Two Killed When Auto Overtakes West Of Midland

Billy Thompson, brother of Ernest O. Thompson, state railroad commission, and Miss Margaret Mann, daughter of Rev. W. R. Mann of Midland, were killed in an automobile accident near Midland 2 a. m. Tuesday.

Thompson was hurled 30 feet to instant death and Miss Mann was pinned underneath the wreckage of the car when it collided with one in which three negroes were riding. Miss Mann died soon after the crash.

Mrs. Thompson and W. D. Ruffin, Abilene, were painfully injured, but not critically. According to their version of the accident, the car driven by one of the negroes sidestepped their own, causing it to overturn.

The accident occurred one mile west of the Midland airport. Thompson was a salesman for an oil well cementing firm out of Odessa.

He and his wife had gone to Midland to visit with another brother, Otto Thompson, who was attending the Rotary convention.

WASHINGTON
By Ray Tucker
Slogan
President Roosevelt now knows what conservative American business men think of his policies. For a solid week during its national convention at Washington, the Chamber of Commerce of the United States ridiculed and deplored the New Deal. Their diodes confirmed earlier reports that the President was slipping with bankers, business men and industrialists.

They talked economic problems, but they thought in political terms. Mr. Roosevelt has taught them the connection between these two realms. Although they agree that business shows a slight pickup, they insist that Mr. Roosevelt himself is the only question mark on the economic horizon. Talking more confidentially in their offstage moments than in their formal speeches—which were bitterly anti-New Deal—they wish that Congress would extend the NRA in modified fashion and go home. They have no heart for Mr. Roosevelt's other "must" bills.

Silas H. Strawn, the Chamber's one-man "brain trust," may have picked the politico-economic slogan of 1936. Said he: "Let's have recovery and forget reform for a while." Some of Mr. Roosevelt's advisers have been telling him that for a long time.

UNIFICATION OF STATE POLICE
 In the writer of business transacted during these last days of the forty-fourth regular session of the legislature it is quite likely that nothing will be done toward the unification of the state's police forces.

IN THE DAY'S MAIL:
 "Dear Sir:
 "Beginning June 1 we are planning to send the Apache baseball team on an extended and southern trip. The team will be in your vicinity about June 7, 8 and 9. It is a very colorful team, winning about fifty per cent of games and playing about Class D type ball.

"We carry sixteen men. We will play either on straight guarantee or 65-35, depending on size of town and drawing power of game.

"After the game the Indians usually put on their famous Devil Dance. This is given at night around the camp fires and is entirely separate from the game. It is usually put on at a small admission allowing about twenty or twenty-five per cent to the park where it is staged.

"We will probably have some fairly fast base runners who will run against local competition before the game.

"The Apaches carry a lot of genuine regalia and really make a big hit. We are trying at the present time to sign them up for a three season contract. We want to give every town a mighty good show both for the benefit of the local team as well as ourselves. Of course window cards and other publicity material will be furnished.

"What prices do you charge? Do you play night games? What can you offer as a straight guarantee or would you prefer a percentage? We are looking for repeat business in '36 and '37."

RAIN-MAKING
 The efforts of Tex Thornton to produce rain at Dalhart, Tex., by exploding bombs in the air are interesting, and they are also indicative of the seriousness of the drought.

Mr. Thornton's efforts are based upon what is generally regarded as sound theory, though on occasion in the past it has failed about as frequently as it has succeeded.

Another modern theory is that the bombardment of moisture laden clouds with electrically charged dust or metallic particles will cause the moisture to condense around the charged particles and fall to earth. It is like the explosive theory, appears to have been successful on several occasions.

It is not too fantastic to believe that one day man will be able to produce rain artificially. He has achieved in the impossible in flying, in radio communication, in television and in innumerable other marvels of contemporary civilization. Even now he controls the climate in structures of great size, and it is not too much to expect that within a few years he may be able to control moisture over sizeable areas of cultivated land.

DELEGATES TO THE INTERSCHOLASTIC league meet at Austin Saturday opened the way and sports writers over the state are firing a mean broadside. It all came about this way. Roy Bedichek, the power that be in the Interscholastic league, showed a lot of figures and other junk to the delegates and suggested that it might be best to lower the age limit for high school athletes from 20 to 18.

