Funds Available To Farmers For Feed

Farmers in Lamb county who will need operating funds in 1941 and who cannot get adequate credit elsewhere, should make application to the Farm Security Administration immediately, according to Fred L. Nix, county supervisor.

Funds in the form of loans are available to qualified farmers for the purchase of feed, seed, tools, livestock, and other equipment necessary to carry on farming operations.

"The Farm Security Administration," Mr. Nix said, "was created to help needy and low income farm families and we invite the farm operators in Lamb county to come in and discuss their problems with us. We may be able to help them."

Mr. Nix explained that this agency has a number of programs designed to help troubled farm families in addition to that of making rehabilitation loans to individual farmers. Among those mentioned by Mr. Nix were loans for community services, farm debt adjustment services and tenure improvement.

"Community service loans," Mr. Nix said, "will be made by the FSA to groups of qualified farmers to buy tractors, combines, pure-bred sires, feed grinders, veterinary services and many other services and facilities which a single farmer could not afford alone."

"For farmers in Lamb county who are overburdened with old debts, the FSA offers help to have the debts adjusted to their ability to pay. This service is available without cost to all farmers, whether or not they take part in other phases of this agency's program."

Mr. Nix explained that a local farm debt adjustment committee meets with the debtor and his creditors for a discussion of their mutual problems. These meetings often result in an agreement for extending the time of payment, reducing interest rates, scaling down

NEW YORK, N. Y.—Another thing that we Americans have good reason to be thankful for is that our youngsters found they could still sing their Christmas Carols, as Christmas, 1940 found the United States the only major nation at peace with the world. These angelic choir boys were photographed at the Church of the Heavenly Rest. They are singing the traditional Christmas Paean: "O Come All Ye Faithful."

Law Requires That Employers Apply For Soc. Security Number

Littlefield employers who have not yet secured their social security identification number, including those who have only recently established businesses and others who are delinquent in securing a number, are receiving cooperation and assistance in making application for an identification number from the Social Security Board office at Lubbock, Tex., according to John R. Sanderson, a representative of that office, who was in Littlefield today.

"Not every individual who becomes an employer is aware that the Federal old-age and survivors insurance law required that he secure an identification number, regardless of the number of persons he employs," Sanderson states, "and we are anxious to assist him in every way possible whether he is delinquent or just engaging in a new business enterprise."

It was explained by Sanderson front of Ware's Department Store about 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon. It was made and sold for the purpose of sending worthy girls to the State Homemaking Rally to be held in San Antonio, Texas, April 30, May 1 and 2.

The Homemaking girls have done many other worthwhile things since the school year began besides making the comfort. At the beginning of the year, they made club year-books, including a plan for all future meetings and using for their theme, "Homemaking In a Time of National Crisis." They carried out their club colors of blue and white in an attractive "dove of peace" mounted on a blue background.

Various social functions have occurred including an initiation party, a "tacky" party given for the Future Farmers of America during October, and a Christmas party in which the entertainment was packing and distributing two huge boxes for needy families.

Among other activities have been a playlet composed of an all-girl cast for high school assembly, and an attendance of six girls as representatives at an area meeting held at Canyon.

For the coming year, the F. H. T. girls have planned many other beneficial projects for the school and community.

DOES FORD PAY GOOD WAGES?

HERE ARE SOME FACTS about Ford Labor. During the year ended November 30th, 1940, the Ford Payroll throughout the United States averaged 113,628 hourly wage earners, not including office employees, students, or executives. They were paid $185,105,639.12. On this basis, the average annual wage was $1,629.05.

According to the latest available government figures, the annual average wage of all workers in employment covered by old age insurance law was $841.00.

If the 45,000,000 workers of this country received the same average wage as Ford employees, they would have had additional wages of more than $35,000,000,000, thus increasing the national income about 50%. Think what such an increase would mean to the workers of this country and to the American farmer, whose prices are based on the national income.

Wage scales in the Ford Rouge plants are divided into three classifications:

- Unskilled... Minimum hiring wage . 75c per hour
Semi-skilled... Minimum hiring wage . 80c per hour
Skilled... Minimum hiring wage . 90c per hour
Higher wages are in consideration of ability and years of service.

Minimum wage scales for unskilled labor at the Rouge plant are the highest in the industry. Top wages for skilled labor compare favorably with, or are higher than, wages in other automobile plants.

Now some facts on Ford labor conditions:

Not only are sanitation and other health conditions the best in the industry, but Ford also leads in safety devices for the protection of employees. Proof of this is found in the following comparison of compensation insurance costs: The national average rate in automotive manufacturing plants as computed by the National Association of Underwriters is in excess of $1.50 premium on each $100 payroll. The Ford cost of workmen's compensation is less than 50c.

This indicates that the chance of injury in a Ford plant is much less than in the average automobile plant.

The Ford Motor Company has no age limit for labor, and in fact deliberately attempts to keep older workers working. The average age of Ford workers at the Rouge and nearby plants is 38.7.

