

Brick Laying Sky Pilot Returned To Littlefield

REV. JIM SHARP

Members of Littlefield and section are rejoicing at the return of Rev. Sharp to Littlefield for another year as pastor of the First Methodist Church. The brick-laying parson was sent back to Littlefield in the line of pastors at the annual Northwest Texas Conference held at Big Spring. Since the Rev. Jim was sent to Littlefield from Muleshoe about two years ago he has been more in overalls than out of overalls in furthering the construction of the new Methodist church, which is nearing completion. The conference returned him to Littlefield to finish the job and it doesn't take much imagination to visualize the project completed as a beautiful new church and educational building for Littlefield.

Plains Cotton Ginnings Last Year

Plains cotton ginnings for the season are still off to a fast start, the total for the season to date, according to the U. S. Census, amounting to nearly one fourth that of a year ago. The previous comparison, for October, was one fifth. Totals this year are 59,065 compared with 245,534 a year ago in only one county. Scurry, 1941 season ginnings are 1,498,300 of the same period for 1940.

Totals are off more than a million bales, figures being 1,498,300 for 1941 and 2,550,030 last year.

Leads the area this year are a close second. Both have more than 10,000 bales. Lynn ranks third, Dickson and Lubbock fifth.

Among the first five counties are: Scurry, Lubbock, Lamb, and Lynn, all with more than 100,000 bales each.

Counties in the state show totals of 25,000 bales ginned. Scurry with 56,958; Ellis is second with 44,944; Jones is third with 37,000; Collins, fourth with 35,000; and Patricio, fifth with 35,000. Ch-Hiking Rooster Is Ideal Home Here

Just like humans, roosters are placed in two categories: smart and dumb. A red and black rooster was brought to this section for feed and seed business. Recognition as a smart rooster was given to the feathered domestic animal. Roy doesn't know for certain how he arrived at his place of residence, but he believes that it was on a trailer of feed. He is a smart rooster because there is no doubt about it. He has picked out a feed merchant as his happy home.

"Cake Walk" Being Sponsored For Benefit Of Littlefield Band

Will Be Staged On Main Street Friday Evening

First Affair Of Kind Here To Secure Funds For Band Boys Uniforms

You like home made cakes, don't you, Mister?

Those good chocolate cakes with white foamy icings . . . or the angel foods . . . like your Mother used to bake for you when you were only a kid?

Then — don't miss the "Cake Walk" Friday night which starts promptly at seven o'clock, on main street in Littlefield.

The "Cake Walk", sponsored by the Band Mothers organization and the Pep Squad, is the first affair of this kind to be staged here.

The block on Phelps Avenue, from the First National Bank to Renfro Bros. grocery will be roped off by city police Friday night, and a hilarious time will be had by all Littlefield citizens.

Here's the way it's been planned . . .

The Littlefield Band members need new uniforms, and proceeds from the "Cake Walk" will be used to purchase these suits. The Band is essential to this town . . . it's a very important factor to have on hand when those Wildcats go clavin' down the field for victory.

Three large circles will be roped off on this block down town. J. R. (Billy) Hall will be master of ceremonies, and Mancil Hall, G. M. Shaw, and Norman Renfro will be . . . (Continued on Back Page)

Arm Amputation Follows Accident

Merle Chisholm, 30, farmer of Lum's Chapel, sustained serious injury Thursday evening about 6 o'clock in an automobile-truck mishap on the Enochs-Muleshoe road near Muleshoe, in Bailey county, when the car in which he was riding with Homer Westmoreland was in collision with a truck.

Chisholm's left arm was badly mangled, and at the Littlefield Hospital, where he was taken, it was found necessary to amputate it about four inches below the shoulder. The injured man is reported to be getting along nicely at the hospital.

Chisholm is reported to have been to Enochs, and enroute home when the accident happened.

He is a prominent farmer of Lamb County and a son of Mr. and Mrs. W. E. Chisholm of Beck's Gin community.

Sheriff W. E. Renfro of Bailey County is said to be investigating the accident.

RESULT OF SUDAN GAME MAY DETERMINE LOCALS CHANCE AT CROWN

By WILSON BRAZZIL

The Slaton high school Tigers, one of the top-notch teams in the 5-A north zone football race, will journey to Sudan Friday afternoon to tangle with the Sudan Hornets in the last important schoolboy tilt on schedule.

This is a game that the Tigers can't afford to lose as a Hornet victory would give the Littlefield Wildcats undisputed possession of the crown and Littlefield fans

C. H. Milburn Dies Suddenly Result Of Heart Attack

Funeral Services For City Engineer At Crockett Wednesday

C. H. Milburn, 48, acting City Engineer passed away suddenly at his home here Monday afternoon, November 17, at 3:15 o'clock as the result of a heart attack.

The remains were taken overland to Crockett, Texas, by Hammons Funeral Home, where funeral services were conducted at the C. W. Galloway Funeral Home Wednesday, at 10 o'clock A. M., with Rev. Gage Loyd, Pastor of the Presbyterian Church officiating and interment took place in the Crockett Cemetery. Survivors are his wife and son, Bill, age 12 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Preston England of Sweetwater, sister and brother-in-law of Mrs. Milburn, arrived in Littlefield Monday night, and accompanied Mrs. Milburn and son to Crockett Tuesday.

Following the funeral Mrs. Milburn expects to return to Littlefield and make arrangements to move her personal effects to Crockett, where she and her son will make their home.

Luther C. Moore In Air Corps At Kelly Field, San Antonio

Along with 1,972 other cadets, Luther C. Moore son of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Moore, Route 2, Littlefield, Texas, is now a member of the first class of cadets in the new Air Corps Replacement Center (Aircrow) at Kelly Field, Texas. Induction began Nov. 12 with most of the cadets reporting on that day.

He attended West Texas State College from '37-'41, where he received his B. S. degree.

At the Replacement Center he will go through five weeks of preliminary training before being sent to a primary flying school where he will start his flight training. This five week course will give Moore a thorough military background for becoming an officer in the Army of the United States on graduation from an advanced flying school thirty weeks later.

have their fingers crossed, anxiously awaiting the crisis.

The Hornets enter the contest as decidedly the underdog but due to the fact that the game is to be played on the Hornets home field, many fans have predicted a close score.

