PLAN TO BUILD MUNICIPAL LIGHT PLANT IS DEFEATED

Opponents Win By 26 Vote Margin; Election Tuesday

More Interest In Issue Than In Any Election Held In Many Years

The proposal to establish a municipal light and power plant in Littlefield was defeated at the polls Tuesday.

In casting their ballots at City Hall, the property taxpayers of Littlefield voted for or against the issuance of $225,000 in revenue bonds for the purpose of building the plant.

There was more interest, and more campaigning in Tuesday's election than in any election that has taken place in Littlefield in many years. Proponents and opponents of the municipal plant lined up in two solid opposing groups and fought out the issue at the ballot box.

The opponents of the municipal plant won out by 26 votes. There were 207 votes cast in favor of the municipal plant and 233 against the plan.

The City Commission met at City Hall Wednesday and canvassed the vote.

Arthur Jones was presiding judge for the election; J. T. Bellomy, associate judge, and the clerks were John Keithley, Jr., Mrs. Arthur Jones, and Miss Myrtle Marion Shaw.

To Organize New Boy Scout Troop

Members of the Littlefield Lions club completed organization plans for a new Boy Scout Troop in connection with the Cub Pack they are sponsoring, Raynes Sparks, committee chairman, announced Wednesday.

The committee will consist of Sparks, Dodd Weatherly, Durwood Howell, Dennis ones and Grover Dennis. Scouts will begin meeting with the committee and Scoutmaster early next week, Sparks said.

Postpone Induction Of 28 Year Old Men

All selective Service local Boards in Texas have today received instructions from State Headquarters to postpone the physical examination and induction of men who were twenty-eight years of age or over on July 1, 1941, except those who volunteer for induction.

It is estimated, the director said, that approximately one-half of the 825,429 men who registered in Texas last October are affected by this order.

General Page said that local boards have also been instructed to postpone the induction of men who were or will be discharged from the Regular Army or the Coast Guard for the convenience of the Government within six months prior to the completion of their regular three year period of enlistment, inasmuch as the age deferment legislation in its present form includes a provision which would relieve such men from training and service.

County Cannery To Open Here August 11

The Lamb County Cannery will open next Monday, August 11, and will be operated on the same basis as last year, under the supervision of Mrs. Blanche Dodgen.

Patrons are urged to make their appointments ahead in order to eliminate any confusion in taking care of the many customers who will be coming in to get the Fall canning done.

The Cannery will open promptly at 8 A. M. Monday.

1869 Library Books Read During July

According to the City Librarian, Mrs. Lois Trotter, Littlefield Citizens really use the public library. During the month of July 1869 books were checked out to readers, and the previous month a total of 2167 books were read.

School students form the largest number of readers, the librarian stated. Littlefield's library, which was begun, and has been sponsored through the years by the Woman's Study Club, has a total of 21,000 volumes on its shelves.

Harvesting of Broom Corn Is Underway

The broom corn harvest started Monday when Hershel Barker cut the first crop to be cut in this section. His crop located one mile west of the Lums Chapel, yielded some excellent corn. He will start baling in about 10 days.

The broom corn growers have high spirits this year. The crops are better than usual and there is plenty of moisture to mature the corn within about 20 days, except the late crops which were planted about two weeks ago.

NEW SAFETY DEVICE

Newspaper men in Minnesota recently previewed what could develop into a major change in highway safety supervision—a signboard which automatically tells the automobile drivers when they are going at a dangerous speed.

The sign which was prominently placed before a highway junction, read: "Junction ahead! Your speed over . . ." and as each car approached the sign the speed at which the car was traveling was recorded.

The is no magic about the way the sign works even though the psychological effect upon the motorist is most startling. Two photo-electric cells are placed along the right of way approximately 750 feet ahead of the sign and 36 feet apart. As a car passes the first detector the sign lights up and as it passes the second detector the speed is instantly recorded on the board.

In addition to cross-sections, the inventors, T. L. Mork of St. Paul and George E. Sykora of Minneapolis, say that it's adaptable to dangerous curves, approaches to cities or towns and can even be used in unison with a second sign to warn motorists that a car is approaching from the other side of a hill.

It all sounds like a great contribution to the safety of the motorists of the future except for one thing. On a test sign that was used in the first demonstration, under the line about speed were big lighted letters reading, "Home Brand Coffee."

If this safety device is going to be used for highway advertising, thus placing advertising at the most dangerous points on highways, it would seem as though the danger features of such signs would more than offset its safety possibilities. But advertising evidently is the plan for the manufacturers have stated that the signs will be leased for advertising purposes only and not for speed trap use.

We hope the manufacturers will have a change of heart, however. We can imagine every local police department recommending such signs, but if they are just to be an advertising novelty then it would be better to forget them and wait for other safety inventions sponsored by firms with more humanitarian interests.

England's Gasoline Rations

Although in many sections of this country we are being asked to cut down on our consumption of gasoline and oil, our possible sacrifice on that score amounts to little compared with that of the people of Great Britain.

