SUPERINTENDENT HARRISON GIVES VITAL FACTS CONCERNING EDUCATION OF THE GROWING GENERATION IN UNITED STATES

This is the first of a series of articles in the Leader, written by Superintendent B. Harrison.

At the approval of the Board of Education of the Littlefield Independent School District, the superintendent has written for publication in the Leader, a series of articles dealing with the cost of public education. There are three reasons for writing these articles: First, public education is a matter of interest to every good citizen. People realize that the training of youth is our biggest task, and if we are to make our country a land of equal opportunity we must expect the public schools to offer equal opportunities to every child.

Second, the subject of public education, as applied to state and local taxes, is receiving considerable attention from the hands of the tax payers, not only in Texas, but in every other state. Public schools are supported by taxes and it is very evident that the success of any project depends upon having sufficient funds to carry out a well planned program.

Third, the reason for these articles is the recognition of the fact that when people "foot the bills," every tax payer has the right to know what the money is being expended for.

It is now reported that the total bill for public education in the United States is about $2,000,000,000 a year. This money represents our investment in the education of 25,000,000 boys and girls in public elementary and high schools. This represents an average expenditure of $80 for each pupil in the public schools of the United States.

It means that no nation in the world has so devoutly believed in, and so deeply pledged itself to, universal education.

What about the cost of education in Texas? According to the figures given by State Superintendent Marrs, Texas is spending on the elementary schools the sum of $100,000,000 a year. And yet, Texas is far down the line when we compare educational conditions in Texas with what is being done in other states.

According to statistics compiled in 1926 by Frank M. Phillips, of George Washington University, Texas stands 48th in the rank of states in the world in the school term. This means that 28 states have longer school terms than Texas has. Texas ranks 47th in average expenditure per child attending school. We are 39th among the states in salaries paid to teachers.

According to the 1920 census, Texas ranked 35th in state expenditures. The 1920 census also indicated that Texas stood 18th in state expenditures for education per $1,000 of wealth.

Even though we are spending $60,000,000 a year on our public schools in Texas, we have a long way to go before we are doing as well as California, Wyoming, Utah, South Dakota and many of the other states.

There are several reasons why the public schools of the United States are costing more money now than 10 or 20 years ago. Among the many reasons might be mentioned: The increased attendance; the decrease in the purchasing power of the dollar; the improvement in the quality of education.

Some ways in which the quality of education has been improved are: An increase in the length of the school term; a larger number of subjects in the curriculum; better trained teachers; free text books; better buildings; better equipment; transportation of pupils.

The people of the United States believe in education or they would not pay the bill. The State of Texas is committed to a system of free public education—a system that is improving with each passing year. We believe with Lirabeau Lamar that "Cultivated mind is the guardian genius of democracy. It is the only dictator that free men acknowledge, the only security that freemen desire." The people of the Littlefield School District believe in education and they are willing to maintain a system of schools if the schools render a service commensurate with the cost.

In the next article we will deal with the cost of education in Littlefield.

COMMERCIAL BODY PLANS PUBLICITY MEMBERSHIP DRIVE

At a meeting of the Board of Directors, Littlefield Chamber of Commerce, held Tuesday noon at the Gold Star cafe, there was considerable discussion regarding proposed publicity and membership campaigns.

It was the consensus of opinion expressed by the directors present that Littlefield was entitled to more general publicity than she has been receiving during the past year. One director declared that he was so well sold on this city of his choice that he wished everybody in this part of the world knew of it. Another declared if all his relatives moved to this section he wouldn't care very much about any future life in the celestial clime. Still another explained that with all the prosperity going on out this way, coupled with the wonderful opportunities lying latent, and in consideration of the many who were looking for just such openings and chances for happy prosperous homes, the news should be spread abroad to all four points of the compass.

It was also decided that following the New Year a membership campaign would be inaugurated, plans being outlined wherein every loyal citizen having the interests of the town at heart may become a member of this organization which is lending its best efforts toward a better and more prosperous place in which all may live.

PRAIRIE FIRES FREQUENT

Extreme caution is necessary at this time of year to prevent fires both in and out of doors, and during the past two weeks there have been several fires around Littlefield that have run up into the hundreds of dollars in loss of pasture grass.

Within the past two weeks there have been three prairie fires on the Yellow House lands, covering in the aggregate around eight sections of land. Two fires on the Spade lands this week have added further toll to pasture losses.

The law provides a heavy fine for anyone deliberately or accidentally letting fire get away from them in the State of Texas. A little care will not only save the pasture but may also save fines and imprisonment.

Can He Get Them All In?

By Albert T. Reid

BEST GIFT OF ALL

As a general rule most of us are somewhat lax when it comes to letter writing. We have friends or relatives in other sections of the country we want to keep in touch with, and we know they are anxious to keep in touch with happenings in the old home town. But somehow we can't bring ourselves to write to them as often as we would like to. And yet there is a happy solution and an inexpensive one.

Why not take just a moment to subscribe for the home town paper to be sent to some former resident during 1928? It will do all and more than a weekly letter would do, because it will carry much that you might not think to write. It will be as regular as clock-work, and a weekly reminder of your thoughtfulness. If there is anything that would make a friend or relative in a distant part of the country as fine a Christmas gift, we can't think what it is. For it is one that not only gives service and pleasure, but that keeps your friend or relative constantly reminded of you.

If you wish, we'll send along a card telling them that your thoughtfulness makes the gift possible. Think it over, then drop in and tell us what you think.

D. L. PAYNE, SUDAN, ARRESTED ON AN ASSAULT CHARGE

D. L. Payne, of Sudan, was arrested last Saturday night by Sheriff Len Lrvin and Deputy Walraven, charged with assault with intent to kill.

According to Irvin, Payne had been drinking and while in a state of semi-intoxication struck a Mexican over the head with a six shooter. The weapon being taken away from him, Payne grabbed his loaded rifle, which he attempted to use, but the mechanism hanging fire saved the Mexican's life.

Payne is said to have been recently released from the state insane asylum where he has been incarcerated for some time.

He was placed in the jail at Lubbock pending the making of bond.

MRS. WALDEN ENTERTAINS

Mrs. N. H. Walden gave a party at her home Friday night in honor of her niece, Miss Laverne Walden, of Tulsa, who spent last weekend in Littlefield.