A recent check-up shows that nearly one-half the workers at these Ford plants were 40 or over, falling into these age groups:

Table with 2 columns: Age Group, Number of Workers. Rows: 25,819 between 40 and 50; 14,731 between 50 and 60; 3,377 between 60 and 70; 417 between 70 and 80; 12 between 80 and 90.

In addition to the so-called regular employees, the Ford Motor Company has hired, and now has on the payroll, at the same regular hourly wage, thousands of workers who are blind, crippled or otherwise incapacitated for normal productive work. They are not selected for their ability to build cars or to maintain the plant. They are on the payroll because of Henry Ford's belief that the responsibility of a large company to labor goes beyond the point at which the unfortunate worker can no longer produce profitably.

The above are facts. They are open to anyone who really wants to deal in facts. Anyone who wants to get a job... buy a car... or place a national defense contract on the basis of fair labor treatment must place Ford at the top of his eligible list.

Bill For State Financial Reorganization To Come Up Before 47th. Legislature

ABILENE, Jan. 10 — The bill for state financial reorganization will be ready for the 47th Legislature when the gavel falls. Monday a pre-session conference on the bill's contents was under way in Austin. Conferees were D. A. Bandeen, manager of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce; Rep. Joe Humphrey of Abilene; and Geo. C. Hester of Southwestern University. WTCC engaged collaborator with Bandeen on the widely discussed plan to equip the administrative department of the state government with a system of budgetary control and fiscal management designed to actually supervise spending and at the same time provide adequate information to the legislature as a basis for its policy making.

This involves creation of a governor's cabinet with advisory functions, a new department of finance and control, a complete centralized purchasing scheme, and a civil service system for employment of state personnel.

The bill covering the plan, to be jointly presented by the West Texas East Texas and South Texas chambers of commerce, will bear the name of Rep. Humphrey, 116th district, who will introduce it in the lower house. It is expected to go before the two houses early in the session opening January 14 and to have behind it an immense weight of public opinion. The West Texas chamber has taken the plan to its own territory in 35 regional taxpayers' meetings attended by groups from 132 towns, and the Etex and Sotex Chambers are now actively pushing it in their sections.

A week after the close of the WTCC tours the organization had in its portfolio endorsements of the plan from nearly 100 taxpayer groups (more were coming in every mail) as follows:

Chambers of Commerce and boards of city development: Iowa Park, Vernon, Breckenridge, Seminole, Pecos, Stephenville (senior and junior chambers), Gainesville, Del Rio, Cleburne, Coleman, Slaton, Snyder, Eastland, Decatur, Anson, Olney, Dalhart, Sweetwater, Clarendon, Abilene and Childress.

Rotary: Seminole.
Other organizations: City of Balinger, Winters Booster Club, Winters Home Demonstration Club, 20th Century Clubs (senior and junior) of Stephenville, Moran Luncheon Club, Austin League of Women Voters, and the tax committee of the Fort Worth chamber of commerce.

In addition to official action by boards of directors, endorsements were voted at close of meetings by groups registered from 58 towns, not included above. Chambers of Commerce in these towns are expected to make the endorsements official.

Co-author of a similar plan several years ago was Grady Woodruff, then state senator from the Decatur district. The Woodruff-Harry Graves bill was, in fact, much more comprehensive than that put forward by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. It aimed at complete reorganization of the state government, passed the house, but died in the senate—because, Woodruff told WTCC leaders, it was too comprehensive in scope, involving too big a bite at one time. Woodruff has written the West Texas chamber—excerpts: "I have been interested in this program for a long time and it is the most important thing that could be done in Texas the next few years. I shall willingly do all I can to advance your program. My congratulations to the West Texas Chamber of Commerce upon this constructive undertaking."

The current bill recognizes the problem and danger of biting off too much at one time. The WTCC plan has been restricted to fiscal reorganization and budgetary control of state receipts and disbursements, not dealing with any questions as to the services of state government or as to revenues and taxation. The objective sought, said WTCC President J. S. Bridwell, "is solely that of securing better management over the services of government as now authorized and of performing these services with minimum of waste and duplication and maximum of good business management."

To Take Delivery Unredeemed Wheat

Most Texas wheat farmers with wheat under the government loan can take their choice of either paying off their loans or permitting the Commodity Credit Corporation to take delivery of it during the next four months.

Only farm-storage loans made in 1940 will not be affected, since the corporation, upon request of the producer, will grant an extension of the 10-month loan period on farm-stored wheat in areas where the grain can be stored without deterioration.

As loans mature during the next four months, the corporation will take title to all unredeemed wheat and barley, Charlie L. Thomas, state AAA committeeman and Pampa wheat farmer, announced following receipt of a statement from the CCC to that effect. More than 17,000,000 bushels of wheat in Texas stored in warehouses in 1940 or on the farm in 1939 and resealed in 1940 will be affected.

On December 31, closing date for making wheat and barley loans, the committee reported, the corporation had made 18,969 warehouse-storage loans on 17,300,378 bushels of wheat in the state. Held over in farm storage from 1939 were 192,000 bushels, making a total of 17,492,378 bushels which will be subject to delivery to the corporation if not redeemed by the date the loans mature. The first loans in Texas will mature in February. April 30 is the final maturity date. Eligible for re-sealing are 1,534,227 bushels of wheat under the loan and stored on farms. Only six barley loans were made in the state.

