Fight Looms As Nazi Bluff Fails

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia, March 15 (AP)-Britain, rapidly preparing to take the offensive against Germany's army in southeast Europe, is rushing 300,000 men to Greece and already has disembarked almost 100,000, it was learned tonight on excellent authority.

The British plan, a high military source said, is to ready her forces as quickly as possible and then attack the nazi Balkan army on Bulgarian soil if it remains behind that German-occupied country frontiers with Greece and Turkey.

The troops already landed in Greece, according to these advices, are part of a steadily growing force equipped with hundreds of tanks and flame-

The first robin of the spring has yet to be seen in these parts but the first crop of 1941's Big Spring golfers are pulling at the bit.

Sunday at 1:30 p. m. on the Municipal course the Big Springers are scheduled to line up against an offering sent by Midland. Harold Akey, Muny pro-fessional, said Saturday that he did not know how many of the Midlanders would be on hand but expected to be notified of the number Sunday morning. This will be the first full-blown match played at the Muny layout since the back nine received its coating of bent-grass sod. Except for a few bald spots along the edges of greens where grass was dug up for replanting, the course is in tip-top shape for the in-augural day. Rated as one of the outstanding plants in West Tex-as, the local course is slated to be kept well-trodden throughout the summer by spikes of visiting golf-

Akey has nothing definite on the line as yet but he is busily engaged in arranging for a banner year at the local club.

For Sunday afternoon's matches, Akey expects Midland to send a crew of divoteers that includes such outstanding West Texans as Pat Riley, Harry Syndorf and E. B. Dozier.

Opposing whoever comes over from Midland is a list that tenta tively includes Glen Hancock Charlie Watson, M. K. House Gene Gardner, Tommy Neel, Sam my Sain, Arch Brimberry, Claude Wilkins and any others who migh feel the ruge to match sticks with Midland opponents. Akey expects the number to be increased by other hopefuls before time for the opening round tee-off.

Lookin 'em Over

Sometime ago this column men-tioned that the near-cellapse of baseball throughout the country was partially brought on by the club owners forgetting about the kids who followed the sport. would hate to see the same thing happen to golf.

Big Spring has a group of lads who think enough of the sport to organize themselves as a team, organize themselves as a team, foot their own bills, and travel hither and yon for the mere pleasure of matching their skill with youngsters of other towns. Now, we realize perfectly well that there are two sides to everyther. thing, but it does seem that the boys should receive a bit more encouragement.

They should not be allowed to take advantage of anything but it does seem that a way could be so arranged as to allow them at least to get in a bit of practice without paying for the privilege of doing so. For their ordinary playing let them pay like all the rest, but a system might be worked out to let Pro-Am Finals them take practice rounds on the

At last the Big Spring ball club will not have to go by any gen-eral term. They have been offilly and definitely christened the Bombers and we hope the name is an indication of things to come so far as the organization's baseball efforts are concerned.

We don't know if we would have cked that name or not. Luckily us, it was not necessary that have anything whatsoever with the final selection.

Naming of the club followed an invitation by the club owners to label the baseballers. Many names were submitted and covered the index to the animal kingdom and torium Friday evening.

"This battle of conflicting philosophies (dictatorships and democracies) will not be won in our day," said Dr. Stoddard in reminding teachers that they could help determine the course of the fight for generations to come "by what we do Monday morning."

This battle, he continued, is not exclusively national or interna-tional, but "runs across the counthearts." In its simpler forms it amounts to exploitation of power, whether individually or collectively, he believed.

Dr. Stoddard scored complacency as the crowning sin of those who pay lip service to democracy, for "complacency is at the seat of this war and com-placency will decide it. Com-placency is the only thing that can destroy us."

Democracy, according to his deffnition, was a "state of life, a positive attainment, an achievement of the soul," And, he added, "no man has a real right who does not accept the responsibilities that go with that right."

Preservation of the way of life, Dr. Stoddard observed, is personal for it "begins in the soul," and will

Does this nation have the discipline necessary for the preserva-tion of democracy? Is the spirit of the people strong enough? These were some of the ques-tions posed by noted educators in talks Saturday morning before the

A national leader, portly, gray-haired A. J. Stoddard of Philadelphia, drove home the necessity of a democratic discipline, and asserted that the schools, in building that discipline, faced their greatest challenge of all time.