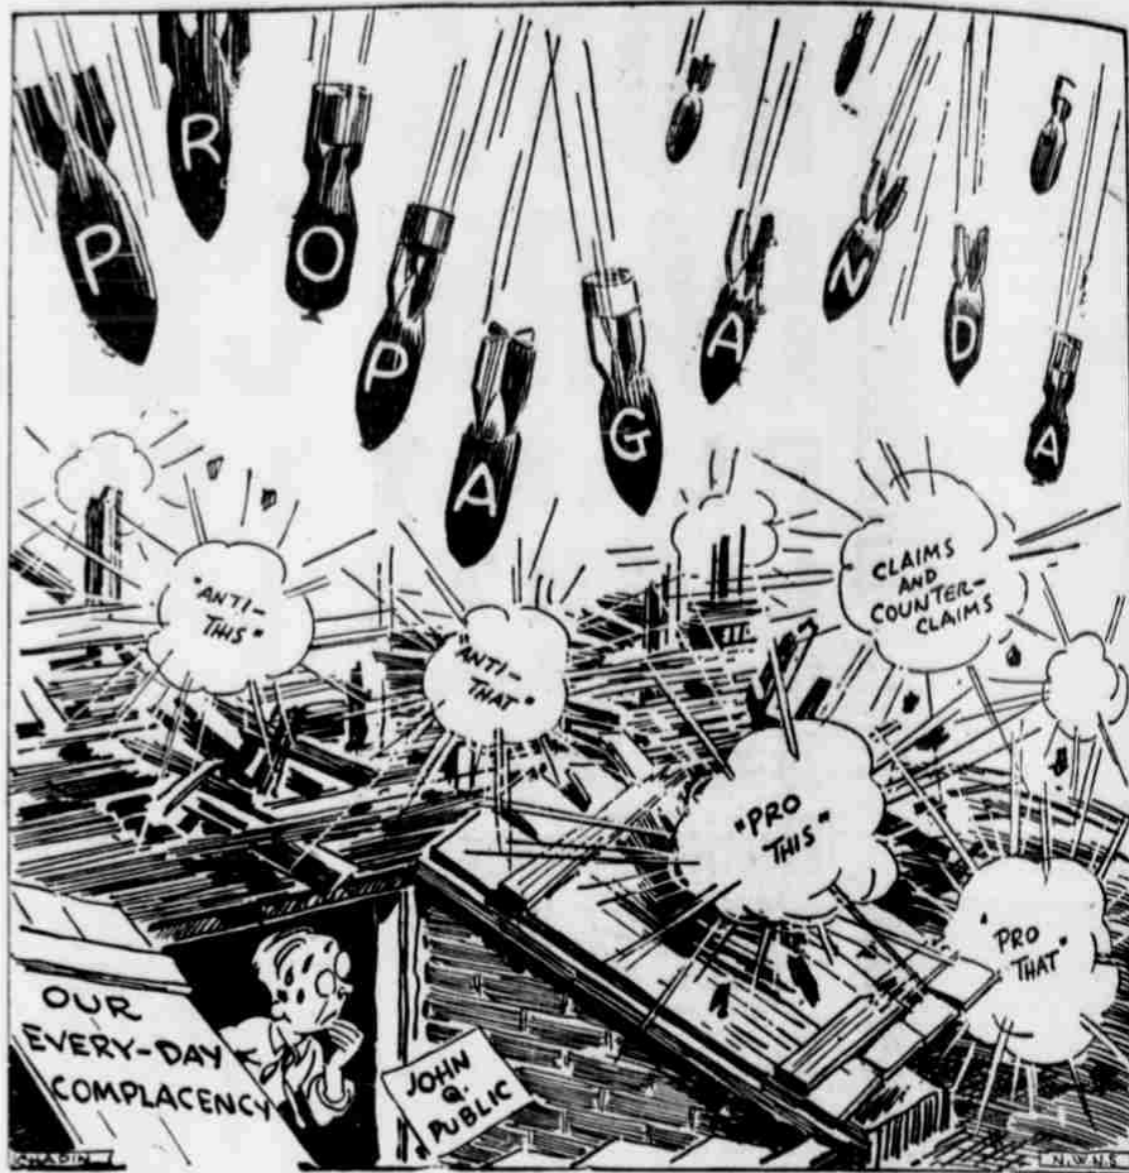

When the British faced a shortage the petroleum board promptly rationed the use of gasoline for all vehicles. The rationing for cars for private use was the most stringent. Each automobile owner was issued a coupon book good for one month, the number of coupons depending upon the horsepower of his car. For a car similar to the average one in the United States, the coupons entitles the car owner to buy approximately 10 gallons per month—enough to go about 40 miles a week.

Doctors, as well as others with a good reason for having more gasoline, are given extra books. Trucks are permitted from three to as many as 23 gallons a week depending upon their weight, but even for commercial purposes there has been a drastic reduction in the amount of gasoline which anyone residing in Britain is permitted to use.

In most of the world today, the automobile, which has become a necessity to Americans, is being treated as a great luxury and in very few countries it is being used at the present time for pleasure driving.

In England, the smaller automobiles which consume a minimum amount of gasoline, have been the best-sellers for some time. It will be interesting to see, as we gradually tighten our gasoline belts, if the smaller; more economical automobiles will replace the large cars on our highways, if bicycles will become a popular means of transportation, or if Mr. Ickes will get our oil problems worked out so that we can continue to use automobiles with our present disregard of gasoline consumption.