The state committeeman was informed that the corporation did not anticipate, insofar as practicable, selling any of the 1940 crop wheat that is in good condition except at prices not less than loan values plus charges. A small part of the wheat can be disposed of by the Surplus Marketing Administration in export channels and in relief distribution. There is also the possibility the Red Cross may use small amounts of it. Some wheat may be sold or transferred to the Federal Crop Insurance Corporation or to other government agencies.

Agricultural Workers Meet January 10, 11

"Drafting Texas Agriculture for National Defense" was the program theme for the annual meeting of the Texas Agricultural Workers'

Association held in San Antonio January 10 and 11. Sectional meetings were devoted to agricultural economics animal industry, conservation, horticulture, plant industry and the home. Three Texas Extension Service workers acted as sectional chairmen. They included J. F. Rosborough, extension horticulturist, who was in charge of the horticulture section; Maurine Hearn district agent, who was in charge of the section on the home, and Sadie Hatfield, specialist in landscape gardening who directed a subsection on garden clubs.

Girls Are Advised To Build-Up For Relief

Lack of knowledge causes many a weak, undernourished girl a lot of suffering!

Many others, however, know how the headaches, nervousness, cramp-like pain of functional dysmenorrhea due to malnutrition are helped by the proper use of CARDUI.

Some take it a few days before and during "the time," to help ease period distress. But CARDUI's principal use is to help increase appetite; stimulate the flow of gastric juice; so aid digestion, assist in building up physical resistance and thus help reduce periodical distress. Women have used CARDUI for over 50 years.

Marrying Mark

CHAPTER V
Synopsis

After Mark Alexander's beautiful wife Ellen died, her whole family became interested in Valerie, Mark's adopted daughter. All save Shirley seemed to have their eye on the trust fund left Valerie by Ellen. They all, Dorothy, Elise and their husbands, want Valerie to live with them, but Mark will hear none of it. Despite disapproving servants and relatives, he takes Valerie on an automobile trip. On the way home, they help Lucy Treadway, a stranded motorist, who runs a traveling library.

"Lucy smiled at Valerie, who instantly smiled back. Something warm and friendly seemed to flow between them, as if Lucy would be her friend. Straight off—without waiting to get acquainted.

"Which was almost exactly what Lucy was thinking. Well, now that's over," said Mark. "we can get down to business. You can see you can't sit by the road—in this—"

"Oh—no—" cried Valerie. The idea seemed little short of fantastic.

"But you don't understand. You see—I live in the Ark," explained Lucy. "The library is only the front half. I sleep and cook and everything in the back. It's really sweet—when you get used to it."

She smiled again at Valerie, who hung on her words.

"I think this is the best plan," said Mark. "Let us take you to Allington, which according to the map seems to be the end of the day's going. You can put up at the hotel overnight, and tomorrow we'll find a service station, and they can come and tow in the Ark, and doctor her up. We wouldn't leave you here—no foolin'—"

"Oh, please—" said Valerie. They couldn't have found this charming person in breeches, only to lose her immediately.

Lucy looked out into the rain. She was thinking fast. It had been raining on her for days that the end of the Ark was near. It had been breaking down with semi-weekly regularity for a couple of months and each repair man took a larger bite out of her small capital he shook his head a little harder than the last, and muttered more ominous warnings.

She knew Allington well. It was on her regular route. She knew the hotel, although she had never stepped foot into it. She knew Mark's name, as most of the world did, and she knew defeat, having met it before. The books might sell for enough to cover the towing. Maybe a junkie would buy in the Ark. She had just about enough in her purse to pay for one night at the Allington hotel.

She turned from the rain back to the friendliness that filled Mark's jewel of a car. "King for a day", she thought. "Well, why not?" It would be something to remember in the lean days to follow.

"It sounds like a grand idea", she said, "and thanks a lot for bothering."

Valerie sighed with relief. She cast a look back at the Ark, standon his shoulder as he talked quietly to Lucy, on his other side.

"My doings must be an awful bore to you", said Lucy at last. "They are not", he said. "I never imagined a traveling library. How did you?"

"Oh—I was brought up on books, practically nothing else but. If my father had known anything was going on outside the covers of books, he'd have guessed there was something phony in the way the bank was running his affairs. But of course the money lasted until he went. I'm thankful for that. And things didn't really crash until I'd finished college. I have a simply swell education. I've even got a couple of degrees I snatched while nobody was looking.

"Don't go modest," said Mark. "I'm greatly impressed. The mere sound of a degree incites me to reverence."

Lucy told them the whole story.

ing forlornly in the driving rain. It was rather sad to leave it there alone. She knew just why there were sudden tears way back in Lucy's eyes. It was almost like abandoning a child, or an animal in trouble. But what else could they do?

"Valerie has a sort of maternal instinct for everything that runs by motor" explained Mark. He put his arm around her. "You know it isn't suffering there, dear heart."

