Over 200 Stockholders Attend Farm Loan Meeting Thursday

SCHOOL BACKING WILDCATS! "Grandpa's Cane, Grandma's Bustle; We Got A Team That Sure Can Hustle!"

The "good word" was BEAT DALHART!—and the whole student body knew it—at the first pep rally of the 1952-53 season in the High school gymnasium at 1 p.m. Friday. From the center of the gymnasium floor, new cheer leaders Wanda Webb, Naomi Murdock, Dorothy Folyn, and Shirley Moore, dressed in short maroon skirts and white turtleneck sweaters, led students in the school song and many yells. This was the first appearance of the new cheerleaders since try-outs last spring. From the bleachers on the opposite side of the gymnasium, the band gave forth with appropriate music. While the cheer leaders caught their breath between yells, Jim Fowler, former football player from LHS, and other members of the student body made short addresses. The enthusiastic spirit of the rally is best expressed in one of the yells: "Grandpa's cane, grandma's bustle; We got a team that sure can hustle!"

More than 200 stockholders of the National Farm Loan Association and their guests were present for the annual meeting Thursday night at 7:30 p.m. in the high school cafeteria.

In a short address, Dr. Ira Woods discussed the benefits of the association to the community. The National Farm Loan Association makes Federal Land Bank farm loans.

The surprise entertainer of the evening was presented to the group by C. O. Stone, secretary of the association, as August Brockschmidt from Harris county. The farm wit did a 15 minute comic studdering routine. After his act, he was introduced to the stockholders as C. Dutch Hohn of Independence, Texas.

Mr. Hohn worked his way through Texas A&M and was connected with the extension service in south Texas for 24 years. He is now retired and farming near Independence.

Big Parade Will Be Special Feature Of 1952 Lamb County Fall Fair

The fifth annual Lamb County Fair is the topic of conversation that is heard everywhere this week. The carnival concession opens the gate to the midway tomorrow, and all committees for other parts of the fair are hard at work on last minute details. Agricultural exhibits for the fair, next weekend are shaping up in good order, according to David Eason, general superintendent, but he urges more community exhibits to be entered.

New Fair Buildings With the new buildings that have been added, facilities for handling exhibits of all types and especially livestock have been increased and more than ever can be displayed advantageously without the crowding as in past years. Farmers and other exhibitors are urged to take advantage of the chance to show livestock and farm and home products at the fair this year. One of the special exhibits in the livestock entries this year will be a group of eight Duroc gilts and a Duroc boar won by local 4-H club members in the Sears Swine Program in June. The hogs were won as prizes for the best essays on swine production. Jack Baker of Olton won the Duroc boar. The eight gilts were won by Gedonne Williams, Sudan; Buford Carter, Littlefield; Larry Holly, Anton; Gene Tunnell, Muleshoe; Jack Hysinger, Olton; Darrell Ogerly, Littlefield; and Allen (Continued on Back Page)

Lamb 4-H Clubs Place High In District Judging Wednesday

The Lamb County 4-H Clubs placed high on the list of honors received at the District Judging of records in Lubbock, Wednesday.

Max Don Barnett won second place in the Texas Electrical program. A $30 cash award was the second prize. Max was first place winner in the county record contest.

The county club received second place for club records and was awarded a $50 prize which will be used in carrying on the 4-H club work.

Records in the electrical program were on work done in supplying the farm and home with electricity such as lighting in barns, electric pig brooders, etc.

This 4-H club program is sponsored by Southwestern Public Service and Westinghouse.

Littlefield Schools to Have Broader Audio-Visual Education Program

The West Texas Cooperative Audio-Visual Services, an agency that reaches its arm into the classroom to give teachers a lift with instruction, was organized this summer at Tech in Lubbock to begin functioning with the opening of school in the Plains area this month.

The Littlefield school system and its superintendent, Joe Hutchinson, long having recognized the value of a service of this kind, have made continue efforts toward the establishment of an audio-visual program in schools because it is impossible for a school to purchase every film and slide that it would like to use in its education program. By pooling funds set aside for audio-visual materials in each school, a film library containing an ample list of titles can be built up and made available to many schools.

Garden Club Will Sponsor Cemetery Cleanup Drive

The Garden Club announces that Tuesday and Wednesday will be special "clean up" days at Littlefield cemetery. The care and beautification of the cemetery is one of the club's yearly projects.

Mrs. Acrey Barton, chairman of the committee, said that the old part of the cemetery is especially in need of attention.

At this time of the year, weeds around the cemetery lots are going to seed and if not cleared before the seeds drop off, there will be a bigger crop of undesirable growth on lots next year.

Mrs. Barton and her committee, Mrs. Bill Chesher, Mrs. Harry Williams and Mrs. George White urge everyone to help make the campaign accomplish its purpose.

Anyone not having time to devote to their family lot can contact any member of the Garden Club and have it cleared for the nominal fee of one dollar.

CONSTRUCTION STARTS ON GLENN YOUNG BUILDING ON HIGHWAY 84

Plans are underway by Glen D. Young of Littlefield for considerable improvements on his property along highway 84, west of town, just west of Batson Motor Company.

Excavation work for the foundation got underway Wednesday, with Ernie Goertz, contractor, in charge. Plans include three buildings, one of which will be of triangular shape, 58x42x25 ft., and when completed will be occupied by Tommy's Service Center. Construction will be of concrete block, with modern front and metal awnings. This will afford this concern four times the space they have in their present location. The three buildings will take up 103 feet frontage on Highway 84.

Missionary to Speak At Olton Baptist Church

Guest speaker next Wednesday night at the First Baptist Church, Olton will be a missionary to Costa Rica, Rev. Van Earle Hughes.

