FLOODS DAMAGE SECTIONS OF NEW MEXICO

Astrid's Body Arrives Home

BRUSSELS (AP)—The body of Queen Astrid of the Belgians, killed in a Swiss automobile accident Thursday, was brought home Friday.

It was placed in the palace chapel. The funeral will be Tuesday.

Astrid, 29-year-old mother of three children, was fatally injured when thrown from a car Leopold was driving Thursday morning. She died in his arms on the roadside, while a village priest gave extreme unction. Leopold was not seriously injured.

The injury which caused Astrid's death, a fractured skull, was identical to that which killed her father-in-law, King Albert, 18 months ago.

Doctors who performed a hurried autopsy late Thursday, said the forehead wound was in the same position as the one which ended Albert's life in his tragic fall while mountain-climbing in Belgium.

Astrid, a Swedish princess before her marriage in 1926, retained her beauty in death.

"Her face suffered hardly any disfigurement at all," said Sister Brun, the nurse who prepared the body for burial. "She has a slight bruise under her chin. Otherwise she remains as beautiful in death as she was before the tragedy. Her eyes were still clear before they were closed."

WASHINGTON By RAY TUCKER

Czar—Although Marriner S. Eccles was installed as governor of the federal reserve board as a New Deal banking wizard, the youngster from Utah doesn't sit any too securely on his financial throne. He has antagonized so many influential people that neither his reappointment nor his confirmation is certain.

Mr. Eccles and Secretary Morgenthau are not so friendly as they used to be. The banking community is suspicious of his radical ideas as embodied in his personal draft of the banking bill. Powerful Carter Glass has warned the president to censor Eccles' pronouncements, and the governor was noticeably quietest during the final stages of the banking bill battle.

Now Mr. Eccles has taken on new enemies. Elderly associates on the board brand him as a czar. For seven weeks he did not call a board meeting, although weekly gatherings have always been customary. He also served notice that he would make all appointments in the future. Word of this internal dissension has reached the treasury and the White House.

Knock-Out—

Mr. Glass pulled his punches when Mr. Eccles' name was up for senator from Virginia in rapidly losing his patience. He burns up at claims that the Eccles philosophy prevailed over his ideas in the framing of the new bank bill.

Mr. Glass is fortified with information to the effect that Mr. Eccles has not disposed of his banking interests, as required by law. Senatorial associates promised to support him if he placed substantial evidence on this score in the official record. But his informants, mostly western bankers, had asked him to keep their names out of it and he complied. He may try to introduce this data by other means the next time. The senate has been touchy on this point since the days of Andrew W. Mellon.

The senator maintains that the vanquished Eccles in the revision of the reserve system. He feels that he knocked out the governor's two principal ideas—central control and use of the banking agency as an instrument for economic planning. Bankers and other students agree.

Bethel Back From Fort Worth Trip

E. B. Bethel, city fire marshal, returned Wednesday night from Fort Worth where he studied fire prevention methods employed by the fire prevention bureau of that city.

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—C. Lloyd Fisher and Vincent A. Marco, attorneys for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, issued a joint statement here Thursday that their investigation has located a child in Long Island under circumstances indicating "there was more than a possibility it might be the missing Lindbergh child."

Fisher came from New Jersey to confer with Mrs. Emma Gloeckner, sister of Hauptmann, announcing he plans new legal steps in an effort to save from execution the man convicted of kidnaping Col. Charles A. Lindbergh's child.

Depend on fingerprints? Fisher, absent from Marco's office when the statement was issued, said later that efforts had been made to have the Lindberghs go see the Long Island child, but they had declined. He said identification attempts would depend largely on checking of fingerprints. Other wise, he and Marco would not amplify the following statement issued after noon Thursday:

The two attorneys declined to amplify the following statement which they issued after noon Thursday:

"Through our investigations we succeeded in locating a child now in Long Island because of physical resemblances, coupled with a set of circumstances surrounding the history of the child, indicated to us that there was more than a possibility it might be the missing Lindbergh child."

Barstow Loot Uncovered By Small Child

Suspect Army Operator At Midland Airport Station

MIDLAND (Special to the Herald)—The inquisitive mind of six year old Harry Bauer caused the arrest of W. H. McCumber, 28 year old army radio operator, as the man who robbed the Citizens State Bank of Barstow Wednesday noon of $3,600.

McCumber, positively identified by L. H. Nutt, cashier, as the man who robbed the bank at the point of a gun, was taken to Barstow Friday afternoon to face charges of robbery with firearms. Sheriff Irby Dyer of Ward county and District Attorney W. L. Kerr, Pecos, had custody of him.

Kerr said examining trial would be held Saturday 2:30 p. m. at Barstow in Justice J. J. Walker's court.

Harry, son of Sergeant Tony Bauer, found the money as he played about the hangar at Sloan field. He happened to pull up the seat in a black coupe belonging to McCumber. Underneath a stack of currency lay.

Excited, he ran and told his father. Sergeant Bauer immediately contacted Sheriff A. C. Francis, Midland. The sheriff came to the hangar, found part of the currency in a box in the hangar, part in the car. He returned to Midland and placed McCumber under arrest.

McCumber had not made a statement when he was taken to Barstow Friday.

Nutt said that $3,500 of the $3,600 taken in the raid had been recovered.

In identifying McCumber as the lone bandit, Nutt also identified currency taken from the bank.

Midland people were doubly surprised by the arrest of McCumber. He had lived in the city about 10 years, had enjoyed a good reputation and had directed a church of chrestra for some time.

Rain fell on most of the south portion of Howard county Friday morning bringing relief to crops and range land.

