

Up in the Clouds

by Beulah Earle

Second Instalment

She wondered about that. What could it be that made this seem so much the same? Much water had flowed under the bridges of the world since that gay night. She had gone two years to the university. Then her father had died and with his insurance money she had taken a secretarial course.

For a year she had been chief clerk in her uncle's law office. But he had gone into corporation practice and there hadn't been any place for her in the new scheme of things. Since then there had been a few weeks work here and there but for ten days there had been nothing. No wonder she had now forgotten what parties were like.

His eyes caught hers now and found them smiling.

"What's so funny?" he wanted to know.

"You'd die if you knew," she laughed aloud.

"Gosh!" he exclaimed, reddening. "You make me feel as though I'd forgotten to put on something, some really vital part of the old costume."

"Oh, it's nothing like that. I just had a queer thought and it made me laugh in spite of myself. Don't you ever do that?"

"What? Have queer thoughts or laugh in spite of myself?"

"Have thoughts that make you want to laugh at the silliness of them?" she tried to explain.

"Well, I've got one now that will seem pretty silly if you can't see it."

He held her a little closer and her heart quickened. The smile faded quickly from her eyes. That little skip in her heart beat had told her.

She was! She was in love with this boy as she had been with Roger Yarnell and he was a hundred times more splendid in her eyes already than Roger had ever been.

It was frightening, a discovery like that. He had danced with her now to the shadowy corner once more. Before she knew it, he was kissing her again and she was kissing him.

This was madness but glorious, glorious madness. How could life do such amazing things?

"Was that your funny idea?" she said softly, standing in the circle of his arms.

"Yes," he said, suddenly serious. "I'm wild about you. I never met anyone so gorgeous in all my life before. I want you. I want you to go somewhere with me—tonight."

She was caught by his mood but she hadn't heard too much of his words because of a blare in the music.

"Where?" she said.

"Anywhere," he told her eagerly, his lips on hers again.

In the very kiss, the warmth fled from her lips. Glory died in an instant. That lifting of her heart that had seemed like the levitation of her whole body suddenly failed.

Everything crashed that seemed to be worth while.

"Oh," she cried. "I'm sorry about that. I should have seen it coming."

"I was afraid," he said contritely. "That the idea might be a bust. Will you forget it?"

"It can't be done, Mont Wallace," the girl said slowly. "I had just, very suddenly, decided that I loved you. And so . . ."

She flung her arms out helplessly. It was at the bus station that she made him set her down. There on that yesterday morning that now seemed so long ago she had left her few belongings. She claimed them at the checker's desk and trudged through the cool, sweet night to a family hotel only a block or two away.

Registering, she chose an inexpensive room and put off the bell boy with smiling thanks in lieu of a tip.

But the smile came hard. Here was lonely night on the heels of a ruined evening.

Love! For a moment it had caught her in its spell. For a single instant it had glorified the vistas of life. And now it was gone, like the fading afterglow of northern lights.

She lay long staring into the dark, wondering if stolen ecstasy could be the searing thing she had been taught, wondering if love must always die so tragically, wondering why a heart without a wound could hurt so fearfully.

And lying there, it seemed as though a presence filled the room, as though Mont Wallace stood there holding out his arms and smiling contritely. Instantly the feeling was gone but now her heart had come alive again. Hurt there still was in her breast but it was sweet pain.

Life would go on. Struggle and woe and sorrow, glowing delight and fearful ecstasy would make its lights and shadows. But this one day would color the whole fabric of it for it was the day on which her love had been born.

She knew that this much was real out of the tumult of the evening. This much could never be taken away, that she loved Mont Wallace and would love him always.

Even in loving she laughed. Wouldn't he smile at that? Wouldn't he grin to know this thing he had left in the crushing heart beneath her breast?

It was a jest of fate. Only her heart had been ravished but she knew there would be no forgetting. Lightly he might go on from one kiss to another, gathering them like trophies of his prowess in the air. Lightly he might test them in the crucible of passion, even to find one that finally claimed his own eternal desire.

But always there would follow him the adoration of herself, of Natalie Wade. Her heart could not bow down. It could not abase itself. But it could burn with an eternal fire that he had kindled even though he might never know.

Sleep came at last, deep dreamless sleep that would not summon even a phantom of this youth to her arms but in the morning she knew some glory burned in her before ever her mind remembered that she loved Mont Wallace.

Consciousness of him went with her to breakfast in the hotel dining room. It crossed the street with her to the morning office of the Express. It stood with her beside the day editor when he complimented her on the story she had done and ratified the agreement of his assistant that she should have a trial on the staff.

