Elliott, secretary-treasurer of the Muleshoe Production Credit Association. According to Mr. Elliott, all loans will be made on a business basis and according to the security furnished by the applicant.

"The loans that will be made in this county and the other two counties served by the Muleshoe association must be good loans and loans that are collectable if the association is to continue as a permanent service to farmers in this and other communities, as intended," Mr. Elliott said.

"Fortunately, not all farmers in this county need credit," he continued, "but for those who do, the association stands as a business organization—not as a charity institution. Loans may be obtained for periods of three to twelve months by any eligible farmer or stockman who needs credit and has security; but if a farmer or

COTTON GROUP AT BIG MEETING

Northwest Texas Cotton Growers Association Is Formed

With a season's delivery of over 104,000 bales, representing a turnover of more than $5,000,000 for 1934, the Lubbock district of the Texas Cotton Cooperative Association again placed itself in the upper brackets as the outstanding district of the state. With this record of achievement to its credit and a confidence in its ability to carry on as an independent unit, over 100 farmers representing every section of the district met in Lubbock Friday February 16, and took the initial step in setting up an independent district organization to be known as the North West Texas Cotton Growers' Association with its general office to be located at Lubbock, Texas.

Never since cotton was first planted on the plains has such a keen interest been shown on the part of farmers to organize and maintain a separate cotton marketing association, confining its activities to this great cotton producing section. Entire harmony and a unity of spirit prevailed throughout the meeting which was presided over by M. S. Hudson, chairman of the district organization committee. Dillon E. White, secretary of the state association extended greetings from the Dallas office. R. J. Murray, former general manager of the state association, addressed the assembly, pitching his address upon a high plain of confidence in this section's ability to develop the outstanding regional marketing association of the south.

The afternoon was devoted to business in which all the legal preliminaries were transacted under the guidance of Judge C. K. Bullard, attorney for the state association. Following the adoption of all legal documents, delegates from various districts into which the territory was divided, elected their director on the board of directors. Directors with their respective territories elected were:

District One: D. L. Tucker, Levelland, Hockley, Lubbock and Cochran counties.

District Two: M. S. Hudson, Hale

We Do Our Part

OTHERS ARE WORSE OFF THAN WE

After reading the news from the rest of the world we begin to feel as if we were not as badly off in the United States as a good many people seem to think. At least, we are not on the verge of war with any of our neighbors, and that seems to be the situation of many other nations today.

Observers are pretty nearly unanimous that there will be another great European war in the not far distant future. The friction between France and Germany, instead of subsiding, seems to be growing greater. The longer time Germany has to get ready, the more certain it is that she will again try to assert her equality with her ancient enemy. Once France gets embroiled in the North with Germany, those who watch such things say, Italy will be on France's tail in the South. Italy wants to recover the Mediterranean coast now held by France. Germany wants to recover the Saar Basin, where the iron mines are.

Central and Eastern Europe are in a ferment. Austria is putting up a gallant struggle against the invasion of Nazi propaganda from Germany, which is designed to bring Austria under the German flag, on Austria's South, is watching, and many believe that Hitler and Mussolini may soon be at war.

Over in Asia, Japan and Russia are growling at each other across the Manchurian border. Both sides openly admit the possibility of war. Both Russia and Japan are trying to undermine England's influence in India and Persia. China is still trying to maintain some sort of an effective National government, largely with the help of the British, but the Chinese people have been for years the victims of one armed force after another. Several nations of South America are still in a state of war with their neighbors.

Reflecting on these things, we realize that we are lucky in having peaceful neighbors. If we were scared to death of Canada and nervous about the intentions of Mexico, we might feel ourselves as badly off as France and Austria feel today.

THIS MONEY QUESTION

As nearly as we can understand the money situation and the new gold valuation, it comes down to this:

A dollar is still one hundred cents. Ten cents still make a dime. Ten dollars is still one eagle. The "devaluation" of the dollar is not a reduction of the dollar to 59.04 cents, it is a reduction of 40.96 per cent in the amount of gold that a dollar will buy. The price of gold is now $35 an ounce, instead of $21.26, or whatever the old price was.