Several couples of young people were present and enjoyed a theatre party after which they returned to Mrs. Walden's and played various games till a late hour, when refreshments of cake and hot chocolate were served.

There is always room at the top; the elevator doesn't run that high.

FARM SALES ARE OF GREAT INTEREST IN LFD. VICINITY

Auction farm sales are becoming the popular pastime this fall in the Littlefield community, several being advertised in the Leader this week.

These sales are of real community convenience and benefit, permitting the seller to turn into cash livestock implements, household goods and various other articles he does not need, while the buyers have an excellent opportunity for the purchasing of these very same needed articles.

Friday of this week, Geo. K. Mitchell has a big horse and hog sale, including some farm implements, at his place 13 miles east of Littlefield, a mile east and one south of the old Spade headquarters.

Monday, December 12th Clark and Shaffer have a general farm sale of large dimensions to be held at their place two miles east and one mile south of Littlefield.

Tuesday, December 13th Hancock and Clark have advertised a sale of work stock, milk cows, hogs and implements to be held on the Hancock farm five and one-half miles north east of Littlefield.

The following day, Wednesday the 14th, Sam. H. Davidson will hold a general farm sale six miles southwest of Littlefield.

December 15th J. A. Ward holds an auction sale of hogs, mules, farm implements, household goods and various miscellaneous items nine miles northeast of Littlefield, the place being also located nine miles east of Amherst and one mile west of the Olton highway.

These sales are an especial boon to the many new settlers coming into Littlefield vicinity and should all be well patronized.

AGED MAN EXPIRES

Geo. Russell, age 76 years, residing four miles southwest of Littlefield, with his daughter, Mrs. Wimberly, died last Sunday of asthma.

The funeral in charge of the Burleson-Mason undertaking company, was held Monday afternoon, conducted by Rev. Geo. Turrentine, of the Methodist church.

The deceased is survived by eight living children.

W. T. STEWART DEAD

W. T. Stewart, age 40 years, and residing five miles east of Littlefield, died November 30th of diabetes.

The funeral service, in charge of Burleson-Mason undertaking company was held December 2nd.

CROP CONDITIONS BRING INQUIRIES OF HOMESTEADS

"Nothing succeeds like success," remarked W. H. Badger, manager of the Yellow House Land Co., to a Leader representative last Tuesday. "There is something that is contagious in success," he continued. "Folks like to live in a country that is successful, they like to mingle with successful people, and a community that is successful always attracts others who likewise desire to be successful."

"The reports of prosperous times in the Littlefield section have reached to all sections of Texas, and leaked out into the border states," said Mr. Badger, "and as a result our company is daily receiving numerous inquiries for literature and information regarding the purchase of homesteads and farm land in this vicinity. Not only are they enquiring but they are buying. Just recently we sold farms to four Oklahoma farmers. W. W. Strathair purchased a nice farm, L. L. Barton bought 177 acres southwest of Littlefield and will soon be putting up on it a modern six room residence. A. J. Huett bought another good Yellow House farm a few miles southeast of Littlefield, while B. W. Watres purchased a fine tract just five miles from town.

"B. W. Armstrong, from Williamson county, bought a farm from us two years ago. Just a few days ago he came out here to see about his crops and was so well pleased with the result of his tenant's successes that he purchased another fine 177 acre tract of land.

"But about the best example of faith I have heard of in 'some time,'" said Mr. Badger, "is the case of G. V. Forbes, of Port Lavaca. Mr. Forbes has been reading of the Littlefield country for some time. He became thoroughly convinced that this was the place for his future home, so loading a big freight car with his horses, mules, cows, chickens, household goods and family, he paid the freight on it to Littlefield. Upon his arrival here he immediately came to our office, telling us he was here with his entire outfit and ready to buy a home. Of course, it didn't take us very long to find something that well satisfied him."

Mr. Badger also stated that he was receiving numerous enquiries from people who were anxious to move to this section, but being unable at the present time to buy farms of their own, were writing asking for place to rent for a year or two until they could get ahead sufficiently to buy homes of their own. These enquiries, said Mr. Badger, are coming from all sections of Texas, from Oklahoma and several states east of the Mississippi river.

BURNED SUNDAY
$35,000 IS LOSS

Fire from unknown origin, breaking out in the Lowrimore & Irvin cotton gin about four o'clock Sunday morning entirely destroyed the gin property, the office and seed houses being saved through the heroic work of the fire department and local citizens.

The origin of the fire is unknown. A strong wind was blowing at the time the conflagration was at its height, and sparks being carried for several blocks away endangering other property in that direction. Flames from the burning structure leaped into the air 250 to 300 feet, making a weird spectacle. There were also about 14 bales of cotton destroyed.

The property loss is estimated at about $35,000, with $9,000 insurance. Mr. Lowrimore stated that they would probably rebuild by the time next ginning season opened.

Curculio Causes Peach to Fall From the Tree

The early falling of peaches is very likely caused by the presence of the curculio which attacks the fruit and causes it to fall from the trees. To help prevent this insect, practice clean cultivation in the orchard and the surroundings to reduce the hiding and hibernating places. To help control them, spray with arsenate of lead, one and one half pounds, and hydrated lime, two pounds to fifty gallons of water. Apply this spray when the shucks or calyxes are shedding from the newly-set fruit. Again, two weeks after the shucks have shed, apply self-bolled lime-sulphur and one and a half pounds arsenate of lead to fifty gallons of water.

Raspberry Growing

From a survey completed last year in southwestern Michigan. It was found that many growers are producing black raspberries at a very high cost. From cost figures collected on twenty-nine different plantations, varying from two to thirty acres in size, it was learned that one grower was producing berries as low as $1.15 a crate, while another had a cost of $20.72 a crate. The average was $2.53. Forty-one per cent of the twenty-nine growers lost money.

ROTARIANS TO PICK CAPABLE MAN FOR MAYOR OF LFD. CY

At the meeting of the Littlefield Rotary club held last Thursday the principle theme for discussion was a suitable person to fill the vacancy of Mayor, following the report that the present incumbent, L. R. Crockett, is soon to move to Wichita, Kansas. Members were asked to seriously consider the matter and suggest names of persons of whom they thought would be qualified to fill the forth coming vacancy.

