U. S. Flag Flies From Pole at Sudan Gin

What is said to be the only flag pole at a South Plains gin was erected last week at the Sudan Co-operative gin at Sudan by manager John Dean.

Dean has some pipe welded together and then set in concrete. He is flying an American flag from the top of the pole every day.

Many farmers have told Dean they were attracted by the sight of the flag, something unusual except from a school building, postoffice, or other federal building or an American Legion hall.

Fort Bliss Lease 300,000 More Acres

EL PASO, Tex., Oct. 22—(UP)—Fort Bliss, the nation's largest cavalry post where thousands of soldiers will be trained in the national defense program, had its beginning as a center for troops sent here to protect this border town from Indians almost a century ago.

In recent years the war department has spent millions on new construction at the post, and its new residential quarters and barracks are unsurpassed. The future size of the post is uncertain, but it seems destined to grow.

Ft. Bliss had its origin in 1848 when a detachment from the First Dragoons were sent here, although a permanent garrison was not maintained until 1878. During the civil war the post was burned by retreating confederates.

Today the fort has almost 5,000 regularly enlisted men in addition to several thousand national guardsmen temporarily stationed there. It covers over 6,000 acres, and the army is now in the act of purchasing 52,000 acres north of the present site. Plans call for the leasing of 300,000 additional acres.

Fort Bliss has over 3,000 horses and the only horse-drawn field artillery — the 82nd — in the army.

It has seen exciting days, such as those during 1916-17 when President Wilson called out 60,000 national guardsmen during Mexican border troubles. The 60,000 men were quartered at the fort in tents.

At present the fort is headquarters for the first cavalry division, the only organized horse division in the army.

The following regular army units are located at the fort; headquarters detachment and headquarters troop, first signal troop, 27th ordnance company, second cavalry brigade, 82nd field artillery regiment, 16th quartermaster squadron, first medical squadron, troop A of the first reconnaissance squadron and chemical warfare service detachment.

HARLEY SADLER AND HIS NEW STAGE SHOW COMING

Elsewhere in this issue you will find an ad heralding the coming of America's oldest and leading stage shows. For something like 25 years this popular company has been playing here each season, and this year, according to Mr. Sadler, the people of Littlefield have a real treat in store for them in the way of a stage attraction. He has gone to the four corners of America for talent, which includes singers, dramatic artists, musicians, dancers, the best that could be found in their respective lines. Many new features will be introduced. Special scenery will be provided for each play. Harley has selected as his opening play a domestic comedy drama entitled "The Lovable Old Grouch" a brand new play that the Sadler company has never presented before. An outstanding feature this year will be the vaudeville talent which will be presented by 30 minute presentations preceding the show. This presentation will be under the personal direction of Mr. Dick Darling, who joined the Sadler company direct from a metropolitan engagement. Special costumes and Strobelite electrical effects which might be termed technicolor in vaudeville will be used, a feature not seen before in the southwest. The doors will open at 7:15. The vaudeville program starts at 8:10. Popular prices will prevail. General admission prices are 10 cents for children and 20 cents for adults. Special reserved chairs are 10 and 20 cents extra, government tax included. The Sadler show engagement will be sponsored here by the American Legion.

Offices Re-Arranged At County Court House

Several changes were made in arrangements of offices in the Lamb county courthouse at Olton last week.

The tax assessor and collector has been moved to the county court room. County court will use the district court room, as the two are never in session at the same time. The commissioners' court will use the northeast room on the first floor. The sheriff's office and county judge's office have exchanged places. The county clerk's office will occupy the present office, plus the room vacated by the tax assessor's office.

These changes will greatly relieve the crowded condition which has existed at the courthouse for some time.

Three grill windows have been made facing the hall in the tax assessor's and collector's office, (formerly the county court room). This will allow serving the public from the hall.

Bicyclists of Newcastle, Australia, are being fined these days for overloading their bicycles. And their limit is not far below that of Texas truckers.

Mrs. Gertrude Burbank, who conducted three cooking schools in Littlefield through the auspices of the Lamb County Leader, is new manager of a tea room for the Woman's Club in Fort Worth, and will conduct monthly cooking schools for club members there, starting in November.

She is the widow of the late Sheldon Hanson Burbank, Manchester, N. H., textile man and own cousin of the late Luther Burbank, the great American horticulturist.

Women in Lamb county and this entire territory will remember Mrs. Burbank as the woman who takes the same joy in arranging beautiful foods as an artist does in painting a lovely picture. She herself was an artist first, a painter, but she preferred going to the kitchen to work with foods. She can turn plain green onions into lovely spider lilies and radishes into roses, and fashions pansies, gardenias and roses to decorate cakes that are almost as lovely as those from the garden.

