AND DALE RY CHARGED HOUSE SOLONS

of Representatives F. A. H. Moore from the house of Representatives was recommended last Monday of the house of Representatives by nine investigating members against them.

It said that the charges against them were "unsubstantiated" and recommended that the house should impose the lightest punishment of which it is capable. Recommendations were made that if the house should report, such adoption will be the grounds for expulsion. Moore and Dale were charged with conduct "unbecomingly unbecoming" and "entirely unjustified" on with an alleged transaction with Willis Chamberlain, Houston, who told state rank officers and members that he would pay $1,000 to get an unreported Moore's bill to pass.

Moore were both in their report was read. Chamberlain, legislative chairman of the Texas optometry association, committee in open hearing offered to "fix things" for a report on the optometrists which would have taxed optometrists $50 annually as optometrists are now taxed.

Moore, author of the bill, returned to Dale, and that Moore returned last Wednesday when the alleged transaction worked out in Moore's hotel.

Captains Frank Harner and William, forwarned by Chamberlain, of arresting Dale near a house, and taking from him $1,000 marked bills which Chamberlain handed him shortly after Moore's room.

Moore on the stand, claimed that he was "forced" on him as a Chamberlain, who Dale said he feared of house contempt and account of lobbying activities, assessment of optometry as members $15 each for lobbying.

Moore said he knew nothing of the transaction and that no reference was made to him when the three were in the room shortly before arrest was made.

STOREY WILL TEACH VOCATIONAL AGRICULTURE AT TALCO, TEX.

W. D. T. Storey, former superintendent of Littlefield schools a year ago, has accepted a position of teaching vocational agriculture at Talco, Texas.

There are three schools in the district, Stonewall and Argo, Storey having charge of this district in each of these schools.

Storey received this week by letter, he asks that the address on the paper be changed to Talco, emphasizing the fact that when his subscription expires to advise him at Talco as he does not want to miss a letter.

Storey economists have declared the installment plan is sound, and we may expect to see a fall in installment buying.

DEPRIEST IS OUT ON BOND PENDING THE GRAND JURY

Jim Depriest, arrested last week by City Marshal L. W. Wynn, on charge of having intoxicating liquor in his possession, was released last Friday on bond at a preliminary hearing before Justice Christian, pending the action of the grand jury. D. S. Depriest, arrested at the same time, was released.

According to Wynn, he found two half-gallon fruit jars containing liquor under the seat of a Chevrolet car parked in front of the Palace theatre, and said to belong to Jim Depriest. Confiscating the liquor, he "waited around" until the owner of the car arrived, and the two men were placed under arrest, Wynn said.

SONGSTERS FROM MANY COMMUNITIES HERE SUNDAY P. M.

A songfest of superexcellence, attended by several hundred musicians and music lovers, was held at the new Baptist church last Sunday afternoon, it being the first musical event of its kind since the congregation began occupying the new structure. That it was an initiatory event well worthy a dedicatory service to the rites of sacred music, is the consensus of opinion expressed by many who had the pleasure of partaking of this soulful service.

There were big delegations present from Whitharrel, Lums Chapel, Amherst, and several here from Lubbock, Sudan and other neighboring towns and communities. Citizens from Littlefield turned out en masse for the service. Several quartets were rendered. The Bryant Bros., sweet singers from Lums Chapel, were here, Clarence Davis, C. B. Edgars, and Robert Armstrong, song leaders from Whitharrel, were on the program. Mrs. "Happy" Jordan, Mrs. Jake Hopping and Miss Lulu Strawn presided at the piano. Solos were rendered by Judge R. C. Hopping, of Lubbock, Zeb Robinson, Jake Hopping, Walter Burlison, Lloyd Robinson, M. L. Garrett and J. J. Eagen, of Littlefield. "Happy" Jordan, of Littlefield, was the chief officiating functionary and chairman extraordinary of the occasion.

At the close of the service, it was the expression of many attending, that this should be only the first of a series of similar song services that should be continued here indefinitely.

TAX COLLECTORS HAVE TROUBLES; MAY GO TO H— AT THE LAST

It's an old saying, "Every trade and profession has its drawbacks," and collecting taxes is no exception, according to E. C. Curly and E. G. Courtney, tax gatherers for the City of Littlefield and the Littlefield Independent School District, respectively.

Most people, they say, pay their taxes in a very pleasant businesslike manner, but occasionally some fellow gets "hard-boiled," attempts to intimidate the collector, damns the government, rails at the officials for being a bunch of "blockheads, dumbbells, public crooks," etc.

Only one day last week Courtney was telling of a citizen of this town who had a good deal of grumbling to do about the small sum of $1.00 school taxes he recently paid. Inquiry brought out the fact that this man had three children in the Littlefield schools, it costing him only thirty-three and one-third cents per year per child for their education. "Pretty cheap education," remarked Courtney, and yet this fellow did considerable complaining about it.

Cundiff also has his troubles. Here is a sample contained in a letter recently received by him:

"Dear Sir:

"I got your letter about what I owe you. New please be pashunt. I ain't forgot you. When some fools pay me I pay you. If this was the judgement day and you was no more prepared to meet your Maker than I am to meet your account, you would have to go to hell.

"Hoping that you will do this, I remain, yours very truly,

Verily, the task of the tax collector from the time of Szechus down to the present day is no alibate.

