

Another Time Of Triumph Arrives For Connie

CONNIE HOPPING

By ELIZABETH POPLIN

Miss Texas, Littlefield's own Connie Hopping, spent last week in Dallas taking a highly concentrated course in modeling at Patricia Stevens Finishing School.

The way Connie figures it, she must have walked at least a million miles each day, but instructors at the modeling school called it about 15 miles.

Walking had its desired effect. Miss Texas trimmed off nine pounds by sticking with the "foot-work" routine and eating nothing but fruit plates.

Intensive instruction program into that one short week were crammed lessons in make-up, hair styling, speech, photographic and TV modeling, sitting, opening and closing doors, choosing the basic wardrobe, color—and of all things, picking up a handkerchief.

Their apt, blond pupil even received a lesson on photographer's pet peeves. Now she won't commit any of the unpardonable sins in the eyes of the guy who snaps the shutter on national beauties such as herself.

Another pet peeve of photographers is the model who spends Sheriff Dewey Dennis said that entrance to the building was gained at the rear of the structure. The thief or thieves climbed a pole, stepped to the top of an awning, and broke a small window from which they dropped into the store.

City Commission Initiates Plans For Widening Highways 84 and 51 Paving

The City Commission met in regular session at 8 p.m., Wednesday.

The first order of business was the creation of a "no parking" zone on LFD Drive almost behind Hall's Grocery. This is the loading zone in front of the warehouse used by Boyd Roberts and Nelson Naylor.

The city engineer was instructed by the commissioners to contact all property owners within the city limits on Highways 84 and 51, asking them if they will be willing to furnish curb and gutter along their property for a proposed paving project.

sume the expense of curb and gutter. The decision of the property owners to supply curbing and gutter must be unanimous because there must be no "skips" in the paving.

A letter from the Canadian River Water User's association was read to the commission, outlining the association's current project. The City of Littlefield is a member of this association and was asked to contribute 10 cents per water meter to the funds of the association.

AN EDITOR INTERVIEWS LITTLEFIELD PARTY—

Texans Strut Their Stuff 'neath The Union Jack

... and so is Bro.

not surprised by this you are not acquainted with the facts in the case. It is that Bro. Tidwell has been shaking the dust of Texas from his around the province of Alberta, Canada, in anticipation of doing some missionary work and eventually establishing a Church of Christ in the city of Edmonton, population 175,000. This city is the wheat, oil, and cattle capital of the province, located on the Alcan highway.

folks away from home, let his hair down and was really enjoying himself. While in the one and only restaurant in Redwater, Bro. Tidwell saw an item in the local paper which solicited news. One paper which solicited news. One paper which solicited news.

NEWS-HERALD 5c: "Wish one of these days some bright fellow would invent a typewriter that talks with a draw... like a long drawl preferably... like when you want to quote some visitors from Texas.

Texans Real Diplomats "Met five of these Texas visitors the other day; they arrived right with the spring thaw, but they were right nice about when they were asked how they found the roads.

One of them came right back and asked, "What roads?"

When we asked Roy Tidwell, that is one of them, if he'd ever seen worse highways, he said he had, "but couldn't remember where or when."

"These fellows were real polite about the whole question... they were not going to say anything to disrupt our hands across the border friendship nor mess up our 3,900 miles of undefended border.

"When Len Walker explained that within a couple of days the government would likely put a ban on the highways, Walter Billingsley comes right back with, Well! no matter what the government puts on them, it's going to be a lot better than what's on there now.

"Besides Roy Tidwell and Walter Billingsley there was Leonard

Black, Boyd Glover, and Joe Rogers

all from around Littlefield, Texas. "From what we could gather this town of Littlefield is mighty proud of itself; it's the only place in the whole broad state of Texas that has anything little connected with it, if you know what we mean.

"Couldn't find out from them if they were interested in oil, like maybe trading a couple or so wells up here for a couple down there, which might be a good idea, and we'd be pleased to throw in a few miles of our roads to boot.

"In a prepared statement they said we could say that not too much was learned about them and certainly nothing from them, with a P.S. added, They didn't know too much—or need we tell you.

Come! Come! fellows such modesty and from Texans.

Last Len and I saw of them they were piled in a station wagon headed back toward Edmonton followed by two tow trucks while a helicopter hovered overhead to see that they got back on the paved highway.

"Promised they'd come back again when our promising government completed the long projected paved highway to Redwater. Should see them again around 1960 some time."

