Two Cars Damaged In Collision Near Anton Monday Night

The light roadster in which Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Fair and two children were riding was almost demolished Monday evening when it collided with a heavy sedan on highway No. 7 about two miles west of Anton.

The Fair car was coming to Littlefield after a trip to Cooper, Texas, and the other car, a Dodge Sedan the names of the occupants of which were not ascertained, bore a New Mexico license and was going east. The two front wheels were torn off, and the man and his wife, owners of the car were picked up by a truck and taken to Lubbock, from where they sent later after the car. No one was reported injured.

FAIR PLANS ARE GOING FORWARD IN A GREAT WAY

Large Number Booths Are Spoken For; Carnival Main Feature

Plans are going forward at a rapid pace for the holding of the Lamb County Fair at Littlefield October 8, 9, and 10, which promises to be one of the best held in this section.

It is expected that there will be a large number of splendid exhibits displayed by Lamb and surrounding counties, as well as the Home Demonstration Clubs, 4-H boys and girls, private individuals, agricultural exhibits by the various schools in the county, etc.

Plans are being discussed by car dealers, implement dealers, drug stores, dry goods and various other business establishments for booths at the Fair.

A meeting of the Committee was held Wednesday and work is now under way in the blocking off of the floor space in the United Warehouse and Compress building.

According to Joe Hale, one of the Committee in charge, a large number of booths have already been spoken for.

One of the main attractions of the County Fair will be the Western States Carnival, which will open Monday, Oct. 5, on the softball grounds. This carnival company is one of the largest ever to show in these parts. It will present two big circuses acts for free entertainment every night. On the midway there will be 10 of the newest riding devices, 12 side shows of highest type. On Wednesday night, Oct. 7, there will be a public cellophane wedding of a local bride and groom.

SUSPECT BEING HELD IN SUDAN ROBBERY CASE

Texas Authorities Await Osborne's Removal To New Mexico

James W. Osborne, 30, of Hobbs, N. M., is being held in Denver, Colo., at the request of federal authorities for investigation in connection with the robbery of the First National Bank, Sudan, Aug. 27.

Osborne is being held at the request of Chief Investigator Blake of the Dallas division of the department of justice.

Lamb County authorities investigating the case said they anticipated extradition proceedings would be taken by New Mexico officers and witnesses to the Sudan robbery in which $2,200 was taken, will view the suspect at Lovington, N. M.

Osborne, arrested in Denver for Lovington authorities on an embezzling charge, said he was the victim of a "political frameup."

At Hobbs, Sheriff Cam Cain last Tuesday night said he would attempt to extradite Osborne's former stenographer, Wanda Wingo, to New Mexico on a charge of selling a mortgaged automobile. She was arrested in Denver a short time after Osborne was taken into custody last week. Osborne is a former independent oil dealer.

WILDCATS LOOK FOR FIRST REAL TEST OF SEASON IN BROWNFIELD GRID TILT HERE FRIDAY EVENING

Coach Sanders Says Visitors Will Be 'Double Tough' After Anton Loss

With a week's lay-off and stiff drill putting his Wildcats in near-perfect form, W. B. Sanders, Littlefield high school football mentor, is still pessimistic over the outcome of the Brownfield tilt here Friday night.

"After a defeat at the hands of Anton, a Class C team, last week, Brownfield will be double tough," Sanders said.

"This game will be our first test of the season and we're going to shoot the works to see whether or not we really have a team," Sanders stated.

With a win and a loss already chalked up for the season, Brownfield bids fair to giving the Wildcats a bad 60 minutes of play. Brownfield boasts a team that averages 160 pounds and a repertoire of plays that includes spinners and line drives.

Coach Sanders has been drilling his charges on signal practice and pass defense for the past week.

Asked if he were going to use an aerial attack against his opponents, Sanders said he was going to use everything in the book to give a real test to "see whether we have a team or not."