Little or no moisture fell north of Big Spring. It extended only a short distance east and west.

Ad Neal, north of Garden City, said three inches fell on his ranch. Clarence Sparkman and David McGill, south of Garden City, said they received amounts ranging from about 2 to 3 inches.

However, it extended no further east than the refinery and little further north than the cemetery.

Dove Shooting Laws Modified

WASHINGTON (AP)—In answer to numerous protests from the south, the Biological Survey has announced dove shooting in southern states would begin and end 10 days earlier than originally provided in the 1935 federal hunting regulations.

Approved by President Roosevelt, the new amendment makes the mourning-dove season Sept. 21 to Jan. 5 in Delaware, Maryland, Virginia, Kentucky, Tennessee, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia, Florida, Alabama, Mississippi, Louisiana, Arkansas, Oklahoma, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and California.

Formerly set to open Oct. 1 and close Jan. 15, the season was changed to equalize privileges of dove hunters throughout the country. State laws prohibiting October and early November shooting in the interest of upland game birds resulted in a practically closed season on doves in some states under the original provisions of this year's federal regulations.

More Rodeo Stock Being Brought Here

More steers, broncs, cows, yearlings and calves were expected here Friday for use in the second annual Cowboy Reunion starting for three days Monday.

Seven additional rawbone steers and horses are to be trucked in for bucking duties.

Sheriff Jess Slaughter, rodeo boss, said out cows, yearlings and calves at the Galt ranch to be used for wild cow milking, cutting horse contest, and calf bending.

Rodeo officials were cheered by the slow rain falling here Friday morning but were afraid a rainy season might set in and spoil chances for record breaking attendance for the rodeo.

J. L. Hudson, secretary, again reminded the public that box seat reservations for the affair may be had by calling at 147 or seeing him at his office in the State National bank building.

Inquiries from people of many sections of the state led officials to predict again Friday that Monday would see more than 5,000 people attending the rodeo performances here.

Catholic Pastor Is Formally Installed

Rev. Charles Taylor was formally installed as pastor of the St. Thomas Catholic church Thursday evening in an impressive ceremony.

GOLFERS QUALIFY SATURDAY FOR C C TOURNAMENT

SCORES ARE VERY LOW

May Take A 78 To Get In 32-Player Champ Flight

A horde of golfers, representing many West Texas clubs, will swear the Country Club course here at least a 78 to get in the thirty-two player championship flight.

Despite the unsettled weather Friday morning, tourney officials were very optimistic. "The rain will put the course in wonderful shape," tourney chairman Shirley Robbins said.

Thirty-nine golfers have already qualified, and indications are that it will take at least a 78 to get in the thirty-two player championship flight.

The irrepressible Dean brothers—Paul (Duffy), left, and Jerome (Dizzi), right, who pitched the St. Louis Cardinals into the National League lead in turning back the Dodgers at Brooklyn in a double header, are shown exchanging a secret. The twin victory, coupled with the Giants' loss to Chicago, put the Cardinals a half game ahead of the New York club. (Associated Press Photo)

CODSEN OILERS REACH FINAL ROUND OF PLAYOFF, DEFEATING FLEW, 11-8

By HANK HART
 The Cosden Oilers shoved into the final round of the Mury softball playoff Thursday evening and at the same time gained revenge on the team that shut them out in their other playoff encounter by taking a wild, 11-8, eight inning decision from the Flewetten Stationers.

The loss, coupled with a defeat at the hands of the Herald Type Lee Wednesday evening, eliminated the Operators from the title flight.

In a game that saw all brands of good and bad softball, the Oilers had a hard time with their enemies for the first six innings and were trailing by the score of 4-2 going into the last half of the seventh, but they suddenly began slugging everything in sight and before the smoke had risen on the assault, they had chased six runs across and were leading by the margin of 8-4.

The Stationers, however, fought right back by scoring four runs and tying the count and the game went into extra innings. Fitzgerald's circuit smash with the bases loaded forced the game into the eighth inning. The hit should have been a double, but Harvey, who was patrolling center field, overran the ball and allowed the Flewetten catcher to get all the way home.

The Oilers came right back in the eighth inning to put two men aboard, Smith reaching first when Terrazas misplayed his hopper taking the initial sack with a line drive into left field. J. W. Coats caught Smith at third as Baker smacked a high bouncer down through shortstop but Diddle Young put the Oilers out in front on the next play when he lopped a high fly into short left field and one attempted to get under it. Young went all the way home when sportmanship or fine fellowship, when athletic clans get together, yet no Olympiad has been entirely free from bickering in various forms.

France and Britain were at athletic loggerheads over an incident during the 1924 Olympic boxing. The French team threatened to withdraw from the Amsterdam games in 1928 over an alleged insult. Little Finland almost packed up and left Los Angeles in 1932 because of the disbarment of the renowned Paavo Nurmi. It seems that argument is the inevitable price of international goodwill, athletic or otherwise.

WASHINGTON U. ELEVEN STRONG

By T. W. KIENLEN
 United Press Staff Correspondent

ST. LOUIS (UP)—A broad-shouldered man with a shock of iron-gray hair sits each day at a desk in the athletic office of Washington University and studies lists of names and charts marked with strange hieroglyphics.

The man is Jimmy Conzelman, eminently successful football coach at Washington. The hieroglyphics are the plays he plans to give his squad when practice starts.

Conzelman took full charge of football at Washington in 1933 after the Bears had completed the worst cycle in their gridiron history.

However, things began to change and the 1932 season was an improvement over 1931. In 1933 the Bears began the climb that in two years has placed them in a position to challenge for national gridiron honors.

