"The free mechanical service is rendered in an effort to reduce accidents by finding the defects of all automobiles," said Capt. Lege, who reported that until several years ago, the people of this county were not interested in Safety Lanes, but after the state of Texas sent representatives to the other 47 states, the Texas Highway Commission arived at the conclusion that it was very necessary to imprint upon the minds of all officers the need for the reduction of automobile accidents. "Texas is the only state in the Union to show any decrease in fatalities," Capt. Lege reports, adding that "the Texas officers have put their energy and time into promoting these Safety Lanes, and they urge the support of all the people to assist in making our highways and streets safer for tourists." Two Safety Lanes in State Capt. Lege also stated that there are only two Safety Lanes in operation in the United States, and both of them are in Texas. Sargeant King of Austin, reported that 40,300 people were killed in automobile accidents last year, and it was estimated that the Safety Lane had already this year, saved more than 8,000 lives. "In these Safety Lanes, there are six important factors that are checked in a car," said Sargeant King. "First, the wheels are checked, to see if they are in line; second, the lights, then the windshield wipers, and the vision, which includes being able to see clearly going 45 miles an hour at night; then the mufflers are checked, not the noise, but to see if gas fumes are escaping through the floorboards, as 3 per cent of fatalities in Texas last year were due to gas fumes; fifth, the horn

MANY NEW FEATURES TO BE INCORPORATED INTO EVENT TO BE HELD OCT. 31, NOV. 1-2

Happy Kitchen Cooking School To Be Held At The Palace Theatre And Conducted By Mrs. Gertrude Burbank

Here's a treat for the women of this city and surrounding territory.

The Lamb County Leader has been fortunate enough to secure the services of Mrs. Gertrude Burbank, well known home economist and lecturer, to conduct its free sixth annual Happy Kitchen Cooking School, beginning Monday, October 31.

The lectures will be held in the Palace Theatre, beginning each afternoon at 2 p. m.

New Features, Surprises

The hundreds of women who attended the Leader cooking school last year will remember the valuable information obtained, the prizes and recipes given, and everything is in readiness to make each and every day of the session this year more attractive than ever. New features and surprises will be incorporated into the school this year, which is expected to bring larger crowds of women than ever before to the sessions, so the management urges that since no seats will be reserved, that those planning on attending make arrangements to reach the Palace Theatre before the opening hour.

Mrs. Burbank conducted last year's cooking school and returns to Littlefield by popular request.

Makes Plain And Fancy Dishes She will make her lectures while actually doing the things she is talking about. The dishes, both of the plain and fancy variety, which she prepared, will be on display at the close of each lecture, and you are invited to remain after the lecture and discuss your personal problems in cookery and home management with Mrs. Burbank.

THE SALVATION ARMY

No religious organization has ever won such complete and world-wide respect, even affection, as the Salvation Army has achieved in the sixty years since "General" William Booth, first led his uniformed "army" of militant Christians through the streets of London amid the jeers of the mob. It was a new manifestation and so to be suspected. It was different from any established religious movement, and so was too undignified to be taken seriously by church people.

It did not take many years, however, for the world to learn that the Salvation Army was not trying to set up a new church, but to reach the unfortunates whom the church could not or did not reach. That has been its mission the whole world over since 1878. How far it has succeeded in bringing not only the light of the Gospel but the material help without which mere preaching falls on stony ground, is testified by the history of hundreds of thousands to whom the devoted "soldiers" of the Salvation Army bring help and comfort daily and nightly.

"No man may say of another that he cannot be saved," wrote a wise philosopher of the Salvation Army's work. "Lead, Kindly Light," is the Army's song of faith. No corner of the earth is too dark for the light borne by the Salvationists to penetrate; no drifting, hopeless soul too lost to receive shelter and help and hope and a kindly hand to lift it from the depths.

The people of Littlefield have always been proud of the fine work carried on by the local troupe of the Salvation Army. Several months ago they erected an armory with funds subscribed by the people of this section. They lacked the funds wherewith to complete the building but went as far as they could at the time, and a few weeks ago they managed to secure a loan which will enable them to finish their job.

