Cotton Brings Income of $31,000,000 To County

The cotton industry brings a cash income of more than thirty-one millions of dollars into Lamb County each year, and more than 12,000 people are directly employed in the cotton industry in this county during the peak season, with nearly 1500 people deriving their living from the cotton industry on a year round basis.

In 1956, Lamb County ranked fourth in the state and 11th in the nation in cotton production. The celebration this week of National Cotton Week points up the vital importance of cotton for its livelihood, being intricately connected with cotton in hundreds of direct and indirect ways.

For instance, the Texas Employment Commission office in Littlefield reports that during the fall each year about 13,350 people besides farmers and farm operators are working in the cotton industry with a resultant increase in personnel of practically every other business in the county. In the summer about 2700 people other than farmers and farm operators are directly connected with the cotton industry in this county alone, which ranks fifth in the state in cotton production over a long period of time.

The sale of cotton alone in 1956 brought an income of over $31,000,000 into this county, with a total production of 173,000 bales of cotton produced here. In 1928 103,000 acres were planted, which produced 34,000 bales. This compares with the 1956 average of 196,000 acres and 173,000 bales of cotton.

Cotton accounts for 40.9 per cent of the total income in Texas (Continued on Page Six)

Lubbock Man Injured When Car Overturns

Maurice Lefan of Lubbock received minor injuries when the right front wheel of the 1953 Ford that he was driving hit a soft shoulder two miles northwest of Anton on Highway 34 and overturned several times. The accident occurred around 9 p.m. Saturday night.

Lefan was brought to the Medical Arts Hospital in Littlefield. He was treated for abrasions of the head, a chipped vertebrae and minor bruises. His condition is not considered serious according to attending physicians.

The car was completely demolished and is considered a total loss. Lefan is head of the shoe department at Margaret's in Lubbock.

Messer No. 3 Nears Completion

Livermore Drilling Co. began bringing in the Messer No. 3 last night at 3:51. The well is located about two miles north of town.

Drilling is at 4880 on the Whit No. 1, 17 miles southwest of Littlefield in Hockley County. The well is a northwest extension to the Huber White No. 1.

On the Humble No. 1, also on the Yellowhorse Ranch, drilling is past 600'. Destination is 6700 in Clearfork formation.

Thousands Will Celebrate Cotton's Help To County

That time is here again! It's the time for old and young alike to gather 'round and celebrate the backbone of Lamb County's economy.

Yes, it's Cotton Week, and in Littlefield, the site of the third annual Cotton Festival Thursday and Saturday wholeheartedly support has been thrown behind the celebration in an effort to make it the biggest, best ever!

Though Lamb County's observance starts Thursday night with the All Cotton Style Show sponsored by the Woman's Club, the festival has been in the air for weeks as committees led by Chairman Glenn Batson worked away at getting things ready for the county's highlight of the year.

Festival officials were set to begin installing seats for the events early this week and they expected to be able to take care of 3,000 spectators. The site of a huge stage will be in front of the County Courthouse, with the seating slated for the area between the Post Office, City Hall and Courthouse. Merchants are cooperating with the event by decorating their windows with a cotton theme.

Two of the top events in the celebration have attracted more than 50 entries.

The Tom Thumb king and queen contest will get the festival underway Thursday night at 7:30 o'clock when 25 contestants vie for top honors. Youngsters in the contest are between the ages of two and five. It is sponsored by the Ladies Auxiliary of the VFW. (For complete list of entries see page 1, section 4).

Models representing local merchants will parade before spectators in all types of cotton apparel in the annual Style Show which follows the Tom Thumb contest. Merchants, Home Demonstration Clubs and individuals from all parts of the county will be taking part in the style event which is sponsored by the Woman's Club. Rehearsal of the event was held Tuesday afternoon.

Nineteen entries will be competing for the title of Lamb County Queen of Cotton. The contest, sponsored by the Jayettes, will be held at 7:30 p.m., Saturday, climaxing this year's Cotton Week activities. Contestants will dress in cotton and will present some type of talent.

Sharing the billing for the last evening's entertainment will be the Serenaders, radio and television stars.

City Sprays Second Time

The entire city was sprayed Tuesday night for the second time this year in an attempt to control the high mosquito infestation. According to City Manager Guy McCreary, the cost for the project is $150 per spraying.

Last week the new high-velocity spray unit was used for the first time. However, the effectiveness of the spray was weakened by a rain which followed later in the day.

McCreary said Wednesday that plans are being made to spray the City Park regularly throughout the summer in an effort to keep the insect count at a minimum.

Gary Dennis To Furnish Music For Festival

Gary Dennis, 15, son of Bro. and Mrs. W. P. Dennis of Littlefield will furnish the musical selections for the festivities at the Cotton Festival. He will accompany the Tom Thumb contestants, the contestants for Queen and play musical selections for the style show.

Gary, who is a Freshman student at Littlefield High School, moved to Littlefield with his parents from Hamilton, Texas. He is a Hi-Fi fan of classical music. In sports he plays tennis and badminton. He works extra at Stages Drug.

His father is pastor of the Littlefield Church of Christ.

AN EDITORIAL

Cotton is still America's leading crop. It produces more income for American farmers than any other single agriculture product. But in a dynamic economy such as ours, change is continual and rapid, and changes are taking place which threaten to dethrone King Cotton.

The synthetic fibres are giving cotton trouble in the market place. If we simply lean back in our rocking chair and say, "There will always be a need for cotton," we will probably find out before long that the need can be filled with something else, and will be unless we do something positive about it.

Just as synthetics have their good points, so does cotton.

But the synthetics are in the hands of men experienced in the techniques of mass selling. They "sell" the American people on the good points of the synthetic fibres. If we would survive as leaders, we must publicize the advantages of increased productivity.

Selling is by far the most important. A prosperous people can be talked into paying a little more for a product they are convinced is superior. We can probably maintain high did it. With only minor price concessions and a major advertisement campaign, they have greatly reduced the surplus of dairy products. We can do the same for cotton, and it behooves us to do so. Advertising has "made" our competitors, and it can be used to hold leadership in the world of textiles, if we have the courage to do an adequate job of it.

