City Staging Losing Battle With Mosquitoes

With what is believed to be the county's first 1960 case of encephalitis reported, the City of Littlefield is stepping up its mosquito control program.

At the same time officials renewed their request that property owners mow alleys and vacant lots to remove day - time hiding places for the insects.

With showers in the area continuing, the City is having difficulty keeping its mosquito control program ahead of mosquito production, City Manager J. W. Harrison said Wednesday.

In addition to showers in the area, winds have made it difficult to dust streets and alleys, although, the work is being carried on every "still" night the city manager said.

No additional rain has fallen here for the last 10 days, but areas around Littlefield have reported rain, and with strong winds prevailing, the mosquitoes are being blown into town.

The city issued another request that property owners keep their weeds cut, especially in alleys and on vacant lots. These places provide ideal day - time hiding places for the insects, and officials pointed out, and owners are asked to free their premises of weeds as a means of helping wipe out the insects.

Many vacant lots in Littlefield are affording mosquitoes ideal hiding places, making it difficult for the spray program to do an effective job.

Schools Pre-opening Events Are Announced

Pre - opening events for Littlefield schools were announced Wednesday by Superintendent Glenn Reeves.

First of the before - school activities will be football practices which will start Monday, August 15.

All teachers in the Littlefield system are to report for their first session at 9:30 a. m. Wednesday, Aug. 31, Reeves said. The general faculty meeting will be in the high school auditorium.

Following the group meeting, the teachers are to go to their various buildings for session with their principals. The general meeting will last only a few minutes,

Griffin Guilty, Gets Suspended Sentence

Jury Sets Term At Five Years

By JOHN PETTY

After four hours and 12 minutes of deliberation late Tuesday evening, a jury found Al Griffin guilty of murder without malice in the Sept. 13, 1959, slaying of Grover Tapp, Muleshoe, and sentenced him to five years in the state penitentiary.

The jury further recommended that Griffin's sentence be suspended.

Thus was the climax to the two-day trial of Albert Griffin, one time Bailey County District and County Clerk, for the murder of Grover Tapp, 70, a painter and school janitor.

Griffin took the verdict, read by Judge E. A. Bills from the prepared notice handed him by jury foreman C. A. Cox, Olton, with outward calmness. His wife and sister, Mrs. L. M. Wynne, were with him as the verdict was handed down.

Mrs. Wynne said that she was "stunned" by the verdict.

"I thought that they would acquit him," she said.

Griffin had no comment on the jury's decision.

With the jury's recommendation for suspended sentence, Judge Bills released Griffin "under his own recognizance."

The trial began early Monday morning with the selection of a jury. After questioning by the State, represented by District Attorney Bill Sheehan, Friona, and Jack Young, Muleshoe; and by the Defense, represented by Shelby Boling, Lubbock, the 12 men who would sit in judgment of Griffin were chosen.

The jurors selected to try the case were C. L. Lowe, Allen Johnson, A. J. Spain, Ollie Smith, C. A. Cox, Louis Clark, J. C. Hamby, (Continued On Page Two)

Grading has been re-done, and caliche has been added to most streets.

Meantime, a re - topping program for the areas around the City hall and courthouse is due to get under way within a few days.

Curbing Farm Accidents, 'Farm Safety Week' Goal

Farm accidents claim 3,500 lives each year, more than any other industry. Some 11,000 farm residents die each year in all types of accidents, and another million suffer accidental injuries.

To direct attention to this appalling problem, President Eisenhower has designated this week as "National Farm Safety Week."

In Texas, Governor Daniel has proclaimed the period "Farm Safety Week in Texas." The Texas Farm and Ranch Safety Council

Boys See The World -- From Jail!

Two Littlefield youths, one 13 and the other 16 years old, were back home Wednesday after a month's trek to "see the country."

They got to see a lot of Texas, part of Arkansas, a bit of Oklahoma and the southeastern part of Colorado, but a third of the time was spent seeing the world from a jail cell window in Pueblo, Colo., Littlefield Police Chief F. A. Fitzgerald, says.

The boys ran away from home late in June, and went from here to Arkansas. When finally they were picked up in Pueblo, Colo., they refused to give their correct names, and told officers they were from some small town in Arkansas, the Littlefield Chief said.