Her name was on the assignment book. It thrilled her to find it there.

"Follow Wallace," was the assignment.

Natalie had enough of her father's tradition in her to know the meaning of that. She was to bring in another story of the new hero, and she was to telephone him. She was to see him, and spend what time she could with him until the deadline of the afternoon paper and perhaps until the final edition, that sporting extra for which she had written the afternoon before.

She was to chronicle every slightest incident in his life of that morning of that day. Yet, strangely, she was not to write the tremendous story of that night, at least not as it had burned itself into her heart.

She thought of the eager readers all over the nation who would be waiting for her story. It would be carried on the wire. It would, if she could do it well, bring a hundred million people to sit beside this one man, to question him and to hear whatever he had to say that would reveal the man.

Millions of girls, she knew, would be among those readers. Millions of girls would want to know what this man was like. Girls made heroes of men like Mont Wallace. They would follow him. They would write him. They would send ooishish mash notes and requests or his picture.

And now Natalie knew what she would write. It was one story, at least, that all the girls would read.

She took from the pile of rough copy paper that lay beside her typewriter. She fitted carbon paper between two sheets and then she wrote the one line she knew would free her from the rules of newspaper writing that she knew so vaguely.

"By Natalie Wade," she wrote in the middle of the line. It would be a by-line story and she alone of all

Stepping Stone Walk Inexpensive Says Mrs. Harrell

"My back walk cost 90c and we surely enjoy it this wet weather," Mrs. Charlie Harrell told the Sod House Home Demonstration Club Friday.

The first thing Mrs. Harrell did was to outline the walk. The outlines of the stepping stones were drawn, care being taken that each stone was large enough for the whole foot to be placed firmly on it. The ground was dug out to a depth of 6 inches or more for each stone. Crushed rock was placed in the hole for a foundation and then 4 inches of concrete brought the walk even with the ground. Grass was set between and around the stones after the cement had set.

A Cleaner and More Sanitary Littlefield

In working for a cleaner and more sanitary Littlefield, the City Commission is urging the cooperation of all business establishments in the keeping of the business section free of all rubbish.

The city garbage truck is now making the rounds of the business section twice each week, Mondays and Fridays, instead of once as previously, and collecting all rubbish and garbage, in an effort to keep the business district as attractive as possible. With this end in view, the City Commission is asking each business house to provide a metal container of some kind to be used for burning of trash, papers, etc. In this connection it has also been pointed out by the city that it is a violation of the State Insurance Laws to burn trash in the open in the business district, and that the City in general could be penalized in insurance rates if this practice is not discontinued.

The City also asks that patrons arrange for the burning their rubbish so that there will be no fire in their containers on Monday morning or Friday morning, as truck drivers cannot load garbage that has fire in it. If you have papers, boxes and other rubbish that you wish disposed of, the city asks that you put them in your container and they will be hauled away and burned at the City dump ground.

This is the season of the year when large numbers are visiting our city. The first impression is usually a lasting one. Are we going to cooperate in this splendid move on the part of the City Commission in their endeavor to keep the down town section free of all rubbish, trash, papers, etc. by each of us furnishing a container, and doing our part to make a cleaner and more sanitary city, or are we going to just ignore the plead on the part of Mayor Pat Boone and the City Commissioners, and refuse to do our bit towards making our city clean and sanitary. It is only going to mean a little effort on the part of each business establishment, and we can make it one of the cleanest and most sanitary cities in West Texas.

Think this over folks; take the matter seriously—and provide a container, so that when the city truck calls Friday next your premises will be clean and all rubbish in your can ready to be hauled away.

You will not only be making Littlefield a cleaner, more sanitary, and more healthful place to live, but you will also be doing your bit to assist the City Commission in their very worthy and commendable movement.

Olton Child Is Victim Of Car Mishap Friday

Olton, Oct. 16 (Special)—A 7-year old victim of a tragedy near here Friday was buried here this afternoon after rites said at the First Methodist church.

Jimmie Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Miller of a mile and a half east of Olton was fatally injured when struck by an automobile directly after alighting from a school bus in front of his parents' home.

He ran behind the bus and was about to cross the road to his home when an automobile reported to be driven by W. B. Smith, elderly farmer of near Circle, four miles west of Olton, struck him. The farmer was blinded by mist that clouded his windshield, he said.

