AN INTERESTING AND HIGH CLASS PUBLICATION

We were recently presented with a copy of the Christmas edition of "Your Postal Service" official publication of the Rural Mail Carrier's association. We are indebted for this courtesy to Roy Wade and M. L. Garrett, rural carriers working out of the Littlefield Post Office.

Copies of "Your Postal Service" were presented by Mr. Garrett and Mr. Wade to all families on their routes.

"Your Postal Service" is an exceedingly interesting and instructive publication, containing informative reading from cover to cover. It is more in the nature of a highly interesting magazine than an official publication of an association.

Now here's a message to Roy and M. L.: We like your publication; let us have a copy when you have one to spare.

A BOGUS HALF DOESN'T MAKE US LAUGH

Watch your silver, because bogus halves don't make you laugh.

In other words, there are bogus half dollars floating around, and we don't want you to get one. We did, and we can't find anybody who will even give us a plugged nickel for it.

We think that the State Highway Department should take active steps immediately to bring about the improvement of Highway No. 143.

Other highway construction is being carried out by the State Highway Department, and we see no reason why immediate attention should not be given to all the details leading to the very early improvement of Highway No. 143, which extends from Brownfield to Channing.

MANY FARMERS PROTEST SITE OF FARM BANK

Believe Site Inaccessible to Greatest Number of Patrons

More than 200 farmers have signed a petition protesting the location of the Lamb, Bailey and Palmer counties' unit of the Production Credit Corporation at Muleshoe. This unit, which was designated the Muleshoe Production Credit Association, was formed at a meeting at City Hall, Littlefield, Tuesday afternoon of last week.

The association has a capital stock of $60,000, and can loan to farmers five times the amount of its capital stock. It was set up as a permanent organization, and will loan money to farmers for all farm purposes.

Immediately following the creation of the association, protests were voiced at the selection of Muleshoe as the headquarters. The statement was made frequently that Littlefield should have been selected as the headquarters, because of the fact that Lamb county has the greatest population, and that the office of the association should be so located as to be highly accessible to the greatest number of people who will use the facilities of the organization.

Miss Dollie Miller, bookkeeper at the Hardberger Gin, expects to leave the first part of next week for Wichita Falls, where she will spend the spring and summer with her mother, Mrs. J. W. Miller, and return when the ginning season opens in the fall.

WILL SEEK TO FINISH SURVEY MONDAY NIGHT

Ask Farmers to Bring Data to Littlefield Bank or Monday's Meeting

Farmers of the Littlefield Independent School district, and those farmers living in the Pep section of Lamb county, are urged to attend a meeting at City Hall, Littlefield, at 7:30 p. m. Monday night, when additional steps will be taken in connection with the 1934-35 cotton acreage reduction program.

At the present time farmers are being asked to cooperate in a survey, which is being carried out previous to the taking of applications in the reduction campaign.

The survey applies to all farms in the sections mentioned, regardless of whether or not the owners intend to participate in the cotton acreage control program.

Farmers are asked to have all the information desired in very complete form before bringing it to the First National Bank, Littlefield, or to the meeting at the City Hall, Monday night. The following information is desired:

Facts Which are Sought

The number of acres in farm as set out in deed, and legal description of the land; include land rented for cash from others, but not land rented to others for cash or fixed rent; Number of acres in cultivation; Number of bales produced each year;

Acreage planted to cotton each year; Acreage of cotton harvested each year.

(The above three questions must cover the years 1928, 1929, 1930, 1931, 1932 and 1933.)

If the land has not been in cultivation for the past six years, then the information only can include those years in which the land has been in cultivation.

In cases of change in ownership since 1928, then the information should be given for all years to the best of the ability of the present tenants or owners.

A pamphlet containing questions and answers relative to the 1934-35 cotton acreage reduction plan, has been received in Littlefield, and will be used as the basis for answering questions at Monday night's meeting.

The survey must be completed immediately, and the information desired is absolutely necessary in determining the amount per acre, which will be paid by the Government in the 1934-35 cotton acre reduction program.

A. headquarters for approval. The new project calls for the paving of two additional streets than called for in the original plans.

A committee, composed of Dr. Woods, Joe Hale and J. O. Garlington, was appointed to aid the commission and to assist in securing the granting of the new project.

LITTLEFIELD GIRLS WINNERS OF INVITATION BASKETBALL MEET

The first annual invitation girls' tournament came to a close Saturday night with one of the most hotly contested games of the year. The Littlefield girls nosed the Shallowater girls out for first place in the tournament by a score of 24 to 23. After the final game of the winning bracket was played, the Sudan and Dimmitt teams played the final game of the consolation bracket, Dimmitt winning by a good margin, 51 to 28.

