Church and Choir Loft of Methodist Church Is Completely Rebuilt

The project gives a complete new appearance to the sanctuary. The rebuilding program was initiated by a gift of Mr. and Mrs. John Wood to redecorate the walls of the sanctuary. With this accomplished, a dream was born: the rebuilding of the altar and choir loft. Rev. Harry Vanderpool, pastor, talked over the project with Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Little, and they asked for the privilege of financing the work. This offer led to other offers of assistance, and soon the work became a church program in which several people participated. Truce Agreement Brings Joy to County

Littlefield and Lamb County citizens rejoiced this week, as did the entire country, over the signing of the Korean armistice pact. The truce became effective at 10 p. m. Monday, at which time all shooting stopped along the 155-mile battlefront. The Allies and Communists agreed to start exchanging almost 87,000 prisoners of war on August 5. Of these prisoners, 3,313 Americans will begin the march out of Communist captivity. Some Americans may be on their way home within five days after trading begins. (Continued on Back Page)

Littlefield Test Well Is In Clearfork

Littlefield's oil test well was drilling ahead late Wednesday in dolomite in the lower Clearfork formation, which was reached at about 5,500 feet. The depth was 5,851 feet at 5 p. m. Wednesday. Very hard formation is being penetrated at this time, the bit making hole at 12 to 20 minutes to the foot. The third and last drillstem test was made at 4,159—4,253 feet. The first test is reported to have been the most favorable. This was made at 3,940—4,020 feet. Some production was possible at that depth, but the Littlefield test is strictly a wildcat and more hole was made in making a thorough check of all possibilities. The contract depth of the test is 7,700 feet, which is expected will be reached in the Wolfcamp formation after drilling through the Wichita-Albany. There has been plenty of production in this section of West Texas in the Clearfork and the Wolfcamp. The latter formation can sometimes be very good. The test is known as the Texas Company No. 1-98 Union Compress and Warehouse Company.

C. J. Duggan, personal representative of John W. Murchison, is shown as he presented a check for $2,535.20 to Joel Thomson, County Clerk. This check covered the recording fee for 808 oil and gas leases and two assignments. These leases and assignments cover the grilling block in the townsite of Littlefield, and adjacent acreage. Witnessing the transaction were Donald Chaffin, left and Bill Herring, right, of the clerk's staff. Photo by Taylor

Boys' Car Runs After 49 Years

THEN AND NOW—Judge and executive as they are now (below) and in 1904 with the "buckboard" still runs, they built as teen-age boys. It

AP Newsfeatures

EMMAZETH, N. J.—Two dignified, gray-haired men recently trundled a strange looking nine foot wheeled device out of the cellar of a house on Prince Street. It was a home-made automobile powered by a primitive one cylinder engine, which they had built in 1904 when they were boyhood chums here.

One of the men was Woodruff W. Halsey, sales manager of a battery firm. The other was Federal Judge Edward J. Dimock, of the New York District Court, who recently presided at the trial of the second string Communists.

Dimock and Halsey got the idea of resurrecting the ancient "buckboard", as it was licensed in 1904 by New Jersey's department of state, while reminiscing last fall about the pleasures of their boyhood.

The car, sawed in half, still was in the cellar of Halsey's home.

Old Motor Runs

Working on week-ends, the judge and the executive restored the buckboard to its oldtime glory. They were amazed to find the original motor still worked.

The car has bicycle type wheels at each end, connected by a plank. The motor is set up at the rear and there is a small hood at the front with a steering wheel. The width is about two feet.

It is a little difficult at first to tell which end is which. Especially since the operators sit back to back on the plank, one steering and the other fiddling with the motor.

They also must sit cross legged, since the plank is only a foot from the ground and there is no provision for leg room.

Natives Amazed

After the buckboard was refurbished and had a new coat of shiny black paint, Dimock and Halsey pushed it to a quarter-mile track, for a try out. Passersby gaped and scratched their heads as the two men rolled the 250-pound contraption through the streets.

The motor was started with a scratchy roar and it moved about a sixteenth of a mile down the track before a cloud of blue smoke emerged from the motor and it conked out.