TECH COLLEGE TO HAVE A SUMMER SCHOOL, JUNE 7th

Lubbock, Texas, Feb. 9. A twelve weeks summer school at Texas Technological college, is announced to begin Tuesday, June 7, and close Friday, August 26, the session to be divided into two terms of six weeks each.

Work of college grade in schools of liberal arts, agriculture, engineering and home economics will be offered, the entire school plant being available for summer students. Many of the faculty members, assisted by other specialists of recognized standing, will offer both regular and special courses.

Since the climate of Lubbock is unusually pleasant the summer sessions will be featured. It is expected that many teachers from the lower and warmer climates will attend here, combining a pleasant vacation with a period of profitable study. The altitude of Lubbock is 3,251 feet.

Last summer a trip to the famous Carlsbad cavern was sponsored by the institution, and proved a most interesting feature. This trip will be repeated this year, with the probability that other trips of special or historical interest will be planned. Those who bring their automobiles to Lubbock will find many points of interest in the great Plains country which may be visited with pleasure and profit.

TWO BASKETBALL GAMES WITH THE RESULTS MIXED

The Sudan high school girls played the Littlefield girls here Friday evening, with a resulting score of 21-17 in favor of the visitors.

Immediately following the game with the girls, the Morton boys team played the Littlefield high school boys team with a resulting score of 35-5 in favor of Littlefield.

The Lockney girls will be here Friday evening for a game with the Littlefield high school girls.

CO. GAMES AT AMHERST

The county basketball tournament will be held at Amherst next Friday and Saturday.

School teams from Sudan, Olton, Spring Lake, Littlefield and Amherst will be entered to determine the championship of the county.

SPRING LAKE MEETING

The County Interscholastic League meet will be held at Spring Lake the first and second days of April.

LITTLEFIELD GIRL IS FOUND HANGING

That a fatal step may end the most happy life has often been proven true. Even the most refined, the most cultured and best loved are no exception to such a fate. A father's devotion, a mother's fond care, or a brother's or sister's beloved companionship will not even shield them when a desire to take that step has been once yielded to.

This fact was vividly illustrated last Monday evening when one of the highest educated, most beautiful and vivacious girls of Littlefield, who was surrounded by all the luxuries that go to make life happy, was found hanging in the home parlor of her parents.

Late in the evening she had been missed. A careful search had failed to reveal her whereabouts. The telephone had been persistently used without any definite results. Friends and neighbors were called to assist in the search. Finally the almost heart-broken mother returned to the parlor, and there to her intense horror and surprise, found her beloved daughter hanging to her sweetheart's neck and begging him to subscribe for the Lamb County Leader, that he might be better informed as to the current news of the community.

MORAL: A $1.50 invested in your home paper is merely using good judgement.

SCOUT EXPERT WILL SPEAK HERE AT A UNION MEETING

John C. Campbell, of San Antonio, deputy regional boy scout executive, will deliver an address at union services to be held in the Baptist church next Sunday evening. He has had 20 years experience as a speaker and as an executive in Boy Scout work.

His address will be made to commemorate the 17th anniversary of the Scouts in America, this anniversary being observed all over the United States.

The Scouts are contesting to see which patrol will be able to get the largest number of parents and friends to attend this meeting. They will pin ribbons on those members they get to attend, and the people having the same color of ribbon will be asked to stand and be counted. The winning patrol will be presented with a prize.

It is promised that there will be something interesting for every mother and dad, and every boy and girl at the Baptist church next Sunday evening.

TRACES OF OIL WERE FOUND THURSDAY O'DONNELL WELL

Drilling for water at a depth of 142 feet, oil showings were found on a tract about 10 miles west of O'Donnell, in the extreme southern part of Lynn county last Thursday. The samples have been taken from the well and oil tests are being made in an effort to determine the possibility of a large pool in that section.

The discovery was made after a stratum of water had been found in a well about a year ago, the oil showing after the flow of water had subsided. The hole caved in when efforts were made to bale out some of the oil, and the well was abandoned, reports state. The new finding is the result of the drilling of another well some distance away, the oil showing at the same depth as in the old well.

R. B. Campbell, of San Angelo, a well known geologist, has a sample of the crude which he says will be fully tested.

COTTON SAMPLES BURN

About 6:30 Tuesday evening, two sacks of cotton samples in the rooms of Street and Arnold upstairs in the Hopping building, caught fire, the origin of the fire being unknown. Quick action on the part of Arnold in throwing the sacks out of the window saved the building and contents from any damage.

Knockers aim high, always hitting at the man on top.

And George Did It

George T. Sutherland, of Trenton, S. C., is "Cotton King," winning the crown and reward for having raised more cotton per acre in 1926 than any other planter in the state.

GOOD LENDING.
GOV. SMITH—MR. McADOO.
IF CARNEGIE.
1,000,000,000 FOR GOLF.

If North and South America cannot set before the rest of the world an example of peace and common sense, something is wrong with North or South America. This year the Latin Republic will spend $100,000,000 developing railroads, and most of the money will be borrowed in the United States. Chile is negotiating a $40,000,000 loan in New York to electrify the Chilean State Railways. Apparently those South American republics have public officials sufficiently honest and competent to manage State railways.

The financing of desirable industrial enterprises in South America by United States banks is a useful investment for American money.