ACCORDING TO PRESS REPORTS, R. D. Green of Abilene made the motion that the faculty representatives support the proposed reduction. The delegates voted for it almost unanimously after Bedichek tried to show that the average age of students graduating from high school was 17 1/2 years.

THE LEAGUE MOGULS HAVE come in for a great amount of criticism from the boys of the press. They all seem to agree that it would be a great mistake to lower the age limit. Football is such a strenuous sport that it requires good physical condition. We greatly fear sad results with a maximum age limit of only 18. The department can't believe that the moguls will consider the move seriously enough to actually put it through.

Stops At Nothing
 Ernie, the venerable ice hockey coach and wrestling champion of Canada, will have no easy time handling the Frenchman, who never steps into the ring with the idea of a playful bout. He goes in to win, and if it takes blood and thunder tactics to do it, why he stops at nothing.

Frenchy is not classed as an extremely dirty wrestler. However, at times he does border on that. Ernie goes in for rough rasling but seldom resorts to choking, gouging and such. Considerable friction between the two boys of late may fire the match with unexpected thrills.

Some of the fans rate Gene a bit better than the Canadian, but there's room for argument there. Arthur probably has the edge in experience. Taking it from all angles it appears to be a toss up. Anything can happen. Arthur and La Belle have never met in the ring before.

La Belle has never been defeated here, although he has been up against some tough opponents. Fans wanted to run him out of town after his first match here but Gene rates high with them now.

Two new boys were carded for the curtain raiser. The Turk takes on Rex Sullivan for twenty minutes. The mustachioed Turk from Stamboul is said to be a fair man at bending bones. Pre's reports from Oklahoma, where Rex recently mastered opponents, say he's just a good boy who tries to set the part of a villain but can't put it over.

AEROTYPE ESSO

a new premium fuel now Public Tested

... and approved as a major improvement in motor fuels

Laboratory technicians told us that Aerotype Esso marked a major improvement in motor fuels. Road tests confirmed their statements. But we were not satisfied until we knew, definitely, that the public approved this new Humble product. Now we can tell you that it does; Aerotype Esso has been public-tested, and the results reported on check cards in our files tell us positively that it fills a public need for an outstanding motor fuel, worth every penny of the small extra cost. So it is with added confidence that we again ask you to test Aerotype Esso in your own automobile, to prove to yourself that it is definitely superior to even the best of the premium fuels of the past. Test its power, its anti-knock qualities, its acceleration, its easy starting. You can demand of it as nearly as possible what the aviator demands of his motor fuels; put it to any road or traffic test; we are confident that Aerotype Esso will please you, and you will agree with other Texas motorists that it is a premium fuel in performance as well as price.

King George Gives Thanks For Throne

British Sovereign Kneels In Humility On Anniversary Of Reign

LONDON—King George of England knelt Monday with the reverse of an humble pilgrim in an act of St. Paul's cathedral to give thanks to God for completion of 25 years in the throne, while all his vast empire, celebrated his jubilee with mingled prayers and merry-making.

So tempestuous was the shouted acclaim that rolled along with him as his state procession proceeded from Buckingham palace to the cathedral and back that the king was obviously stirred deeply.

Personal Prayer
Queen Mary was, as deeply affected by the thundering ovations. The day's most touching moment came in the cathedral when the king-emperor, his right hand over his brow, knelt while the archbishop of Canterbury pronounced his blessing and at its conclusion, oblivious to the others rising about him, remained on bended knee as if offering one final touch of personal prayer.

Subdued alike by the grey shadows of the cathedral and the humility of the king and queen were the crimson, gold, silver and ermine worn by the dignitaries of the empire and representatives of almost all the nations of the world gathered in St. Paul's for the thanksgiving.

For Englishmen, whose love for their monarch derives in great part for his simplicity and lack of ostentation, the ceremony provided one homely touch to be cherished. After the prayer the king—like any British grandfather—put on his glasses and fanned through the program to refresh his memory on the order of the service. In the clock-like movement of the day's program there were only minor mishaps.

Hospitals handled 27 cases resulting from the crush of the many hundreds of thousands jamming the routes of the state processions, while an ambulance corps composed of 50 doctors, 1,000 nurses and 3,000 orderlies treated more than 7,000 persons who fainted, sprained their ankles or otherwise were injured.

