

Littlefield Man Is Active At Demo Convention

Duggan, Lamb County and all other delegations to the state convention at Littlefield last week voted in the middle of the course of the Governor Allen Shivers' campaign.

Represented by Shivers at the state convention, Duggan said he was one of the delegates from Lamb County who voted for Shivers.

At the state convention, Duggan said he was one of the delegates from Lamb County who voted for Shivers.

cast all Lamb County's seven votes. The Credentials committee on which he served was one of the most closely watched at this particular convention because it decided whether or not certain delegates contested from several counties could be legally admitted to the convention. These particular delegates, not sent officially from their home counties were not admitted as legal delegates — a factor of great importance in the contest between liberal, conservative and middle-of-the-road factions.

Liberals at the convention made an attempt to stop the return of some who bolted the party in previous years, but the Shivers forces won out 1,620 votes to 440.

The Liberals, who had gained control of party matters in the state, lost most of the powers at this convention. No honors were extended to Dixiecrat elements, either, even though they were accepted back on agreement to pledge loyalty to party nominees.

Called the "Governor's convention," it was reported to have been just that. Duggan said the wishes of the people were respected this time and the leftists and fascists gained no ground. In the words of keynote speaker Leroy Jeffers of Houston, the course lies "neither with the rabid right nor the intemperate left."

He recalled the nearly 900,000 votes polled by Governor Shivers in his first campaign for the office this year, and said it was a mandate from the ballot box to give unified and qualified support to the governor and his program.

Duggan, who also had a hand in drawing the party platform, said

none of the progress made with water conservation programs in this area had been disturbed.

District Executive Committee members elected include: L. C. Ellis of Lubbock and Mrs. Lucille Walker of Plainview.

Persons elected on committees at the convention include Joe E. Webb of Hale County on the Credentials committee; Permanent Organization committee, O. B. Ratliff of Lubbock; Platform and Resolutions committee, Homer L. Pharr of Lubbock county; Committee to Convey results of Primary elections, Harry Mann of Levelland; Committee to Appoint Party Officers, William T. Curry of Gaines County. All of the above committees were elected unanimously at the district's caucus meeting Monday night.

J. E. Durham Harvests County's First Bale Of Cotton September 15

Lamb County's first bale of cotton has ginned in.

J. E. Durham, heavy-set farmer, whose face is tanned by the sun and wind and who farms two miles south of Bainer, brought the 546-pound bale to Bainer Ginn last week. It was unloaded Friday morning at the First National Bank in Littlefield.

The county's season opener required about 20 pickers, picking for two hours, skimming the best cotton from about 15 acres.

Planted April 25, the cotton was not fertilized, but was irrigated at various times during the season.

Full harvest is expected to start in about a week or ten days.

Durham, easy-going and wearing a wide grin, seemed very pleased to have been the first farmer in the county to bring in a bale and win the Cotton Derby. He was awarded a prize of $150 in cash, arranged for by the agriculture committee of the Chamber of Commerce. Durham said he was very happy to win the Cotton Derby of Lamb County.

Weldon Findley is chairman of the agriculture committee, and committee members include Irvin Oustead, Viggo Peterson, Clint Griffin and W. H. Cunningham.

Approximately 14 percent hail damage was done on the cotton on the Durham farm during the recent storm. Durham reports some damage by bollworms, although not to such a great extent as had formerly appeared.

Littlefield's first bale of cotton, grown by J. E. Durham, and ginned by the Bainer Ginn Company, was auctioned off in front of the First National Bank Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock, and brought 50 cents per pound, or a total of $273.00. Jack Rowan, local auctioneer, sold the bale to the Bainer Ginn Company. There were 546 pounds of lint.

Wildcats Level Levelland in 'B'-Team Clash

The "B" team of the Littlefield Wildcats smashed across 13-6 win over the Levelland Lobos' "B" squad Thursday night at Levelland.

Lines of both teams held in the first half, and no score was made. The Lobos scored six points in the third, and the Wildcats wracked up 13 more in the final quarter, winning the game this year for the first time in seven years.