Vast Improvement Shown
 Last fall the team was better. Washington played good games against Illinois and Kansas and although it lost—12-7 to Illinois and 12-0 to Kansas—the team showed enough for critics to rate them as one of the most improved teams in the country.

This year's schedule follows:
 Sept. 27—McKendree at home.
 Oct. 5—Illinois at Champaign.
 Oct. 12—Southern Methodist at home.
 Oct. 19—Duquesne at Pittsburgh.
 Oct. 26—Michigan State at Lansing.
 Nov. 2—Creighton at home.
 Nov. 9—Drake at home.
 Nov. 16—Missouri at home.
 Nov. 23—Oklahoma Aggies at home.

Roman Skeleton Found

ZARAGOZA, Spain (UP)—A Roman stone sculpture lined with lead and containing a skeleton has been discovered at Vallia del Ebro. It is of the work and remains of ancient pillars were discovered nearby.

Nov. 28—St. Louis U. at home. Conzelman is confident that his team will go through this 10-game schedule with a good record and his confidence is founded on a squad of 56 candidates that includes 30 men, of whom five weigh more than 200 pounds. Fourteen others are carried at weights of 190 pounds or more.

Counts 19 Regulars
 Among these 56 candidates Conzelman counts 19 regulars, 10 linemen and nine backs. For the opening game he can place a team on the field composed of seven senior and four junior veterans. No position is without at least one veteran from last season. The roster has 27 men listed who have won their letter last year or the year before. Adding strength to an already strong team, Dwight Hefall, sophomore sensation of 1933, will return to competition this fall. Hefall injured an ankle during the winter basketball season of 1934 and did not play last fall.

LAWSON LITTLE TO HAVE LOTS OF COMPETITION IN NATIONAL MEET

CLEVELAND (UP)—On one of the sportiest courses in the nation, youth and the "patriarchs" and the small foreign list will battle for the national amateur golf championship here Sept. 9-14, with W. Lawson Little, Jr., of California, attempting to stretch his dominance over the world's "simon-pure" field for the second consecutive year.

The country club layout, studded with treacherously yawning traps and bunkers and threaded with creeks, is the scene of the 1935 classic, in which a field of 200 stands as a multiple threat to Little's hopes to repeat as American amateur champion.

The stalwart Californian has an opportunity here to annex his fourth straight amateur triumph. He has won the British amateur crown twice in addition to taking the United States title at Brookline a year ago. A victory here would give him the greatest record for consistency since Bob Jones' "grand slam" feat of 1930, the year the Atlantan retired and started a new order in the amateur ranks.

Aligned against Little are five invaders from foreign shores who were excused from the sectional qualifying tests, along with the "patriarchs," the former amateur kings returning for another try.

In the foreign list are T. A. Torrance, Brig. Gen. A. C. Critchley and Robert Sweny, all of Great Britain; J. A. Wright, Scotland, and P. J. Clifford, Mexico City.

The nine who escaped the necessity of qualifying because they have won the title in former years are George T. Dunlap, Jr., Francis Ouimet, H. Chandler Egan, who first won the title before many of the young contenders were born; Jess Guilford, Dave Herron, C. R. (Sandy) Somerville, the Canadian; Charles (Chick) Evans, Jr., Bob Gardner, and Max Marston.

Groups Near Show-Down

(This is the last of a series of four stories explaining the background of the dispute over the United States entry in the Olympic next year.)

By ALAN GOULD
 (Associated Press Sports Editor)

NEW YORK (UP)—The primary purposes of the Olympic Games, organized and conducted quadrennially with the aim of promoting international good-will as well as glorifying individual achievement in athletics, have been dealt a severe blow by the reaction in the United States to Nazi Germany's athletic policies.

It is too far in advance of the Games now to gauge the final effect as well as impossible at this time to say to what extent Americans will participate in the Olympic championships. The German Olympic committee has the entries of 48 countries and expect 5,000 men and women, a record number, to compete in 19 branches of sport during the first two weeks of August, 1936.

These figures are impressive. So are the German preparations.

It may seem unfortunate to many on going through with their participation in the Olympic championships. The German Olympic committee has the entries of 48 countries and expect 5,000 men and women, a record number, to compete in 19 branches of sport during the first two weeks of August, 1936.

It is nevertheless a fact that this antagonism or agitation exists. If Brundage and his associates of the A. O. C. as now seems likely, insist upon going through with their Olympic program and in sending to Germany the best available American athletes, they might as well face the storm now. The indications are that they already are swinging into action in an attempt to turn or counteract the tide of criticism.

From an athletic standpoint, it is the most serious situation since this country and Great Britain never severed relations during the 1908 Olympics. That was the year that Dorando, the game little Italian, staggered into the stadium and collapsed near the finish of the marathon, only to be lifted up and virtually carried over the line by sympathetic officials or bystanders. Meanwhile, little Johnny Hayes of New York came romping along under his own power; right behind Dorando, American protests split the air when officials first gave the laurel wreath to the Italian. Hours afterward, the award was overruled and Hayes declared the victor.

Prior to that incident, an American had been disqualified in the 500 meters for an alleged foul against the British ace, Halswelle. The race was ordered re-run but the Americans refused to enter. Halswelle scored a walk-over. That nearly led to the withdrawal of the entire American team.

British Are "Standing By"
 British-American athletic relations were strained for years afterward but so the war they have been on a low level of sportsmanship. The old country and the new see eye-to-eye now in a common feeling that Germany has jeopardized Olympic solidarity for 1936.