We have a good vehicle for promoting the use of cotton already set up in the National Cotton Council. It recognizes the problems and has an intelligent plan of action to solve them. It needs and deserves our support. The council inspired the Cotton Festival in Littlefield this week and it seems to us that this is an excellent medium for selling the advantages of cotton as a fabric and its importance as an industry.

Let's make it do both. Let's work at selling cotton as hard as we work at growing it. One is no good without the other.

Of course, we need to be sure we've sold ourselves first. It's going to be mighty hard for us to convince our customers around the world that cotton is the best fibre for modern clothes, if we ourselves dress in nylon.

"Pick Cotton" when you buy!

About Your Health . . . . .

By Henry A. Holt, M.D.
AUSTIN—This can be said without reservation: we'll have more insects to fight this year than ever before, especially flies and mosquitoes. The reason is the unprecedented deluge of wet weather or most of the state is going through this spring.

Mosquitoes breed in standing water . . . whether in a Gulf Coast marsh, a West Texas stock tank, or a tin can or old tire in the back yard. They harbor in damp vegetation and undergrowth like we have so much of this year. As for flies, they'll be breeding in the garbage of wash-out sanitary landfills, and in sewer lines broken or overflowed by floods. And conditions are equally favorable for most other insect species.

Insects have troubled man ever since he has been on earth. They have bitten and stung him. They have destroyed his food, his clothes, his home. They have carried germs that brought him horrible death. In all, entomologists can identify some 10,000 insect "public enemies" that do $4 billion in damage annually.

Let's realize, though, that some insects are not harmful, and others actually do valuable chores for man. Various species of beetles feed or harmful insects, and some enterpillars eat weeds. And other insects, like the honey bee, pollinate crops. Nevertheless, with all his scientific knowledge, it is only by constant effort that man is able to hold his own against insects.

Consider just a single crop . . . wheat. Each year insects destroy in stored wheat the equivalent of 2 billion loaves of bread, enough to supply every person in the United States for seven weeks. Or consider just a single disease . . . encephalitis, spread by mosquitoes. At least 500 cases occurred in the Plainview area last summer. Many of the victims died.

But let's be fair about it. Insects got here first. They've been on this earth for at least 250 million years, 250 times longer than man. And in all that time, they have remained relatively unchanged. The roach, for example, looks just about as he did 250 million years ago. Old fossils and stone impressions tell us this.

For thousands of years man probably swatted or squashed insects to defend himself against them, but by 1,000 B.C. Homer was talking about sulphur as a fumigant. Since then insecticides have steadily improved. One, DDT, was developed in 1942, and gave early promise of providing the knockout punch against insect hordes. But it hasn't. Entomologists say flies, salt march mosquitoes, roaches, and lice quickly developed resistance to the chemical, and Mexican beetles, spider mites, and many aphids are not affected by it.

Today we know a complete program of insect control calls for constant application of good home and community sanitation . . . such things as garbage cans with tight lids, good systems of garbage pickups and well-operated sewerage disposal plants . . . together with periodic spraying with effective insecticides.

Information as to which insecticide is best for your specific use can be had by writing your official or state health department.

Twenty-fifth May Breakfast Held By Woman's Club

Five Who Attended First Breakfast Are Present

"Hitch Your Wagon to a Star" was the theme of the Twenty-fifth Annual May Breakfast of The Woman's Club. The theme was taken from the topic of the speech by Mrs. Norvel Young of Lubbock. The breakfast was held Saturday morning at the Community Center. Two charter members of the club, Mrs. C. E. Cooper and Mrs. W. G. Street, and five ladies who attended the first May Breakfast, Mrs. L. C. Hewitt, Mrs. J. H. Barnett, Mrs. J. R. Coen, Mrs. W. T. D. Storey, and Mrs. Cooper were present. These ladies were recognized during the program.

The activities were opened with the farewell coffee beginning at 8:45. Mrs. T. L. Dunlap, retiring president served coffee from a wagon bed laid with blue net with silver wheels, and centered with a blue "tone with the wind" lamp surrounded by white stock. Coffee and rolls were served from appointments of silver. Favors of thinbles engraved BD 1955-57 were plate favors.

Immediately following the coffee the breakfast was served. Club colors of blue and silver carrying out the star motif were used throughout in decorations. The lights were covered with blue lanterns with silver stars from which streamers were fastened to silver wagons, filled with flowers, on the tables. At each table stood a miniature, hand-made silver wagon with mints. Silver containers held single iris on multi-color hues. The centerpiece at the head table was pale blue carnations in a silver bowl. Iris at vantage points served as other decorations. Mrs. Roy B. McQuatters furnished the iris that were grown in her garden. The programs were splatter painted blue on white with a silver "25" on the back. All of the program was written in astrological terms.

The menu of sausage, eggs, biscuits, and blue-berry muffins was described as Early Morning mist, Zodiac Special, Golden on the horizon, Northern Lights, and Full Moon and Star Dust along the Milky Way.

Man of Peace

Lesson for May 26, 1957

IN a hospital for the insane, the patients may think the doctors are crazy. In a land of three-legged men, a man with only two legs would look deformed. Maybe that is why in the world today people who speak a good word for Peace are looked on as somewhat "touched in the head." This is a warring world. It is a fact that the heathen ancestors of most readers of this column followed a religion in which heaven was thought to be a place where fighting went on all day and drinking all night. But north-Europeans are not the only fighters of the world. Wars and fights, large and small, have been going on in all parts of the world since cave-man times. This Twentieth Century is the bloodiest of all, with fewer wars than formerly, but far more serious ones.

Dr. Foreman

Isaac, second son of Abraham, is known as a man of peace. But he must have seemed to be a rather odd man, around Gerar where he lived. He did not seem quite normal. He was willing, even eager, to make peace; but what lessons he endured in the making of peace? In the famous story of the Wells of Gerar, which is in our Scripture this week, we see Isaac giving up his comforts, his profits and even his rights, in order to keep peace. He moved farther and farther into the wilderness; he got no return on all the labor put in on the wells; and he actually gave up what he had a perfect right to keep—the wells themselves. It is very likely that a man or a nation that is going to stay at peace with the rest of the world, will, like Isaac, have to surrender some comforts, some profits, even some rights. A nation, or an individual, unwilling to make any concessions, yield any points or lower their profits, is headed for a fight. And the fight will cost more than what they fought to keep.