NATIONAL FEED WEEK

During the week beginning with next Monday, more than 42,000 feed men throughout the United States, will cooperate with farmers, agricultural agents and live stock people, in an educational campaign for more and better feed crops. This particular week should be of especial interest to the farmers and ranchers of this area because feed crops have always done well here and made the farmers independent of the one crop dangers.

Diversification of crops, has been preached by agriculturists since the days of the Pilgrim Fathers, and it is even far more important today than it was in the days of the earliest settlers. Stockmen who raised their own feed crops, have always prospered in the Panhandle and the farmer who raised everything to feed himself and his stock, is rarely in financial distress or need.

Last year was a banner cotton year, and some of us perhaps forgot the six or seven lean years which preceded it. This is a very good time to think seriously about the advantages in raising ample feed crops.

The feedmen and county agents will furnish you with practical guidance in the way of facts and figures. They will gladly help you to win independence and convert your farm or ranch, from a mere meager existence to a profitable, business-like enterprise.

You owe it to yourself to join in the program contingent upon NATIONAL FEED WEEK—OCTOBER 17th to OCTOBER 22nd and secure for yourself the vast benefits which will be available.

Don't put it off or wait. Get busy and find out all about feed-crops, stock feeding and how they will fit into farming—YOUR BUSINESS. DAVE SCHEIN.

Howdy Folks:

During the commotion, which resulted from an accident, in Houston last week, two policemen who were investigating, had their flashlights stolen by some heartless thieves. According to late reports, the officers were still in the dark. I am told that the victims of this outrage, are entirely without sense of humor, and couldn't even appreciate how very funny this news item was in print.

Members of the Fifth Avenue Canary Breeders Association, will tell you, that the little golden darlings in their fancy cages, are just as happy as they would be in the tree tops. Personally, I don't see much difference between putting a canary in a cage and imprisoning an innocent man—except that the man does usually get a chance to say something about it. But, its all different now; a man in nature-loving Chicago, has designed period bird cages to match historical period furniture. I still think that the hungry sparrow in the park has got it all over the registered lovebird in the Louis XV cage.

They had a parents reunion at Texas Tech the other day. One Lubbock couple received a prize for having sent six sons and daughters through Tech. They really should have received gold medals. Take it from me—each of the parents, went through six separate and distinctive courses at the college, just as much as if each of them had listened to every word of every lecture that was given to each of their offspring. I challenge any parents with children in school—to question this assertion.

There is considerable speculation, in diplomatic circles, as to whether in the event of a world war—Siam would be a formidable ally or adversary? Before we get overheated, in this argument—let me give you a few important details so that you may decide for yourself, whether you wish to get interested in the thing. Phya Pahol Bolabayuha Sena became premier of Siam when King Prajadhipok quit the throne six years ago. Phya Pahol is pronounced "Po-ah Pa-hon." There is a large Siamese cabinet, the members of which—bear names equally as simple as the ones I have cited. Shall we go on—or have you had enough?

I note where they have been picketing the shops of some of the Chicago undertakers who are unfair to organized labor. In case you didn't know; the Embalmers, Funeral Directors, and Apprentices Union is an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor, and an organized embalmer is not supposed to be on duty over 192 hours a week. I just give you this infor-

Learning and Teaching

Today's educators are themselves—lifelong students. Of all the progress recorded in industry, science or civics, none is more marked or outstanding, than the developments in teaching principles and methods. The present day schoolmaster is entirely different person from the awesome individual who drove home the contents of McGuffey's Classic with a switch and a scowl.

It's a long journey from the little red school house and its blue-backed spellers, to the modern institutions for learning with their advanced equipment for imparting knowledge. Mass instruction given way to individual analysis of the student case diagnosis—if you please, and now-a-days the teacher applies knowledge in such a manner that will do each individual pupil the greatest amount of good, for the longest period of time. The methods of the past, have been supplanted by practical yet precise, educational procedures.

In our humble opinion—the greatest improvement that has been made in teaching has been the invention of the "Ophthalmograph" the "Metronoscope". The Ophthalmograph is a instrument which photographs the action of the eye when reading. An exact film chart shows the error or optometrist, whether the eyes are functioning correctly. The Metronoscope is a scientific instrument that is used in reading classes.