The difference is that while agitation stirs the United States, Britain seemingly has decided to let matters take their course and hope for the best, without heaping fresh coals on the fire.

The Olympics can stir up trouble enough, without borrowing any in advance. Discordant incidents have been more than offset, no doubt, by the preponderant weight of good

1934 Runnerup Returns

The field of 200, reduced from an original total of nearly 1,000 by the sectional qualifying rounds, is the largest ever authorized by the United States Golf Association.

On the side of the youngsters are Dave Goldman of Dallas, runner-up to Little at Brookline last year, who gave notice of his comeback by qualifying from his district with a 36-hole total of 143; Charley Yates, recent graduate of Georgia Tech, the reigning western amateur champion and former collegiate little-holder; Johnny Goodman of Omaha, trans-Mississippi champion. Ed White of Bonham, Tex., present college champion; Rod Bliss, the 1935 western medalist from Omaha, and Oklahoma's ever-threatening young brigade. Listing such stars as Zell Eaton, one of the nation's crack medal players, and Walter Emery, the 1933 intercollegiate champion, Eaton and Emery qualified with scores of 141 each. Tied with them for low in the sectional lists was Albert (Scotty) Campbell of Seattle, the 1933-34 Canadian amateur champion, who let that title go by default this year.

The tournament-wise also take into reckoning the sensational game of Reynolds Smith, the dogged Dallas hunkman who gained the semi-finals last year in a string of extra-hole battles.

Billy Burke, the country club professional, asserts the course will provide even the veteran amateurs with "plenty to think about" in the way of hazards. The club lengthens the course to 6,800 yards by moving back a number of tees from their original positions.

Two Problem Holes
 Edward L. Cheney, general chairman of the tournament, says the contestants will find two holes particularly interesting—the par-3 fifth and the par-4 twelfth.

"Number five is a one-shot hole," says Cheney, "500 yards with a plateau green. The fairway slopes sharply from directly beneath the tee. Number twelve is unique in my experience. It's a dog-leg with the turn after the second shot instead of the first. To be in position for the approach requires better than normal accuracy."

Thieves Dismantle Bridge
KNOWTOWN, Mo. (UP)—The man who lost a bass drum had no worries compared with Mart Oberly, state highway engineer, who "lost" a bridge. Thieves who dismantled the structure were apprehended.

SWEET MUSIC

As this is written a silent symphony of dollars is being executed. It is a slow drizzling rain and if it keeps up long enough, it will be the same as drizzling gold. It comes just at the time when growing crops are in need of moisture. It comes at just such a time as will permanently break blistering heat waves for the rest of the year. It comes in time to insure good cotton crops and splendid feed yields. No wonder there is nothing sweeter than the sound of falling rain, not even the coyote's yelp, to a West Texas ears.

SCHOOLS

The first of next week will see most of the schools in the county opening for another term. All nine month rural schools and city schools will start their terms either Monday or Tuesday. By way of prediction, there will be more children enrolled in both the city and county than ever before. It should be a source of comfort to citizens to know that the children are going into good, modern buildings for the most part and will be under good efficient teachers. Many years ago Big Spring and the county lagged behind the rest of the state educationally. We learned that when we had occasion to go spend some time in other places. Now we are convinced that we are just about, if not more up to the minute with our equipment and methods than most places.

Those who hang around the corner benches the results obtained by teachers this day and time. They say the schools have gone to the dogs. They are not doing the job as well as when they went to school. Most of that talk is pure nonsense. Children are learning more today than they did five years ago.

REAL TEST

They may not learn the multiplication table backward and forward nor may they learn to quote as many Shakespearean sonnets or lines. But they are learning more of what it takes to live. They are learning practical things as well as beautiful things. And after all, isn't that the real test of an educational system?

DOVES

There seems to be a great furor being raised over the conflict between state and federal game laws as they effect the dove season. It seems that the controversy resolves itself into two cardinal points, namely: One month is or is not too short a season for Texans in the north zone, and the no shooting rule after 4 p. m. is or is not fair.

Taking all things into consideration we should think one month is hardly too short until the supply is replenished. Those who are familiar with the habits of doves say that many are still nesting in September. It doesn't seem the sporting thing to do to shoot birds during nesting season. But the four o'clock ruling makes it unfair for the average sportsman who likes to get in his shooting after work hours. Most of us are that way, too. We can't leave our jobs just to shoot doves.

ATTRACTIVE

What a beautiful thing that municipal bath house is going to be. As you drive in the city park entrance the new structure certainly presents an imposing structure. With the big pool full of clear water and land about it terraced and sodded, and surfaced roads leading up to the place, it is going to be truly attractive. It is another reason why the park is going to continue in popularity.

ment by Mark Twain in one of his until recently unpublished diaries. His subject was Communism, something that must have been a bone of contention among thinking people than even as now. "It takes brains to keep money as well as to make it," said the immortal Twain, who went on to say that wealth would have to be distributed every three years to keep it from getting back where it originally was. His is a sparkling argument against drastic share the wealth plans today.

ANOTHER THOUGHT
 We learn from certain airlines officials that transport equipment must be replaced about every two years or else become obsolete. The companies who make this change, they tell us, make money by so doing. To this is attached another thought. Can others do it? If they could, then a lot of our unemployment problems would be solved as private industry accelerated production to meet increasing demands.

FREEZE YOURSELF SOME GOOD ICE CREAM!

Turn the crank or set the dial, and let home-made ice cream cool the tempers and tongues of your delighted family! Here are two unusual recipes, for two good kinds, and a sauce to put on top.