Sons of God
Nevertheless, peacemakers shall be called sons of God. So Jesus tells us; let it be noted that he said peacemakers, not peace-wishers, peace-praisers. This means that peacemakers are like God, they belong to his family. It means that the peacemaker is in line with the purposes of God. Consider Isaac again. What became of all the nations whose battles reddened the earth, whose wars were the big news, whose generals were famous men, whose conquests made history? The nations of that day are now dead, so dead that until recently—we know better now—there were some who thought the Bible's references to them must be fiction. Only university professors know about the Gergashites, the Philistines and all the rest, and they don't much care. But what became of Isaac? His name is immortal; the family descended from him is found everywhere in the world. The sons of Isaac are the most indestructible folk of history. When God sent his Son into the world, it was to the sons of Isaac that he first came, not to the children of the Philistines.

Witness of History
Sometimes the most peaceful men or nations are forced to fight. But the truly great are not those who keep the fight going on for years and years, but those who bind up the wounds they have made. Germany, at the time these lines are being written, shows an example. That nation was conquered by America and Russia, along with other nations. Today America and Russia are the two principal powers occupying Germany with their armies. But the part controlled by Russia is being systematically bled. The great Russian war memorial in east Berlin is lined with inscriptions (quoted from Stalin) insulting the German people; most prominent in East Berlin are great ruined empty buildings. In the west zone, controlled by the United States, there is comparative prosperity; this country is devoting immense sums to the rebuilding of our former enemies; most prominent in west Berlin is the rising new city built on the ruins of the old. It cannot be said that Germans love to be occupied by foreign armies. But they know the vast difference between a former enemy who turns as quickly as possible to the ways of peace, and an enemy that never knows the war is over.

Foreign Cotton Markets Major Project of Council

One of the major products of the National Cotton Council is its foreign market development work—collaboration with cotton industries of more than a dozen nations to persuade their people to buy an extra cotton "camisole, kimono, jupe, pigdames, or pair of socks."

Cotton represents about 70 per cent of the major textile fibers consumed in the world, according to United Nations' statistics, yet the opportunities for expanding cotton consumption in the world are awesome in size.

The true measure of the opportunity lies in annual consumption per person. In the United States, annual per capita consumption of cotton is about 26.5 pounds; in the free foreign world, it is about 5.6.

Additional Market
National Cotton Council calculations show that increasing annual free foreign consumption by just one additional pound per person would mean an additional market for 3.3 million bales of cotton.

A woman's dress requires 1.1 pounds of raw cotton. A pair of men's work pants requires 1.5 pounds of cotton, a common muslin shirt takes 2.5 pounds. Even a child's tee shirt uses three-tenths of a pound of raw cotton. In other words, persuading the people of the free foreign world to buy just one more garment of cotton than they are now using would mean millions of bales in additional markets for the cotton industry.

Industry-Wide Benefits
The resulting benefits would not only accrue to cotton farmers but would extend throughout the world's cotton spinning, weaving, finishing, and selling industries. If Communist peoples were also counted, the opportunities might be raised by as much as 50 per cent. With growing populations and rising standards of living general throughout the world—and with market development practices proven by the National Cotton Council in the United States—the opportunity for the American raw cotton industry, is literally as big as the world.

and for 33.85 per cent of the total income in the South Plains. This is in addition to income from the sale of cotton seed and by products.

Grain sorghum ranks second in income with over $11,250,000 gross last year. There are 35 gins in Lamb County in excess of $3,800,000, each employing an average of 24 men during the peak ginning season. There are 1777 farms in the county with an average size of 332 acres. Estimated income per acre is about $17.991 per farm per year.

There are 520,000 acres of tillable land in the county, which has a cotton allotment for 1957 of 203,000 acres to serve an estimated population of more than 24,000 people. It is interesting to note that engineering and research both by the Agricultural Extension Service and private industry have increased the staple length of Lamb County cotton fiber from 26.3-32nds in 1942 to a length of 29.3-32nds of an inch in 1956. Naturally, the greater the fiber length, the larger the income per bale to the farmer.

The ETC estimates that 650 people are employed by the gins in Lamb County; 350 by the compresses, warehouses and oil mill; and 350 more by butane companies, implement dealers, irrigation supply houses and other businesses closely related to the cotton industry.

The TEC also reports that the fall peak agricultural employment impact causes as much as a 100 per cent increase in employment by retail merchants to take care of the increased buying power.

During the peak summer period when cotton chopping is being done, about 2,800 people are employed in the county in addition to the regular farmers and farm operators. Most of this transient, returning for the best season in the fall.

Parents Day was observed at Texas A.M. College on Mother's Day Sunday, May 12. This has been a custom since the school was established.

The Flower Pinning ceremony and the Corps Review are the most outstanding of the ceremonies parents and friend attend each year. At the flower pinning ceremony the mother of the commanding officer of each outfit moves down the ranks and pins a flower on each cadet. Awards that have been earned during the year are also given at this time.

Milltown U.S.A. Built From Cotton Grows Rapidly

Milltown, U.S.A. — what is it like? One such town—a textile manufacturing community—is an "All America."

Laurinburg, North Carolina, shares this title with only ten other cities in the United States. It won the award in competition with 163 cities and towns entered in a national contest sponsored by the National Municipal League and Look magazine.

Four projects brought this recognition: (1) A campaign which raised over three million dollars and resulted in the consolidated Presbyterian College being located in Laurinburg.

(2) A $208,000 addition to Scotland County Memorial Hospital.

(3) A $40,000 swimming pool.

(4) A $2-unit, low-rent housing program, which included extension of a slum clearance project started some years ago.

Collected In The County All of the three million dollars collected in the college drive, the swimming pool money, and $87,000 of a hospital fund were collected from the 9,000 Laurinburg residents and 27,000 inhabitants of Scotland County.

"We were astounded at the way everybody gave. Why some—many—of the people here gave not just a tenth of their income but a tenth of their net worth," reported Ralph D. Sanders, vice president and treasurer of Morgan Cotton Mills, the man who headed the drive for the college funds. Laurinburg's textile industry was an example of the giving. The 2,900 mill employees (there are 3,300 manufacturing employees in the area) contributed $110,000. The mills and mill executives put in more than $880,000. All told, the

Monya Hauk To Graduate From Stephens College Tues.