Rev. Hughes and his wife have served as evangelists in Costa Rica for a number of years. Their hometown is Kress, Texas.

Services, which are open to the public, begin at 8:45 p.m.

Light Of International Publicity Falls On Sudan Fall Festival

the Fall Festival scheduled September 26 and 27. The Sudanese theme is a bigger project. Its chairmen and sponsors have imagined—with a few international im-his presence. The international angle cropped up when the committee began to receive many letters from various internationally-minded agencies in the East. The most important letters involving international publicity however, are from foreign embassies and legations in the capital. Among others, the festival committee has received letters from Sweden, Israel, Soviet Union, and

Union of South Africa. Clothing To Be Collected The clothing drive to be conducted in connection with the fall festival will receive publicity in four counties, Bailey, Lamb, Cochran, and Hockley. Announcement of the campaign to collect clothing and other articles for personal use will be made from all the pulpits in these counties today and next Sunday.

The Boy Scouts have taken over the clothing drive and will collect the articles over the four county area. Residents are asked to leave bundles on their front porches or steps to be picked up. Trucks supplied by the festival committee in Sudan will pick them up in each community. Joe Salem announced that the contest date limit on "My Plan for World Peace" may have to be extended beyond the time for the festival. Judges for the 100 word letters will be presidents of outstanding Texas universities and colleges. Final announcements and programs for the festival will be released early in the week.

New Medical Memorial Library

The new memorial library and headquarters building recently completed by the Texas Medical Association in Austin is dedicated to better health for all of Texas. The modern two-story edifice, covering almost a city block, houses facilities which will serve not only the 6,000 doctors of medicine who are members of the Association, but the general public as well.

Formal opening of the building will be held September 19, 20, and 21, with distinguished guests from throughout the state and nation in attendance at the dedication ceremonies. A thirty minute broadcast summarizing the entire three-day program will be carried over the Texas State Network on Sunday afternoon, September 21.

Open house for the public will take place from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday, September 21. Movies picturing medicine's aids to healthier living will be shown continually in the auditorium to those who tour the building. Each visitor will be given the opportunity to see for himself the services available to him and his doctor. For example, the medical library of the association enables the doctor to keep up-to-date in the various fields of medicine and thereby better serve his patients. All doctors in the state can make use of the library, since through its package service materials are mailed to physicians upon request. The library also offers the use of its motion picture films on medicine and health education to physicians and lay groups without charge.

Among other services offered to the public by the association are those of a doctor placement bureau. From it, communities needing doctors can get help. During the past nine months 32 communities have been aided to secure physicians. Too, records on health subjects are sent regularly to many Texas radio stations, and "Health Talks," a series of articles on health and medicine are sent to weekly and daily newspapers throughout the state. In addition, information is supplied to those wishing to make speeches on medical, health or related topics, and doctors are secured to speak to groups on medical topics upon request.

L. E. MOORE INJURED ON JOB BY RECOILING ELECTRIC SAW

L. E. Moore, 49, resident of 1124 East Ninth street, was seriously injured Thursday morning when an electric saw got out of control, lacerating his left leg.

Moore was employed on a house construction project located just inside the city limits on Highway 51. The accident occurred at 11 a.m. When the electric saw which Moore was using to cut sub-flooring hit a knot in the wood, the saw recoiled from the obstruction and caught Moore's trouser leg. A heavy reinforced wooden rule in a pocket in his trousers probably kept the laceration from going any deeper than it did.

Moore was admitted to Littlefield Hospital a few minutes after the accident, where he was treated for tetanus as well as the injury to his left leg. His condition is reported "satisfactory."

Health Talks

Prepared by the State Medical Association of Texas

Six-year-old Jimmy is bursting with pride. It's his first time to go to school, and for weeks he and his parents have been getting ready for the big day. Packed in his satchel are a box of crayons, a ruler, and plenty of pencils with the biggest erasers he could find for the many mistakes he thinks he'll make. His brand new shoes have a shine—and their squeak is almost unnoticeable. All in all, he's one of the happiest boys in town.

Jimmy is lucky if his health equipment is in as good shape as his school equipment. Soon after Jimmy was born, the family doctor or a pediatrician (a specialist in the care of children) examined him, prescribed his diet, gave him the necessary shots, and saw him safely through the first year of life. Ideally, Jimmy should have been taken back to the doctor every six months or year until school time. However, because his parents do not allow enough in their budget for these important periodic check-ups, he may have been seen by the doctor only on rare occasions, such as when he had scarlet fever or when he struck a nail in his foot. More than likely what he remembers is being in pain, feeling bad, and having to take nasty medicine, and unfortunately he may associate all those bad memories with the doctor.

It's no small wonder, then, that he balks like a mule when it's time for a preschool checkup. Some schools have round-ups for health examinations early enough in the summer to be of the most benefit. However, it may be easier for Jimmy's mother and father to give in and not take him until the last minute, when forced to do so by rules which require examination and vaccination before he can enter school. Perhaps they will follow the recommendation of the school officials or the doctor and see that he is protected against diphtheria, tetanus (lockjaw), and whooping cough, as well.

A school health examination has a two fold purpose: to advise school authorities of any physical or mental handicap which should be considered in the teaching program and to enable the parents to take care of any defect like bad eyesight, which can be remedied before it becomes a handicap.

What if Jimmy comes up short? He may need glasses or may be run-down and anemic. He may need to be sent to a dentist for work on his teeth such as filling cavities or straightening teeth. It's pretty late to do anything about these things without cutting into the school schedule. In addition, if he needs more than "boosters" or vaccination, the larger doses of vaccine may make him ill. Wise parents have taken their children for examinations and injections earlier in the summer, but Jimmy's are learning the hard way. They promise that next year will be different.

