Is Awarded Silver Star For Heroism In Korea

Cpl. Stafford D. Shipley of Littlefield has been awarded the Silver Star medal for his part in saving eight seriously wounded soldiers from a burning house near Hongsong, Korea, on Feb. 12, 1951. The citation which accompanies the medal states that Cpl. Shipley, a member of Battery A of the 15th anti-aircraft artillery automatic weapons battalion, was in charge of a M-16 multiple machine gun half track which was protecting a road intersection to permit the passage of the vehicles of a task force into Wonju, Korea. While his M-16 was engaged in firing at the enemy, Cpl. Shipley heard a call for assistance from his section chief, who had discovered eight seriously wounded soldiers in a burning house. "Cpl. Shipley unhesitatingly made his way to the house through intense enemy fire to assist in carrying the wounded men to a place of comparative safety, after which he helped to load them onto passing vehicles for evacuation. Cpl. Shipley's gallant actions on this occasion resulted in saving the lives of eight men and reflect great credit on himself and the military service." The Silver Star is awarded by direction of the President for gallantry in action against an armed enemy. Cpl. Shipley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Woodrow Shipley of Littlefield and was graduated from high school here in 1948, and entered the Army Oct. 10, 1949. He sailed Aug. 7, from Fort Lewis, Wash., for Korea.

Jackie McCannies Outstanding Boy Of his Class

Bette Jo Davis Receives Annual Jaycette Award

In this week of feverish pre-graduation activities at Littlefield High School, which on Tuesday brought the faculty announcement of the ten high ranking students out of the eligible class of seventy-five, followed on Wednesday, by the announcement of the selection of Miss Jackie Farr as Valedictorian and Ronald Harlan as Salutatorian, another announcement, almost equally breathlessly awaited, by the entire class was made when Supt. Joe Hutchinson announced the winners of three scholarship awards.

Annual Scholarship Award Jackie McCannies was selected to receive the annual scholarship award to the outstanding boy of the class, a presentation of Littlefield Rotary and which will be used to further his education at Texas Tech. Miss Bette Jo Davis was chosen to receive the Scholarship annual award made by the Jaycettes of Littlefield and will use her scholarship starting this summer at Denver, Colorado, Central Business College. # Mahon Reports Plan For All Out Production If U. S. Attacked giving the U. S. production in case another world war broke here by Rep. Mahon and Colorado representing the military House this called broadened mobilization—calls for industry, the Cadillac work in turning out other plants about the tool for tank cellent shape and the number of airplanes turned out in a month is steadily increasing." After Mahon put through the fourth supplemental military appropriation bill this week, which incidentally passed the House in three hours, the Air Force will soon have coming off assembly lines $7 billion of airplanes, the order for which was placed some time ago. Delivery of these planes will have an impact on civilian supplies of goods and materials. "Because we are going into the hardware stage for the all-out shooting war, from now on and particularly by next fall, civilians will really begin to feel the squeeze, and they will be unable to buy many of the things they want," he said. Mahon believes "that no nation on earth is now fully prepared to fight an all-out war against a major power," but added "unfortunately this is not a guaranty against the outbreak of a global war. Of course, if a full scale war comes and we fervently pray that it will not, we must be as well prepared as possible to meet that tragic occurrence. With the broad mobilization base which we are seeking to establish, we hope that we will be able to prevent disaster in the early stages of such a war and proceed to build up our strength and achieve ultimate victory." Russia Held Unprepared Mahon said the best proof that Russia does not yet consider herself prepared for war "is that such war is not in progress at this time. I think those who would destroy freedom and democracy in America would undertake it if they thought they were strong enough to do it. I believe the course we are now taking to provide a greater degree of preparedness, in the fullest sense of the word, is the best hope for peace and, if war comes, the best hope for victory. "There is no doubt that if all-out global war should strike within the next few weeks or within the next few months our hindsight would reveal that we should have provided more money now in order that we could move more rapidly with our defense effort. In other words, we will not be making tanks as fast as we can make them; we will not be making other weapons as fast as it is possible for us to make them. That is, in some instances. "The philosophy of the Department of Defense and of Charles E. Wilson, director of defense mobilization, as I understand it, is that we provide the broadest possible base for industrial mobilization but that we not provide all the hardware and put it on the shelf and await the time that we may need it."