Our local schools superintendent, Mr. Hemphill, has been, for some time, very eager to get a Metronoscope for the local schools. We were discussing the possibilities for securing the instrument and I feel hopeful of getting a Metronoscope for Littlefield very soon. It so happens that Mr. Coalson, of Brownwood, Texas, is a good friend of mine and he is—incidentally, the owner of the plant which produces these instruments. We have approached Mr. Coalson in the matter of securing the needed Metronoscope, through the financial assistance of the Parent Teachers Association—advantage of whatever concessions I may be able to secure from my good friend Mr. Coalson.

I have had occasion to inspect and investigate these instruments as well as the progress made by the schools which have adopted them. The installation of this modern reading instrument, in Littlefield schools, will be a big addition to our teaching facilities, and I am very happy to contribute some small part towards the realization of Mr. Hemphill's dream. Dr. Ira E. Woods, went in for elaborate statistics the other day, when he was reviewing the past three months activities of the Littlefield Rotary Club. Of 1,683,619 social security numbers had been issued to employers of Texas up to October 1, Dewey Reed, manager of the Amarillo office of the Social Security Board, said today. The number issued for August was 11,780, of which 1,835 were issued through the Amarillo office.

account numbers, used in the maintenance of wage earners' old-age insurance records, had been issued by the Board, Mr. Reed said.

In filing claims for lump-sum payments, which are now being made by the Board, claimants use their account numbers for identification purposes. Such payments amount to 3 1/2 per cent of the wages received by a worker from covered employment since January 1, 1937, with a limit of $3,000 from each employer during a year. Claims are being paid to wage earners who reach the age of 65 and do not qualify for monthly benefits, and to estates of deceased workers. Monthly retirement benefits will not become payable until January, 1942.

If a worker loses his account card, he should report the loss immediately to the Social Security Board, 416 Oliver-Eagle Building, Amarillo, Texas, and a duplicate card will be issued to him.

PEANUT BUTTER CAN BE MADE EASILY AT HOME

Several containers of peanut butter were added by Mrs. T. M. Murrell, home food supply demonstration club, to her pantry last week. The peanuts were evenly roasted, according to Mrs. Murrell, the skins removed, and then ground twice, using the finest blades of the food chopper for the last grinding.

A good proportion to use is two quarts of Spanish peanuts to 4 tablespoons of salt. As the Spanish peanuts contain more oil, some oil must be added if just Virginia peanuts are used. Pack tightly in containers. Sterilize 12 ounce containers for 1 hour at 180 degrees F (Simmering) in a water bath.

CANS 43 QUARTS TOMATOES DURING MONTH OF SEPT.

Mrs. J. B. Lee of Yellow House Home Demonstration club had canned 43 quarts of tomatoes during September. She plans to can more from the eight rows of tomatoes. So far she has sold $22 worth of tomatoes and with some of this she plans to buy enough fruit to serve her family some every day.

A family of 5 should have at least 135 quarts of tomatoes and 150 quarts of fruit as one-half cup of each should be served each day to each member of the family.

Check 2000 Cars Daily
More than 158,000 automobiles have been checked by the State Highway Safety Lanes since June 1st, Sargeant King said, and more than 2,000 cars are checked every day.

A movement was made and seconded that the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce endorse this safety lane and a letter be sent to Director Homer Garrison at Austin, expressing the appreciation for the progress the Highway Department has made in trying to decrease fatalities.

A suggestion was made that the Chamber discuss the local traffic problem with the City Commission, in an effort to prevent any serious accidents in Littlefield, with the stopping of all "U" turns at the intersections at the bank and Renfro Bros.

The next two ranking girls, according to the committee were Edith Allen, Spade 4-H club, and Blanche Mitchell, Hart Camp. These girls with Billye Jean attended the 4-H club Short Course in July.