If Jimmy hasn't been seeing the doctor and dentist all along, there are several ways his parents can help prepare him for his first visit. First, they should not tell him the doctor won't hurt. Needed immunizations are painful at least to a slight degree and part of the check-up, such as the throat examination, may not be very pleasant. If Jimmy wants to brag afterward that "it didn't hurt a bit," that's okay, but to make false promises and then to violate his trust is to stir up bad feelings. Like a little elephant, he'll never forget.

Jimmy usually will cooperate better if his parents take him into their confidence. They should let him know that some things which are to be done may hurt for a while but are necessary before he can go to school with the other kids, who are getting the same treatment. Then if he asks questions, he should receive simple, frank answers.

If Jimmy realizes that before long he will be on his own in school, away from his mother's apron strings, and is filled with the idea of independence, he might want to have a man-to-man talk with the doctor. Mother can give the doctor information about Jimmy's history, something needed badly, but there is little she can do during the actual examination and treatment. Therefore, unless Jimmy insists upon her being present, she could be most helpful in building up Jimmy's ego by staying out of the examining room.

In a way, a health examination for Jimmy just before he goes to school is a blessing. He isn't ill, so the doctor has a chance to impress him favorably. The good relationship which can be established at this time will last him all his life. It will awaken in him a consciousness of the need to stay in good health by going to the doctor and dentist regularly, and he will know that when he is sick, he can count on the doctor as his friend.

Good Fishing Nearby

And finally, although some of the richest fishing grounds in north-west waters lie just off shore in the path of the big sockeye salmon runs to Canada's Fraser River, Point Roberts benefits little. There is no harbor, and seiners are supplied and relieved of their fish by tenders from Bellingham or Anacortes.

It was the fishing which first attracted the Icelanders—many of whom had settled in Canada—to the point almost 60 years ago. Today nine out of 16 of the approximately 260 year-round residents are of Icelandic descent. One of them, Asta Norman, 69-year-old farmwoman, is a painter of note. She has studied in Germany and received medals.

In an old cemetery, whose graves are appropriately covered with Iceland poppies, are stones bearing names of old Icelandic families such as Linbjorg Simundson, Groa Magnusdotter and Gustav J. T. Iwerson.

Convenient for Canadians

A glance at the map shows how available Point Roberts is to Canadians. The Vancouver area is only 18 air miles away and Ladner and New Westminster are closer. On a recent Sunday, Deputy Walter C. Davis at the U.S. port of customs entry, reported 2,596 cars brought 11,196 persons across the boundary line. Of some 250 or more cabins and summer homes, about 70 per cent are Canadian-owned.

Grasslands Achievement Trophy Given To Kaufman County At Poetry Camp

Come drought or flood, Texans are making progress in improving their ranges and pastures. The present drought has drastically cut not only crop but range and pasture production as well. But with favorable conditions, farmers and stockmen are expected to continue and materially expand their programs of soil and water conservation and pasture and range improvement.

Last year the National Fertilizer Association made available through the Texas Agricultural Extension Service a trophy to be presented to the county in Texas conducting the most outstanding program in pasture and range improvement. The selection has been made and the Grasslands Achievement Trophy—a silver loving cup—was presented to Kaufman County at a countywide meeting held at the community house at Poetry-Camp Ground on Friday night, August 29.

Factual Reports Of Contents Of National Platform

The following is one of a series of articles prepared as a public service by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. These articles contain factual reports of the contents of the national platforms of the major political parties, without comment:

Planks of the platforms adopted by the Republican and Democratic parties in their national conventions bearing upon the federal budget, tax reduction, tax administration and national defense, contained the following statements:

Federal budget:

Democratic platform—Declares for holding spending "to the lowest practicable level"; deprecates "irresponsible assertion that national security can be achieved without paying for it."

Republican platform—Pledges "reduction of expenditures by elimination of waste and extravagance so that the budget will be balanced and a general tax reduction can be made."

Tax reduction: Democratic—"As rapidly as defense requirements permit, we favor reducing taxes, especially for people of lower incomes. But we will not imperil our nation's security by making reckless promises to reduce taxes. . . . We oppose a general sales tax. . . . We adhere to the principle of ability to pay. . . ."

Republican—"Our goal is a balanced budget, a reduced national debt, an economical administration and a cut in taxes."

Tax administration: Democratic—"A pledge 'to eliminate loopholes which favor special groups'; a promise to 'continue to support sound development and growth of bona fide cooperatives and to protect them from punitive taxation.'"

Republican—"Favors 'a thorough revision and codification of the present hodgepodge of internal tax laws. . . . Administration of tax laws free from politics and corruption"; favors "reasonable depletion allowances."

Federal-state-local fiscal relations: Democratic—"Proposes more and new forms of grants-in-aid to the States."

Republican—"Pledges 'an immediate study directed toward reallocation of fields of taxation between Federal, state and municipal government so as to allow greater fiscal freedom to the states and municipalities, enabling them to meet their obligations more efficiently.'"

Prizes Totaling $175 Given Away By Kline-Hufstедler

Douglas Walden of Littlefield won a $100 merchandise certificate as first prize in the contest conducted by Kline-Hufstедler, dealers for Ford and Dearborn Farm Implements. Registration for the drawing was open during June and July. Winners were announced this week.

Walden now qualifies for the drawing in Dallas, October 4. He is one of the first prize winners who will come from each of 133 dealerships in the state. Stewart Company in Dallas, state distributor for Ford and Dearborn equipment, will give away a Ford tractor at the state-wide drawing.

Second prize in the local contest, a $50 merchandise certificate, was won by Vernon Cox of Littlefield. S. B. Sherrill, Amherst resident, won the third prize, a $25 gift certificate.