Communists, who had boasted loudly of the counter-demonstrations they were planning, managed to break out one banner almost over the king's languid bearing the slogan "workers of our land, unite against capitalism."

Evidencing the temper of the vast throng gathered to cheer the sovereign, however, was a swift, angry mass movement to rip the flag down, tear it to tatters, and trample the pieces underfoot.

Sincere Adulation
Otherwise all was good humor, serenely broken only by thunderous cheering, rejoicing and, above all, obviously sincere adulation of Britain's house of Windsor.

Tonight, lord and cockney, Briton and Scot, African and Australian, Canadian and Indian joined in drinking the king's health while bonfires blazed the length of the land in symbol of the jubilee.

A flourish of trumpets, signaling the arrival of the royal party at the cathedral and its members moved with measured tread to their places facing the chancel steps while the strains of "God Save Our Gracious King" echoed and re-echoed through the church.

Behind the stately crimson and "ilt thrones of the king and queen was the big square of 64 seats occupied by the royal family.

The Prince of Wales sat in the first row directly behind his parents while back of the king's right hand was the little footstool where Margaret Rose, four-year old granddaughter of the king and queen perched. Near her was her nine-year old sister, Princess Elizabeth.

New Wrinkle In Gangster Picture Is Offering For Ritz Theatre

If you have ever thought that gangster pictures have had their day and are now passe, you will change your mind on seeing "The Public Enemy," which opened today at the Lyric Theatre.

Racketeer pictures of the sentimental preachy type, in which "moll" saves the day for justice and humanity, are the type that are hit by this very realistic Warner Bros. production. At last we have a picture of gangland as it really is; a picture that is thoroughness itself. In many ways it might be termed a sociological study of the entire situation as it exists in Chicago.

The film begins in the days of 1909, introducing the two main characters as young boys who grow in for petty thieving. In this manner, their characters are so logically built that the balance of the picture becomes an intense biographical document.

There is history in it, too. The very beginnings of the beer racket are detailed, and to those who know their post-Volstead Chicago history will immediately recognize in the characters of Tom Powers and Matt Doyle the well known Chicago underworld figures of Frankie Lake and Terry Druggan, who operated the first breweries and beer trucks after prohibition.

With a stirring story linking everything together, "The Public Enemy" really gives us a picturization of the rise, and sometimes the fall, of many notorious underworld characters whose names and deeds are but very thinly disguised in the cast of characters.

With this material and the very splendid acting, "The Public Enemy" resolves itself into the finest film document of its kind which has yet been produced.

The cast as a whole was splendidly well chosen. Edward Woods, as Cagney's buddy, comes second in rank, while Donald Cook, as the honest brother, gives a very forceful performance. Joan Blondell, Beryl Mercer, Leslie Fenton, Jean Harlow, Mae Clark, Murray Kincaid, Mia Marvin, Rita Flynn and many others are amongst those prominent in the cast. Junior Coghlan and Frankie Darro portray the gangsters in the childhood sequences.

Book Review Funds To Buy Children's Books

The May book review to be given by the members of the Junior Hypogon club Thursday afternoon at 4:15 at the Settles hotel is to be devoted to raising funds to buy children's books.

The children's department of the library has been furnished with shelves, a large table, chairs and draperies by the club. It is now open to children at the same hours as the regular library—2 to 5 o'clock in the afternoon. The librarian of the public library across the hall is also looking after the children's room.

Summer memberships of 25 cents will be available to school children by the end of May. The library can be used as a reading room also; in fact this was one aim of the club—to provide a place for children to sit and read, since there was not room for that in the other library.

About 350 juveniles are on the shelves. The proceeds from the last book review went entirely into books, the other review having paid for the furnishings of the room. These new books are now arriving and are being put on the shelves. They are not remaining there long, because children are most attentive members of the library.

The summer months are months when children do most of their reading. It is the hope of the club to get as many books as possible on the shelves in time for readers to benefit from them. The members are still trying to obtain a loan of books from the state, because money never goes far in buying books. The funds from this review will be used to purchase new books as soon as the club can obtain them.