She can work miracles with any kind of foods, and we're sure the women in Fort Worth will enjoy the tasty foods she prepares for them.

Scribbled on my scratch pad this week ...

"A man who is wrapped up in himself, often makes a small package."

The craze for monograms on women's apparel, handbags, belts, handkerchiefs, bracelets, etc., now goes to monograms on housethoppers or bedroom slippers made of rayon.

A girl friend who lives on a ranch in a county south of here had her initials, one on each boot, on the first pair of cowboy boots she had that were hand-made.

Mrs. Maude Street, who is working in the Dr. Woods Optical office, said she knew she missed half her life, those first few days she wore those new glasses Dr. Woods and Dr. Armistead insisted that she needed!

E. L. Winston was proving that his new 1941 Chevrolet had dual different notes at me the other day, different notes at me the other day, when I was crossing the street in front of that new Chevrolet and his family!

Come on girls, let's go to Alaska! Several months ago I wrote about some of the advantages of living in Alaska, but after reading a few weeks ago what Gene Howe wrote in his column, "Tactless Texan" in the Amarillo Globe-News, after returning from a hunting trip to Alaska, I have been considering packing my bag and starting—and now I'm ready!

Editor Howe said, "There is a saying that a young woman cannot stay one year in Alaska without getting married. Women are so scarce up there that the young men and old men simply will not let her go back to the states. There are about three men for every woman."

"The result is that our women folks are spoiled to death, an Alaskan told me one day. 'Why this is a paradise for them; they are queens and goddesses of everything they survey. A husband who has a wife knows that if he doesn't give her everything she wants, and other men waiting to grab her off. There is no place in the world where men strive so hard to please the women folks."

"And it's said that there are jobs open for young women in Anchorage and Fairbanks. And all they have to do is attend to business, being paid good wages in the meantime, and if they keep their heads, it won't be long until the wedding bells are ringing."

Recently, an elderly woman in town told me I would be much better off to stay single, and after twenty-five more years, go to the Old Maids Home, which will be known by that time as "Bachelor's Home."

Two charming young women at the City Hall agreed to go with me if I would reserve rooms for them ... since I am the oldest, I would get there first ...

But you needn't look for us in the Old Maids Home by that time.

If you miss us about town, we have gone to Alaska!

For once in my life I'm glad to be a woman!

It sure was a surprise to find the peculiar names of men we see every day, whom we call Bill, Tom, Jim, and others, printed in the list who were drafted for selective service!

Perhaps they have been able to conceal their real names all through their lives, and prefer to be called by their nicknames, but along comes the conscription, and it reveals a lot of secrets about our gentlemen friends!

But I can still keep my first name a secret. The printers asked me the other day what the V stood for when I signed my initials to a note on an ad, and after they were not successful in learning, one of them suggested "Vermont," because someone down the street had called me molasses.

Frankly, though, I prefer to be called Margaret, or—

MARGIE.

Campus Frock

Pattern 8769—Certainly one of the things any smart junior is happiest to discover is a campus frock that's not only smart and practical but decidedly new.

Here's just such a frock, with strap-trimmed corsetlike waistline, and stitched pleats that break just at the right place to give fullness where you want it and none where you don't. The smart high neckline is finished with a flattering round collar.

This design (No. 8769) is particularly smart when made up in a contrast of plaid and plain fabric as pictured.

But it looks extremely pretty in one color, too, especially if you choose cherry red, Indian summer brown or forest green. Wool crepe flannel, spun rayon and jersey are smart for this.

The sleeves may be long or short. Pattern No. 8769 is designed for sizes 11, 13, 15, 17 and 19. Size 15 requires 3 1-2 yards of 39-inch material. 3-4 yard contrast.

Miscellaneous Shower Honors Miss Paula Shahan Friday Afternoon

Miss Paula Shahan, bride-elect of Glenn Easley of Hale Center, was honored with a miscellaneous shower Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Andrew McGehee in the Southmoor addition. Mrs. Viggo Peterson and Mrs. Acree Barton assisted Mrs. McGehee as hostesses.

Beautiful autumn cut flowers decorated the entertaining rooms for the occasion.

Mrs. Earl Hobbs was in charge of an interesting and unique program. Using the theme "Pirates," Mrs. Hobbs gave the honoree, Miss Shahan, the way to hold her treasure, "Ten Commandments for a Housewife."