And there you have it—the reason why Bro. Tidwell is still around. Anyone interested in getting him to move is asked to address their donations toward the paving of the Edmonton-Redwater highway to the Editor of the REDWATER NEWS-HERALD, the independent weekly newspaper serving Redwater and the surrounding district."

Pick Cotton Properly For Top Grade

More emphasis should be placed on gathering the cotton crop for the high grades and avoid the lower or "penalty" grades. The place to start is in the field according to Fred C. Elliott, cotton work specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service.

To preserve the quality of their cotton, farmers are urged to watch both hand and machine picking closely. Even though the gin has one or more driers, the cotton should be carried to the gin as dry and fluffy as possible. Picking cotton while still wet with dew and tramping tightly into the trailer will result in grinding the gin and pepper trash into the lint so thoroughly that even the best of the new gin machinery will have difficulty. So, pick only dry cotton and do not tramp into the trailer is a good rule to follow.

Farmers using a spindle picker will find it profitable to: (1) Defoliate, (2) Wait till the dew dries, (3) Set two trailers in the field and alternate dumping the picker basket in the trailer. The sun can dry each basket full of cotton, (4) Use a detergent in the water of the picker tank to moisten the spindles on the machine. Also if hard water must be used, add the detergent to the water in a clean barrel then strain into the picker water tank. This will prevent clogging the water lines and give even spreading of the moisture onto the spindles. (5) If time is limited, run the machine day and night. Night—picking from dark till dew falls is generally more satisfactory because the cotton is dryer and more fluffy than during early morning hours. (6) Paint the average, untramped, net weight seed cotton capacity of the trailer on the outside of the trailer so the ginner will know how many bales are in the trailer or trailers. (7) Carefully clean and service the picker after each day's running and operate according to the owner's manual. (8) Don't "raise Cain" with the ginner to hurry. Let him take his time.

The ginning industry has done a fine job installing new gin machinery. More and more ginnermen have plants they are proud to show. Let's give him a better chance to turn out a better sample.

Then, let's destroy the stalks early and that will cut down on insects next year.

Better Days Ahead For The Poultryman

Poultrymen who have raised a normal number of pullets this year should soon begin to receive a profit on their investment. This encouraging word comes from Professor E. D. Parnell of Texas A. & M. College's poultry department.

The outlook for egg prices wasn't good last spring, says Parnell and producers reduced their flocks and also their pullet replacements by 7 per cent. Now the picture has changed. Storage stocks are being reduced and prices have strengthened. The future looks good. It is true, says the professor, feed prices remain high but feed-egg ratios have become favorable for the first time in several months. Therefore, egg producers should be operating on the profit side for the remainder of the year.

It is now too late to do anything about raising pullets for egg production this year but Parnell points to the present situation as a reminder that profits are seldom made by those who are in the business one year and out the next. Trying to outguess the market, he adds, is usually a good way to get out of the poultry business.

For those who have the egg producers, Parnell says, feed them well; give them plenty of room; practice sanitation and keep them in good health. It is his belief that poultrymen who raise only the number of pullets they can care for well, and do it year after year, are the producers who are most successful.

Widespread Use Of Soil Conditioners Not Advised

Farmers, gardeners and others interested in trying out the new chemical "soil conditioners" are advised by Dr. J. B. Page, soil physicist for the Texas Agricultural Experiment Station, to use them only experimentally.

He points out that research work dealing with the conditioners is being conducted at many different locations over the country but since the materials are only now becoming available in quantity, additional information is needed before recommendations can be made. The work being done by the Texas Station is a part of a south-wide project.

Dr. Page says the "soil conditioners" are chemicals prepared for the purpose of binding and stabilizing small soil particles into larger particles which resist breakdown by water. He is quick to add that the natural organic materials have the same effect on soils and at the same time, leave other beneficial results in addition to the formation of the desired soil aggregates.

The scientist points out that research up to date has shown that expenditures of from $300 to $500 per acre must be made to get the required amounts of the conditioners in the soil.

He says work to date indicates that the conditioners are most effective on soils with high clay and silt content. They are not effective on soils high in sand content and soils already good structurally are helped little by the addition of the chemicals.

Dr. Page cautions purchasers against buying quantities of the materials until more is known about them. He adds, since the products offered for sale are new, many have not been adequately tested. Therefore, he suggests that buyers try only those products which have been tested and on which reports have been made.