Republican Vice-Presidential Nominee To Speak In Amarillo

Plans for the September 25 appearance of Republican Vice-Presidential Nominee Richard M. Nixon at Amarillo were announced Thursday by Ben Guill, Eisenhower-Nixon state campaign manager.

The California senator will arrive in Amarillo in a special chartered plane at 6 p.m. on the 26th. From 6 p.m. to 6:30 p.m., he will conduct a press conference in the dining hall of the Amarillo termi-

Grounds at Amarillo where he will make a 15-minute speech to officially launch the Eisenhower-Nixon campaign in Texas. The 6:45 to 7 p.m. talk will be broadcast over the facilities of the Texas Quality Network.

Wes Izzard, publisher of the Amarillo Globe-Times, will make the introduction.

Following the principal address, Senator Nixon will appear on a 15-minute radio program with Mr. Izzard acting as the interviewer. Plans are for the Amarillo newspaper to collect questions from over the Panhandle area that newsmen and other want asked of Senator Nixon.

Between 7:15 and 7:30 p.m., after the Izzard interview, the Senator will tour the fair grounds. He will leave for the Amarillo Municipal Airport at 7:30 p.m. and will depart for Tulsa at 7:45.

This will be the first official visit to the State by a GOP nominee in the 1952 presidential race. Senator Nixon is expected to give a fighting speech to launch the Texas campaign.

Good Hostess -- on a Budget

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

If rising food prices are upsetting your budget, try this recipe next time you have supper guests. It's an attractive, good-tasting, and different way to use that old standby—hamburger. This dish will allow you to serve six people with one pound of ground beef.

You pack nutrients into the dish by using economical nonfat dry milk in the meat mixture as well as in the biscuit topping. All you have to do, when you make the topping, is to sift the milk powder with the other dry ingredients, then add cold water for the liquid that makes the soft dough.

Serve a combination salad of greens, tomatoes, and cucumbers with the Swirl Biscuit Bake, if you like, and accompany the salad with a tangy French dressing. Pears and grapes, plentiful fruits at this time of year, will make a fine dessert. Serve the fruit whole or in a compote. To prepare the compote, peel and dice the pears, then mix them with the grapes and some strained orange juice. You'll find this compote is particularly attractive served from a glass bowl. For a perfect finish to this meal, bring on black coffee (Italian or American style), in small cups; have the coffee hot and strong and serve it with sugar but no cream.

SWIRL BISCUIT BAKE
Ingredients: 1 recipe Swirl Cheese Biscuit Topping, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine, 1/4 cup finely diced onion, 1/4 cup finely diced green pepper, 1 pound ground beef, 1/2 cup water, 1/3 cup nonfat dry milk, 1 teaspoon salt, 2 cups drained cooked or canned peas.

Method: Melt butter in large heavy skillet. Sauté onion and green pepper until tender and onions are light golden-brown. Add meat and cook until brown, stirring with fork to break up into small pieces. Pour water in small bowl. Sprinkle nonfat dry milk and salt over surface. Beat with rotary beater until just blended. Pour into skillet and cook over low heat until slightly thickened, about 5 minutes. Mix in peas. Remove from heat. Pour into 8-inch square baking dish. Arrange biscuits over top of meat and peas. Bake in hot (425 F.) oven until biscuits are golden-brown, about 25 minutes. Serve at once. Makes 6 servings.

SWIRL CHEESE BISCUIT TOPPING

Ingredients: 2 cups sifted flour, 1/2 cup nonfat dry milk, 3 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup shortening, 2/3 cup cold water (about), 1/4 pound process American cheese food (finely shredded), 1 tablespoon finely chopped parsley

Method: Sift together flour, nonfat dry milk, baking powder and salt. Cut in shortening with two knives or pastry blender. Stirring with a fork, add just enough water to make a soft dough. Turn onto a floured board and knead lightly for 1/2 minute. Roll dough 1/4-inch thick into oblong 12x7 inches. Sprinkle cheese and parsley evenly over dough to within 1/2-inch from edge. Roll lengthwise as tight as possible. Jelly-roll fashion. Cut 12 one-inch pieces. Place on top of meat and peas.

How To Tag A Bore

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Newsfeatures Writer

A couple of years ago, a trail-blazing monograph, "Snobs," was published. This important pioneering study, delineating the various types of snobs and degrees of snobbery, opened a new door in the classification of the human American animal. There seems to be a crying need for a similar study on another facet of human relations. Therefore, I have been making a preliminary study on the subject of bores and, incidentally, boredom.

I find there are, roughly, three categories of bores: the common bore, the crashing bore and the bore's bore.

The common bore (not to be confused with the garden bore who is in a sub-classification of the crashing bore) is usually a part-time bore and there are few of us, indeed, who are not in the category. Crashing and bore's bores, however, are reformed, stubborn professionals who spend lifetimes dulling and ignoring all the typical signs of listener distress.

The common bore might be defined as any person discussing a subject in which the listener is not interested or—more frequently—as any person talking when a listener yearns to hold the floor. For the most part, he is a victim of unfortunate timing, a momentary lack of rapport with his audience or an urgent need to get something off his chest.

A typical example of the common bore would be a young mother relating a few cute-sayings of Junior to a friend busting to tell of her recent promotion from secretary to PRIVATE secretary.

Almost anybody can be—and frequently is—a common bore. Achievement of the status as a crashing bore, however, makes demands.

The classic type crashing bore has opinions on every subject, and backs them with a determination.