Date Ice Cream

1 cup milk, scalded 1-2 cup sugar, 2 tablespoons flour, 1-3 teaspoon salt, 2 eggs, 1 pkg. pasteurized dates, 1 cup orange juice, 3 tablespoons lemon juice, 1 quart thin cream. Mix flour, sugar and salt; add scalded milk gradually, stirring until a smooth paste is formed. Cook over hot water until the mixture thickens, stirring constantly. Pour the mixture over the slightly beaten eggs; cook over hot water for 1 minute. Strain; add finely cut dates and cream. Cool. Add strained fruit juices. Freeze. Makes about 2 quarts (12-16 servings).

Banana Ice Cream

1-2 cups sugar, salt to taste, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, 1-2 cup banana pulp, 1-2 cups light cream, ice and salt for freezing. Add sugar, salt, and lemon juice to banana pulp. Stir in cream. Freeze with a mixture of 8 parts ice to 1 part salt, 4 to 6 portions.

Caramel Nut Sauce

4 tablespoons butter, 1-1 1/4 cups brown sugar, 2-3 cup white karo, 3-4 cup evaporated milk, 1-2 cup chopped pecans. Melt butter in saucepan, add sugar and karo and boil to 230° F., or until it forms a very soft ball when tried in cold water. Add evaporated milk and nuts and serve warm.

HONEY DEW? CANTALOUPE? LIKE MELON? THEN HONEY DEW— have some! Combine cubes or balls of honey dew melon with slices of ripe banana, oxbheart cherries and segments of grapefruit (the canned variety for ease). Serve as a first or last course.

PERTINENT PARAGRAPHS

Watermelon "fingers" (strips of the meat) are gracing tall drinks on our best tables. Watermelon and shredded coconut is a new recommended combination.

Dates add nutriment and a firm chewy texture to summer salads; use the ready-pitted and pasteurized dates for convenience and safety.

Blackberries or Raspberries combined with sliced bananas make a new topping for sponge cake; serve with whipped cream.

Canned orange juice is a boon to campers, who may joy in the news that the fresh tang and flavor is retained by the quick process used by Florida canning plants.

Ice cream and gingerbread is a favorite summer combination since gingerbread just like Washington ate is ready-mixed for use.

Those large red or oxbheart cherries are delicious stuffed with almonds, salted or plain. Maraschino cherries and olives may be bought already almond-stuffed.

Bolted rice, green onions, cottage cheese and minced parsley, marinated in a mixture of lemon juice and mazzola and sprinkled with paprika is a new salad.

Save the tender radish tops and cook them with your spinach or other greens.

NAME THIS ONE

Olives, onion, green pepper and cooked bacon are a sandwich combination which is so new it has not yet been named. Chop each one finely, combining in proportions you like best, then blend the mixture with a tablespoon mazzola mixed with a tablespoon vinegar. Mix well and spread on toast; garnish with lettuce and mayonnaise, then choose your name for it. Among those already suggested, but which have not "caught on" are: "Creole" "Italian" "Savory."

DAINTY DELICATE

"Something simple" for Summer brings into vogue this tempting little cool-as-a-breeze pudding of the custard type, called

Caramel Tapioca

1-2 tbsps. granulated tapioca, 2-4 tbsps. maple karo, 1 cup milk, few grains salt, 1 teasp. butter, (melted) 1-4 teasp. vanilla.

Scald milk; add tapioca. Cook over hot water until tapioca is clear. Add karo, salt and butter. Remove from fire; add vanilla. Serve warm or cold with top milk or plain cream.

Do You Know Your Origins?

The origin of the foods we eat is a fascinating story. Here is the first group of a series of "origins": "Arady" was first used for a decoration by Hercules, as a mark of honor after vanquishing the

Tropical Mousse

1-4 cup chopped nuts, 1-2 cup pasteurized dates, chopped.

Grated rind of 1-2 lemon, 1-2 tbsps. lemon juice, Few grains salt, 1-4 teasp. nutmeg, 1-3 cup powdered sugar, 2 ripe bananas, 1 cup heavy cream.

Mix the nuts, finely chopped dates, lemon rind and juice, salt, nutmeg, and sugar. Mash the bananas; add to the first mixture. Beat the cream until thick but not stiff, combine with the remaining ingredients. Freeze in the trays of a mold packed in equal parts of ice and salt until firm. (2 to 4 hours), 8 servings.

Arabian Nights Salad

1 teasp. gelatin, 1-3 cup grapefruit juice, 1 cup whipping cream, 1-3 cup mayonnaise, 1-4 cup pecans, 1 No. 1 can grapefruit, 1-8 teasp. salt, 1-4 cup chopped figs, 1-2 cup pasteurized dates, chopped, 2 tbsps. minced preserved ginger.

Soak gelatin in grapefruit juice, dissolve over hot water, cool. Whip cream, fold in mayonnaise, salt and the remaining ingredients (which have been cut in small pieces). Freeze in trays of a mechanical refrigerator or in a mold packed in equal parts of ice and salt for about 4 hours. Unmold on a bed of lettuce and serve with cream mayonnaise. 12 servings.

The Sun Shines Hot

"The sands of the desert glow cold" according to a popular song, but the sun shines hot in Arabia. In that country the palm trees that make our cooling fans also yield their favorite fare—dates, "gold of the desert." Dates and milk, both pasteurized, provide an easy, filling but cool luncheon for our own summer days. The Arabs like their dates plain and pick them right off the tree, but we like our pasteurized in packages, and we put them in salads, desserts, even ice cream.