Deets Pickett and Dr. Clarence True Wilson. State monopolies are shot through with corruption if you can believe federal officials. Half a dozen are now under legislative investigation. Retail dealers and liquor show no regard for the liquor and tax laws. They are giving the liquor traffic the same bad name it had before prohibition. Prohibition sentiment is increasing and contributions to dry chests are growing. Mr. Choate may clamp down hard unless things mend. He may even issue a ban against all liquor advertising. Some distillers have proposed it. The idea would be to stop floating liquor sales in the dry's face, and to clothe the industry with a bit more sobriety and dignity. The remedy may seem visionary but its consideration reveals how rotten conditions may get if uncontrolled.

Passing— It may be too early to write the epitaph of the "grand old man of the Democratic party," but the administration has left its fear of the explosive Carter Glass of Virginia. He can't scare or bully downtown Washington with his sharp tongue and his distinguished record as a party leader. Mr. Roosevelt has licked him consistently. The Senator's opposition to confirmation of Marriner Eccles as Governor of Federal Reserve Board melted away when the issue came to a showdown. So did his demand for curtailment of the $4,000,000,000 expenditure for the work-relief program. Although they have not made the headlines, many other issues which he opposed were settled satisfactorily to the administration.

There is drama in this vanquishment of an old Democrat by a young Democrat who was only a boy in political teens when both served under Woodrow Wilson. But current significance lies in the fact that Messrs. Roosevelt, Eccles and Morgenthau now look for an easier time in passing the omnibus banking bill over the opposition of the Virginia patriarch's opposition. They think they have his number.

Migration— It is an ill wind which blows somebody good, says the political prophet. Until a few months ago proposals to construct both a power and irrigation dam at Grand Coulee in Washington State seemed chimerical. Even the Interior Department, which always favors bigger and better projects, was hostile. But now the Reclamation Service wants to go ahead with the whole project. It has submitted a recommendation for construction of an irrigation-and-power structure to cost $400,000,000, whereas the original proposal for a power dam contemplated the expenditure of only $186,000,000. The new program provides for irrigation of more than 2,000,000 acres of land now waste.

The dust storms have changed the economic and political perspective. Families bereft of farms and homes by the heigirs of soil, according to recent surveys, will migrate to the Grand Coulee. As all is made fertile and habitable, So all aboard for Grand Coulee—An artificial development which dwarfs the Pyramids, the Hanging Gardens of Babylon and the Tower of Babel.

Suspicious— Some industrial members of the U. S. Chamber have no more confidence in Howard F. McGrady as a strike conciliator than they would have in Bill Green. "McGrady is more rabid than Green," said one. "See what he said in Boston two months ago. He told workers that judges were stupid—that it was up to the workers to organize so that it would be unhealthy for judges to defy stubborn strikes. Organized labor will use the strike to get through the Wagner bill. The devil of it is that whenever times turn better we have labor troubles. Now McGrady goes to Detroit ostensibly to head off strikes. In reality he will stir up discord, as he did in the San Francisco Strike. It's a bad sign when McGrady goes out in the guise of a conciliator."

Serene— Despite NRA, AAA and other New Deal twisters Attorney General Homer S. Cummings preserves his poise. He still remains the humorist and philosopher of the New Deal. On his wall hangs this excerpt from Mark Twain: "Always do right. Some people will be pleased, others astonished."

Notes— Important building operations have been started through the RFC Mortgage Corporation, which is loosening up the deadlock in the larger building field. Highway construction is about to swing into action—contributions by the states are not required under the work-relief law. The Senate probe into relief spending spells grief for some of Harry Hopkins' lieutenants in the states. It adds greatly to the work that piles up on Hopkins' shoulders. House members are asking Senate friends to put through an investigation of the Home Owners Loan Corporation. Patronage discontent has stirred the rage.

NEW YORK By JAMES McMULLIN Confusion

One of the hottest angles in the squabble over the bank reform bill is just beginning to develop. The announcement by chairman Steagall—that he intends to fight for the provision endorsed by his house banking committee making it unnecessary for state banks to join the Federal Reserve system in order to be eligible for deposit insurance—is certain to breed live-wire complications. This amendment, pet child of the state banks, will of course be anathema to Carter Glass. But its real significance lies in the fact that it also trends on the administration's toes—and Seagall is supposed to be a loyal White House lieutenant. Ever since FDR took office he has been quietly working toward unification of the banking system with a minimum of political fuss. So on this issue he is obliged to stand—even if only off the record—with the Virginia Senator who is the bitterest opponent of the Federal Reserve reforms the government wants.