You And Your Congress

While it wrestled with some rather astronomical appropriations figures the other day, Congress got another sharp reminder that there still is plenty of room for federal economy.

Its Joint Committee on Nonessential Expenditures reported, in brief, that a sizable portion of the money given to the defense agencies was going down an upholstered drain.

Checking up on five agencies, the Committee found that in three months they had spent more than $800,000 for office furniture—of which $28,500 went for easy chairs and daybenches.

Involved were the Economic Stabilization Agency, National Production Authority Defense Transportation Administration, Federal Civil Defense Administration and Office of Defense Mobilization.

ESA and NPA, particularly the former, had a corner on these defense agency daybenches and easy chairs. ESA had 26 daybenches at $265 each for 72 offices, while NPA had but 22 daybenches at $218.90 each for 96 offices. And NPA was listed as not having a single easy chair to its name, while ESA had 95 easy chairs at $355.48 each.

The Committee noted that the agencies had displayed "a tendency to overindulge in the most expensive type furniture."

But what really worried the Committee was the fact that by the time they had spent more than $800,000 for furniture, the five agencies employed but 2,288 persons. That figures out at about $350 per employee for furniture.

At the peak of the World War II emergency, the Committee noted, there were nine such controls agencies, employing more than 100,000 persons.

Carrying through the ratio of $360 to one employee, a furniture bill of $28 million is produced.

With something of the sort in mind, the Committee reported:

"If such agencies are to approximate their World War II predecessors, the cost of furniture and supplies for them will become a multi-million-dollar item deserving the closest vigilance of the one elected executive authorities and Congressional representatives from the outset."

Presumably Congressmen will keep in mind multi-million-dollar furniture buying budgets when debate begins soon on dollars for defense agencies for the next fiscal year.

Meanwhile, House members, who get the first crack at all spending bills, were chomping away at other appropriations requests for fiscal '52 and the balance of this fiscal year.

They were inclined to be hard-boiled.

The State Department, for example, wanted at most $50 million to build some Voice of America radio transmitters. But it couldn't present any detailed plans for these transmitters. The House refused to allow the money.

As the House debated the $275 million Interior Department appropriation bill, two members unceremoniously called for reduction of spending in their own districts. They were Rep. Gary (D-N.V.) and Rep. Harris (D-Ark.).

As the week ended, the House still had handled only three of the 11 appropriations bills that would "come before it. It had passed the largest amounts out of the Interior bill.

So, appropriations-wise, Congress was just getting started this year.

President Truman dared Congress to try cutting his 1952 fiscal budget of $7.18 billion.

To many members of Congress, those were fighting words.

And now the fight is on.

Texan Chosen For Important Farm Project

Dr. D. P. Trotter, Dean of the graduate school, Texas A. and M. College, College Station, Texas, is one of 14 leaders in American Agriculture who have been named to committees which will select four outstanding county agricultural agents to receive the Frank R. Pierce Foundation Fellowship. The announcement was made by Peter Stewart, president of the Foundation and general manager of the Stewart Company, Texas distributor for Ford tractors and Dearborn farm equipment.

The committees will serve on four regional committees, each of which will select one candidate and one alternate. Dr. Trotter will serve as chairman of the Western Regional committee, made up of Dean D. H. Morgan, Colorado A. and M. College; Dr. Paul J. Kruse, professor Emeritus of Extension Education, Cornell University; and Dr. Trotter.