The dollar, in other words, is now legally and permanently cheaper in the world's markets. It takes more dollars to buy commodities in international trade. We sell our surplus products to the rest of the world in dollar prices. Other nations have to acquire dollars in order to pay us for them. They get those dollars by the process known as "foreign exchange," which simplifies down to this:

A Frenchman, say, buys American cotton. His money is known as the franc. The franc has a fixed relation to the gold. This relation may vary by a small fraction, from day to day, depending upon the international demand for francs, but it is in effect a fixed relation; so many francs will buy an ounce of gold. Now, we know how many dollars an ounce of gold will buy—35 of them. The Frenchman, therefore, pays for his dollars as many francs as will buy the equivalent amount of gold, and uses those dollars to pay for his purchase of American cotton.

A year ago he could buy only $21 with the franc equivalent of an ounce of gold; now he can buy $35. Cotton from America is that much cheaper to the Frenchman. But have we made him a present? Not at all. The dollar, once it gets to America, is just as good as it was before, and we get more of them for our bales of cotton. The Frenchman can buy more cotton because he gets it cheaper; we get more dollars because gold is higher in our money.

It makes no difference inside our own borders whether we use gold or paper for money, so long as the credit of our government is sound and stands behind every dollar. But it does make a big difference when we sell our products abroad, whether our money is priced too high in gold in comparison with that of other nations.

Chevrolet Employ 56,545 Workers

A new all-time high in employment was achieved by the Chevrolet Motor Company for the week ending February 10 when direct company payrolls totaled 56,545 people, M. E. Coyle, general manager, announced here today.

Through the first fifteen days of the month the company completed the assembly of 33,545 new units which have already been shipped to dealers. This is within 12,000 units of production for the full month of February last year, Mr. Coyle stated.

They did so very ably and some very ably. Joe Hale being the most lengthy speaker. We appreciate their efforts and cooperation and invite them, and all others to be with us again at our next meeting which will be Friday night, March 9, beginning promptly at 8 o'clock.

Chevrolet Car Production Is Greatly Increased

Production of the new 1934 commercial cars and trucks by the Chevrolet Motor Company in January exceeded 24,000 units, with prospects that the same or a higher rate of output would be maintained in February, March and April, according to William K. Holler, general sales manager.

Eds. of trucks at retail reported by dealers in the month just ended set a new high January mark in the history of the company, Mr. Holler added.

As an indication of the growing importance of the truck share of Chevrolet's total volume, Mr. Holler pointed out that in 1933 the company built 130,200 commercial cars and trucks, more than twice the number built in 1932 and the highest annual truck production since 1930.

Original projections for 1934 were considerably above the 1933 output, but the rate at which retail orders are being booked by dealers indicates that even the larger 1934 quota will have to be revised upward, Mr. Holler stated. He pointed out that of some 30 companies building trucks, the output of Chevrolet from the first of this year to date exceeded the total 1933 production of every other manufacturer with but one exception.

ATTRACTIVE

Store Lighting DRAWS TRADE

Have you ever noticed how people have a tendency to stop at attractive, adequately-lighted windows, and usually pass the dim, poorly-lighted ones by? And in stores where there is plentiful illumination, are the stores in which business always seem to thrive? The merchants who employ this most economical sales force know from experience that a good part of their business can be attributed to good lighting, as it makes shopping easier.

"Light Up"... for Profit!

You, too, Mr. Merchant, needn't envy the fellow who seems to get all the trade. You can do the same good business as he with a small investment in that powerful sales force, GOOD LIGHTING. The cost of good lighting is negligible when you find that in no small measure it helps you to sell merchandise. Why not resolve today to employ this sure-fire attention and business getter... for PROFIT?

Homestead Colony To Be Located On South Plains

Approval of the Texas Rural Community homestead colony to be established near Lubbock has recently been given by the board of directors, according to Dr. Bradford Knapp, president of Texas Technological College and member of the board.

This is one of five to be operated in the state. Others are at Woodlake, Nacogdoches, Mexia, and Wichita Falls.

Mrs. H. K. Thompson of Trinity county will be supervisor of the project. Cooperative work in canning and meat curing, in addition to farming, will be done.

Suitable dwellings connected with water, sewage, gas, and electricity are to be constructed. Poultry houses, storage houses, garage, and wash room are to be on each farm to complete the building requirements.

This is an experiment in relief measures and is to provide for selected families of farm experience who are not at the present time on farms and are out of employment.

Each homesteader is to buy the tracts, valued at about $3,500 complete, payable in small installments extend over 20 years.

The administrator of the colony is to determine the major crops to be grown, selecting those which he deems most profitable.

Additional income may be secured from such home industries as weaving, meat curing, livestock feeding, home canning, dairy manufacturing, and poultry production.

Date for occupancy has been set for May 1, 1934.