The teams taking part in the tournament were Cotton Center, Shallowater, Meadow, Fieldton, Sudan, Brownfield, Baileyboro, Muleshoe, Dimmitt, Spade, Anton, Littlefield, Whitharral, Hale Center, Claune and Happy. Wolfforth and Hart Camp sent in acceptances but were unable to participate on account of illness among the players. All the teams that came had some good players and showed good coaching.

The local team and management of the tournament chose "sportsmanship" as the theme to be stressed during the entire tournament. This sort of thing was emphasized by the fact that a cup was offered by F. O. Boles to the team that showed the best sportsmanship throughout the tournament. The committee designated to pick this team awarded this trophy to the Meadow team. This is no small honor to come to a team and we congratulate the Meadow team on this achievement.

The management of the tournament and the Littlefield public schools wish to extend their appreciation to the town for its cooperation in making the tournament a success, by opening up their homes to the visiting teams. Also the business men contributed to the success of the tournament by offering a gold basketball for the first "all tournament team" and silver basketball for the second "all tournament team. Those giving the gold basketballs were Payne Wood's Red and White Store; A. G. Hemphill, Insurance; Stokes-Alexander Drug Company; Ben Lyman and Bill Jeffries; one each for Jeffries Mercantile; and the Grand Drug Store. Those giving the silver balls were Dr. Max G. Wood, Dentist; J. H. Ware Dry Goods Company; Stone's 1c to $5.00 Store; The Piggly Wiggly Store; Hewitt Chevrolet Company.

The girls receiving the gold basketballs were Mary Deckard, guard, Meadow; Zora Mae Morgan, guard, Littlefield; Iris New, guard, Littlefield; Miss Farrell, forward, Muleshoe; Miss Justice, Meadow, forward; and Oma Carpenter, forward, Littlefield. These girls were adjudged the best players in the tournament by all the coaches and officials. There were sixteen coaches who turned in their rating on the girls.

The girls who constitute the second best team and who received the silver basketballs are as follows: Opal Carpenter, forward, Littlefield; Miss Malley, forward, Shallowater; Number 14 of Sudan; Miss Saunders of Shallowater, guard; Miss Wright of Dimmitt, guard; and Number 4 of Muleshoe. The girls who are designated by numbers were not designated by names and we do not have them.

Many compliments on the tournament were extended to Mr. Hemphill and Miss Killough by the visiting teams. Another evidence of the fact that the folks were pleased with their treatment was the following resolution drawn up by the coaches in session:

"Whereas we have been royally entertained by the Littlefield High School, the girls' basketball team and their coaches, and by the people of Littlefield during a most highly successful tournament; and whereas we are in solemn body assembled; We, the delegates of the teams represented, hereby resolve that through Miss Killough and Mr. Hemphill, as managers of the tournament, we express our sincere thanks and appreciation for the fine spirit shown by everyone in our gracious entertainment."

This resolution was signed by all coaches present.

The final event of the tournament was the awarding of the trophies. Mr. Hemphill, in a very able manner, presented the sportsmanship cup and the individual basketballs. A. B. Sanders, superintendent of schools, presented the first and second place awards and also the consolation trophy.

THE PRESIDENT

FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT

"We Have Plowed the Furrow and Planted the Good Seed; the Hard Beginning Is Over."—President Roosevelt

President Roosevelt, in his message to the Congress, declared that "we have plowed the furrow and planted the good seed; the hard beginning is over."

Uttered by some, such words would be almost meaningless in so far as the affect on our outlook on the future, but as a message from our President, who is leading the way in better things for this Nation, they create new hope; new zeal; and stir up all that is within us to achieve those things which are of the utmost importance in the welfare of all of us.

Excerpts from President Roosevelt's message to the Congress give us a picture of what is in the mind of our great chief executive; what we may expect in the future in the directing and governing of our country.

Here are paragraphs taken from the President's address:
" . . . Recovery means a reform of many old methods, a permanent readjustment in many of our ways of thinking and therefore of many of our social and economic arrangements."

"Civilization can not go back: Civilization must not stand still. We have undertaken new methods. It is our task to perfect, to improve, to alter when necessary, but in all cases to go forward."

"The overwhelming majority of our people seek a greater opportunity to prosper and find happiness."

"The overwhelming majority of the banks, both national and state, which reopened last Spring, are in sound condition and have been brought within the protection of federal insurance."

"Not only have several millions of our unemployed been restored to work, but industry is organizing itself with a greater understanding that reasonable profits can be earned while at the same time protection can be assured to guarantee to labor adequate pay and proper conditions of work."

"I continue in my conviction that industrial progress and prosperity can only be attained by bringing the purchasing power of that portion of our population which in one form or another is dependent upon agriculture up to a level which will restore a proper balance between every section of the country and every form of work."

"I have made it clear that the United States can not take part in political arrangements in Europe but that we stand ready to co-operate at any time in practicable measures on a world basis looking to immediate reduction of armaments and the lowering of the barriers against commerce."