Some delicate adjustments of the carburetor were made and the trial run continued.

"Our pride will be hurt if it does not go around the track once without stopping," said Halsey to the sale taker, a newspaper reporter.

Twice the buckboard negotiated about three quarters of the track before gasping to a stop.

Repairs Needed

Finally with a running push, Judge Dimock almost completed a lap. Then the proud owners decided more repairs were needed on the carburetor, which wasn't feeding enough gas from the three-quart tank on the rear.

The buckboard qualifies as one of the oldest operating motor vehicles in the state of New Jersey.

The boys first got auto fever in 1903 when they were in their early teens. They built their "model A" then, which was powered by a sail. It was a far cry from Henry Ford's model of the same name in later years.

The sale frightened horses and police hanned it.

The youthful inventors then came up with "model B" equipped with a 1/2 horsepower engine and unique direct drive. It could only be stopped by turning off the gas and "hopping for the best."

Old 35 MPH

"Model C," the present surviving vehicle, came next. It is chain driven and according to Halsey was capable of 35 miles an hour in its heyday.

A fourth car—"model D" of course—was built a year later and lasted four years. It unfortunately met head-on with a huge Newfound-

1702. PERRY HOMESTEAD, Wakefield, R. I.

AP Newsfeatures

This small, gambrel-roofed house was the birthplace of Oliver Hazard Perry, who won the great naval victory over the British on Lake Erie, and of his younger brother, Matthew Gilbraith Perry, who opened up the ports of Japan to the entire world. The house has been called "the house that launched a fleet of ships." The land upon which the old homestead stands, has been in the Perry family, since 1702, when Benjamin Perry came here from Sandwich, Mass. It was thoroughly restored in 1929, by Mrs. Perry Tiffany, wife of the last descendant-owner. It is located on the old Kingston Road at Rocky Brook, in Wakefield, Rhode Island and is open to visitors during the summer months. It contains many relics of historic interest.

land dog one day and was never the same.

In the renovation, the men had tires custom made for the buckboard. Wood to restore the chassis was shipped down from Hartwood, N. Y., where Judge Dimock has a home.

Under the tiny hood in front is a battery, about one quarter the size of the modern batteries Halsey now sells.

No Breaks

In the center of the steering wheel is a metal handle to regulate speed. The car has no lights or breaks. An operating bar on top of the hood takes the place of a gear shift and a leather belt serves as a clutch.

There is one thing under the hood, which Judge Dimock calls "the most important piece of equipment we have."

It is a fire extinguisher.

A reduction in expenditures can be expected this year on farms that make large purchases of feed and livestock and reductions in cash returns will be greatest on farms whose products have dropped farthest in price since 1952, such as beef cattle.

Village? Bonn Is Growing Up Now

By RICHARD KASISCHKE
 AP Newsfeatures
BONN—This city on the Rhine, set up as the "provisional" capital of the (West) German Federal Republic in 1949, is getting to be less provisional all the time. It is experiencing one of the biggest building booms in European history. If divided Germany is ever reunited and the capital moves back to Berlin, it will be something of a ghost town. Some people still sneer that provincial Bonn is "a Bundesdorf (Federal Village) and not a Bundeshauptstadt (federal capital)." But the sneers are getting weaker all the time.

year, the second section in mid-1954. The new Wilhelm Strasse (as the foreign office was known in Berlin) is the Koblenzer Strasse. On Koblenzer Street—Bonn's main street—also are the federal chancellery (the Palais Schaumburg) and the presidential mansion (Villa Hammerschmidt) and dozens of other government offices. The Federal parliament building has been twice expanded and now is more than double its original size. It also has a "hochhaus"—a nine-story annex. But the biggest builders in the community still are the Americans.

CONTRAST—Chickens roam near big building in Bonn.