The ROAD to BAGDAD

by GEORGE GIBBS

CHAPTER XI

SYNOPSIS
 Successful Camilla Dean is touring Egypt and Palestine with a party of Americans including Slim, McManus, in love with Camilla, and Michael Gay, an engineer who hopes to establish a bus line to Bagdad. Among her other admirers are a wealthy Syrian, Hassan, and a young Arab leader of fanatical Arabs in Palestine, and Ronald Barker—leader of tribes opposed to Hassan. Camilla encourages Hassan's attention to gain information on the Arab situation, but refuses to marry Barker, who warns her of danger, but she crosses the Syrian desert with Michael and Gay—accompanied by a group from the Red Cross and Zaagi, Syrian guide. Zaagi drives the car off the road into nearby hills.

She was sure that it was useless for her to struggle, so she submitted, permitting them to lead the horse away—

"Get back to the road," Michael commanded, with a sudden realization that the bus had somehow got into a difficult position. "I'm not going to smash this bus on her trial trip."
 Zaagi moved one shoulder slightly and, putting on power, seemed to be finding a way between the jutting stones to safety, when miraculously there appeared out of nowhere among the rocks in front, beside and behind them, groups of mounted Bedouins galloping to the car, gesticulating with their rifles and shouting incomprehensibly.

"What does all this mean, Zaagi?" Michael demanded.
 "I don't know, monsieur. It is a branch of the Anazeh and they come to welcome us to their country."
 Zaagi opened the door and there was a short colloquy. When the conversation was ended Zaagi turned with simulated despair. "They ask tribute for passing through their lands," he said. "It is the custom of the country, they say."
 A man in a red pelisse who seemed to be the leader of the group now raised a hand commanding attention. He was taller than the others, wore a small brown beard and, judged by the standards of his people, was handsome of face and well formed in figure.

"He says," Zaagi translated, "that he wishes to examine your luggage and requests that you all step down while he does so."
 "I'm darned if we do," Michael replied.
 There was a moment of silence while the sheik sat gravely with an air of great dignity and patience, smiling at last as if in commiseration of their unreasonable attitude.

When he spoke it was with a stern expression. "He says," Zaagi interpreted, "that it will be much better if you do what he asks. He will perhaps detain you a very few minutes."
 The situation crystallized almost immediately as Michael took Zaagi by the collar of his tunic and threw him from behind the wheel, falling into his seat and turning on the power. Zaagi put a hand into his shirt and drew out a knife which he swung with a dangerous motion toward Michael. But Slim fired quickly and Zaagi dropped, rolling at the feet of an Arab who had come up the steps. That was the beginning of the trouble. Michael was trying to get the car in gear when somebody shot at him. Slim's automatic came into line again and fired several times. The sounds of firing now came from all directions. Michael had been hit in the shoulder and crumpled over the wheel, but he fired a final shot at a man clambering up the steps toward him while glass clattered and Janet Freestly's tiny revolver sounded like the yapping of a fox terrier above the roar of the heavy rifles. Camilla, still bewildered by the sudden conflict, rushed forward to pick up Slim's gun from the floor of the bus, when she was seized violently and carried bodily outside.

It was lively while it lasted, and fatal at least to poor Slim who had fallen prone, bleeding badly from a wound in his chest. Michael Gay still sagged over the wheel, a bullet in his shoulder, and Janet looked disgustedly at her little empty pistol and let them hustle her out to the ground. Doc Williamson, who was unarmed, obediently followed the directions of the bandits. Torelli was giving aromatic spirits of ammonia to Kitty Trimble, who had fainted.
 Camilla was aware of the man in the red pelisse urging her again toward the horse, and as she did not try to help him two men lifted her bodily and put her in the saddle. She was sure that it was useless for her to struggle, so she submitted, permitting them to lead the horse away from the group and over the hill to a flat plain which seemed limitless in every direction, except toward the mountains which they were leaving behind them.

There was no chance of escape. Two men rode with her, one on each side. She spoke to one of them in English, then in French, asking where they were going but she got no reply—unless his forbidding silence could be considered one. She tried the man on the other side with the same result.

It was then that the sheik in the scarlet pelisse, who had been riding behind her, rode up and took the bride of her horse from the man on her right who drew rein and took up the rear. "I regret, mademoiselle," he said at last, in execrable French, "that I was obliged to make you come with me against your will. But you will not be hurt or treated badly if you do as I command."
 "But what of my friends who are still alive? What of the bus with no one to drive it?"
 He made a deprecatory gesture. "It was bad that the big man should kill my companions. If he had not shot them, no harm would have come. He has shot no more."
 "You haven't heard the end of this," she said angrily as her courage returned. "There must be some law, even in this God-forsaken country."
 "Pardon, mademoiselle," he said, with polite incomprehension.

"Where are you taking me?" she asked. "Who is the man who planned this crime? And why do you take me instead of the others?"
 The sheik moved one shoulder and a hand as a gesture of incomprehension. There seemed no hope for her, less hope even than for the other survivors of the disaster.
 It was toward the middle of the afternoon that Camilla's captor rose in his stirrups and pointed to a hill that rose above the surrounding plain. As they drew near she saw at its base the black goatskin tents of a Bedouin encampment. Horses, camels and dromedaries were tethered to ropes pegged along the ground. "We shall rest here," the sheik said politely.