When Andrew Carnegie sold his mills to United States Steel he would accept only special bonds, wouldn't take preferred stock as a gift, laughed at the common stock saying it wasn't even water, it was "air." Recent figures would surprise and probably annoy Mr. Carnegie's Scotch thrift. The steel company in 1926 earned $199,004,741, enough to pay $17.96 a share on the common stock, a new record of peace-time prosperity in the steel business.

One billion dollars will be spent on new golf courses and clubhouses this year, including the cost of 1,000 new golf clubs starting and maintenance of old clubs. If the nation could build a thousand new flying machines, one for each new golf club, to protect the links and placid gentlemen playing on them, it would be a good thing.

Dry raiders seize $25,000 worth of "blending" machinery used in manufacture of Benedictine, use, and other liquors. The "blending" has been going on, full blast, for four months. Many an American has damaged his mucous membrane, absorbing the product of that machinery.

Governor Ritchie, of Maryland, himself widely discussed in connection with the Democratic Presidential nomination, says Governor Smith, of New York, "is the outstanding Democrat in the United States."

On the other hand, Mr. Milton, editor of the Chattanooga News says William G. McAdoo is the only man for Democrats to nominate. Mr. Milton says Governor Smith cannot be nominated because "the country is seventy per cent dry, and no wet can be elected to the Presidency." Governor Smith's friends say, "wait, and see."

John D. Rockefeller still has the New York Stock Exchange seat that he bought in 1883, forty-four years ago. He never uses it, keeps it perhaps to remind him of old days when he was making money for himself before he began spending his millions in Rockefeller Foundations, Institutes, fighting disease—for other people.

That seat, which probably cost Mr. Rockefeller less than $50,000 he could sell now for $180,000. If he holds it a little longer, it will be worth $200,000.

Russian husbands and wives will be interested in their mail from now on. For a divorce you simply notify the authorities that you want it, then send word to your better half through the post office and that settles it. You are divorced.

In China the thing is more serious. The natives hate strangers as cats hate dogs. They are tired of watching foreigners spend money, having courts and territory of their own, and are glad when the time comes to murder a few. The murdering seems to be close at hand.

Uncle Sam has some of his ships there, and unpleasant news may be expected.

After the Boxer rebellion, when the other nations compelled the Chinese to pay millions in damages, this nation handed the money back.

But that won't help our popularity. When Europe was in trouble, Uncle Sam sent an army of two hundred thousand men, and thousands of mil-

THIS IS THE PROPER WAY TO SHEAR A SHEEP

Read Clockwise

The pictures, with printed instructions illustrate and describe briefly a system of shearing sheep that has been developed by the thousands of professional shearers of America and Australia.

While slight modifications in the directing of the strokes taken with the shear are made by different shearers, the beginner should follow the instructions as closely as possible.

1 Shear up squarely on its rump. Grasp sheep firmly between knees. Have pedestal of the machine two feet to right and a little back. Begin at point of breast, making strokes downward. In this position never allow sheep's head to fall back between your legs. After shearing breast, grasp sheep's right fore leg, pulling up well, at same time pressing in with left knee. This curves sheep's body to left in which position three or four strokes should be run down from under sheep's right fore leg to flank. These strokes open a starting place for strokes across belly.

2 The sheep's right foreleg is folded and held under your right knee, leaving sheep further back on its rump. Remove belly wool with strokes nearly straight around across belly. Hold shear loosely in the hand, with rear end well out from sheep's body to bring points of comb teeth down on sheep's skin. Make strokes carefully, with comb cutting full width. Be sure that teeth of comb are down on skin as stroke is ended, to overcome the necessity of making second cuts. Continue strokes across belly until all belly wool is removed, when it can be kept separate from fleece wool if desired.

3 Now turn sheep a little to right and legs it further back on its rump to shear in side of right hind leg. Hold sheep's left fore leg under arm. With side of hand now on sheep's left hind leg, make a handful of skin and wool on front side of sheep's hind leg at same time. Turn the wool and skin with arm and right hand straight to sheep's hind leg in position for shearing. Never hold sheep's hind test backwards by drawing the foot to pull it out straight. All strokes in shearing the inside of right hind leg should be from the foot in towards the tail. When shearing inside of right hind leg is finished, roll sheep over a little to right and shear inside of left hind leg with strokes out towards foot. This completes shearing on.

4 Now turn sheep a little to left and legs it further back on its rump to shear in side of left hind leg. Hold sheep's right fore leg under arm. With side of hand now on sheep's right hind leg, make a handful of skin and wool on front side of sheep's hind leg at same time. Turn the wool and skin with arm and right hand straight to sheep's hind leg in position for shearing. Never hold sheep's hind test backwards by drawing the foot to pull it out straight. All strokes in shearing the inside of left hind leg should be from the foot in towards the tail. When shearing inside of left hind leg is finished, roll sheep over a little to right and shear inside of right hind leg with strokes out towards foot. This completes shearing on.

5 Shear left shoulder and fore leg in position shown in this picture. Shearer has not moved feet and only moved sheep by straightening it up by drawing the foot to pull it out straight. All strokes in shearing shoulder should be run towards back, but not entirely to back bone, each one ending with comb teeth well down on skin. With the left fore leg now under your left knee, the shearer is now ready to put sheep in position to shear left hind leg as shown in the next picture.