Coach Forrest Martin said it was the first time in seven years the Wildcats have defeated the Lobos with anything except their first string.

Kenneth Reel, 122-pound junior with no previous football experience accounted for both counters, one of which came in the last minute of play.

The first time the Wildcats gained possession of the ball they made a goalward march all the way down to the Lobo one-yard line, but were stopped there.

Levelland's lone score came when the Lobos charged from the Wildcat one-yard-line and made it over.

In the fourth quarter Reef went off right tackle and stormed 16 yards to score. When R. L. Rhoten was stopped on the one-foot-line and the attempt for extra point was not successful.

Their second counter came when the Cats took possession with only one minute to play. Beckner and Reel teamed up to drive to the 5-yard-line, from which Reel skirted left end for the second score. Then Beckner went off right tackle for the extra point, bringing the final score to 13-6.

Men who showed well on the defensive were Jordan, Rhoten, Williams, Burrow and Beckner.

The Wildcat "B's" will meet the Lubbock Pioneers next Thursday at Lubbock. Last year both teams exchanged one win and one-loss in two games.

After the completion of this building, it will be accessible to other civic and community organizations who wish to use it, according to members of the planning committee.

Committeemen for this project are as follows: Offie Shannon, Joe Salem, Rev. Sherrill, A. Dooley and Shelby Morris.

State Fair to Bury Time Capsule For Opening in Year 2050 A. D.

The 1950 State Fair of Texas will mark the Mid-Century point in history for future generations by burying a Time Capsule with instruction not to open until 2050 A. D.

The Time capsule containing data of historic interest about life in Texas during the first half of the 20th Century, will be sealed and buried on the final day of the 1950 State Fair Mid-Century Exposition.

Disinterment of the hermetically sealed metal cylinder 100 years hence will probably be a high point of the next Mid-Century Exposition. Its contents will enable Texans to the 2050 Fair to marvel or smile tolerantly at the way we live in 1950.

Prominent among exhibits to be included in the Time Capsule to give a true picture of Texas in 1950 will be copies of the front pages of virtually every newspaper, daily and weekly, in the Southwest. The front pages will be photographed on microfilm which will be specially treated and sealed in an airtight container of its own.

Other items will include documents and photographs pertaining to the history of Texas and the State Fair and a description of the everyday life of today. The Atomic Age Science Show of the 1950 State Fair will present a graphic picture of the near-miracles which have been accomplished by science in the first half of the 20th Century," said James H. Stewart, executive vice president and general manager of the Fair.

"At the next Mid-Century Exposition, when the Time Capsule is opened, who can predict what unimaginable marvels may be revealed at the Science Show of that far-in-the-future Fair? At any rate, it may be amusing to our descendants to see how amazed we today are at the Atomic Age accomplishments which then will no doubt be something from the realm of antiquities."

The Time Capsule will be buried at an impressive ceremony at p.m. Sunday, Oct. 22. Officials of the Fair are consulting engineers concerning the type of cylinder to be used and how best to preserve it in its resting place for the next 100 years.

Bailey and Lamb To Need Workers

About 10,000 field hands will be needed in Lamb and Bailey counties for cotton harvest activities expected to start about Oct. 1, according to an estimate by J. D. Jordan, manager of the Littlefield office of the Texas Employment commission. Indications are that Lamb county will have between 85,000 and 100,000 bales of cotton and Bailey county about 12,000 bales, Jordan said.

The local TEC office supplies farmers with information on the progress of harvest in other areas and movements of crews. Jordan asked Lamb county farmers to notify his office of cotton acreage, housing accommodations and the probable date they will need hands; and to be prepared to trade with crew leaders on that date in the TEC office.

State Fair to Bury Time Capsule For Opening in Year 2050 A. D.

The 1950 State Fair of Texas will mark the Mid-Century point in history for future generations by burying a Time Capsule with instruction not to open until 2050 A. D.