WASHINGTON

Under this set-up, it certainly stands to reason that members of ssion of appeals lost some of the independence they had

The Hardeman bill seeks to raise the prestige of the commissi to secure independence of judicial thought to its members, and to promote the operation of natural erty rights in Texas. It seeks to do these things providing (1) that the commission of appeals shall be appointed by opportunity publicly to express the governor with the advice and ent in any case before the consent of the senate, and (2) that any member of the commiss shall note his dissent or concu court without fear that they rence in every decision in which he participates, so that any opinion Following the third Ferguson written by a member of the comgime, however, a wave of senti- mission and adopted by the sument swept the legislature to weak-en the office of governor, and a participating commission members check and balance the views of judges, and they offer an oppor-tunity for a gradual change in judicial thought to fit the normal course of experience. A study of the history of the United States supreme court clearly shows the value of dissenting opinions.

The Hardeman bill would give the commission of appeals of Texas supreme court more lattitude to develop their views and give them expression, even though by mere notation of dissent. This is a step in the right direction. It is a step in the right direction It that healthy clash of legal opinion which is the only means yet de-veloped in a democratic state for the winnowing and sifting of fallacies from the law.

The commission is seeking an ntrasted with the $253,000 which has been available for each of the past two years. The legislature two years ago set aside approximately $320,000 for the work, but Governor O'Daniel vetoed approproximately $66,000 a year out of the bill.

The principal speech in favor o the appropriation was made by L. J. Wardlaw of Fort Worth, member of the commission, that private parties and counties this year are spending $106,000 for inspectors and work in the control of livestock disease because of in-

are asking to get about four per-cent of it back for this important work," Wardlaw declared.

"The ranchmen spent about six or eight million dollars of their own money in cleaning up 100 counties which were tick-infested before the state ever made an appropriation. We have nearly fought the ticks out of the state. We used to have lots of scables among sheep. There are only two cases now that we know of. Vigilance must be our work from now on in detecting and wiping out disease.

Roger was proud of her arresting beauty, happy to have the direction of the first time the Coagrave dog handler had seen Lovely. He was looked at her dancing with someone they'd met: like a man struck dumb

Roger introduced his bride and then said easily: "We'll see you when we get back. Meantime take good care of the animals."

Roger glanced at Lovely as they walked back toward the house, She was startling beautiful. It was something more than beauty, He'd have to get used to seeing men mpletely bowled over when they first saw her. Hectic Honeymoon

In Acapulco, Mexico, Roger and Lovely lay on the warm sands of Los Hornos beach every afternoon and soaked in sun. Roger thought looking at Lovely's beautiful tanned body: "She's the most beautiful thing in the world. I'll never stop thrilling at the thought that she's mine. God help me to keep her happy always!"

Lovely lay, eyes closed, the dashing of the surf a tropical obligato to her thinking: "I'm lucky! Lucky! Everything in the world I want! Clothes towards a handler in the street of the stre want! Clothes, jewels, a handsome husband and love!" She opened her eyes just as a handsome Mex-ican strolled past and thought idly: "Some looks! Wonder what he'll be like?"

Then she rolled violently toward Roger, starting a roughhouse which every one on the beach paused to watch. Lovely's cry of 'Down!" was her signal for a rush to the water with Roger close be-

"Those two Americans - how terribly in love they must be!"

Square. "She's fascinating all right. She's going to be just like a young cobra in his life. But he's crazy about her." And her hard, slightly weary eyes studied Lovely intently. "I've seen somebody like her somewhere," she muttered to herself,

When finally they gathered their things and went happily back to the car, Roger drove swiftly up the hill to a cottage on a crag high up above the pounding blue ocean. Waiting for her on the brightly lighted plazza that faced the patlo, Roger felt his heart lift and tremble.

They dined usually at the hotel on the crags across the park. Or sometimes at El Jardine halfway down the hill. Wherever it was they were sure of being the cen-