Why, they've even cleared away those chicken and pig pens that stood for three years in a lot directly across from the federal parliament building. New government buildings are popping up all over the place. Also new apartment houses and single dwellings—here and in adjacent Bad Godesberg and Mehlen. Bonn, ancient university town and birthplace of Beethoven, has erased most of the scars of war-time bombing. Its population has passed 115,000 from 95,000 five years ago. It is now even getting "Hochbaueser, (high houses)," eight or nine-story buildings that rate as skyscrapers in low-building Europe. The latest "hochhaus" project is a nine-story structure planned for the new foreign ministry. This ministry's more than 1,000 local employees are now scattered through 18 different buildings, grabbing space where they can. The new structure is to cost $3,165,400 and the first section will be completed by the end of this

The United States has spent 25 million dollars in construction here. The Americans have erected four vast projects. In Mehlen they have a huge, modernistic complex of office buildings housing their high commission. In Bad Godesberg they have a "Little America" town to house their American employees. It is complete with shopping center, church, school, theater, bowling alleys, swimming pool and restaurant-night club. Then there are two big apartment layouts for the high commission's German employees. This construction was financed out of Marshall plan counterpart funds. The French also have raised a big new complex of high commission-embassy offices and restaurant-clubs in Bad Godesberg. The British are now completing a new embassy building in downtown Bonn. When the federal government was set up here in 1949 the opposition Socialists built themselves

Stitch A Party Apron

By DOROTHY ROE
 Associated Press Women's Editor
 Aprons go glamorous for summer sewing. Anyone who can use a sewing machine can stitch up a variety of aprons for many occasions. For example, the one pictured here is a party apron, dainty enough to show off at your most important cocktail party. It requires only one and a half yards of cool green organdy. Use mercerized thread in matching green and frost the pocket with appliqued white lacy flowers, centered with a pearl or rhinestone bead. (The cut-out flowers are available at notion counters.) You may change fabrics and trimmings to produce aprons to fit any mood, costume or occasion. Local sewing center experts suggest this same apron fit denim or sailcloth for a back-yard barbecue, in which case the pocket may be decorated with an appropriate motif such as a chef's cap or a hot dog, appliqued or done in outline embroidery, by hand or on your sewing machine. Trima checked apron with rows of rickrack, or make personalized aprons for bridge-club prizes by stitching rickrack initials no the pocket. A series of aprons in different colors will be a welcome contribution to your church or club bazaar. Whether your apron is frivolous or practical, use your imagination to make it a gay fashion accessory. For free instructions for making this apron, write to: APRON INSTRUCTIONS, P. O. Box 145, 285 Madison Avenue, New York 17, New York.

a sprawling, wooden party headquarters. But the Socialists, hopeful that the Russians might relent in the cold war and permit Germany to be reunited, took this "provisional" business seriously. Their building, is only bolted together so that it could be easily dismantled and carted up to Berlin.

After four years, local wags remark, the Socialists' bolts are getting rusty. They like to point to the flashy new Coca Cola plant, a hundred yards away, which was built boldly and permanently and expects to be in business here for a long time.

Safety for Children

Train youngsters the art of living safely. According to Mrs. Eloist Johnson, family education specialist for the Texas Agricultural Extension Service children follow the examples set by older folks. Certainly, then, if you want your children to live safely, parents must live safely and teach the children to be alert to danger.

The attitude children as well as adults have towards danger will have an influence on their being safe. Accidents just don't happen, they are caused, so teaching young folks and helping older ones to live longer safely is a matter of developing safety attitudes—good positive attitudes towards safety and accident prevention.

The specialist says the home atmosphere is partly responsible for a major portion of the accidents that happen each year. Some of the most potent causes are worry, dissatisfaction, annoyance, anxiety and unhappiness. "We need to slow down to live safely with the hazards that we can not eliminate," Mrs. Johnson says.

Teaching the young child to push the button on the door to lock it when she first gets in the car will help create in the child an attitude of safety first. That is much better than frightening the child about falling out. Safety belts for automobiles like those used in airplanes, are good investments. They can promote a feeling of great security in car riding for both child and the driver.

Children love to climb and they can be taught to climb without danger. Study the procedures used for teaching this nursery schools. Children are helped to learn to climb, where to put their feet and how to brace and hold, to reach with their hands, and how to come down as well as climb up.

Teach children how to cross streets. For a year or so before children begin to travel along the streets, give them the responsibility of giving the go or stop signal, by watching the lights or pretending there are lights. They can enjoy being the traffic policeman at each corner. Help them learn not to laugh and talk while crossing the street, but to be alert until they are safely on the other side.