6 Shear right shoulder and fore leg in position shown in this picture. Shearer has not moved feet and only moved sheep by straightening it up by drawing the foot to pull it out straight. All strokes in shearing shoulder should be run towards back, but not entirely to back bone, each one ending with comb teeth well down on skin. With the right fore leg now under your right knee, the shearer is now ready to put sheep in position to shear right hind leg as shown in the next picture.

7 Now the sheep is finished, note the unbroken blanket of wool and the smooth appearance of the skin. No ripples, no ashes or cuts. By following this method you will always get the best results.

10 As last long stroke is taken up back ending near sheep's right ear, bring your right foot forward close up to sheep's back even with shoulders, leaving sheep lying flat on side and without lifting sheep more than to raise its head. This picture shows the position having sheared right side of sheep's head and ready to shear right side of neck with strokes running down to shoulder. As the neck is being shorn, move both feet back, but one, then, the other in short steps holding sheep firmly between legs and rolling it into a more upright position as you shear towards the shoulder.

11 This picture shows how the shearer has put the sheep in position for shearing right hind leg by raising its head and moving his feet still further back to let sheep settle down on its left side. In shearing the right hind leg, strokes should start near the back bone and run well out on leg. As finishing continues towards tail, shearer has sheep down flat on its left side and takes position shown in next picture.

12 The sheep is here shown as it is being finished. Shearer, if he wishes, can drop onto his right knee, but sheep's head should be held over against its right side, and head kept straight by pressing hand in flank as shown. As mentioned before, hind leg should never be pulled out for shearing. If this is done the sheep will start to kick. With leg held straight as shown in this picture sheep cannot yank leg back against comb teeth.

One of the most significant events in the automotive industry now is the series of nation wide sales meetings of the Chevrolet Motor Co., now in progress, according to W. W. Gillette, local Chevrolet dealer.

Mr. Gillette will attend the meeting of this company to be held in Dallas, April 14th, which several hundred dealers are expected to attend. Gillette says R. H. Grant, vice-president and general sales manager, will have charge of the Dallas meeting, and at that time will outline a comprehensive sales campaign which is said to be the biggest ever suggested by any automobile manufacturer. Playlets will demonstrate new policies of sales, advertising, service and used car merchandising under the 1927 program. There will also be several department head officials present to take part in the program, according to Gillette.

Aztecs No Relatives of American Indians

In the early eighties, two Aztecs, a girl and a boy, were shown in Scotland by a man and woman who exploited them.

As the story of their discovery and kidnaping goes, rumors of the existence of two Aztec children reached the Gulf coast, says a writer in Adventure Magazine. Some adventurers penetrated the hinterland and discovered the two Aztec children, who were posed on the altar of the temple by the priest of the cult as subjects for veneration, possibly—if the traditions of the Aztecs be rightly handed down to us—held until the time for sacrifice to the god came due. The children were kidnaped and, after a bitter struggle with their pursuers, were brought to the coast and smuggled aboard ship, and eventually came into the hands of the couple.

After careful analysis of the physical characteristics of the Aztecs, it may be said they differed from the Amerindian in many ways and were an entirely different race of people from the red man—any nation or people of the Amerindians. The head, the features, eyes, mouth, nose, jaw and chin had no resemblance to any Indian nation or people, or even to the mixed races of the red man, which range from the Slave lake of northern Canada to Patagonia in South America. The outstanding difference was in the hair. The hair of the Aztecs was a long, frizzy shock that stood upright from the forehead.

Ancients Made War on Tooth Troubles

Dental therapeutics dates from a very remote epoch. It is not known when this art commenced, but it is well known that the Egyptians practiced it to a considerable extent. On a papyrus scroll estimated to date back 3,700 years before Christ, which was found buried at the feet of the god Anubis, there were found written remedies against painful molars and a way to alleviate other troubles of the teeth by means of pulverized drugs. The art of "filling" is very old. Egyptian mummies have been found with molar cavities very carefully closed. Others have artificial teeth which show that in very ancient times this dental process was known. The Chinese cured toothache 2,700 years before our era. One of their methods was to put iron rust in the cavities.

Music of the Desert

During the holy month of Ramadan, when the Mussulman feasts only after sundown, the Sudanese revellie awakes the sleeping soldier at midnight. It is the voice of the desert itself, expressed by sons of the desert. The golden notes of swayed bugles rising in the silent night, and the swelling roll of the drums, are thrilling beyond description, because they are the vocal spirit of an intangible something that always touches the soul of man. The deep velvet sky, the glowing planets, the vastness and silence of the desert, the utter absence of distraction, make it a blending of perfect beauty; so perfect that one scarcely breathes for fear of breaking an illusion.—William A. Anderson in Adventure Magazine.

"Look here what I bought for that dog of Junior's," Mr. Burton announced, throwing a package on the table.

Mrs. Burton unwrapped it. "Why George!" she exclaimed. "A dog collar, of all things!"

"Yes, and I gave $3.50 for it," Mr. Burton related.

"Three dollars and a half!" echoed Mrs. Burton. "What on earth! I don't understand! You've always said you had no use on earth for Junior's dog and you wished somebody would steal it."

"Yes, that's just it," Mr. Burton agreed. "With that collar on it some one will be sure to steal it now."—Kansas City Star.

A Heroic Remedy

It was a dark night. Murky clouds obscured the moon in such a way as to make driving dangerous in the uncertain light.

A car was approaching the level crossing, traveling swiftly round the corner which led to the closed gates. At that precise moment an express train thundered through.