The Foundation was created in memory of the late Frank R. Pierce, first president of Dearborn Motors Corporation, by the 32 Dearborn distributors of Ford tractors and Dearborn farm equipment. Each of the four fellowships provides a grant of $2,000 plus the tuition fee for nine months of advanced study in agriculture at the institution selected by the candidate. The Foundation was formed to give county agents, associated agents and assistant agents an opportunity to broaden their knowledge and develop their abilities for greater service to agriculture. Fellowship winners will be announced in June.

TEEN TALK

By VIVIAN BROWN

AP Newsfeatures
If a recent poll by the YWCA is any indication, most young people disapprove of mother working outside the home.

More than half the members of the Y-teens of America, who recently were surveyed, frowned on working Moms. Fifty-five per cent of the darling daughters think they get too little of a mother's thoughtful care and guidance when she goes to work. Sixty per cent believe this situation creates too much household responsibility for younger brothers and sisters, and 51 per cent say that a balanced diet and needed rest are sacrificed, untold to mothers as well as children.

Teenagers also disapprove of relatives and outsiders living under the family roof. They like the closely knit relationship of Mom, Pop and two children, which they consider the ideal family. Only a small percentage would take in grandma and grandpa and a still smaller percentage favor roomers.

The kids indicate they aren't trying to shirk their own responsibilities to the family roof by insisting that Mom stay around the house. They're perfectly willing to help with household chores whether the lady of the house works or not. Ninety-three per cent of the girls recognize they should keep their own rooms clean, the majority would help clean up after meals. They also vote high on marketing and planning for meals and 75 per cent believe they should help care for little brothers and sisters. They do not believe they should get extra compensation for these assists.

The little women also favor a family council for making big decisions which affect the entire family—such things as a car, television, vacations, clothing and personal allowances.

But when it comes to leisure-time doings and personal appearance, the girls think they should decide. The majority believe that Pop and Mom should taper off their responsibilities to daughter by junior high school at the latest for such points as movies, lipstick and bobby-sock.

When it comes to dating, the girls want to do their own picking. They don't believe parents should meddle when it comes to choosing boy friends, although they are perfectly willing to listen when it comes to establishing date standards of where to go, what to do, how often to go and when to come home.

Seventy-two per cent of the girls queried feel that their parents give them adequate instruction on sex education and preparation for marriage. They do not find their parents reticent in providing help on spiritual values and moral codes, either.