You'll enjoy these:

Bombay Curried Chicken

1 cup boiled rice, 2 tbsps. flour, Salt and pepper, 1-2 cups chopped cooked chicken, 2 tbsps. butter, 2 cups milk, 2-3 teasp. curry powder.

Prepare a white sauce from the fat, flour and milk. Add seasonings, chicken and rice. Serve hot in ramekins. This is excellent if rice is used for croutade and the chicken curry is served in the croutade, 6 servings.

Add 1-4 cup vinegar and 1-2 cup mazzola and heat thoroughly. Then add 2 hard cooked egg yolks, pressed through a sieve and blend thoroughly.

People everywhere like bananas in the summer time, although this fruit is a year 'round friend and not confined to warm weather menus. While our own native cooks are right now combining sliced ripe bananas and oxbheart cherries or other fruit for cool salads, and fruit cups, they are making pancakes with them in the West Indies! These are good for a main course at Sunday night supper.

West Indian Pancakes

1-2 cup flour, 2 tbsps. sugar, 1-8 teasp. salt, 1 egg, well beaten, 1-2 cup milk, 2 bananas.

Sift dry ingredients. Add milk to beaten egg and stir slowly into flour mixture until smooth. Pour onto hot, well-greased griddle. Drop a few slices of banana on top of each cake. Brown on one side, then on the other. Sprinkle with powdered sugar or garnish with jelly. Makes six medium-sized pancakes.

Shick Family Back From Trip Packed With Many Interesting Occurrences

Mr. and Mrs. Nat Shick and daughter, Lillian, have returned from a month's vacation in Long Beach, Calif. They were the guests of Mrs. Shick's mother, Mrs. Una Covert. One of the highlights of their trip was Shick's meeting with James Farley, Shick, of course, is the Big Spring postmaster while Farley is the federal postmaster general. "Big Jim," as Farley is called, obligingly autographed Shick's postmaster's association card.

Just before they departed for home they were afforded the opportunity of attending the memorial services for Will Rogers. They told of having stood in line for an hour and a half and walked miles to view the Rogers bier. Later they went to Hollywood bowl for services.

Mrs. Dixie Williamson and her daughter, Alma, stopped over Thursday to visit Mrs. C. L. Williamson. They were en route to their home in Eastland from Los Angeles, Calif.

U. S. FLIERS SET FOR NATIONAL AIR RACES AND SPEED DASH

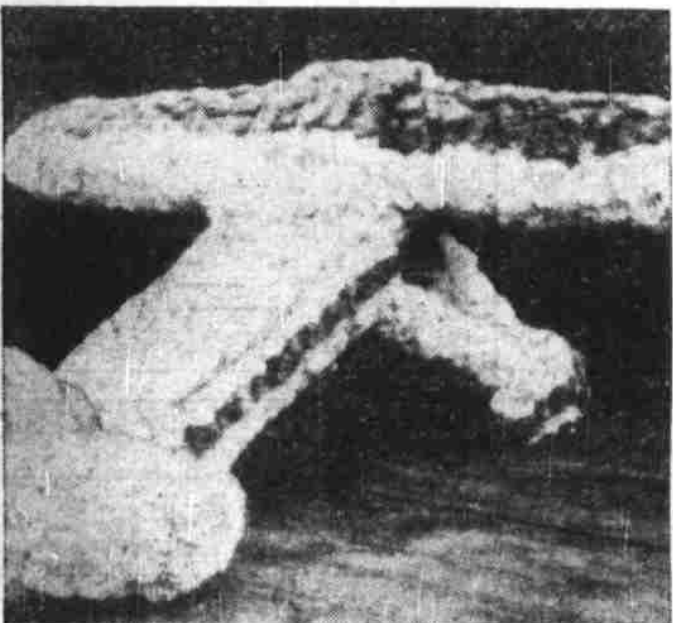

The aviation world is tuned up and ready to swoop down on Cleveland for another session of the National Air Races, starting August 30. The event will open with the 2,200-mile Bendix speed dash from Los Angeles to Cleveland, then to New York. Col. Roscoe Turner (left) holds the transcontinental record at present and will defend it, but faces stiff competition. Howard Hughes (center), millionaire California sportsman, is to have a try at the record in his $100,000 specially designed ship, as will the famous speedster, Benny O. Howard (right) of Chicago. A woman, Jacqueline Cochran (lower right), has asked permission to enter the dash. The reliability race, sponsored by Ruth Chatterton (full length figure) will be another opening feature. It will be based on performance and also will be from Los Angeles to Cleveland. (Associated Press Photos)

THE WINNIE MAE IN FLOWERS

A huge floral piece representing the Winnie Mae, historic globe-trotting ship of Wiley Post, was the main material tribute at the famous flier's funeral at Oklahoma City. It was made of 5,000 white and purple asters, shipped by air from California at the request of business associates of Post. (Associated Press Photo)

KANSAN RAISES 14-FOOT CORNSTALK

Harry Lumm, Labette County, Kas., farmer, took one look at the published photo of a New Yorker's 12-foot, 8-inch cornstalk for which some kind of a championship was claimed, and went to a corn shock on his place and found this lofty plant. It lacked one inch of 14 feet. Lumm and his wife are shown beside it. "It was too wet to plow this corn," commented the farmer. "It would have been a couple of feet taller if I had." # READY MADE WIFE

BY CORALIE STANTON

Chapter 46
GLADY'S STORY
 "Your sister is downstairs," said Rex. "I've put her in charge of the woman in the dressing-room who has taken her into a small salon, which is empty. She is very much upset. Go down to her at once."
 He caught Laurie's arm, as she swayed, almost fainting in her relief.
 "Steady!" he said gently. "You mustn't give way. Wait for me downstairs. I won't be long."
 As she hurried out, trembling, Jimmy Dallas with murder in his eyes.
 Gladys was weeping quietly in the simple, unrestrained misery of resistance in the exquisite, tear-drenched face.