The Time capsule containing data of historic interest about life in Texas during the first half of the 20th Century, will be sealed and buried on the final day of the 1950 State Fair Mid-Century Exposition.

Disinterment of the hermetically sealed metal cylinder 100 years hence will probably be a high point of the next Mid-Century Exposition. Its contents will enable Texans to the 2050 Fair to marvel or smile tolerantly at the way we live in 1950.

Prominent among exhibits to be included in the Time Capsule to give a true picture of Texas in 1950 will be copies of the front pages of virtually every newspaper, daily and weekly, in the Southwest. The front pages will be photographed on microfilm which will be specially treated and sealed in an airtight container of its own.

Other items will include documents and photographs pertaining to the history of Texas and the State Fair and a description of the everyday life of today. The Atomic Age Science Show of the 1950 State Fair will present a graphic picture of the near-miracles which have been accomplished by science in the first half of the 20th Century," said James H. Stewart, executive vice president and general manager of the Fair.

"At the next Mid-Century Exposition, when the Time Capsule is opened, who can predict what unimaginable marvels may be revealed at the Science Show of that far-in-the-future Fair? At any rate, it may be amusing to our descendants to see how amazed we today are at the Atomic Age accomplishments which then will no doubt be something from the realm of antiques."

The Time Capsule will be buried at an impressive ceremony at p.m. Sunday, Oct. 22. Officials of the Fair are consulting engineers concerning the type of cylinder to be used and how best to preserve it in its resting place for the next 100 years.

Bailey and Lamb To Need Workers

About 10,000 field hands will be needed in Lamb and Bailey counties for cotton harvest activities expected to start about Oct. 1, according to an estimate by J. D. Jordan, manager of the Littlefield office of the Texas Employment commission. Indications are that Lamb county will have between 85,000 and 100,000 bales of cotton and Bailey county about 12,000 bales, Jordan said. The local TEC office supplies farmers with information on the progress of harvest in other areas and movements of crews. Jordan asked Lamb county farmers to notify his office of cotton acreage, housing accommodations and the probable date they will need hands; and to be prepared to trade with crew leaders on that date in the TEC office.

Tommy Bailes Leading Candidate For Freshman Football Honors

HOUSTON, Sept. 17. — (Special to the Lamb County Leader) — Littlefield's brilliant fullback, Tommy Bailes, was among the largest contingent of former high school athletes ever to descend on the University of Houston.

The athletes, 55-strong, all enrolled at the University this week and promise to make the competition for the freshman football team the keenest ever.

Bailes, a 5-foot, 11-inch, 195-pounder, played four years at Littlefield high school where he led the state scoring parade last year with 193 points and captured all-state honors.

Freshman Coach Bob Evans said Bailes would be a leading candidate for freshman football honors at the University. Since the University adopted the varsity rule this year, freshmen will have to play a year on the frosh squad before coming eligible for varsity competition.

Full might of the Mules was unleashed in the second quarter as 30 points were scored. Kersey intercepted a pass from the Rams' B. Nelson on the Portales' 43 and carried it to the three yard line. Nickles executed a quarterback

Mighty Sudan Team Trounces Lockney Longhorns By 33-0

A powerful team of Sudan Hornets stung the Class A Lockney Longhorns with a clean 33-0 win, outclassing the Steers from beginning to end at Sudan's Masten Stadium Friday night.

Before an estimated crowd of 1,500 fans, the Hornets slammed up and down the gridiron, scoring five times and holding back the Steers every time they went on the offensive.

Coach Francis Smith's hard-trained eleven showed rushing power and faultless precision in many instances, gradually gaining momentum until the final seconds of the last quarter, when they had become a virtual powerhouse, swamping the Longhorns at every turn.

Friday's win made up for the 20-19 defeat inflicted on the Hornets last year by Lockney.

Scoring once in the first period, twice in the second, the Hornets held off during the third quarter before ramming over another two punters in the final period.