Although Littlefield has showed up well in its first two grid contests defeating Morton 39 to 0 and Tahoka 43 to 0, the Wildcats will face an aggregation outweighing them nearly 11 pounds to the man here Friday night.

The loss of Olin Walker, stellar guard, has further weakened the Wildcats' forward wall. Hall Rowe, 160-pound tackle, was lost to Littlefield last week through a knee in-

Baltimore Man Looks Over Land Purchased 12 Years Ago For First Time Monday

J. Wm. Hill of Baltimore, Maryland, viewed for the first time Monday, farm property, which he purchased twelve years ago through the Yellowhouse Land Company.

In September, 1924, W. H. Badger selected for Mr. Hill 177 acres out of the Yellowhouse Ranch lands, and Mr. Hill has just made his first trip to the South Plains to look over his land, which is located about nine miles southwest of Littlefield.

Mr. Hill has his farm leased on a crop share basis to G. E. Lyle. Accompanied by R. T. Badger of the Yellowhouse Land Company, Mr. Hill made a pleasant call at the Leader office, and in an interview said, "I am delighted with my investment. I have only one kick coming and that is, that I didn't buy more of it."

Mr. Hill arrived Sunday, and while here was a guest in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Badger. He left Littlefield Tuesday, and enroute home will visit in Memphis, Tenn.

Mr. Hill, who is in the insurance business in Baltimore, has just recently returned from a six weeks' trip to England, covering 12,000 miles where he visited his daughter, Mrs. Gordon C. Hartley at Surrey. He stated that England is very prosperous this year, and that many Americans are visiting that country this year.

He mentioned that his wife would visit England next year to witness the coronation of the King.

SPECIAL EFFORT MADE FOR LARGE CROWDS MONDAY

Leading Merchants Advertising Appealing Values

Littlefield's paramount bargain day of the year—Dollar Day—is being renewed Monday, October 5th, with the city's leading merchants searching their new fall stocks for tempting items to offer during the day for one dollar.

For the past several years local merchants have set aside the first Monday in each month as a city-wide Dollar Day and have used a large amount of newspaper space advertising timely dollar values. With the arrival of thousands of dollars worth of new fall merchandise, however, a special interest is being taken in next Monday's event with hopes of bringing record breaking Dollar Day crowds to the city. In this issue of the Leader many attractive Dollar Day values are being advertised by the city's leading merchants.

ELECT STUDENT COUNCIL AT LOCAL SCHOOL

Bess Lair Likely To Be Chosen As President Of Group

For the first time in the history of the Littlefield High school the student body has elected a Student Council. This Student Council will participate in the solution of the problems that arise in connection with the operation of the High School community.

Gradually from time to time the pupils have assumed more and more interest in the operation of the institution until this year it seemed feasible to encourage a council membership. This Council will first have the job of writing constitution and by-laws under which they will operate.

The Council is composed of a girl and a boy from each of the four classes together with a president elected at large from the student body. This president may or may not be chosen from the already elected members.

Mr. F. A. Hemphill, Principal of the high school will be the faculty advisor with the group. These folks will work out the plans for improving our community in every manner possible. Peace or War?

In addressing the third World Power Conference at Washington the Secretary of State, Cordell Hull, remarked that "unfortunately, a vastly disproportionate share of the skill and energy of scientists and statesmen alike is being devoted now in many parts of the world to the creation and organization of forces of destruction."

Every thoughtful person with even a slight understanding of the forces which seem to be driving toward another world war will agree with Secretary Hull in deploring the activities of governments and leaders who, under the guise of preparing for national defenses, are stimulating the war spirit and preparing to plunge civilization into chaos.

It has lately been reported that so many of the German people are engaged in the manufacture of arms and munitions of war that an illusion of prosperity has been created. To what end is suggested by the remarks of Chancellor Hitler, in which he suggested what Germany might do if she possessed the mineral and agricultural resources of Russia. That, coupled with his demand for a return of the German colonies taken away by the Treaty of Versailles, comes very close to being an actual threat of war.