Columbia, Mo. — Miss Monya Hauk, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elton Hauk of Littlefield, is a candidate for an Associate in Arts degree from Stephens College. Commencement exercises for the 24th graduating class will be held Tuesday morning, May 28, with degrees conferred on approximately 500 candidates by President Thomas A. Spragens.

Mr. and Mrs. Hauk left Wednesday to attend the four-day Commencement program which begins Friday, May 24 with the first of two commencement balls. Traditionally, fathers of graduating seniors are escorts for the occasion. "My Three Angels" is scheduled for weekend performances at the Stephens Playhouse.

The annual honors convocation takes place Saturday morning, followed by an art exhibit and chamber music concert. An aquatic demonstration in the afternoon at the Stephens Lake and a horse show in the evening complete the day.

Baccalaureate services will be held Sunday morning, followed by amount was about 30 per cent of the three million dollars.

Nine Modern Mills Scotland County has nine modern mills with a payroll of over seven million dollars annually.

Growth of the "All America" city has closely followed the rise of the textile industry. In 1940, mill employment was about 1,800. Today it is 2,900. Laurinburg's population was 5,685 in 1940 as compared with about 9,000 today. Cotton accounts for approximately 93 per cent of all the spindles in the United States, with some 22 million cotton spinning spindles in place. Almost 9 per cent of these are located in cotton-producing states.

a commencement luncheon. Music majors and the Burrall Symphony Orchestra will present a senior concert that afternoon. Parents will attend a special Vesper service Sunday evening and then an evening prayer service with the students.

Department open houses and visits with faculty advisers are on Monday's schedule. An Old Missouri Barbecue for male guests only will be held at the Lake Monday afternoon. A reception in the ballroom for women guests will feature a fashion show of Susie Stephens Originals. The evening's musical program, "Annual Encores," concludes pre-Commencement activities. Commencement exercises will be held at 8:30 a.m. Tuesday in the Assembly Hall.

"Little But Mighty" Is Best Name For Cotton Seeds

"Little but mighty" best describes the brown seed found inside the white fiber of the cotton plant.

Separated from the fiber at the gin, cottonseed looks insignificant and nondescript. But changed by the modern miracle of science, the four component parts of the seed—linters, hulls, oil, and kernel—become products which we see and use every day without realizing their origin.

After the fiber is removed at the gin, the seed is covered with a short downy fuzz called "linters." These short tag ends of cotton are made into batting, used for cushioning in mattresses, fur-ture, and automobile seats. They also are spun for use in twines, candlewicks, carpets, and gauze. Linters are composed chiefly of cellulose, a substance needed to make such products as cameras, films, lacquer, dynamite, ammunition, and phonograph records.

Hulls Are Used

What happens to the hulls which encase the kernel? Though they look like waste material, they are far from useless. They are ground into livestock feed, fertilizers, and a sweeping mixture for cleaning floors. Cotton seed hulls serve as the basis for many modern plastic articles, including radio cabinets, vacuum cleaner hoods, and machine parts.

Oil from cottonseed is just as necessary, in a different way, as the rich, black oil that spurts from the earth. One provides fuel for automobiles and engines, while the other provides fuel for the human body. Almost 100 per cent of cottonseed oil is used in nourishing food products such as shortening, cooking oils, salad oils, mayonnaise, and margarine. This oil also is the principal ingredient of a new frozen dessert called "mellorine" which has many qualities of ice cream.

A small amount of cottonseed oil also goes into the manufacture of washing powder, paints, linoleum, oilcloth, and artificial leather used for upholstering and book binding.

The dry substance left when the oil is squeezed from the cottonseed kernel is called "meal." This meal makes an excellent feed for livestock, for it is rich in protein that builds strong hardy animals. Rich in nitrogen as well as protein, meal also is used as a fertilizer. It is especially suited for tobacco, truck, orchard, and nursery crops, and for lawns.

Although used mainly as an animal or plant food, cottonseed meal has been put to use in human nutrition. A flour developed from cottonseed is extremely high in protein and Vitamin B content while virtually starch-free. Its greatest present use is in health breads for people requiring starch-free diets.

As time goes by, science continues to find ways to put to use what otherwise might be useless—and the little seed of the cotton plant is destined to become even mightier.

Lumbering is America's oldest industry.

'You Can't Beat This 'Cotton Pickin' Country For A Place To Live

... and that includes not only Lamb County, but all others in the 45,000 square mile area in Kansas, Oklahoma, Texas and New Mexico where I serve the electrical needs.

We can sure do some Texas braggin'.

For instance, I serve four of the top eleven cotton producing counties in the whole United States.

And in Texas, this area includes seven of the top ten counties in total agricultural revenue, and in neighboring New Mexico four of top six counties in total agriculture revenue are in the area I serve.

Of course, there is a reason for this. The Texas and New Mexico area has one sixth of this Nation's irrigated land.

This section of the country has other things to give it diversity, and add to the stability. Of all the oil reserves in the United States, one eighth is located here, plus 95% of the Nation's potash, and 50% of the carbon black.

This adds up to a good place to live for all businesses. All of these factors have brought the retail sales in this area to 20% above that of the national average.

You can't beat this 'cotton pickin' country for a place to live, and I'm proud to be a part of it and serve your electrical needs.

Cotton Fabric Work Speeds

An electronic "brain" has speeded up calculations on one phase of cotton fabric research by 20 years.

More than two miles of cotton fabric, a research team of five men—plus the "brain"—succeeded in determining just how cotton fabric reacts when made wrinkle resistant by each of the six major resins in common use.

This sort of research enabled textile technologists to learn also which chemicals contribute most to such properties as tear strength, wrinkle resistance, and durability.

The four resins tested—which, by the way, have been responsible for the wrinkle-resistant treatment of billions of yards of fabric—are urea formaldehyde, melamine formaldehyde, modified melamine and modified urea. For the first time these have been thoroughly compared in 215 variations of formulation.

According to Dr. Leonard Smith, director of the National Cotton Council's utilization research division, results of the tests conducted by the American Cyanamid Company showed that the highest initial wrinkle resistance is added to cotton by ethylene urea and the least by urea formaldehyde.

Cotton Farming Is Mechanized

If you've had the slightest contact with the American mule, you know one thing for sure. Pushing the long-eared creature around isn't an easy job.