Too late, the driver of the car saw his danger. He tried to swerve, but a skid was the only result. With a loud crash he struck the last coach, and the car crumpled up on the track.

Silence for a few minutes. Then a voice:

"Well, it's cured my hiccup, anyway,"—and the driver crawled out of the wreck.

Models of the Firmament

A model of the heavens, which is remarkable in a great many ways, and which was constructed in Berlin some time ago, is about to make a tour of the world and will be shown in all the large cities. The constellations enter a large dome-shaped concrete building which is unlighted. Suddenly thousands of glittering stars appear in what seems to be the infinite sky. More marvelous, suns and planets begin their majestic march across the heavens. In a few moments intricate celestial motions are revealed so simple that you, who perhaps never have opened an astronomy book, can understand mysteries of the universe that puzzled scientists for centuries.

A "42" TOURNAMENT

A "42" tournament will be held in the high school gymnasium Saturday night, the proceeds of which will go to the school library fund.

Preparations are being made to lay 20 tables for the players, who will each be asked to contribute the nominal and much desired sum of 50 cents to the exchequer for library purposes. Other interesting entertainment will be furnished those not skilled in the above named game, and there will be a round of eats, commonly called "delicious refreshments," for everyone present.

Since it is a requirement of the State that Littlefield must raise at least $1,000 for additional library purposes, and since every citizen here is interested in securing the very highest affiliation possible for the Littlefield schools, it is desired by those in charge that this function be well attended.

Don't forget to bring your 50 cents—or a pair of quarters will do!

A THOUGHT FOR THE WEEK

Weeping may endure for a night, but joy cometh in the morning.

Psalms 30:5.

The mind profits by the wreck of every passion, and we may measure our road to wisdom by the sorrows we have undergone. Bulwer-Lytton.

RUNNING NEWSPAPERS

Several of our contemporary newspaper editors have been recently remarking about the difference between various professions, and come to think about it, they are quite right.

For instance, a lawyer will charge a client $5.00 for ten minutes consultation, and the same fellow will kick like the devil if he has to pay the newspaper man $2.50 for advertising the thing the lawyer charged him the "V" spot in advising him to do.

A doctor will charge $1.00 for a prescription that took him about three minutes to write, and the patient will thank him generously and ask him to have a cigar; but if, in spite of the prescription the fellow finally dies, his family kicks like the devil if the editor charges 50 cents for a card of thanks in the newspaper conveying their "appreciation" its subscribers, 95 per cent of whom haven't done anything for the deceased, don't know him, if they do don't care if he is dead, and some of them may actually be glad he has checked out.

The undertaker will charge $100 for the plainest kind of a burial outfit, and in addition receives numerous smiles and compliments for his "charming manner" in which he conducts the funeral, while if the newspaper editor gets the news story or obituary somewhat confused, he is balled out clear from "Dap to Bethesda, and if he charges five cents a line for three or four newspapers containing the story, he is a contemptible, stingy cuss that ought to be horse-whipped for having no pity on folks in their time of bereavement and ought to be run out of town, and, occasionally, some one tries to do it.

When folks go to get married the county clerk gets a substantial fee, provided by law for writing out the license; the minister pulls down from $5.00, upwards. If the merchant who sells the wedding outfit to the bride and groom happens to know about the contemplated alliance, he gets a little better price for his goods, because for this particular occasion they are generally eager to pay it. But the newspaper editor may walk a mile and waste two hours trying to get the details of the nuptial event, and then if he mis-describes the bride's gown or gets an initial wrong in his story, which otherwise would make strangers think the newly weds were intimate relation of the very elite of creation, then his soul is Rotterdam, Heligoland, an infinitum.

We have actually known some folks to buy "gold bricks" and then apologize for not investing in them sooner; but the same folks did not subscribe to their home town paper.

Verily, if the newspaper editor finally gets to heaven, it will be because all he did was w-right-e.

Evidently one mistake China has made is in having her rivers deep enough for gunboats to swim in.

THE DEPOT LIGHTS

According to the State Line Tribune, (Farwell, Texas) of last week, electric lights are soon to be placed in and around the Santa Fe depot at that point. The Tribune says, "The decision means that the station here will no longer be a place of gloomy, creepy shadows, but will be bright and cheerful. Instead of being a place to be avoided except at the last minute possible to board a train, it will be a place where waiting can be done in comparative comfort, and the time passed in reading."

The description given by Editor Graham exactly fits conditions of the depot at Littlefield where efforts have been made for many months past to have electric lights displace the old smutty, stinking coal oil lamps whose insufficient blaze is seldom sufficient for transacting business at the ticket window.

Just why electric lights should be placed in the Texico-Farwell depot is difficult to understand. Surely the Santa Fe does not intend to treat all stations alike in this respect. It would doubtless entail a considerable expense that could hardly be afforded by such a large corporation. But it may be that a recent operation at Rochester, Minn., has been productive of more than corporeal results; a new superintendent may possibly be on the job, or, Farwell-Texico may not even be in the Slaton division. At any rate Littlefield would like to see electric lights in th old wooden depot moved here from Canyon.

The biggest monument doesn't necessarily mean that the man under it is going to wear the finest crown in heaven.

THIS PROVES IT

We've been arguing right along, ever since radio sets made their appearance, that it was destined to become a fine thing for those who live in rural districts.