Texas Tech President Will Speak At County Soil Conservation Field Day

Dr. E. N. Jones, president elect of Texas Tech College, will speak at 12:30 on the W. H. Cunningham fifth annual conservation field day and farm tour, Sept. 9. Dr. Jones will speak after a barbecue served on the pure seed farm. Dr. Jones was promoted to president of Tech at the college's board meeting June 21, 1952, in Dallas. He replaced Dr. D. M. Wiggins who resigned to enter the banking business in Lubbock.

Edward Newlon Jones was born April 15, 1899, in Downs, Kan. He attended public schools there before entering Ottawa University, Ottawa, Kan., where he received his BS degree in 1921.

He was a graduate assistant and fellow in Botany at Iowa State from 1922 to 1925, and was granted the Ph.D. degree in 1925. He was further honored in 1949 when the doctor of laws degree was conferred upon him by Ottawa University. Dr. Jones has done additional graduate work at Columbia and the University of Chicago.

He became head of the department of botany at Baylor in 1925 and continued as head of the department of biology when the two departments were combined in 1933. Dr. Jones was named dean of

NEWS From The Underground Water Conservation District

NAME COMMITTEE

It is the understanding of this office that Governor Shivers is to soon name a board to study water conservation for the State of Texas. We understand some member will be selected from the old interim Water Code Commission. This will bear watching.

BILL KILLED

We were unhappy at hearing the Bill that Congressman Poage had spent so much time and study on has been killed. The Bill pertained to dam construction for upstream flood control. Although we do not have many streams in the High Plains, they carry off several thousand acre feet of water annually that might well be held within the area for possible recharge.

OPINION RENDERED

The Attorney General's office rendered an opinion last week on the collection of the tax for the High Plains Water District. In their opinion, an underground water conservation district has authority to require assessment and collection of its taxes by the County.

WATER RESOURCES LAW

We noticed in a monthly release for the U.S. Department of Interior, that a record low ground water level was continuing through most of the State both in pumped and unpumped areas. The drought over the whole United States is one of the worst that has been recorded, forcing drastic measures in conservation of surface and ground water alike. The flow of the Colorado River near San Saba is the lowest since 1918. The time is here for the people of the High Plains to think about the thing that is keeping them up here, W-A-T-E-R.

MAKES STATEMENT

"As a matter of cold fact, we do not know what our water resources potential is, nor do we know accurately what our present use of water is. We had better start toward procuring the facts, and start right now on an adequate scale." Albert N. Sayer U.S. Geological Survey

HOLD MONTHLY MEETING

The Board of Directors of the High Plains Water Conservation District met last week for their regular monthly meeting. Considerable discussion was given to starting a study of the water levels of a few lakes in the area for the purpose of some experimental work in recharging next spring. A lot of knowledge has been gained on re-

He was made president of Texas A&I, Kingsville, in 1942 and served in that position until becoming vice president in charge of academic administration at Texas Tech in 1948.

At Tech, Dr. Jones was in charge of academics as vice president. During his five years as vice president Tech entered the field of doctoral studies, and the graduate and undergraduate programs were expanded.

ELECTIONS TO BE HELD

On the second Tuesday of January, 1953, the District will elect three new Precinct Directors. Precincts 1, 3, and 4 will each elect a Director to serve a period of two years as set forth in Article 7880-38a Revised Civil Statutes which provides for alternate election of precinct directors. At the same time, each of the counties in the District will elect one County Committeeman to serve a period of three years as set out in the By-Laws and Constitution of the District.

WHEN YOU WANT A COW TO GIVE MILK YOU FEED HER WITH THE BEST THERE IS

WHEN YOU WANT TOP FARM PRODUCTION YOU BUY EQUIPMENT THE BEST THERE IS

Whether You're Buying Feed For Your Cows—Buying Equipment For Your Farm, Only The Best is Good Enough.

As you well know, there is a great deal of impartial and dependable data available on how to feed cows. Then, too, persons have gained over many years of feeding cows for top milk production help.

ON THE OTHER HAND, YOU DON'T BUY TRACTORS OFTEN AS you buy feed. So, you have no yardstick of experience to guide you in such a purchase. Nor can you buy several of them for comparative tests, the way you can with feed. Nor can you go to an unbiased person or board of experts who can tell you exactly what tractor to buy for your particular needs.

SO . . . WHAT CAN YOU DO? HERE'S THE ANSWER

SEE A FERGUSON DEMONSTRATION . . . on your own farm

Suction Side Control Important Tractor Feature

An important tractor feature that only Ferguson can offer to you is the SUCTION SIDE CONTROL. . . This suction side control is a thing to explain in words, but it can be demonstrated till the cows come home. And the things a demonstration can show you about the FERGUSON SYSTEM will give you just the kind of information you need in deciding which tractor to buy!