The child literally was "drowned in his own blood," said Dr. B. A. Prestidge, who said death resulted from hemorrhage of the lungs. Both legs were broken. The child died five minutes after being rushed to the physician's office here.

His twin sister and several other brothers and sisters survive.

NEW PONTIAC MODELS FOR 1938 TO GO ON DISPLAY OCTOBER 23

Retaining the distinctive badge of "Silver Streak," the new Pontiac models for 1938, stressing safety in many style and mechanical improvements, go on public display at 23 at dealer show rooms the day over. Littlefield motor Company are local dealers for the Pontiacs.

Available on both a six and eight cylinder chassis, the two lines are each offered in a choice of eight body styles.

We Sell and Recommend "HANES" REPLIN'S REAL VALUES

Outstanding features of both lines are complete new treatment of front and styling, optional remote control gear shift lever which frees the front compartment of all obstructions, enlarged generator ample for every electrical need, relocation of the battery beneath the hood for greater cleanliness and accessibility, improved silent synchro-mesh transmission, complete new treatment of the Fisher Body interiors, and a host of minor changes designed to increase the beauty and safety of this latest offering of the second largest producer in General Motors.

Engineers who have previewed the 1938 model pronounced the new remote control shift lever one of the outstanding mechanical developments of the new season. A short and easily operated lever just beneath the steering wheel takes over all the functions of the conventional gear shift lever located in the center of the front compartment. This new "Safety Shift," as it is called, represents the culmination of six years of research for a safe and simple substitute for the conventional gear shift lever and is optional equipment on either six or eight at slight extra cost.

The same body types are available on both six and eight cylinder chassis: 3-passenger standard coupe, 5-passenger sport coupe and cabriolet, 6-passenger 2-door and 4-door sedans, 2-door and 4-door touring sedans, and convertible phaeton. Curb weight of the 4-door sedan is 3415 pounds on the six and 3555 on the eight.

With the six built on a 117-inch wheelbase and the eight on 122, the two chassis are powered by motors delivering 85 and 100 horsepower respectively and with piston displacements of 223 and 249 cubic inches.

Most striking in the new exterior appearance is the restylized front end. The chromium grille popularly known as the "Silver Streak," which leaped into instant public favor when Pontiac first introduced it on the 1935 model, is retained in all its individuality, and becomes the focal point of a new hood side grille and new radiator horizontal grille design which gives the impression of extreme power and beauty.

The center radiator grille has nine vertical chrome plated bars which extend up and over the entire length of the hood. The radiator side grilles are formed by horizontal chrome bars curved to correspond to the contour of the radiator shell. The long hood has the striking chrome plated silver streak on its upper panel corresponding to the vertical radiator grille. The parting line of the hood is at the belt line, with only the upper section raised to service the engine compartment. Three easily removable wing nuts hold the lower section in place. All hinges are concealed. The hood side grille differs on the eight from the six in that it has three chrome mouldings instead of two.

Radiator ornaments are redesigned in the modernistic manner, and new polished die-cast shields conceal the headlamp bracket adjusting cavities. Each model carries a name plate at both the upper and lower parts of the vertical section of the silver grille. Wheels and hub caps are new.

On the eight, parking lamps have been tailored into the tops of the head-lamps to form a harmonious unit. This model also boasts distinctive radiator ornament, lower radiator name plate, rear door name plate and moulding, as well as bumper ornaments and guards in keeping with the greater luxury of this model.

Interiors are wholly new, as are exterior colors and combinations.

The first impression one gets upon entering the car is that of a custom tailored body. Interior design, upholstery, hardware, and instrument panels are new, and achieve the dual purpose of increasing the beauty and comfort of the car while at the same time adding measurably to its safety. For example, the roll on the front seat back gives every impression of overstuffed upholstery, yet achieves the further purpose of removing a sharp edge in the event back seat passengers should be pitched against it by a sudden stop. Similarly, the new safety robe cord on the back of the front seat replaces the non-yielding and conventional robe rail of steel. The new Pontiac "rail" consists of a padded cord finished with a silk jacket harmonizing with the interior body trim. Hardware and window controls closely hug the trimming and have elastic knobs made thinner than usual—also for greater safety.