"We have been shocked by many notorious examples of injuries done our citizens by persons or groups who have been living off their neighbors by the use of methods either unethical or criminal."

"Self-help and self-control are the essence of the American tradition—not of necessity the form of that tradition, but its spirit."

"We have plowed the furrow and planted the good seed; the hard beginning is over. If we would reap the full harvest we must cultivate the soil through this good seed is sprouting and the plant is reaching up to mature growth."

"You recognized last Spring that the most serious part of the debt burden affected those who stood in danger of losing their farms and their homes. I am glad to tell you that refinancing in both of these cases is proceeding with good success and in all probability within the financial limits set by the Congress."

"But agriculture had suffered from more than its debts. Actual experience with the operation of the Agricultural Adjustment Act leads to my belief that thus far the experiment of seeking a balance between production and consumption is succeeding and has made progress entirely in line with reasonable expectations toward the restoration of farm prices to parity."

"Without regard to party, the overwhelming majority of our people seek a greater opportunity for humanity to prosper and find happiness. They recognize that human welfare has not increased and does not increase through mere materialism and luxury, but that it does progress through integrity, unselfishness, responsibility and justice."

Lighting in the home is a vitally important matter. Poor lighting affects convenience, happiness, eyesight and health. Overlighting is as injurious as underlighting. Proper lighting means having enough light, and having it properly shaded and placed where it is needed. Gloom and Glare are twin evils which must be studied to attain a well lighted home. There is a proper lamp for every socket. Keep a supply on hand.

If you are not certain that your home is properly lighted, we will gladly offer suggestions to help you protect the eyesight of your family, get more artistic lighting and the most economical results.

All Scouts Urged To Attend Meeting

The regular Scout meeting this week should be a very important and interesting meeting for every member of the troop. We missed the President's award this year just because not being interested enough to work a little. Now let's get busy and do some real scouting. We have a scout executive with us this year, and we should show our appreciation of his presence by plenty of work, and keeping him on the jump all the time, supplying us with some new thoughts, stunts, and suggestions. There has been very little activity among the Scouts the past three months, and that does not speak well for a troop of supposedly active boys.

Every boy is urged to be present as we expect a program of interest, fun and action. All not present will probably miss some excitement and maybe EATS.

Your Scoutmaster has a letter from W. A. Fisher, President of the Fisher Body Craftsmen's Guild, of Detroit, Mich. Mr. Fisher states that they are entering on their fourth year of Guild Competition. The competition in the guild is the building of miniature Napoleonic Coaches. There are 24 prizes this year, divided into six groups. Two prizes of each group going to contestants in Canada, the other four contestants in the United States.

There are 4 four-year university scholarships value $5000 each, 4 university scholarships value $2000 each, 4 university scholarships value $1000 each, and 4 value $500 each. All boys ages 12 to 19 inclusive are eligible for entry, and will become members of the Fisher Body Craftsmen's Guild.

Purposes of the Guild is to encourage and promote an interest in higher schooling and general craftsman work. There will be a Junior and Senior class, but the award will be the same and the work the same.

This will be discussed at the meeting. All boys wishing to enter the contest be present. There are other interesting prizes offered in constructive work that should be interesting to boys, especially those taking manual arts work in school.

Now, come on boys let's get busy. We should make this the outstanding year of scouting in Littlefield.

Eugene Latimer, Scoutmaster.

How To Figure Processing Tax

A simple method for figuring out how much processing tax you have to pay for the meat you sell out of the hogs you butcher for your own home use is described by E. M. Regenbretch, extension swine specialist at Texas A. & M. College. Suppose you sell two 20-pound hams. The tax is $1 per hundred pounds live-weight. Multiply $1 by the conversion factor 206% and then multiply by the weight of the hams sold, in this case 40 pounds. The result is 82 cents which is payable to the U. S. Collector of Internal Revenue accompanied by forms which are obtainable from the county agent.

A ruling of the legal department of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration states that a person not a producer may buy a live hog, have it slaughtered for his own use, and if he sells none of it need not pay a processing tax.

FARMERS MUST FILL OUT COTTON SURVEY CARDS IF LAMB CO. IS TO GET BENEFITS OF REDUCTION PLAN

All farmers of this county are urged to at once fill out one of the Special Cotton Survey cards which have been given to them by their local committeemen. If a farmer has not received one of these cards, he should at once go to his committeeman or the bank in his city, and fill out one of these cards if Lamb County is to derive the full benefits from the 1934-1935 Cotton Acreage Reduction Plans. Farmers are not obligated to sign a contract when they fill out one of these cards. The data obtained from these cards will be used in checking the information from each county with the official estimates of cotton acreage and production provided by the U. S. Department of Agriculture. If the cotton acreage reported in the special cotton survey is not complete, this county will be at a disadvantage when the county reports are considered by the State Board of Review and the determination is made of the acreage that may be planted in 1934 and 1935 by the signers of contracts in this county.