She made no comment and rode forward, trying to find new courage for the new adventure, whatever it was. Palm trees grew near the hill and extended out into the desert beyond. At the flap of the largest tent she was invited to dismount, but to her chagrin she had to be lifted to the ground.
 Then with the assistance of a girl who had now appeared she sank upon a divan in the tent and, with difficulty, relaxed her aching limbs. The girl brought water to drink and a bowl to bathe the dust from her face, then stood by as impassive as the riders who had brought her here.

Apparently Camilla was to be treated with politeness, for after a while the Bedouin girl brought a dish of lentil soup, a red pottage of the same recipe, probably, for which Esau sold his birthright. This did much to restore her mind and body. As she sipped the soup she asked questions, but the girl gave signs of incomprehension, her slow bovine gaze completing the conviction of ignorance and stupidity. Then, as if to atone for her mental deficiencies, she carefully arranged the pillows on the divan and by childish pantomime suggested that Camilla should go to sleep.

And now while she tried to think of poor Josie, Janet and Mrs. Williamson, and to wonder what might be done to help them, she sank back in utter exhaustion. Poor Slim! He was in her last waking thought. Slim had been the cause of the bloodshed and had paid heavily for his impulse.

It was quite dark when she awoke, dark and cool. She pulled the silken robe over her and wondered how long she had been asleep; then remembered that it didn't really matter what time it was. Of course escape was impossible and even if she had ever considered it, the distant sounds that now came to her—the sharp yelps from a pack of jackals fighting over a dead animal somewhere, the howl of a wolf or the distant wailing laugh of hyenas—would soon have driven the thought of escape from her head. . . . But after a while these sounds diminished, became a part of the night itself, and with the moaning of the wind, the quivering of the tent flaps made a desert symphony that soothed her to sleep again.

In the morning the Bedouin girl, whose name Camilla never learned, came into the tent with Camilla's dressing case, a larger basin of water, towels and soap, and placed them on a table. And when she had bathed and taken coffee, Camilla found a cigarette and smoked. As she did so, her mind clearing rapidly, the thought of Hassan came to her again. Hassan and not Ronnie. Hassan more ominous than ever after what had happened. Who else but Hassan would have selected her from among her companions and brought her here into this far-off place? She remembered with clearer comprehension the slow smile of her captor when the name of Hassan Isar had been mentioned. Hassan had planned this abduction just as he had planned the conspiracy against Ronnie. She was sure of it now and she was frightened. Her insincerity and disloyalty to Hassan now came to haunt her.

Whatever Hassan's sins against Ronnie, he had committed none against Camilla. From the beginning he would have done anything she asked. She had betrayed him again and again, and now her transgressions were finding her out. If Hassan had made her a prisoner she had little to hope for, and she was willing to admit that whatever happened to her would be nothing less than she deserved.

Ronnie had said that Hassan was politically powerful in this country; otherwise, she now realized, his men would not have dared to hold up Michael's bus and kill Slim. Just after sunset there was a sound of a rifle shot in the distance, an answering shot near-by, and an immediate commotion outside. The Bedouin girl rushed from the kitchen and the brigand who had captured Camilla yesterday passed before the flap of the tent in the sunlight and leaped on his horse. She wanted to run outside, but the Bedouin girl interposed, pointing to a camp chair that she had brought forward to the table. She gave a series of grunts which Camilla interpreted to mean that she was not permitted to leave the tent.

And yet in spite of her knowledge that she had brought all this upon herself she could not feel that Hassan would dare molest her on his own terms. Wasn't the reason why he preferred her because she could deceive him as she had always done? Wasn't this abduction merely his own way of making their caravan into the desert an accomplished fact in spite of her opposition?

His entrance at the flap of the tent was not in the least alarming. "Of course you know that if it hadn't been for your friend Slim, nothing would have happened yesterday."
 His voice was deep but mild and she gained courage. "Nothing, of course," she said, "but the holdup of an American bus and the abduction of an American girl traveling in it."
 "Granted, I intended to bring you here no matter what happened."
 "And how are you going to answer for it?"
 "I don't intend to answer at all. I'm not supposed to know anything about the holdup or about you."
 "My government will have a word to say when it knows the truth."
 "Who will tell?"
 "Dr. Williamson, Torelli, Janet, Josie—"
 "And how will they learn that I had anything to do with it?"
 "I will tell them after you let me go."
 He laughed jovially. Apparently he had determined to get as much pleasure out of the situation as possible. "Come, Camilla," he said, "Let's wait and quarrel after dinner. I hope the meal will be a good one." He clapped his hands three times and a tall Nubian appeared wearing the linen cap of a chef. He bowed as Hassan spoke and then the Bedouin girl returned, setting the table with a fine linen cloth and proper silver and porcelain furnishings.

Farmers Urged To Organize For Free Cotton Classing

Farmers of the several ginning communities in this section are urged to take steps for the organization of local groups to make application for free classing of their cotton according to reports.

