaint for alleged violation of Article 704. He was brought here for hearing Monday before Justice of the Peace, M. W. Brewer, when $250 bond was set in each case, making $1000 bond.

Steele is scheduled for trial here Friday before Judge Brewer on the various charges filed. White and Steele are alleged to have been operating for several months before apprehended by the State.

SALVATION ARMY SENDS $100,000 TO AID WAR REFUGEES IN EUROPE

Lieut. Eula Trummell, in charge of the local unit of the Salvation Army, is in receipt of a copy of a letter written by Col. Wm. Davey, who is in charge of Salvation Army work in France, relating his experience with war work, which was written May 23.

Col. Davey stated that when they started their work in France, they had 60 posts scattered over France, but that at the time the letter was written only 14 were able to operate as many of them were obliged to retreat with the soldiers.

Lieut. Trummell states that the Salvation Army in United States has sent $100,000 to aid the war refugees in Europe, and that the local unit remitted $58.57, which was over the $50.00 quota allotted it.

Lieut. Trummell, on behalf of the local unit, asked the Leader to express much appreciation by the unit to the people of Littlefield and section in making this possible. Lieut. Trummell is proud that the local unit has had such a part in this christian work, and also is proud of the fact, that the Salvation Army in United States has, as a body, contributed so generously to this worthy cause.

HART CAMP NEWS

Wednesday of last week this community benefitted from a ¾ inch gentle rain which was just about what we needed to keep crops growing the maximum. The weather is remaining cool and with an east wind blowing, we expect more moisture before the week ends. The duster, Sunday, did some damage to young, tender crops but the damage was slight.

Sunday School was held as usual at the First Baptist Church of Hart Camp last Sunday. We again extend an invitation to those who live nearby to attend services this coming Sunday. Every new member helps build up our church.

This community is happy to hear about the promotion of former superintendent of school L. K. Kinsey.

A nice crowd attended the Singing held at the school auditorium last Sunday. We have singing every Sunday afternoon now, and everybody is invited to come.

Sincerely, Weldon T. Moore.
FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH
In the absence of the pastor Sunday, June 30, Rev. Alfred Richards, pastor at Circle Back, will preach at both services. Bro. Richards is one of our best pastors in West Plains Association.

I am 32 years old, a married man; was former County Judge of Hockley County, and is at present State Representative.

I have and will continue to do all within my power to see that old age pensions, the needy blind, dependent children and retired teachers, are properly and fully taken care of by the State of Texas, because the citizens wrote them into the Constitution of this state in 1935 by an overwhelming vote.

I pledge to continue the fight to raise the truck load limit for the benefit of the farmers, ranchers, truckers who are discriminated against by the present law.

I voted for the soil conservation law, and demanded legislation favorable to farmers and laborers; was author of the new Hot Check Law which protects honest citizens against swindlers.

FOR A UNITED AMERICA

The threat of war faces America more sharply than in many years. The last time the United States went to war it was for the salvation of certain ideals of liberty and democracy for which our nation has stood from its beginning.

Today the menace to the human liberties which we group broadly, as democracy, is far greater than it has ever been. None can doubt that if the free governments of Europe are destroyed by the totalitarian terror that has been unleashed upon the world, our turn will come next.

But all our armaments, our navies, our planes, our coast defenses, will not avail if we ourselves, the American people, are divided against one another. When our liberties are threatened we must be united in our determination to defend them.

As important as guns and ships and planes and soldiers is the ironing out of differences which cause

Americans to distrust each other. To that end the Common Council for American Unity has been formed by a group of distinguished Americans some of old Colonial stock, many of recent immigrant descent.

Pointing out that America's hope for the realization and maintenance of the ideals of the Founding Fathers lies in reconciling the "Old Americans," with the newer stock, and bringing the latter into a deeper understanding and fuller acceptance of the essential standards of human equality and liberties which are the very root of democracy, the new Council is launching a non-partisan, non-sectarian, all-American campaign of education against intolerance, against religious and racial hatreds which tend to make this a divided nation.

This is a useful, indeed a necessary service if America is to be truly prepared to defend itself against a foreign foe.

Let Not The Bell Be Silenced

her disposition is entirely different from mine.

If I had a twin, she no doubt, would have taffy-candy-colored hair, green eyes, and freckles, just like Yours truly, MARGIE.

BIRTHS

A son was born to Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Crawley of Littlefield at the Littlefield Hospital Sunday, June 25, weighing 7 pounds, 9 ounces. He has been named "Jimmie Allan." Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Donald of Enochs are the proud parents of a son born Friday, June 21, at the Littlefield Hospital.

The SNOOPER SAYS...

"THE AMERICAN CREED"

"I Believe in the United States of American as a government of the people, by the people, for the people; whose just powers are derived from the consent of the governed; a democracy in a Republic; a sovereign Nation of many sovereign States; a perfect Union, one and inseparable; established upon those principles of freedom, equality, justice and humanity for which American patriots sacrificed their lives and fortunes. "I therefore believe it is my duty to my Country to love it; to obey its laws; to respect its flag; and to defend it against all enemies."

The High Hat is on the way out! Silk hats, we mean, and opera hats, the kind little boys throw snowballs at in the cartoons.