All farmers, therefore, should fill out card and supply information whether or not he intends to participate in the cotton reduction program.

All farmers within the Littlefield Independent School district and living in the Pep section of Lamb county should send or bring their survey cards to the First National Bank of this city.

Last Date for Enrolling in League Jan. 15

The teachers of the Lamb County Interscholastic League are looking forward to a very successful year this time in League work. The last date for registration with the Interscholastic League is January 15th. The officers of the league voted to permit only members of the League to participate in the County meet this year.

The Director General takes this means of calling attention to the fact that the time is drawing near when it will be too late. We want that every school in the County shall become a member and help to make this the greatest year that we have ever had in League work.

The League activities both literary and athletic will challenge your school to greater effort. The inter-scholastic games will create a spirit of fellowship this is desirable. The activities of the League will develop the citizenship of the person participating.

Make your school a member and enjoy the benefits of this school activity. You may be able to win the championship in your division. This is worth working for.

Mars-Rose Cotton On Display Here

There is on exhibit in the offices of the Yellow House Land Co., at this time a nice display of the famous Mars-Rose cotton, originated in Oklahoma and which has created so much comment recently.

This is the cotton which brought $100 per bushel for its seed last season and which is now selling for $15 per bushel. ## BRIDE HONORED AT MISCELLANEOUS SHOWER FRIDAY

Mrs. Lloyd Reid and Mrs. Acree Barton were joint hostesses with members of the Junior Study Club at a delightful miscellaneous shower Friday evening at the Reid home, complimenting the bride-to-be, Miss Katheryn Walker.

An enjoyable program had been arranged, including a reading by Mrs. B. L. Cogdill; song by Miss Melba Dawn Pierson, and two readings by Miss Wilda Courtney; following which Miss Ellen Crockett led a treasure hunt to the end of the rainbow where the honoree found a lovely array of gifts, including linens, silver ware, ect.

Those enjoying this social affair were: the honoree, Miss Walker, and Mesdames W. H. Walker, B. L. Cogdill, Cobb, M. P. Reid, Floyd Hemphill, and Misses Lula Hubbard, Addie Mae Hemphill, Wilda Courtney, Eva Gertrude Chisholm, Eddythe Walker, Louise Chisholm, Emma Ruth Jones, Melba Dawn Pierson, Gladys Jones, Gladys Hall, Ruby Clark, Jake Busher, Ellen Crockett, Lydia Crockett, Mildred Reid, Mary Belle Montgomery, Marinell Keithley, Pauline Courtney and Misses Willette of Amherst.

Carl Kemp and Miss Henderson Marry at Clovis

Jack and Liburn Henderson, brothers of the bride, a sister, and a friend, Lester Festen, accompanied the couple to Clovis, and witnessed the ceremony.

MRS. MIKE BREWER ENTERTAINS H. D. CLUB THURSDAY

Mrs. Mike Brewer entertained members of the Home Demonstration Club in the first meeting of the new year, with the new officers presiding. Since the demonstrator could not be present due to a meat demonstration elsewhere, the afternoon was devoted to the studying of parliamentary rules.

The club decided to secure a permanent meeting place which will probably be the Presbyterian church.

This club wishes to be able some day to build a club house. With the proper cooperation the club deserves it shouldn't be very long until it would be possible for us to have a one-room club house.

The meat demonstration will be January 23 and 24.

The next meeting will be January 18 in the Presbyterian church. Each old member is requested to bring a new member. The subject will be Hot Beds—Every Home Should Have One.

Visitors welcome always.

We invite you once again to worship with us, not only to attend the services but to really become a part of each service. Make the meeting your meetings. Rev. C. E. Matthews will be with us until Sunday, January 21. We want you to hear him. Surely God has sent this man this way and is sending to us by him some of the most wonderful Gospel truth ever preached in Littlefield. Rev. Matthews is not a fighter. No denomination will be embarrassed. The heart of his messages is the Blood of Christ for the salvation of a lost world. He has left behind a great church of more than 3,000 members to be with us.

Let's do our part, and when God has cleansed the heart of men and women, boys and girls, God will place them where they can best work in his vineyard. Our services through next week will be: Mornings, 10-11 o'clock, just one hour, held in the Palace Theatre, the evening services will be held at the church beginning promptly at 7:30.

Come hear this man of God, come praying, come trusting. Joe F. Grizzle, pastor.

THE METHODIST CHURCH J. W. Hendrix, Pastor

Well, we are embarked into a new year—1934. We have lived up, are afresh reminded, another year, 365 days, of our allotted time on earth. With the dawn of the new day we have promise of further mercy of God for another year. It can't be, if we are normal, conscientious human beings, that we do not know some failures on our part in the old year, and if we are awakened creatures, living up to the measure of man, that we would not like to escape these failures in the new year. Have you started the new year like you ended the old year? If you have, if we have not attempted to mend our ways, or change our habits, the new year can hold no promise for us.