The Littlefield Wildcats who finished their schedule with a 20-0 victory over the Levelland Lobos at Levelland last Friday, only managed to defeat the Hornets by one touchdown and Slaton at least hopes to duplicate the Wildcat's feat.

Littlefield and Slaton thus far this season have lost one game each with the Wildcats bowing to the Tigers 6-0 and the Tigers in turn losing to the Muleshoe Yellowjackets.

In the event that the Tigers defeat Sudan, as they are doped to do, a meeting of the district executive committee will be called next Monday night and it will be their lot to decide between Slaton and Littlefield for the district title. The winner will in turn probably be pitted against the powerful Brownfield Cubs for the District championship.

So many upsets have terminated out of the 1941 gridiron classic that another would not be out of order, and for this reason a large crowd is expected to witness the contest at Sudan Friday afternoon.

Sport fans are urged to attend the Hornet-Tiger game as it will probably be one of the last grid battles that will be unreeled in this vicinity before the curtain falls on another colorful season.

Further developments pertaining to the final play-off for the district championship will be carried in next week's issue of the Leader.

Make Loans For "Food For Defense" Program

Financial assistance is available through the Farm Security Administration to assist small farmers who need supplies, equipment, and repairs to enable them to contribute to the Food for Defense program, Fred L. Nix, County Rehabilitation Supervisor, said today.

Expanding its services to low-income farm families, this agency of the Department of Agriculture, is conducting a state-wide drive to give small farmers an opportunity to aid the defenders of democracy and to relieve their own distressed condition, Mr. Nix explained.

Working under the direction of the State and County USDA Defense Boards, of which Farm Security is a part, this agency is said to be ready to make loans to qualified farm families to step-up their production of needed foods. Long term loans are available for a great many purposes.

Increased production and improved home consumption will be encouraged by the FSA for its borrower-families rather than the expansion of the farm enterprise. Better care of livestock, more adequate use of available facilities, purebred sires, culling, better housing for poultry and livestock, more canning and improved selection and preparation of food and storage, are among the things being emphasized by this agency.

Among types of assistance which the Farm Security Administration is prepared to furnish eligible small farm families in Lamb County to enable them to participate in the National Defense program are:

1. Loans for the purchase of silage cutters, feed grinders, binders, trailers, and other harvesting and operating expenses to store feed crops in trench silos or other storage methods.
2. To increase the production of poultry, poultry products, dairy products and pork, Farm Security will finance suitable shelter for poultry, dairy cattle or hogs, either by the use of temporary shelter, remodeling present buildings, or constructing new buildings, provided proper tenure agreements can be obtained.
3. Farm Security will finance supplements for a good feeding program; the agency will finance, in some cases, the purchase of milk cows, sows and feeder pigs up to the normal carrying capacity of the borrower's farm. FSA will finance the purchase of young chicks to bring the farm flock to normal carrying capacity of the farm.
4. To aid in food preservation and storage this agency will finance eligible farm families to purchase pressure cookers, jars and other canning equipment. Loans are available to construct cellars, milk coolers, shelves or other storage space needed to protect the family's food supply.
5. To provide ample water supplies for the production and storage programs, Farm Security will finance the development of available water, including wells, pumps, towers, windmills, overhead supply tanks, pipe and so forth as rental arrangements will justify.

Mr. Nix said loans are available to qualified small farmers for many purposes other than those listed above to enable them to improve their own conditions and contribute to the National Defense program.

Farm families interested in improving their own conditions and increasing production for the "Food For Defense" campaign should contact Mr. Nix at his office in the City Hall, Littlefield, Texas.

Blue Ribbon Family -- HEATHS MALE CENTER COME THROUGH WITH HOGS

MALE CENTER — The champion ribbon winning family of West Texas has been discovered. In 16 years of exhibiting registered live-purebred poultry, canned field crops and 4-H and demerol club handiwork, the family of D. Heath family of Center community, eight miles west of Littlefield, have amassed 637 ribbons, 15th place awards to grand championships.

Estimate their cash winnings in the neighborhood of $5,000 per year.

The ribbons and cash, practically every member of the family on trips offered for superior work.

The winning streak began back in 1925 when they won a second ribbon at Odessa, Colorado, Corn the award was for poultry raised by Opal Heath, a daughter, Club work. She has since and is now Mrs. Richard of Akron, Ohio.

Members of the family, another daughter, now living in Littlefield, and four sons, Ray, Robert, Eugene and Harold, annually earned honors for agricultural projects every year.

The younger brothers, Harold and Eugene, are following in the footsteps of the elder pair by winning trips to the National Western Stock Show in Denver. The first brother to win a trip to the Denver show was Robert, who went from Odessa, Colo., in 1932.

HOGS BIGGEST WINNERS
Principal winnings by this family have been with registered hogs. Last year they won $1,050.50 in cash (Chamber of Commerce).

premiums, and 210 ribbons by exhibiting Chester Whites in 11 fairs in five Southwestern States.

Their first experience with hogs was in exhibiting registered Hampshires. That was when they lived on their farm in Odessa, Colo. They still own and operate their farm there, but have made their residence in Texas. A fifth place ribbon for barrows was won at the Washington County 4-H Club show at Akron, Colo., in 1929 by Frances Heath. For two years then, they had fine success in exhibiting this breed, but in 1931 they switched to Chester Whites, and have seen their winnings increase ever since.

In 1935 the family moved to Texas, and concentrated on producing fine herds for exhibition purposes. Heath finishes his Chester Whites with proso, a Colorado grain that closely resembles millet. Mixed with cotton seed meal, alfalfa, tankage, and mineral, proso has proved it will feed out hogs for show purposes in quicker time than any feed, he reports. It is also a drouth resisting crop and makes a crop in shorter time than any other small grain grown in the Panhandle. Mr. Martin's subject was "Recognizing Your Job."

Littlefield Men Attend Important Insurance Gathering

Littlefield was represented at the gathering of life underwriters from four states attending the West Texas Sales Congress, which was held at Amarillo recently.

Those attending the meeting from Littlefield were R. B. Sparks, representative of the United Fidelity Life Insurance Co., and J. R. Eagan, representative of the Amicable Life Insurance Co.