Russia today has the largest standing army ever known in the history of the world and one of the best equipped. Russia fears attack both from the West and from the East. Japan is reaching farther Northward and Westward from Manchuria, and the day seems not far off when the Soviet Republic will be fighting for its life on both fronts. Italy and France both seem to be watching for the time and the opportunity to dismember Spain and parcel it out between them. Britain's colonial empire is threatened by all these developments. In the event of another great war, it seems impossible that England can stay out. And it is far from impossible that the United States would also find itself involved.

If ever the times called for the utmost exertions in the name of peace, it is now.

jury suffered in the Tahoka game. "Frosh" New, 145-pound half back, who romped over the gridiron for hefty gains during the Tahoka game is regarded as the season's football "find." Just out of grammar school, New is already performing like a veteran and will be in the starting lineup for the Brownfield game.

Meanwhile, Coach Sanders has been spending his third string shock troops into the football wars with the result that they have come home with two victories thus far this season.

The Wildcats third team trounced Anton's second stringers here last Thursday, 6 to 0, then repeated the feat by downing the same aggregation at Anton, 13 to 0, Tuesday afternoon. Littlefield scored in the second and third periods in the latter game with Burleson carrying the ball over each time.

With 43 men reporting nightly for grid practice, Coach Sanders, lacking just one man to make three complete teams, is finding little difficulty in giving his first string enough competition.

Following is the Littlefield lineup for the Brownfield tilt which will be played under the lights at Seely field Friday night:

- Tom Morgan ----- LE
- H. Baize ----- LT
- B. Graham ----- LG
- Walker ----- C

- Wilson ----- RG
- Beavers ----- RT
- McKnight ----- RE
- Lee ----- QB
- New ----- HB
- Neely ----- FB

Court Charge—

int charging Molder with driving on the left side of the road when the road was not obstructed.

When the case came before Judge J. B. Sikes in Justice court Tuesday, County Attorney Herbert C. Martin asked that the charge of driving on the left side of the road be dismissed, and announced that he would file a new charge in county court, that of aggravated assault by striking with an automobile. In asking withdrawal of the charge of driving on the left side of the road, Mr. Martin said that the law had been held indefinite by the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals.

Molder was represented in court by E. A. Bills, Littlefield attorney.

Escape Serious Injury

The occupants of both cars escaped injury, with the exception that one member of the Molden party was bruised and another was scratched. In the Stokes car, in addition to Mr. Stokes, were Mrs. Stokes and their sons, James, 12, and Malcolm, eight. Occupants of the Molder car, in addition to Molden, were Mrs. Molden, a cousin, Jack Molden of Anton, and Miss Doris Grant, also of Anton.

Mr. and Mrs. Stokes and family were returning from the Texas Tech vs T.C.U. football game at Lubbock, and Mr. Molden and party were returning to Anton from spending the evening in Littlefield.

Following the collision, the Stokes car came to a halt about 100 feet in a field, and the Molden car, after turning over, halted partly on the highway with the wheels in the air. The cars did not collide head-on, but very considerable damage was done to both machines.

Schultz, the "human bat", will make his sixth attempt to glide on "his" wings at the show here Saturday. Schultz will glide 6,000 feet from a plane and then use a parachute to make a landing. Schultz is the only man in the world to successfully fly on the "bat" wings.

Sam Coffman, owner and designer of the Coffman monoplane and head of the air show, will lecture before the Littlefield high school student body Thursday on the important features of a parachute and how to use it in an emergency.

Coffman said the show, which will get underway at 2:30 p. m., is with the exception of the stunt flying, educational.

Such well known pilots as Clint Breedlove, Lubbock; Art Chase, Lubbock; Maynard Dagley, Lubbock; and Coffman will be present to perform at the show.

The show is the same as the one which appears in Lubbock and Amarillo and is en route to Clovis, N. M.