A check of the town in Arkansas revealed the boys had never been heard of in that area, so the Pueblo chief Monday had the boys brought in for further questioning.

The 13-year-old finally broke down and told the chief they were from Littlefield and revealed their real names.

A call to Fitzgerald resulted in contact with the boys' parents.

Four Minor Accidents Reported; Drivers Escape Serious Injury

A rash of minor accidents, three in one day, kept Highway Patrolman H. J. Jackson on the jump this week. Only one person was injured seriously enough to require hospitalization, and only one person was charged with a traffic violation as a result of the four accidents.

A Littlefield youth, Troy Smith, 19, was taken to a Levelland hospital after his automobile, a '59 Ford, overturned one and a half times south of Littlefield on a dirt road.

Smith was going east on a dirt road one mile east of U. S. highway 385 when he came to a dead - end. He locked his brakes and the car went into a broadside skid, Jackson said, landing on its side in a cotton field.

He was not believed to have been seriously injured, but his automobile was damaged to the extent of $800.

Jack LeRoy Williams, 40, a motel operator at Clovis, N. M., escaped injury when his automobile, a '59 Pontiac, skidded on U. S. Highway 84 1.2 miles south of Littlefield, and overturned.

Jackson said Williams was attempting to pass another automobile on the left side when he decided he didn't have sufficient clearance. He applied his brakes, locking the left front wheel and causing the car to skid into the ditch at the side of the road. The machine turned over once. Damage was estimated at $700.

Johnny Miller, Littlefield, driving a '59 Plymouth, and an automobile driven by Eusebio B. Piedra, Amherst, were in collision at the intersection of U. S. 84 and Sunset Avenue on the west edge of Littlefield. Piedra, who was driving a '57 Ford sedan, was charged with improper passing after Miller had signaled for a left turn, the patrolman said. Piedra's car hit Miller's automobile broadside on the left.

The patrolman estimated damage to Miller's car at $100 while Piedra's automobile was damaged to the extent of $300.

Fourth accident occurred on state Road 168 at a dirt road intersection three miles south of Spade.

Jackson said William R. Skyrlock, Lubbock salesman, and Aldene Jiggs Hudson, Hereford, were drivers of two automobiles which were in collision.

Skyrlock, who was driving a '60 Vauxall sedan, signaled for a right turn at the intersection, but changed his mind and pulled back onto the highway after he decided the dirt road was too muddy for travel, Jackson said.

Hudson's automobile, a '58 Pontiac sedan, struck the right front fender of Skyrlock's car. The patrol estimated damage to the Vauxall at $200 and $150 to the Pontiac.

Converted Movie House In Obscure German Town Now Cultural Center

By W. G. ROGERS
Associated Press Arts Editor
NEW YORK (AP) — Free Europe has a new concert hall — a converted moviehouse in the obscure little German town of Selb, one of the West's most advanced cultural outposts.

Just two miles beyond the well worn local road ends in a gravel block, across which in Czechoslovakia grass grows in ruts. Ten minutes to the north is the equally aloof Soviet zone of Germany. But among heavily wooded frontier hills, Selb itself turns out once a month, and by car, by bicycle and on foot crowds into the main street and the unpretentious movie theater to hear —

American jazz masters Stan Kenton or Louis (Satchmo) Armstrong, songstress Gloria Day, violinist Yehudi Menuhin.

Bayreuth, the Wagner center, and Nuerberg are not too far away, but Selb's population of 3,000 never paid much attention. It waited till the artists came there. It now can boast programs which are bigger older cultural capitals enviously.

Impressive List
Serge Lifar and Maurice Béjart's ballet groups the mime Marceau and an orchestra from Paris; La Scala opera from Milan; performances of "Hamlet" and "Faust"; quartets, soloists, symphonies from Budapest, Dresden; Oistrakh the Russian violinist.

The idea was started by a man who might have been expected to be much too busy to take on this new burden — Philip Rosenthal, president of Rosenthal the china-manufacturing company founded by his father. Murder Trial

Melton Hines and Alvin Horne, all of Olton; Bob Belew and Guy Kelly, Earth and Howard McClure Springlake.

The State began its parade of 13 witnesses to the stand at 2:33 p. m. Monday.