The Littlefield men returned home enthused at the program arranged by the Amarillo Association of Life Underwriters, and bringing with them a great fund of valuable information furnished by both top flight personal producers and nationally known life insurance executives.

Subjects at the Congress included everything from the philosophy of selling and defense bond sales to selling insurance in the small towns.

Stanley Martin, Jr., general agent of the State Mutual Life Insurance Company of Dallas, an easy and fluent speaker proved himself one of the "personalities" of the session, and captured the imagination of every underwriter and layman present. A young man and a "Yankee among Texans," Mr. Martin at once disarmed every listener and had the "youngsters" harkening to a voice of authority.

Mr. Martin, in a personal interview previous to his appearance on the program, declared himself as being a disciple of the indirect approach method of selling insurance. He makes his interest the man rather than insurance and lets the customer sell himself on insurance. "Insurance salesmen are all philoso-

Many think there is no sense in feeding chickens when they are molting, but every year old hen molts, and the best ones molt late. Feed them Egg mash, and they will be laying again much sooner and be in condition to lay much longer. Feed them only grain while molting in the short winter days, and you are cutting down your December, January and February egg production, and the health of your flock.

Miss Bettye Alyce Thaxton And Stacy Hart Wed Sunday

A wedding of outstanding social interest was that of Miss Bettye Alyce Thaxton, charming daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Thaxton to Stacy Hart, prominent young business man of Littlefield.

The bride was given in marriage by her father in a beautiful sunrise service Sunday in their home on east 8th street. The impressive double ring ceremony was read by Rev. Roy Shahan, Pastor of First Baptist Church, as the wedding party stood before an improvised altar of fern and white and tinted Chrysanthemums, which was lighted on each side by tapers in white candelabra.

The traditional wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Morgan Layfield.

The bride was attired in a crepe dress of RAF Blue with accessories to match; and in her hand she carried an open ivory backed Bible, which held a spray of orchids and fern tied with white satin ribbon streamers. Her only jewelry was a gold locket worn by her mother in girlhood and for "something borrowed" she carried a beautiful blue linen handkerchief, which belonged to Mrs. Ewing Thaxton.

For her going away suit she chose a brown herring bone tailored suit with accessories to match.

Her only attendant was her friend Miss Eloise Hanes.

J. E. Chisholm, close friend of both parties, attended the groom.

The bride is a member of the 1940 graduating class of the Littlefield High School, and a former student of Columbia University and Texas Tech. The groom is the son of Mrs. F. M. Hart of Miles. He is a graduate of the Miles High School and of the Dallas School of Embalming. Both young people are very popular with the younger social group of Littlefield.

A reception was held following the ceremony and the couple left immediately for Monterey, Mexico. Enroute they were luncheon guests of the groom's mother in Miles.

Out of town relatives and friends who were present at the wedding were: Dr. and Mrs. Van Bailey, Iraan, Mrs. J. C. Bullion, Waco; Miss Mary Louise Thaxton, Marlin; Miss Hallie Hart, San Angelo; Miss Evelyn Griffin of Hardin Baylor, Belton; and Misses Gayle Etter, Margaret Bannan, and Gerine Verner, all students of Texas Tech.

CONFUSION . . . buying

Dear Mr. President: I would like your advice on whether to buy a new refrigerator. The one I have now is nine years old, it has become very noisy, it is slow about freezing ice and it doesn't have any of the new gadgets my wife likes—you know, like a light inside, those easy-working ice trays and a vegetable crisper.

NEWS . . . conflicting

Reading a big daily newspaper, which reports all the news and speeches from Washington, adds to the confusion. On the front page of the newspaper we read that automobiles, refrigerators, washing machines and radios are scarcer than hens' teeth.

DECISIONS . . . voluntary

So far, the whole policy of the government in regard to shortages has been to ask the public for voluntary co-operation. No definite rules for purchasing have been set up—we have just been advised to "think twice" before making a purchase.

Some of us, after we "think twice," decide to go out and buy all of the equipment we can use which may be unavailable later.

Others of us, who are less selfish in our thinking, may decide that our old car can be patched up to last for several years more, and we might as well let those who really need new cars purchase those which are available.

It might seem easier and more business-like if the government would issue rules such as: only those with no car or cars 10 years old will be permitted to purchase a new one; only families with two children may purchase new washing machines, etc.

Yes, we'd then know where we stood—but we'd also be in the position of having the government dictate how we should live our private lives. Most of us don't want any of that if it can be avoided.

Voluntary methods may have their faults, but when it's a question of that or dictatorship, there's only one answer for anyone who likes the American way of life.

SHORTAGES . . . blame

But before I buy a refrigerator there's one thing I really want to know: is any American tank or airplane maker apt to run short of steel because of the 140 pounds of steel which go into the refrigerator I might buy?

If I were sure the refrigerator was made out of surplus steel—steel that was left over after all defense requirements are taken care of—it wouldn't seem wrong to buy one. But if I were taking a 140 pound chunk out of a bomber by buying a refrigerator that would be a different story.

And I can't find a direct "yes" or "no" answer to that question. It may be that the curbs put on civilian production take care of the situation adequately, but I have a suspicion that some civilian production may be carried on at the expense of defense production.

If that's true, a public warning should be issued to the government that no American will say "thank you" for keeping us supplied with goods that add to our comfort if we find later that this creates a shortage of defense materials.

We like being able to buy refrigerators, automobiles and a thousand and one other things made of steel—but if a shortage results we'll hear the blame on those who made it possible for us to have these products when many of us didn't really need them.

RETIREMENT AGE CAN BRING 'NEW ACTIVITY

A few years ago a man in England had arrived at the age when men think of retiring. Other men his age were being retired, but he did not want to give up. He was past 65. Retirement, however, was forced on him. He was interested in the world around him, so instead of rusting out, he decided to take up a new subject and learn all he could about it! He decided to study fingerprints.

He was Francis Galton. His friends told old man Galton he was foolish; he could not make money from it. But the subject interested him and he wanted to learn all about it.

The principle of finger printing had been known for years, but nothing had ever come of it. So Francis Galton started in to learn all he could about it. What he was going to do with the knowledge he didn't know. All he knew was that he was not going to sit around and worry about himself and get full of aches and pains. He began to make fingerprints, collected them, studied them, classified them. He put them into categories. He became absorbed in the work. His step grew lighter; he was considered younger than men of his age who had retired.