Proving the worth of their reserves this year, Coaches Smith and Curtis Kelley used almost every man in both "A" and "B" squads, and little difference could be noted in the fast, clean mechanism of any two combinations.

Harlan Pickett, Hornet fullback, returned Lockney's initial kick from their own 45 to the enemy 45 when the game began. He and halfback Don Whitmire worked together to drive the ball down to the Longhorn 13 yard line, then to the 11.

Then Whitmire went deep around right end and was smacked only inches from the goal line. On the next play he finished the job, plowing over the necessary inches and scoring. Pickett came through for the point and the score stood 7-0 in favor of the Longhorns early in the first quarter.

C. B. Smart, 155-pound fullback for the Longhorns repeated his fast, pile-driving tactics employed the week before against the Littlefield Wildcats. He battered his way from his own 30 to his 40 before getting almost completely away and going all the way down to the Sudan 15. The Hornets buckled down, however, and Lockney lost possession on downs shortly before the first quarter ended.

Early in the second period Pickett scored the second counter for Sudan when he darted around left end and straightened out to go more than 70 yards to the goal line. His successful conversion made the score 14-0.

The next several minutes of the game were occupied by both teams charging up and down the field, neither able to score against the other. However, when the Hornets had the Longhorns on the Lockney 30, Whitmire intercepted a pass from Smart and tore around right to the 5-yard-marker. The score by Pickett came three plays later from that point, and when the point was made, the score stood 21-0 for the Hornets.

Sudan intercepted still another pass before the half, but were unable to score before time expired.

In the third period Lockney buckled down, and their line held better than at any time during the game. No additional score was made until the final period.

The fourth score came when Quarterback Bob Lynch pushed a pass out to G. W. Maxfield for an eleven yard gain and Whitmire and Pickett taking it from there to the goal line. Whitmire accounted for the first eight, and Pickett went the final three for the counter. The score was 27-0 when the conversion was unsuccessful.

Once more the firey signal caller intercepted a Lockney pass and on the first play from scrimmage ripped around left end for eleven yards and the last counter of the game.

At half time the Sudan band, arrayed in the schools traditional black and gold colors marched out on the field and gave an impressive display of baton-whirling, martial music and precise letter displays. At one point the lights were put out and a baton, lighted at both ends, was twirled in the darkness, amid cheers from the crowd.

Throughout the game both the Lockney and the Sudan Pep squads gave their teams moral support with ear-splitting yells and traditional school chants.

WITH BRUNKS COMEDIANS—The Farren Twins, Jimmie and Eddy, are appearing with Brunks Comedians in the tent theater here this week. The young men are not strangers in Littlefield, having appeared here formerly with the Harley Sadler Show. Jimmy and Eddy are generous purveyors of western and modern music, and appear each night along with four other acts in conjunction with the regular stage plays.

Morton Indians Outclass Ralls in Non-Conference Tilt

The Morton Indians intercepted a pass and completed two successful drives to whip the Ralls Jackrabbits, 21-0, at Morton Friday night in a non-conference match.

Johnny Green intercepted a Jackrabbit pass in the first quarter on the Ralls 25 to run for the first touchdown. In the second quarter, the Indian's scoring march was climaxed when Jimmy Coats went through the line. The final score was made by Don Baldwin after another drive. Way-dell Hill kicked all three tries for extra points. Approximately 2,000 attended the game.

SEMINOLE EDGES LEVELLAND 7-0

The Indians touchdown was set up in the second quarter with a pass from Richard Lindley to Jackie Gothard on the Levelland 36. Gothard carried the ball to the 1, from where Winn Hood went over on a quarterback sneak. The try for extra point was good.

Seminole led the Lobos, 9-8, in first downs. In total net yardage gained, the Lobos made 186 to the Indians' 158.

Levelland was outweighed an average of eight pounds to the man by the Indians. Left Halfback P. Heard paced the Levelland attack.

Hood and Lindley led the Seminole offense. Outstanding linemen for the Indians were Charles McReynold, tackle and L. C. Allen, guard. Tackle L. Sneed paced the Lobos' defense.