Dr. L. T. Green, Muleshoe, testified that he had examined the body of Grover Tapp after the shooting. He read from a written statement describing the wounds on Tapp's body.

Asked by Sheehan if, in his opinion, Tapp's death was caused by a shotgun wound, Green waved the statement in the air.

"If he'd had cancer, it wouldn't have made any difference. That's the (shotgun wound) what killed him."

O. H. Cummins, who was in the service station where the killing occurred at the time of the slaying, testified that he was talking to one of the station attendants when he heard "some men talking."

Cummins said that he heard Griffin say, "Don't come any closer."

The bystander, Cummins, then related that he looked up and saw a man coming across the station driveway. He said that Griffin yelled some more and when the man kept coming, he (Griffin) raised the shotgun that he was holding and shot.

Other witnesses at the station at the time of the shooting told basically the same story.

Three little 12-year-old girls were at one of the islands in the drive, airing their bicycle tires.

"Mr. Tapp came walking across the driveway toward the station," Kathy Wilkinson, one of the girls testified, "he had his hands up like this (she raised her hands and placed them flat at the top of her chest) and was putting himself."

She said that she and the other girls turned to leave after one of the station attendants (Ray Ruthardt) had told them to go when she heard a shot.

"Mr. Tapp got shot."

So, the State showed that Al Griffin had shot Grover Tapp as they met in the service station where Griffin worked.

The Defense alleged that Griffin shot Tapp in self defense because he was in fear of his life; the State alleged that Griffin killed the elderly painter "with malice aforethought."

Why had the killing taken place in the 6th place? What were the circumstances that led up to the shooting?

Sam Hoybook, another attendant who worked at the station testified that he came by the station early on the morning of Sept. 11 (Friday) and saw Tapp and Griffin shooting dice inside the station.

D. L. McMillian, the owner of the station, said that he had talked to Al Friday morning about some trouble that he (Griffin) had had with Tapp over the crap game.

He further testified that he saw some checks in Griffin's possession in the total amount of $1,250 written to Tapp and signed by Griffin.

He said that he could not tell whether all the checks were written to Tapp or signed by Griffin.

McMillian quoted Griffin as saying that he would give the money he had won from Tapp back to him because he wanted to avoid trouble.

With the ending of McMillian's testimony, Judge Bills recessed the trial until 9:30 a. m. Tuesday.

The trial began on a high point Tuesday morning as the widow of Grover Tapp was the first witness to take the stand.

Mrs. Tapp, dressed in a sombre blue dress, testified that "Grover came in between 8 and 9 a. m. on Friday and he was all broken up."

"He was all torn up — white as a sheet — and showed that he had been in trouble."

Mrs. Tapp quoted her husband as saying that "Griffin had taken all his money away from him — just reached down and took it."

She further quoted her husband as telling her that "Griffin had threatened to stomp his (Tapp's) damn brains out."

She said that her husband had told her that he and Griffin had gone out to Griffin's farm after leaving the station in order to finish the crap game, and that this was where the threat was made.

The white haired widow then quoted her husband as telling her that on the way home from the farm, Griffin reached over and turned off the keys, and that he (Griffin) said to Tapp: "I'll do it right here" (she explained that this meant "stomping his damn brains out").

Mrs. Tapp said that her husband felt that he was weak and no match for Griffin, so he got out and started walking home.

The widow then testified that on Sunday (the day of the shooting) Tapp came home "around five" from a job of painting all day.

"He was in a happy frame of mind," she said.

After a bit, Tapp started to leave and his wife said that she said from him to wait — that his supper would be ready soon.

"He told me that he would be back in a minute. I figured that he was going after some cigars because he was out."

Under cross examination by Boling, Mrs. Tapp said that her husband always carried a gun in the car with him — "just an old habit."

(When the body of Grover Tapp was searched, a .45 pistol was found in the front of his belt.)

Jerrell Orwell, Tapp's son-in-law, testified that Griffin came by to see him on the morning of the 11th and "offered to give the money back to Tapp to avoid trouble."

Reuel Kirby, city policeman for Muleshoe at the time of the shooting testified that when he arrived at the station, Tapp was lying in the drive.

"I asked Griffin if he did this," Kirby said. "He said that he had killed him — he didn't want to — he had to."