Arthur P. Duggan stated that a suit had been filed against the Littlefield school district relative to tax collections, and that erroneous statements were being circulated in connection with the financial management of the school. He explained some of the details of the pending suit and asked fellow Rotarians to use their influence in correcting any misrepresentations that came to their knowledge.

Art Haskins, a Rotarian from Kansas City, Mo., made an interesting talk on the Boys Work, telling something of their efforts and successes in his home city.

F. G. Sadler had charge of the classification part of the meeting, speaking upon the subject of "Drugs and Drug Stores."

Joe S. Perkins will be in charge of the next program.

BIG CROWD SEES NATIONS PAGEANT GIVEN LAST WED.

A pageant of the "Nations" was presented by the Littlefield Grammar school Wednesday evening of last week, in the High School auditorium.

Mrs. Frances Lee Tolbert, author and director of the pageant, was assisted by the other teachers of the building, each teacher being responsible for one scene.

The performance was of historical nature, yet a fanciful little story of Fairyland was cleverly interwoven throughout the series of scenes.

The queen of Fairyland, who was ill, could not be comforted by the fairy children who danced and sang for her, but called for her mortal children to whom she had given gifts at birth. The children of the world came and the queen was soothed when she was shown how they had used the gifts that she had given them.

The Arabian children, who had been directed by Miss Thelma Killough were the first to pay homage to their queen. They came and danced to the weird strains of the "Shiek of Araby," sung by Arthur Mueller.

The Japanese children were directed by Miss Hardesty; the Indians by Miss Mitchell and Mrs. Rowe; the Dutch children by Miss Lucille Killough; the Africans by Mrs. Lambert; the Cowboys by Mr. Chisholm and the American children by Miss Dugger. Joy Alford, a student in the Grammar school was the pianist for the program, with the exception of two numbers, which were given by Miss Robertson and Miss Dugger.

The pageant was an effective display of color and beauty, exhibiting the picturesque dress, mannerisms, and characteristics of the peoples represented.

Children and teachers are to be commended and applauded for the success of the program. The proceeds are for the benefit of the P. T. A. and will go to the library fund.

Floor Sweep Co. Is Located at Hub City

Lubbock, Dec. 7. (Special) A new South Plains industry is manufacturing floor sweep and all by-products to be marketed over the section.

The Lubbock Floor Sweep Manufacturing Company here, A. L. Stovall, manager, took over the Plains Floor Sweep Company last week. The plant is to be enlarged. John McKenzie, who has had years of experience in similar plants at Dallas, Oklahoma City, Eureka, and other points in factory manager and will have 12 or 15 men working with him in the plant. Five or six salesmen will work the territory from San Angelo to Roswell, to Amarillo and over to Wichita Falls.

Floor sweep, polish, oil, wax, varnish, and other products made from South Plains materials are being marketed by the company, through wholesale houses. Several wholesale houses in Lubbock, Slaton and other South Plains cities are placing the products with their retail customers.

THE SENIOR RINGS

The seniors are very proud of their rings that arrived last week. We are sure that they are the most beautiful class rings in the world. It happened that the seniors had to write an original poem the day the rings arrived. Lydia Crockett was inspired to write the following poem:

The Senior rings have come,
The whole school is in a hum,
All are happy and gay,
Because the rings are here today.
Everywhere you look I found
A senior without a frown.

The Juniors are ordering pins, So now their joy begins. In history 3 the constitution is being studied. William Lowmors brought a piece of elastic to class to illustrate the elastic clause in the constitution.

Eleven Months

By DOUGLAS MALLOCH

IT'S—well, let's see—it's very near Eleven months, almost a year. Since you put on your hat one day And said good-by and went away; And you, you smiled, and I smiled, too, That's all one ever dares to do; And then I heard a door that closed, And—well, whoever yet supposed Eleven months could follow then Before that door would swing again, That is, before that door would swing, And really mean a single thing?—

Eleven months, or maybe more, Before one heard a swinging door Just seem to swing some certain way, I can't describe, that seemed to say, "He's here! He's home! He's on the stairs! Now where's my puff and how's my hair?" Eleven months—and yet a week It was before I dared to speak, Or hardly dared to speak, for fear Somebody else around might hear Me—well, me gulping something down Because one man was out of town.

Now, isn't this a shameless note?— The worst a woman ever wrote, But I've been thinking more and more That ever since you shut the door, That anywhere you perchanced to be, That maybe you were just like me, And, just because I let you go, You didn't see, and didn't know, And didn't really understand; And wouldn't it be awful—land!— If somehow somewhere sometime you Were counting months and minutes, too!

How It Started

By JEAN NEWTON

UNIONS

TRULY, "In union there is strength." And it is this same principle, old as the ages, that started the first union, the medieval gild, as it was called, from "gild" meaning a payment. It is a travesty that the original "unions" were not organizations of "labor," but of employers. They were boards of trades formed by the proprietors of the industries of each town, for protection against "foreign" competition. The rules of the gild against trading with "foreigners" except under certain conditions preserved for the trade men of each town a monopoly of local business. Capitalists! The authority of the gilds in the regulation of trade was greater even than that enjoyed by the town governments.

With the development of industry the general merchant gild was superseded by the craft gilds—individual organizations for every trade or industry in the town. As the merchant gild had regulated the trade of the town in general the craft gild supervised its own trade or occupation.

So powerful were these craft gilds that it was impossible for a man to carry on business without subjecting himself to the rules of his gild.

The gilds controlled a man's standing in his trade. Every worker had to serve for seven years as an apprentice without pay, when he became a "journeyman." This word was taken from the French "journée," which means day. For the men were employed and paid by the day. When a journeyman had saved enough money to open his own little shop he became a "master" tradesman. And here again we have capitalism in the trade unions, for only masters could become full-fledged members of the craft gild! But we learn that the proprietors and their employees worked in harmonious accord, without partisan interests, for the good of their craft. The millennium was here—about 500 years ago!

HOGS DECREASE 50 PER CENT IN STATE SAYS GEO. M. LEWIS

Austin, Texas, Dec. 7.—During the past seven years there has been a decrease of nearly 50 per cent in the number of hogs raised in Texas, according to figures obtained by Geo. M. Lewis, live stock specialist in the Bureau of Business Research of the University of Texas. Mr. Lewis states that there are now only 1,250,000 hogs on Texas farms as compared with 2,400,000 in 1920.