Jackie Farr gave a reading, "Husbands," and the guests enjoyed the game, "Pirate Jumble."

The group sang several songs before Jackie Farr and Billie Orr presented Miss Shahan with a large array of gifts, telling her about the treasure chest.

Dainty refreshments were served. Plate favors were tiny corsages of orchid and white chrysanthemum.

Those attending this delightful affair were: Messdames H. W. Sewell, George Vaught, W. M. Weschke, W. L. Koehler, Bill Jeffries, W. G. Street, Jack Parr, Wm. N. Orr, A. F. Jones, Eugene Johnson, Floyd Coffman, Roy Shahan, Andrew Peterson, Herbert Dunn, Douglas Ballew, L. R. O'Neal, Allen Crawley, Mother Muelle, L. W. Jordan, W. E. Heathman, M. E. Lowe, Henry Banks, C. C. Weigle, J. D. Harmon, R. L. Byers, A. D. Seth, F. O. Boles, Earl Hobbs and Miss Ella Simmons, and the hostesses and the honoree.

Maybe they need Better Light for Better Sight

DON'T LAUGH! It's true. Better light makes a big difference in the way you feel. See how a three-lite I. E. S. lamp ($6.45 and up complete with shade and bulb) discourages grumpiness and sharp retorts.

See how much easier recipes go together and how work seems to fade away with the bright, cheery light of a Renewalite (only $1.95 complete with bulb). It costs surprisingly little to have better light for old eyes and young.

Enough socket type units and I. E. S. lamps to completely light condition your home may be purchased for only 45c down and only $1.00 per month, or eight months to pay the balance. No carrying charge, of course.

CHECKERBOARD LOVE

CHAPTER VII Synopsis

Audrey Swan, nicknamed "Cy," is the only daughter of a respected horse trainer. His estate adjoins the estate of Judge Castle, whose only son, Jeffrey, has become Audrey's friend since childhood. The judge has looked forward to taking Jeffrey into partnership, and Jeffrey is married to Olive Quinn, who refuses to live in his town, Parville, and is planning to go on a protracted honeymoon. The health makes it necessary for Audrey to leave so Jeffrey is forced to work in his father's office. He is to persuade Vic Quinn, a colt friend in love with Audrey, to substitute for him. Vic is talking over with Audrey.

You. Look here, Audrey. You know what I'm driving at. Nothing has changed with me. But suppose I turned up in Parville for an indefinite stay. Frankly, would you have thought it in pretty poor shape for me to say low?"

No. Why should you think I would ever stand in the way of your being a friend or helping your- self to something better? There's no reason I can see."

That's mighty swell of you. I'll broach the subject to older Brand this afternoon if I get a chance. If he's agreeable, I'll do it."

Henry Brand listened attentively to his subordinate's request and was unexpectantly cooperative. "I wonder, Quin, that you wish to associate with Judge Castle is a real opportunity for a young man. I think it can be arranged if you wish."

Victor's next move was to call on Judge Castle at Parville. "I say," he began with a carelessness that would have done credit to a play actor. "I just talked over with Mr. Brand. He was good enough to urge me to get . . . thinks it will mean a lot for me. I guess he's right."

You mean you'll come, then?" "That's the best news I've had in a long time."

Yes. That is, if you plan to be long enough to make it worth while. It will be plenty long."

What about your father?" "He'll be tickled pink! He's away a few days. But I told him I was going to get someone to help here. He'll be delighted to know it's me. Don't worry. It's all settled."

Well, look for me about the middle of next week."

Marvelous! Come right to the house. We'll put you up until you have a chance to look about."

"I'd rather you didn't mention it to anyone until it's settled."

"I won't . . . you sly dog! Good-by."

He hung up before Victor had a chance to refute the final insinuation.

December had come before Jeffrey appeared again in the Parville office. After an enthusiastic greeting, his first question was: "Is my father at home?"

"No," Victor returned in some amazement. "He went up to the city on business . . . plans to return tomorrow. Evidently this is a surprise. Did Mrs. Castle come with you?"

"No," Jeff answered shortly. "She's at home. We came back father unexpectedly. Olive wanted to rest up and I thought I'd run out and see how everybody is . . . get a report of your stewardship."

"That's easy," Victor laughed.

The sight aroused his admiration.

"My talent is all wrapped in a napkin and I'm ready to travel. That's a little over your head I know. I must say that married life seems to agree with you."

He had been appraising Jeffrey closely since that young man had posed in a chair with graceful ease. He was faultlessly attired and had a healthy outdoor coloring. But Victor thought he detected an expression on his face, lines at the corners of his mouth that never had been there before.