Farm Benefit Payments To Begin in October

AAA officials said Thursday that the flow of federal benefit payments to 6,000,000 farm owners, operators and tenants would begin early in October but that only about one farmer in 20 or 30 would receive his check before election day, November 3.

"We have had many appeals, especially from drouth states, to expedite the payments and we are going to do everything we can to see that they are promptly paid," said W. R. Tolley, the farm administrator.

"We hope to be able to get somewhere between 2 and 5 per cent of the total payments out next month."

Other AAA spokesmen said the total to receive a share of the $470,000,000 to be paid out under the 1936 soil conservation-subsidy program would be about 1,000,000 larger than the number who received benefits under the old AAA program.

They added that checks this year were expected to average less than $80 a farmer for the country as a whole, compared with an average of $100 under the former program.

The amount paid out under the previous farm programs—1933, '34 and '35—was estimated at $1,500,000,000.

The bulk of payments is expected to be made in the latter part of this year and early in 1937, the AAA executives asserted, because from one to two months is required to determine if the farmer has complied with regulations, and another month to write checks, audit them, and get them into the mails.

LITTLEFIELD PUBLIC SCHOOL SYSTEM

Littlefield School District covers one hundred and eighty-eight square miles of territory. The present enrollment to date is twelve-hundred and eighty, including about forty colored pupils. Of the present enrollment about six hundred sixty-seven ride school buses. These come from distances ranging from one to eighteen miles.

Seventeen new all steel maroon and white buses each having a capacity of forty to forty-five pupils transport those living at a distance of one mile or more.

An indebtedness of about one-hundred and seventy-nine thousand dollars for buildings has been reduced in the last five years to about twenty thousand dollars. The school refunded all bonded indebtedness of the district in 1933 by which the district was saved twelve thousand dollars in bonds and the interest was reduced from 6 per cent to 5 per cent. Such a reduction over the period of the life of the bonds which is forty years, will save the district a net total of forty thousand dollars.

Scholastic enrollment, that is all between the ages of six and seventeen, is fifteen hundred sixty-one.

Building and grounds include the High School building which has about fifteen class rooms, office facilities, auditorium, study hall, and gymnasium, a grade school building having about twenty rooms and housing grades four through seven, and a primary school building modernly equipped for grades one to three. In addition to these and a part of the high school department is a shop equipped for teaching those desiring courses in manual arts. A special cafeteria on the corner of the grounds owned by the school and leased to the operators serves school needs to a large number of the student body.

In addition to courses in mathematics, Spanish, English, Social science, applied science, manual training, large classes are maintained in vocational agriculture, home economics, bookkeeping, secretarial training, typing and music. These new classes have been added in home economics this year and eight new typewriters gives added facilities to the commercial department. At present there are four classes of typing, accommodating one hundred students. A large music class and class in hand instruction are added features of the school.

County Teachers are Complimented by Theatre Management

Teachers of Lamb County were entertained Friday evening, September 25, with a theater party by W. J. Chesher, Manager of the Palace and Ritz Theaters.

Each year Mr. Chesher takes this means of showing his appreciation to the teachers of the surrounding territory who look forward to this annual occasion.

P. T. A. Reception Honoring Teachers

A reception honoring teachers followed the regular meeting of the P. T. A. Wednesday.

A program for the afternoon included group singing led by Morgan Layfield accompanied by Miss Laura Virginia Bills, after which Mrs. W. D. T. Story gave a hearty welcome to teachers to which Miss Gladys Jones responded. Other numbers were a duet by Misses Fleta Eagan and Laura Virginia Bills accompanied at the piano by Miss Evelyn Garlington, an introduction of teachers by Mrs. Everett Whicker and a solo "Sweet Mystery of Life" by Jack Norman.

Mrs. Jess Seale chairman of the hospitality committee was assisted by Mrs. Pat Boone, Mrs. W. G. Street, Mrs. Nina Young and others.