He began to write on the subject of fingerprints and fingerprint identification. He decided that it might be applied to the identification of criminals. He worked harder than ever now. A new and important use had suddenly opened. When he was 70 he published a book on the subject. He made the startling statement that no two fingerprints were exactly alike; also said they could be classified. It shook the British government. And it takes something to shake the British. Was their old method out of date? The British government appointed a commission to study his discoveries and claims, and decided to make use of his discoveries. He was knighted. He was made Sir Francis Galton!

Other men started to work, and his system was improved. It swept over England, it raced over the sea and the basis of his system is now in use in the Federal Bureau of Investigation in Washington, D. C.—our famous FBI. About 6,000 fingerprint records are received by the bureau each day. These are all classified, handled, and answered within 36 hours.

How much better it was for him to pitch into something new, when retirement age came, than to sit around and do nothing. Don't ever retire. You may have to give up your job, but don't give up your mind! It will work for you as long as you live. True, it will work slower, but it will work more accurately. So when retirement age comes, don't be one of those who climb into a rocking-chair and talk about the good old days and prognosticate that the younger generation is going to Hades. Seize something new; continue to live!

Red Raiders To Play Hardin-Simmons Today

LUBBOCK, Nov. 18.—For the past five years West Texas football fans have clamored for a battle royal between the Texas Tech Red Raiders and the Hardin-Simmons Cowboys. Well, that demand will be realized here Thursday afternoon, Nov. 20, at 2:30 o'clock when the Mercury-heeled Red Raiders and the stout, colorful Cowboys clash in West Texas' "Dream Game." It will be the first meeting between the Red Raiders and the Cowboys since 1935 when Texas Tech won a bitterly fought 9 to 0 set-to.

A complete sell-out crowd of 16,000 is anticipated for the game due to the intense rivalry between the two teams. Texas Tech and Hardin-Simmons decided to break off football relationship five years ago because the boys could not play for fighting each other. There was a mighty demand for Texas Tech to play the undefeated and untied Hardin-Simmons team of last year, but Coach Pete Cawthon, then of the Red Raiders, refused to play the game.

By defeating the Whiharral team 36 to 0 Friday afternoon Amherst's Bulldogs won the District 3-B football championship, their second in succession.

The Bulldogs will play the Petersburg Buffaloes, District 4-B champions, for the bi-district title. Class B competition goes only to bi-district play.

Norman Phillips, backfielder on offense and end on defense, led the Bulldogs Friday afternoon. He scored on a 54-yard end sweep early in the game, and repeated it for 60 yards a few minutes later. Junior Hilton plunged 20 yards for the third touchdown early in the second quarter, and Ted Cummings scored the extra point on a running play.

In the third quarter, Phillips again scored on an end run, this time for 25 yards, with Cummings plunging for the point.

Hilton and Charles Gibson scored touchdowns in the fourth. Center Bob Clayton, Phillips, Bryan and C. R. Roberts were outstanding defensively for the Bulldogs.

Coach E. W. Jackson's Amherst team has lost only a single game this season, that to Class A Sudan by 6-0. It already holds a 19-0 victory over the Petersburg team in non-conference play.

SO YOU WON'T TALK ...EH?

THEN, I WILL. I'll tell you something nobody else in my house ever talks about.

Right in this house under my mom and pop's fingertips is the biggest bargain in town—but do you suppose they ever mention it? I hear 'em rave about the swell bargain they got in a dress or a suit or something, but gee whiz, they never say anything about electricity.

Listen, do you know that electric rates for houses are about half what they were when my sister (she's thirteen) was my age? You bet your boots. We're getting twice as much for our money when we press a button now as we did then; and that's the best bargain in the house.

Of course, the bill hasn't come down because I hear mom and pop say when sister was my age they didn't have so many nice electric things. So we are using more electricity. But twice as much electricity for the same money is still our best bargain and I want somebody to TALK about it.

Riley Cox Bags Deer And Eagle In New Mexico

Next time Riley Cox goes deer hunting he's going to just take a pocket full of rocks, and leave his gun at home!

He returned last Thursday, after a two weeks hunting trip in the Rocky Mountains near Pie Town, New Mexico. He bagged his deer, that "was just big enough" but he really killed the buck with a large rock.

While hunting one afternoon with friends, whom he visited near Pie Town, he crippled this buck with his 30-30 gun. He trailed him until he lost his tracks, then turned around and saw the buck "daring" him to shoot again, as he stood in a clump of bushes. Mr. Cox was reminded of the Bible story of David killing the giant, Goliath, as he picked up a large rock, and hurled it at the deer, hitting him between the eyes. The buck was "bagged", and makes better venison than one filled with buckshot, Mr. and Mrs. Cox and their friends declare.

Mr. Cox visits Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Perry and Mr. and Mrs. Sam Kelsey in New Mexico each year, when he goes deer hunting.

This year he shot a huge Mexican eagle, with a 10-foot wing spread. But all he brought home of the eagle was a joint of one of the wings and his feet. His 30-30 shot the eagle's head off!

Two Granary Buildings Being Built For A. R. Hendricks

Two granary buildings are under construction on Highway 7, just west of town, and near the Littlefield Truck & Tractor building, for A. R. Hendricks of this city.

The larger of the buildings is 140 feet long by 14 feet wide, and the other is 60 feet long by 14 feet wide. Both are of frame construction, and are being built for the purpose of storing grain.

C. H. Singer is supervising the construction.

Home Town Boy Makes Good

"Mighty Mites", a story appearing in this week's Colliers magazine was read by many Littlefield sports fans and took on a new significance due to the author being a former Littlefield boy, Frank Tolbert, known here as Joe Frank.

Tolbert, a member of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram sports staff and an able writer, features the Masonic Home and school football team, at Fort Worth, in a very interesting manner.

His description of "Moses" a gorilla-chested old East Texas negro self-appointed "good-luck trainer" for the team is very realistic. And Tolbert, who "covers" some of the largest games knows the inside of most of the teams.

Joe Frank, whose father, the late H. G. Tolbert, a former Littlefield business man, was one of the "kids about town" and he, with his two younger brothers, were known for their witty sayings and were popular among the town's people, who are justly proud of the success Joe Frank has made.