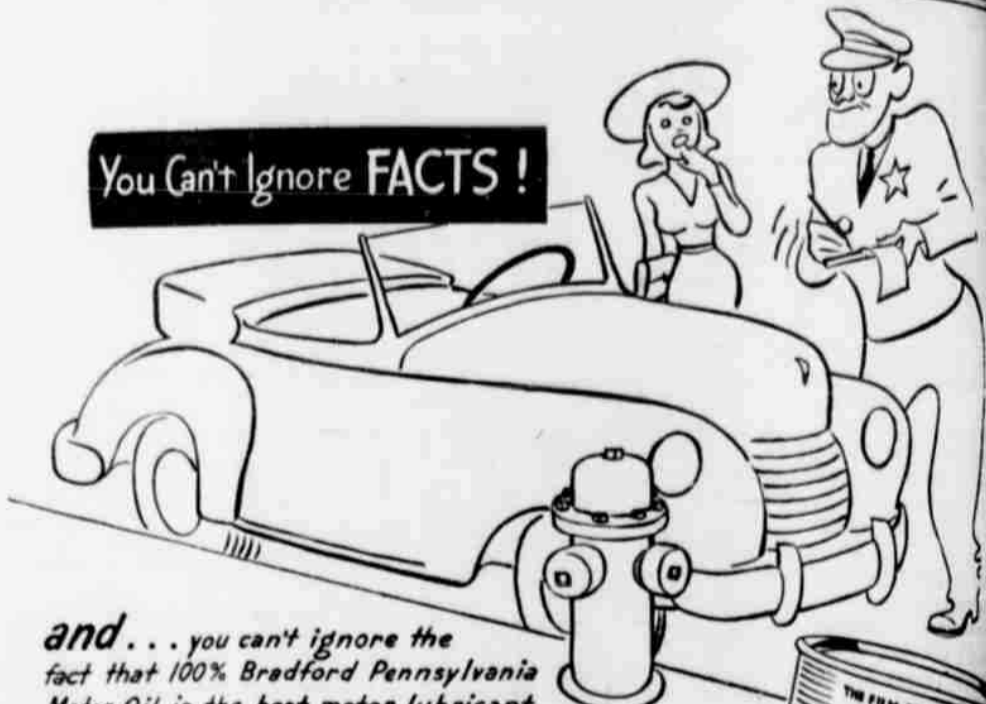

Much better understanding would result all around if parents would think of their teen-age young adults instead of "children."

Trees produce a greater portion of food in the tropics anywhere else in the world.

Reports Of District Lions Meeting Made Wednesday Noon

At the regular weekly meeting of Littlefield Lion's club held Wednesday afternoon, the seven local delegates to District 2T-1 convention held in Hereford last weekend, gave informal reports of the meeting and unanimously agreed that it was "the best yet."

Attending the convention were U. D. Walker, Jim Mangum, J. C. Nichols, Doug Howell, Alvin Webb, C. M. Lance and Tom Hilbun and their wives.

Eighty-two towns were represented at the meeting with 387 official delegates. Thirty-two towns entered Lions' queens contestants.

Three local delegates, the retiring president, Doug Howell and president-elect, Jim Mangum and Alvin Webb won prizes in a Lions golf tournament conducted Monday afternoon.

Highlighting the entertainment program were a dance at which Leighton Noble's orchestra played Monday night; songs by Gordon Suits with KGNC, Amarillo at a buffet supper Sunday and songs by Brent Flenniken, star of "Oklahoma" at a luncheon and ladies' breakfast Monday.

WASHINGTON, May 6.—(AP)—The dogwood is in full bloom in these parts, which may account for the fact that Texans in the capital are talking a lot of politics.

The flowering tree which traditionally signals the opening of political campaigns in East Texas blooms here a month or so later than in the Lone Star State.

Most of the talk here centers around the presidential and senatorial races. Speculation on the House seats is held in check awaiting the outcome of redistricting legislation in the state legislature.

As for the Democratic National ticket in 1952, Rep. John E. Lyle of Corpus Christi, who has been an administration supporter, comes up with Speaker Sam Rayburn of Bonham for president and W. Stuart Symington, Chairman of the National Security Resources Board who has been named to head the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, for vice-president.

"Some people mention Mr. Rayburn's age as a handicap," Lyle added "he is just 69, only two years older than President Truman."

"He is certainly respected by party leaders in all parts of the country. I know some influential Southern Congressmen who would endorse him but certainly would oppose Truman's reelection."

Symington, who calls St. Louis home, is well known to many Texans and is a close personal friend of many of them here in Washington.

He has been in Texas a great deal in connection with various government posts he has held, including that of Surplus Property Chief immediately after World War II.

"He is the most Texan-like non-Texan in the government," Lyle says.

"He is tall and a little on the lanky side, and easy going sort of fellow who on occasion can get as teamed up as anybody. He even thinks like a Texan."

Here are Symington's own words of what he thinks about Texans, as told to this reporter:

"I have often said that if I had to choose a state other than my home, I would like to live in Texas."

"It more nearly represents all America whas and all that we hope it will soon be again."

Speculation regarding the senatorial situation centers around the plans of Senator Tom Connally, whose present term expires January 3, 1953.

He has not yet announced his intentions. In informal, off-the-record talks with close friends and associates he has said he would run for reelection.

Some feel, however, he may have made the statements more because there was little else to say in the circumstances. Reports have it that his son, Ben Connally, Houston lawyer, has told his father he hopes he won't subject himself to a tough campaign for reelection.