For Example . . . The Suction Side Control principle, which is very heart of the Ferguson system, makes it possible for a Ferguson tractor to give you automatic draft control. Now that's something you can SEE. It also gives you AUTOMATIC PROTECTION against hidden underground obstructions . . . something else that you have to SEE to be convinced to believe them.

In fact, almost everything about the FERGUSON TRACTOR SYSTEM is so wonderful and so "Impossible" that you have to see these things demonstrated to believe them.

Summer-Tanned Skin Is Beauty Bonus

Today's clever girls are capitalizing on the beauty bonus of summer-tanned skin. Charm tips for summer and autumn recommend the use of clear bright colors like gold, snowy white, natural linen and aqua to point up tan tones. Beauty experts recommend that summer sport enthusiasts keep their outdoor faces lubricated to preserve the soft freshness that sun often takes away. For baby-fresh skin, take a tip from the youngest member of the family. Adopt baby's lotion for your own beauty tray. In a white unbreakable plastic bottle, the baby lotion is easily dispensed from its pretty squeeze container. A generous coating after beach and pool sessions thwarts the drying effects of sun. A fingertipful of lotion smoothed over a freshly-washed face softens, lubricates and acts as a fine powder base to improve powder "cling." Keeping the convenient plastic squeeze bottle in cosmetic case, sun-bag and pool locker is good insurance against the parched-skin look of one-too-long-in-the-sun.

Available To Farmers To Plant and Buy Feed For Livestock

Plans in accordance with published instructions and revised policies outlined at a meeting of State Field Representatives in Dallas last week.

At the meeting held in Dallas, Mr. Cappelman received reports that crop losses through drought are serious and that farmers and ranchmen are in urgent need of funds to buy feed, seed and other supplies to continue their operations for the remainder of this year. In many instances it was pointed out that these farmers will require emergency credit to put in their 1953 crops. Funds are available now through the local Farmers Home Administration County Office for the purposes indicated. These funds are obtainable at 3 percent interest for crop production needs, under the provisions of Public Law 38.

The purpose of the disaster loan program authorized by Public Law 38, said County Supervisor Truman J. Jones of Littlefield, is to provide a source of temporary or emergency credit to assist farmers in designated areas who have suffered serious production losses as a result of drought or other natural causes, and who are unable to obtain from other established local sources the credit needed to continue their farming or ranching operations.

400,000 Acre Drop In Milo Is Reported

Recent surveys in Lamb and surrounding counties show a drop in milo acreage from last year. About 1,298,000 acres of milo were planted in 15 South Plains counties this year. Approximately one-third of this, 427,000 acres, is on irrigated land, the remainder on dry land.

Based on reports of previous year's milo production on the South Plains, irrigated land should produce about 2,700 pounds of grain per acre, and dry land, 1,000 pounds.

At that rate, the 15 counties in this area of the state should produce 1,152,900 pounds of milo on irrigated land, and 871,000,000 pounds on dry land, a total of 2,023,900,000 pounds.

1705. The CAPITOL at Williamsburg, Virginia

AP Newsfeatures

In 1705, the capitol was completed and Williamsburg had become the seat of government and social center of the province of Virginia. Here, the House of Burgesses assembled and, following the Stamp Act of 1765, resolutions were introduced condemning "taxation without representation." This and other courageous outbursts led to the Revolution and ultimate freedom.

During recent years, Dr. William A. R. Goodwin, rector of Bruton Parish Church, did much to save historic Williamsburg. In 1927 John D. Rockefeller Jr.,

came to his assistance and established a fund for the complete restoration of the town. Today Williamsburg is a national shrine and the old Capitol, rebuilt from its foundations, appears as it did in colonial days.

Teen Talk

AP Newsfeatures

BY VIVIAN BROWN

Are you a good dancer? If not, can you follow your partner in rhythmic fashion?

If the answers to both questions are "no," perhaps there is time to take dancing lessons before fall parties get underway.

You don't want to miss important dances because you can't dance. So brush up your party manners and dancing slippers for the fall social season.

Most young men choose happy looking, self-confident dancing partners, says Ben Cutler, society band leader. He advises that you look interested, eager and happy on the dance floor, if you want to keep your dance card filled. And don't think a boy invites you to a dance expecting you to sit comfortably in a corner all evening. Says Cutler:

"If you are asked to a dance, the young man expects you to dance. After all, if you're invited to a beach picnic you expect to go swimming. Whether you are at a coming-out party at the Waldorf or a senior prom in a small town, you are expected to glide around the floor with your escort."