Now, we have proof of it. Last week while arguments over laws to regulate broadcasting were under way in congress several representatives arose to declare that immediate relief must be had because the farmers are depending on radio to help them in their work; that radio has come to be such a valuable thing for the rural districts and small towns that it must not be neglected nor allowed to fall into control of speculators who are seeking to "hog the air."

If congress is passing legislation to regulate radio broadcasting because it is a blessing to the farmer then we need offer no further proof that we know what we are talking about when we said it would some day be seen in that light. And now we want to make one more radio prediction, even if some of our Littlefield friends feel that we are crazy when we do so.

We are going to predict that in less than ten years radio will be in more general use than the telephone. If the service would be any better we would like to see the change made during the next ten minutes.

One thing the world is now looking for is the reformer who has a reform that will add to life instead of taking from it.

WHERE ARE THEY

What has become of a lot of the things we once thought we couldn't get along without?

Where are the old cuff holders we used before the cuffs came attached to the shirt, and how about the "rats" the ladies used to fix up in their hair?

Where are hat pins, and the old hunting-case watches, the kind you had to pop open when you wanted to see the time of day?

Where are the pug dogs and the brown derby hats and the watch charms made in the shape of a little basket cleverly carved out of a peach seed?

We invite Littlefield citizens who pride themselves on their memories to come forward with the information. Tell us what has become of these things, and then tell us some of the things we now look on as necessities that will also be among the missing when another generation comes on earth.

We sometimes wonder if the insurance company that carried a policy on Methuselah ever stayed in business long enough to settle with his family.

ONE UNLUCKY DAY

Littlefield people who are more or less superstitious and who look on "Friday the thirteenth" as a time to be unusually cautious will be glad to know that by a curious freak of the calendar there will be but one such day to look forward to in 1927. The thirteenth comes on Friday but once this year, and that in the month of May, instead of several times as it has in former years.

No year escapes Friday on the thirteenth, and yet every time it comes somebody discovers that it is unlucky for them. Every accident on that date looms larger than if it happened at any other time, and every poor business deal is explained by the alibi that it was made on an unlucky day. So for the relief of those who contend that it is a day of bad luck we are glad to point out that this year ought to be lucky for everyone, because there is but one Friday falling on the thirteenth.

LITTLE LEADERS

The Littlefield man who used to sleep through long sermons now merely switches off the radio.

Very few Littlefield women will admit they are older than their husbands, but they nearly all agree they are wiser.

There are still about 783,000,000 ways for the average Littlefield citizen to get into trouble besides talking too much.

Preparedness is a fine thing, and it won't be long now before Littlefield citizens will be picking out a place to dig fishing worms.

A Littlefield four-flusher remarked to us the other day that if one is a slave to custom he will always be accustomed to slave.

Nobody can feel more important than the average Littlefield man feels just after he has succeeded in threading a needle for his wife.

Every now and then some autoist around Littlefield discovers that the poorest way to get out of a car is through the windshield.

This day and time the average Littlefield woman doesn't pay as much attention to loving her neighbors as she pays in trying to keep up with them.

The average father and mother in Littlefield may belong to the same church, but one can hardly ever tell it by looking at the family pew on Sunday morning.

One reason Littlefield girls let their beaux do all the talking during courting time is that they know they will need all their jaw power after the honeymoon is over.

Even in Littlefield there are a few folks who believe that if they get ahead in this world they will get behind in the next. But we don't know of any of them that are practicing that belief.

Verily, he who sitteth on a throne or in a presidential chair hath no more trouble than the Littlefield man who sitteth at the steering wheel of the family flier with his wife in the back seat. Selah!

We don't imagine any Littlefield citizens will pay $25 a minute telephoning from this country to England when they can get all the wrong numbers they want right at home for about $3.00 per month.

A Vermont judge has ruled that at least one egg must be used in a custard pie. Now we will all be sitting jake if we can get some Littlefield official of the proper authority to make a similar ruling regarding oyster soup and strawberry shortcake.

The Parent-Teachers' Association is to be commended for the active interest being taken in Littlefield schools. Our public schools are one of our greatest assets, and this association should be given full co-operation in all its worthy endeavors toward making them better.

More and more the women of our farm homes are convincing their husbands of the advisability of diversity through the products they are obtaining from a few cows and hens. Hones that enjoy those products go a long way toward self-sustenance. The more we have of them the better off this community will become.

All over the state the press is speaking favorably of Governor Moody, and every indication is that the young governor is starting off well. His first message to the legislature was sane, sound and sensible. His appointments to date have all been well chosen. Of course, he will have his share of criticism before his term is ended; but present indications are that he is made of the stuff required for a real governor.

There are very few farm homes in the vicinity of Littlefield but have sufficient water for general purposes, and there will be little excuse for any home not having a garden this year. Any windmill pulling an ordinary stream of water will easily irrigate a plot of ground sufficient to supply any family with plenty of garden truck during the summer months. And don't forget to plant a few trees, a vine or two over the west windows and some flowers.

Whether there is much oil in this section of country no one knows yet. That there is some oil here there is no doubt. There are at least three wells around Littlefield that show traces of oil in more or less quantity, two of them bubbling gas in sufficient quantity that the odor is readily distinguishable. It is sincerely hoped the Yellow House test will be continued until those in authority are well satisfied as to the real oil status of this section.