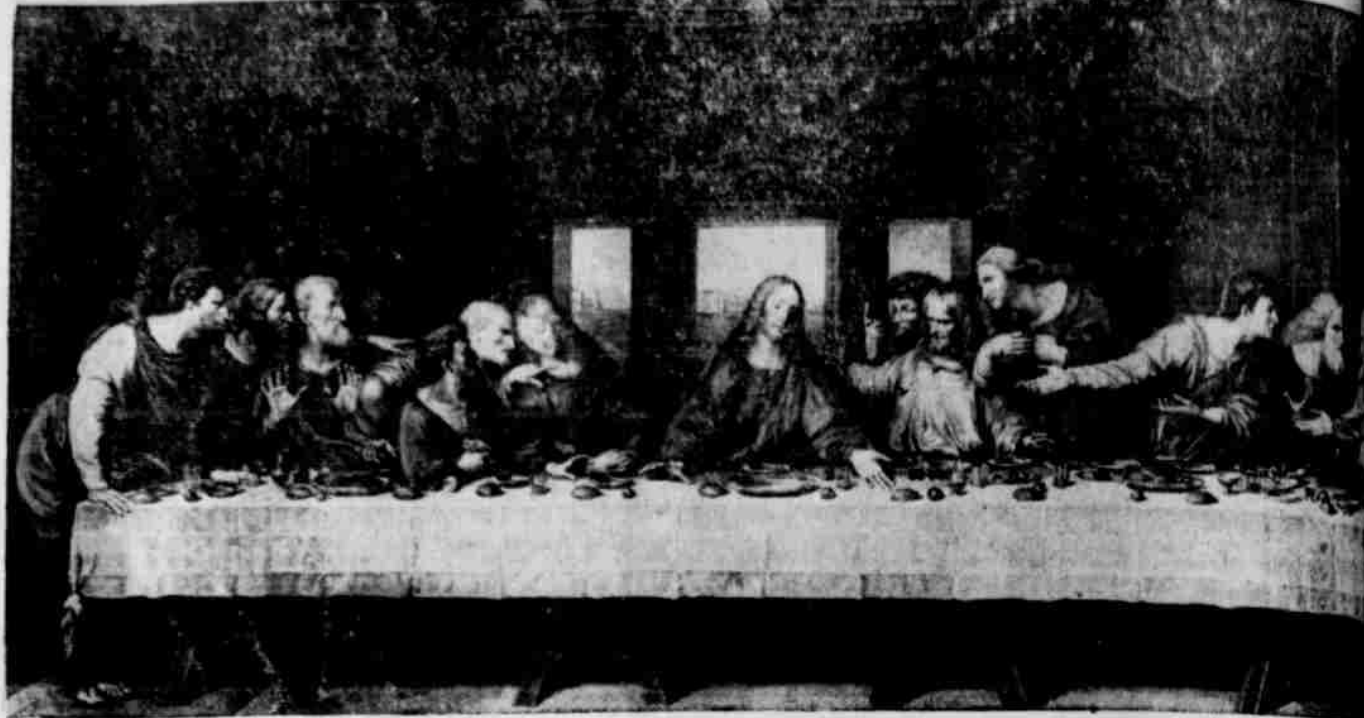

to enunciate them and fortifies them with vocal equipment to override any conversational competition. He must tell every story completely, without sliding over any unimportant details. He must learn the knack of compounding the boredom he generates from a pointless story by going off on frequent, even duller, tangents.

Each category of bores has, of course, delicate gradations. A simple example of the uncomplicated crashing bore would be a new house owner describing with vast relish and in complete detail his difficult negotiations in connection with a second mortgage, to a bachelor with his eye on a pretty blonde on the other side of the room. Other examples are wives describing another woman's new living room decor during a crucial World Series inning. Or a positive woman proving conclusively that a particularly choice morsel of neighborhood gossip is without foundation.

Bore's bores are few and far between. They are one-subject holders-forth, always on the lookout for a chance to launch a monologue on the subject which, alone, fas-

Time Is Destroying Famous Painting

"THE LAST SUPPER," the world-renowned painting by Leonardo da Vinci on the wall of an Italian monastery, faces progressive deterioration. It is 450 years old.

By CARLO FENOGLIO
AP Newsfeatures

MILAN—The life of Leonardo's famed "Last Supper" is going to be a short one. Prof. Luigi Crema, superintendent of monuments of Lombardy, has announced.

Some 150,000 persons every year ring the bell at the monastery of Santa Maria delle Grazie in Milan to see Leonardo's great masterpiece.

It is commonly called a fresco, but any art expert will tell you it is a tempera. The difference is that frescos are painted on damp mortar and the colors penetrate deep. Tempera is painted on a dry wall. Its colors fade much faster.

Every attempt to preserve the painting for as long as possible is being made but very little is left of the beautiful work. The fifth centenary this year of Leonardo's birth has marked the beginning of the painting's last period.

The painting has decayed through the centuries. World War II gave it another blow. A group of bombs completely destroyed the roof and one of the walls of the dining hall of the monastery. When the friars inspected the damage and saw the wall of the "Last Supper" covered with dust and the roof's beams hanging down, they thought the painting was destroyed.

The painting, exposed to open air, absorbed humidity and dust for several seasons, and was covered by a thin and harmful layer of dirt. The wall itself, soaked in dampness, caused some concern. While technicians and experts were trying to decide what to do, an extraordinary thing happened. After masons had rebuilt the roof and the wall, "The Last Supper" wall slowly dried up. The experts decided that the wall was not very damp after all, and the humidity had been absorbed by the 450-year-old painting when exposed to open air.

Painting Cleaned

"The Last Supper" was then submitted to a first cleaning, by restorer Prof. Mario Pellecioli, and later, after an inspection by experts from the Education Ministry, to a second and more accurate cleaning.

The cleaning consists mostly in removing the dust from the numberless cracks produced by the centuries and the humidity, so that the painting will show its original colors—those which Leonardo painted.