An ultra-modern and symmetrically balanced instrument panel highlights the interior and dictates its tone. Slightly more vertical than last year, the panel is finished in biege lustre on the eight and in rich African blistered hairwood on the six. Again on the instrument panel safety and utility, in addition to greater beauty are emphasized by the half-round roll forming its lower edge into which are built the controls. In neat recesses on either side of the ignition switch are located throttle and light switches in matching moulded plastic. This type of design eliminates sharp projections in the event a person should be jarred against the panel under a sudden stop. Also on the panel are provisions for such popular accessories as electric clock, radio and heater controls, cigar lighter and ash tray enclosed in the panel. This year an ammeter replaces the generator signal light on the instrument dial, while the odometer window is higher with odometer figures nearer the glass for easier reading.

Upholstery on all six-cylinder models is optional between light tan lustrous mohair or mixed tan wool fabric except in convertible coupe and phaeton, which are trimmed in buffed crush grain Spanish leather in six colors, or in modified whipcord cloth. The eight is trimmed optionally in mohair or heathertone wool twist.

A boon for short drivers is the adjustable front seat arrangement whereby the back becomes more vertical as the seat adjustment is moved forward. Windshield angle at 39 degrees is high and wide for better vision and safety.

direct result of activities under the voluntary farm-debt adjustment program. The debts of these farmers before adjustment amounted to $203,876,204; after adjustment $152,453,194.

Settlement of these cases made possible the payment of more than $3,680,000 in taxes to local governments.

An analysis of the 62,099 cases reveals that 36,000 were adjusted through outright debt reduction; 16,052 through extension of time for payment; 950 through substantial interest rate reduction; 4576 through a combination of these methods; and 3921 through unclassified methods.

All adjustments were made through mutual agreement of debtors and creditors acting upon the recommendations of voluntary farm-debt adjustment committees. The work of these committees will be continued with the assistance of the Farm Security Administration.

Farmers in need of this help provided by the Farm Security Administration should contact their local county supervisor and present their case to him. The service is free and farmers are urged to take advantage of it.

PLANS UNDERWAY TO PAVE ANTON STREET

Anton, Oct. 16. (Special) — The state highway department is working on plans for a farm-to-market road project to include the paving of Main street, Anton from the highway to the high school.

Commissioner Harry Hines has informed County Judge Alvin Allison that the department will push the project as rapidly as possible.

Outlook Favorable For Hog Producers

Slaughter supplies of hogs during the coming fall and winter are expected to be somewhat smaller than those of a year earlier, according to Bureau of Agricultural Economics reports, which have been localized for Texas by E. M. Regenbrecht, swine husbandman of the Texas A. and M. Extension Service.

Regenbrecht pointed out that the relatively small supply of hogs for slaughter, plus a fairly high level of consumer demand for meats, probably will result in hog prices this fall and winter as high as those of a year ago, when the average price of hogs at Chicago was $9.90.

"It now appears fairly certain that the 1937 corn crop will be much larger than in 1936 and at about the 1928-32 average," Regenbrecht said. "With lower corn prices and a relatively high level of hog prices in prospect, the outlook for 1937-38 is very favorable for hog feeding and hog production."

One result of the big corn crop and the small supply of hogs will be that weights of hogs marketed in 1937-38 will probably be considerably heavier than those of a year ago, according to Regenbrecht. A second result will be a larger spring pig crop in 1938 than was the case in 1937.

Texas has a better than average feed crop, Regenbrecht said, but the crop is not evenly distributed. In many cases, localities that have hogs have little feed, and sections that enjoyed a good feed crop have few hogs.

could write it. Perhaps it would not be published. Perhaps when she had finished she would find that she could not let it be published. But it must be written. And the lead wrote itself before her unbelieving eyes.

"I danced last night with Mont Wallace," it read. "I danced with him and loved it. For Mont Wallace dances as he flies, gaily, easily, excellently well. Unwearied by the long grind at the controls of his little black plane, by the prodigious effort it must have cost to hurl that plane from coast to coast in faster time than ever man made the flight before, he danced as lithely as though it were the first exertion of the day."

She wrote on and on, in each line something that would give the girls for whom she wrote an instant in the hero's arms.

And as she wrote she thought of that other story she might have written but did not. "I kissed Mont Wallace last night," it should have read. "I kissed the man who flew from coast to coast straight to my feet. I kissed again the man who had bent to kiss me before ever he knew my name or I his."

There were in the story she was actually writing some touches of this man's humor, of the physical her and with him the familiar figure splendor of him, of the cleft in his chin that had fascinated her and of the brown hair that lay unruly on his brow.

Natalie had lost herself in the writing of her story. She did not know when the day editor came to stand behind her chair and to read the lines she had written.

She did not know when he hurried back to his desk and bellowed for Jimmy Hale, the staff photographer. It was not till she had finished what she was writing and had written the conventional "30" at the bottom of her copy that she looked up to find the photographer standing beside of Mont Wallace.