"I know", said Valerie. "It's just silly. Maybe you'd better drive now. It's raining pretty hard—"

"Right" said Mark. "I—I think I'll just climb over and sit with Lucy," she suggested quietly.

He helped her over the seat, and slid into her place, and started his engine. Through its quiet hum he could hear voices, broken by occasional laughter. Once when he looked briefly over his shoulder, he saw that Valerie had clasped Lucy's hand firmly in her own.

They sat in the Allington lounge after dinner, talking and listening to an orchestra that came from somewhere just far enough away. Valerie thought it was terribly exciting. It gave her a thrill to see Lucy in a dress of primrose taffeta that she herself had never worn. For with the plans, and the storm, they had forgotten all about Lucy's clothes. It wasn't until just as they were coming into the outskirts of Allington that Lucy suddenly remembered she had nothing to wear. "But it will be fun!" Valerie had cried. "Because I have such a lot of things my father bought me. Some I've never even worn. You see, I'm tall for my age, and you're not so very tall for yours. Oh, please—"

And so Lucy wore the primrose taffeta, which fitted her perfectly, even to the slippers.

They shopped together in the hotel drug store for a toothbrush and a cake of Lucy's favorite soap.

It seemed quite impossible she had known Lucy only since afternoon. Valerie thought of tomorrow and good-bye with a strange hurt. But she put it away, remembering that after all they were all three here now. She was afraid somebody would suggest going to bed, but nobody did. Mark just put his arm around her as she sat beside him on the big couch and she napped

"I haven't been able to cash in on it though. I wanted to teach. I followed all the clues I could find. But somehow they don't seem to be using education right now. Anyway, I'm terribly against poor-houses, so I had to make up a job. I kept thinking about books. You'd be surprised how much people want them. I mean all kinds of people. In the country—especially women—too far from libraries—so I decided to take a library to them."

"It's a grand idea," said Mark. "I wonder nobody ever thought of it before."

"Oh, they have. Heaps of times. Only not in this particular locality."

"I'll bet it went over big".

Lucy looked at him sadly. "Then you lose—because I'm folding up tomorrow."

"But no!"

"You see, it never was a success. Not really. First, there's the Ark. It wasn't much more than junk when I bought it. It cost only fifty dollars. But it has cost me money since."

"That's the way with used cars". He spoke as if he had had vast experience. She looked at him quickly, but he looked back seriously.

"Most of the books were father's," she explained. "But I hadn't counted on their taste. It's changed, you see, since father's time. I tried to get them interested in Dickens and Thackeray. But it was no use. So I had to stock up on detective stuff. It was quite expensive. Of course, you can't blame them. Life must be pretty dull, especially on the farms."

"Another thing was, I really could not take much money for them. And anyway, half of them didn't have any. It was rather sweet, the way they'd watch for the Ark, and call to each other when they saw it, and run to meet us. So what could you do?"

"Nothing but what you did, of course", agreed Mark. He couldn't quite laugh, even though he somehow wanted to.

"So we were just about to collapse when you found us. Now the Ark has gone, it makes it practically unanimous. There's a man in this town I think maybe I can sell the books to. And maybe the garage will know a junkie who will take the Ark."

"And what about you?" asked Mark.

Lucy made a small-boy grimace. "Make myself another job, that's all. I have to work, so there must be something."

"Do you like Valerie?" asked Mark suddenly. The craziest idea had crossed his mind while she had been talking. He watched her closely.

Her face softened as she half-smiled across at Valerie's sleeping face. "I love her. I don't know just why. I'm not—not especially soft about people. But there's something about her—I don't know what—but it gets you. I can't see why it should when she's your daughter, and I suppose even a gold spoon hasn't been good enough for her."

"But you see—she's not my daughter," said Mark very quietly. He even looked a long time at Valerie first, to be sure she was still asleep. "She was my wife's by a former marriage. Of course, I adopted her legally—and I don't think she could possibly be any more mine—so far as the way I feel about her."

"She adores you," said Lucy. "I tried to think up ways to make her say 'my father.' It sounds like a coronation, or something."

He was looking at her now, though she realized he scarcely knew it. He seemed really looking at his thoughts. Marshaling them, reviewing them. Suddenly coming to a decision.

"We can offer you a job," he said. "I don't know how good a one."

Lucy jumped. It was like something falling from the ceiling into her lap. She looked at him in a slight daze. "I what did you say?" she asked.

"It won't surprise you when you hear," said Mark. "My wife died quite suddenly two months ago. Readjustments are—well, almost as difficult, I find, as the actual loss. One of them is about Valerie. She has had an unusual training—"

He stopped suddenly. Lucy could see he had meant to say more. She wished she could help him, but she could only wait. "She—well, I've decided not to send her back to school. But she must be educated. And she must have companionship. She seems to like you so tremendously—I mean... I wonder if we couldn't pool our assets. If you wouldn't tutor Valerie."

"Are you really and truly offering me a chance at it?"

"I think I am," said Mark. "Of course, I know people sometimes bind themselves to things in a first enthusiasm. I don't want you to do that. I want you to be free. You're young. Maybe you won't want to be tied down. But there'll be a home and a decent salary, and teaching—if you want it. We can try it out, if we can call it a day and quit."