Kirby said that he found a 12 gauge automatic shotgun in the station.

Kirby went on to say that Griffin had phoned him after he had been released on bond.

"Griffin told me that he had not killed a man — he had killed a no-good dog with crooked dice."

Bailey County Deputy Sheriff Garland Freeman testified that a later search of the station revealed another pistol.

He also said that Griffin had contacted him after the crap game concerning avoiding trouble with Tapp over the game.

The State rested its case against

Griffin at 11:30 a. m. Tuesday morning.

Boling called his first and only witness other than Griffin — Ray Ruthardt.

Rocking back and forth in the swivel type witness chair, Ruthardt told of seeing Tapp drive past the station "two or three times Saturday without stopping."

On the evening of the shooting, Ray said that he was talking to a customer (Cummins who has testified earlier) when Tapp drove up in his pickup and parked by the street.

"I walked out to the pickup and asked Grover what he wanted," Ray said. "He didn't say anything — just headed for the station."

Ruthardt quoted Griffin as saying, "Grover, go on and leave me alone — go away — go on." Griffin's co-worker said that Ray repeated the pleas several times.

There was a shotgun in Griffin's hands.

"Tapp kept coming," Ruthardt said, "and Al kept begging him to leave."

"Tapp started inside the bib of his overalls and the shot was fired."

As Ruthardt described his version of the killing, Griffin rested his head on the table in front of him.

Under cross examination, Ruthardt said that he had seen the pistol and shotgun of Griffin in the station — the shotgun standing by the door.

At 2:14 Boling called his final defense witness — Al Griffin.

Getting into the testimony, Griffin said that about 1:30 a. m. Friday, Tapp came in the station and expressed disappointment at going to Morton for a game and not being able to play.

"We started shooting dice, I didn't have over a dollar on me so as the game progressed, I took $30 from the cash drawer to play."

After losing that, Griffin said he "gave Tapp a check for $50." He lost that and continued writing checks until he had given seven $100 checks more.

Here Griffin said that he became suspicious of the dice that they were using (Tapp's dice) and stated that he suspected that "they were six-ace missouts."

So, he began to play with them that way, he testified.

After writing a check for $500, Griffin said he "won back" the checks that he had been written before and took a $100 check from Tapp."

Around 7 a. m. Griffin said the money in the game was "even" and the men decided to go for coffee.

While Tapp ate at the cafe, Griffin said that he cashed a $100 check in order to have money to continue the game.

Griffin testified that he and Tapp went out to a farm that Griffin had owned to play. The Tapp over the game, went in to a barn to continue.

"I shot and broke Grover,"

Prominent Designers
Called the largest china manufacturer in Europe. Rosenthal numbers among his designers the American Raymond Loewy; Tapio Wirkkala, who created the Finnish pavilion at the Brussels Fair, and others from France, Germany, England and Sweden. They report regularly to Selb for consultation.

Rosenthal comes to this country once or twice a year. Decades ago his father worked briefly in Texas as a cowhand, and as a clerk in a Baltimore store. Now the son, married to a Scottish girl, has moved into a chateau a couple of miles from the center of Selb. He plans to make some rooms in it a museum of china-ware.

To keep in trim, he doesn't use a car to get to his office. He doesn't even walk. He runs. It's a regular daily exercise. When you see a man running here, if there's no cop after him, it will be Rosenthal.

Shoji Screens The Answer To Room-Divider Problem

AP Newsfeature
By ANDY LANG

Attractive, portable shoji screens are finding increasing favor as items which the home owner can use as room dividers, to give privacy to specific areas and to hide unsightly corners.

More and more shoji screens are being made from translucent fiberglass — reinforced plastic panels. They not only add a modern, dramatic touch of color, but they retain the light, airy, spacious feeling for the room because they softly diffuse light.

It is not difficult to build one of these shoji screens with the plastic panels. In fact one authority on the use of this paneling material has come out with a set of instructions to build one with only a hammer, saw and drill. While the screens can be made in two, three or more wings, the instructions by David S. Perry apply to only a single wing, built around a 30-inch by 3-foot flat panel, about 3-64th of an inch thick. The necessary material should be multiplied by the number of wings desired.