Of the 30 or more gins in the county, this year only at one has free classing been made available, compared with the 13 who had qualified organizations last year, under the Smith-Doxey Cotton Classing and Marketing Act of 1940.

Since the deadline for making application for this free classifying service is set for August 15 some speedy cotton action in organization will be necessary, if free classing service is to be available to the bulk of Lamb County cotton growers.

Under the act in any community, or ginning community a small organization can be formed in which the ginner usually takes the lead and officers are elected. This organization in turn makes application for this free classing service.

If no organization is set up, and no free classing is available the classing is done at some out-of-county place which involves a delay of several days, and in addition the farmer pays 15 cents per bale, and some extra charges for transportation for each bale submitted or classified.

This service is available free, through the government and it will mean much to the farmers to cooperate in this project.

Application blanks and information can be had at the county agent's office.

aid, coffee and cakes were served to the following: Mesdames W. A. Locke, Ruby Sechrist, Iris New, J. C. Montgomery, W. D. McCarty, Don Brenister, Elsie Smart, Lois Sinclair, W. V. V. Smart, hostess and three out of town visitors, Mrs. E. E. Campbell, Mrs. Les Sinclair and Mrs. Lib Henderson.

The next meeting will be with Mrs. Amos Sedgwick August 14. All members are urged to be present. Visitors always welcome.

Mrs. Pat Boone To Entertain S. S. Class At Ranch Today

PROTECTION FIRST!

Make protection your first thought when you buy motor oil for your car. Make sure the oil does not contain any "5th Columnist" wax and petroleum jelly—those non-lubricating substances that turn water-thin in heat.

You can be sure by buying Sinclair Opaline Motor Oil. Opaline is freed of wax and petroleum jelly by an extra refining process. It protects your engine on the hottest day. And it lasts so long it saves you money. Play safe and save money. Ask your nearby Sinclair Dealer for Sinclair Opaline Motor Oil.

Revival Underway At Assembly Of God Church Here

There is a revival in progress at the Assembly of God Church 201 N. Morse Street, The Rev. A. J. Williams is pastor. The revival began on Sunday evening, the third of August, and will continue for two weeks longer.
 Mrs. Eddie Strickland is the Evangelist and she is preaching some very soul stirring sermons. Mrs. Strickland preaches a straight Gospel sermon, but she presents it in such a way that you will like it. Bro. and Sister Strickland are both musicians and singers, and you will enjoy their singing. There will also be special singing by the Nixon sisters rendered at each service.
 The public is invited to hear Mrs. Strickland as she preaches on such subjects as:
 "The Ideal Husband" or "What is Wrong with the Modern Marriage?"
 "The Permanent Wave that didn't Take"
 "What is wrong with Mrs. 1941's Attitude of Wifehood, or "The Ideal Wife".
 "The Ugly Duckling".
 "The Advance Fashion".

AMHERST METHODIST CHURCH

Very few men have ever been converted by abuse, yet there are many whom love has not reached. No man calling for a retreat cannot be called a leading layman. A quitter never wins and a winner never quits, but we have some in church who have taken out due to some small happening which was no doubt, not intentional.
 The Church is of God and shall endure until the end of time and if all people did not need a church, it would not have been instituted by the Master. Are you in or out, better get in.
 The pastor will be away for a few days, assisting a pastor in a meeting. There will be a good Laymen's program next Sunday morning, which will be different. Do not stay away because the pastor will not here there, you will get a good message. The church voted to discontinue services Sunday night. But do not stay at home or go somewhere else but attend church worship somewhere.

Rev. W. M. Fulton To Occupy Pulpit At Local Church

Rev. Mm. Fulton of Globe, Ariz., will occupy the pulpit at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday morning.
 Rev. Fulton is well known here, and a very able preacher. It is expected that a large number will be present Sunday morning.

"To My Friends"

A year ago today my Friends. We started on a journey of suspense and doubt. A journey that would be long and strenuous. How long my friends—could we hold out? But I found to my amazement, that such staunch and loyal friends. I had failed to count. There were times of darkness, times of renewed hope. Times of despair, suspense and doubt. But onward you came, never flinching, never failing. I knew you would be there, I could always count on that. God let me rest at night. Why not? Our friends were there to help him bout with life and death. Such care and patience I shall never forget. Such friends we could never do without.

God Bless you and keep you is my prayer to the end.
For with you my friends we won that bout. If I paid you that debt in silver and gold, it would reach to the tallest mount. So just let me thank and bless you, And be a friend you wouldn't be without.

Group Medical Care Program Successful Through FSA

More than five thousand low-income farm families comprising 27,281 persons working with the Farm Security Administration, U. S. Department of Agriculture in New Mexico and parts of Texas, Kansas, Colorado and Oklahoma, are participating in a Group Medical Care Program.

This information was received here this week by Fred L. Nix, rural rehabilitation supervisor for the FSA in Lamb County, from Wilson Cowen, regional director of this federal agency at Amarillo, Texas.

The information Mr. Nix said, was taken from a report for the fiscal year ending June 30.

The Group Medical Care Program sponsored by the FSA in cooperation with local physicians, makes medical attention more readily available to low-income rural people at a cost they can afford. The plan operates on a voluntary basis.