 Laurie took her in her arms, thanking the dressing-room attendant and intimating that she could go. The little salon led out of a writing-room. Nobody was likely to disturb them at this late, or rather early hour.
 "Glad-Glad! My little one, don't cry!" soothed Laurie, like a mother. "You've nothing to cry about now. I've found you, darling; that's all that matters. You're quite safe with me. And Rex is here. Rex found you. Glad. He's wonderful. I'm so happy. I can think of nothing now that you're safe."
 The girl cried a little more, but not for long. In the atmosphere of love and selfless devotion with which her sister had always a tired child. The tears rained down in a curtain. She had evidently changed her clothes before her flight the night before. She wore a light blue muslin frock and a thin crepe coat over it, and a darker blue crocheted cap on her glorious curls. The dress and coat were crumpled, and looked sorry finery. Her whole aspect was bedraggled, like a flower that someone has broken off its stem and flung away. She had lost all her defiance, the note of gay selfishness had gone. There was no trace of sullen-surrounded her, she soon recovered herself. But it was a stricken soul that looked out of the grey-blue eyes.

 Glad's heart had been sorely wounded, but her self-assurance had received a more crushing blow still. She had thought herself so strong, so independent. She had imagined she could have plenty of fun, and not pay for it. She had put her faith in man in the shape of Jimmy Dallas. And she had had a nasty tumble from the dizzy height of romance and adventure into the mire of crass reality.

"Laurie, I'm so wretched!" she said, in a voice hoarse from fatigue and fright. "I thought he loved me. I was crazy about him. And now you'll hate and despise me. And I loathe myself for being such a fool."
 "Don't talk like that, Glad!" said Laurie. And now her level-headedness revealed itself, and she spoke in a quiet, business-like way. "Everything is all right. I have seen Mr. Dallas, and I know that he tricked you into coming here with him, and that you went away last night because you found him out. And in some wonderful way that I don't understand Rex and you," "Never mind, darling," said Laurie. "It's all right now." But Gladys had to unburden her poor little heart.

 "Now I know I never believed in him at all," she repeated in a strangled voice. "I just wanted to be with him—anyhow. It was all my fault, Laurie. I led him on to think that I knew what he meant. And I thought I did. But—when we were back again here last night, after the show and the supper—I just knew that I had been all wrong. I didn't want just a good time. I didn't want to be with him—anyhow. I'm afraid I made a silly scene. I knew what I'd done and I went quite dotty, I think. He tried to make me stay, and I ran away."

 "Laurie sat with her sister's hands clasped in hers. She did not look at Glad."
 "What did you do, darling?" "I don't know. It was very late, you know. I had to get a porter to let me out of the hotel. But it wasn't dark long. I got to the river and I thought I'd throw myself in. You see, I'm crazy about Jimmy, and I didn't want to live any longer. I just didn't."
 "But I was frightened and people looked at me so queerly. Oh, Laurie there were such dreadful people wandering about by the river! I felt like I did when I was ill in Sydney. I think I must have had fever."
 "But all today?" Laurie asked. "What have you been doing?" "Wandering about. I think I sat in a pretty park for hours. There were lots of children playing about. They were so sweet."
 "What have you had to eat?" "Nothing. I found I'd left my bag at the hotel. I hadn't even a handkerchief!" And Gladys gave a shrill little laugh that tore her sister's heart. "I didn't want food, anyhow. I walked about the streets until it was dark. I looked in the shops. Oh, Laurie, the shops are too lovely, aren't they?"
 This was a touch of the real Gladys, and Laurie smiled.
 "Then Gladys began to cry again, from sheer weakness.
 "When it was dark, I didn't know what to do," she said. "I went into a big church somewhere; there was a service going on, and such lovely music. But I felt terrible when it was over and they shut the doors. And in the end I thought the only thing to do was to come back to the hotel, and get Jimmy to give me some money to get back to England with. I found my way somehow—I met a man who spoke English—and just before I got to it, I came across Rex Moore. He was almost immediately outside. That seemed to be the end of everything."

They Live By Their Looks

JULIETTE FORGES, left, and Lucette Moirin, right... they do not speak, sing or dance... just walk the stage and look beautiful... they are "show girls"

Thousands of young women in the urban centers harbor beauty for a living—showgirls; models for painters, sculptors, illustrators; manikins in the fashion salons. How they live, play and think is told in a series of three articles of which this is the first.

By WILLIAM T. McLEERY
 NEW YORK (AP)—Scores of girls support themselves in New York by walking on a stage and looking beautiful for the customers out front. They toil not, neither do they speak, sing or dance; just look beautiful.

In musical show vernacular they are "show girls," furnishing background for principals and chorines. The visiting revelers smile and maybe wink at them, or try unsuccessfully to send them notes backstage. Otherwise the show girls are as unassuming as they are unassuming.

Lucette Moirin and Juliette Forges are two examples. They walk around the stage at the Folies Bergere six nights a week in absolute silence.

Rides Subway
 Juliette is 21, dark-eyed, serious. She lives with her parents, rides to work on the subway and aspires to dramatic stardom. This is her first show.

"No, it doesn't bore me," she insists. "I'm learning things by watching the others."

She spends about an hour on the stage every night, although she's not there for the money. She has sent theater and football tickets to her but she doesn't acknowledge them.