Yet that is exactly what is happening today in the Cotton Belt. The mule is being pushed off cotton farms at a rapid club by a mechanical monster—the tractor. Since 1940, more than two and a half million workstock have disappeared from the Cotton Belt, and a million tractors have taken their place.

Substitution of tractors for workstock has run a large part of its course, the National Cotton Council reports. Only on small farms, primarily in the Southeast, is the substitution running into difficulty. Even so, it is estimated that 90 per cent of the land preparation, 60 per cent of the planting, and 80 per cent of the cultivation in the Southeast are presently done with tractors.

Elsewhere in the Belt, the replacement of workstock is vir-

Problems To Be Solved

Despite such progress, complete mechanization of cotton still has a long way to go. Problems must be solved, and needs must be filled in order for the industry to lower production costs and improve the quality of cotton.

Such factors are pointed to as ways of easing the cost-price squeeze for growers and as a means of improving the competitive position of the commodity.

An outstanding need is to supplement hand methods of weed control with mechanical and chemical techniques. When developed successfully, such techniques would perhaps replace as much as 50 per cent of the labor now associated with weed control. They are potentially applicable to probably 85 per cent of the crop.

Another need is development of cottons that are better adapted to mechanization while at the same time retaining the desirable characteristics of high yields and high quality. Plant breeders are searching for a variety of cotton better suited to precision planting and culture and to machine harvest ing.

Mechanization calls for detailed planning to coordinate cotton farming practices. In order to reap fully the benefits of mechanization, the grower must mold production practices into a smooth package.

Egri was born in New York City in 1913 and lived in New York until 1941. His father, Lojos Egri, whose book "The Art of Dramatic Writing" has become a classic in its field, encouraged his three small children to paint and draw. As a result he found he had three talented youngsters who regularly through their childhood attracted the interest of the press in their growing art ability.

Family Show Held
In 1947 the RoKo Gallery in New York had a group show called "The Three Egri's show." His sister, now living in Wilmington, Del., has won four first prizes and one purchase award in the past two years. His brother is a successful commercial artist in New York.

In 1941 Egri worked in Washington, D.C. for the government then volunteered for the Navy and spent two years on a command ship in the Pacific Southwest in charge of the hydrographic department, making invasion maps.

After the war he studied with Ozenfant and Hoffman and then taught in the Kansas City Art Institute for two years, going abroad one summer to study and sketch in Europe. He came to Taos in 1950 and has remained there ever since, expending his interest in sculpture and participating actively in the very active art colony.

Had Wide Schooling
Egri has attended the following schools: Master Institute of Rorich Museum, New York City, three years, studying under Howard Gile, head of school, studying dynamic symmetry; the Duncan Phillips Memorial Gallery Art School, Washington, D.C., under Wm. Calfe, sculptor-instructor; Ozenfant School of Art, New York City, under Amadeo Ozenfant, instructor; the Hens Hoffman School of Art, New York Provincestown, Mass.; and the Taos Valley Art School, Taos, N.M., Louis Ribak, instructor.

In the teaching field Egri has the following record: Kansas City Art Institute, two years, teaching classes in oil painting and life drawing, 150 students three times a week; 1948-50; Taos Artist Association sketch classes, two months sessions in 1953-55; Master course Philbrook Art Center, Tulsa, Oklahoma, 1956; and privately with the very young and with adults work with FFA youngsters in summer camp-craft.

Wins Many Honors
His awards and honors are many, among them the purchase of an oil painting, "Street Scene" for the Wm. Rockhill Nelson Art Museum, Kansas City, Mo., now in its "Contemporary American Painting" Collection. Other honors include the purchase prize for drawing "Gesture" by and for the Museum of New Mexico and such awards as those from the Audubon Artists' A. L. Friedman Award, ACA Gallery Exhibition Mulvane Museum, Topeka Kansas; membership in the Audubon Artists and Brooklyn Society of Artists the seventh Exhibition of Graphic Arts in New Mexico State Fair Art Exhibition.

He has participated in invitational shows in Denver, Colo., Colorado Springs, University of Illinois, Museum of New Mexico, Philbrook Art Center, Santa Barbara Museum of Art, Kansas City Art Institute, Pea and Palette Gallery La Galeria Escondido and Ruins Group Gallery.

National Winner
In his sculptural work Egri has been judged the winner of national competition for the decoration of the facade of the new Jewish Community Center, Scranton, Pa.; and commissioned to do a metal figure for a home in Tulsa, Oklahoma, and a metal and stone grave marker for the grave of painter Victor Higgins in the cemetery in Taos, N.M.

Mrs. C. A. Powell, Jr., 3609 41st St., is chairman for the 1957 Painting Workshop. All inquiries and reservation for the three week session should be directed to her at SW17 9-2156. Fee schedules are $27.50 for all adults, with $10 de-

Members of The Art Club of Littlefield have attended the four previous workshops sponsored by the South Plains Art Guild. Several members plan to attend this year's workshop. Other artists in the county will also take advantage of the opportunity of studying with the artist.

Cotton's Lucky Symbol Is Twin

The cotton industry has found its own symbol for good luck. Instead of a four-leaf clover, it is a single seed with twin cotton plants growing out of it.

One of the twins will likely be a rare fatherless plant called a "haploid." Cotton breeders at the Delta Branch Experiment Station, Stoneville, Miss., report that they have found a way to use this freak cotton seed twin as a practical tool to develop better cottons.

A haploid seed has just one set of chromosomes—half the normal number—handed down from the mother. It has none of the set a male parent normally supplies, and is incapable of sexual reproduction.

Chromosomes Duplicated
By treating haploid seedlings with a drug, Plant Breeder J. R.

Meyer at the Stoneville station caused them to duplicate their single sets of chromosomes, thus matching the number in a normal plant. The result: vigorous doubled haploid plants which breed true—and which can be used to breed into our cottons certain desirable characters of lint strength and length, early flowering, tall prolificacy, and leaf smoothness.

In upland cotton, haploids may occur in one seed out of a million, or possibly less often. Being weak, they rarely survive in the field, and about the only place they are to be seen is in a germinator where seeds are being sprouted. So far, only a score of freak seedlings have come into the hands of scientists who would like to continue research on them. So scientists hope both salesmen and cotton breeders will keep a lookout for them.

$22 million worth of diamonds were sold in U. S. last year.