The importance of this industry in the State is evidenced by the returns amounting to over thirty-two million dollars which the sale of hogs brought to producers in the State last year, according to Mr. Lewis.

Mr. Lewis is a firm believer that "Every farm in Texas should have a few hogs to utilize the waste products and to provide the farm families with a part of their meat supply and to add to the farm income. They require very little attention and are the most economical animal in existence. The hog is universally known as the 'mortgage lifter,' because he has contributed to the successes of farming throughout the world and he is a ready source of immediate profit on any diversified or intensified farming enterprise."

MISSIONARY MEETING

The Ladies Missionary Society of the Methodist church met Monday afternoon with Mrs. W. W. Gillette, with a good attendance, and enjoyed a brief business meeting.

NEW FORD AUTO DRAWS BIG CROWD TO SEE DETAILS

After months of anticipation the new Ford automobile has made its appearance on the South Plains, an exhibit car being sent last week to the dealer at Lubbock which attracted the attention of hundreds of people for many miles around.

The John H. Arnett Co., Littlefield dealers, last Friday carried in their display room photographic exhibits of all the new production cars, together with complete charts of construction. Nearly 900 people registered as visitors and several orders for the new cars were placed. Mr. Arnett stated he expected to have an exhibition model some time next week as two train loads were this week shipped into Dallas for assembly.

Unusual speed and acceleration are among the outstanding features of the new car. It is announced as being able to make 55 to 60 miles an hour, with ease. In recent tests it has made even more without difficulty. What is more important, it is stated that when traveling at such speeds, it holds the road easily, and with comfort to driver and passengers. It is also stated with equal positiveness, however, that it performs in an equally spectacular manner on bad roads. In high gear tests with two passengers in a Tudor sedan it has shown an acceleration of from 5 to 25 miles an hour in 8 1/2 seconds.

The new Ford car also introduces a new type of four-wheel brakes. An exclusive Ford development, they are of the mechanical, shoe expanding type and are self-centering. The brake pedal and the hand brake each operate all four brakes.

An engine that is practically vibrationless develops 40 horsepower at 2,200 revolutions per minute. The low revolution on speed is also a substantial factor in lessening vibration. The bore is 3 3/4 inches, stroke 4 1/4 inches. The unusually large crankshaft, which is both statically and dynamically balanced, weighs 28 pounds. This balancing combined with the lightness of aluminum alloy pistons, further combine to reduce vibration and increase riding and driving comfort and safety.

In addition to freedom from vibration, it is announced that the car is unusually quiet. In the engine, the timing gears are made of bakelized fabric, which is much quieter than metal. The cams on the camshaft have been so designed as to prevent valve clicking.

The coachwork of the car is as distinctive as its performance. It is not only designed for exterior beauty but has as well the interior roominess, convenience and luxurious appointments to be found in much higher priced automobiles. On an instrument board of satin finished nickel are mounted the speedometer, gasoline gauge, ammeter and ignition lock, with a dashlight in the center. The new military-type sun visor, with crown roof and round corners, are features of the closed models. Unusually narrow pillars and very wide doors and windows give maximum vision. Nicked radiator shell and headlamps further accentuate the exterior attractiveness, while choices of four colors in pyroxylin finish are offered.

Simplicity in design has also been carried to the ignition. There is only one coil, in a waterproof case. There are no vibrators to adjust, and no exposed cables to work loose or short circuit from water. The distributor is located in a readily accessible position on top of the engine.

Centrifugal water pump, large radiator and airplane propeller-type fan provide a cooling system which makes the car very difficult to overheat, except from abuse, such as running without enough oil or dry radiator.

From 20 to 30 miles to a gallon of gasoline, depending upon driving speed, is the gasoline consumption announced. Feed to carburetor is by gravity.

The oiling system also a distinctive Ford design, is a combination of pump splash and gravity feed. The new transmission is of the selective sliding gear type, with standard shift, three speeds forward and one reverse. The main shaft runs on ball bearings, the counter shaft on roller bearings and the reverse idler on bronze bearings, a power saving design unusual on light cars. Shifting of gears is noiselessly and easily accomplished, at the pressure of a finger.

Multiple dry disc clutch, rear axle of three-quarter floating type housed in electrically welded steel, and spiral bevel gear drive are interesting features. The axle shafts carry none of the weight of the car, the wheels running on roller bearings on the housing. Newly developed springs of the transverse semi-elliptic type and hydraulic shock absorbers prevent excessive up-and-down movement and remove side sway.

Irreversible steering gear which prevents shocks from being transmitted back to the hands of the driver makes handling exceptionally easy. Maximum steering safety is further provided by a gear housing of welded steel forgings, and a steel tube steering column welded into the housing, making a sturdy and exceptionally safe one-piece unit.

Ford-designed steel spoke wheels, completely welded into a one-piece assembly, are provided.

There are six models of the new car. They are the phaeton roadster, sport coupe, coupe Tudor sedan and Fordor sedan.

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Let not your heart be troubled.—
John 14:1.

Worry is rust upon the blade.—
Henry Ward Beecher.

WHY NOT TRY THIS

With Thanksgiving over and but one more big holiday this year we want to take just a moment to talk to Littlefield readers who still cling to the old habit of waiting until a day or two before Christmas to prepare for it. They would be surprised, doubtless, if they knew how nicely some of their neighbors have solved an old problem that used to cause a lot of vexation. And yet they are as smart as their neighbors, and can do the same thing.

You already know about what you are going to give, and to whom. The very thing you will give is even now to be had at our local stores, or will be in a week or so. Why not go in now, when there isn't a rush as there will be a day or two before Christmas pick out what you want, or order it if it isn't in stock, make a little down payment on it and have it laid away until you call for it? Or better still, pay cash for it, take it home, put it away and have it off your mind. Get several such purchases out of the way this week, and some more next week. And then, just a few days before the big holiday, after stocks have been picked over and the choicest things sold, you can thank your stars that your own problems are solved. You can sit down and take it easy, and let those who still stick to the old last-minute shopping habit suffer the discomfort and worry.