Miss Bills' Room

Twenty-three pupils were absent Tuesday due to the heavy rains. The sun came out and dried off the ground and all the pupils were present.

The High Seventh Grade

Members of the high seventh grade organized a citizenship club, and named it the Wide Awake Club. Officers are Irene Weschle, president; Pauline Mitchell, vice-president; Madren Haille, secretary-treasurer of the club. This club will sponsor home room programs once every week of a social science nature.

Higs Sixth News

Pattern 8821: Be chic in this up-to-the-minute delightful tunic frock! It's simple to deck yourself out in this intriguing manner because it's a sew-your-own creation.

A cute, little-girl collar begins the picture which comprises line, color and deftness. The puffed sleeves seem more perky than usual in their environment of vivacious style. A generously fashioned ribbon tie is most effectively worn tucked partly beneath the collar points.

The flaring lines of the tunic are in sharp contrast to the straight skirt lines giving variation that is both graceful and becoming. Suggested materials include, printed silk, taffeta and flat crepe.

BUILDING TO BE CONSTRUCTED FOR MAYOR L. R. CROCKETT AND LEASED FOR DRIVE-IN CAFE

Construction of a building at the corner of XIT Drive and Highway 7 will be used as a drive-in cafe and cold drink establishment. It will be located across from the Cameron Lumber Company on Highway 7, on a portion of the property on which stands the Littlefield Filling Station. This building, which will be of brick and plaster construction, and of modernistic design, and cover 486 feet floor space, will be built for Mayor L. R. Crockett, who plans to lease it when completed.

Joe Wells has the contract for the building.

According to Mayor Crockett, the building will be set back from the property line 15 feet, so as to allow wide graveled driveways on all sides of the structure, and give lots of parking space.

It is expected that the structure will be completed within thirty days.

Get Rid of Poisons

Produced by Constipation

A cleansing laxative—purely vegetable Black-Draught—is the first thought of thousands of men and women who have found that by restoring the downward movement of the bowels many disagreeable symptoms of constipation promptly can be relieved. . . . Mr. J. P. Mahaffey, of Clinton, S. C., writes: "I have found that Black-Draught is very effective in the cleansing of the system. When affected by the dull headache, the drowsiness and lassitude caused by constipation, I take Black-Draught."

A natural, purely vegetable laxative.

Paving of Sudan's Main Street to Get Underway Soon

Lack of a contractor was the only thing that delayed getting underway with the paving of Sudan's main street the past week. However, it is expected to begin the work this week.

The excess caliche in the middle of the street has been removed and the street rolled to put the base in excellent shape. Joe Covington, WPA supervisor for road construction in Lamb County has been in charge of the work on Main Street. County Engineer Lee Bradshaw surveyed the street and laid out the specifications.

The excess caliche which was hauled was used to fill some of the holes on the side streets, and has made a great improvement in them. The street is to be paved with three coats of asphalt and fine rock.

Grows 19 Pounds Sweet Potatoes In Two Hills

Rev. O. L. Oldham, who has a four acre vegetable patch at his home west of town, reports that on digging up two hills of sweet potatoes he had nearly 19 pounds, some weighing as much as a pound and a half.

Mr. Oldham does some irrigating, and has watermelons, beans, peas, Okra, Turnips, lettuce and other vegetables of fine quality.

He stated he planted some Irish potatoes, but that the hot June weather cut them off before the potatoes developed.

Floyd Hemphill To Coach In Tennis This Year

The new tennis court which has recently been under construction is now in use.

Floyd Hemphill will be the coach for tennis this year, and has reported that there will be around thirty contestants coming out to represent the Littlefield High School in that event which will mean serious, consistent practice for those who really expect to win that honor.