FARM LABORER IN HAND

Miguel Rendon, a farm laborer of Sudan, severed his hand and thumb of his right tractor accident. He is in the Medical Arts Hospital, Littlefield.

Some 3,200 U. S. held national convention. The average convention stays 4 days, spend $10 per day.

New electronic methods keep constant check on all freight cars moving over Santa Fe rails

New electronic wonders are contributing to precision railroading on the Santa Fe.

Take freight car locating, for instance. With our Red Ball service, we can "put the finger" any time on any one of many thousands of freight cars moving over the 13,150 miles of Santa Fe rails every day.

Information on these cars is recorded on cards which are fed into electronic machines. These "electronic brains" process the cards as fast as 2,000 per minute—and tell us within a few seconds where every car is, what it contains, where it is going.

This information is immediately available for our customers. Shippers of produce may take advantage of any changing market conditions and divert their shipments while en route to other points where markets may be more favorable.

With this advice, consignees know in advance the time of arrival of their shipments. This facilitates their plans for delivery of shipments or scheduling of production.

This method of locating freight cars is only one of the many electronic tools now employed by Santa Fe. Some of the others are microwave, two-way radio, and supersonic rail detectors.

Something new in the science of railroading is a daily objective on the Santa Fe—the railroad that's always on the move toward a better way.

Insects Cost Billions . . . .

Insects and rodents inflict damage to the crops of the United States that cost growers about $4,000,000,000 a year, according to Department of Agriculture experts, despite the existing of improved and highly effective insecticides and poisons.

This is a surprising figure and is seemingly large enough to spur all growers of crops to avail themselves of all available methods of control. Scientific research has developed chemicals that are wonder-workers in their control of insects, including those that carry disease and those that devour plants and their fruit.

Gradually, the crop growers are becoming convinced that greater profits from growing things comes to those who take advantage of what modern science has done to make possible the protection of crops from pests of all kinds.

Highlights and Sidelights From Your State Capitol

By VERN SANFORD
Texas Press Association

AUSTIN, Tex.—Laws are fine so long as they have no teeth in them.

Apparently that's the feeling of 74 members of the Texas House of Representatives.

At least that's the way they voted as they came down the home stretch to final adjournment.

House members had their best opportunity to express their opinions about putting teeth in Texas laws when Senate Bill 55 by Sen. Preston Smith came up for House consideration.

Previously it had passed the Senate with flying colors; it was given a "do pass" recommendation by the House State Affairs Committee; and it carried Gov. Price Daniel's endorsement.

SB-55 pertained to publication laws. But only to laws already on the statute books. Specifically only those laws ignored by those public officials who dislike to report their activities to the home folks.

No new public notices were called for in the bill. All SB-55 did was strengthen existing laws. It merely pin-pointed WHO was responsible for printing public notices . . . so that the people might be informed.

Present laws provide that any public official who flatly refuses to follow the requirements of existing laws shall be subject to a fine or removal from office. That's already on the statute books. But Texas laws fail to designate specifically WHO is responsible.

The new bill was even more considerate than existing laws . . .

for it even allowed for delays due to oversights or plain carelessness.

Actually SB-55 applied only to those public officials who intentionally violated the law. It required numerous "warnings." I would therefore affect only those public officials whose attitude was "The public be damned, I'll spend their money as I please. I'll tell the people only what I want them to know."

SB-55 was one of the BETTER GOVERNMENT bills proposed by the Texas Press Association. House sponsor was Rep. John R. Lee of Kermit, Texas.

The vote was 74 against and 56 for the bill.

We think the public is entitled to know the names of those who voted in their interest.

Although in the minority these Representatives fought to open public records to public view. They made a sincere effort to tighten Texas laws against further secrecy in governmental operations.

5th GRAVESTONES—Apparently lead for this session are these issues.

Law Enforcement Commission: Governor Daniel's plan for a "super grand jury" for investigating crime and official misconduct.

Reform Bills: (1) Prohibiting attorneys from appearing before state boards for a fee; and (2) eliminating the automatic delay of lawsuits when a legislator is hired as an attorney.

Four Year College: Making senior colleges at Arlington State College at Arlington, Texas; Midwestern at Wichita Falls, and John Tarleton at Stephenville.

New York and Chicago post-offices account for 15 per cent of total postal revenue.

55th MILESTONES—These measures were out in the waning day of the session:

General Appropriations: An all time high budget of $2,090,000,000 for the next two years was approved. It included salary raises for state employees.

Teacher Pay: Both the House and the Senate approved measures to raise teachers' salaries.

Higher Pensions: Both houses okayed a proposed constitutional amendment upping the amount the state can spend on public welfare each year to $47,000,000. I approved by the voters it will bring a $10 monthly increase in the old folks' checks.

Congressional Redistricting: In a redistricting bill the legislators abolished the Congressman-at-Large post now occupied by Martin Dies and gave Harris County (Houston) a second congressman. They also juggled around eight other districts and divided Harris County into two districts.

Urban Renewal: Approved was a slum-clearance bill which would allow cities to condemn blighted areas for redevelopment by priv-

Sandhill Philosopher Has New Surplus Crop Idea

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm has a new idea for the farm surplus problem, but outside of saying it's new, that's about all you can say for it.

Dear editor:

Now that the Soil Bank has about gone busted, at least I read in a paper last night that Congress has decided it should close up after this year and be written off as a failure, and now that Sen. Benson has declared that it is virtually impossible to control farm production and now that the drought is over in many sections of the country and a bumper crop is in prospect, the problem of a farm surplus once more is coming to the front and the door is now open for new ideas on its solution.

According to Mr. Benson, a "technological explosion" has taken place on the farm, due to machinery, and the production per farm worker has doubled in the last 15 years, which makes the problem of surpluses worse than ever.

Now while it may be true production per worker has doubled in the last 15 years on the average, I'd like to point out in passing that this is no average farm out here, and if my production is any better now than it was 15 years ago, I can't tell it.

But as far as the solution to the farm surplus problem, I hate to see Mr. Benson give up, and would like to offer an idea.

The trouble with us farmers is, we aren't style conscious. How far would the car manufacturers get if they brought out the same model cars year after year? The inside of the engine doesn't have to be any different, it still uses gas, oil and water, but if the windshield and the back fenders and the height of the top weren't changed from year to year, no body would feel all over about driving a car 10 years old and how many new cars would be sold?