Crop Production Bill Is Signed

President Roosevelt Friday last signed the $30,000,000 crop production loan bill, with the notation that it should be "considered as a tapering off loan, and should be the last of its kind."

The government last year appropriated $100,000,000 for crop production loans and Mr. Roosevelt observed that this showed a "large loss to the government."

"In approving the bill providing $40,000,000 for emergency crop production loans for 1934," Mr. Roosevelt said, "I do so on the theory that it is proper to taper off the crop loan system rather than to cut it off abruptly. A useful purpose will be served by aiding certain farmers who cannot yet qualify for crop production loans from the newly established production credit associations."

A useful purpose would be served, the president said, by helping farmers who could not yet qualify for crop production loans from the new production credit association. He added, however, that in instances where farmers have security to offer this year, "they should be required to obtain loans from the association which has been established to give farmers a permanent sort of production credit."

Yes, we had a sandstorm on Saturday, while the wind lay about dusk, its effects remained over till next day, perhaps in our homes—houses; but certainly in our churches. These storms come uninvited, do what they choose and pass on, and they will be doing this till the end of time—have been at it since this was land. We'd just as well learn to take it easy, if we haven't, and not let them blight our lives. To a host of us they are not new, have not been new for twenty years, and we expect to spend the rest of our days where they are!

The church services run about regular next Sunday. We have only one difference; and that is, the adult department of the church school re-assembles at 7:00 p. m. for the study of the new book put out by Bishop Arthur J. Moore, with one chapter by E. Stanley Jones. It will be taught—the first chapter at this hour. The hours of public worship will come on at 11 a. m. and at 7:45 p. m. At the morning hour the pastor will use as his subject "That Mystical Pageant," and for the evening "Has God Quit Us?"

You most likely will be greatly interested and profited, we hope, in the evening service. Think with us upon this question "Has God Quit Us?" Where is the trouble. Let's try Sunday evening to find out. The Young People will meet in their room and the book, the first chapter "The Sound of the Trumpets" will be taught by

AMERICAN LUTHERAN CHURCH NEWS

The St. Martin's congregation of the American Lutheran Church of Littlefield met in the home of Mrs. Hy Brandt on the afternoon of February 21, for the purpose of organizing a Ladies' Aid Society. This was accomplished with the pastor and eight members present. Officers were elected as follows: Mrs. T. W. Luecke, president; Mrs. O. J. Piel, vice president, and Miss Belinda Piel, secretary-treasurer.

The young people, together with the pastor, Rev. Dimke, also met on the night of February 21 in the home of A. H. Schulz, for the purpose of organizing a Luther League.

This was done with the following officers elected: Alfred Hill, president; Mary Schulz, vice president; Beatrice Koke, secretary-treasurer.

A young people's Bible class has also been considered, with Mr. Walter Hill as teacher.

We hope that these organizations will continue to grow, not only in size, but also in the good works of Jesus Christ, our Savior.

AMHERST

Funeral services were conducted at the First Methodist Church at Memphis Tuesday afternoon, February 20 at 2:30 o'clock for Mrs. Z. O. Batson, aged 66, mother of T. I. Batson, mayor of Amherst, who died at the family home near Memphis the morning previous at three o'clock.

Rev. Landroth conducted the services, and interment took place in the Prairie View Cemetery.

W. B. Williams of Childress has purchased the Ernest Jones farm east of town and moved on the property. Mr. and Mrs. Jones returned to Clarendon, where they formerly lived.

SPADE

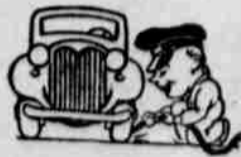

The Spade P. T. A. has sponsored the building of a trophy case for the high school and the work was completed the past week. The case is lined and draped with black and white chiffon velvet. There are two shelves to hold the trophies and a glass door to close the case. The trophies that have been won by the school are now on display.

The High School Choral Club gave a party Wednesday night, February 21, in the gymnasium. Each member brought a guest and the evening was spent in playing games. Refreshments of sandwiches and hot chocolate were served to about 40 people.

The fourth grade room held a tea in honor of George Washington's

Relieved By Taking Cardui

"I was weak and run-down and suffered quite a bit with pains in my side," writes Mrs. Nick Barranco, of Beaumont, Texas. "I was nervous. I did not rest well at night, and my appetite was poor. My mother had used Cardui with beneficial result, so I decided to take it. I surely am glad I did, for it stopped the pain in my side and built up my general health. I took seven bottles in all." Cardui is sold at all drug stores.