Recreational activities are a major source of injuries in the 14 to 25 age group—the group which suffers accidents due to cars, burns and shocks. The parent's attitude about safe driving, and handling equipment and machinery can help the young folks to learn safe habits.

Training for crisis can prepare young and old alike to react without panic. They can have prepared decisions or plans ahead of time if one member of the family falls off if the car skids around a curve or slides on a highway, or if they are in a burning building. Having a plan and practicing how to use the plan helps transform fear and panic into positive action.

Help your children think and feel positively towards safety. This is sound safety insurance for the whole family.

EARNEST MONEY CONTRACTS OFTEN MISTAKEN FOR "RECEIPT"

An all too common trap for the prospective home buyer is a sales contract signed under the delusion that he is merely signing a "receipt" for his earnest money payment. Once the buyer has signed such a contract, he is bound by its provisions. Many unfortunate entanglements have been announced by clients to lawyers with the words, "I have just signed a receipt for a house on Blank Street. Will you take over now and see that everything is O. K.?"

Sales contracts are often called by other names, such as earnest money contracts, binders, receipts, etc. All of them are for the same purpose and almost without exception involve the deposit of money by the buyer. Some require the seller to put up a good faith deposit. The fact that such deposited sums are usually to be forfeited in event the depositor later fails to go through with his specified contractual obligations lends additional weight to the often stated admonition that no contract should be signed without complete understanding as to its terms.

But many home purchasers (and sellers) rush to sign a hastily prepared contract with very little knowledge of its contents. The pressure of time, the informality of the occasion, the casual appearance of the contract, and perhaps the fact that a partially printed form is used may contribute in causing the true importance of the act to be overlooked. At any rate,

Winners in bedroom and wardrobe contests will be visited.

REMEMBER

The following was news in the Lamb County Leader of its issue of August 30, 1954.

Application for a permit to form a Federal Building and Loan Association in Littlefield has been made, according to an announcement by Calvin Henson.

The necessary permit to establish the association is expected to arrive this week.

Under the Government Housing Act the Federal Government will match every local dollar for building with at least three federal dollars and in some cases with as much as $4.40.

A movement is underway in Littlefield now to organize a local building association under federal regulations to meet the building needs and to avail Littlefield of the federal building money.

County Judge Simon D. Hay was re-elected in last Saturday's run-off campaign, in which his opponent was O. H. (Dad) Reeves. Judge Hay received 1,807 votes and Mr. Reeves 1,607.

F. O. Bolee, successful candidate for County School Superintendent in Saturday's election, and principal of the Littlefield High School for the past nine years, tendered his resignation to the School Board last Tuesday.

Lamb County contributed to the substantial majority which elected George Mabon, youthful district attorney of Colorado as the first representative from the newly created Congressional District. He defeated Judge Clark M. Millican of Lubbock.

Lamb County returned a plurality vote for James V. Allred for Governor in last Saturday's Democratic run-off primary. A total of 1,987 votes were cast for Mr. Allred, as against 1,426 votes for his opponent, Tom P. Hunter.

Sheriff Len Irwin take notice! In fact all officers are warned to be on their toes watching for developments.

The editor of the Leader and Bill Pass have arranged to fight their dogs Friday morning.

The bloody affair would have taken place Tuesday afternoon only for the fact that Bill would not get his killer in condition.

Vernon Shelton, Milo Farr, and Harvey Theford, are watching with interest the outcome of Friday's go, all declaring that they have dogs, which they guarantee to make the winner of Friday morning's contest wish that he had never been born. Noble Halliburton hasn't issued a statement, but he is expected to issue all challenges—and probably suggest one or two.

Here's the honest low down, folks, Bill Clark owns the mother, Noble Halliburton owns the father, and all the above mentioned, including Noble, are the owners of bull pups aged about six months.

The Littlefield High School football Squad, numbering about 35, accompanied by L. T. Barkedale, coach, left Littlefield Wednesday for Palo Duro Canyon, where the boys will take training twice each day for the next week or ten days.