To guarantee a dry temperature in the hall, the floor is fitted with radiating panels.

The "Last Supper" represents the most dramatic moment in Christ's last supper with his 12 disciples. It is the moment in which Christ says with lowered eyelids "One of you will betray me."

To these words all the Apostles express indignation and astonishment. Only one withdraws as though struck by a thunderbolt—Judas.

From the expression of Christ's infinite resignation to the varying expressions of the Apostles and the landscape beyond them, everything was painted with utmost care.

But, ironically, this masterpiece of art and thought was born with a flaw. And because of that its life will be shorter than if it had been made according to rule.

The plaster used by Leonardo in Santa Maria delle Grazie began to shift soon after it was completed for unknown causes. The result was a continued cracking of the colors.

Restoration Started

Toward the middle of the 16th century the painters started a work of restoration which was useless. In addition, dyes used by ancient painters appeared to be more beneficial.

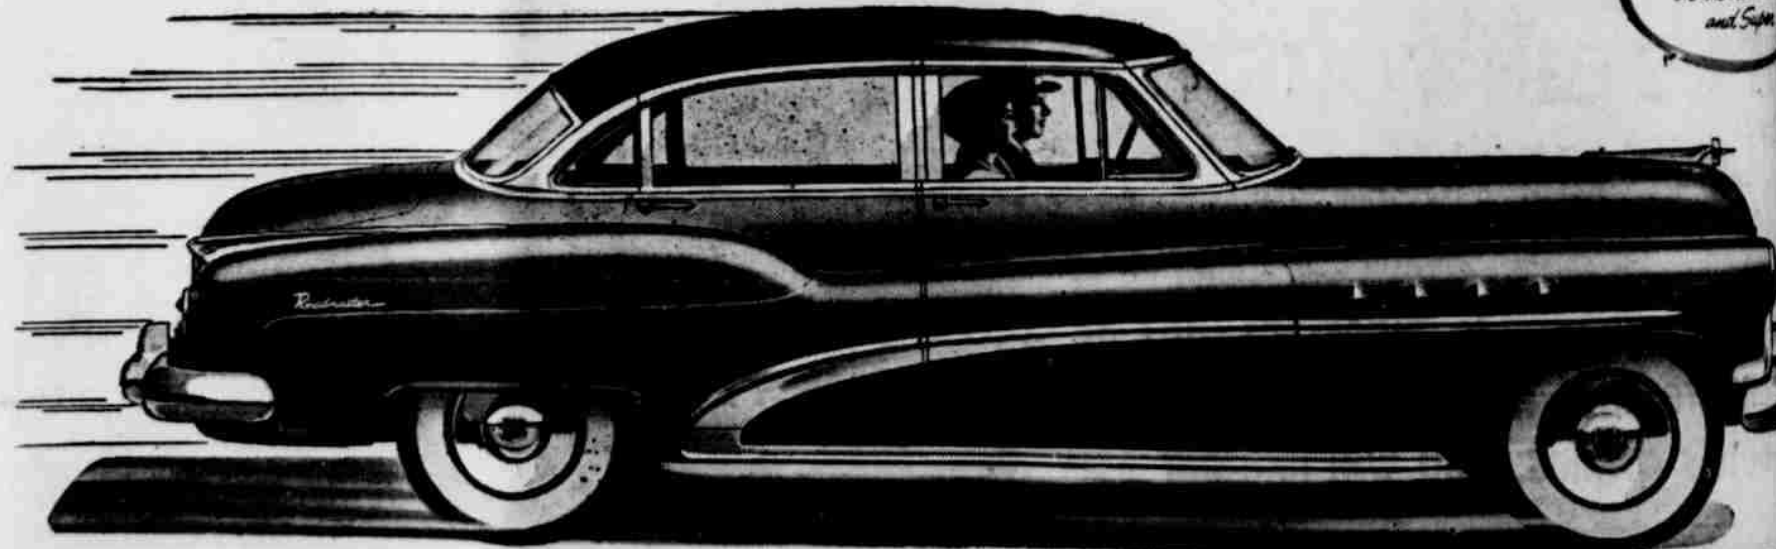

Finally, the "Last Supper" restored with oil painting and the original color of Leonardo were respected. In his tempera, made the heavier.

In 1908 Cavenazzi restored the painting completely. He over one year during which he moved all the oil which put over the painting and Leonardo's original tempera. Fortunately, it was cracked and had disappeared completely in some parts.

But technicians and experts agreed that it was not possible to see the original painting, incomplete rather than a retouching by scores of artists. The same idea of present cleaning work.

Watch the blocks and the actions of the kick-coverers if you want to appreciate the kick-off. Diagram from "How to Watch Football."

Do you know what to watch for at the kick-off in a football game? Do you know where to look for exciting action on a pass play? Do you know a T-formation from a Split-T?

To get enjoyment out of a football game, you needn't know how to play, but you ought to know what to watch for. That's the consensus of eleven famous football coaches who have combined to write a new 48-page illustrated booklet on the fine points of being a football spectator.

Entitled "How to Watch Football," it is authored by top-flight mentors of the Big Ten and Big Seven conferences and carries the endorsement of The American Football Coaches Association.

The booklet may be obtained free of charge from Phillips 66 Dealers in this area.

Ray Elliot, head football coach at the University of Illinois advises, "Don't keep your eye on the ball" if you want to appreciate football's most spectacular play—the kick-off. Instead, watch how the receiving team forms inter-ence. Watch how the kick-coverers counteract the interference. The flight of the ball is the least important part of the action.

Equally sage advice on how to enjoy the game comes from Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma, Don Faurot of Missouri, Benny Oosterbaan of Michigan and Forest Evashevski of Iowa. Each contributes a short informative article on some phase of offensive strategy.