Fifteen members were present February 15th for our regular meeting in the home of Mrs. W. E. Logan. Committees gave their reports, then Miss Westbrook gave a demonstration on "Plant Propagation." This was indeed interesting and every woman should know about that phase of work.

Committees were appointed. Mrs. W. E. Bennett was appointed chairman of the exhibit committee; Mrs. Charley Crawford, recreation chairman. Two new members enrolled, they being Mrs. J. W. Bennett and Mrs. E. C. Holley.

Our next meeting will be on the 1st of March. We have an interesting program for that day.

Mrs. W. E. Bennett will teach how to make angel food cake, and she is known throughout the county as making an ideal angel food cake.

Mrs. Charles Crawford will make "foundation button holes" for the new "brides" to attend.

Mrs. Crawford will have a social program planned and we insist that our old members be present and visitors are welcome. Remember April 1st.

The meeting adjourned and the hostess served refreshments, all in remembrance of Washington's birthday. It was all very attractive.

BETTER QUALITY GOODS AT LOW PRICES FEATURED

All Departments Are Twice Their Former Size

VOL. 11 LITTLEFIELD, LAMB COUNTY, TEXAS, THURSDAY, MARCH 1, 1934 NO. 47

WELL KNOWN BRANDS OF MERCHANDISE ARE FEATURED AT THIS STORE

Offering merchandise and service of Better Quality—the kind of merchandise and service that is not generally found outside the larger cities—Ware's Department Store is a mercantile concern which is a distinct credit to Littlefield.

Twice the size of the former J. H. Ware Dry Goods, the new store has 50 feet of windows on Phelps Avenue and extends through the block almost to XIT Drive.

All departments are twice their former size, and are operated under department heads who are specialists in the lines of merchandise in their sections of the store.

The extensive window space is a mirror of what one may expect to find in merchandise in the large, new and attractive store.

Ware's Department Store is not a business created with the hope that it will find favor with the public—Ware's is a store built by the confidence of the public in a concern which has striven from the outset to offer Better Quality Merchandise at exceedingly reasonable prices.

Ware's Department Store does not concede first place to any concern in Better Quality and Reasonable Prices.

Three years ago, when J. H. Ware purchased the interest of his partner, J. B. Ellis, in the Ellis & Ware Dry Goods, Mr. Ware promised the people of Littlefield and section a bigger and better store. Since that time Mr. Ware and his organization have consistently worked to that end, with the result that they have developed a business warranting space twice the size of the former store. Their policy of Better Quality Merchandise at reasonable prices has been popular with the people of Littlefield and section, as is evidenced by the increasing volume of business.

J. H. WARE

J. H. Ware, head of Ware's Department Store, has spent his entire life in the dry goods business. His first experience was when a very young boy he worked as a cash boy in Sanger Bros., Dallas.

Mr. Ware was connected with the J. B. Ellis Department Store at Hollis, Oklahoma, for 18 years. He came to Littlefield in 1929, and established the firm of Ellis & Ware. Three years ago he purchased his partner's interest in the Littlefield store, and operated the business as the J. H. Ware Dry Goods until the present expansion program.

In addition to managing his store, Mr. Ware takes an active interest and part in all projects having to do with the development of Littlefield and district. He lives on a small farm adjoining Littlefield.

When he purchased his partner's interest in Ellis & Ware, Mr. Ware promised the people of Littlefield and district a bigger and a better store. With the co-operation of his organization, one step in his goal has been achieved with the establishing of Ware's Department Store, which occupies twice the space of the former store.

Dressmaking Dept. At Ware's Store

A dressmaking department is one of the new departments at Ware's Department Store. This department is operated in connection with Ware's store by Mrs. Jack Williams. Mrs. Williams moved to Littlefield from Amarillo in October. She has 10 years experience as a dressmaker and designer.

Local Man Suffers Scalded Face Friday

W. A. Daharsh, member of the highway construction crew and living at the Littlefield Tourist Camp, was scalded badly Friday last, when cooking with a pressure cooker. According to reports, a rivet gave way throwing the steam and contents of the cooker into Mr. Daharsh's face.

A local physician dressed the man's face.

Radio licenses in force in Great Britain at the beginning of 1934 numbered 5,973,700.

One of the outstanding features of Ware's Department Store is the immense stock of standard brand merchandise.