"Listen, kid, the old man wants a special picture on this."

It was Jimmy Hale's husky voice, Jimmy's slightly bleary grin that backed the request.

"Come on in here now, I've got to make it snappy."

Natalie followed him, a little confused, with Mont coming behind.

And presently she stood in the cluttered room that was the photographer's office. Mont Wallace's arms were around her once more. And for the picture's sake she looked up into his eyes as she had done that night before while Jimmy Hale took the picture that was to tell more than all her story had done and that was to bear as caption her opening line—"I danced last night with Mont Wallace."

That was the day Natalie came to know Jimmy Hale. A likeable boy who swore he couldn't write a line of copy, he proved to be the best instructor she could have had in the business of hunting down news.

Where things happened, there sooner or later—generally sooner—Jimmy Hale would be found with his small car loaded with cameras, lamps and other equipment of his trade.

Because the girl was given feature assignments almost from the first, she and Jimmy were thrown much together and he came to consider her his special charge. The time was to be when Jimmy would call her in the middle of the night if a story broke and together they would race to the spot, Jimmy to prowl for significant pictures and Natalie to hunt odd interviews and special details that made good feature material.

Jimmy had unerring news hunches and it was he who, on that first of their days together, swung the car around to the mansion of Jake Marston, west coast plane builder and halted under the wide porte cochere.

Intestinal Flu Fatal To Morton Man Thursday

Mr. Emory (Sleepy) Vernon, the 19 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Vernon, of Morton, died at a Lubbock hospital at an early hour, Thursday morning of intestinal flu.

Young Vernon became ill about a week previous with flu and intestinal derangement. Hemorrhages set up and he was soon a very sick man. Arrangements were made to remove him to a hospital, but he was too ill to be moved. Wednesday morning he was transferred but nothing could be done for him.

"Sleepy," as he was generally known, was employed by E. L. Willis as a driver for a freight van operating from Morton to Lubbock.

WILDCATS LOSE 7-6 GAME TO BROWNFIELD

With Weakened Line Due To Injured Regulars

The Littlefield Wildcats lost a game to the Brownfield Cubs Friday night.

Playing in a heavy slush and with a 170 pound line weakened to 155 pounds because of injured regulars, Coach Sanders was not disappointed in the showing made by the Wildcats against the strong Brownfield Cubs.

The two teams played along even for two quarters, then in the third quarter the Cubs completed a twenty yard pass from Littlefield's thirty five yard line and ran twenty five yards to their own nineteen yard line. One line play and another pass netted Brownfield their touchdown. Their kick for extra point was good.

Late in the final quarter a Cub fumble bounded high in the air. Littlefield halfback, took the fumble and ran the remaining forty five yards for the Wildcats six point counter. Littlefield's kick for extra point was wide in the wind by three feet.

Brownfield made four first downs to the Wildcats three. The Cub's tried and completed two passes. Littlefield completed one.

Coach Bill Sanders expressed the hope of having his full force available for the Ralls game here this Friday. The defeat by Brownfield leaves the Wildcats having won one and lost two in their conference play for a .333 average.

Alvis Tubbs Suffers Injury to Shoulder When Cows Falls on Him

Alvis Tubbs was unfortunate enough to seriously injure his shoulder when trying to herd a sick cow into the cow lot at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Tubbs, 3 1-2 miles north of town.

The cow was afflicted with sleeping sickness, hence not herself. She got out of the lot, and in trying to chase her in, she turned on him and knocked him down, and falling threw a portion of her weight on the boy's shoulder. The boy dragged himself from under the cow, and was taken to Dr. Thos. B. Duke's office for treatment, and later to the Littlefield Hospital, where X-ray was made. The right shoulder was pulled out of the socket, and the ligaments sprained, as a result of which the boy wasn't able to work for about ten days. He returned to Watson Produce, where he is employed, Monday last, but has his right arm in a sling, and isn't able to use it much.

Heading the cast is Jean Hersholt, famous veteran actor who gives his greatest characterization as the grandfather of "Heidi." A tactiurn recluse dwelling high in the Alps, the character is the most difficult he has ever had to portray, Hersholt says, because the burden of the delineation is placed on physical mannerisms and attention to details of action and dress.

Chief of Police A. A. Anderson and J. L. Walraven, Night Watchman, were taking care of this work previous to the addition of the above men.