You will be resting easier in both body and mind, and you'll be in better shape to enjoy your own Christmas than you ever were before. Try it this year—start in now—and when Christmas does arrive you'll be silently thanking us for the suggestion.

We wouldn't be surprised to see radio become so popular in a year or two that the reformers will begin trying to stop it.

INSTALLMENT BUYING

From what we gather in occasional conversations with Littlefield residents opinion here is divided as to the merits of installment buying. Those who argue for a "pay as you go" policy have much to support them in it. And yet we must admit that if everything was done on a strictly cash basis millions of people really wouldn't have many of the necessities of life they now enjoy.

It has been proven that buying a home on the installment plan is a wise investment. Thousands now own homes who couldn't have acquired them if they had had to pay cash, and the same is true of autos and even clothing. Naturally the installment plan is abused. There are thousands buying things they do not need, and that they could easily get along without, simply because they can get them on "easy payments." But in the old days when we had "credit" instead of "installments," this type abused their credit.

Wise and careful merchants have come to realize that extending credit by way of the installment plan is good business, since it enables them to sell goods that will eventually be paid for but that the purchaser could not have paid cash for. The more goods sold the greater the demand for production. And the larger production the more work for the masses. It is a two-sided question, as we said before. But the argument in favor of it seems to be strong enough to warrant its continuance. It isn't a dangerous way to buy if you buy sensibly and recognize the sacredness of your credit.

GOING TO EXTREMES

We wouldn't encourage Littlefield parents to permit their children to run the streets at all hours of the day and night, especially at night. But we do believe that a lot of worry on this score is unnecessary and useless.

The fear of children being injured associating with undesirable neighbors and picking up profane and vulgar language is carried to excess by many parents. They worry over it when it may not be necessary. The child deprived of all chance of really learning how to live with its neighbors. At school age such a child is usually tied to its mother's apron strings is found lacking in strength, courage and resourcefulness, and that very handicap may retard them in later life.

It doesn't pay to let them run wild of course. But it is just as bad, possibly worse, to deprive them of all liberty. There's a happy middle-ground somewhere. Find it, and end a worry that really can be ended if gone at from a sensible viewpoint.

Another thing we can't understand is why a man always insists on home atmosphere at a hotel and hotel service at home.

WHERE WILL IT END?

Now that Ford is about to go into production of his long-heralded auto, a new problem bobs up, one in which every citizen around Littlefield owning a car is interested in.

With Ford making 12,000 cars a day in 1928, as he plans, and other factories making fully as many as they made last year, it will mean about 5,000,000 more autos on the roads next year than there are now. And where can 5,000,000 more cars streets are now packed so thickly with them? And especially on holidays when everybody is loafing, and every car owner will be out with his car?

It is something to give the highway officials of the entire country serious food for thought. There seems to be but one possible solution of future traffic problems—and that is to build still more roads to accommodate still more autos that are going to be built; and to make the ones we now have wider that they, too, can accommodate more cars.

There is so little money earned in attending to other people's affairs that we often wonder why some people don't quit it.

BEATING THE BORER

Uncle Sam's corn crop is harvested and to the surprise of his experts it ran many millions of bushels ahead of their early estimates. They had allowed for a vast amount of destruction from the corn borer, and while the pests undoubtedly did destroy a large amount of corn, the campaign waged against them in various sections during the growing season retarded their work.

The corn borer is just another one of the many pests that have come to inflict the farmer since the days of Adam, and while it may never be entirely stamped out, it is good to know that the fight is proving effective. We have heard some farmers around here to stay, and that corn raising is no longer a paying proposition. But this year's harvest doesn't bear out that statement by any means. If we have harvested a bumper crop with the corn borer battle just starting why won't the harvest be even more profitable when the fight is carried still farther?

Dr. Frank Crane Says

DON'T USE THE HEREDITY ALIBI

Dorothy Dix had a good article recently on the heredity alibi. She pointed out that this is one of the most abused alibis in the world and one of which the weaklings are especially fond.

It seems to be limited to the weaklings. No man who is honest, upright and has the other virtue attributes it to the influence of his grandfather. He always takes credit for such things himself.

But when a man is a drunkard and loose in his sex life or otherwise self-indulgent, very often he or his mother for him will attribute it to the influence of his father's uncle or some such person.

If a man has a hereditary leaning for instance, towards liquor, why doesn't he leave it alone?

I know a man who is prominent in politics, himself the Governor of a State and his father before him a Governor. The father had been a drunkard. For that reason his son never touched it. He knew the weakness was in his blood and he avoided it. This is the main thing for which heredity is good. It ought to teach us what kind of temptations to avoid.

Any man who goes to the devil is the maker of his own downfall. We never place a false stone in the edifice of our career unless we do it ourselves. Likewise any man who achieves success is entitled to credit for it. Other people and events may have contributed to his venture, but they would have meant nothing without his co-operation.

The one thing that a successful man clings to is his sense of responsibility. He is the master of his fate and he ought to be the captain of his soul.

Our true heredity is from God and we all have in us the power to make something of ourselves.

The Orientals deify their ancestors but all we use them for is to put the blame of our actions on them. If everything that is said about heredity were true this world would steadily go to the dogs. As it is, it is growing better and it is improving because there is a continual crop of new babies entering in to it and humanity is always starting again.

No matter what your father or mother or great uncles were, therefore, you should not be downhearted.

Dr. Johnson once asked a woman to marry him and she replied: "Sir I cannot because my condition in life is not equal to yours. Besides I have two uncles that have been hung."

He answered: "As far as position in life is concerned, all men are born equal, and as far as ancestors are concerned, while I have no uncles that have been hung, I have several relatives that ought to be hung."

AMBITION!!

James Moore, 19, of New England, went to New York to get rich. He worked days in a factory and washed dishes in a restaurant at night for meals—sleeping in the subway to save room rent. He was arrested and his story in court caused Wall Street brokers to get him out of jail for a fresh start.

LITTLE LEADERS

In our opinion the Littlefield man who is continually cracking jokes about women's clothes has very little to talk about.

When one glances at some of the side dishes served in some Littlefield restaurants they begin to realize that a whole lot of garbage escapes the can.

Some young people around Littlefield don't mind their parents knowing when they go out, but seem to think it's none of their business when they come in.