We've managed to cull 11 points from the instruction sheet. They are:

1. Begin by selecting a design or developing your own.
2. Frame uprights and cross-bars are made of one - inch by two - inch grade A clear lumber. You need two pieces of 6 1/2 - foot long, and two pieces 34 inches long. The narrow wood strips which form the design are cut from 1/4 in by 3/8 inch window parting stock, the amount needed depending on the design you select.

3. Ask the lumber yard at which you purchase your supplies to cut the rabbet or groove to receive the plastic panel. The groove should be 1/2 inch deep and 1/8 inch wide.
4. Paint all wood parts with color of your choice. A good grade of flat black enamel is recommended.
5. Assemble frame completely around panel before securing the four corners of the frame.
6. For the two top corners, where uprights and crossbar join, cut tongues in the crossbar, and grooves in the uprights and use glue and two flathead screws to secure the joint.
7. To secure the lower crossbar to the uprights, use glue and toenail with brads or finishing nails on either side of the crossbar into the frame.
8. Glue is sufficient to attach window parting stock to uprights but you may also toenail with wire brads.
9. Any looseness or rattle of the plastic panel in the frame can be eliminated by filling excess space with a paste wood filler compound or window putty.
10. Set hinges about six inches or eight inches from the top and bottom of the screen. A third hinge at the center will add further stability.

Recharge Seen As Answer To Farm Water Problem

High Plains Research Foundation at Halfway, east of Olton, is carrying on a successful well recharging program which, if fully effective, may be the answer to a dwindling underground water supply.

Dr. Thomas C. Longnecker, director of the Foundation, said Wednesday.

A process of trapping rain water and feeding it back into the deep water sands has been worked out, he said.

Recent rains in that area, which totaled 12 inches, were channeled into a "recharge" lake with an estimated 110 - acre feet of water.

The recharge of the well was started the night of July 4, and the water is being fed into the deep sands at the rate of 850 gallons per minute since that time.

Up to July 15, a total of 43.5 acre - feet of water had been recharged. The well is pumped for one hour every 24 hours and is surged three times at 15 - minute intervals during the hour to clean out silt.

A filter system installed before the rains fell to study methods of removing sediment from the water has been of little value, Longnecker said. The water level in the lake rose more than three feet above the top of the filter.

Another problem, he said, has been "desert shrimp" which have clogged the screens on the recharge filters. The "shrimp" must be removed every four to six hours since the screens will become completely closed within that time.

Farmers in this area are trying out the recharge system. Since sands from which irrigation water is produced are believed to be "dead" water trapped underground millions of years ago, there is little possibility that the sands recharge of their own accord. Replenishing the sands with surface water may be the answer to the problem, agricultural experts say.

Town & Country

 the people of the city of Littlefield to the effect that the people of the country surrounding Littlefield do not need nor want their dogs.
 This is the beginning of a letter I received from a lady who lives in the country and she is justified in her desire to see this wrong corrected.
 Her letter continues: "People seem to be of the opinion that they can drop their dogs in the country and farmers will be glad to feed them. This is not true. They get half starved, then try to catch chickens, run our children and are a pitiful sight. Then it is up to us to kill them which we don't like to do.
 If the people of the city don't want their dogs, they should take drawings, firearms, falls, blows, lightning.
 In his proclamation designating National Farm Safety Week, the President noted that accidents "substantially reduce the productive capacity of our farming industry." Governor Daniel's proclamation urged farm families to "increase their vigilance against needless accidents." The Governor said the nation's economy is dependent upon the continued well-being and progress of its agricultural population, and accidents from farm work cause needless suffering, distress and loss of life each year among rural families.
 The rate of accidental deaths from work and recreational activities on farms is increasing slightly each year. The death rates associated with machinery, drownings, firearms and electrical current are increasing, while those associated with animals, falls, lightning and burns are showing some decrease.
 There are more than four times as many accidental deaths in farming than in manufacturing. Today's farms are becoming more like small industrial plants and they have some of the same safety needs.
 Many local business men are promoting "Farm Safety Week" in today's News. They are Federal Land Bank Association, Birsebach Machine Shop, B & C Pump & Machine Works, McCoy Machine & Pump Repair, Molder Pump & Machine, Jack Wattenbarger, Richey's, Bawcom Butane Co., Continental Oil Co, Grison Gulf Wholesale, Wilenon Crawford Butane, Jack Christian, Consignee for Texas Inc., Reast Oil Co. and Plainview Production Credit.
 It makes sense to "Be Alert Today — Stay Alive Tomorrow."