Lucy pinched herself quietly. She would probably wake up in another minute, among the dusty books in the Ark. "But you don't know a thing about me", she said.

"We can go fifty-fifty on that."

"We can't. I've known you in the rotograves since I was ten."

"That isn't anything against me," said Mark. He reddened slightly. The world's interest in his father's money never ceased to embarrass him. He was level-headed enough to know there was little that was personal about it.

Valerie stirred, and sat up. Mark shook his head slightly, and Lucy understood that the conference was over.

"I think I went to sleep," said Valerie. She blinked her eyes free from dreams, and looked at Lucy. "What a shame! I've missed all this time with you!"

"Maybe well be seeing Lucy again," said Mark. Valerie felt the undercurrent of excitement in his voice as they left Lucy at her door.

Talley, of Childress, Texas was team leader. Other leaders who led conferences were: Rev. A. A. Brian, Levelland; Rev. Roy Johnson, Canyon; Rev. Dallas Lee, Quannah; Rev. modernistic design, and indirect type. As a further feature of the lighting system, the building is equipped with skylight with heat absorbing glass.

There are three washrooms in the building; one adjoining the Postmaster's office; one for men; and one for women.

The desks throughout the building are of white oak with linoleum tops.

The Postmaster's office is finished in oak, with matching oak furniture, and floor covered with Broadloom.

The floor in the lobby is featured in Terrazzo, of Ozark Gray and Red Marble, with green marble laid in alternate blocks.

810 mail boxes of Grecian style all lock boxes, were installed last week.

Provisions were made in the basement walls to install windows for future offices when needed.

Venetian shades throughout the building have been installed. Bulletin boards are set in bronze frames.

The financial section of the building is enclosed and separated from the other offices, from which section money orders, registered mail, and C. O. D.'s will be handled. Adjoining this is a fireproof vault with two safes. A special feature of this department is the fireproof vault door wired with tear gas for burglary protection.

There are two other windows to take care of stamps, parcel post and General delivery.

On the exterior a single decoration—an Eagle fashioned of cast aluminum made by a sculpture in Washington, stands on the front of the building as a symbol of Protection.

Littlefield Piggly-Wiggly Places Second In Sales Of All Davis And Humphries Stores On South Plains

The Littlefield Piggly-Wiggly Grocery & Market placed second in volume of sales for 1940 of the 16 Piggly-Wiggly stores on the South Plains owned by Davis & Humphries.

The Brownfield Piggly-Wiggly was the only store among the 16 establishments that reported a higher volume of sales for 1940 than the Littlefield store.

The local store is under the management of Gene Yeager, who has had charge since March, 1939. Mr. Yeager, however, had been employed in the store three years previous under the management of J. O. Garlington. Mr. Yeager was awarded a bonus for the high volume of sales both this year and last. He is ably assisted in the management by Vernon Roberts. Nick Toews is in charge of delivery, and A. J. Williams is stock keeper. A number of other young men are employed part time.

The Littlefield store had the highest volume of sales for 1940 in the history of the establishment, according to Mr. Yeager, who stated that there was an increase over 1939. A bonus was awarded the management for this increase.

Piggly-Wiggly store, owned by Ellis Foust, and managed by E. J. Foust, Jr., assisted by his brother, Cloice, also showed a good increase in business for 1940.

Take Charge, Mister... and Let's Fireball!

THERE'S a new word spreading through the vocabularies of car owners who have made firsthand acquaintances with this slick new 1941 Buick.

It's a word we first picked out as an apt description of a new and better engine — but it is rapidly coming to mean a completely new and excitingly pleasurable manner of motorcar travel.

All over the country, "to fireball" now means to enjoy both ease and dispatch in your travel by car — with a very special new manner of thrift.

Not the ordinary, scrumpy, self-denying sort of thrift, but thrift with all the thrills left in!

Now, just why that happens is easy to understand.

*Optional equipment on the Buick SPECIAL, standard on all other series.

Reinforced by Compound Carburetion* this FIREBALL eight develops nearly 17% more horsepower on exactly the same fuel rationing.

With all that power on call, we can use a more economical gear ratio as our standard high gear—a ratio that ups miles per gallon by giving more revolutions of the wheels for every revolution of the engine.

Then, in addition, we have in Compound Carburetion a fuel supply system that adjusts itself according to the driving conditions you meet.

Thus your engine is always getting the utmost benefit out of the least amount of gasoline that will give the performance you want. And that spells economy.

So much economy that a man who drives 15,000 miles a year gets as much as 2,000 miles' extra driving on the same amount of fuel.

And that, Buick buyers will tell you, is something very much worth looking into through a free demonstration such as any Buick dealer will gladly give.

BUICK PRICES BEGIN AT $935

for the Business Coupe delivered at Flint, Mich. State tax, optional equipment and accessories — extra. Prices subject to change without notice.

"Thy Neighbor" To Be Featured At Theatre This Week End

How the Hatfields started with the McCoy's down Kentucky has by now been known to everyone. If it were ever known at about three years ago, and between two comedians, which has become just as good a deal as the Kentucky combat. Comedy feud in question is between Jack Benny and Fred Allen, which Paramount has to a movie, called, "Irony Thy Neighbor," opens the Palace Theatre Saturday and continuing through Monday.