These include Star Brand shoes for men, women and children; Curlee and Rose suits and M. Born & Co., tailored-to-measure suits; Stetson and Davis hats; Pool shirts; Interwoven hose for men and boys; Allen-A underwear, and Tom Sawyer suits for little boys.

All these brands are well known for their high quality. For example, Star Brand shoes are all solid leather, and are produced by one of the oldest manufacturers of shoes in the country. Ware's guarantee to fit all types of feet.

Mrs. Ethel Davis Is In Charge Of Ready-to-wear

MRS. ETHEL DAVIS

Many friends are welcoming Mrs. Ethel Davis back to Littlefield.

Connected with Cobb's Department Store, when that concern was in business in Littlefield, Mrs. Davis has returned to this city, and is in charge of the ready-to-wear department at Ware's. Since leaving Littlefield Mrs. Davis has been employed in Haskell, her home town.

Harness Taken From Road Camp

J. E. Johnson, one of the construction crew on Highway No. 7, reports four sets of harness, and a quantity of other harness, stolen Saturday night from a road camp about two miles east of Amherst.

Sheriff Len Irvin and Deputy Sheriff J. L. Walraven are working on the case.

A concrete runway, 120 feet wide extending the full length of the line of hangars, is being constructed at Selfridge Field.

Polynesians migrated from Australia to New Zealand about 1350 A. D., it has been determined.

Littlefield Kitties Win Over Spade

The most exciting game of the season was played between the Littlefield Kitties and Spade girls Friday night, February 16.

Morgan, New and Scott held the Spade forwards to a reasonable amount of scores. The local team took the lead soon after the game started and managed to keep the lead until the last of the third quarter, due to the fact of our three best players leaving the court on account of fouls Spade managed to get the lead.

The last quarter was cut short five minutes due to the players being played down as this was the tightest game that has been played in the Littlefield gym lately.

WHISPERING ROCK

by JOHN LLBAR

Seventeenth Installment

Synopsis: Ruth Warren, who lives in the East, is willed three-fourth interest in the "Dead Lantern" ranch in Arizona by her only brother who reported to have met his death while on business in Mexico. Arriving in Arizona with her husband who has lung and their small child, they find the ranch is located 85 miles from the nearest railroad. Old Charley Thane, rancher and rural carrier agrees to take them to the "Dead Lantern" gate, five miles from the ranch house. As they struggle through a gulch approaching the ranch house, a voice whispers "Go back! Go back!" At the ranch house they are greeted suspiciously by the gaunt rancher partner, Navely, and Indian Ann, a herculean woman of mixed negro and Indian blood. Navely is difficult to understand but regardless, Ruth takes the task of trying to adjust their lives to the ranch and its development. Kenneth, Ruth's husband, faints in chilling rain contracts pneumonia and passes away before a doctor arrives. Ruth tries to carry on, but is not encouraged by Navely in plans to try and stock the ranch or improve it. She writes to her father in the East asking a loan with which to buy cattle. She receives no reply. Will Thane comes home to visit his father... and Ruth meets him. A rancher nearby decides to retire and offers to sell Ruth and Navely his stock on credit. Navely tries to talk the deal but Ruth buys to the limit of her three-quarter interest in the Dead Lantern ranch.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

"Oh, I'm so sorry," whinnied the voice, "but I just can't open it."
"Well, why can't you open it—your arm broke?"
"I'm taking a bath," said the voice sweetly.
This was too much. Old Charley slanted the sole of his boot against the door with all the force in his body. The door flew inward and Will Thane stepped to the threshold.

"Come right in, Dad—I know you'd call some day."

Old Charley sat down slowly on the box, utterly heedless of the wash basin. After a time he murmured mournfully, "If you was only ten years old I might feel about half an hour!"

Later, after he had eaten Will's supper, the old man was somewhat mollified. "Will, you horny pup, danged if this ain't the happiest day I've seen! And you've already been here a month. You got-a-gun—provin' up on your homestead. And you're all through with real estate—plumb through!"

"Plumb through, Dad. Turned everything I had into cash a month ago. Cash'll come in handy when we buy that section south of us here and pick up some more stock."
Old Charley nodded happily. "I always knew you'd be comin' back some of these days. But what have you been doing here the last month? Sleeping most of the day, I reckon. I never saw you so fat an' glossy."

Ruth slowly awoke and saw that it was still dark. She wondered idly why Ann was moving about in the kitchen so late, and was luxuriously slipping back to sleep when she heard the thump of boots, as Navely came from his room and walked across the house to the kitchen. Suddenly Ruth knew that it was morning—the long-awaited morning when the round-up was to begin. As she rose and struggled into her riding clothes, the great weight of anxiety which had lifted during her sleep settled back upon her. The round-up—would there be enough cattle?