Homage to a Builder

Last Sunday, Littlefield, through the Chamber of Commerce, paid final homage to one of its builders, one of the men who helped our town become the splendid community it is.

The final tribute for Joe Walters, civic leader, conscientious church worker and beloved citizen of Littlefield, was paid by the town when the Chamber of Commerce dedicated its regular Sunday afternoon radio broadcast to his memory.

Among his many civic responsibilities, Joe had served a term as president of the Chamber of Commerce, and it was fitting that the organization should pay him the honors due.

He had performed a multitude of tasks for our town — so many, in fact, that in the course of the years he spent here he became personally acquainted with almost every person in the community.

Littlefield has changed a great deal since Joe came here in 1928. He was responsible for many of those changes. The town grew. And Joe grew with it.

The broadcast was important, because a town's future is built on its past, and its past is written in its history, and the story of Joe's life here is a very important chapter in the history of Littlefield.

Laurels or orchids or cotton squares or perhaps all three are in line this week for J. E. Darham who brought in the county's first bale of cotton. Similar honors are due members of the C. of C. Agriculture committee who arranged for the first bale prize of $150 awarded Darham.

By bringing attention to the county's first bale, the committee creates interest in agriculture not only among the farmers, but among business men and women as well.

The committee is headed by Chairman Weldon Findley, and its members are Irwin Onstead, Viggo Peterson, Clint Griffin and W. H. Cunningham. These men seem to have been striving constantly to promote agricultural progress in the county.

Another example of their good work may be seen in the fast-approaching County fair. They have arranged for a full-scale exhibition of all phases of agricultural production and farm and ranch activities. Such projects provide more — much more — than entertainment and interest for fair visitors. They provide a goal toward which a farmer may work; interest in their work far and above the ordinary (the still most necessary) task of earning a living. And, of course, all of us know the more interest there is in the work, the better the living that may be earned from it.

Wayne Brown and Coach Jay Fikes have been playing a little game on the side for quite a while. It works like this:

When the Wildcats win glory and triumph, Wayne buys the malted milk for Coach and hears a report of the game. It's usually a pretty sad report, and Wayne goes to the next game not sure exactly what to expect.

If the Wildcats happen to lose — and that hasn't happened, you know, since 1948 — Coach buys the malts and has the fun of saying "I told you so."

Wonder what would happen in case of a tie?

W. W. Hall, new vocational agriculture instructor at the high school, has instituted a new course — farm engineering — for Lamb County's future agriculturists. The class includes a complete, well-equipped shop in which the boys may learn by experience to perform all of that multitude of tasks every farmer is required to perform, if he continues to operate.

When they finish the course they should understand everything of necessary about the repair and maintenance of farm machinery, including tractors, automobiles and cultivating equipment.

This is only one of the many phases of work Hall has outlined for the year. He expects to begin immediately with livestock projects which will encourage both young and old farmers to work ahead and plan their herds for years to come.

Clean Buildings Prevent Disease

"Wonder drugs in livestock feeds are no substitute for sanitation on the farm," animal health authorities today reminded swine and poultry raisers.

"Preliminary studies indicate that new antibiotic drugs may have definite value in swine and poultry rations. But to drop standard sanitary practices and depend on the drugs is to invite costly disease outbreaks on the farm," the American Foundation for Animal Health warned.

Explaining that research veterinarians and other scientists have barely scratched the surface in their studies of drugged feed, the Foundation advised that owners should hold fast to proven disease prevention measures.

The new drugs seem to be effective against only certain types of germs. They provide no protection at all against many other germs and viruses, the Foundation said.

"Still among the best practices to safeguard farm animals against disease, according to the latest findings of veterinarians, are such practices as removal of refuse piles, keeping barns and stables clean, destruction of insects, and maintenance of clean food and water supplies."

These precautions, along with prompt diagnosis of the trouble when an animal becomes sick, still pay off the biggest dividends on the farm, the Foundation added.