Were you out to public worship last Sabbath? The pastor is becoming well enough acquainted with the congregation to know, in some instances at least, the answer to this question. Let us date you up for next Sabbath of worship. Meet us at the morning hour in our church, and the evening hour in the Baptist church at the revival.

The theme of the morning worship will be, "The Trek Over the Desert Waste." We speak of a man who had an excellent job, lived in a palace, served a king, stood between the king and death, who got sad and restless, resigned and made a long and dangerous journey to the ashes of a wasted city.

This is to be designated as Officer's Day. We are insisting that all officers of the church, of the Missionary Society, of the Church school, the Board of Stewards, the trustees, and if there are some not here listed, they also are expected to be present Sunday at the morning hour. Will you be hereby invited. It is the desire to have the church know these officers, as well as the officers know the church.

Church school meets at 9:45 a. m. the Superintendent, Floyd Hemphill, has arrangements made whereby the session will begin at that exact hour, 9:45 a. m. sharp!

The Young People have their two sessions each Sabbath, 9:45 a. m. in study, and 6:45 p. m. with a program and worship. To these you are invited.

CHURCH OF CHRIST Eighth Street

Bible Study, 9:45 A. M. Preaching, 11 A. M. and 7:30 P. M.

Lord's Supper, 11:45 A. M. Young People's Meeting, 6:45 P. M.

Little Folks' Meeting, 6:45 P. M. Ladies' Bible Class, 3 P. M., Monday.

Prayer and Praise, 7:30 P. M., Wednesday.

The officers of the church report large crowds in attendance at all services, with it being necessary again Sunday night to open a class room into the auditorium to accommodate the crowd that came to hear Evangelist G. A. Dunn, Jr., speak. There were seventy-four at young people's meeting and forty-five at little folks' meetings; one hundred nineteen of the younger element present Sunday evening. How does that sound? There were twenty-seven in the Ladies' Bible Class, and ninety-four present Wednesday night. Our average attendance for the four past Wednesdays was eighty-six. Come and grow with us.

G. A. Dunn, Jr., will be present at all services and will fill the pulpit at both services Sunday. The public is cordially invited to attend all services. You will find a hearty welcome with us.

Tenth Installment

SYNOPSIS: . . . Ruth Warren, living in the East, comes into possession of three-quarter interest in an Arizona ranch, left to her in the will of her only brother, reported to have died while on business in Mexico. With her alluring husband and small child she goes to Arizona to take possession, finding the climate may prove beneficial to her husband's weakened lungs. Arriving at the nearest town, she learns that the ranch, "Dead Lantern", is 85 miles across the desert. Charley Thane, old rancher and rural mail carrier, agrees to take them to "Dead Lantern" gate, which was 5 miles from the ranch house. As they slowly walked past a huge overhanging boulder in a gulch in connection to the ranch house, a voice whispered "Go back! Go back." At the ranch house they are greeted suspiciously by the gaunt rancher, Snavely, and Indian Ann, a Circulean woman of mixed negro and Indian blood. Snavely is difficult to understand, but regardless, Ruth takes up the task of trying to adjust their three lives to the ranch and its development. Kenneth, Ruth's husband, caught in chilling rain contracts pneumonia and passes away before a doctor arrives. Ruth tries to carry on.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

Ruth felt that the only definite result of consulting a lawyer would be to put Snavely in a fury. After all, a lawyer couldn't change anything. She had her interest in the ranch and Snavely his. She supposed that Snavely thought himself to have once been cheated by the law and that to him it represented civilization in much the same way that barbed wire did.

Snavely had left for Palo Verde immediately after breakfast in search of Mexicans. Now Ruth and Ann were catching their horses while David watched from the top of the corral gate.

Before he left Snavely had ordered Ann to ride the south pasture and Ruth had quietly determined to go along. The south pasture contained the only water-filled pond and consequently all of the cattle, except those which watered at the corral troughs on the home ranch. Ruth wanted to see if the feed in the south pasture was as nearly gone as Snavely had said.

The little party had reached the inclined road which led down into the gulch when Ruth spurred Brisket to the side of the big road. She pointed to the trail which led along the southern bank of the gulch. "Don't we want to go this way, Ann?"

Ann shook her head. "You-all kin go 'round—I got to go through. This here's the natural way to go."