In the two months since she had accidentally placed poison in the spring troughs no new harm had come to the cattle—but, were they enough to meet her note? Her desire to find the answer to this question increased with each day, but she could not estimate the number of viable animals scattered over the ranch; she could not give an intelligent guess about weights and quality and price. She only knew that she had lost more than a tenth of the value of her note.

Then, too, if her deal with Parker was to do the ranch any good, only the poorest of the cattle could be sold—only the steers and the old cows. The rest of the stock and the fine bulls must remain for the improvement of the ranch. Ruth could not see much advantage in selling all the cattle to keep the man Witherpoon from foreclosing on the note—what good was there in three-quarters' interest in a cattle ranch with no cattle—or, in a ranch which only brought in fifteen hundred dollars a year?

She left David sleeping and went into the dining room. She and Navely breakfasted silently by lamplight, then went to the corral.

It was just light enough at the corral to distinguish one horse from another. The six Mexican cowboys were waiting by the gate, each with a cigarette in his mouth and a rope or bridle over his arm. Navely indicated to each of the men the horse he was to ride for the day. The Mexican entered the corral, caught his mount, and led it to the saddle shed.

Ruth, Navely and the Mexicans rode into the north pasture. About three miles from the ranch house, Navely gave each man his orders, then rode away to the west. To Ruth he had said nothing, nor could she understand much of what Navely had told the Mexicans. She stayed where she was, on a hilltop. The men, she supposed, would ride west and distribute themselves along the line fence as it wound through the mountains. They would then all start eastward driving the cattle before them.

She waited two hours on that hilltop before she saw the first cattle coming. Two miles to the north an ant-like string moved over a ridge and disappeared into a ravine. A moment later, and much nearer, she saw a small bunch of animals emerge from the underbrush followed by a man on horseback—Navely, she thought. By the time the first two bunches were opposite her, three more were in sight and she turned her own horse eastward. She soon came upon three cows, each with a calf, and drove them before her. Just where she was driving them she had no very clear idea, but she could see that the other riders were converging toward a common point and governed herself accordingly. This point proved to be a level piece of ground about half a mile from the eastern end of the pasture.

The nine small streams of cattle merged, flowed on, and were thrown into an eddying pool by the circling riders. Two of the men left at once, loping to a ravine where mesquite was plentiful. When they returned dragging firewood at the end of their riatas, the cattle were in a close-packed bunch, and the remaining riders sat their horses at intervals around the circle. Navely, Alfredo, Don Francisco and one of the extra Mexicans dismounted, kicked off their chaps, and building a fire, laid on the branding irons; Ruth and three Mexicans keeping the herd together, meanwhile.

When the irons were hot Navely mentioned to the grizzled old Juan, who left Ruth's side of the herd and advanced into the center of the milling cattle, swinging his riata.

Ruth had her hands full. With only three riders to keep the herd place many of the cattle decided to break away. Every ten seconds, it seemed to Ruth, some animal on her side of the herd would bolt. She had abandoned old Bricket for such active riding in favor of Boots, a springy young horse with an alert mind and a thorough knowledge of the cow business. He enjoyed running after the animals that broke from the herd—Ruth rather resented him of egging them on.

Such riding is a exhilarating sport for half an hour—rather like the fastest moments of a fast polo game, but in three hours it can be wearisome.

When all the calves had been branded the herd was driven to the holding pasture, a small enclosure of one thousand acres. As the cattle passed through the gate the counting began; one man counted calves; another, yearlings; another grown steers and a fourth, cows.

The count was over and the riders were returning to the home ranch when Ruth rode up beside Navely. "Well, how does it look?"

"How does what look?" replied Navely.

"I mean—do you think we're going to have enough? Weren't there a good many calves and young steers in that bunch?"

"Can't tell nothin' yet," said Navely gruffly. "I don't know if you're goin' to have enough or not. As a guess I'd say you ain't."

"I have it all figured out just how many we—"

"You figured, I reckon, that a quarter of the sale don't apply on that fool note, didn't you?"

Ruth drew herself straight in the saddle. "Certainly, Mr. Navely!" She reined in her horse and dropped back between Alfredo and old Don Francisco. The Mexicans pulled their horses aside to make room and with many smiles and chuckles began talking to her. They loved to hear her broken Spanish. By the time the company reached the saddle shed, Ruth had learned that Don Francisco considered the cattle large and fat and the calves plentiful. He also succeeded in conveying to her the results of the count.