Morgan Layfield, Earl Hobbs and W. T. Hanes accompanied the group and will assist in the work.

Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Sales returned Sunday evening from a ten day pleasure and buying trip to Central Texas, Chicago and other points in the north.

Complimenting members and guests of the Tuesday Club, Mrs. J. O. Garlington entertained at 4 tables of bridge Tuesday afternoon at her home on East Ninth Street.

Miss Carrie Lee Collins, who has been a member of the faculty of the Littlefield schools for the past six years, recently resigned as instructor in Home Economics.

Up to Saturday night, August 25, 3,265 head of cattle have been purchased in Lamb County. Of this number 1,826 head have been condemned and 2,240 head were purchased for shipment. The numbers represent the total purchases from 314 farmers. The total payments for the cattle purchases so far amount to $34,080. Checks are being received for the cattle purchased. As soon as the check reaches the County Agent's office, cards are mailed out notifying the farmers to come in for their checks.

Up to the present time 1,265 contracts have been signed to sell 9,197 head of cattle in this county. Nine hundred forty-seven farms with 5,932 head of cattle remain to be worked.

R. F. Littleton, who has been connected with the Littlefield post-office for the past few months, has resigned his position effective September 1, and will make his home in San Antonio.

The third annual county wide tour will be conducted next Wednesday, September 5, under the direction of Miss Bernice Westbrook, C. H. D. A., and G. R. Schumann, Assistant County Agent.

Miss Maxine Wiseman, Mrs. Cecile Foster and Mrs. Mickey Stephens, all of Sudan, went to Threeway last Thursday night to be judges for a Farm Bureau queens contest.

Miss Gail Arnn, 16, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. G. Arnn, and Miss Anne Cole, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecile Cole, were selected to represent Threeway in the Balley County run-off for Farm Bureau Queen. This contest will be held during the Will Rogers roundup, an annual affair held in Balley county.

Mrs. Maxine Nichols, Miss Bette Reeve and Miss Georgia Stephens, all of Sudan, also went to the contest. After the judging ice cream, pop and cake were served by the Agriculture Boys of Threeway.

Farmers Hard At Work Since Recent Rains

While Lamb County farmers thronged seed stores early last week following recent general rains in the area, ranchers and stockmen poured into the county PMA office in Amherst with applications for part of the drought emergency livestock feed which began arriving last week end.

PMA officer Charlie E. Hill said that a cut in allotments would necessitate decreasing the feed ordered by cattlemen, but emphasized that everyone who placed an application for feed would get part of what had already arrived in Amherst.

Cattlemen were almost unanimous in this county in declaring that if the recent rains had been a few weeks earlier they would not have needed any of the emergency feed.

Seven carloads of cotton seed cake have been shipped into Lamb County so far, with other feedstuffs expected.

The county committee for distributing the government underwritten cattle feed said that as long as eligibility was left up to the discretion of the committee, the committee would continue to exercise its own discretion as to those who would receive feed. The committee pointed out that no "pauper oath" would be required to prove eligibility for the feed.

Farmers from dryland areas of the county were in the fields all week when they were not in town buying seed to plant. Planters ran all week long, with hegarl, cane and other early maturing grains getting the nod from most farmers.

County Agent David Eaton urged farmers to plant early maturing cover crops to serve the dual purpose of keeping down soil erosion this winter and to make a crop in the short growing season that is left.

The office of the Texas Employment Commission said it was unable to fill all the orders for tractor drivers that had come in since the showers began.

Rainfall had totalled more than four inches in some parts of the county.

ed veneer and will it stand up under a fall shower?
2. Does he disagree with your theories about family, religion, politics and make an issue of it? Or does he try to understand your point of view?
3. Has he said he really cares or have you been sniffing orange blossoms from his sweet and glib talk?
4. Does he rave about his mother's cooking, and criticize everything he eats away from home?
5. Is he tolerant of your lack of know-how when it comes to such sports as swimming, golf, fishing, tennis? Or does he criticize your honest efforts?
6. Do you feel that you could improve him, especially those ghastly ties and suits he wears, and the way he drops his "gs" and "rs".