Unless the administration can bring Steagall and other state bank champions quickly to heel it will be a case of confusion worse confounded—affording a golden opportunity for backstage political swaps. Financial men believe this situation greatly improves their chances of maintaining the status quo.

Compromise— Utility leaders understand that the administration is considering a modification of the holding company bill which won't look like much of a concession but will make a lot of difference to them. The bill would retain its "death sentence" provisions—in theory. In practice Joe Kennedy's Securities commission would be given very wide discretionary powers to decide whether the sentence must be carried out in the case of each particular group. A number of power company heads now recognize that the president cannot afford for political reasons to scrap the Wheeler-Rayburn measure and substitute the purely regulatory bill they prefer. It is important for him to avoid giving the impression of a forced retreat. On that basis the prospective compromise is about as satisfactory as they could hope for. Why the FDR to save face and to refuse of five-year notes. Record rapidity of conversion confirms our prediction that Secretary Morgenthau's scheme would work. Reo is planning to bring out a Diesel-motored truck.

Stabilization— Another shadow of international monetary complications stalks in the wake of mounting silver prices. If the metal advances much further sterling is likely to rise against the dollar. This is because sterling is linked to the silver rupee at 1 shilling six pence to the rupee—thus making the gold value of the pound and the gold price of silver interdependent. Britain can't tamper with this rupee relationship because it would raise red in India—and she must at all costs avoid disturbances there. So the pound must tend to rise with Indian silver currency.

New York experts predict that dollar silver will preclude any definite dollar-pound stabilization except at a rate above five dollars—which wouldn't be so good for United States trade. Decisive— One of the chief reasons for opposition to Richard Whitney as president of the Stock Exchange was the conviction that he had flattered his public relations job. Now some of the members who put Gay across went to go a step further and hire a publicity expert to guide the exchange to new popularity. This idea is the subject of lively argument behind the scenes. Those who want such a counsellor can't agree on his identity—and there's another potent faction which contends that the engagement of a professional propagandist would defeat its own purpose. Although Chairman Kennedy of the Securities commission is not officially a party to the discussion his views are likely to be decisive.

Prestige— Secretary of Labor Frances Perkins and Assistant Secretary Edward McGrady are credited here with clever handling of the auto strike. The smartest angle was McGrady's refusal to have anything to do with Leo Wolman's Auto Labor Board. This gesture was beautifully calculated to win the confidence of the strikers. If he can negotiate a settlement which gives the unions anything to gloat about, the Department's prestige with labor will shoot to the skies.

Monopoly

Several investment banking firms are getting worried about a bill passed by the New York legislature which gives the Public Service commission authority to require that utility bond issues be awarded to the highest bidder in a sealed bid competition. If the commission takes this seriously it will be tough luck for investment houses which had certain utility groups as steady clients. Such monopolies were pleasant and profitable and it certainly pains the boys to think that they may be cancelled.

Precedence

Many vice president of New York banks are as jealous of their seniority as guests at a state dinner. When two institutions are transacting business custom dictates that the junior retailer must call on the senior vice versa. Relative seniority is often hard to establish—but insiders comment that many V. P.'s could give pointers to Alice Longworth and Dolly Gass in the gentle art of claiming precedence.

Work Proposals Far In Excess Of Total Funds

WASHINGTON, (AP)—Work relief proposals already in the hands of the government were estimated authoritatively Monday to total $20,000,000, five times the fund which President Roosevelt has to spend.

This estimate was made as the works allotment board, charged with advising the president as to what projects should be undertaken, prepared to have its first formal meeting at the white house Tuesday.

Ready for consideration by the board were $100,000,000 of non-federal public works, already approved by secretary Ickes, and $10,000,000 of PWA projects and interior department allotments which previously were impounded to finance the relief administration while the work relief bill was in congress.

Although requirements which co-operating cities and states must meet, remain unmet, and several congressional inays, state officials and civic leaders continued to visit the capital in numbers to seek some of the work relief money.

Requests already listed range from $888,503,900 suggested for projects approved by the national rivers and harbors convention to a mosquito eradication program near Galveston, Texas, estimated to cost $50,000.

Only two of the agencies designated to spend the $4,000,000,000 work fund have been given "go" orders. They are the civilian conservation corps and the new rural resettlement division.