That evening Ruth studied these figures in connection with others she had gathered in her conversation with Old Charley and her studies of the cattle raisers' magazine. But she to sleep as undecided as ever. The round-up would take four days and if on each of these days the count ran as high as on the first, and if on one of those days about one hundred extra animals should appear, Ruth knew that she could meet her note. Provided, of course, that Old Charley had guessed shrewdly about the prices the cattle buyers would be paying.

Ruth never knew how she got through the fourth and last day of the round-up. Twice, after the cattle had been gathered and the branding begun, she left the herd and rode into the foothills. But neither time did she see a single overlooked cow or calf.

She stood biting her lower lip and pulling at her saddle strings as the counting began. There simply must be more than one hundred and twenty head, she kept telling herself—there just had to be!

As the last of her cattle passed through the gate, the counters drey together and Ruth rode up. She listened as each man gave his count to Navely and wrote the figures in her notebook with trembling fingers: 32, 15, 44! Twice she added the column before she was sure that the total was 151. Then with a slap she whirled her horse and galloped toward the ranch house. Her cheeks were wet and she sang a throaty chant to the pounding hoofs: "I've won! I've won! I've won!"

That evening after supper while David and Ann were making the chickens secure against skunks and coyotes, Ruth put on a gown she had not worn for more than a year, and did her hair three times.

When David came in he asked, "Why are you dressed up so beautiful, Mama?"

"Oh, just because." Ruth did not quite know, yourself; but she was convinced it was the thing to do. "I think we ought to celebrate once in awhile, don't you, David?"

"Like a party?"

"Rather, yes."

"Mama! Let's go down to the barn—they've got a nice fire there and Alfredo's playing music. Shall we? Come on!"

Ruth grasped the boy's arm and led him guiltily out of the house by way of the back porch. Navely was in the sitting room.

The Mexicans sat around their fire, talking, laughing and singing, as the mood and the ever-active strings of Alfredo's guitar persuaded them. When they saw Ruth, wonder shone from their faces, then admiration and pleasure. They all sprang to their feet, but Don Francisco was first.

Ruth smiled, went to the fire and spread her hands. "It is cold," she said in a matter-of-fact Spanish. Immediately Francisco bowed her welcome and hurried to the barn for one of his rawhide chairs. But when he returned Ruth had seated herself on the ground next to Magda. She was not going to be the only one of the group who sat on a chair, gown or no gown.

Gradually, it became apparent to the Mexicans, that the Senora Ruth and her son had merely come to the fire for warmth and company. Delightedly they assured each other of this by smiles and nods. Little Magda sat closer to Ruth, and made her own importance felt among her companions by speaking exclusively in Spanish thereafter.

Mrs. Weston (The Doctor's Wife)

Says...

"I Use Gas For Water Heating"

MRS. WESTON is the wife of Dr. Weston, who engages in a general medical practice. His calls take him into the homes of rich and poor alike, and often he asks for hot water for use in administering to the sick. He recently noticed that, almost without exception, the water is heated with gas. And he had always considered gas a luxury fuel because of its fine qualities! Dr. Weston spoke to his wife about his finding.

She uses gas for heating water but never considered its value. To satisfy her own curiosity, Mrs. Weston checked up to see how much it costs to heat water with the different fuels. She found that gas could sell for as much as $1.25 per 1000 cubic feet and still be the most economical fuel for this purpose. Unfounded political attacks upon gas rates will not receive Mrs. Weston's support because she finds the value of gas far more than any amount she ever has been asked to pay for it.

If others of us were to think of gas in terms of its value as compared to other fuels, like Mrs. Weston, we would assume a fair attitude in considering its price. Those who know its true value count gas as worth $1.25 per 1000 cubic feet for water heating, $2.50 for cooking and $3.00 for refrigeration. The price asked for gas is far below any of these amounts, and the difference is your savings. That's why it truthfully can be said—"Gas Doesn't Cost... It PAYS."

the loan is not granted. The minimum amount that can be loaned to any one eligible borrower is $50.00. The interest rate is 3 per cent above the discount rate of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Houston, and charged only for the actual number of months the loan is outstanding. The present discount rate of the Federal Intermediate Credit Bank is 3 per cent, which would make the interest rate to the farmer-borrower 6 per cent per annum. Loans may be obtained for general agricultural purposes including the costs of growing, cultivating, or marketing crops; and for the production of livestock, and dairy and poultry products.