His mother, Mrs. Frances Tolbert, who is a former teacher in the Littlefield schools and of the Lubbock school resides in Lubbock and is an occasional visitor here. He is also a nephew of W. V. Tolbert of Littlefield.

Recently, an article, appearing in the paper he represents, written from the Spade Ranch and depicting the early days on the Plains was read and enjoyed by many, especially the pioneers.

Men Held In Jail For Memphis Police

A man giving his name as Callas and his home as Brooklyn, N. Y., was arrested at Sudan Sunday night by Deputy Sheriff O. T. Lindsey and Cecil Payne, Sudan constable, and is being held in the Littlefield jail on instructions from Memphis, Tenn., police.

Callas is reported wanted at Memphis on a charge of car theft. He has intimated that he will waive extradition when Tennessee officials come for him.

Police report that they arrested the young man when they became suspicious of his alleged attempt to trade a valuable radio for a limited amount of gasoline.

The Littlefield youth is enthusiastic over the special instruction he is receiving at the yeoman school, and reported to his parents that he has an average grade of better than 97 per cent in all his studies. He expects to be graduated from the school in December.

Don is taking six courses, all related to bookkeeping, stenography, and secretarial work, and when graduated will be assigned to a ship in the U. S. navy, on which he will serve as a yeoman.

The duties of a yeoman are the keeping of the records of many kinds necessary on the nation's fighting ships.

But to play this game, you'll have to have a dime... that's the admission fee!

Approximately 150 cakes will be "sold" in this cake walk. Each of the members of the pep squad will bake two cakes.

Committees from the Band Mothers reported this week that firms and individuals were offering splendid cooperation to help make this affair a success.

Women baking cakes are urged to leave them at one of the following places by noon Friday, Britain Pharmacy, Walters Drug Store, or the homes of Mrs. L. C. Hewitt or Mrs. H. C. Edmonds.

Littlefield Wildcats Romp On Levelland Loboes 20-0 Friday

LOCAL AGGREGATION WIN EASILY FROM LEVELLAND IN THEIR FIRST AFTERNOON GAME OF SEASON; CINCH TIE FOR CROWN

By WILSON BRAZZIL

The Littlefield Wildcats maintained their standing in the race for the district football crown, by defeating the Levelland Loboes, 20-0 on the Levelland gridiron Friday afternoon.

This victory over the Loboes gave the Wildcats at least a tie for the north half of the district football title, and should Slaton fail to come through with a victory over the Sudan Hornets, the Wildcats would be the undisputed champs.

The Wildcats tussle with the Loboes last Friday afternoon was said to be their most sluggish game of the season, playing the entire game in second gear. This was probably due to the fact that this was the Wildcats first afternoon game and the unusually warm weather made it difficult for them to get started.

Hutson and Holberg sparked the local aggregation to victory but outside of the actual touchdown plays the game was said to be rather a slow affair with both teams playing mostly on the defense.

Quite a number of Littlefield football fans accompanied the Wildcats to Levelland Friday afternoon to witness the game.

By holding the Loboes scoreless the Wildcats finished the season with only one touchdown being scored against them and that was done by the Slaton Tigers at Slaton early in the season. After this contest they went on to finish the season undefeated and are the one team in the district to stop the Olton Mustangs in four years of high school football.

Slaton meets Sudan Friday of this week and no doubt but what the stands will be generously sprinkled with Littlefield people who are eagerly awaiting the outcome of the

Cotton Farmers Vote In Fifth Referendum

For the fifth consecutive year, Texas cotton farmers will vote in a cotton marketing quota referendum, Fred Rennels, assistant administrative officer of the AAA in Texas, has announced.

The voting date has been set for Saturday, December 13, and quotas will not be in effect on the 1942 crop unless approved by two-thirds of the eligible producers who vote in the referendum, he said.

If quotas are in effect, farmers planting within acreage allotments may market all cotton grown on their allotments. Regardless of whether quotas are approved, conservation phases of the AA program will remain the same, he explained.

"Cotton is one of the surplus crops for which no increase is asked in the Food-For-Freedom campaign," Rennels said in explaining that with restricted world markets the United States has on hand a supply of about twice the size of recent crops.

Approval of marketing quotas to help adjust the surplus will make possible continued use of loans, the AAA official said. Under provisions of the AAA Act of 1938, as amended, loans are prohibited when quotas are rejected by producers.

Collapse of foreign markets and the consequent drop in American exports from 6.2 million bales to 1.1 million bales, together with the fact that there is already enough cotton on hand to fill an extra year's needs, highlight the cotton situation. Since the slump is due primarily to war and naval blockades, cotton exports probably will not increase any great extent during the present season, he pointed out.

Hornet-Tiger battle. A Sudan victory would put the Wildcats at the top of the list but it is very doubtful that anything of that sort will come to pass.

Should the Tigers defeat the Hornets next Friday, the District executive committee would have to decide between the Wildcats and the Tigers for the north district title and a great deal of controversy is likely to terminate out of a decision of this sort.

Nevertheless, both the Tigers and the Wildcats are jam-up clubs, and hold the respect and support of their respective communities and will no doubt accept the decision of the judges, whatever it might be.

I'M THANKFUL THAT IN THIS MAN'S ARMY, WE GET DURN GOOD SHOW NOT ONLY ON THANKSGIVING DAY, BUT ON EVERY DAY.

BUT I WONDER WHAT HAPPENS TO PET PUPS OVER THERE?

TWO THANKSGIVINGS

To settle all of the confusion about some states celebrating Thanksgiving on one Thursday and others on another Thursday, maybe we should hereafter have two Thanksgivings in all states.

This year, at least, Americans have so many things to be thankful for that it might well require two days to do an adequate job of giving thanks.

Perhaps one Thursday should be devoted to giving thanks for our personal blessings and the other for our country—for its freedom, its riches, its production capacity and the genius of its leaders.

When we compare America with any other country in the world, it seems as though God has showered us with favors which have been denied to all other people. Practically anything you can think of—food, housing, raw materials, comfort, gold, education, freedom, churches — we have in greater abundance than any other nation.

Thanksgiving is the time for us to reflect on these blessings and to pledge ourselves to their preservation.