But what does a farmer do goes right on raising the same style wheat or rice or cotton or potatoes or beans been raising for generations? Actually like a basket of wheat Pharaoh farmed the Nile and in the shade of a pyramid man with a warehouse full of cotton has the same style of the cotton farmers will lose market with this year.

Farmers just haven't caught to the fact people are style-conscious. Why some people are smart they could get to change bathtubs every year they had bathtub styles, automobile shows and cars, a swept back fender, things they could get where they wouldn't be causing a last year's sink.

The agricultural experts to get to work on this idea, only way to get rid of the surplus is to make last year's crop as out-of-date as a car that is not enough for a man to get without knocking his hat off.

Yours faithfully
J. A.

Clovis To Celebrate 50th Anniversary June 7-8

CLOVIS, N.M. — A bit of Americana unfolded in terms of 50 years of progress will be the central theme of Clovis' Golden Anniversary Celebration to be held here June 7-8.

A full schedule of events capped by three days of rodeo competition are included in completed plans for the gala occasion, all of them designed to depict a little of the old in contrast to the new as they unfold in rapid-fire succession.

Some of the main events in the two-day celebration include a mammoth parade, a free barbecue, an old-fashioned style review presenting fashions from the Gay 50's to the flapper era of the Roar'n' 20's, two "Fly-In" breakfasts for private plane operators and programs starring nationally known entertainers such as The Commodores from Arthur Godfrey's TV show.

Thrills galore are assured the spectators at the rodeo as Butler & Morgan, famed rodeo producers from Elk City, Oklahoma, bring some of the finest rodeo stock in the nation to Clovis for a three-day show which promises to be one of the best held in the Southwest this season.

Ken Boen, nationally renowned rodeo clown from Fort Smith, Arkansas, will be on hand with several of his specialty acts which received prominent publicity at the 1956 World Championship Rodeo in New York's Madison Square Garden. Nightly performances at the Mounted Patrol Arena are slated for 7:30 on June 7, 8, and 9; and the RCA approved event figures to attract top names competitors from throughout the country.

New Uses Sought For Seed Products

Technological advances are offering the cotton industry more and more opportunities for expanded use of cottonseed products.

Possible new uses include a basis for lubricants, a confectioner's coating, and a high protein concentrate for use in rations for chickens, turkeys, and swine.

Today's cottonseed processors are trying to improve cottonseed oil through improved processing methods. More attention is given to refining losses, color, and quality maintenance. Important factors in meal, quality during processing, for instance, are protein solubility, gossypol content, appearance, and degree of heating.

A large potential market for cottonseed meal exists in cotton-producing states. Through research, cottonseed meal has been made suitable for feeding to laying hens and swine. Adoption of improved methods developed through research will make such meals available on a much larger scale.

Vancouver, Wash. They plan to spend most of the summer there and in Oregon visiting another daughter and their youngest son, Joe D. Mr. and Mrs. Greer made the trip by train week before last.

Why We Sell Poppies?

By Cooper T. Holt
Commander-in-Chief, V.F.W.

Somewhere in a Veterans Administration hospital or Soldiers Home a disabled veteran laboriously puts together a few hundred Buddy Poppies and receives a small wage for his efforts — in the throes of V.F.W. comradeship become a little tighter.

At Eaton Rapids, Michigan, a small orphan child romps in play — and the Buddy Poppy takes on a brighter glow.

Prior to each Memorial Day thousands of Americans walk the streets proudly wearing Buddy Poppies in their coat lapels — an America's concern for her disabled veterans and their dependent children comes more sharply into focus.

In these and a thousand other ways, the V.F.W. Buddy Poppy has come to symbolize the basic and traditional reasons for existence of a closely knit organization of overseas veterans. Because of their efforts each year members of the Veterans of Foreign Wars and its Ladies Auxiliary can readily say, "We have not forgotten."

Not all members of an organization can take an active part in its everyday programs, but there is a certain need — and a dramatic opportunity — for every member to make a contribution to the annual V.F.W. Buddy Poppy sale. The average member's obligations stem not only from his interest in our organization but from a basic duty which should be close to his heart. As an overseas veteran he should remember — even when others may temporarily forget.

Disabled veterans and their dependents constitute one of the tragic aftermaths of every war. For them the war never ends. For many of them, the ordinary comforts and luxuries of life are denied. Their problems go on interminably from day to day — and our obligations to them continue year after year. To meet our obligations to our less fortunate comrades and their dependents, the Veterans of Foreign Wars has for thirty-six consecutive years conducted the annual sale of Buddy Poppies. Millions of dollars have been raised and wisely used — but the job is never finished. In 1957 there is a greater need than ever for the dedicated efforts of all of our members.

I hope that this year will mark a re-evaluation of our efforts to increase the sale of Buddy Poppies. It is a job which cannot be coped with by a few dedicated critics. Surely, every member can donate some time and effort — those who cannot actually take part in the street sales can offer their ears, or act as baby sitters, or others who may wish to participate. Certainly the obligation rests on all of us. The best results are obtained where there is complete cooperation between Post and Auxiliary members.

My frequent visits to Veterans Administration hospitals give me an insight into the results being accomplished through the proceeds of the annual sale of Buddy Poppies.

It is one thing to take emulous satisfaction in knowing that your Post and Auxiliary are providing entertainment for these disabled veterans. But it is more satisfying to know that you have made a direct contribution, which every member can do by assisting in some way to promote a bigger and better Buddy Poppy sale.

Hundreds of V.F.W. Posts and Auxiliaries have already increased their Buddy Poppy orders for the 1957 Memorial Day sale. Window posters have been placed in prominent display windows. Newspapers and radio stations are telling the Buddy Poppy story, and workers have been recruited and assigned. The final results will depend on the number of workers on the streets and the enthusiasm

Cultural Practices Aid Weed and Grass Fight

Weeds and grass in cotton can be given a real setback, say Fred Elliott, extension cotton specialist, by the use of rotary hoes, lateral oiling with post-emergence naphtha oils and spot sowing Johnson grass.

Last year farmers saved more than $15,000,000 in their fight against weeds by using these three practices and the savings in 1957 can be much greater because of improved moisture conditions.