GARY COOPER TO BE FEATURED AT PALACE SATURDAY MIDNIGHT IN "GENERAL DIED AT DAWN"

Gary Cooper, the screen's most famous soldier-of-fortune, will be seen again in his favorite role when "The General Died at Dawn," a Paramount picture of adventure, romance and intrigue in modern war-torn China, will be shown at the Palace Theatre Saturday midnight, and featured at the Ritz Theatre Sunday and Monday.

Having already established himself as filmdom's outstanding portrayer of romantic adventure roles in the French Foreign Legion, the Bengal Lancers and the Italian and American armies, Cooper now comes to the screen as a roving soldier-of-fortune in modern war-torn China.

Appearing opposite him is beautiful blonde Madeline Carroll in the role of the lure put out by a scheming war-lord to trap Cooper. This is an entirely new role for Miss Carroll who has already captivated America despite her few appearances before the camera. Akim Tamiroff, famed for his portrayals of sinister roles, is cast in the role of the ruthless war-lord.

The producers of "The General Died at Dawn" were determined to recapture the magnitude and significance of modern China, a popular uprising against oppression without a parallel in history. To accomplish this Clifford Odets, brilliant young playwright whose works have caused a sensation for their startling reality and rigid adherence to fact, was assigned to write the screenplay. Lewis Milestone directed the picture.

Make-Believe Bride

by Ruth Harley

FOURTH INSTALLMENT
SYNOPSIS: Maris Trevor is discouraged because Rod O'Rourke spends all his money developing an invention which he hopes will provide an income so that they can marry. Maris thinks they should enjoy the present rather than deny themselves for the future. She becomes uncertain of her love for Rod. Perhaps there would be more happiness with someone else.

Park, once more Rod told her of his love. "Tell me you'll marry me, Maris," he begged as he caught her to his heart, and, beneath the light

She and Rod had come to a parting of the ways

"Then you've got an appetite after all?" he declared as he started. "Yes, this is delicious," she replied. "I guess you were right. I'm positively hungry." Something seemed to warm Maris, now, that she had better draw Rod's attention to the food, rather than let him get sentimental. She felt strangely undecided about what her answer to a proposal should be.

However, she could not defer that answer indefinitely and so an hour later as dusk was falling and they strolled through Van Cortlandt of the full moon, looked hungrily into her great dark eyes. Her heart hammered furiously. She loved this man madly. She longed to throw her arms about his neck, to kiss him rapturously, and whisper, "Yes," but something told her, if she did, she must end all her dreams about Stan. If she gave Rod the promise that he wanted, he would insist on her wearing his ring, and if the gadget passed the tests as he felt sure it would, then there would be no excuse for waiting to get married.

He would get a cheap new car, and Dulcie would be discarded, maybe, in spite of anything she could say. Rod would insist that they live in the country. Oh, so much would be involved if she whispered, "Yes." And yet her heart cried out insistently that she loved him, that by marrying him she would save herself from any heartbreaks she might meet if she made up her mind to walk in ways that were foreign to the course of her life.

Rod's lips sought hers. For a long moment they held hers. Then as she moved in his arms, he whispered huskily, "Rou will, darling?" "Oh, Rod," and she gave a quivering, hysterical little laugh. "don't get so serious. Can't we just be friends, like we've always been?" "But you love me," he cried hoarsely as he caught her once more to his heart. "You know you do, Maris darling. Won't you be my wife?"

Lightly Maris placed her hands against him as she tried to slip from his arms. How she loved him! If he kissed her once more, maybe she would not have the courage to refuse his love, and yet something seemed to keep her from giving him her answer. Again she laughed, a falsetto note in her voice. "Oh, Rod, this is so sudden," she mocked. Then suddenly serious, she added, "I don't want to think about getting married—at least not just yet."

The passion died out of Rod's voice as his arms dropped to his sides. His sea-blue eyes seemed to search to the very depth of her being as he exclaimed, "Then you don't love me any more. There is someone else?"