Throughout the world today millions of people are looking to America with envy and with hope. The unfortunate people of Europe and Asia see our country as the nearest thing to heaven on earth—and they also see us as the one nation which has the strength, the morale and vision needed to make the world of the future a better place to live in.

A world made up of countries like America is the dream of all other peoples. We should thank God that we happen to be part of this great free nation and ask God to help us in the major role which we have assumed in spreading the gospel of freedom to all of mankind.

national, evangelistic, and medical chiefly. In pre-war days there were about 4,800 missionaries in service. The calling home of many European nationals and the evacuation of women from some sections account for the decrease in totals. In "free" China (West China) there are more missionaries today than heretofore because of their removal from "occupied" territory.

The Church of England and the Protestant Episcopal Church of the United States—the latter being the daughter of the former—are planning for wide and closer co-operation not only during the period of the war but in the post-war years. Official committees have been named by both churches to formulate and carry out this cooperation. For the period of the war it will probably mean a continuance of American support of British missions in various parts of the world. The Rt. Rev. Henry St. George Tucker, presiding bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church, heads the American committee of cooperation; while the Rt. Rev. Cyril Forster, bishop of Winchester, heads the English group.

Rummage Sale Is Great Success

The rummage sale sponsored by the Presbyterian Auxiliary, and staged Saturday all day on Phleps Avenue, was an outstanding success according to those in charge.

This money so derived will go into the building fund for the erection of a Presbyterian manse, for which plans are being prepared.

In connection with the rummage sale, Mrs. Warren Rutledge was chairman, and was assisted by Mesdames G. M. Shaw, Jimmie Brittain, Mancil Hall, Arbie Joplin, E. A. Bills, J. D. Hagler and Oscar Wilemon.

These women are to be commended for the splendid results obtained through their untiring efforts.

NEWS IN THE WORLD OF RELIGION BY W.W. REID

The one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the birth of Lewell Mason, America's first public school music teacher, and equally distinguished as the composer of hundreds of hymn tunes still used throughout the world and by every Christian denomination, will be observed on January 8, 1942. Special observances in public schools are being fostered by the Music Educators National Conference and its affiliated organizations in almost every state; and special programs and services in churches throughout the United States are being planned under the leadership of the Hymn Society of America. Observances will include a service and placing of a plaque at the grave of Dr. Mason in the Rose-dale Cemetery, East Orange, N. J., and at the nearby church where he was organist for many years; and a nationwide dinner on the same evening in New York City.

According to the Rev. G. K. King, a missionary of the United Church of Canada, serving in Honan Province, China, a number of Chinese Christians have organized a "Gospel Brick Kiln" in that section. The sixty shareholders are all Christians, and each share is worth $100. The shares are non-profit-bearing, and the proceeds are all used for the Christian church. Meanwhile an eight-hour day has been established, there is no Sunday labor, and workmen are given more generous treatment than are men in similar work anywhere else in Honan. They are planning to impress scripture texts upon some of the earthenware they manufacture.

For five years the American Marathi Mission in Ahmednagar, Bombay Province, India, has been experimenting with the use of sisal hemp and has been teaching Indian men and women to develop sisal fibre crafts. Most of these trained people have been famine victims and village outcasts—the poorest of India's poor. The director of the enterprise has been Loy L. Long, of the American Board of Commissioners for Foreign Missions; today he has the assistance of the Province's Department of Industries. First the Sisal Fibre Institute experimented in methods of cleaning, combing, dyeing, spinning, braiding and sewing this common grass for India. Now they are teaching people to make and sell rope, brushes, carpets, mats, dolls, sandals, belts and many other useful articles—and relieving the poverty of hundreds of families.

"The law of Christ is the law of love, of charity," says Bishop Charles D. White, of the Catholic Diocese of Spokane, Washington. "It is simply impossible to be Christians in fact unless we fulfill this law of love. And the love that is meant is a love that proves itself in deeds or helpfulness to our neighbor. It is a love that knows no boundary line of creed or race or social condition. . . . Our charity, of course, must go first to those in greatest need. Among that number I would direct your attention to the starving peoples of the conquered nations of Europe, millions of men and women and little children about whose sad plight you are hearing very little, but who are wasting away, becoming mere skeletons, for lack of food."

It is estimated that there are about 3,600 Christian missionaries of all nationalities serving in China today in all forms of service—edu-

TRAGEDY of X

CHAPTER V.

SYNOPSIS
 Harley Longstreet, member of DeWitt Longstreet, brokers, and host to a party celebrating his engagement to Cherry Brown, actress, dies on a trolley. A stiletto-pierced cork in his pocket. DeWitt, his wife Fern and daughter Jeanne, her fiancé Christopher Lord, Cherry's fiancé, friends Pollux, Ahearn, friend of DeWitt, Imperiale, middle-aged Latin, and Michael Collins, brawny Irishman, are Longstreet's guests. At the carbara other passengers, the conductor, Charles Wood No. 2101, who says he has often seen Longstreet and DeWitt on his car, and the motorman Guinness No. 409, who corroborates him. Thumm learns later that Longstreet had had an affair with Mrs. Fern DeWitt; that he had a hold on his partner, frequently demanding large sums of money from him. Indeed, each member of the party seems to hold some grievance against Longstreet. Drury Lane, retired Shakespearean actor, is helping Thumm and D. A. Hicks. Lane, who says he thinks he knows the murderer, refers to him as Mr. X, but refuses to name him. The three go to the Weehawk Ferry one evening in answer to an unsigned letter purporting to be from somebody on the trolley. About midnight, as a ferry boat comes into the slip, there is great commotion. Lane and Bruno push forward. "Man overboard!" rings the cry. "They say he fell from the top deck," explains a ferryman. The men find DeWitt on his way home. The four go to the top deck. "Something rummy here," says Thumm. "The body was dragged across the deck. It might be murder." The crushed body of the man is hauled to the deck. The visor of his cap bears the metal number 2101—Third Ave. Railway. His identification card is signed Charles Wood. "The writer of the letter," cries Thumm, "the conductor of the murder car!"

DeWitt sat in his chair as if turned to stone. From his eyes it was doubtful whether he had even heard the exchange of questions and answers.