Origin of the funnymen's feud goes back to the time three years ago, when a child prodigy, Stewart Canin appeared on Benny radio program with Young Stewart at that time played a difficult number called "The Bee," a composition with which Jack Benny had been struggling for some time before. Commenting in public on the prodigy's violin playing, Fred Allen made the remark that later was to be regarded as the first stone cast. The remark Allen made was: "That child's playing should make Jack Benny mighty ashamed. He's been trying to play 'The Bee' for forty years and hasn't succeeded yet."

That disparagement touched off a series of comedy explosions, whose reverberations are still crackling all over the country, to the amusement of millions of people. Benny and Allen, realizing the laughs they were creating continued to pelt each other with sarcastic quips and jibes, while audiences howled in appreciation.

Wills And His Texas Playboys Come to Town With Slim Andrews, Tex Ritter

As attending the Ritz Theatre at midnight, Sunday and Monday, have in store for them the stars featuring the well-known Bob Wills and his Texas Playboys, with that boy you've heard so much about, "Arkansas Slim" Andrews and Tex Ritter as the story: "Take Me to the Sun," which is one of the latest and better types of Westerns. As a mixture, the play mixes stage coach, gun play, music and sing-along to make it swell fare.

Bids To Be Opened On Highway Paving

BROWNFIELD, Jan. 11. — Bids for the construction of approximately 14.4 miles of pavement on highway 51 from Brownfield northwest to the Hockley county line will be opened by the county commissioners court here Jan 21, according to information given Saturday by C. L. Lincoln, county judge.

Indications are that several contractors will bid for the job, Judge Lincoln said. It will involve the laying of caliche base with gravel and double asphalt top, for which 100 days will be allowed. Grading and drainage work has been done by WPA labor with the cooperation of the state highway department.

Judge Lincoln also reported that surveys have been made for highway improvements on No. 137 from Brownfield southeast to the Dawson county line and that the contract should be ready for letting within the next few months.

Cost of the improvements will be paid out of a $290,000 county bond issue voted recently.

Beyrl Wingo New Owner Of Grocery At Weeks-Bagwell Gin

Mr. and Mrs. Beyrl Wingo, who have been residents of the Sunnydale community the past three years, recently purchased the Roy Rhoten Grocery, located at the Weeks-Bagwell Gin, four miles west of Littlefield.

Mr. and Mrs. Rhoten have moved to their farm north of Littlefield.

In an ad appearing elsewhere in the Leader this week, Mr. and Mrs. Wingo invite their friends to visit them at their new location. They will continue to handle groceries, Conoco gas and oils, notions, and coal.

They have three children, and have been residents of Lamb county for the past seventeen years.

Sponsor History Writing Contest

The Texas State Historical Association, Austin, has announced a first prize of $25 to be offered the winner of a Texas History writing contest for 1941. Five other prizes are also offered. Announcement for the contest was made through the Association's new magazine for Texas young people, The Junior Historian.

It is specified that the content of all competing articles must deal with aspect of a trip in Texas—an old home, a building, a battlefield, an old trail, a ghost town, a cemetery, a monument, etc.—or it may consist of the story of a trip to interview an elderly person who had a part in the moving Texas scene," says the official announcement.

Papers are to be ranked for clarity, unity, accuracy, interest, and the picturesqueness of detail. It will not be necessary for papers to deal with a well-known place or historical incident. Any locale in Texas is as valuable as any other for the purpose of this contest.

The young people of Texas and the school authorities are invited to write The Editor, The Young Historian, University Station, Austin, Texas, concerning the contest. Any boy or girl in Texas may become eligible for competition, it is stated.

April 15, 1941, is announced as the closing date for all entries.

Get Something Out of Today

One day about thirty years ago, President Theodore Roosevelt telephoned to a Washington correspondent to come quickly, and forthwith the correspondent came with all the speed in him, for he knew that Theodore Roosevelt would not send for him unless it was something he especially wanted him to know.

He was ushered in. Theodore Roosevelt popped to his feet. "Come!"

The President led him quickly down halls and corridors, and finally into the White House yard. Then—very carefully now—to a tree.

"There!" whispered T. R. And there it was—a nest of young owls. That was one of the secrets of "Teddy" Roosevelt's great zest for life. His ability to get something out of TODAY. Not out of tomorrow, but now, this very moment, the living present. Are YOU getting something out of today? Some little touch of fineness? Some thrill in the joy of living?

Do you read something worthwhile every day? When the first Bull Moose convention was in session in Chicago, bands played beneath the window of the same Teddy, and people were surging through the streets shouting, "We want Teddy!" "Hooray for Teddy." Amidst all the shouting and the tumult, Teddy Roosevelt sat in a rocking chair in his hotel reading a book by Herodotus, the Greek historian!

William David Coolidge is one of the greatest scientists in all the world. He is director of research of the General Electric Company in Schenectady, New York, and he is one of the busiest men in the world, too. He used to work in a shoe factory and raised himself from that to where he has had an influence on the whole world.