Beneath the fixity of his gaze, Maris' thickly lashed eyelids dropped over her dark eyes. He must not read the secret of her heart—for, even if she felt another fate might be in store for her, she could not deny her love for this man who cared for her so passionately. Better keep that secret to herself. Better let Rod languish in uncertainty—at least until she could see what the future might hold for her.

"You know I like you, Rod," she whispered, as she plucked lightly at the sleeve of his coat. "That's not what I want, Maris. I want your love, but evidently I'm Better tell that to your other boy friend. Well, good night, Dreams have a way of coming to an end." And before she could say another word, he had left her.

Then as she crossed the threshold of the apartment house, a sudden terror seized her. Had she driven the man she loved from her side forever? Why had she not told him there was no one else, that though she loved him, she didn't feel she wanted to get engaged—at least just yet?

But even as she thought of what she might have done, what she might have said, a little imp inside her seemed to say, "Now you can see what's to be done with Stan Fayson. Marriage with a millionaire would be much easier than with a poor man. If Rod really loves you, he'll come back to you again. After all, a girl has the right to make things as easy for herself as she can."

Yet another voice seemed to say, "You know you love Rod, so how can you treat him so. What's got into you, anyway? Stan Fayson will never look at you. Maybe he's really engaged to Rowene, and if he isn't it's more than likely that when he's ready to marry he'll pick some bright deb rather than a working girl."

But, shrugging her shoulders as she went upstairs, for the elevator was temporarily out of commission, she tried to forget about her love for Rod. She tried to banish every memory of his impassioned love-making. She was so tired of being poor, of working for a living, for she had started just after she got through business college. And, even if she married Rod, unless his gadget proved a tremendous exception, they would probably never be rich. She would have to do all the housework—maybe even the laundry at first. Then if there were any

Railroad Jim
THE COLUMN CONDUCTOR Says...

Passengers in the smoking compartment on my train were arguing about why railroad business is picking up.

A factory owner said it was because of this new Free pick-up-and-delivery of less than carload freight. This is door-to-door service with no extra charge added to the freight bill.

A traveling salesman said it was because so many passenger and freight trains now run on faster schedules.

There was a school principal in the group and he said it was because train travel is so much cheaper for passengers. He said passenger fares are at the lowest point in history, with substantial reductions if you buy a round-trip ticket—and no more surcharge for riding in sleeping cars.

One man, a farmer, said he liked something he could depend on, that's why he was traveling by train.

Another man, a newspaper reporter, said people were in favor of railroad travel because it is by far the safest. He quoted a lot of statistics from a book called "Live and Let Live."

A banker we all know by name said railroad tax payments mean a lot in this state.

We are proud of railroad achievements, appreciate the public's good will and increased patronage, and pledge continued progress.

It is a fine way that Pontiac Motor Co. has of keeping its own sales employees in the field safety-minded. Practice them" . . . "Pedestrains should be seen and not hit" . . . "The Judge says: 'Take time or do time'" . . . "Look out for children. You never can tell what they'll do and you're always wrong if you hit one" . . . "Are you a safe driver?"

Make Believe Bride—

babies—oh, the very thought of that problem made her sick. And yet, as she slipped her hand in her bag to get the key, she remembered she had thought once that it would be paradise to have a home of her own, an adoring husband, and maybe two curly-headed cherubs to bring the final crown of happiness to her life.

What had come over her, she wondered, as she switched on the light. She could not understand herself. Once she had thought she would be in a ecstasy of happiness if Rod proposed to her, and now—well, after she had stilled the tumult his kisses brought to her heart, she seemed to have lost interest in him. Why was it, she continued to wonder.

Then, a sense of guilt seemed to cover her with shame. She was fascinated by Stan Fayson and the thought that he might fall in love with her.

Well, after all, a girl had to do the best for herself, especially a working girl who had little chance except through a wealthy marriage to see the world, to have a life of ease, to wear lovely clothes and be surrounded by all the beauty her money might buy. She'd put all thoughts of Rod out of her life for the present. She must not torture herself even with the thought that her calm dismissal had hurt him.