M. C. Taylor and C. Linton are the new City Watchmen, who go on duty at 9 p. m., and remain until daylight.

According to an announcement made Friday last by W. C. Street, City Secretary, the special irrigation water rates that have been in force the past summer, and which were scheduled to expire on October 20, will continue throughout the year to all water consumers who may desire them.

Mr. Street states the new contracts are now ready, under which the special rates will be available the year round, and the contract will remain effective until cancelled by order of the customer. The contract may be signed at any time and will continue indefinitely.

SHIRLEY TEMPLE IS BELOVED "Heidi" IN HER GREATEST ROLE

A Shirley Temple more glorious than anyone has ever known and a beloved story that has enthralled millions the world over will be featured at the Palace Theatre Sunday and Monday, in the never-to-be-forgotten picture, "Heidi," Johanna Spyri's enchanting tale brought to such laughing, loving life by Twentieth Century-Fox that it touches the deepest corners of the heart.

Everywhere readers in all languages have been charmed by the warmth, tenderness and beauty of the Swiss Alps and all the colorful folk dwelling up just under the stars, into whose lives "Heidi" brings tenderness and mirth and courage. An embittered mountaintop exile is reclaimed from his fierce hate of the world by the heroine, who brings him a new zest for life, and a young girl is given strength and the will to walk again in the story that has thrilled readers of every country.

"Heidi," one of the world's famous stories, had to wait for its star before it could be brought to the screen, declares Darryl F. Zanuck, and the reason is evident. Shirley was cast in the title role in response to the thousands of movie fans who besieged the studio with requests that she play the part.

The result is a picture for which she will be remembered always. Ideally cast and gloriously portrayed, the screen play by Walter Ferris and Julien Josephson is an achievement in transcribing a familiar and beloved story to the screen.

Heading the cast is Jean Hersholt, famous veteran actor who gives his greatest characterization as the grandfather of "Heidi." A tactiurn recluse dwelling high in the Alps, the character is the most difficult he has ever had to portray, Hersholt says, because the burden of the delineation is placed on physical mannerisms and attention to details of action and dress.

Arthur Treacher, as the comic butler in a rich Frankfort home, is "Heidi's" sole defender in many dramatic scenes, and a sympathetic portrayal of "Blind Anna" is provided by Hellen Westley.

Other leading roles in the story are played by Pauline Moore, Thomas Beck, Mary Nash, Sidney Blackmer, Mady Christians and Sig Rumann.

On a novel set depicting the colorful Zuyder Zee, Shirley and a large chorus enact an elaborate dance sequence, with special routines arranged by Sammy Lee. Shirley also sings the grand new novelty tune, "In Our Little Wooden Shoes," written by Lew Pollack and Sidney D. Mitchell.

Allan Dwan directed "Heidi," with Raymond Griffith as associated producer.

Government Official Re-Checks Work Done By Supervisors

Mr. L. N. Miller, Government Re-check Engineer for the Agricultural Adjustment Administration was in the county last week, re-checking work done by supervisors who measured farms that are participating in the Agricultural Conservation Program.

Measurements as a whole were found to be fairly correct. Mr. Miller found however that some farmers had harvested sudan or other crops from acreage that they had reported as soil-conserving. Farmers are warned against harvesting sudan or cane from acreages that they have reported as soil-conserving, since this practice where found will cancel the participating farmers payments. In some counties a complete re-inspection of all farms will be required by the state office to determine whether or not soil conserving crops have been harvested states Mr. Miller.

Nature designed the kidneys to do a marvelous job. Their task is to keep the flowing blood stream free of an excess of toxic impurities. The act of living—life itself—is constantly producing waste matter the kidneys must remove from the blood if good health is to endure.

When the kidneys fail to function as Nature intended, there is retention of waste that may cause body-wide distress. One may suffer nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—feet tired, nervous, all worn out.

Frequent, scanty or burning passages may be further evidence of kidney or bladder disturbance.

The recognized and proper treatment is a diuretic medicine to help the kidneys get rid of excess poisonous body waste. Use Doan's Pills. They have had more than forty years of public approval. Are endorsed the country over. Insist on Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

CHURCHES

Rev. Dickerson to Preach at Enochs Sunday Afternoon

Rev. E. H. Dickerson of Sudan will preach at the Enochs Baptist Church Sunday afternoon at three o'clock. The church is without a pastor at the present time but the men of the church are presenting a special program for the day and laymen from the Littlefield Baptist Church have been asked to appear on the program.

October is mission month among the Baptists and every church in the Association is taking a special thank offering for State Missions.