Lucette Walks
 For amusement she goes to matinees and reads rather heavy books. She gets $50 a week.

Lucette works the same hours, old and blond, comes from Chicago, lives at a hotel and walks to work. When she walks out on the stage she gets a kick out of "the funny fat men, grinning and looking very silly like kids away from home."

Lucette washes her own stockings, plays tennis and tries to spend one day a week in the country.

She's taking a course to improve her diction, because she wants to do in the movies. Rich playboys do not beleague her, she says, "alas."

Picked From Models
 Eddie Lewis, who is general manager of the Folies and has seen plenty of show girls come and go, says that silent beauties last only two years or so. The average age is between 18 and 21.

He picks show girls from the fashion model field "because they know how to walk."

Lewis says stage-door-Johnnies have disappeared, show girls aren't as hard-boiled as they used to be and that nice girls don't mind taking off practically all their clothes if they think the show is artistic.

black one will be included in the college wardrobe, while brown or bottle green may be chosen to accompany coats of those colors.

Coats 'Diversified'
 The coat question itself seems to be diversified as the college girls curriculum. For campus wear there are trim tweeds in falling leaf and wood tones belted and furred in some pett like beaver, or one of Creed's new military designs modeled after an army officer's coat with a fitted waistline and bold revers. There are three-quarter length sport coats and a number of new fur models—seal, beaver, nutria, etc.—in the same abbreviated cut. Afternoon teas will be attended by full length slender black, brown with fox or astrakhan.

The college girl's suit is apt to be made of two toned tweed with a slim skirt and one of the new box jackets which may be just a

 Such novelties as silver keys and crowns of gold acorns fashion them, a leather belt and a bright scarf tucked into the high neck—some of the interesting combinations.

The frock the college girl wears to tea may be one of the new soft velvets or faconne crepes accented perhaps at the neckline and waist by a gold rose or a thimstone morning glory as were those in Chanel's latest winter showing. ### TONY TIES INTO A LITTLE SNACK

Tony Laurentis, Philadelphia barber-gourmand, amazed some on servers by consuming at a single sitting a gallon of wine, four pounds of spaghetti, 12 chickens, two big steaks, a meat roast and a gallon of beer. (Associated Press Photo)

He is a barber by profession and a gourmet by nature. He is known for his ability to eat a large meal in a short time. He has a reputation for being a "big eater" and is often the center of attention at social gatherings.

Home Address Garden Of Eden

EVE brought Adam out of Eden, but what a pleasant place she has made the earth to live in since! We're thinking particularly of her modern incarnation — the twentieth-century Eve who is so skilled in the new art of living... She knows how to make a home delightful, how to cook, how to bring up a family, and how to entertain. All these things she does well, and with such ease and poise that her husband marvels.

Her method is no secret. She will tell you herself that she reads the advertisements. From them she learns how to brighten her living-room with sunfast draperies, and how to buy good, wholesome foods for her family. Advertisements of a magnificent piano prompted her to give her children a musical education. Her guests enjoy her taste in ginger ales. And, she has time to think of herself and to choose fine toiletries that accent her charm.

Read the advertisements in this newspaper, regularly! Their guidance will help to make you another Eve, and your home a new Eden!

Precarious— Although the rumblings lie deep beneath the surface, some progressives in the New Deal family are growing restless. Troubled insiders read that Messrs. Ickes and Wallace are sufficiently dissatisfied to toy with the thought of stepping out. The mere suggestion carries amazing significance.

Facts— Whenever people denounce boondoggling as a waste of federal money Harry Hopkins pulls the record on them. He silences many critics that way.

T. N. T.— But now complications have arisen to gum up the program. One of them is the report that the president intends to turn towards the right this fall and "ride the recovery train." If he does you can expect to see key indices taper off almost immediately.

Suspicious— Wise financial circles say that Vice President John Nance Garner is the man who is really behind FDR's decision to make fresh overtures to business. They add that Mr. Garner's stock as an administration adviser has risen sharply in recent weeks and that he will be increasingly important in White House councils from now on.

cent months have antagonized financial and industrial leaders to the point where they will be as suspicious of anything he has to offer as Hearst is of professors.

Determined— New York hears that a showdown on work relief is coming soon—and may end up with both Ickes and Hopkins in the cold. It was Hopkins who took it on the chin in the Rhode Island vote—but Ickes has been no ball of fire at putting over to date—but latest hostility continues to smolder to the detriment of re-employment.

Canada— Alberta's experiment in "social credit" is raising hob with that province's bonds but has had little effect on other Canadian securities. Financial circles are generally of the opinion that the rest of Canada is too level-headed to permit the infection to spread.

Correction— We recently published an item to the effect that the New York State Chamber of Commerce held the first August meeting in its history this month to protest the tax bill. A further check-up reveals that it also held one back in 1910 to fight the Gaylor charter which Al Smith and the now Senator Wagner were trying to jam through the legislature. Lyman Abbott and Seth Low came to town for the meeting. The charter was defeated.

G. O. P.— Another lovely catfight is brewing in New York state republican circles. Chairman Mel Eaton has yielded to temptation—and the plea of the Old Guard—and will fight this year's assembly campaign on national issues. This is duck soup for ex-Chairman Kingsland Macy—who is striving for a comeback. He has a sweet opening to build a following on the charge that Eaton is betraying his trust by ignoring state problems. Macy may keep quiet until after election—he wants to see the G. O. P. win as much as Eaton does—but things are sure to pop shortly thereafter.

Ryder was digging up bones of a large elephant when he discovered the fox head. It was in good condition and complete in detail.