Most of the loans will run from three to twelve months, and are to be due and payable at the time when the crops and livestock financed are sold.

Each farmer or stockman borrowing for the first time automatically becomes a member of the association, since each is required to own voting stock in the association equal to $5.00 for every $100.00 or fraction thereof he borrows. The stock may be purchased with a part of the loan proceeds. It is the only voting stock in the association, and may be purchased only by borrowers, each having only one vote regardless of the amount borrowed.

A farmer or stockman who becomes a member of an association does not have to "stand good for" the loans of the association, or the debts of other borrowers. The stock carries no double liability.

The Muleshoe Production Credit Association, which is authorized to make loans in this county, is one of 50 which have been established in this state. Most of the capital of the association is provided by the Production Credit Corporation of Houston, which is supervising the work of associations in Texas.

"The Bowery" To Be Featured At Palace

In casting about for a story to set their new 20th Century company in motion, Joseph M. Schenk and Darryl Zanuck came across a yarn called "The Bowery," written by Michael Simmons and B. R. Solomon, and immediately ceased their quest for a getaway vehicle. Rich in comedy and dramatic high spots, "The Bowery," laid in the day of Chuck Connors, alias the Mayor of Chinatown, and Steve Brodie, who either did or didn't jump off the Brooklyn Bridge, also evokes memories of such sporting world and theatrical celebrities as John L. Sullivan, Carrie Nation, Frankie Bailey, Maggie Cline, Bill Muldoon, Buffalo Bill and Jake Kilrain.

To the lot of Wallace Beery, who can do more with a smirk or a silly grin than most leading men can do with an entire film of acting, falls the task of bringing to the screen one of the most picturesque characters of the time when the Bowery was in full flower. He has now added to his overflowing gallery of silent and

Although the east and north side of the original territory of the Lubbock district voted to remain in the state association, Richard Wishkaemper, director from that section on the state board, visited the meeting and brought a very encouraging message to the assembly.

Deliveries For 1933-34

The large delivery from this district reflects the desire of the 8,000 members to do for themselves the things industry has already achieved. It signifies further that every energy has been strained by officials of the district to render the greatest service possible all the while keeping the membership fully informed as to the needs, ultimate aims and successes of the association.

Deliveries during 1933-34 as of January 31, 1934, by branch office points is as follows:

talking screen portraits the characterization of Chuck Connors, as will be seen when "The Bowery" is featured as a United Artists release Saturday midnight and Sunday afternoon at the Palace Theatre.

With all due respect to the rich color of George Raft's Steve Brodie and Jackie Cooper's Swipes, the newsboy, in "The Bowery," the characterization of Beery as Connors is more striking. If ever a part was tailored to the talent of Wallace Beery, that part is Chuck Connors, guide and friend of celebrities and humble Orientals, and a fancy dresser according to his own notions of flashy elegance.

That was George Washington Connors, the Bowery leader whom it is Wallace Beery's privilege to introduce to the cinema public. Not only is Beery a natural for the important job of reincarnating the wit and mannerisms of Connors for the screen, but he also bears a striking physical resemblance to the former Mayor of Chinatown.

One of the most famous stories about Chuck, and which is shown in "The Bowery," deals with the time Carrie Nation invaded a ball of the Chuck Connors Association and was hit on the head with a bottle in the hand of one of the red-haired beauties in attendance. The excitement ended when the police answered a riot call.

That Beery is in his element amidst such hullabaloo can well be imagined by all who have followed his varied and extensive type of roles.

It will be observed that some figures show total deliveries for two points. This is due to the fact that the same classer worked at each of these points at different periods and the total represents cotton handled by him according to his records.

It is conservatively estimated that the cotton handled by the district up to date will exceed 105,000 bales and the cost per bale in handling all business of the association will be within 30 cents for the district for the fiscal year.

County officials of the production control association will certify to representatives of the Farm Credit Administration the names of any farmers who, while not signing acreage control contracts, are cooperating by not increasing their production contrary to the acreage control program.

Where county councils have not been set up, Farm Credit Administration representatives will be instructed to make no loans to farmers who are planning to increase production.

For the time being, according to Governor Myers, the various regional emergency crop loan offices will handle the applications for loans from the $40,000,000 fund, and these offices will be under the immediate direction of the Emergency Crop Loan division, which is placed under the supervision of the Production Credit Commissioner, S.