FIRST BAPTIST CHURCH

Sunday was a good day with our church. The attendance was back to normal with three hundred people attending the morning service. The pastor brought a message on missions after which an offering was taken asking for $300 for the days offering. The people responded liberally and willingly and $325 was given to round out the year work. This is a busy time of the year but we should not become so busy that we will neglect to thank and worship the God that has given us the abundant crop which is keeping us busy. The week goes better and life richer when one takes time to worship his Creator and receive spiritual food.

The Young People's Department under the leadership of Mrs. Pat Boone as Supt. is making splendid progress. Four classes are being taught in this department. Mr. Lon Smith, S. S. Supt. is working faithfully to get our Sunday School attendance up to four hundred.

Miss Winnona Pardue, a teacher in our public schools, has been asked by the choir to direct the music. She will lead the choir Sunday and special music will be heard at both services. Choir rehearsal was held after services last Sunday evening and will continue each Sunday evening.

The pastor will preach at both services Sunday. The morning message will be, "The Atonement—How God and Man Unite." The evening message will be a continuation of last Sunday evening's message, "How Man is Saved." The public is extended a cordial invitation to attend any or all our services.

The B. T. U. meets each Sunday evening under the direction of Mrs. Earl Hobbs, B. T. U. Director. Ninety-three were in B. T. U. last Sunday evening.

LUTHERAN CHURCH

The regular quarterly meeting of the congregation will be held Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. All members are requested to be present as several important matters are to be considered. Several matters which the visitor, the Rev. J. Birnbaum suggested will be presented.

It was certainly gratifying that such a fine number attended the meeting with the visitor last Monday. The visitor expressed appreciation over the progress made here these last years. The explanation of different parts of the congregational work was welcome, and probably gave many information they had long wanted.

Communion services will be held at 10:50 Sunday morning. Sunday School begins at 10 o'clock. The night service in the English language will be dropped due to the afternoon meeting.

Wednesday night at 8 p. m. the young people will gather in the basement of the school for their regular monthly meeting. A party will be held in connection with the meeting. Do not forget your subscriptions for the Radio Broadcast.

Last Friday afternoon at 3 p. m. the parents of many of the children attending the parochial school met with the teacher for a sort of parent teachers meeting. A short program was rendered by the children. Lunch was served by the teacher and his wife. It is the intention of the teacher to hold such meeting every six weeks. Certainly they help to a better understanding of the problems of the school, and tend to a better school.

All the members of the choir are requested to meet at 8 p. m. on Sunday for a rehearsal. Let us use the talent of a good voice which

God has given us to the glory of his name.

Walter J. Luceke, pastor.

Several students have complained about the new way of grading on report cards. It is only fair to give reasons to each side. Some statements about the grading system seem to be favorable than others. Probably because of the quick change in the system has bothered many pupils who do not think wisely of the revolution. As the "Wildcat" reports, the network works as follows:

of grading being tried. On our report cards there will be only three different grades, "E", "S", and "U". "E" is for excellent, "S" for satisfactory, and "U" for unsatisfactory.

Suppose an eighty-five average student takes an English test, making 70 while the rest of the class is from ninety and above. If it would be the case, the 70 grade of the eighty-five student to the other would be excellent or satisfactory, but on the other hand if a B, C method was used, he would get only a "C-" (C minus), which is very unsatisfactory. (For new ideas see in other sections of the paper).

Freshman Class Well on Way for Successful Year
 Since no regular time has been set for class meetings, the Freshman Class has decided to be "on the spot" at all times by meeting once a week and by paying dues of fifteen cents a term. With so lively a group, a reporter was necessary and Bobbie Taylor was elected.

A more radical view of the same thing is as follows: A 40 average student, who has good citizenship and a grade of -50, would, according to the present plan, make excellent, but on the other hand, would fall under the A, B, C's. According to a statement by Mr. Hobbs, principal, citizenship and citizenship will count also in the grading.

Yes, We Lost To Brownfield
 The faintest hope for Littlefield's Wildcats to win the title race was dead this week because they had been defeated by the Cubs of Brownfield. Brownfield had been practicing for that game many weeks since she had believed that we were very powerful. The Brownfield News, published every Friday gave a preview of the team's standing and along with that gave the following:

Everyone seems pleased about the new type of examination dates. Both teachers and pupils are glad to get six-week exams over in one week instead of lingering for four or five weeks for just four or five subjects. The routine followed in the new term is as follows: First and second periods exams on Monday of the sixth week, second and sixth on Tuesday, third and seventh on Wednesday, and on Thursday the fourth and eighth period exams.