The second month of 1927 has already begun, and our citizens are beginning to get "located" again for the year. Disappointment in low prices of cotton and feed products of the past year are gradually fading from memory, and the belts of progressive citizens are being tightened another notch for future endeavors. Everything at present looks favorable for another year of good crops. With diversification the order of the day, backed up by plenty of common sense and industry, this should be the best year in the history of Lamb county.

EARLY SPRING

Despite fashions forecasts to the contrary, figured and print silks are getting the call in advanced spring models, this pretty dress for the year being one of the best.

A year or two ago it was a favorite pastime with East Texas papers to tell their readers that we were all starving out in this country, and that our principal leaders were just a bunch of consummate liars—and, strange to say, occasionally they got away with it. Last year, however, we raised better crops than East Texas did, and this year the crops were the best in the history of the state. This newspaper goes to quite a number of subscribers living on the other side of Dallas, and in our mind we can already hear some of those denizens say of its editor, "You're another!"

Peter, three year old Crown Prince of Serbia, is the smallest heir to a throne. He weighed only a little more than four pounds at birth.

Of Need in Armenian Quake Zone

THIS dramatic poster by G. Patrick Nelson, prize winner in the thousand dollar contest conducted by Henry Morgenthau for the best poster for the Golden Rule Sunday campaign of the Near East Relief, tells in graphic fashion the story of the Armenian earthquake. Primarily intended to promote peace and better understanding throughout the world and to attract world wide attention to the situation in the Near East, where American and foreign philanthropy are caring for an army of war orphans, the day this year will have the additional purpose of aiding victims of the earthquake in Armenia, a large number of them children now under the care of the American Near East Relief. On Golden Rule Sunday people throughout the world are asked to serve in their homes the simple meal of a Near East Relief orphanage and then to contribute as generously as their means will permit to relief work and child welfare work in Bible Lands. The children thus cared for are being trained as apostles of a more peaceful world. Reports submitted to Mr. Berry indicate that last year fifty-one nations joined in the observance of the day. Expect Sixty Countries to Observe Golden Rule Sunday

MORE than sixty nations throughout the civilized world are expected to join in the observance of International Golden Rule Sunday this year, according to Gordon L. Berry, Executive Secretary of the International Near East Association, under whose auspices the day will be celebrated. Originally intended to promote peace and better understanding throughout the world and to attract world wide attention to the situation in the Near East, where American and foreign philanthropy are caring for an army of war orphans, the day this year will have the additional purpose of aiding victims of the earthquake in Armenia, a large number of them children now under the care of the American Near East Relief. response in all civilized countries. Practical application of the Golden Rule is the sole purpose of the observance. Golden Rule Sunday will be celebrated everywhere as a day of self-sacrifice and kindly thoughts toward children in distant lands.

Vickrey Appeals for Million To Aid Armenian Quake Victims

MORE than a million dollars will be required to meet the needs of earthquake victims in Armenia, according to Charles V. Vickrey, general secretary of the Near East Relief, in a nation wide appeal for the observance of International Golden Rule Sunday. This sum will be required to provide adequate medical attention, food, clothing and supplies to the thousands of families made homeless by the earthquake and to care for the nine thousand orphan wards of the relief organization in the Caucasus until June, according to the appeal. Hundreds of villages have been laid waste and many of the huge orphanages caring for the children have been razed. Others are unsafe for use until repairs can be made. Meanwhile children and American relief workers are living in tents in a region in which blizzards and heavy snowstorms are frequent at this time of the year. Reports from the various villages in the earthquake zone indicate that the inhabitants have been forced to construct rude dugouts under ground to protect themselves from the wild, winter weather. With shocks that have continued intermittently for two weeks there has been considerable loss of life in these fragile dwellings.

"Abraham Lincoln"
By VIRGINIA STAGGERS
6-A English

Abraham Lincoln was born in Kentucky, in a small log cabin, near a creek, February 12, 1809.

His father was an honest man who was very strong, and it was more safe to let him alone.

His mother was a very good woman, and he said after he became president, "All I am or ever hope to be, I owe to my mother."

Abe had a sister older than himself. He and she had to bring water from a spring a mile away. They also had pick berries and bring firewood.

When Abe was a little older, he and his sister walked nine miles to a "blab" school, where he learned to read and do sums.

Then his mother died, and he and his father made a rude coffin of pine slabs for her and buried her on a hill.

His father was soon married to another woman who took great interest in both the children.

Abe's step-mother encouraged him to study at home. He read every book he could find within many miles of his home. He read the Bible, Murray's English reader, Robinson Crusoe and Pilgrims Progress. At night Abe had no light beside that of the fireplace. He used to sit by the fire and write with a pen mad from a buzzard's quill and ink made of brier roots.

When Lincoln was 21 Denton Offut erected a store and put Lincoln in charge of it. Lincoln worked in this store almost a year, and was very honest. Then Lincoln's job as store clerk ended and he announced himself as a candidate for the legislature, but he was defeated. He then became postmaster at New Salem. After that he became deputy surveyor of Sangamon county, and was doing well when, in 1834 he announced himself as a candidate for the legislature again, and was elected.

Lincoln was married to Mary Todd in November, 1842. Lincoln was elected president of the United States over Stephen A. Douglas in 1860, and was re-elected in 1864. When Lincoln's friends told him he would surely be defeated for re-election, if he approved another draft of soldiers, he said that the cause did not require his election, but that it did require more soldiers to reinforce the northern armies. So he ordered a new draft for 500,000 men.