The neat fedora, the crisp sailor, the snappy Panama, the cap, sombrero, or chaste Hemburg, these appear to satisfy the U. S. A. We don't want high hats. Or brass hats. What we need right now is a lot more tin hats!

It isn't correct to say, "Keep me posted," when you mean "informed." Someone might misunderstand you, and keep you posted—in the face!

Mrs. R. E. Rucker thought of going into competition with local paper-hangers—but she papered a room at her home the other day, and the after-effects were not so good!

Mrs. H. C. Brown, who lives three and one half miles east of Littlefield on Oklahoma Avenue, came to the office last Thursday afternoon to tell me that the J. W. McLendon of Mexia, I wrote about last week is her uncle.

You remember that Mr. McLendon is a Mexia business man who has given more than 500 marriage license to his friends in the last 40 years. He is in the oil business and has lived in Mexia all of his life. He sponsors ball teams and sees that all boys who are interested, have chances to play baseball. His only daughter, Mrs. Rush Allison, recently moved to Lubbock from Abilene, and he has a grandson, Billy Allison.

Mrs. Brown told me that he is her mother's youngest brother, and the Brown children always speak of him as "Big Uncle Jess." He is about 65 "years young," Mrs. Brown said.

Since the beautiful month of June is accepted traditionally as the favorite time for weddings, and I've bordered on the subject several times this month in this column, I hope you won't mind this—For the first time in the history of the Dallas license bureau, two marriage licenses were issued recently to one couple—L. L. Grandi of College Station and Grace Pearl Sudderth of Leonard, Texas.

Ed Steger, county clerk, stated that nothing would suffice for Grandi short of him being issued two licenses to wed Miss Sudderth. At a time in the nation's history when many couples are beginning to look upon marriage certificates as "scraps of paper," it is highly encouraging to hear of one person who emphatically wants the world to know the person he marries will be his "lady fair" for keeps.

Something I'm thankful for today... that I am not among the 800 employees who are turning out 3,000 gas masks a day at the War Department's Edgewood arsenal in Maryland... And I believe in everyone coming to the aid of our country, too. If the time comes, guess I'll probably be in the Red Cross or join the air corps.

Something else I'm thankful for... that it was dark the other night when I was walking home after working in the plant here, and fell in the mud. The person who was with me was the only one who witnessed that "landing."

For summer flirtations... "An open fan drawn across the cheek means, "I love you; and if milady pressed a half open fan to the lips she may be kissed," so read the rules of coquetry enclosed with the pink fan which accompanies a spicy talcum powder now in local stores.

Most of my life I wanted to have a twin sister. The first time I realized that I was glad I didn't have was almost six years ago when a young man took my younger sister for his bride. Two years younger than I, Melba and I were almost inseparable, but we were not in the same grades at school, and there was always those two years between us. When she married, I was "out on my own."

Today I saw the picture of the Keys Quadruplets, who have always been inseparable. In the picture is Mona Keys, shown after her marriage to Robert W. Fowler, oil company accountant. Sisters Roberta, Mary and Leota were bridesmaids. The marriage of Mona has done something to the other three—something that cannot be explained. My sister and I have never been alike. She is a pretty brunette, and

Farmers Assisted By FSA Raise Variety Of Crops

Low income farm families in Lamb County, who are being assisted by the Farm Security Administration, aren't putting "all their eggs in one basket," according to Fred L. Nix, County rural rehabilitation supervisor.

Since the beginning of its program, the FSA, Mr. Nix explained, has insisted that each family receiving a rehabilitation loan from this agency produce food for the family and feed for the livestock. "A study of the farm and home plans of FSA borrowers," he said, "shows that a great deal of headway is being made on getting away from the one-crop idea of farming. Tremendous strides have been made in the adoption of soil conserving practices, because the two go hand in hand."

Mr. Nix paid a tribute to landlords in Lamb County who operate farms with tenants. He said the landlords are cooperating with FSA and their tenants in producing a variety of crops in addition to the major cash crops.

He said that in addition to subsistence crops, the FSA encourages the production of at least two cash crops. Supporting the diversified cropping system, are cows, pigs, chickens and gardens which add materially to the family's subsistence living program.

Although cotton is the chief crop on most farms in this county, almost every FSA borrower has an adequate supporting acreage of grain sorghums.

Mrs. Yarbrough Will Observe 70th Birthday

Methodist Church since 17 years of age.

Mr. Yarbrough was born and reared in Smith County, and will be 77 years of age on Sept. 23rd of this year.

The children living are: R. G. of Vernon, Texas; S. W. and G. D., of Littlefield; Mrs. F. E. Budd of Centralia, Ill.; Mrs. Frank Croom, of Electra; and Miss Estelle Yarbrough at home.

The Yarbrough family came here from Vernon, purchasing a farm of 177 acres four miles west of town, which Mr. Yarbrough worked the first three years, since which time he has it farmed on a crop basis. Mrs. Yarbrough has enjoyed good health until April 27 last, when she was unfortunate enough to fall and fracture a hip. She was confined in the Payne-Shotwell Hospital here for a week, following which, and on arrival home she was made happy when a friend, the father of H. C. Brown, who was visiting Mr. and Mrs. Brown, made her a pair of crutches.

Mrs. Yarbrough is now reported to be getting along exceptionally well.