Merle Rochelle, Amherst, 4-H club, and Wilda Callis Littlefield Junior 4-H club, were chosen by the same committee to represent the county at the Educational Encampment at the State Fair, October 11-13. This was based on their record in 4-H club for 1938. Girls who had attended Short Course were not eligible for this.

Eva Province, Sudan 4-H, was chosen as first alternate and Bennie Lou Davis, Amherst 4-H, was chosen as second alternate.

At last Thursday's luncheon, Dr. Ira E. Woods, gave an interesting summary of the club's achievements during the past three months. He called attention to the fact that the main achievement had been—"We have all grown ninety days older." The speaker continued with a witty list of statistics. He pointed out that the club members had consumed so many gallons of gravy, and detailed how many quarts of gravy were deposited on the shirt bosoms and vests. His rambling talk was most entertaining, and the members voted it one of the most entertaining programs of the year.

Lecturer Well Known
Mrs. Burbank is well known over a wide area for her thorough knowledge of home economy, and for her charm as a talker.

In addition to the enjoyment and practical benefits to be derived, you have other attractions in store for you at the cooking school. A large list of attractive samples, souvenirs and gifts will be awarded, and presentations will be made at the close of each talk.

Old People to Organize
In an interview with Judge Crockett Tuesday he stated that he was calling the meeting at the request of many of the old people of the county, and others interested. He stated that between 25 and 30 other counties in the State were organized; that Floyd county had been organized for over a year and held meetings every two weeks, and that he believed it would be a good thing for Lamb county's aged to have their own association.

Killed In Wreck—

Mr. Hewitt was born December 10, 1887, at Kosse, Texas, and married Miss Addie White on September 29, 1907, at Corsicana.

Resident 5 Years
He has been a resident of this city and in the automobile business here for the past five years; previous to which he was in business in Amarillo for 15 years, and lived in San Angelo five years.

He was a member of the Methodist church, the Masonic Lodge and Woodmen of the World.

Large Funeral Attendance
The First Methodist church of this city was not sufficient to accommodate the large crowd that gathered to pay their last tribute to the deceased, when services were conducted at four o'clock Monday afternoon by Rev. Marvin B. Norwood, pastor, who delivered a beautiful message of condolence to the bereaved.

Masonic Service At Grave
Funeral arrangements were in charge of Hammons Funeral Home, and the deceased was laid to rest following Masonic services at the Littlefield cemetery.

Flower bearers were members of the local Chapter of the Order of Eastern Star, of which Mrs. Hewitt is a member.

Pall-bearers were: Herbert Martin, J. C. Hibun, Charles Aldridge, O.K. Woodall, G.M. Vann, Dr. Thos.

B. Duke, J. W. Keithley, and Norman O'Brien.

Surviving the deceased is his wife, and three brothers, L. C. and Leo Hewitt of Littlefield, and J. P. Hewitt of New Orleans, La., and a sister, Mrs. Henry Barnes of Blooming Grove, Texas.

Out of town relatives here for the funeral services were, J. P. Hewitt of New Orleans, La., a brother of the deceased; Mrs. T. E. Hewitt, sister-in-law, and her two sons, T. E. Hewitt, Jr., and Bryant Hewitt, of Corsicana, Texas; a niece, Mrs. John Underwood, of Corsicana; and Mr. and Mrs. Roger White of Altus, Okla., brother and sister-in-law of Mrs. Hewitt.

Mahon, who gave a very instructive and interesting address on "Good Fellowship," and "Good Citizenship," interspersed with considerable humor.

District Deputy Grand Master
Raymond E. Wilson, of Dismitt, by special invitation, was present on his official visit, and made a splendid short address.

W. G. Street Presides
W. G. Street, Worshipful Master of the local Lodge, presided over the banquet meeting.

Eastern Stars Set
The dinner was served by the local Chapter of the Order of Eastern Star, with Mrs. W. G. Street as chairman on General Arrangements.

M. D. Abbott of the Sudan Lodge offered the invocation, which was followed by several numbers by a quartette, composed of E. O. McIver, B. L. Cogdill, Arthur Mueller, Jack Norman, accompanied at the piano by Miss Maxine Cash.