Dairy Queen Tips Roden 20-5 In PONY Play

Dairy Queen smashed Roden Drug 20-5 Tuesday night to keep a firm lead on the top rung of the PONY League standings.
 The winners started the game off by scoring five runs in the top of the first frame on three hits. Keith Kisner, Larry Woods and Ray McKinney hit safely to drive in the runs.
 Roden came back in their half of the first for two. Ricky Miller and Junior Hodges scored on hits by Hodges and Terry Gronewald.
 Dairy Queen put the game in the bag in the third when they scored three runs to put them ahead 8-2. Doug Yarborough, Woods, McKinney and Junior Hodges managed singles in the rally.
 After Roden had scored their final tallies in the third, Dairy Queen scored a total of 12 runs in the fourth and fifth innings on eight hits to put a big insurance margin in front of them.
 Ray McKinney started for Dairy Queen and went all the way to register the win.
 Hodges started for Roden but left in favor of Ricky Phillips in the fifth.

...And Still More Weeds

 There has been a good dozen dropped in a few miles of Littlefield in the last week. This is an annoying problem and I do not believe people stop to think when they do it.
 Thank you for reading this and do hope you will help us out by writing to the people about it.
I BELIEVE that persons of all towns are pretty guilty of throwing out cats and dogs in the country and we appreciate this good lady bringing it to our attention. Let's heed her message.
Compress Evens Series; Downs Ginners 17-12
 Union Compress evened up the Minor League championship series at one game each Tuesday night by downing Co-op Gin 17-12.
 After trading four run spurts in the first inning, the Ginners took the lead in the second by scoring four more tallies on three hits by Waymon Coward, Doc Green and Ray McKinney.
 Compress tied it in their next turn at bat by scoring two runs on two hits by Ken Twitty and Brent Robinson.
 After losing the lead once more to Co-op Gin by virtue of a two run fourth frame, Compress used its half of the fifth inning to explode for nine runs on four hits. Fred Mullins, Tommy Hood, Robinson and Twitty hit safely for the needed push.
 Von Anderson started and went the distance for the Compressers.

IT'S HARD TO FARM WITHOUT AN ARM!

Ever try it? It can be done, but it isn't easy. Maybe you'd like to try operating your combine, irrigation well or cotton stripper, with one arm? Or try turning your tractor at the turn row? Even with power steering, it isn't a cinch. Go ahead, put one arm in your pocket and try farming with one arm. Yes, farming can be done with one arm, but it really calls for two arms and two legs . . . that's where farm safety enters into the picture.

sands of children who are freed each summer by the too-long summer vacation."

ONE OF the most popular sports in the world is taking a crack at the schools. In fact, on my desk is a sarcastic little folder telling how to criticize the school system. Of course most of us don't need instructions on how to criticize the schools; we just seem to know how instinctively.

Of course the real experts, the folder says, are those who have no children; having had no experience at all in that field, they are the ones who know best what is wrong with the system. They are the same ones, too, who know best how to raise children, and their knowledge is greatly increased if they have never even married.

Those of us who have been teachers are far less prone to criticize the schools than those who have never taught. We know the problems first-hand, and think that, on the whole, the schools do an excellent job. One of the silliest editorials I ever read was in a southwestern daily a few years ago. It was written by a just-graduated Yale man, who took to task a prominent educator at Chicago University for the theories he advanced, theories based on years of training and experience.

NEVER THE LESS there is truth in Bill's statement that the summer school vacation is too long. Educators have pointed to this flaw in our system for a long time. With millions invested in physical equipment alone, it hardly seems like good economy to let

Sandhills Philosopher

Most Businesses Can Go Underground; Not Farmer

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm has found something new to worry about this week his letter indicates.

Dear editor: There's a move on in the world that has me worried. It's the theory that to be safe in this nuclear warfare age, everything has to be underground.