For instance, he has developed the X-Ray tube which bears his name and has given medicine a powerful engine against death. Nearly every hospital in the land, and nearly every well-equipped doctor's or dentist's office has a Coolidge X-Ray machine.

All day he spends working with monster coil and electric furnaces, but he is never so tired, so worn out that he does not read for a few minutes before he goes to bed in a book on astronomy. He never expects to make a penny in the world out of astronomy, doesn't even own a telescope, but it's his way of getting a touch of fineness out of today.

John Ruskin, the English writer, used to keep a piece of marble on his desk which had one of the finest and most significant mottoes in the world on it. Just one word—TODAY. Every time he looked up he saw, chiseled in everlasting stone, a reminder of how precious today is.

Can't YOU do that? Can't you get something fine out of today?

Rural Families To Make Comforts

COLLEGE STATION, Jan. 13—A supplement to the Department of Agriculture's 1941 cotton mattress demonstration program will enable low income families in Texas to have cotton comforts—one for each mattress made under the program.

Every Texas family eligible to receive mattress materials under the current program will also be eligible to receive 10 yards of percale and four pounds of cotton for making a comfort, according to regulations announced last week by R. T. Price, field man at large for the State AAA office.

Bess Edwards, assistant state home demonstration agent for the Extension Service of Texas A. and M. College, added this would probably mean the making of 400,000 new cotton comforts within the next few months.

Materials for the program will be furnished by the Surplus Marketing Administration.

Under the regulations, comforts must be made in the community centers set up as in the mattress program. A family must first have received a mattress before it can obtain materials for making a comfort.

Quoting Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Grover B. Hill, Miss Edwards said that the comfort provision of the mattress program is another means of "turning the cotton surplus into a national blessing."

Other teachers are to be named later.

The trustees, at their next meeting, will discuss the election of two additional teachers, to meet the increased enrollment. The staff now includes 11 teachers. Enrollment is growing as more people move into Whiteface and the territory, Keith said.

WPA Rolls To Face Decline

A reduction in WPA employment to an average of 1,300,000 persons monthly in the next fiscal year is in prospect to meet a $400,000,000 budget slash.

Howard O. Hunter, acting commissioner, said at a press conference Friday, at Washington, D. C., however, that as many as 400,000 persons might be absorbed from WPA rolls by private industry in the next year.

Hunters estimate of an average monthly employment of 1,300,000 was based on President Roosevelt's budget recommendation that $1,034,139,700 be appropriated for the agency during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1942, compared with $1,501,915,000 for the current year.

On January 3, WPA employed 1,880,000 persons.

Hunter disclosed that defense projects would be given preference. He said that emphasis would be placed in the future on work at airports and roads leading to army camps. At these roads are in many cases unnecessary except as they lead to camp sites, the WPA, Hunter said, is expecting to bear the entire cost. This may mean a further reduction in employment later on as funds become depleted.

It was estimated that 600,000 persons would be employed on roads, airports and camps by May of this year.

Here's Something To Think About!

An Important Message to Those Who Plan to Buy Either A New or Used Car in 1941

Part of our business policy has been . . . and will continue to be . . . an earnest effort to reliably inform car owners of important trends in the motor industry, particularly those trends and events which affect the marketing of cars and prices at which motor transportation can be procured.

With the Nation's defense program moving into full swing, the effect of this new activity is being felt in the automobile industry.

We recently returned from one of the Ford Motor Company's assembly plants and from a talk with company officials. They assured us that so long as raw materials, which they purchase from outside sources, did not advance, Ford prices would not change—but an upward change in material prices would necessitate a rise in new car prices.

Other investigations which we have just completed revealed that the Used Car market was already very active, and that Used Car Dealers are buying every car they can get their hands on due to the sharp price rises sure to come this spring.

We have not advanced our new or used car prices . . . and we will keep them down as long as possible . . . but WE DO KNOW THAT NEW AND USED CARS ARE DUE FOR A POSITIVE PRICE RISE and MAY BE HARD TO OBTAIN AT ANY PRICE in the next three or four months.

We have a number of New Ford cars on the floor in our showrooms, and we can guarantee delivery on all models up to March 1. After that date we do not know how many new cars we will be able to obtain from Ford assembly plants. IF YOU ARE CONSIDERING PURCHASING A NEW CAR, WE SUGGEST THAT YOU CONTACT US IMMEDIATELY IN ORDER THAT WE MAY FILL YOUR NEEDS.

We have only a limited number of Used Cars on hand and we are in a position to offer very attractive trade-in prices on good used cars. This is a decided advantage to those planning to buy a new car.

WE SUGGEST—
If You Are Planning to Purchase a New or Used Car During 1941, ACT IMMEDIATELY. Quick Action Will Assure You Delivery on A New Car, or Save You Money on A Used Car.

Twenty-Three Men Leave Monday For Military Service

Luncheon To Be Served In Their Honor; Also Program At Depot

Twenty-three Lamb county young men, all of whom volunteered for selective service, will leave Littlefield Monday for Lubbock, concentration point for this district.