Around the Capital:

A Texas flag flies over the camping area of the First Service Battalion, First Marines, in Korea, thanks to Lieut. Thomas G. Meriwether of Nacagdoches.

On April 6, Rep. Tom Pickett of Palestine received the following from Meriwether, who is in charge of setting up forward supply dumps.

"We stay right up with the front lines and have our own camp. That I don't mind so much, but the thing that is wrong with the whole setup is the fact that he (a lieutenant friend) has a New York State flag flying over the tent and I don't like the idea of living under a dam-yankee flag."

"There are about ten of us here from Texas and we would appreciate it very much if you could send us, air mail, a nice size Texas flag in order that we may fly it over the top of the New York one."

Within thirty minutes after he received the letter, Pickett had in the mails a 5 by 5 Texas flag. In an accompanying letter Pickett said:

"In my opinion, you have every reason to complain about living under a Dam Yankee flag, and if I were in a similar situation, I am sure I would do the very same thing."

On April 25, Pickett received another letter from Meriwether, dated April 19, which said:

"I would like to take this means of thanking you not only for myself but for all the other Texans in our outfit."

"We have the Texas flag flying in the middle of the living area. The fact is that it flies about three feet higher than the one from the State of New York. As you know there is nothing better than a flag of Texas."

WENDELL BEDICHEK WILL JOIN WEST TEXAS C. OF C. JUNE 1

Wendell Bedichek

Wendell Bedichek will join the staff of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce by June 1, Fred Husbands, executive vice president and general manager of Abilene announced today.

Bedichek has been public relations director of Abilene Christian College since September 1948. For the past year he also has been editor and publisher of the Gladewater Daily Mirror and general manager of radio station KSKI in that city. He has been on limited service at the college since January 1. He will complete his duties in Gladewater during May, he said.

For 10 years prior to September 1947 Bedichek was managing editor of the Abilene Reporter-News. He was associated for more than 20 years with the late Bernard Hanks, Reporter-News publisher, beginning in 1924 as a reporter while a senior in Abilene Christian College where he edited the student newspaper three years. He became city editor in 1925 and was sent to Big Spring as managing editor of the Daily Herald in 1929 when that newspaper was acquired by Mr. Hanks and Houston Harte of San Angelo. Returning to the Reporter-News in 1935, he became night editor in 1936 and managing editor in 1937. He resigned as a director of the Reporter Publishing Company when he left the Reporter-News. He was publisher of the Coleman Democrat-Voice a year before joining the A. C. C. staff.

Throughout his newspaper career Bedichek has been active in civic affairs. At Big Spring he was president of the Chamber of Commerce and a charter member of the Kiwanis Club. In Abilene he has been a Chamber of Commerce director, one of the original directors of the Community Chest, chairman of the Free Milk Fund, president of the Civic Music Association, chairman of the City Planning Commission and a member of the Rotary and Kiwanis Clubs. During World War II he directed publicity for War Bond drives and was public information chairman of the Taylor County Red Cross chapter.

He is a past-president of the West Texas Press Association and a former member of the editorial board of the Texas Press Association. While on the Abilene and Big Spring newspapers, he was active in the Texas Associated Press Managing Editors Association.

Mr. and Mrs. Bedichek and son, Wendell Mac, reside at 858 E. N. 12th. He is the eldest son of Mrs. Frances K. Bedichek, 624 Highland St., Abilene and the late E. A. Bedichek Sr., who was a pioneer preacher of the Church of Christ. He came to Abilene with his parents in 1917 to enter Abilene Christian High School and receive his degree from the college in 1924. In his earlier boyhood his parents lived in the West Texas towns of Ballinger, Higgins and Canadian. He was born at Bardwell, Ellis County, July 4, 1903.

Sudan Assistant Coach Goes To Frenship School

Johnny Cardinal, assistant coach at Sudan this year, has accepted a position as head coach at Frenship High School.