Ruth hesitated, then followed Ann. She did not know whether or not she was afraid to pass the brown boulder which squatted so nakedly in the barren sand. She supposed she would scream if she heard anything. . . . As they reached the floor of the gulch the roots of her hair began to tingle. Ahead, Ann was sitting very straight in her saddle. The horses plodded slowly through the sand, yet they seemed to approach the boulder with incredible speed. Ruth's hand gripped her saddle horn, her shoulders were hunched as though expecting a blow. All about was the bright, hot silence of the morning—a stillness somehow more terrifying than the shadow-filled evening when she had first come through the gulch. Ann was passing the boulder; Ruth could see the first slight relaxing of the great body; then it suddenly grew tense, and Ann reined her horse to a dead stop. Ruth and David also stopped. Ann remained motionless, her head set rigidly. Ruth held her breath and listened. She heard nothing. She allowed Brisket to take a few steps nearer the roan, then stopped him. She could hear something now, a low whispering guttural voice, so faint that she could almost imagine she heard nothing. For perhaps a minute she listened, before Ann nodded her head as though in reply and urged her horse forward. Ruth heard nothing as she passed the rock, except perhaps a dry rustling as of brushed leaves, but of course there were no leaves, only sand, empty sand and the banded walls of the gulch far to the right and left.

When they were out of the gulch and had turned southward, Ruth spoke to Ann. "Did it speak in Spanish?"

"Apache."

That was all Ruth could bring herself to ask and the only word Ann had ever said about the voice. During the whole of the ride Ann made no comment. Even when they were returning and Ruth remarked that the quick billows of clouds above the western mountains might mean rain, the Indian woman had only nodded. The mother and son rode around the gulch, but the giants went through.

Ruth and David had been in the old adobe for some time when Ann passed and entered the ranch house. Although it was hardly mid-afternoon the sun had already set behind the black mountain range of clouds. A cold wind blew, slowly gaining in strength, driving swirls of dust which flew like frightened shapes before it. Ann entered the kitchen and made the fire. She put on a kettle of water and a pot. From time to time as she mixed dough for the tortillas, she licked her lips. She had made six lumps and had begun to flatten the first by slapping it in her hugh hands when she threw down the dough with a frenzied gesture and almost ran into Snavely's room. She did not pause but took hold of the nearest corner of the old carpet and flung it violently back. On her knees, she peered closely at the cracks in the floor, testing the boards with an occasional thump of her great fist. At length she found what she sought; with her nails in the crack she pulled up two short boards, tossed them aside, and thrust her arm into the opening. Then a wolfish grin twisted her lips and she withdrew a quart bottle filled with white liquid. "Here you is—jest like th' voice say," she rumbled.

When Ruth brought her son into the ranch house Ann was in the kitchen, the last of the tortillas crisply browning on the top of the stove. The girl received the surprise of her life when Ann looked at her with a broad grin. "Well, howdy, folks—set down; th' eats 'er comin'."

"Why, Ann—"

"What's th' matter, white girl—skeered o' somepin' ag'in?" Ann laughed, the full-throated, primitive laugh of the negro. She snatched the burning tortilla from the stove and flung it toward the table.

"Miss Ann's funny!" David's little voice was filled with questioning delight.

Ruth said nothing but seated herself at the kitchen table.

"Now fer a feed," grunted Ann. Her chair squeaked dangerously as she slid into it. "Here, white girl," she invited, holding out a pot, "slop yersef a plate of beans."

There was no spoon in the pot and Ruth poured out the beans. She couldn't understand what had happened to Ann, but something warned her not to ask for a spoon.

"Ann," said the girl, "it's beginning to rain and the wind is much stronger—do you suppose we ought to go to the barn and see if everythin's shut tight? Is the windmill shut off?"

For a second Ann appeared to consider the matter, then she grinned and waved her arm aimlessly. "Let 'er rain—can't do nothin' 'bout it!" She began to sing, beating the table with her cup:

"A man kin sow corn,
A man kin sow oats,
A man kin git chillen,
A man kin raise shoats,
A man kin make one thing,
A man kin make two—
But hit rains, dear Lord,
Like hit wants to do!"

The cup broke and Ann settled back in her chair, holding a bit of the porcelain handle between her big fingers and laughing—deep, gurgling laughter.

David looked questioningly at his mother. Ruth had an idea. "Ann's a great old sport, isn't she?" And she laughed until David joined uncertainly. "Sing some more, Ann," she cried, patting the hugh knee which had slid to press her own. She knew that Ann must be drunk, but where she had obtained the liquor was a mystery.

Ann immediately obliged with a song which was evidently a relic of the days when she "run a dance hall down in Texas." Terrified as she was, the girl found time to hope that parts of the song would not linger in David's brain. She applauded vigorously. "That's fine!" And leaning forward confidentially, "When the cat's away, Ann—you know!" She finished with a wink.

But at the allusion to Snavely's absence the giants ceased to grin and looked steadily at Ruth. "Aw hell! she said fiercely, "you're playin' a game! What're you up to, huh?"

"Oh, nothing," answered Ruth airily. "If you want to be a pig, all right—I just thought you might give me a drink, that's all."

"Aw now, honey! Shorely, shorely you kin have a drink—big drink." Ann rose and went to the flour bin where she pulled out a bottle, half full, and shoved it toward Ruth. "Go to it, kiddo!"