When Lee surrendered to Grant in 1865, Lincoln went to Richmond and remained there two days to discuss the plans for the restoration of federal authority. Lincoln said the South would be allowed to take their horses home with them, for they would use them for the spring plowing. Then he came back to Washington.

One evening Lincoln and his wife went to Ford's theatre. Stanton did not want them to go, for he had heard rumors of assassination. Major Rathbone went along as a guard. The President, his wife and Major Rathbone entered their box, and at 10:20 a shot was heard. Major Rathbone grappled with the assassin, but he sprang from the box to the stage and brandishing his bloody dagger, yelled, "sic semper tyrannis," and limped from the stage. Lincoln was not conscious before he died the next morning, April 15, 1865.

The assassin's name was John Wilks Booth. He was a southern actor, and when he shot Lincoln he did his people the greatest possible harm.

The Colour of Real Skin
The pastor of a thriving coloured congregation in Jacksonville was speaking to one of his flock.

"Brother," he said, "I hear very bad reports of your youngest son. That boy doesn't seem to do you much credit."

"Credit?" rejoined this parishioner, "Huh, you puts it mild. That's the worst child ever I seen in my 'hole life. In fact, Elder strick'ly between ourse'fs we regards him ez de w'ite sheep of de family."

Powerless to Sweep of Avalanche

There were several destructive avalanches in the St. Gothard region in 1925 when the railway was damaged at several points and many peasants and workmen were killed. But one rainy Sunday in September, forty-five years ago, 150 persons perished when a large portion of the Plattenbergkopf split off and slid down on the village of Elm.

Early in the day great boulders began to come crashing down with disturbing frequency, and quite a number of men were out watching them. Suddenly they saw a whole cliff sway and topple over. Seventeen minutes later another cliff fell, and, to their horror, the doomed villagers saw that the mountain had thus been undermined, and was poised over thin air far above them. Four minutes later it fell, shattered into millions of fragments, and came sliding down at terrific speed. Through the village went the avalanche, across the tranquil meadows of the valley, and up the opposite mountain-side for a couple of hundred feet, when it diverged right and left, like the wash of a spent wave, for many hundred yards.

Douglas Fir Entirely Distinct Tree Species

The Douglas fir, a native of the Northwest but now being planted extensively in the East, is becoming a popular Christmas tree, according to the American Forestry association. The species was named for a Scotch botanist who discovered it on an expedition in 1825, but its scientific name is pseudotsuga, meaning "false hemlock." As a matter of fact, it is neither a hemlock nor a fir, and though it is sometimes called a spruce, it isn't that either. The tree belongs to an entirely distinct species. The tree most commonly used for Christmas trees is a real fir—the balsam, so called because its blister-like packets yield the resinous liquid known as Canada balsam, which is used among other things for attaching cover plates to microscope slides.

Ay, That's the Rub

The word "scrape," meaning a difficulty or some unfortunate predicament, has several synonyms, as "rub," "squeeze," "pinch," etc., all of which are younger than the term "scrape," and of slightly different interpretation. "Getting into a scrape" came from Scotland, and the expression is as old as the ancient and honorable game of golf. In Scotland a rabbit's hole or burrow is called a "scrape." When a player's ball rolled into one of these holes it was manifestly impossible to play it, and the rules of the game recognized this fact by naming but a slight penalty for the player. He merely "got into a scrape."—Chicago Journal.

York Minster Bells

At a recent special service in York Minster, England, the famous bells of the cathedral which had been recast and hung were rededicated. All the bells, previously a peal of 12, cast in 1840, have been recast with additional metal, and a new semi-tone bell has been added between the sixth and seventh, thus completing the middle ring of eight in E flat. The peal now consists of 13 bells, with the largest, or tenor, bell weighing three tons, and is said to be one of the finest peals in England. In addition, there is Big Peter, weighing nearly 11 tons, the third largest in the country, the larger being Big Paul and Big Ben.

Kissing Discovered Early

A young Cretan fondly embracing a pretty maid who shyly rests her head on his shoulder is sculptured on a vase recently exhumed on that Cretan isle. It proves that kissing was a popular pastime 15 centuries before Christ and that modern shelds and flappers could teach the Cretans nothing about the "soul kiss." Ages ago the Cretan civilization was buried on this island—perhaps by an earthquake. Now excavations are bringing to light many evidences of the joys, sorrows and loves of the domestic and social life of its ancient inhabitants. They were people much like us.—Copper's Weekly.

Source of Quinine

Cinchona or chinchona is the name of the tree from the bark of which is prepared the valuable medicine called quinine. The tree is a native of South America, growing best on the moist eastern slope of the Andes mountains, but it has been successfully introduced into India, Burma, Ceylon and the West Indies. The bark of this tree is called Peruvian bark, because it was in Peru that the Spaniards first learned of its medicinal properties. It is also known as cinchona bark, and from it quinine is obtained, which in the form of sulphate of quinine has a wide use in the practice of medicine.

Beauty and Good

Indeed, the beautiful is inseparably united to the good and the true, for the very nature of the sense of beauty is such that through it we gain a clearer concept of the other two values. The history of the race has shown that at the height of materialistic success, the desire for artistic enjoyment has been a potent factor in bringing a people back to the higher ideals which underlie a peaceful intercourse between nations.—Herbert Sidney Langford, in "The Aesthetic Attitude."