Fall flowers and autumn leaves decorated the dining tables, while the centerpiece was a huge bowl of fruit, on which rested the Masonic emblem suspended from the ceiling.

Hopping Welcomes Guests
The address of welcome was very fittingly made by Judge R. C. Hopping, who was the first Worshipful Master of the Littlefield Lodge, serving in the years 1922 and 1923, the Charter being issued December 9, 1921.

Judge Hopping's address was followed by two readings by Miss Maxine Cash, Congressman Mahon's talk, and District Deputy Grand Master Wilson's address.

Clovis Orchestra Here
A special feature of the program, and which is worthy of note, was the splendid music rendered the gathering by the "Clovis Violin Orchestra" of Clovis High School, composed of 16 violins, directed by Harry Barton, who is instructor of music at Clovis High School. This band played during the meal, favoring the audience with 12 or 15 numbers, which added much to the enjoyment of the occasion.

FINAL INSTALLMENT

SYNOPSIS

With his partner, Rosy Rand, Dave Turner is on his way to his ranch at Seledad. Both men are returning from prison where they have served sentences for unjust convictions. On the train, which is carrying a large sum of money, Rosy's quick action and straight shooting foils a hold-up while Dave saves the life of Martin Quinn, a gambler, who is being threatened by a desperado. Stopping at Single Shot, the sheriff tells Dave he is not wanted. Quinn defends Dave but Dave and Rand go to Seledad to meet Mary, Dave's sister, and proceed on horseback to the ranch. Mary reveals she is married and tells Dave that the ranch is doing poorly, being beset by nesters and involved in a claim dispute. Suddenly a shot from the darkness topples Dave from his horse. Rosy fires and kills the unknown assailant and they rush to the ranch to treat Dave's severe scalp wound. Next morning, at breakfast, Dave and Rosy discover that Mary is now cooking for the ranch hands—a bad sign. After discussing financial matters with Mary, Dave and Rosy saddle horses and leave for Single Shot to deliver a corpse to the sheriff and see the town banker. Identity of corpse reveals him to be ex-employee of Hammond's. Dave, Rosy and the sheriff immediately confront Hammond with facts. Fight between Hammond and Dave prevented by sheriff. Dave plans to raise alfalfa on his land and use money to pay off mortgage. Someone blew up the lake. Hammond thought it was Dave and the latter suspected Hammond or his men. A chance meeting of the two gives them an opportunity to clear away this false impression. The hunt now turns to Crowell, the mysterious man of means and ambitions. Rosy rushes to Winters' home to tell Mary of his suspicions about her husband and asks her help to prove his findings. Laredo evolves a scheme to arrest Crowell as a murder suspect in order to hold him for questioning. By a clever ruse, Dave escapes his captors and then frees Dorsey who was held prisoner for ransom.

Crowell laughed again, that soft, insane laugh that struck chills to Rosy's spine. Crowell turned to Pearson, who had not moved in the last minute. The banker's face was gray with fear.

"Let's get out, Crowell," Pearson said.

"You squealing swine," Crowell said tonelessly, a kind of secret mad delight in his voice. "I would have died for you and you turn me in." Slowly his gun swiveled to Pearson, but his eyes were on Rosy and the Sheriff. Pearson backed away against the wall, uttering small, unearthly cries of terror. Crowell slid his eyes to the gun and shot twice at Pearson. The banker's scream was cut short and he folded up like a tired child. Crowell's gun was trained again on Rosy and the sheriff, who did not dare move.

"A good job, wasn't it?" Crowell asked. Mary moaned a little in the corner.

Suddenly, Crowell laughed a high, frenzied laugh of a maniac, turned the gun to his chest and pulled the trigger. The impact of his own shot bumped him against the wall and he sagged to the floor.

"Probably the first good thing he ever done," Laredo said softly.

Rosy fell in beside Mary as they left the doctor's. Laredo and Quinn were ahead of them. The rest had stayed behind a moment.

"Let's walk slow," Mary said.

"I reckon I feel that way too," Rosy answered. "It come a little too fast."

The silence was long.

"Rosy, do you mind telling me things?" Mary asked presently.

"Anything you want to know," Rosy said gently.