"Oh, I'm feeling pretty fit," the traveler admitted. How's everything around this dump?"

"All right, I should say. When do you plan to settle down in harness? You don't have to give me any particular notice you know."

"No rush about that, Vic. It's going to take me a little time to get straightened out . . . settled, I mean. How're Audrey and her folks? I suppose you've seen quite a bit of them since you've been here."

"As a matter of fact, I haven't. Been out a few times to visit them."

"I must run out and say hello before I go back. Mother's in town, I suppose?"

Do You Need?

Do you need—A shine?—heel caps—shoes dyed? We are prepared to do anything in the way of repair. The low prices make it easy for you to keep your feet well-shod at all times. Bring in that old pair of shoes and just let us show you. When you are in a hurry and need a "quick shine" come by and we'll fix you up in a jiffy.

LILLY'S SHOE SHOP
CITY SHOE SHOP

"So far as I know."

"Guess I'd better jog out there and give her a shock." Instead of following up this suggestion, Jeffrey lighted a cigarette and sat smoking moodily, staring at the wall in front of him.

His absorption in his thoughts became so evident that Victor was constrained to break the silence. "Looks as if you're doing some heavy thinking," he suggested.

"I am. For me. Look here, Vic . . . Jeff still was staring at the wall. . . . what sort of a deal did you make with Brand?"

"They expect to take care of me when I come back," Victor said it quietly without taking his eyes from the other man's face.

"I see. Then you could stay on here . . . indefinitely."

"Look here, Jeff. You can't do that."

Instead of replying directly, Jeffrey observed: "I had only one letter from the old gentleman while I was gone. It caught up to me in Honolulu. Most of it was a panegyric . . . devoted to you. I wasn't surprised, knowing your efficiency of old. I could see that my absence wasn't disrupting the scheme of the Parville universe."

"Don't be an ass!" Victor retorted sharply. "Look at me if you don't mind, and tell me what all this drivel is leading up to."

"I'm not coming back to Parville."

"You don't mean that of course. There's nothing else for you to do, man."

"Think not? You're not married, Vic. But you must have some imagination. Do you fancy you'd trade your wife's affection for the sake of a noble gesture?"

"I'm afraid I'm not acquainted with that sort of . . . affection will do, I suppose. You're trying to tell me that Mrs. Castle is standing by her determination to remain in the city. I recall that you mentioned it before you went away."

"That's right. Sweet but unyielding. She sees no reason for my coming back here, and that's all sufficient. There's no argument."

"But good Lord, Jeff! A man's self-respect counts for something! Surely a woman . . . there I go again. You've had to thresh out all that yourself."

"If I must have a career, what's the matter with good old Harrison Products? Olive has fixed that up for me. Nice berth and a fair income, guaranteed not to interfere with the cocktail hour. There's another argument Olive puts up," Jeff went on. "I'm not sure it hasn't some merit. If we came here, we'd have to live with the folks. For a time at least. Olive insists there isn't any house big enough for two families, although there's seats of room at my home. That would start a row too. You'll have to give the girl her due. She won't consent to living in her own home, either. She is starting out on an apartment hunt today. That's all settled too. You know, Vic," Jeffrey admitted wryly, "things would be easier for me if I didn't love my wife. But I do."

Naturally. Then it's all settled, so far as you're concerned. Well, if there's anything I can do to smooth your path, you know I will. After all, nobody's going to expect you to break up your married life for the sake of your parents. That doesn't make sense."

"You can do a lot for me and for Father, too, if you'll stay on here. At least he'll never be able to throw it up to me that I left him in the lurch. I've supplied him with a substitute who will go much farther than I ever can. You like it well enough here, don't you?"

"Well enough, yes. I'd have to think it over pretty carefully, Jeff."

"More like April than December today," Anthony Swan remarked to his family as he pushed his chair back from the lunch table. "I believe I'm getting a bit of spring fever."

"I know I am," Audrey admitted. "Dad, have you any jobs that are crying out to be done?"

"There's that roan of Bardsley's. Don't be woolgathering if you ride him. He'll stand a deal of watching. Tricky."

"Maybe I'll do that little thing after a bit. Are you going to be around the place this afternoon?"

"No. I'm leaving shortly with the truck. I've a car of feed in town and I want to get it out here. I'm taking Jim and Robert with me. You can manage your saddling. I dare say."