New Ag Classes Provide Bright Future for Prospective Farmers

Lamb county farmers of the future now have brighter prospects than ever before, if preparation means as much as it always has.

A farm engineering class, in which students may learn by experience how to do the multitude of tasks required of a modern farmer, has been initiated into the agriculture department of Littlefield high school.

W. W. Hall, new ag teacher at the school, comes to Littlefield from Olton, where he taught vocational agriculture for four years.

51 Students

Small, wiry and hard-working, the new instructor already has 51 students in his classes, representing an increase of 20 over last year. Hall says the new farm engineering class is chiefly responsible for the increase in interest in vocational agriculture classes.

The new class provides a well-equipped shop in which future farmers may learn to repair farm machinery, build necessary farm equipment and how to use every type of farm implement.

All Tools Provided

The course includes a study of auto and tractor motors and parts, the use of the farm level, building with concrete, repair and use of electrical equipment, and use of the forge. In short, everything necessary to carry on farm work is studied in the new class.

Tools and equipment in the shop include an arc welder, an acetylene welder, a power saw, a planer drill press, electric hand drills, all types of hand tools and later a model motor will be set up to be used for explaining its various mechanical functions.

While agriculture theory and bookwork is studied in the regular ag classes, the new engineering course provides the practical "know-how" indispensable to every farmer. Going further than the big tasks, the course provides training in the most menial and insignificant tasks which require so much of a farmer's time.

Gets First Bale

The first bale of cotton from the Petersburg area was ginned September 13 at the Wienke gin there and sold to the gin by the owner, L. A. Lance, for 50 cents a pound.

Lance, who farms six miles south of Petersburg, grew the cotton on 15 acres of improved macca. The seed brought $60.

The Petersburg Businessmen's club gave Lance a premium of $100 for bringing in the area's first bale.

The gin baled and wrapped the cotton free of charge.

Interest in the Littlefield High School band was recently aroused when it was announced that they had been elected to represent the Panhandle and entire South Plains area at the Texas State Fair to be held in Dallas on October 18. The band will be in the spotlight at the Fair during participation in a concert and in an impressive

Rigorous practice programs are now under way to get the and in top shape for this occasion and for the heavy schedule of Fall school activities. When You Want To Know, Ask

"When you want to know, ask." That seems to have been the opinion, at any rate, of one small boy in Littlefield.

The regular monthly meeting of the Board of Directors of the Lamb County chapter of the American Red Cross droned along toward the end of its session last Friday afternoon.

A discussion of the budget for the coming year was underway.

Suddenly several of the directors looked up, and then everyone turned to look. A small boy, age approximately six years, stood in the room. He held up his blue jeans with both hands beneath his shirt tail, which was out. He wore a hat, several freckles across his nose and a very serious expression on his face.

In a small, but steady and very serious voice, he said:

"Is this the place where you can get clothes for free, if you don't have any?"

Of course, no one laughed. There were, in fact, probably quite a few hearts touched by the little fellow.

Mrs. Lyle Brandon, director of the chapter, told the lad to return the next day. When he had gone and the meeting had ended the board of directors wanted to know whether or not he would be provided with school clothes.

"We'll see that he gets his clothes," Mrs. Brandon replied.

He will.

Livestock Is Stressed In HS Ag Classes

The Littlefield chapter of the Future Farmers of America is preparing two booths for exhibition at the County Fair, September 28-30, it was announced Wednesday by W. W. Hall, Chapter advisor.

Agriculture classes in Littlefield high school will stress the development of profitable livestock, Hall said.

New livestock projects among the boys will serve to stimulate interest among Lamb County farmers to produce higher grades of livestock, the instructor pointed out.

An educational booth and a community booth are planned for exhibition at the fair. The educational booth presents an idea pertaining to the execution of a particular phase of farm work. The community booth shows fifteen of the best crops grown in the area.

At the present time vocational agriculture students do not have a great variety of prize livestock, the instructor said. But as soon as the fair is over work will begin immediately and the boys will be assigned various livestock projects.