Jules Sikes of Kansas and Stu Holcomb of Purdue tell what to look for on a pass play. The role of the flanker is described by Bill Glassford of Nebraska. Wesley Fesler of Minnesota, explains punting, while Bob Voigts of Northwestern and Ivy Williamson of Wisconsin talk about defense.

If you want to be able to "expert" the games this fall, "How to play Football" will give you the background you need. In addition to articles by the coaches the booklet contains schedules of the leading college and professional teams as well as a key to the understanding of officials' signals and a summary of penalties.

Western Reception For Mrs. Boone Features Early Family Life

The Western reception honoring Mrs. Flora Best Boone as Grand Worthy Matron of the Grand Chapter OES of the State of Texas took place in the auditorium of the Educational Building of the First Baptist Church Friday afternoon from 4 to 6 o'clock.

Nearly 100 members and guests of the local chapter registered with Mrs. Roy B. Dodson at a serape-draped table near the door where the Western motif began.

The receiving line on the other side of the room was composed of Grand Officers and the Worthy Matron of the local OES chapter, Mrs. Roy McQuatters, jr. Among those in the line were the honoree, Mrs. Boone; Mrs. Pauline Smith, Grand Ruth from Lubbock; Mrs. Gladys Laing, chairman of the transportation and mileage committee from Earth; Mrs. Elsie Bills, Grand Examiner from Fabens, Texas; and Pat H. Boone, sr., Past Grand Patron.

Decorations in the auditorium highlighted the Western motif. The entire wall behind the stage was covered with serapes and brightly-colored Navejo rugs. On the stage itself were several bales of hay, stacked so that participants in the program could sit on them; bundles of sage-brush; saddles; and an old kerosene lantern.

Many beautiful cowboy shirts were in evidence among the audience, and all the officers of the local chapter were dressed in boots and moccasins, denim dresses, neckerchiefs, and silver mounted belts. There was even a blue ten-gallon hat.

The program was inspired by R. C. Hopping's recently published book, "A Sheriff-Ranger in Chuckwagon Days." As the program unfolded, narrated by Mrs. Lyle Brandon, program chairman, it was the story of Flora Best Hopping Boone's family life embellished by many of the favorite anecdotes from the book and illustrated in song by three groups of singers.

Mrs. Brandon opened the program with character sketches of Flora Best's family as they were in the book. Folk songs such as "Coke Hopping and his children, Jake, Flora Best, and Laverna might have sung in the evenings in the little house among the sand hills were sung and played by Joe Dunn on his guitar.

During the afternoon, Mr. Dunn, a member of the Littlefield Four, rendered such songs as "Last Roundup," "Prairie Lullaby," and "Strawberry Roan."

Many of the Hopping family stories were illustrated in song by Mrs. Grace Findley in such songs as "Old Faithful" and "Redwing." Later in the program, Mrs. Findley sang "Beautiful Star," a song written by Mrs. E. C. Gilbert from Dublin last year especially for Mrs. Boone.

The Hopping family first settled near Portales, N.M. The spirit of scenes in an old Mexican settlement were captured by Senoras Hawk, Nowlin, and Moss. In the best "south of the border" tradition, the singers were costumed in long, bright colored full skirts, white ruffled blouses with a profusion of beads and headresses of flowers. The song "Manana" and "A Gay Ranchero."

Following the program, refreshments were served in the church diningroom. The reception table was covered with a red-and-white checkered cloth centered with a miniature covered wagon lighted from within. Apple juice was served from a wooden keg and cakes that were served had a horse-shoe imprinted in their white icing.

Blair Laundry Reopens For Business; Mrs. Clea Goodwin Is In Charge

The Blair Laundry, located at 523 KIT Drive, which has been closed some time, has been reopened by Mr. and Mrs. John Blair, owners, with Mrs. Clea Goodwin in charge.

Mrs. Goodwin asked the Leader to thank their many customers for the nice volume of business extended them in the past, and stated she would appreciate very much a continuance of that patronage.

The Blair Laundry is a well equipped laundry, and offers efficient and personal service. They do finish work.

The Laundry was closed due to Mr. Blair suffering serious injury to one of his hands sometime ago.

Mrs. Goodwin states that everything now is in readiness to give Doyle Turner of Muleshoe.

The gilts will be judged in the ring sometime Friday, September 19. The best gilt and the boar will be entered in the District Swine Show at Tech on September 20.

Five educational exhibits will be set up at the fair by the following clubs: Pleasant Valley, Amherst, Sudan, Spade, and the County-Wide 4-H Recreation Club. The exhibits will show the use of electricity in the home and farm.

Equipment and supplies for assembling these exhibits will be furnished by Southwestern Public Service and REA. An adult leader and four or five club members will be responsible for each exhibit.

Interest is high in this year's parade, which will be at 3:30 p.m. Friday, stated V. M. Peterman, president of the fair association. One of the first floats to be entered this year is that of the Littlefield Hot Shots. And according to Gene Williams, chairman of the parade committee, all indications at the present show that the number of floats and other groups in the parade this year will exceed the number entered last year.

Director Henry R. McCarty was hired to head the service by the board of directors in July and began organizing for the early function of the cooperative.

The home of the Audio-Visual Service is rooms 4 and 5 of the Library at Tech. A budget of $25,000 for the school year 1952-53 was approved by the board of directors.

The new catalog of the service will contain approximately 1000 film titles. A basic list of 416 prints of 360 new film titles was approved for purchase at a recent meeting of the board of directors. Materials for use in the classroom were selected on the basis of the evaluation made by teachers in Texas Tech's Parade of film program, upon the recommendations of recognized authorities in the field of audio-visual education, and upon the basis of the films which have had the greatest frequency of use in a number of the nation's largest film libraries.