Quote: "The score of the Littlefield-Cowhand game indicated that the Wildcat team is a scoring machine when it turns on the power. Both teams will be primed for the affair, and the game promises to be a 'scrap' that will entertain for the whole time of the game."

But, boys, that's all right, next year we'll send the Tigers, Cubs, and the whole capoodle way, way, way, back.

The team with the highest standing so far is Levelland who has won five games—lost none. Next comes the Cubs who have won four and lost none. Then, Lamesa and Slaton, each having lost none and won three. Littlefield's ranking is sixth.

There's Still Jest in That Good Old Game in Littlefield
 Football Boys of L. H. S., unlike other babies, who are born with silver spoons in their mouths, are born with footballs in their traps. They are started off young eating their spinach and getting home and in bed on time, therefore this makes them tall, dark, and 'er-so forth.

When the boys are promoted to high school, they are given a football suit, this making them look bigger, stronger, and so handsome. The boys can beat anybody, except a few when plenty of pep squad girls are around. Every year football players are born to take the place of the ones that have graduated and the route they are brought over in special football coaches is named. "Fourth Down—Punt—Boulevard." You know what the grass on the field is for—it's to put the footballers in the right mood of gay lively, goal-posty spring.

But even if the team does have hard workouts, everyone loves Coach Sanders.

Congratulations, Coach!
 The student body of the Littlefield High School extend their congratulations to our football coach and Mrs. Sanders on the birth of their new "fullback". We know that the Littlefield football team of 1937 must surely be a regional winner!

Shakespeare Hasn't Got Us Beat
 Sponsored by the Speech Club, the Littlefield Schools will broadcast over KEYO every second Saturday each month.

On last Saturday, October 16, the first program was presented by the Speech Club. Bill Shakespeare didn't have these youngsters beat because an "original" skit had been written by the later.

The scene is in the home of Camille Arnold. Friends stop by on their way to the show and start helping Ruby Nell Cobb get a speech so she might go to the movies with them. Various facts are brought out about different subjects in school such as chemistry, shorthand, and Spanish, with 'espanol' music to blend.

Characters are: Nettie Belle Batton, Ruby Nell Cobb, Cloise Foust, Helen Wiseman, Tom King, Charles Heathman, Camille Arnold, and Olley Robbins, the announcer.

The program next time will be presented by Miss Laura Virginia Bills and Miss Pardue's pupils sponsored by the Speech Department.

isfactory and it is thought that by the last of next week when the campaign is over each of the towns will be well over the top in their Sustaining Membership Round-up.

Membership in the South Plains Sustaining Club is one dollar each month that is for the purpose of operating and providing a program of Scouting activities for the boys of the South Plains Council. The purpose of a membership drive in each town is to provide for their particular part in the Council budget for the year.

At the last of next week a complete report on the drives in each town will be made. According to reports from those heading up the drives, it is thought that each town will report that they are over the top.

ing that Huddleston was confined there, and discussed with the prisoner, the Sudan robberies.

Deputy Hutson said that no charges were being filed against Huddleston here; that there is no use charging him since he already has 220 years against him; and that in the opinion of the officers he should be returned to Huntsville.

Farm Loan—

of sufficient food and feed crops for all the people and livestock located on the farm, thereby eliminating the necessity of producing larger amounts of cash crops, the returns from which would have to be used for the purchase of feed and food-stuffs that should be produced on the farm. Thus cash crops are limited to an amount necessary to pay off the loan and meet the other cash needs of the family.

"The time given for payment of these loans is an important factor in getting distressed families back onto their feet," Mr. Stubbs said. "Many things which the farmer has to buy, such as livestock, farm equipment, lime and other soil improvement items do not bring their full return the first year and the longer credit period makes it unnecessary for the farmer to sacrifice needed food and seed crops to repay his loan, as would be the case if loans were made for but one year. Where the borrower is a tenant, the term and provisions of his lease, are, of course, important factors, particularly as regards loans for soil improvement items."

ing this for Littlefield, which he considers his home town, as this is the most important movement for Littlefield and Amherst that has taken place in a number of years, interesting one of the largest independent oil operators in the State to make this test for an oil well in this location. Already it has meant much to Littlefield in dollars and cents, as the seismograph crew was stationed here for six weeks, while shooting this block, and the money paid for lenses and royalties is totalling many thousands of dollars to the farmers.