"Did you know that Ted was mixed up in this when you came to the house this morning?"

"I was pretty sure."

"And you didn't tell me. Why?"

"I—I couldn't," Rosy said huskily. "He was your husband."

"What would you have done if this—if Ted had been along with Pearson and Crowell tonight?"

"I wouldn't have been there," Rosy answered promptly. He amended this. "Yes I would too. But I wouldn't have liked it."

"Why? Was Ted any more deserving of sympathy than the others?"

"Less," Rosy answered briefly.

Mary thought this over and asked why.

"Pearson was a lone wolf," Rosy explained. "Out for money and he didn't care how he got it. Crowell was a gambler. He'd risk his neck for a stake. Winters? Well, he had more to lose than the rest. He carried more with him when he fell." He turned to Mary. "Why are you askin' me this?"

"I don't know," Mary answered soberly. "It's just—" She looked up at him. "Maybe you wouldn't understand me if I told you."

"I'd try."

"Well, it's hard to put in words. I can't remember very many men. Dave was taken away when we were both young. He was a good brother, but he didn't have much use for girls. Dad was—well, headstrong. Dave's arrest made him bitter and unjust. Dad was harsh, terribly harsh, even on people he loved. Sometimes he could be unjust too. Then after I married Ted, it seemed as if the same traits were in him. Harshness even cruelty. Besides Ted and dad, I haven't been around men much—except the two hands that were working for us."

"And they weren't any different. Maybe worse," Rosy said.

"That's it. And when you and Dave came home, I saw you were different from others I'd known. So when you were kind enough to hide all this from me, it was hard to believe. It was something new."

They rounded the corner and cut across the street to the hotel. Rosy's face was grim, his jaw set. Mary looked at him shyly, he did not look at her. As they entered the lobby, Mary stopped.

"I'm sorry if I've offended you," she said humbly.

Rosy smiled a little crookedly. "Bless your heart, you didn't," he said gently.

"I don't understand," Mary said.

"You looked so cross."

Rosy fumbled with his hat, not taking his eyes from hers. "Then some day, I'm goin'—I'm goin' to ask you somethin' and if you answer it the way I hope you will—He bogged down, then began again valiantly: "When this is all over and you know your own mind, I'm goin' to—I hope—"

"I think I know what it is, Rosy," Mary answered simply. She placed a hand on his arm. "I think I know what I'll answer."

Rosy waited for her to go on. She only smiled and squeezed his arm a little. "And I think it will be what you hope it is."

She turned and walked across the lobby and up the stairs, her back straight, erect.

Dave was the last to leave the doctor's.

"I'm going to sleep the clock around," he muttered as he descended the steps.

"Dave." It came from the opened door and he stopped. It was Dorsey. She came close to him.

"I couldn't let you go without telling you that I'm sorry I said what I did this afternoon," she said, her voice low and sincere.

"That's all right," Dave said.

"No, it isn't," Dorsey cried. "It was all wrong! I was wrong! I never understood how right you were until I heard and saw all this tonight."

"It was pretty bloody."

"But if a man doesn't fight for what he has and loves, people will take it away from him."

"I reckon that's right."

"And I was angry when you took to your guns to stop it," Dorsey said humbly.

"You were half right at that," Dave said. "I took to my guns once too often—a long time ago. I lost enough that time to make me think twice about goin' for them again."

He looked down at her and spoke kindly. "That's what you were tryin' to remind me of, wasn't it?"

"No," Dorsey said simply. "I have never thought you lost anything in jail, Dave. I didn't know you before, but you couldn't have been any"—she hesitated, seeking a word, and feeling a slow flush come over her face.

Babycats Romped On By Cowboys At Lubbock Thursday 49-0

Starting with a 30-yard pass for a touchdown in the first three minutes of play, the Junior High Cowboys of Lubbock steamrolled over the Littlefield Babycats at Lubbock Thursday afternoon, 49 to 0.

The local Juniors bowed last Thursday, but in the game tonight, (Thursday) when they meet the Amherst eleven on their own turf, they are sure to play a good game. They played Amherst among their first games of the season, and ended with a score 0-0, but those Babycats are learning more and more how to hold their own, even though the Lubbock Cowboys did smash them into the earth, then tromp on them.