An hour later, wearing a wind-Aubreaker and her oldest jodpurs, breaker and her oldest jodpurs, Audrey was leading the big roan gelding from the lower stable. "No tricks now!" she warned, getting a firm hold of the reins and her boot in the stirrup. As she vaulted to her seat the roan jumped sideways with a twisting motion that brought him no satisfaction, only a smart touch from Audrey's crop. "Tough, what?" she bantered. "Go on now and don't pull the smart stuff."

Recalling that her father had complimented the roan upon his willingness to jump in good form, Audrey decided to test him. She put him swiftly at the first set of bars—the same ones where Olive Castle had had her spill, she recalled, after the start was made.

It was a beautiful jump and made an attractive picture. Audrey's slim body in perfect rhythm, with flowing muscles under her, face tense with excitement, curls whipped by the wind. The sight roused the admiration of an unnoticed audience, a lone horseman who shrilled an enthusiastic, "Yip . . . pee . . . ee!"

Audrey reined in and sent a startled glance over her shoulder. For an instant she failed to recognize the rider trotting up. A man in a sweater with a cap pulled low on his face. "Jeff! Hiya!" And her nose quivered. "Scuses my glove," she bubbled happily. "No. Don't excuse anything but my excitement! Am I glad to see you?"

"Same here," Jeff still held the small gloved hand in a close grasp, looked steadfastly into the smiling hazel eyes. "It's good to see you, Cygie!"

"Wherever did you come from?" she demanded.

"The big town. We arrived yesterday and I ran down for a few hours to see the folks. And you," he added quickly. "Father is away until tomorrow and Mother is in bed recovering from the shock. Thought I'd have a little ride for myself and I spied you from afar off. Seeing you're all saddled, Cygie, how about a little ride to celebrate? It isn't in the least cold."

"No, it's a gorgeous day. I'd love to. Where shall we go?"

"Well, if we're going to stay mounted, that cuts out the old trysting place under the willow." If he saw a shadow across Audrey's face he gave no sign. "How about the Ridge? That's the next best in my memory."

"Splendid. We'll ride slow and talk fast."

Jeff seemed to have little to say save answers to Audrey's eager questions. He seemed changed, looked older. She was trying to think of some cheerfully safe topic to introduce when he startled her by remarking: "I suppose you haven't seen Father lately." It was more nearly a statement than a question.

"No. Not in quite a while. I don't believe that I have talked with him since the night of the dinner. Why?"

"Just wondering how he is these days, that's all. I wish I didn't have to face him."

"Why do you say that, Jeff?"

"I think you know. Well, I can't stall any longer. I was a fool to try it. Tomorrow I'll have the very pleasant job of telling the old gentleman that I'm ducking back to the city to stay. My wife won't live anywhere else and my father-in-law has come across with a job for me. It's a good story. But it won't help me here."

V. L. Cade, the district's member of the state AAA committee, will preside the second day.

To Discuss Range Program

On the program the first day Fred Rennels, who is in charge of the Range Conservation Program in the State, will discuss the 1941 range program; R. T. Price, state administrative assistant, will report on the "Mattress Program" and Appeals; B. F. Vance, assistant state administrator, "Status of the 1940 Program"; Lester Young, state administrative assistant, "1941 Handbook." Separate meetings will be held in the afternoon. County committees, county agents and county administrative officers will hear George Slaughter, chairman of the state committee, and B. E. Nowotny, state accountant, discuss "Fiscal and Association Matters," while county home demonstration agents will confer with the district home demonstration agent, Miss Lida Cooper.

The second day's speakers will include G. D. Scott, state office statistician, "State and County Allotments and Yields"; Cliff H. Day, senior field officer of the AAA, "Cotton Situation"; and a closing summary by E. N. Holmgren, state administrative officer.

Auxiliary to Sell Poppies

The flowers will be sold here on the streets of Littlefield by the women of the Legion Auxiliary, under the direction of Mrs. Street, President, assisted by Mrs. Tom Matthews and Mrs. Neal A. Douglas. Booths will be placed on both sides of Phelps Avenue, where poppies will also be sold.

To Go to Veteran Welfare

All contributions received for the flowers will go to Legion and Auxiliary welfare work for the disabled veterans, their families and the families of the dead.

The poppies received in Littlefield and sold will come from the Veteran Hospital at Legion, Texas.

The American Legion and Auxiliary organizations throughout the United States have provided a market for 22 years for the poppies made by disabled veterans, who receive a percentage for their work.

Urged to Wear Poppy

Everyone is urged to wear a poppy Saturday, November 9, in honor of these soldiers who died in the World War.