A young girl needn't have mastered the rhumba, samba or tango to make a bit with her date. He probably will not know intricate steps, either. As long as you can follow him, he'll be happy. Cutler emphasizes these points, good to remember.

1. Be feminine when you dance. No matter how strong-minded you are in other aspects of life, don't attempt to lead the boy, even if you are a better dancer than he is.

2. Be lovely but not conspicuously different from the other girls at the dance. Your dress should be in keeping with your surroundings. Someone who wears a strapless evening dress to a sports dance at a club might look a little odd. On the other hand a simple sports dress at a formal dance is not in good taste. Dresses that are too low-cut or too form-fitting get scathing criticism from the male who doesn't enjoy dancing with a girl who attracts unnecessary leers.

3. Over-vivaciousness is worse than being the mousey type. You needn't be so animated when you are dancing that you convey everything by gesture... dancing cheek to cheek or nestling your head on your partner's shoulder.

4. Don't embarrass the boy by humming romantically in an attempt to inject personal romance into the general social activity. Another affection—dancing with the eyes closed in apparent ecstasy also is carrying things too far.

While it is true that a girl should be a lady at a dance, she need not put up with rude antics from her dancing partner, just because she is his date. Boys are offensive, sometimes, by thoughtlessly clutching the girl until she can scarcely breathe, tugging at her gown or cavorting in ways to cause her undue embarrassment on the dance floor.

If your date is rude and undignified, you will no doubt suffer through the first dance. But there needn't be a second dance if you object to his manners. Either explain the situation to the boy in a nice way and perhaps he'll promise to be good, or tell him you do not care to dance with him again under the circumstances.

VOCATIONAL NURSE PROGRAM WILL GET UNDERWAY AT LUBBOCK; CLASS SEPTEMBER

Miss Averill Sharrock, a professional nurse student; Mrs. Ken Schultz, a registered professional nurse; Miss Betty Walker, a prospective vocational nurse, playing the uniform during the year's training.

In Lubbock, Texas, plans have been formulated recently for a one year Vocational Nurse Program under the supervision of the public schools.

The first class in vocational nursing will be installed at Lubbock Senior High School on September 8, according to Audrey F. Decker, vocational nurse instructor.

The Public Schools' participation in the Vocational Nurse Program provides for the school's responsibility for assisting in the preparation of instruction materials and teaching aids and in supervising the instruction for the improving of instruction. The teacher of the Vocational Nurses is employed and paid through the Public Schools as a staff member. She is required to attend the University of Texas for formal classwork and workshop in organizing instructional material, latest methods and techniques of training vocational nurses.

Vocational nurse students receive four months of theory in the classroom followed by eight months of clinical instruction in a hospital. Applicants must be between the ages of eighteen and fifty, have passed the tenth grade, and be in good physical and mental condition. Beginning with the third month of training the student receives a salary. Upon graduation the student is eligible to write an examination and upon successful completion may be styled and known as a Licensed Vocational Nurse.

The year's training includes home management and hospital care. The bill provides training for those who have completed the tenth grade education or equivalent, the individual must be at least eighteen years of age, mentally, morally and physically fit for this type of work.

Dove Season Opens September 1

As announced by Pat L. Donnelly, State Game Warden, Dove Season begins September 1 at noon.

The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service approved the following Mourning Dove Hunting Seasons:

A 40-day Mourning Dove hunting season for North Texas beginning September 1 and a 40-day season for South Texas beginning October 1. Shooting will be restricted to afternoons, beginning at 12 o'clock noon and ending at sunset.

The limits are ten birds per day and ten in possession. Doves must be taken with a shotgun not larger than a ten gauge.

The Federal agency has final authority over dove and waterfowl regulations since doves, ducks and geese are migratory.

The last few years many have seen a number of hospitals close off whole wings because of a shortage of nursing personnel. Also there has been an uneven distribution of nurses throughout the country; thus requiring that provision be made for auxiliary nursing personnel, therefore Vocational Nurse Schools have been established in various places in Texas.

Recently Texas passed a law to license those who practice practical nursing under the title of Vocational Nurse. After one year's training the individual state examination and licensed by a board to be styled and known as a Vocational Nurse.

The bill provides that the secretary who is responsible to the committee for Vocational Nurses.