Be sure to see the game tonight.

Supt. Floyd Hemphill, E. B. Hobbs, and Morgan Layfield accompanied several of the local football players and about thirty-five members of the high school band to Tahoka for the ceremonies.

"Any what?" Dave said. "—any finer, more honest, brave," she finished. She felt Dave's hands grip her arms, saw his dark face with its darker eyes looking down on her. "It's worth eight years in the pen to hear you say that," he said huskily. "It—it makes a difference."

"What difference?" "I can hold my head up now." Dave said softly. "I can go on thinkin' there's somethin' to life besides fightin', eatin' and sleepin'."

"Principals?" Laredo repeated. "What are they?" "Sayres' gang. We've been after them for two years now." Laredo stared at Quinn. "So

"Just because I said that, Dave?" Dave said. "You make it sound small," Dave said. "It isn't." He looked down at her fondly. "It's like—well, like food for the way I've been. I guess I've been sick." "Then you'll grow fat and sleek Dave," Dorsey said with a little laugh. Dave frowned. "I reckon I don't know what you mean." "That was honest, anyway," Dorsey said. "It was like you." "But I still don't see," Dave said humbly. "I'm saying I trusted you, believed in you, is food for you, Dave, then you will grow fat. There. Isn't that plain?" Dave paused, suppressed a grin. "I reckon not."

But Dorsey did not see the grin. "I can't make it plainer without making it too plain," she said softly. Dave did not answer and Dorsey sighed. She would be honest. "I'll be blunt, Dave. It's simply this: I love you."

With a low laugh, Dave caught her in his arms and kissed her. "And I've loved you from the first time I saw you." At the corner of the Free Throw, Quinn asked Laredo: "Think I could send a telegram tonight, Laredo?" "Sure. I know Stanley. He'll take it."

They walked down to the station, both of them silent. Both the Free Throw and the Mile High were lighted brightly, a pleasant din issuing from their doors.

They swung into the station and Laredo hammered on the lowered window. A mild man wearing eyeglasses raised it and smiled when he saw Laredo.

"Hullo, Harvey," Laredo greeted him. "Reckon my friend here could send a telegram?" "Sure."

The agent shoved the blank in front of Quinn, who wrote his message. When he was finished he handed it to Laredo.

"I can't read," Laredo said do-or-usily. He swore. "It's the only time in my life I wanted to. What does it say?"

Quinn read aloud from the blank containing this message: A. WINGERT CATTLE ASSOCIATION PHOENIX, ARIZ.

Case concluded successfully, all principals killed off, none by me. Split reward between Dave Turner, Rosy Rand, Laredo Jackson, all of Single Shot. Suggest next case you put me in range clothes since gambler's life not long. What will I do with six thousand I won running Faro Table in saloon. MARTIN QUINN

Terraces Pay For In First Year," J. W. Duncan

Mr. Duncan observed the conservation practices that were introduced by the Soil Conservation Service in 1935, and in 1936 one of the first Cooperators to enter into the program.

"More than paid for the first year," states Mr. Duncan, "by approximately doubling cotton and grain sorghum on portions of the field water was backed up by structures." Mr. Duncan is owner and operator of a 160-acre farm two miles north and one west of Shallowater, Texas.

The farm which has been in cultivation for many years was suffering from both wind and sheet erosion before conservation practices were established. In the fall of 1936 broad base level terraces were constructed on the 160-acre tract of cultivated land. Sudan was planted on the freshly built terraces to protect them from wind erosion, and in June Mr. Duncan planted his entire field, planting rows of cotton to 24 rows of sorghum.

Kaffir produced 100 tons of sorghum from 15 acres of land leaving an eight inch stubble furnished ample protection from wind erosion during the season," affirms Mr. Duncan.

Despite the fact that moisture in Littlefield Camp Area is but little more than half the records show they were year, Mr. Duncan states he will make a half a bale of cotton to the acre, and will get at least 2 tons of grain sorghum to the acre.