The service will be managed through an audio-visual director in each school district assisted by an audio-visual building coordinator for each separate school building. William Brume has been named director for the service here. Building coordinators are as follows: Senior high, Jimmy Hine; Junior high, Don Hunt; Central Elementary, D. C. Lindley; Primary, Paul I. Jones; Dunbar, Maurice Powell.

To orient coordinators in proper utilization and supervisions of audio-visual resources Texas Tech provides a three hour credit course in audio-visual education. The course which is taught on Wednesday evenings and Saturday mornings also acquaints local coordinators with those from other member schools in the region.

Dues for membership in the West Texas Cooperative Audio-Visual Services are 50 cents per scholastic per year.

Certified Copy Of Discharge Needed In Applying For Benefits

Veterans Administration are advising all veterans to have photostatic or certified copies made of their original discharge or separation papers for use in applying for veterans benefits.

Veterans with service since June 27, 1950—the start of the Korean conflict—should have these copies made immediately if they plan to attend school under the Korean GI Bill this fall.

Post-Korea veterans can avoid delay in receiving their education and training benefits if they have their report of separation (Form DD 214) papers, which are acceptable to VA, copied before the original is sent to the Armed Services for mustering-out payments. Mustering-out payments are handled by the individual services and not by VA.

For most VA administered benefits, photostatic or certified copies of discharge or separation papers are acceptable. One exception is the fence. But the afternoon grew tedious and all my favorite "victims" were down in the lotyard where cattle were being turned in from the pasture.

Brat Flirts With Danger

With boredom, I grew somewhat bold. At least bold enough to open the gate and start across the wide open space toward a far fence. My intentions were to climb the fence and sit on one of the broad posts (the only country trick I had mastered). Cows don't climb fences and I'd be safe there. In the middle of my journey across the wide, open space, I heard "Magnolia" called in an urgent tone of voice.

Looking up, I beheld the most terrifying sight any six-year-old in red shorts ever saw, a BIG bull, head lowered, eyes blazing, charging right toward me. I turned and fled, screaming. Visions of being tossed up, up on the tips of those cruel, twisted horns lent wings to my sandals. Safety lay behind the picket fence and up on the big back porch.

Without looking behind me again, I took the fence in one leap! Granddaddy swears to this day that there's not a collie in Georgia that could have cleared that fence any better!

On the back porch Mother and Grandmother greeted me not with the sympathy I expected but with laughter which shook them all over. From the lotyard came more of the same. Granddaddy and the boys were absolutely leaning against the fences.

I looked around for the bull. The death-dealing creature of a moment past was ambling through the herd of cows in the middle of the lot. I looked again. I could not believe my eyes. He had NO HORNS! The top of his head was as smooth as mine.

As the laughter grew louder, the light dawned and my face got as red as my shorts. That bull had not even seen me; he was much too interested in the cows.

I hid in the grape arbor for the rest of the afternoon.

Well, there you have my version. Please memorize and if you can't refrain, tell this version to the groom and father-in-law in the vestibule of the church—SOMEDAY.

Fair Season Arrives

Summer is just about over. You know how I can tell? REVIVALS are getting farther apart. With the evangelist's tent coming down, though, there is another one to go up—the carnival tent. It's just about fall fair season and I'm wondering if you're frantically fattening steers like you used to do in 4-H and FFA days.

The fifth annual Lamb County Fair is the one I'll be attending this year, September 18, 19 and 20 instead of the old Brooks County Fair. But a county fair is a county fair. Wherever you find one, there's a magic about the gaudy combination of bright lights, milling people, dusty fairgrounds, and corny music—and all of its ringed around with the first crispness of fall in the air—that is associated with no time or place. In Texas and in SOUTH Georgia, ferris wheels and hot dogs and blue ribbon hogs are the same, I BETCHA!

The first pop bottle I ever tried to drink out of was at a county fair. And I couldn't do it. I'd turn the bottle up and get a big mouthful; but when I lowered my head to swallow, everything went right back into the bottle again!

There are a lot of "firsts" at a fair. I had my first airplane ride. No, not Delta, the kiddie kind of airplanes that go round and round like swings. On the first go-round after the ride started, I gave mother a BIG GRIN just like I used to do on the merry-go-round, on the second go-round, the grin was kinda sickly, and on the third I was yelling to get off. What I'll never forget about that ride is that the man gave me my money back. That saved the fair for me. I was completely happy again.

Magnolia Going To Fair

From what I hear, the folks who have been engaged for the carnival concession at the Lamb County Fair this year are showmen of the same type. (Not that I'm going to prove it by yelling to get off one of their rides!) The manager of Rocky Mountain Empire shows is having a free gate to the carnival grounds and the VA-guaranteed GI loans.

Veterans applying for Certificates of Eligibility for GI loans must present their original discharge or separation papers which will be endorsed and returned to the veterans.

VA also asked veterans to make sure that in submitting photostatic or certified copies of discharge or separation papers that they submit copies of both sides of the document and not just the front.

Veterans who have been released to the reserves since June 27, 1950, should submit their Report of Separation or Certificate of Service, since they do not get discharge papers.

Well, I can't be classed as "Hill folks" anymore, but I'm SURE gonna be out there at the fair grounds September 18 'cause I betcha the cotton candy's just as sweet and the prize shoats just as fat in Lamb County as they were at the Brooks County fair in SOUTH Georgia.

PARISIANS IGNORE PARKS
PARIS OP—Paris has a parks and gardens system unique among world capitals—and Parisians appreciate it less than anybody. This is the disillusioned opinion of the man who looks after Paris' 7,400 acres of gardens and parks.