The Group Medical Care is in 79 of the 120 counties served by the regional FSA office in Amarillo.

Participating physicians in the 79 counties received an average of $10,000 per month in 12 months covered in the report at an average cost of less than $2 per month to the patronizing families.

The Group Medical Care Program makes it possible for physicians, particularly in rural areas to give essential medical care to needy farm families at the time it is needed. It also enables the participating families to safeguard their health and receive attention at a cost they can afford to pay.

This plan, according to Mr. Nix, has been in operation in some counties in this region for four years. It is now operating in about 800 counties throughout the United States, serving approximately 800-000 farm families.

Mr. Nix said that leading health authorities generally believe that this program is aiding materially in the present National Defense Program by protecting the health of many persons who usually are least able to take advantage of medical assistance.

Dr. It T. Shatwell, Jr. president of the county medical society, said today that the Group Medical Care Program for Farm Security Administration families in Lamb County has been in operation since 1938 and that on the whole the doctors and families have been satisfied with the way in which the plan has operated.

CAMERON'S New Farm and Ranch Plan Book and Survey Service

What is CAMERON'S New Plan Book?

Here is a practical, new Plan Book which offers you new plans of Farm and Ranch Buildings—structures which are:

1. The most economical to build for their specific purposes.
2. Are designed to increase your profits and income.
3. Are constructed so as to last—reduce upkeep—increase the value of your investment—save you time and needless steps and work.

These plans contain the accumulated experience of Wm. Cameron & Company's 73 years of meeting and successfully solving Southwestern Farmers' and Ranchers' building problems.

These plans are ready for you to see and use at your nearest Cameron Lumber Store. They are hot off the press—brand new and include the best and latest in Farm and Ranch construction. When you buy your materials from Wm. Cameron & Company, the necessary plans are furnished you free. Included in the Plan Book are important technical data on ventilation, necessary size of structures for each given number of livestock, etc. Regardless of whether or not you are now planning any building, remodeling or repairing—it will pay you to see this new Plan Book at your nearest Cameron Lumber Store—TODAY!

What is CAMERON'S New Survey Service?

A Farm or Ranch is, in fact, a factory. Its purpose is to earn profits. The buildings and structures on that Farm and Ranch are important in causing a profit or loss. The location of the buildings in relation to each other, the convenience of their inside layout, their efficiency, upkeep cost, and the time and work they do or do not save determines whether you will have high or low operating costs. The lower your operating costs, the higher your profits will be.

To have a low operating cost Farm or Ranch you must plan your buildings—their location, construction, interior layout and the use of correct materials. You must have a plan—low operating cost farms don't just happen—they are based on careful study and planning.

To meet this need, William Cameron & Company developed their new Farm and Ranch SURVEY SERVICE. Special printed survey forms are provided on which you, with the assistance of your trained local Cameron Man, can:

1. Make a survey of your existing buildings—their layout, location, condition, etc.

2. The findings of this survey are placed on the Cameron Survey Form, furnishing a written record of the layout, design, efficiency, condition, etc., of your existing buildings and equipment.
3. Next, on the basis of this information, plus your needs and the new ideas, plans and data contained in the Cameron Farm and Ranch Plan Book—you can scientifically determine what must be done to make your Farm or Ranch Factory a lower operating cost one.
4. On these facts a definite program is laid out—not to be completed in one year—but over the years a sound plan is set up which will reduce your operating costs and increase your profits. As you proceed with the plan—it will begin to pay for itself.

Right now, take advantage of this new, scientific Cameron Way of increasing your profits. It's the businesslike way—the way factories—your Farm or Ranch Factory—can be made to increase its earnings. See your nearest Cameron Lumber Store NOW—This Cameron Survey Service is free and without obligation.

THE PEOPLE HAVE SPOKEN

The campaign for the building of a municipal light plant has ended and the voters of this City have expressed their disapproval of the project.

We tried to conduct our part of the campaign on a high plane and we close the campaign with no feeling of ill-will toward those of the citizens who differed with us.

We feel that, in part at least, the vote against the municipal plant was due to the confidence of the citizens of Littlefield that this Company would deal fairly with them in the matter of service and such rate reductions as it is possible for us to make.

To justify that confidence which you have thus expressed,

WE PLEDGE TO YOU:

1. That our SERVICE to you will be as prompt and dependable as a well trained personnel and the development of the electric industry can assure.
2. That we will give to you that FAIR AND COURTEOUS TREATMENT to which you are entitled and which we have endeavored to give you in the past.
3. That we will, at the earliest convenience of your City Commission, meet with them and any interested citizens, to study our rates AND ENDEAVOR TO MAKE SUCH ADJUSTMENT OF RATES as will give to the citizens of Littlefield as low a rate as the volume of business and cost of production will permit.
4. That we will in the future, as we have in the past, work with you, your City Commission, and your various civic organizations, in every effort to make of Littlefield a BIGGER AND BETTER CITY in which to live.

We appreciate sincerely the friendship and confidence of our patrons and citizens of Littlefield, and we shall endeavor to so conduct our business with you in the future as to merit and obtain a continuance of our past friendly relations.