"It will be necessary to get started first," Hall said. "Then as interest increases in the breeding of good livestock, farmers over the area will begin trying to produce better herds."

The program will begin with the raising of heifers and gilts. Hal is a former instructor for four years at Olton High school. Since his arrival in Littlefield, he has organized the agriculture department of the high school so that planned projects may get underway as the term progresses.

The "wooden nickel" campaign has been launched in Lubbock this week by members of the Optimists Club and the wooden script is being used by citizens and business- men in Lubbock.

Cotton Farmers of South Plains Win Battle Against Insects

Cotton farmers of the South Plains appeared Saturday to be winning a battle with insects which will be worth upwards of $100,000,000 to them and this area this year.

A large share of the credit for their victory was credited to Guy E. Carpenter, entomologist with the Texas Extension service, and to such men as Jamie N. Caviness, of the Lubbock Cotton Oil company, who has devoted most of his time for several months to insect control.

But sharing generously in the credit were county agents, farm organizations, the farmers themselves and the ginners, compressors, bankers, oil mill operators, buyers and others who have supported and helped finance the war against destructive cotton pests.

Conservative authorities estimate that the aggregate efforts will mean a difference of at least 500,000 bales in the 1950 South Plains cotton crop. In terms of cash, that represents $100,000,000 or more.

The insect menace was regarded as the most serious in history during the early spring. The mild and dry winter had been ideal for the propagation of the destructive bugs.

Later experience proved that these fears were well founded. Insects have been the most numerous this year. Some observers have been kept under an amazing effective control only through desperate and expensive efforts in which thousands of individuals have participated. Probably no where upon earth has such a battle been waged with such desperation, or with as much success, as upon the South Plains this year.

Preparations for the battle started late last winter, long before the 1950 crop was planted, chiefly under Carpenter's supervision.

Many demonstrations in insect identification were the first step. The importance of this preliminary would be difficult to exaggerate. Dozens of different kinds of bugs usually are to be found in any cotton field. Most of them are harmless. Many are helpful because they feed upon those that are harmful.

But a few, such as fleahoppers, bollworms, leafworms and others, can ruin a crop within days unless brought under control.

The various bugs look a good deal alike. Farmers were in the minority at the beginning of this year who could distinguish between the harmful, harmless and beneficial types.

The demonstrations last spring corrected that condition. County agents and farm leaders attended the first. Then they held demonstrations in their own counties and localities. Thousands of farmers attended them.

As a result, farmers of the South Plains as a whole probably know more about cotton insects, and how to combat them, than do those of any comparable cotton producing area in the world.

This, at least, is the opinion of such authorities as P. N. Clapp, area representative of Anderson, Clayton & Co., Houston, and dean of the area's cotton observers.

Because thousands of farmers had learned how to identify damaging insects, they were quick to recognize the first signs of threatened infestation—before serious damage was done and when the bugs could be brought under control most easily.

The battle against insects has been continuous since planting, and continues furiously now. It has involved the spreading of poisons in the fields which were infested, or threatened with infestation. Most of the spreading has been done from "duster" airplanes. Approximately 100 of these have been operating on a dawn-to-dusk schedule on the South Plains for weeks—with several weeks of work still ahead of them.

Just how much poison has been used would be anybody's guess. Probably 10 pounds per acre would be a low average as an estimate for the approximately 1,430,000 acres now in cotton on the South Plains. This basis of computation would mean that approximately 15,000,000 pounds of poisons have been used in this area this year. Some observers place the figure at more than 20,000,000 pounds.

Some farms haven't required any treatment at all. Others have been dusted six or eight times.

CONSTRUCTION PROGRESSING ON FAIR BUILDING

Construction on the new Fair building has been delayed some on account of the weather, but it is expected that the building will be completed in time for the Fair, according to President Peterman.

This building, which is 50x140 ft., (of which 40x50 feet will be used as a judging arena), will release more facilities to the Ladies Department, which heretofore has been crowded, and the agricultural department of the Fair.