He would get over it. Maybe even yet—but no, she must make no concessions about him. She and Rod had come to a parting of the ways. Yet though she calmly acknowledged it, and tried to look at it from a worldly wise point of view, it was strange how vividly little incidents about him rose before her as she brushed her lovely silken hair, and prepared to go to bed.

There was the day they stumbled across a couple of youngsters who were fighting furiously in the park. Grabbing one in each powerful hand, Rod had held them in the air, till suddenly through the dust smearing their faces, she could see their looks of anger turn to smiles as Rod showed them how foolish they were.

There were other days and other happenings, and now, each seemed to take on a new significance, as though they would mutely plead the cause of this man she loved, and yet had sent from her, refusing his love. Switching off the light, she sighed impatiently. If she was to get anywhere she must forget about Rod. Well, tomorrow would soon be here and in the hustle of the office there would be little time for thinking or dreaming of romance. Besides, Rod would be on his way to Cleveland where his gadget was to be proved. She hoped it would be a success. After all, he did deserve that, because he'd spent plenty of time and money, trying to perfect it.

"What, more invitations to address for the exposition?" questioned Milly Tremaine, as Maris put a typewriter list and a box of envelopes on her desk.

"Yes, Miss Riggs says she's just waiting for another bunch of names, but that will keep you busy for a while."

"Huh, and what are you going to do? Sit and twiddle your thumbs?" "No, I should say not. I've got a bigger list than yours, and I'd better start plugging."

"Well, this exposition is certainly giving us some extra work. I wonder if they'll give us a chance to get in free."

"I'd say they should, seeing that Fayson's is having one of the biggest booths on the floor."

"Well, you know what that's for—so Stanley's girl can have enough room to show off the bridal gown made of Fayson's finest crepe," Milly said.

"Why shouldn't she?" asked Maris. "Fayson's can surely afford to spend something to put over a lovely material like that. Besides, it won't cost them a thing for models. That's a pretty smart idea of Stan's—sort of keeping it all in the family."

"Yes, someone said she was going to use the bridal gown at her own marriage," announced Milly as she started her work.

"But is she really engaged to Stan?" asked Maris, suddenly tense as she waited for Milly's answer.

"Sure, I read it in the Herald's society column—gave all the pedigree of the young man—but I reckon Rowene didn't have any worthwhile ancestors—it only told about the playgrounds her dad had given to all the little burbs up-state."

"Well, when you're rich you don't need ancestors to hold you up, Gold does it well enough and lets you get in where you never could if you were poor and honest."

A moment later, Maris seated herself at her machine and the steady, clickety-click of her typewriter joined the chorus of the nineteen or twenty others that were in the correspondence room.

When twelve o'clock came, Maris gave a sigh of relief. Her back was aching and her fingers were positively tired for she'd been working furiously to get her list finished. She had not even had time to glance in the direction of Stan's office, as Miss Riggs had told the girls that the envelopes must be addressed just so—no shoddy work would be accepted. Not that she ever got that at any time, for the Fayson stenographers were a picked bunch.

But now, as Maris rose from her desk and involuntarily stretched her stiff muscles, her eyes sought Stan's office. Her eyes flashed as she whispered to Milly, "Look!"

Milly raised her head from her machine and her eyes followed the direction Maris indicated. Then she rose quickly. "Let's go past Stan's office to the cloak room and get a better view," she whispered.

"All right," said Maris, picking up the box of envelopes and putting them on Miss Riggs' table. A sudden excitement had brought the color to her cheeks.

"Gee, Rowene's prettier than I thought," remarked Milly as they walked along the corridor and glanced through the glass-sided office where Rowene, dressed in the exposition bridal gown was parading before Stan and his father, as well as a select group of the salesmen.

"Better get the photographers over right now," the old man was saying. "We should be having some advance publicity in the newspapers." Continued Next Week