Local Resident Reports On Trip Into Canada

H. R. Collins of Littlefield left Thursday, July 17, on a trip north, and sent the following account of the first portion of his trip to the Leader—which reads as follows:

"It was seven-thirty p. m. when we left home and headed north. We did not see much crops today, July 17. The weeds were so high on both sides of the road we couldn't see over them. Seen one thing that was interesting, a man was trailing a combine on the road and hooked the sickle on a solid highway post and if he hadn't of been there and told us it was a combine we wouldn't have known what it was. He asked me what I thought it was worth. I asked him how much it weighed and he said he did not know, so I told him it was worth twenty-five cents a hundred in Lubbock. Then we drove on to A. L. Walkers in Terline and stayed all night with him, (244 miles).

July 18—We ate dinner and headed north to J. R. Benton's, 66 miles, and stayed all night. He has some grass as fine as a man ever saw and his stock sure was fat and pretty. And his wife sure did have a yard full of pretty flowers, lots of them wild, but all in bloom.

July 19—We spent the day visiting Mr. Benton's neighbors as this is a thinly settled country we drove 52 miles and just seen 3 of his neighbors we saw some friends of ours that we hadn't seen for 29 years. Sure did enjoy the day.

July 20—We headed north again, drove 227 miles today and stayed all night near Colorado Springs.

July 21—Thought we would go up Pike's Peak on the cog railroad it was run by a wire cable and it was but after looking the train over, we seen that it was run by a wire cable we asked the conductor if it was safe and he said they hadn't never had any trouble with it. We asked him what would become of us if the wire cable would break as we went up and he said that depended upon the way we had lived here before. So we drove on around where the highway went up and the road looked good, so we started up with my wife in the back seat. You know how it is with a back seat driver. But she said if it hadn't been for her we never would have made it. So I guess Laverne was the only one that enjoyed the trip. But we made the trip and got down again and headed north. Seen some fine country and good crops and fine orchards of cherries. Landed in Cheyenne, Wyoming about dark and drove 270 miles.

July 22—We drove around Cheyenne until noon and in the afternoon we went to the rodeo, said to be the world's largest rodeo. Lots of good sport, lots of Indian performers but the horses and cattle were not broke to ride I guess, anyway they wouldn't let the boys ride. Plenty of good whiskey and the boys might have been drunk for there wasn't half of them that rode their mounts. The horse races were good. There were 137 Texas cars at the rodeo. We left Cheyenne and drove out 84 miles and stopped for the night.

July 23—We headed north at 9:30 and again saw some very interesting places today. See what was called "Hell's Half Acre" and it looked just like Carlsbad Cavern with no top on it. Drove through some pretty canyons and tunnels. Laverne drove through the tunnels and got lots of fun out of honking

Whoever lost this cold I have may have it 'back, I'm tired of it.

Mrs. C. E. Toney is on the sick list this week.

Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Yarbrough and children are off on a big fishing spree.

S. H. Whittenburg attended the P. S. A. meeting at Plainview last week.

Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Schulz and family are visiting their daughter, Mrs. Bruno Ganzer and family of near Ballinger. Miss Verdel will return home with them after several weeks visit with Bruno and Mary.

Dai Brandon spent several days last week with his grandparents at Earth. Mrs. L. M. Brandon visited in Earth Sunday evening.

L. M. Brandon and P. S. Hanks will have to go back to work now. They came in Monday night with the other bus drivers, and report a fine time, and a long road back home.

Connie Powell and family enjoyed a visit from his sister, Mrs. Murrel Chisholm last week.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Montgomery motored to Clovis Sunday.

We wish to thank the people of our community for their fine cooperation in the aluminum drive. You really did your part.

Oh, yes, we got our shower alright. Not to mention that little three inch flood later in the week. Crops are looking mighty good and a few more weeds die every day, thank goodness.

That new motor at Weeks-Bagwell Gin looks as though it ought to be able to pull a one row cultivator all right. I'd like to borrow it for a week. Maybe I'd catch up.

Well, so long everybody. See you next week.

musicals, "Kiss the Boys Goodbye" at the Palace Saturday Midnight, has a fast moving story and numerous humorous lines and situations based on Clare Boothe Broadway play which concerns the efforts of a Chorus girl, Mary Martin to win a part in a play from the director Don Ameche. When she puts aside her New York ways for those of the South the fun begins.
Others in the cast are Barbara Allen, Oscar Levant who supplies much of the comedy. Rochester, comedy, as usual, Connie Boswell, and Virginia Dale. Music is conducted by John Scott Trotter of the Bing Crosby radio show.