Cardinal was assistant mentor to Francis Smith during the past season and their Sudan charges finished in a three-way tie for the District 3-B football championship. In addition, the Hornets boasted a powerful basketball team during the 1950-51 campaign and finished in the spot in the district race.

Cardinal was a member of the Sudan coaching staff only one year, having taken over the assistant's job after graduation from West Texas State College, where he played football three years under the tutorage of Frank Kibrough.

He hopes to build interest in athletics at Frenship which has been decidedly neglected in that capacity for some time. He will not have an assistant.

It has been estimated that less than 10 per cent of the population of the earth can obtain food to provide a diet acceptable to a modern dietician.

Bread To Appear Here In Orange Wrapper Monday Next

Improved Holsum Bread, in new wrapper, will appear in stores Monday. The new wrapper will replace the red Holsum wrapper familiar to shoppers for the past 18 years.

Shoppers will find Holsum Bread "to spot" in its new color, called "fire-gold" which gives the wrapper a distinctive appearance and a new bread package.

The Granberry Lubbock Holsum plant announced the new wrapper produced in Littlefield last week of May 6. Granberry stated that the new wrapper costing will seal in extra flavor, the result of three different flours.

The change in wrappers is the latest step in Holsum's program to provide South Plains housewives with the finest bread and baking service to be found anywhere.

Since the opening of the new Lubbock Holsum plant in January, 1949, the Holsum company has introduced several baking features which are in keeping with the progressive area it serves.

In October of 1950, the company introduced the first dated bread in West Texas, a service which enables shoppers to tell when each loaf was baked.

The Holsum Baking Company was established in Lubbock in 1933 and now serves residents of 70 communities in 28 West Texas counties.

Altar Society Displays Shrine

The Altar Society of the Sacred Heart Church, Littlefield, is displaying a shrine in the window of the West Texas Gas Company.

This shrine features a statue of the Blessed Virgin Mary to whom the month of May is dedicated.

Mrs. Earl Drerup and Mrs. J. R. McKinney arranged the display.

Baptists To Observe Mother's Day By Charity Fund

Texas Baptists will observe Mother's Day, Sunday, May 13, by giving to a special hospital charity fund in their churches.

The churches of the Baptist General Convention of Texas will take the offering in cooperation with the seven Baptist hospitals in the state. The money given on this day each year goes to the hospitals for care of patients who are unable to pay the treatment.

The theme of this year's observance is "Be a Good Samaritan in 1951."

Each Baptist is urged to give one day's care for one needy patient. The average cost for one day's hospitalization is $16.25. Churches and church organizations are being asked to provide for one or more patients for a week. The average cost per patient for seven days is $113.75.

Baptist hospitals participating in the Mother's Day charity plan include Hendrick Memorial, Abilene; Southeast Texas, Beaumont; Baylor, Dallas; Valley Baptist, Harlingen; Memorial, Houston; Hillcrest Memorial, Waco; and Southern Baptist Memorial, San Antonio.

Last year these hospitals treated 3,279 bed patients and 10,786 other needy persons who could not pay for their care. The charity service of these institutions annually runs over the $150,000 mark.

The Mother's Day hospital fund is used only for cases in distress and unable to pay for hospitalization. Its use must be approved by a Baptist church. Patients cared for under this plan receive statements marked, "Paid by the Baptist Churches of Texas."

Gomez Wasn't So Goofy

AP Newsfeatures

TAMPA, Fla.—There's a new Lefty Gomez story making the rounds in this Florida baseball capitol.

While pitching for the Yankees one day a few years back, Gomez thought he'd try out a new pair of glasses.

When Gomez looked through the glasses he saw at the plate, Jimmie Foxx, the slugger who hit one of the longest home runs against a Gomez pitch in Kankee Stadium. He quickly walked to the bench and took off the glasses.

Junior Baseball American Legion boys will gather at the ball park in the fair grounds Monday, May 7, for organization, according to Vernon Hofacket, Coach.