You often hear a Littlefield man refer to it as "running in debt," but those who do so find that getting out is more of a crawl.

Maybe some Littlefield fellows call their house a bungalow because the job was a bungle and they still owe for it.

It takes all kinds of people to make a world, including the Littlefield man who always has to borrow your lead pencil to show you where you are wrong.

About the only time some Littlefield husbands are the big noise around their home is when they are sound asleep and snoring.

We are also firmly convinced that Littlefield people would not complain so much about high taxes if their money went for what they intended it to go for.

Even hot headed men occasionally get cold feet.

Misery loves company but not any more than happiness does.

Many a man who declares his opinion has none.

With After-Dinner Coffee
By CAROLINE B. KING
Culinary Expert and Lecturer on Domestic Science

MANY hostesses are omitting a formal dessert just now and in its stead are serving the after-dinner cup of coffee in the living room or library and accompanying it with some dainty morsel that may be either a savory or a sweet bite. This form of serving is very pleasant and chatty, and commends itself all around. Following are some suggestions for dainties that are very tempting with the demi tasse.
Cinnamon Whirls:
Roll biscuit dough one-quarter inch thick, spread with softened butter, brown sugar and powdered cinnamon. Chopped nut meats may be added, if desired. Roll and cut in one inch slices. Bake quickly in hot oven.
Switzerland Dainties:
Cut squares of pie pastry and cover with finely chopped genuine Swiss cheese. Lap edges toward center and bake in hot oven. When finished place a spoonful of jelly or jam in center of dainty.
Swiss Puffs:
Roll pie pastry thin and cut in circles with cookie-cutter. Place a round of Switzerland cheese on each and bake until nicely browned.

Garnish with a preserved or Mar-schino cherry on top.
Jelly Wheels:
Roll pie pastry one-quarter inch thick, spread with softened butter, then with jelly, roll into a compact roll and cut in inch slices. Bake the wheels in a hot oven, then sprinkle while hot with powdered sugar.
Cheese Fingers:
Roll biscuit dough 1-4 inch thick.
Cut in finger lengths and place a thin strip of Switzerland cheese between two layers of biscuit dough, sandwich fashion. Bake in quick oven, serve with plum marmalade.
Alpine Tidbits:
Heat small round crackers and serve with honey and genuine Swiss cheese.
Toasted Marmalade Fingers: Toast slices of bread and cut in finger lengths. Butter and spread with orange marmalade, accompanied by Swiss cheese.

SENIORS GIVE PROGRAM
Each class has been asked to entertain in assembly. The Seniors were asked to entertain first. They gave a short but good program Tuesday morning. After Mr. Harrison made some announcements, the Senior class sang a Thanksgiving song. Harmon-Denton gave an interesting introductory talk concerning Thanksgiving and he also read a poem.
Johnnie Pace rendered a beautiful piano solo, "Woodland Echoes," by Wyman.
Florence Hendrix read a poem appropriate for the occasion.
A negro dialogue was given by Clarence Kelly and O. A. Woody.
The dialogue was written by Maxine Cooper.
The program closed with the song,
"Tramp, Tramp, Tramp" sung by the audience.
The Seniors had a very short time to prepare a program and expect to give a better one next time.
Everyone is invited to attend these programs. The Juniors will entertain next time.

PEP SQUAD
Sometime ago Josephine Glenn and
Curtis Heard were elected yell leaders.
There has been several meetings held and new yells are being learned already, and the students seem to have more pep than they did at the begin-has been organized and has been at the football games our team has been more successful.

Littlefield High school can be more successful in athletics if more interest is shown by the student body.
Everyone be sure and come to these meetings and learn these yells. We want to make Littlefield Hi the pep-

DAIRY FACTS

FAULTY FEEDING LESSENS PROFITS

Faulty feeding is one of the chief causes of unprofitable dairymaking. Says Dr. W. R. Nevens, assistant chief in dairy cattle feeding at the college of agriculture, University of Illinois, in "Feeding the Dairy Herd," a revised handbook which is now being distributed by the college to interested farmers and dairymen.

At the same time proper feeding alone does not guarantee the greatest milk production, he points out. Care and management and breeding and selection that will build up the capacity of the herd also must get attention.

"It has been demonstrated, for instance, that poorly kept cows will give 50 per cent more milk with improved feeding and care, but after the level has been raised in this way, little more can be done except through a program of good breeding. Using sires of the best blood lines and replacing the poorest cows in the herd with heifers from the best cows usually will bring continued improvement in production year after year."

Doctor Nevens explains that a cow may use feed for five different purposes: Growth, maintenance, milk production, increase in weight and production of offspring. It is evident, then, that when cows are fed for milk production, these various functions must be considered with regard to the future development of the cow as well as to her immediate needs, he points out.

Liberal feeding, when intelligently done, usually pays more in the long run than scanty feeding. Although other things besides feeding has a bearing on the milk production of a herd, there is no doubt but that many dairy herds which make little or no profit could be put on a paying basis simply by giving more attention to this one factor—more generous feeding, he says.

He then points out that feeds are divided into two classes: concentrates and roughages. Concentrates—the farm grains and mill by-products—are heavy and contain little fiber or woody material. Roughages, such as hay, straw, silage, grass and roots, are bulky and contain lots of fiber, and in some cases water. Roughages with lots of water, such as fresh green grass, roots and silage, are known as succulent feeds.

Substances found in feeds are grouped into six classes: Protein, carbohydrates, fats, mineral matter or ash, vitamins and water. "Every dairyman should know these classes should know what part they play in the nourishment of the animal and what common feeds will best supply them in the most economical and desirable form," Doctor Nevens says.

Young, tender pasture grass is more highly digestible than matured grass. From 65 to 80 per cent of the dry matter of farm grains and their best by-products are digestible, while only 54 to 75 per cent of the dry matter of the better kinds of roughage is digestible. Some of the poorer roughages, such as cereal straws and the hulls of various seeds, which contain lots of crude fiber, are low in digestibility and have little place in the ration of the dairy cow in milk.

Succulence, physiological effect, bulk, balance and cost are discussed as some of the other characteristics of spring grass which the dairyman should try to duplicate in rations used for barn feeding.