"Everybody see the same thing?" There was a chorus of assent. "Anybody see anything else—maybe get a look at the face as it fell past?" They looked at each other doubtfully. "Very well, Jonas! Take their names, occupations and addresses." The detective stepped into the midst of the group. After the lawyer came a ferry boatman, then Mrs. Martha Wilson, returning from work as scrubwoman at a Times Square office-building. The fourth was a large dapper man, Henry Nixon, dressed in a shrieking checked suit. An itinerant salesman of cheap jewelry, he told of rolling forward through the cabin when the body hurtled past the window. The other two were young girls, office-workers, returning from seeing a show. When Bruno, Lane and DeWitt went back to the stationmaster's office, Inspector Thumm glared at DeWitt. "When did you get aboard the Mohawk tonight?" "I took the 11:30 boat," said DeWitt. "Were you on the upper passenger deck during any part of the minute ride across the river?" asked Thumm. "Suspicious again, Inspector?" "Did you see Conductor Wood riding the trip?" "No." "If you had seen him, would you have recognized him?" "I think so." Thumm produced a paper packet of matches, ripped one away, took it and lit his cigarette most carefully. "In all the times you've been on his car, did you ever speak to him?" "Of course not," DeWitt seemed to say. "When I stepped on the ferry you were just leaving. You certainly saw an accident had occurred. Didn't you curious enough to stay and find out what had happened?" "No, I was tired, anxious to get home." "DeWitt, do you smoke?" "Cigars," he said slowly. "Have you any with you?" "Just DeWitt produced a leather cigar-case, neatly initialed in gold, and handed it to the Inspector. Thumm pulled the top away, taking out one of three cigars, examined it minutely. On the cigar was a gilt-band lettered J. O. DeWitt brand, DeWitt?" "Yes. May I ask: What of it?" "Have you ever offered Wood one of these cigars—on the street-car anywhere else?" "Certainly not." "That's fine, DeWitt," chortled Thumm. "Because I've found one of these special-brand, initial-banded cigars in the vest pocket of the man!" "At this moment two men appeared at the door, led by a police officer. The newcomers were Patrick Lane, who had driven the street-car which Longstreet had been in, and a lean old man, who was Peter Hicks, ferryman on the New York side. Thumm glanced at Wood's remains, swallowed convulsively and asked, "It's Charley, all right?" "Yes, got anything to offer on Wood's movements tonight?" "No, sir." "Ferryman nodded. "Around 11:40, Charley comes into the terminal and we gabbed a

"You're sure of the time—10:30?" "Sure I'm sure. Ferries run on schedule. Charley was carryin' his bag, and I asked him if he'd been in town the night before as per usual—y'see, sometimes he stayed over in the City—but no, he says, it was just a second-hand bag he'd bought on his off-time today; handle of the old one'd broke. And—" "What kind of bag was it?" demanded Thumm. Hicks pursed his lips. "Jest one of these cheap black handbags you can buy for a buck anywhere. Square, kind of." Thumm motioned to Detective Peabody. "See if any of the passengers have bags like Hicks describes. And get a search started on the Mohawk for a bag of that description. Have the boys on the police boat search the water—might have been thrown or fallen overboard." As Peabody strolled out, Drury Lane said: "Hicks, was Wood smoking a cigar while you chatted?" Hicks' eyes widened at this appositional inquisitor, but he replied: "Yes, matter of fact, I asked Charley for one. Them Cremos he smoked sorta appealed to me. But he said: 'I'm all out, Pete. I'm smokin' my last one.' "Smart question at that, Mr. Lane," said Thumm grudgingly. DeWitt sat in his chair as if turned to stone. From his eyes, it was doubtful whether he had even heard the exchange of questions and answers. "Guinness," said Thumm, "do you know where Wood lived?" "In a rooming-house in Weehawkin—2075 Boulevard." "Any relatives?" "He wasn't married and he never said a word about kin." "Here's another thing," put in Hicks. "While Charley and me were talkin', all of a sudden he points to a little geezer that gets out of a cab all bundled up and buys a ferry-ticket. Charley says to me that the little guy was the broker, John DeWitt, the fellow mixed up in the murder on Charley's car." "What!" roared Thumm. "You say this was around 10:30?" He glared down at DeWitt, who had roused now and was sitting, forward, hands gripping the arms of the chair. "Go on, Hicks! Did DeWitt see Wood?" "Reckon not. He stuck in a corner, all by himself. As the ferry boat came in he went through the gate and Charley says good-bye and goes in too." Thumm pushed by the ferryman to the broker. "Hicks, is this the man Wood pointed out to you?" Hicks stretched his attenuated neck. "Yep." "Good enough. You two go downstairs and wait for me." Thumm turned to DeWitt and growled: "Now, suppose you explain how you were seen boarding the 10:45 ferry, yet a while ago you said it was the 11:30." DeWitt made a sorry attempt to smile. "Yes, gentlemen, I took the 10:45 boat." "Why'd you lie, DeWitt?" Thumm shouted. "That," said DeWitt quietly, "I must refuse to explain. I had an appointment with someone on the 10:45 boat, but the matter was strictly personal and had nothing to do with this ghastly business." "If the appointment was for the 10:45 boat, why were you on until 11:40?" "The person I was waiting for did not show up. I remained for four trips, suspecting a delay. At 11:40 I decided to go home." Thumm snickered. "Who were you waiting for?" "I'm sorry." Bruno wagged his finger at DeWitt. "You are placing yourself in a most peculiar position. You must realize your story is very thin. Under the circumstances we can't accept it without specific information." DeWitt stared at the wall. "Well," said the Inspector argu-