Honoring these boys, the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce, with the local unit of the American Legion cooperating, are sponsoring a luncheon at the Presbyterian church Monday, beginning at 12:15, which will be served by members of the Presbyterian Auxiliary.

Following the luncheon, a recess is being planned to allow the boys to meet their friends previous to leaving on the 3:14 train for Lubbock.

Plans are underway to render an interesting and enjoyable program following the luncheon. It is expected that several talks will be made.

Arrangements are also being made to stage a program at the depot, including several musical numbers by the band, and the Chamber of Commerce is urging all residents who can to attend the program at the depot, thereby extending farewell greetings to these worthy citizens who are leaving for military training.

The twenty-three men who will leave Monday are: Elmer Lowell Wallace, Littlefield;

FARM SECURITY MEETING WILL BE HELD MONDAY

Program For 1941 To Be Discussed By Tenant-Purchasers

Large Number Of Families In County Planning To Attend

Farm families in Lamb county who have purchased farms through the Farm Security Administration's Tenant Purchase program, will hold their annual meeting at Littlefield in the Methodist Church on Jan. 20, Fred L. Nix, county rehabilitation supervisor, announced today.

Summarization and closing of each family's 1940 farm and home account book, and making of plans for the next year's operations will be among the activities at this meeting.

"These accounts give a complete picture of the past year's operations as well as furnishing a guide to planning for 1941," Mr. Nix said. "They also form the basis for determining the amount to be paid on loans this year by families operating under the variable payment plan."

Mr. Nix explained that the variable payment plan provides for repayments on the basis of annual net income. In good years the borrowers pay greater amounts against their loans than in the years of low income.

In making their plans for 1941, the families will strive to eliminate or improve any phases of their operations which may have been unprofitable in 1940. Their farm and home plans will take into consideration balance between livestock and cropping programs, soil improvement, home production and preservation of food for family use, family health and all other factors involved in sound farm and home management practices.

"The Farm Security Administration," said Mr. Nix, "expects to get some valuable information from the borrower-families and the families are expected to profit materially by the exchange of experiences, ideas and problems."

Families planning to attend the Lamb county meeting are Mr. and Mrs. Charlie V. Glover, Mr. and Mrs. Orville Steffey, Mr. and Mrs. Prentiss W. Graham, Mr. and Mrs. Ardren L. Berry, Mr. and Mrs. Burnie L. Wheeler, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur B. Miller, Mr. and Mrs. Wm. H. Grigsby, Mr. and Mrs. Walter H. Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Rayborn K. Allen, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus G. DeBerry, and Mr. and Mrs. James W. Gosdin.

The war in Europe and poor seed crops in the United States have materially reduced the supply of vegetable seed for planting in 1941, Cornell university reports.

Jack Salmon Passes Away In San Antonio Early Monday Morning

Jack Salmon, 36, former Littlefield resident, but for the past several months living at Amarillo, passed away at San Antonio early Monday as a result of a heart ailment from which he had been suffering for some time.

Mr. and Mrs. Salmon and children, accompanied by his parents and brother, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Salmon, and Bob Salmon, were in Littlefield Tuesday night of last week enroute to San Antonio where they were taking Mr. Jack Salmon in an effort to benefit his health.

Mrs. Salmon's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Lippard, received the death message Monday, and accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Kirk, left about 2 o'clock Monday afternoon for San Antonio.

Mr. Salmon was service man for the Texas-New Mexico Utilities Co. here for a number of years, and since going to Amarillo has been employed under the rural electrification program in that section.

Smoker Sponsored By C. of C. Group Tuesday Evening

Ways And Means To Improve Littlefield Will Be Discussed

At 7:45 p. m. Tuesday, January 21st, the chamber of commerce will hold a smoker meeting at the Presbyterian Church. The board of directors not only invite all citizens, but urge them to be present. No solicitations will be made or will any pressure be put on anyone to join up with the organization.

The purpose of the meeting will be to discuss ways and means to improve Littlefield. Also projects to induce more retail trade to come into existing retail and service establishments in Littlefield. Refreshments will be served those in attendance. The board states that several matters upon which opinions will be divided may be discussed, and they desire that everyone who may be affected be present to voice their views and take part in the voting.

One or two entertainment numbers will be presented to give variety to the program. Tickets will be twenty-five cents.

Increased Number Of Schools May Participate

Arrangements For Event Will Be Launched At Meeting Saturday

The annual FFA and 4-H Club project show will be held sometime in March, according to an announcement made this week.

The local Chamber of Commerce will probably sponsor the show.

D. L. Jones, local vocational agricultural teacher, has called a meeting of all agricultural teachers in this district for Saturday morning, January 18, at 9:30 o'clock. V. F. Jones, Lamb county agent, and his assistant, and the president and secretary of the local Chamber of Commerce have also been invited to attend this meeting.

The purpose of the meeting is to determine the variety of projects to be exhibited at the show, and to make other plans and necessary arrangements.

Mr. Jones is confident that the show will be bigger and better than the one staged here last year, because, he said, the boys received valuable experience from the show last year, and more schools will probably be invited to participate in the event.