"Hold That Ghost" To Be Presented At Ritz Theatre

The king of the jesters go a Haunting at the Ritz Theatre Saturday midnight, Sunday and Monday in "Hold That Ghost".
Bud Abbott and Lou Costello, laugh hits of two Universal box-office sensations, "Buck Privates" and Abbott and Costello and Dick Powell in the Navy, are coming back to the screen in another Universal comedy, "Hold That Ghost", which promises to outdo their previous successes from the standpoint of mad hilarity.
Playing in support of the stellar comics are such outstanding marquee "names" as Richard Carlson, Joan Davis, Mischa Auer, Evelyn Ankers, Shemp Howard, the Andrews Sisters and Ted Lewis and his Orchestra. "Hold That Ghost" most of which is backgrounded within a long-abandoned and sup-

More Wheat Shipped From Here This Year

More wheat has been shipped from Littlefield this year than in previous years Doggett Grain Company reported this week.
This company reports that 28 carloads of wheat have been shipped from here this year, whereas the average for previous years was 10 cars.
Most of the wheat went to the government loan bringing from 87c to $1.00 per bushel, which averages a good price for wheat that was below the average grade.
Officials of the Doggett Grain office stated that much of the wheat in the Spring Lake territory came to Littlefield this year, due to the paved road into this town from that section. Wheat was also shipped

NOTICE TO TAXPAYERS

The State Advalorum Tax Rate for 1941 has been set at .58c on the $100.00 valuation, which is a reduction of .11c under the rate for 1940. (The State rate for 1940 was .69c, and was the statutory limit of .77c for 1939)

The County rates for 1941 are the same as for the last few years except in parts of the County wherein new Road Bonds have been voted.

I give you below the rates for 1941 for the different parts of Lamb County.

In the old Road District No. 2, which includes all of Commissioners Precincts Nos. 1 and 2, also a small part of Precinct No. 4, and in which the towns of Olton, Earth, and the larger part of Sudan are situated, the rate will be:

State Adv.	County Adv.	Prec. R & B	Road Dist. 2	Total
.58	.75	.15	.05	$1.53

This compares with a total rate of 1.64 in this district for 1940.

In the newly created Road District No. 1-A which extends across the southern part of the County and includes the City of Littlefield, the rate will be as follows:

State Adv.	County Adv.	Prec. R & B	Road Dist. 1-A	Total
.58	.75	.15	.65	$2.13

This compares with a total of 1.59 for this district in 1940.

In the recently created Road District No. 3 in which the town of Amherst and surrounding territory are situated, the rates are:

State Adv.	County Adv.	Prec. R & B	Road Dist 3	Total
.58	.75	.15	.70	$2.18

This district had a rate of 1.59 in 1940.

The following parts of the County will have the lowest rates, as no Road Bond levy is made,

First - in that part bounded by Precinct 1 on the North, by Hale County on the East, Road District No 1-A on the South and by Highway 51 on the West (which includes the communities of Field-ton and Hart Camp).

Second - that part of the County bounded by Bailey County on the West, by Road District 1-A on the South, Road District No 3 on the East, and by Road District No. 2 as the Northern Boundary (The community of Beck's Gin is in the extreme southern part of this section, also the southern part of the town of Sudan).

These 2 parts of the County will will have rates of,

State Adv.	County Adv.	Prec. R & B	Total
.58	.75	.15	1.48

This compares with a rate of 1.59 in 1940 levied in these parts of the County.

Consequently parts of the County will have a larger, and parts a lower Tax Bill this fall.

BUILDING, EXPANDING --TO GIVE A LARGER, BETTER SERVICE

Since we established our business a number of years ago we have constantly improved and expanded our facilities in meeting and anticipating the needs of our customers.

Our latest improvement is the launching of construction on a 30 x 60 two-story grain warehouse. This project will be followed, it is planned, with the building of a modern new grain elevator.

These improvements will enable us to handle an immense volume of grain and feed of all kinds, and provide for the farmers of Lamb County and the South Plains a good market for their products.

In carrying out the expansion program, we are not unmindful of the fact that we owe our progress in business to the friendship and loyal patronage of so many of the citizens of Littlefield, Lamb County, and the South Plains. We thank you most heartily for your splendid co-operation, your friendly interest and patronage.

Littlefield Appliance Co. To Observe Third Anniversary

Now Located In New Hall Building
On Phelps Avenue

Giving Away Of 100
Cook Books To Be Special Feature Sat.

The Littlefield Appliance Company, of which A. W. Ray is owner and manager moved this week to the new Hall building, located south of the former location on Phelps Avenue, next door to Houk's Grocery.

The Littlefield Appliance Company, Friday and Saturday of this week, will observe their third anniversary in the Butane business in Littlefield, and their formal opening in their new and larger building. A special feature of Saturday, will be the giving away of 100 Roper Cook books. These books will be given away to the first 100 women registering at their store Saturday. Registration will start at 8 a. m.

This new building affords the Littlefield Appliance many times the floor space of their former building, and permits them to display a full line of the various appliances handled by them.

The Littlefield Appliance Company are dealers for the Electrolux, (the gas refrigerator) Roper and Florence Stoves, Rheem Hot Water Heaters, Butane Gas Systems and appliances, including both heater and cook stoves.

Mr. Ray has been a resident of Littlefield for the past 13 years with the exception of a short time spent at Lubbock. He has been in business here eight years, and has been dealer for Electrolux refrigerators two years.

A branch store, handling the same lines as the Littlefield establishment, is owned and operated at Olton, with Mr. N. D. Ray in charge.

Mr. Ray is assisted in the operation of the local store in a very capable manner by Mrs. Ray.

Employed by the Littlefield Appliance Company are: Leon Todd, Plumber; Bennie Shipley, Service Man; W. M. Whicker, Service man and Plumber; R. V. Armstrong, Plumber and Jimmie Foust, Plumber.