Ruth took out the cork and put the mouth of the bottle to her nose. "What is this, Ann?"

"Gawd love us!" she said explosively, "where was you raised? That there's mescal—dynamite, that's what it is—make it outa cactus, the greasers do, and it shorely has its prickles left. I've seen a man stand to th' bar an' drink five whisky glasses of it durin' 'bout half an hour, then maybe he'd go an' set with the boys and girls an' he'd be cold sober, just funnin' a little maybe, fer 'bout a hour an' then"—Ann leaned forward dramatically—"an' then he'd get up to take a little walk, an' he take two steps an' fall flat on his face! That's how it hits you."

Ruth eyed the half-filled bottle and wondered when Ann had begun. "I—I don't think I want any right now—later."

Ann's great fist crashed on the table. "Yuh ast fer a drink, go ahead! Ain't I fittin' company fer yuh?" she snarled.

Ruth slowly poured some of the liquor in her cup. At that moment the room went vivid with lightning and the very earth leaped with the detonation of thunder. "Ann!" cried the girl, "how about Sugarfoot?"

The giants got to her feet, deeply concerned. "Pore little Sugarfoot—pore little lamb . . ." She went out of the room muttering dolefully.

Ruth hid the bottle behind the kitchen door and going into the sitting room lit the lamp. The rain beating against the window was running under the sill and down the wall. Ruth could think of nothing better to do, so she and David began stuffing paper in the crack. They turned at a low laugh and saw the giants filling the doorway; her head bent forward so as not to bump the lintel. "You couldn't guess," she whispered, coming into the room, "he's done crawled in mammy's bed and shut his eyes. He ain't gettin' in no storm!"

Ruth smiled and looking about, picked up an ore specimen. "Where'd they get this, Ann?"

"Huh? I don't know—been here longer'n what I have—" Her eyes fell on the aquil bow hanging above the shelf. "There's a weapon for yuh!" She snatched down the bow. "Gawd! them flimsy men—I seen two of 'em trying this bow—couldn't hardly bend it, they couldn't—an' as fer shootin'! Hell—ain't no man here 'bouts can draw arrow to this bow. Look at me!" She jerked an arrow from the quiver and placing it on the string drew it slowly, easily back. The tough wood creaked and the sinews of her great wrist stood out like rods as the long ironwood head of the arrow came to the hand on the bow. For a moment she held it so, and her eyes sought Ruth's in satisfaction. She swerved slightly, the string twanged like a taut wire and the three-foot arrow, with a hiss and a click, passed through the panel of the kitchen door and stopped with a thud somewhere beyond.

For a moment there came into Ann's face a look of soberness; as though half ashamed, she hung the bow back on the wall. But as she was lowering her arms she paused, took an uncertain step, and turning, slouched heavily against the wall. Ruth hugged David closer. Ann's head drooped upon her breast; her eyes were closed. Slowly they opened and the face turned into the face of an uncontrollable beast. The bright, unintelligent eyes focused upon Ruth's face.

and the lower lip, hanging away from the teeth, twitched, then formed words, "What's th' time?"

and the lower lip, hanging away from the teeth, twitched, then formed words, "What's th' time?"

Ruth glanced at the clock. "It says six-twenty."

"Great Gawd!" Ann sprang to her full height. "Why didn't yuh say when it was six o'clock? I'm late!" With a bound, Ann reached the front door and disappeared into the roaring storm.

Ruth snatched up David and ran out of the back door toward the old adobe. By the lightning she saw Ann running toward the road which led into the gulch. The bottle glistened in her hand.

sociation is ready to act; county and city officials and citizens generally throughout the entire territory the improved highway would serve are ready and willing to do their share.

Highway No. 143, which was designated several months ago, would serve a large territory which is very much in need of additional highway facilities. In fact, is entitled to be served by good roads.

Highway No. 143 is, without doubt, one of the most outstanding projects in the development of West Texas. AND IS WORTHY OF IMMEDIATE AND ACTIVE ATTENTION.

C. E. McDONALD EXPLAINS 1934 FARM PROGRAM

Senator A. P. Duggan Presides Over Meeting Here Saturday Afternoon

C. E. McDonald, State Commissioner of Agriculture and instrumental in national relief of farmers, spoke to Littlefield and trade territory farmers in the Baptist church auditorium last Saturday afternoon. Approximately 100 farmers attended the meeting, and apparently favored plans outlined by Mr. McDonald for permission of the temporary plan that grant relief to cotton growers of Texas, which, in reality, is a continually assisted farmers in this section in the fall of 1933.

It is a generally conceded fact, Mr. McDonald stated, that unless a permanent curtailment of cotton and major farm products is worked out, the farmers will again face the chaos of cheap cotton and a ruination of the American market. Unless a diversified production of major farming products can be agreed upon between the government and the farmer, it will not only ruin him, but the national government, the northern industry centers, and labor in general will reach a much lower level than ever recorded in the periods of the depression which the American people are about to overcome, the speaker told the listeners in a very impressive manner.