mentatively, "maybe you'll tell us how the appointment was made. Any record of it?" "It was made over the phone this morning at my office. My operators keep no record of incoming calls." "You knew the person who called you?" DeWitt remained silent. Thumm grasped Bruno's arm and marched him to a corner. The two men conferred in heated whispers. Drury Lane sighed and closed his eyes. At this moment Peabody returned from the waiting-room with a group in tow and detectives brought in five cheap, black handbags. "Here are some bags like you described," grinned Peabody, "and their anxious owners." Thumm opened one of the bags; the scrubwoman uttered an outraged little gasp. Thumm pulled out a bundle of soiled working-clothes and a lunch-box. On the next bag, the jewelry salesman stepped forward; it contained several cardboard trays covered with cheap trinkets and a pad of order blanks with the man's name imprinted. The next bag revealed a pair of dirty old trousers and some tools. Thumm looked up and saw the Mohawk pilot regarding him anxiously. "Yours?" "Yes, sir." The fourth contained a dock worker's change of clothing and a lunch-box; the other, three baby-diapers, a half-filled nursing-bottle, a packet of safety-pins, and a little blanket. They belonged to a young couple with a sleeping infant. Thumm whirled on himself like a furious dog chasing his own tail. "I'm going over to Wood's rooming-house with some of the boys, Bruno." District Attorney Bruno strolled into Thumm's office. "Well, what happened last night?" "We went out to that rooming-house, but got nothing except more samples of his handwriting. Here they are." Thumm flicked through a bundle of papers on his desk. Dr. Schilling marched in. He extracted a long piece of paper from his breast pocket, slapped it on the desk before Thumm. Thumm and Bruno rapidly read the neatly written report. "Nothing here," mumbled Thumm. "The usual boloney." Drury Lane came in. He asked: "Have you the autopsy on Wood's carcass?" The Inspector picked up Dr. Schilling's paper and handed it to Lane without comment. Drury Lane held it high before his eyes, intently studying the report. It stated that Wood had been unconscious, not dead, at the time he was thrown overboard. This, it went on, from unmistakable signs of assault on that part of the head which had not been crushed, and substantiated by a small quantity of water in the lungs, indicating Wood had been alive for a few seconds after plunging into the water and before being crushed. The scar on the left leg was estimated to have been at least twenty years old. There also was a two-year-old appendicitis scar. The man had weighed two hundred and two pounds and been six feet and a half-inch tall. Lane returned the document to Inspector Thumm. "Get anything out of it, Mr. Lane?" asked Bruno. "Dr. Schilling is a meticulous workman," replied Lane. "And how are your suspicions of DeWitt faring this morning?" "His movements yesterday," said Bruno quickly, "as if this answered the question, 'are being traced.'" "You are not withholding anything from me, Mr. Bruno?" murmured Lane, rising and settling his cape about his shoulders. "But then, I'm sure you are not. . . . Thank you, Inspector, for granting my request for a clear photograph of Longstreet. It may prove useful before the curtain comes down." (TO BE CONTINUED)

Outlines Her First Year In Club Work

The following is a story of Don Tomlinson's first year as a member of the Fieldton 4-H Club. Club girls who complete ten goals and write an acceptable story will receive a pin. Don will receive her pin in December.

"This past year was my first year in club work. It seemed I would never get old enough to join. My brothers and sisters had belonged to the 4-H club and would say I made this and I made that. I wanted to be able to say, "Well, I made this in 4-H Club. My mother belongs to the demonstration club and she likes it real well.

"Now I am a member. This year I made a gravel walk but these big rains washed it away. But I am going to try again because in 4-H Club we have learned not to let the grass grow under our feet.

I also made a cactus bed which I thought was very pretty but my brother don't like the stickers on them. Next year I'm going to have flowers.

"I made a winter bouquet by using small foliage grass (sometimes called tickle grass). After dipping the grass in water I sprinkled them with flour and Christmas snow. Then I arranged them in low containers and placed small pink birth-

Man Arrested On Forgery Charge

Sheriff Sam Hutson announced Monday that his department had arrested and lodged in jail eight offenders on charges of theft, drunkenness and shop-lifting, over the week end.

This included the entire county, according to Sheriff Hutson, who stated that one party was arrested here on the charge of alleged theft of a bucket of honey from a local grocery establishment. Another case was that of the theft of a small radio from an Amherst concern. Also a number of arrests were made at Sudan.

Fines ranged from $14 to $20, or from 10 to 12 days in jail.

A man giving his name as Lloyd Walker of Bakersfield Calif., was arrested Thursday at Amherst and charged with forgery. It is alleged that Walker forged a check on an Amherst business concern. He was given a hearing before Justice of the Peace Sam Farquhar and bond was placed at $1,000 for appearance at the next term of District Court.

In commenting on the situation, Sheriff Hutson said that it was unusually quiet here for this time of the year, saying that last year at this season there were about 30 offenders in the Littlefield Jail, whereas now he said they had only about 12 prisoners.

1942 Payment Rates Are Announced

Rates of payments to Texas farmers under the 1942 AAA program are directed at greater conservation on individual farms, according to Fred Rennels, assistant administrative officer of the AAA in Texas.

Other provisions will assist farmers in attaining record production of commodities needed in the Food-For-Freedom campaign, he said.

Payment rates, based on normal yield of allotted acreages, include cotton at 1.25 cents per pound; wheat, 10.5 cents per bushel; rice, $4.86 per barrel; and peanuts, 7.25 cents per 100 pounds. The rate on commercial potatoes, included in the program for the first time this year, is 2 cents per bushel.

In explaining the program further, Rennels said that farmers may earn two types of payments, one in connection with special allotments and the other for carrying out soil-building practices. Special allotment crops in Texas are wheat, cotton, rice, potatoes and peanuts.

Payments for complying with acreage allotments will be made in proportion to the degree with which erosion-resisting, or soil-conserving acreage requirements are met.

Soil-building allowances established at 70 cents per acre on cropland in excess of special allotments may be earned by carrying out approved practices, the AAA official explained.

As in previous years, payments under the program depend upon the $500,000,000 annual appropriation authorized in the AAA Act of 1938, Rennels said. Rates are subject to 10 percent upward or downward revision depending upon the degree with which farmers comply with the program.

Instead of total soil-depleting allotments as established under past programs, next year's program provides a specified percentage of cropland be devoted to erosion-resisting or soil-conserving crops or land uses. This provision of the program is a forward step in continued soil improvement, Rennels pointed out.

To meet Food-For-Freedom goals, Texas farmers should plan their

Extensive Terracing Plan Underway By Lamb County Farmers

A terracing program of 25,518 miles of standard terraces is the goal of Texas farmers under the 1942 AAA farm program, according to Fred Rennels, assistant administrative officer in charge of the Texas AAA.

The extensive terracing program will be made possible by the conservation services or purchase order plan of the AAA program, he explained. The cost of terracing, established at a basic fair price for farms in a county, may be deducted from future AAA payments.