7. Do you have more education than he does and would this give you an inferiority complex?
8. Do you have mutual enjoyment of a few things or does he scorn your interest in music and you his enthusiasm for baseball?
9. Do you like his parents? And could you live under the same roof with them if you were compelled to?

10. Do your parents like him? If not what are their objections and are their criticisms justified? Perhaps these pointers seem unimportant to you now. But the swain who pitches the best woo doesn't always make the most desirable husband and most times doesn't even propose. While it does seem to be rushing the orange blossoms to look at your date as a future husband, it really isn't when you consider how slim present-day pickings are, and how short-lived a girl's romantic life is.

The goal of most girls is to marry. So why waste your time with bad prospects while prize fish are being hooked by more alert damsels? One out of every three girls between 17 and 19 years of age is married. So you have a busy brigade out with their fishnets while you idle away your time.
If every girl dated a boy thinking of him as a marriage prospect, there would be fewer bachelor girls. Every smart girl would discard the boy who did not suit her requirements for a husband at once and precious years, months, weeks and days would be saved.
It is silly to date any boy just to pass the time away, unless he invites you to a large soiree where you can meet other young men. But some girls aren't happy unless they can dangle one man until they find another.

ARTHUR DUGGAN SPEAKS TO ROTARIANS

Arthur Duggan, an attorney from Littlefield, was the principal speaker for the Sudan Rotary Club meeting Wednesday of last week in the Methodist Church annex. Duggan discussed "Underground Water" as it affects the people of the South Plains. He was introduced by Lloyd Robinson, program chairman.

Duggan traced the history of the Lamb, Cochran, Hockley and Bailey Counties water conservation district and their methods of operation. Following his talk he held a question and answer session for the benefit of farmer members of the Rotary club.

Seven Littlefield Rotarians attended the meeting. They were Judge E. A. Bills, Duggan, Bill Storey, Art Chesher, David Keithley, Doc Wright and Charles Duwall. Jim Carrol of Littlefield and Mayor Harold Close, Sudan, were guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Salem Expected Back This Week End

Sudan's Fire Station Under Construction

Sudan's new fire station now under construction will be completed at least 30 days before the new fire fighting equipment, including a new Chevrolet chassis with modern Hoyer equipment, arrives here the latter part of September, according to Fire Chief Frank White.

The new structure which was started here recently will be of tile and stucco construction to match the Sudan City Hall and is being built by city employees under the supervision of White. The new double-entrance station will be 20 by 26 feet, large enough to house both old and new equipment of the city.

White said the structure would be completed sometime in August and was being paid for out of the city building fund.

Miss Hay, a former teacher in the Littlefield schools, graduated from Trinity University, San Antonio and received her master's degree from Columbia University, New York.

During the past year as teacher in Anchorage, Miss Hay wrote many interesting letters to her parents, describing vividly trips by plane and dog sled.

Miss Hay will return to Anchorage next month to resume her duties as a teacher.

HIGH SCHOOL BAND DIRECTOR RESIGNS

With the resignation last week of Ralph Umberger, Sudan High School band director, three vacancies are still to be filled before the Sudan faculty roster is completed for the 1953-54 school terms.

C. O. Gregory, superintendent, said Umberger's resignation came as a surprise and that he would be hard to replace. Umberger has accepted a position as band director for a high school near Corpus Christi.

The other positions on the faculty to be filled are fourth grade teacher and junior high school instructor.

Gregory announced the school board had contracted with Hank Brown, former head coach at Silverton High School to act as assistant football and basketball coach for the coming year. Brown plans to move here about two weeks before school starts on August 31st.

Mrs. Orva Knight, a home economics teacher with more than 10 years experience in her profession has accepted the position as home economics teacher for the coming year. She is a graduate of North Texas State College.

Other recent appointments for positions with the Sudan Schools included Burt Aubrey, Lubbock, who has assumed his duties as janitor, and Johnny Franklin, Elettine, new bus maintenance head.

This is disclosed by a survey study made by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce.

West Texas retail sales totaled $3,032,069,000 (b) of Texas' $8,925,203,000.

West Texas had 16.5 persons per square mile, according to the 1950 census. The state average was 29.4.