Success of the 1933 plow-up campaign came only as a temporary relief to the cotton grower, which was a far-sighted undertaking, that limited the American market to approximately 17,600,000 bales of cotton and brought the grower a neat price. This is only a small part of what the government is trying to do for the farmer, in launching their campaign to prorate the production for years to come, Mr. McDonald stated.

Plans for permanent relief were submitted by a Northern Industrialist, a Mr. Claire, who spent 2 years and 4 months in actual study of the farming situation. His plan of permanent relief has been modified with amendments from the agriculture commission of cotton producing states, and now it is practically ready to be given to the convening session of congress. The basis of Mr. Claire's plan is that the major farm products must be prorated annually with a minimum fixed price. The price is to be determined on the consumption, with it fixed as high as to curtail consumption and still not work a hardship on the consumer.

"Put the money in the hands of the farmer, and they will consequently put the money back on the market, which will aid the industrial centers and promote labor throughout the country," Mr. McDonald stated. "With the farmer producing 6c cotton, they will have no money to spend or to pay off outstanding indebtedness, and thus other industries of the world will suffer."

The plan, as outlined by Mr. McDonald, stipulated that the farmer must make a survey of the average production of his land and submit it to the federal government. This will be the basis on which his land will be prorated. Not that the farmer will be limited to a number of bales but only a certain per cent produced will be put on the American market. If the American market calls for only 40 per cent of the cotton produced to meet the demand of American consumers, then only that amount of his cotton will receive the price fixed by the government. In case he should produce more than his quota of cotton, the surplus may be held over until the following year and count on his prorate for that season. Should the farmer choose to sell his product that year, he may sell it on the world market, and consequently, it will only bring the world market price.

This plan will not only apply to cotton but will also include corn, wheat and other major farming products of the American market. In order to bring back permanent prosperity to the farmers, production in accordance to consumption must be regulated, Mr. McDonald stated in closing his lecture. This plan will not be forced upon the farmer but will be entirely optional, but in order to fully reap the advantage of this plan, they must enter the agreement and make a complete survey of their land.

Senator A. P. Duggan presided over the meeting and introduced the principal speaker, as well as several other guests at the gathering. A few remarks regarding the quarantined farms against the pink boll weevil, in which state relief is being urged, closed the meeting.

LITTLEFIELD TO PLAY OLTON FRIDAY NIGHT

The local high school boys' basketball team will play a game with Olton in the high school gymnasium here Friday night at 7:30 p. m. The boys are looking forward to a fast game. The Olton boys won the last game over our boys and they are getting set for the coming fray.

The victory of the local boys over the Fieldton boys on Tuesday night of this week to the tune of 44 to 9 has given the boys some of the much needed confidence. They can play basketball and they are beginning to find it out.

Coach Barksdale is working the boys hard this week on goal shooting. They seem to be perfectly capable of doing all the things that a real basketball team are supposed to do but make the basket. Since that is the thing that counts on the score board the boys are interested in correcting this difficulty.

Come out and see the boys in their early home games.

J. S. COLLINS PASSES AWAY SUDDENLY

Funeral Services to be Held at Church of Christ Friday

J. S. Collins, aged 75, one of Lamb County's pioneers, passed away at the home of his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Carroll, about 12:10 Wednesday morning, January 10, following a short illness.

Mr. Collins was stricken with a paralytic stroke about six weeks ago, and had been bedfast practically since though his condition seemed much improved. He was able to be up and around the house when he took the second stroke, and died immediately.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Church of Christ, Ninth st., Friday afternoon, under the direction of Hammons Funeral Home, though arrangements were not complete at the time of going to press. Interment will take place in the Littlefield Cemetery beside the body of his second wife, who predeceased him over nine years ago.

Deceased was born in Baker county, Georgia, and came to Texas with his parents when a small boy. He came to Littlefield fourteen years ago from Abernathy, Texas, where he had lived for two years. Previous to that he farmed near Lockney, Texas. Locating four miles northeast of Littlefield he carried on farming operations until about five years ago. Since then he has lived a portion of the time with Mr. and Mrs. Jim Carroll, and the balance with his other daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Homer Thornton, at Coasta Mesa, California.

He was a member of the Church of Christ, having joined many years ago.

Deceased is survived by three sons, Arvin, Marvin and Bill Collins, all of Littlefield; four daughters, Mrs. Ellis Foust and Mrs. Jim Carroll of this city; Mrs. Hershel Carthel of Lockney, and Mrs. Homer Thornton of Coasta Mesa, California; and two step-daughters, Mrs. Leonard Peal, Amberst, and Mrs. Otto Stewart of Nolan, Texas, all of whom are expected in Littlefield for the funeral.