"All boys who were not 17 years of age on January 1, 1951, are eligible to play," stated Mr. Hofacket who added "all positions are open and the boys will have to work to earn their positions."

Mr. Hofacket urges on a good representation at the fair grounds Monday, stating that the team will compete in the District American Legion League, which covers 22 counties and that the State finals will be played in Lubbock this year about August 1.

Mr. Hofacket is badly in need of two or three coaches and urges on some of the local baseball fans to get in there and help.

"What's wrong?" asked Catcher Bill Dickey.
"Gomez replied:
"I just looked through these new bifocals and saw Jimmie Foxx. I'm not pitching to him with glasses on."

BATTLE MORN AND ARCARO PICKED TO WIN THE KENTUCKY DERBY

By FRANK ECK
AP Newsfeatures Sports Editor

NEW YORK—We like Battle
Morn to win the Kentucky Derby.

When Eddie Arcaro, the only jockey to take the Derby four times, decided to ride Battle Morn in the 77th running at Churchill Downs on Saturday (May 5) that made it official, for me.

Arcaro has won Derbies with Lawrin, Whirlaway, Hoop Jr., and Citation. He was second with Hill Prince last year and in 1947 just missed by a head when Phalanx failed to catch Jet Pilot.

Arcaro, who has ridden in 11 Derbies before this one, usually gets his pick of Derby mounts.
He's that good. One of the reasons he gets his pick is because he is under contract to no trainer or stable.

Arcaro was slated to ride Battlefield in the 1951 renewal of the Run for the Roses but the horse failed to reach his best form and was withdrawn. Then he had a choice between Long Bow and Battle Morn.

He finished a fast closing second with Battle Morn in the Wood Memorial Stakes at Jamaica. Four days later he thought he'd take a ride on Long Bow, a highly respected King Ranch bay colt trained by canny Max Hirsch. But after Long Bow got beat by five lengths in a Jamaica sprint, Ar-caro had hardly dismounted when he said:
"I'm riding Battle Morn in the Derby."

Battle Morn runs in the colors of the Cain Hoy Stable which is owned by Harry F. Guggenheim, 60-year-old copper magnate from Sands Point, Long Island. For Guggenheim, a retired Navy captain, Battle Morn represents his first Derby entry.

Battle Morn, bred by Guggenheim, was foaled at Arthur B. Hancock's Claiborne Stud, Paris, Ky., March 10, 1948. He is a well bred colt—by Blenheim II—Good Morning, by Sir Gallahad III. His pedigree is like that of Derby winner Jet Pilot who is a son of Blenheim II and out of a daughter of Sir Gallahad III.

Battle Morn won $30,700 as a 2-year-old last year. When he picked up $8,000 by running second in the Wood he ran his earnings to $46,050 for 14 races.

As a juvenile Battle Morn finished out of the money only twice in eight outings. This year he has won twice and been second three times, being an also ran only in the Flamingo Stakes at Hialeah in March.

Battle Morn's most impressive victory thus far was in the $20,- 000 Grand Union Hotel Stakes at Saratoga last August. Under Arcaro's handling he responded readily nearing the stretch and won by two and a half lengths in the mud.
It is the only stake he ever won.
The colt was second in both the Hopeful and Champagne Stakes and third in the Saratoga Special.
His only bad habit appears to be his tendency to bear out. But Whirlaway was that kind of a horse and Arcaro handled him with great success.

Another thing that might disfavor Battle Morn is his background for running a poor race after being shipped to a strange track. After being shipped west last summer he ran sixth though favored to win the Washington Park Futurity. Shipped east after the race he was fourth in the rich Belmont Futurity. And this spring after shipping from Florida he closed fast in his first start at Jamaica but wound up fifth, two and half lengths behind Sonic in the Experimental Handicap No. 2. Incidentally, Handicapper John B.
Campbell, the man who rates the horses at the beginning of the season for the Experimental, ranked Battle Morn as the most likely to succeed this year.