It's a fact, I read only last night that it's possible that all homes some day will be built underground. Why not, the argument went. We've already found out buildings don't need windows, you can air-condition them the year around, so why not build houses underground? Eliminate all the costs of style and outside architectural appearance, the need for painting, re-roofing, etc. Just build them out of concrete, cover them up with dirt, turn on the air-conditioning, and be cool in summer and warm in winter. Not even any lawns to mow.

Moreover, we've already got underground munitions manufacturing plants, underground airports for bombers, underground launching sites for guided missiles, underground government offices for emergency use, why only last week they launched some guided missiles from under water via submarine.

Now I've been thinking about this, maybe it is possible to live underground, to keep all the grocery stores, drygoods stores, hardware stores, filling stations, churches, football fields, schools, etc., below ground level, at considerable initial expense, I'll admit, but what's money against survival?

But, it has just occurred to me that there's one occupation that can't be put underground, namely, farming.

Consequently, I can foresee the day when everybody else is living safely and snugly underground, while us farmers are up on top exposed to the hot sun and Russian fall-out.

This is a prospect on which I do not look with favor. Going to the added expense not only of keeping a high-priced tractor running, but also of equipping it with radar and a Geiger counter and a lead-lined radiation safe cab, plus an anti-aircraft gun, will be more than a farmer can stand, regardless of how much help both parties are offering him during the next few months.

Farming is lonely enough as it is, but the thought of us being up here on top of the ground plowing away while the rest of you are down there safe and carefree in the ground, telling Russia and China to blast away, is highly unpleasant.

Can't they, I think of some other way to run the world? Yours faithfully, J. A.

Much has been written on the subject, but the teacher continues to be underpaid.

WHICH IS considerably afield from the original subject: What to do with an active 13-year-old boy and an equally active 12-year-old girl during the long summer vacation.

There was another note to Bill's letter: "They have loafed—at least mentally—for so long by the time school opens in the fall that it takes them a good three weeks to get back in the groove again. And, of course, there's another—but less pronounced—mental block the last two weeks in the spring when they are looking to summer vacations."

"I repeat, what is the answer to the problem?"

Back in 1860 when there were no women lawyers in the United States the spirited and highly intelligent wife of a young Illinois lawyer suggested that he teach her to be an attorney.

This was a time when women were expected to stay home to attend their knitting. Nevertheless, James Bradwell had the courage to allow his wife to defy convention.

In 1869 she passed her examination and was certified for admission to the bar of the Supreme Court of Illinois. That court refused her application on the ground that she was married.

Undaunted by the adverse decision of the Illinois court, Mrs. Bradwell carried her case to the United States Supreme Court. In 1873, after holding the case for a lengthy period without decision, the Supreme Court affirmed the Illinois court. Mrs. Bradwell had lost her battle but she had won a war for the fair sex. The widespread interest engendered by her case became the opening wedge. Soon the barrier of prejudice was down and women were being admitted to the practice of law throughout the Nation.

After she had been refused admission to the bar Mrs. Bradwell operated a highly successful legal publication business and became the leader of numerous reform movements.

She was so busy in these ventures that she never sought admission to the bar again. When in 1890 this was brought to the attention of the Illinois Supreme Court, the court automatically made her a member of the bar. Not only did the court accord her this rare honor but its order of admission was made retroactively effective in 1869, the date of her original application.

(This column, prepared by the State Bar of Texas, is written to inform—not to advise. No person should ever apply or interpret any law without the aid of an attorney who is fully advised concerning the facts involved, because a slight variance in facts may change the application of the law.)

LIPSTICK LOGIC

We heard a famous Chicago food editor talk recently and she said old-fashioned "complicated" cooking is staging a come-back. But its practitioners are not the "busy" housewives; no, indeed. The luxury cooker is the part-time man of the house, who thinks it's fun to get in the kitchen during his leisure hours and "create" gastronomic delights.

Many a wise spouse encourages this leaning, even assists it. After all, it's more fun to be in the kitchen if her man is there. She probably fell out with cooking in the first place because it took her away by herself while everyone else seemed to be enjoying themselves in the yard or living room.

She has everything to gain. If her man is a good cook, they have better food. If not, at least he's more tolerant to her efforts.

Isn't it odd that the easier a gal is to look, the harder the fellers stare?

Guess they call 'em window envelopes because they contain bills that give us a pane.