"We feel that Poppy Day will have increased meaning to America this year," said Mrs. Street, because renewed warfare in Europe has renewed the memory of those boys of ours who gave their lives over there, 22 years ago. It is for them that we put on the poppy each year, to show that we still remember and honor their sacrifices. It is the flower which grew where they fell and now blooms on the coats of Americans who appreciate their service."

The grand conscription lottery ended Wednesday morning at five o'clock as the 9,002 capsule was drawn from the fish bowl in Washington.

Lamb county draft board received two more cards Wednesday, making the total number of registrants for this county, 2,588.

The local board will receive the authentic numbers of the draftees in their order from Washington about Saturday or Monday. All those registering in Lamb county will be mailed an eight-page questionnaire, which will have five days to fill out and mail to the local draft board. They will then be classified by the draft board.

Questionnaires are expected to be mailed out starting first of next week. Mailing will start on low numbers and come up. It'll probably take 6 or 8 weeks to complete the mailing out and classification of the questionnaires, says Otto Jones, Chairman of Lamb County Draft Board.

If a man draws No. 1 he will be in No. 1 in whatever class he is in. There are four classes. Mr. Jones said he had no information as to classes, however. He stated, however, that it is not the desire of the government to disrupt farming or business, and that if a man drawing No. 1 is holding an important position which it is hard to fill, he will be deferred until another man can be trained to take his place.

West Texas C. of C. Opposes Red River County Amendment

Would Permit Co. to Levy 25 Cent Tax and Issue Bonds

The West Texas Chamber of Commerce went on record Wednesday in opposition to one of four constitutional amendments coming before the Texas electorate in the November election. This is the so-called Red River county amendment which, if adopted, will waive for the county the constitutional limitation on tax rates and permit it to issue an additional 25-cent tax, and issue bonds, to refund its present outstanding general fund debt.

The WTCC's position was set out in a letter signed by President S. Bridwell, to its directors, affected chamber of commerce and West Texas press. Through its Expenditure Commission, the local chamber contends that approval of the Red River county amendment would be a blow at efficiency, economy and better financial control in public affairs; that it will constitutionally nullify the constitution itself and result in extravagance by making the illegal issuance of warrants for expenditures not authorized by election or by a local budget.

The amendment also violates the principle of equality, says the WTCC, and opens the door to all political subdivisions to violating constitutional debt limits—for, says the chamber's News Letter, "if this amendment is written into the constitution for Red River county, by the legislature and the voters have no reason for denying the same privileges to every county, city and school district. Any other county could justly point out, many would do so, that this amendment, if it is adopted, frees the county from obedience to the constitution itself, while forcing the other 253 counties to adhere to it. Such chaos would result."

Concluding, the President's News Letter notes that "The present need is for reduced public expenditures and for better financial planning, control and budget making. This amendment violates those principles and will greatly increase public expenditures and local taxation."

Red River county is in northeast Texas, bordering on Oklahoma, and was created in 1836 while Texas was winning its independence from Mexico. For the year 1938 the county's tax values amounted to $10,087,100; total values, $16,811,833. Its present total debt is equal to $8.39 per $100 of the true value of its taxable property, and to $13.99 per $100 of its assessed value. A tax survey of the county is authority for the statement that $410,000 of this debt was never voted by the people.

"Seeing Is Not A Single Function," Says Barstow At Optometrists Meet

Drs. Ira Woods and B. W. Armistead attended the meeting of the optometrists of the Panhandle section at the Hilton Hotel, Amarillo, Sunday, at which over 100 were in attendance.

"The public doesn't quite understand that seeing is not a single function," said Ralph Barstow, director of economics of the Optometric Extension Program, before the group Sunday, adding that—"The act of seeing requires that the attention of the mind be directed toward something of interest, whereupon, by a willed effort, the two eyes are pointed in the general direction of the object. This stimulates certain nerve endings in the retina of the eye which then places the most sensitive spot of the retina directly under the incoming rays of light. Up to now, no fine focusing has been done. At this point, the focusing mechanism of the eye enters into the activity to produce a sharp, clear image on the retina of each eye. These two images must be fused or consolidated by the brain into one single image if efficient seeing is to result."