Under most conditions a dairy herd can be fed more economically on feeds that are raised on the farm where they are used than it can on purchased feeds, Doctor Nevens says in the handbook. It must be remembered, however, that cereal grains and nonlegume roughages are low in protein, he cautions.

Dried Beet Pulp Often Used in Testing Cows

Dried beet pulp is a bulky, carbohydrate concentrate that has a slightly laxative effect on dairy cows, and is used quite often by dairymen when they are feeding cows on test. It is not worth quite as much as corn or barley in feeding value in the ordinary ration, and as it usually sells for more than corn it rarely pays to buy it as a substitute for corn merely as a source of nutrients. However, where a maximum yield is desired regardless of cost, such as cow's on official test, it can be used to make the concentrate more bulky, and as such will be worth more than corn. Where a succulent feed such as silage is not available it makes a very satisfactory substitute, though usually more expensive. Where much is used it is better to moisten it before feeding.

Cow's Producing Value

A cow's value as a producer depends upon her inherited ability to secrete milk, and her environment, or the feed and care. If a cow has not inherited the ability to produce milk abundant feeding will not accuate her milk glands to secrete milk. On the other hand, a good dairy cow without feed and care is like a first class boiler without fuel. It is important to obtain a good dairy cow, but it is just as important to feed and care for the cow properly.

W. M. U. MEETING
 The W. M. U. met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Wm. Lowrimore. The regular program and business session was followed by a miscellaneous shower, given for Mrs. Ed Lowrimore. Refreshments of waldorf salad, sandwiches, tea and cake were served to 26 members. Most of the big jobs are men who couldn't even name naughty magazines. Love is responsible for a good frosts in summer and a few ho in winter.

I. C. E. SOCIAL

The Intermediate Christian Endeavor members of the Presbyterian church enjoyed a social in the church parlor, Friday evening. A short business meeting was held preceding the social hour. A sum of $10.00 was pledged to mission work. Officers for the coming year were elected as follows:

President, Laura Virginia Bills; vice-president, Ina Belle Wharton; Secretary and treasurer, Mildred Bell; Chairman of the lookout committee, Geraldine Kirkpatrick; Chairman of the Program Committee, Lorene Joseph; Chairman of the Missionary committee, Ruth Mitchell; Chairman of the Social Committee, Etha Myree Moulton and Zelma Cosgrove; Corresponding secretary, Eula Alexander; Reporter, Lois Kirkpatrick.

After a jolly social hour, delicious refreshments were served to the members and friends.

The average man isn't half so anxious to bet on a sure thing as those behind the game are to have him do it.

Such a Difference

The difference between really fresh foodstuff and that not so fresh is only fully appreciated when you make "M" System Stores your headquarters for good things to eat.

We cater away to the best of the season and the best the wholesalers put on the market.

Not only that but with the tremendous cooperative buying power at our command you may always be assured of buying the season's best at the lowest possible price.

"M" System Stores are the lowest price groceries to be found anywhere on the South Plains today.

Buy your groceries here and bank the difference. It will be considerable during the year's time!

Pep Paragraphs

(By Cosmo) Fire bugs have lately done much damage in this vicinity by setting the prairie on fire. Frank Selhan, who recently moved here from Wichita Falls, lost four stacks of feed which he had just purchased to feed his stock through the winter. It was only through the heroic work of his family and the neighbors that Mr. Selhan saved his farm buildings.

In order to save their barn and other farm buildings Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Albus were compelled to fight the prairie fire for several hours Saturday night.

Adolph Jungman and Will Jungman were also compelled to fight the prairie fire for several hours in order to keep it off their premises.

The incendiaries who fired the prairie in this vicinity were seen by several people in the community. No one however, was close enough to recognize them. The fire bugs traveled in a car. The epidemics of prairie fires throughout this part of the country of late is probably caused by the same parties.

Drastic steps should be taken by the proper authorities to put an end to such vandalism and to mete out the full punishment of the law to the vandals.

Mrs. H. Mulvehill and family spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Bray Mrs. Mulvehill sold her household effects lately. She moved with her family to South Texas this week.

W. P. Lupton, accompanied by his daughter, Jean, drove out from Littlefield and spent Sunday with his family.

Joe Gerik is suffering this week from an attack of flu.

Bernie Allison has been out of school several days because of illness.

Despite the months vacation for cotton picking, several of the school children are unfortunately still detained at home.

The Pep school children are greatly enjoying the lessons in music appreciation which the victrola recently purchased for the school has made possible for them.

Pinch Berry Shoots at About Eighteen Inches

The ends of young shoots of black raspberries, purple canes and blackberries should be pinched off when the shoots have reached a height of about eighteen inches. These shoots generally reach this height early in June, and this pinching process helps force out buds along the main stem, so that they will form lateral branches.

Plants pruned in this way branch near the ground and are better able to support themselves. This kind of pruning is almost always used where the grower does not have trellises. It may be necessary to go through the patch several times for the best results, as pinching should not be delayed much beyond the time when the shoots are the right height. If it is done later in the season when the shoots are longer, the growth from the lower buds will not be satisfactory. The general effect of the pinching is to keep the bushes more compact and easier to pick, to prune and to work around.

It is not advisable that red raspberries be summer pinched, because it seems to encourage the growth of suckers; red varieties also send out laterals which are weak and spindling—less desirable than the single, vigorous well-matured canes.

FAULTY FEEDING LESSENS PROFITS

Faulty feeding is one of the chief causes of unprofitable dairying, says Dr. W. H. Nevins, assistant chief of dairy cattle feeding at the college of agriculture, University of Illinois, in "Feeding the Dairy Herd," a revised handbook which is now being distributed by the college to interested farmers and dairymen.

At the same time proper feeding alone does not guarantee the greatest milk production, he points out. Care and management and breeding and selection that will build up the capacity of the herd also must get attention.

"It has been demonstrated, for instance, that poorly kept cows will give 50 per cent more milk with improved feeding and care, but after the level has been raised in this way, little more can be done except through a program of good breeding. Using sires of the best blood lines and replacing the poorest cows in the herd with better ones from the best cows usually will bring continued improvement in production year after year."

Doctor Nevins explains that a cow may use feed for five different purposes: Growth, maintenance, milk production, increase in weight and production of offspring. It is evident, then, that when cows are fed for milk production, these various functions must be considered with regard to the future development of the cow as well as to her immediate needs, he points out.

Liberal feeding, when intelligently done, usually pays more in the long run than scanty feeding. Although other things besides feeding has a bearing on the milk production of a herd, there is no doubt but that many dairy herds which make little or no profit could be put on a paying basis simply by giving more attention to this one factor—more generous feeding, he says.

He then points out that feeds are divided into two classes: concentrates and roughages. Concentrates—the farm grains and mill by-products—are heavy and contain little fiber or woody material. Roughages, such as hay, straw, silage, grass and roots, are bulky and contain lots of fiber, and in some cases water. Roughages with lots of water, such as fresh green grass, roots and silage, are known as succulent feeds.

Substances found in feeds are grouped into six classes: Protein, carbohydrates, fats, mineral matter or ash, vitamins and water. "Every dairyman should know these classes, should know what part they play in the nourishment of the animal and what common feeds will best supply them in the most economical and desirable form," Doctor Nevins says.

Young, tender pasture grass is more highly digestible than matured grass. From 65 to 80 per cent of the dry matter of farm grains and their best by-products are digestible, while only 50 to 75 per cent of the dry matter of the better kinds of roughage is digestible. Some of the poorer roughages, such as cereal straws and the hulls of various seeds, which contain lots of crude fiber, are low in digestibility and have little place in the ration of the dairy cow in milk.

Succulence, physiological effect, bulk, balance and cost are discussed as some of the other characteristics of spring grass which the dairyman should try to duplicate in rations used for barn feeding.

Under most conditions a dairy herd can be fed more economically on feeds that are raised on the farm where they are used than it can on purchased feeds, Doctor Nevins says in the handbook. It must be remembered, however, that cereal grains and nonlegume roughages are low in protein, he cautions.

Dried Beet Pulp Often

Used in Testing Cows

Dried beet pulp is a bulky, carbonaceous concentrate that has a slightly laxative effect on dairy cows, and is used quite often by dairymen when they are feeding cows on test. It is not worth quite as much as corn or barley in feeding value in the ordinary ration, and as it usually sells for more than corn it rarely pays to buy it as a substitute for corn merely as a source of nutrients. However, where a maximum yield is desired regardless of cost, such as cows on official test, it can be used to make the concentrate more bulky, and as such will be worth more than corn. Where a succulent feed such as silage is not available it makes a very satisfactory substitute, though usually more expensive. Where much is used it is better to moisten it before feeding.

Cow's Producing Value

A cow's value as a producer depends upon her inherited ability to secrete milk, and her environment, or the feed and care. If a cow has not inherited the ability to produce milk, abundant feeding will not activate her milk glands to secrete milk. On the other hand, a good dairy cow without feed and care is like a first class boiler without fuel. It is important to obtain a good dairy cow, but it is just as important to feed and care for the cow properly.

W. M. U. MEETING

The W. M. U. met Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Wm. Lowrimore.

The regular program and business session was followed by a miscellaneous shower, given for Mrs. Ed Lowrimore. Refreshments of waldorf salad, sandwiches, tea and cake were served to 26 members.

Automobiles to Drive Beneath River

New York last week the Holland Tunnel under the Hudson was opened—one of the great engineering feats of the ages. The tunnel, 2,520 feet long, costing $48,000,000 joins Manhattan island and New Jersey. On opening day 52,285 cars passed through. It took two years to build the double tube tunnel. Above, inside the tunnel, one of the ventilating plants; and, autos lined up for the opening under the river.

Pep Paragraphs

(By Cosmo)

Fire bugs have lately done much damage in this vicinity by setting the prairie on fire. Frank Selhan, who recently moved here from Wichita Falls, lost four stacks of feed which he had just purchased to feed his stock through the winter. It was only through the heroic work of his family and the neighbors that Mr. Selhan saved his farm buildings.

In order to save their barn and other farm buildings Mr. and Mrs. Laurence Albus were compelled to fight the prairie fire for several hours Saturday night.

Adolph Jungman and Will Jungman were also compelled to fight the prairie fire for several hours in order to keep it off their premises.

The incendiaries who fired the prairie in this vicinity were seen by several people in the community. No one however, was close enough to recognize them. The fire bugs traveled in a car. The epidemics of prairie fires throughout this part of the country of late is probably caused by the same parties.

Drastic steps should be taken by the proper authorities to put an end to such vandalism and to mete out the full punishment of the law to the vandals.

Pinch Berry Shoots at About Eighteen Inches

The ends of young shoots of black raspberries, purple canes and blackberries should be pinched off when the shoots have reached a height of about eighteen inches. These shoots generally reach this height early in June, and this pinching process helps force out buds along the main stem, so that they will form lateral branches.

Plants pruned in this way branch near the ground and are better able to support themselves. This kind of pruning is almost always used where the grower does not have trellises. It may be necessary to go through the patch several times for the best results, as pinching should not be delayed much beyond the time when the shoots are the right height. If it is done later in the season when the shoots are longer, the growth from the lower buds will not be satisfactory. The general effect of the pinching is to keep the bushes more compact and easier to pick, to prune and to work around.

It is not advisable that red raspberries be summer pinched, because it seems to encourage the growth of suckers; red varieties also send out laterals which are weak and spindling—less desirable than the single, vigorous well-matured canes.

Removing the Cause vs. Treating Effects

Treating the effects of disease is like tinkering with the hose or nozzle to get a supply of water when the water main is shut off. To get permanent results in diseased conditions it is necessary to remove the cause of that condition. In 90 per cent of cases this cause will be found in occluded openings of the spinal column. The physician can give you stimulants or depressants that will give temporary relief at times, but the cause of your condition remains to manifest itself again and again, getting more severe as time goes on.

Chiropractic Adjustments will replace the misplaced segments of the spine and open the spinal openings and allow a free flow of Nature's life currents to all parts of the body with the result that health is restored.

This science is based on the law of mechanics and has been proven time and again.

Release the Pressure which is a simple mechanical operation, and that alone will give to the imprisoned impulses free flow to the diseased part of the human body and restore HEALTH to the parts. The human mechanic—the CHIROPRACTOR—has three years training in finding these occluded nerves along the spinal cord and in adjusting the misaligned vertebrae back into their normal positions. This is the secret of health.