The public largely assumes that sharp focus is all that is required and this is where it comes to grief in its search for effective vision. You, as modern optometrists, know that much more is required, but have not made it plain to the public, how deep-seated some of these troubles are, and what peculiar bodily effects may follow failure to take care of the situation promptly. Headaches, of course, are recognized as a common symptom of eye-sight trouble, but many other bodily conditions may result from neglected visual difficulties. Nervousness, irritability, some forms of indigestion, resulting sometimes in stomach ulcers, constipation, neuralgia, neuritis,—all have been identified by authorities as possible results of eye-sight difficulties. Optometrists do not practice medicine and refer patients with diseased or pathological conditions to the proper profession for care. The work of optometry is non-medical. The greatest discovery of the past few years has been the relationship of eye-sight difficulties to poor scholarship and thousands of children all over the country have been freed from this handicap by optometric reconditioning," said Mr. Barstow.

Funeral Services For Mrs. W. Walker Held Tuesday P. M.

Funeral services for Mrs. Witt Walker, 39, were conducted at the Walker home near Pep at 2 o'clock Tuesday afternoon by Bro. Maurice McFarland, pastor of the Church of Christ on LFD drive.

Interment was in the Littlefield cemetery under the direction of the Hart-Thaxton Funeral Home.

Mrs. Walker passed away at a local hospital Monday morning, after several days illness.

She is survived by the husband, daughter, Cora Lorene, and a son, J. W. Walker; one sister, Mrs. Blanche Walker of Falls county, and her father of Falls county.

Among those attending the funeral rites were Mrs. Walker's nephew, Allen Walker of Falls county, his brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Walker of McAllen, Texas.

Lamb County Gins 11,381 Bales By Oct. 18 This Year

Lamb county gins have turned out 11,381 bales this season, up to October 18, Warren Rutledge, cotton statistician for Lamb and Castro counties reported this week.

This figure compares with 15,571 ginned by the same time last year.

Reports for Castro county this year are 204 bales, compared with 1,093 by the same date last year.

Gins in all parts of the county are running day and night, and cotton houses stay full of cotton most of the time.

Farmers in this section are putting most of the cotton through the Government Loan and warehouses are rapidly being filled in Littlefield.

Estimates for the number of bales to be ginned in this county this year are given daily by 'men on the street' and most business men and farmers believe that there will be at least 20 percent more cotton made this year than last.

Salvation Army To Hold Revival

The Salvation Army will begin a ten days revival campaign tomorrow (Friday). Captain Marie Polus will conduct the services. She is in charge of the Plainview corps and is an excellent speaker.

A series of real meetings are expected and a welcome is extended to all who are interested.

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Seely and daughter, Mrs. Frank Allison of Leveland, spent Saturday and Sunday at Chillicothe and Wichita Falls. At Chillicothe they visited Mr. Seely's father, S. R. Seely, and at Wichita Falls they visited a sister of Mrs. Seely, Mrs. C. W. Jackson.

Regulations Of AAA Under 1940 Program Outlined

C. W. Smiley, Chairman Lamb ACA Committee Asks Cooperation

The following regulations are prescribed by the AAA on the 1940 program and called to the attention of the farmers by C. W. Smiley, Chairman of the Lamb County ACA Committee:

All benefit payments in 1940 will be divided between the shareholders, share tenants, and landlords in the same proportion as the depleting crops are divided. No trades or contracts cannot be accepted under any condition.

1. Any rental agreement between a landlord and tenant whereby bonus of any kind is charged in excess of the regular rental is a violation of the regulations.

2. Any reduction in the number of tenants below the average number of tenants on any farm in the last three years that would increase the landlord's share of the benefit payments is a violation of the regulations.

3. Benefit payments cannot be based on any other basis except the basis described by the AAA.

4. If any person files a complaint relative to violations of the regulations, it will become necessary to cancel both the tenant's and landlord's 1940 government payments and all future payments until such violations are corrected. All complaints filed in the county office in regard to a bonus of any form are being investigated by the County Committee and if it is found that the landlord is receiving of the tenant a bonus after regular rent is paid, payments to the landlord may be cancelled until the landlord has paid the amount of the bonus back to the tenant.

5. Also if it is reported that any producer is misusing soil-conserving crops in any way, it may require a refund to the AAA or payments to the farm may be cancelled if the Lamb County AAA Committee determines that the producer is carrying out a practice for defeating the purpose of the program. Complaints that some producers are slashing sudan, cane, and millet from non-depleting acreage have been presented to the County Committee. This is a practice for defeating the purpose of the program and all producers should be wise and not slash crops from non-depleting acreage.

6. Also if it is reported that any producer is misusing soil-conserving crops in any way, it may require a refund to the AAA or payments to the farm may be cancelled if the Lamb County AAA Committee determines that the producer is carrying out a practice for defeating the purpose of the program. Glen Lester Dutton Draws First Serial Number In County

Elbert Kennon Angeley Assigned 2nd., With August Clark Third

With President Roosevelt looking on, Secretary of War, Stimson, blind-folded, Tuesday withdrew the first serial number from the famous old gold fish bowl which was number 158. In Lamb county this number is assigned to Glen Lester Dutton of Rt. 2, Sudan. Mr. Dutton is a young married man, having married recently.

Secretary Morgenthau drew the second number—192, which in Lamb County is held by Elbert Kennon Angeley, Star Rt. 1, Muleshoe.

Attorney General Jackson drew the third number—8238. Secretary Knox the fourth—6620 and Secretary Jones the fifth—6635. Since there are only 2588 registrations in Lamb County the above numbers do not apply here.

The nineteenth number called that of 105 is held by August Samuel Clark of Rt. 1, Littlefield.

The "fit and available" registrants holding 158 will be the first to be summoned. Those holding 192, the second number drawn will be the second. In districts which have as many as 8,239 registrants, those holding that number will be the third. For districts with less than 8,239 registrants, the third number drawn was simply a blank, and the first number to appear later that was less than the total number of registrants became the third order of call. Physical examinations, and exemptions or deferments come later.

Draft officials estimated that the first 25 numbers drawn would cover the first call to the training camps, scheduled for later this month. The numbers are in order: 158, 192, 8239, 6620, 6685, 4779, 8848, 6262, 8130, 5892, 5837, 5485, 6604, 8946, 5375, 7674, 4880, 4928

First 150 Men In Lamb County Drawn For Selective Service

Since the Lamb county draft board will not receive their official list of order numbers for draft registrants from Washington until this weekend, Mrs. M. V. Cobb local clerk, assisted by A. R. Hendricks, took the Lubbock list and with order numbers and selective service serial numbers that applied to Lubbock county, and figured that out of the 6,999 numbers called Tuesday and Tuesday night, 1,545 would apply to Lamb county.

They also figured out the numbers and names of 150 registrants in this county, first to be drawn for selective service from the bowl in Washington.

Draft numbers in the county start with number one. For instance, among the first 25 numbers drawn, three numbers applied to this county—158, 192, 105—and so this county draft board will have their order numbers as one, two and three. Then the fourth number applying to Lamb county is 2441, and W. T. Mauk, Jr., is number four, and so on down the line.

Names of Men Drawn Order numbers and selective serial numbers for the first 150 registrants in this county, printed below, are not official, but they will give a general idea.

1—158, Glen Dutton, Sudan; 2—192, Elbert Angeley, Muleshoe; 3—105, A. S. Clark, Littlefield; 4—2411, W. T. Mauk, Jr., Littlefield; 5—2563, A. M. Meekma, Olton; 6—188, W. H. Wainston, Littlefield; 7—120, J. E. McCord, Earth; 8—2451, F. R. Mixon, Littlefield; 9—846, S. L. Wilson, Littlefield; 10—161, L. M. Parton, Sudan; 11—2470, E. F. Polk, Littlefield; 12—

Bonds Amounting To $300,000 Needed To Construct Highway

A petition was circulated Wednesday and today, among the property owners in the south part of Lamb county and will be presented at a special session of Commissioner's Court probably Friday, asking that a Road District be created in the south part of Lamb County, and calling an election for the purpose of voting bonds for hard-surfacing the east-west highway.

50 Citizens Must Sign It will be necessary that the petition be signed by 50 property owners and tax-paying voters. It is being circulated by officials of the Chamber of Commerce, of Littlefield.

The proposed road district starts at the east line of Lamb County, about four miles north of Littlefield, extending west to approximately three miles south of Amherst, or seven miles south of Sudan to the west county line.

If the district is created, and an election for the voting of bonds is called by the Commissioners' Court, the election will probably be held in the very near future. Bonds amounting to $300,000 will be needed to build the road, purchase right-of-ways, and pay engineers fee.

It was reported that if the bonds were voted, the state highway department will build the road, and eventually pay off the bonds.

The east-west highway was planned several years ago, when officials from Floyd, Hale and Lamb counties asked the state highway department to survey and designate the road as a state highway. State engineers made a survey, but the road was not designated as a state highway. However, if bonds are voted for the building of the road, the survey will be changed.

Road Starts East of Spade The proposed highway in Lamb county will start at the east county line, four miles due east of Spade, continue through Spade and will include Oklahoma Avenue, into Littlefield, west on ninth street, and continue on the Pep highway, reaching the west county line several miles north of Pep.