If the average V.F.W. and Auxiliary member looks with pride at the V.F.W. National Home for orphans of veterans, how much greater will be his pride if he has contributed directly to its welfare and support? It is well to remember that one cent from the sale of every Buddy Poppy goes to the National Home at Eaton Rapids, Mich.

If the average V.F.W. member likes to believe one of his former comrades in a far-away state receives counsel, advice and assistance when he may need it — that belief will be more firmly implanted if he makes a direct contribution to the nationwide rehabilitation program of the V.F.W. To that great program goes two and one-half cents from the sale of each Buddy Poppy.

As the time approaches for the 1957 Memorial Day sale of V.F.W. Buddy Poppies, we sincerely hope every member will offer whatever talents and services he may render. No Buddy Poppy sale has ever failed when Post and Auxiliary members have responded to their responsibilities.

The V.F.W. National Home, the V.F.W. rehabilitation program and all other similar programs will prosper and serve to the degree our members provide the funds. The Buddy Poppy offers a golden opportunity — "to honor the dead by helping the living."
—V.F. Magazine

pending on the rate of travel.

Seeding cotton is highly resistant to post-emergence oils but injury will result after the bark begins to form. Elliott says to apply the naphtha oil with tractor mounted shoes, using two fan-type nozzles, one on either side of the row and staggered and kept at least five inches from the cotton. Three applications made at 7 to 10 day intervals can be used provided the cotton plants have not begun to form true bark.

For best results with lateral oiling, he says the seed bed should be smooth. The first application should be made when the weeds are in the seedling stage or up to three inches high but not until grass appears. The spray should be calibrated and carefully adjusted on a smooth surface and checked regularly after the operation begins. When oiling and cultivating at the same time, cultivate shallow and in wet weather lighten the tractor by removing unnecessary weight and get into the field before the weeds get too large.

The rotary hoe, he says, is a triple purpose implement. butter and canned soup.
A pair of earnest Texas gentlemen worthy of the name, Travis County District Judge Charles O.
Botts and Ronnie Allred, Jr., of Bowie, are working hardest to clean up the insurance mess in our state. Allred is a man whose name continues to come up in connection with efforts to get to the bottom of the scandals involving the insurance industry and the Texas Insurance Commission. You may remember that he was summarily dismissed by the Board of Insurance Commissioners because of his insistence two years ago that things were not going as they should. Appointed already this year as Special Attorney to the Receiver in both the U. S. Trust and ICT cases, Allred now has been appointed to the same office in a total of 27 receivership cases pending in Judge Botts' court.
Judge Botts cut off the Insurance Commission's authority over these receiverships.
Allred now has the power to exercise a great amount of good in straightening out the insurance industry and restoring public faith in that area of state governmental policy. These two men, an attorney sworn to uphold the law and a fighting judge who refuses to sit back and watch which way the political ball bounces, deserve
the respect of the people of Texas.

One of the ironies of this session was made apparent during the past week in the passage of two measures concerning penalties for and licensing of teen-age drivers. One bill makes the juveniles liable for traffic violations;
the other changes the procedure
by which they obtain driving licenses. There is nothing wrong with either of these bills, probably, but the irony arises out of the fact that the legislature had an opportunity to pass a driver education program which would have fitted right into the operations of our schools and which would have better equipped our teen-age drivers to avoid accidents and penalties.

Farmers Face Big Issues In Wheat Ballot

Farmers have two issues to decide in the June 20 wheat referendum, according to Doyle Turner, Chairman, Lamb County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee. The first issue is whether marketing quotas will be in effect, carrying with them penalties on "excess" wheat from farms (with more than 15 acres of wheat harvested as grain) on which the allotment is exceeded. The second issue is the level of the available price support.

A two-thirds favorable vote is required to approve wheat marketing quotas. Once quotas are approved, penalties for production in excess of the farm's quota are in effect for all farms in commercial wheat states which harvest over 15 acres of wheat for grain. The farm quota is generally all the wheat produced on the acreage allotment. Under quotas, also, price support on the 1958 wheat crop will be available at a minimum national average of $1.78 per bushel to those farmers who are in compliance with their farm allotments.

Turner explains that if more than one-third of the voters disapprove quotas, there will be no marketing quotas and no penalties for excess production. However, acreage allotments will remain in effect in the commercial area, and the price support will be available at 50 per cent of parity to those farmers who comply with their allotments. Wheat marketing quotas and acreage allotments operate only in the 25 states designated as "commercial" wheat States, which include Texas. States must have allotments of more than 25,000 acres of wheat to rate as a commercial wheat State.

First Cotton Called "Vegetable Lambs"

Knowledge comes with age and experience.

There's the story of the city-bred six-year-old who took a fancy to a prize sheep at the Texas State Fair. She patted the animal on its head and called, "Mama, come quick. Come feel. He's all covered with cotton."

Of course, the child was wrong. But so he was not any more wrong than were early European travelers who first saw cotton growing in ancient Asia. They came home with tales of strange "vegetable lambs" growing on trees. The news of this amazing "tree wool" was the first knowledge Europeans had of the fluffy white fiber now called "cotton."

Water weighs 8.3 pounds per gallon, alcohol only 6.7. Maybe that's why it goes to the head so easily.

When it comes to annual end of school outings and school bus accidents, members of the Freshman class of Sudan high must feel jinxed following the bus accident Friday when the group was returning from their annual end of school educational trip and outing at Lubbock.

Seems some of the students have been involved in two other bus accidents in recent years and this is the third year for bad luck to befall the group on their annual trips to Lubbock.

When the class members were 6th grade students Don Kuykendall received a broken arm at the end of school trip. When making their eighth grade excursion Freda Meeks suffered a broken arm.

Twenty three students and five mothers were in the bus which overturned near Shallwater when hit by a car attempting to pass it, Edgar Chance, class sponsor, was driving the bus.

The group had picniced at the McKenzie Park and toured the Avalanche Journal.

Minor cuts and bruises were reported with Chance receiving a cut on the arm requiring medical attention.

Mrs. Bill Sterr, one of the mothers accompanying the group, was hospitalized in the Amherst hospital with a leg injury.

We're Old Fashioned About The COTTON INDUSTRY

We're just plain old-fashioned when it comes to the Cotton Industry. And by old-fashioned we mean that we like to "scratch the back that scratches ours." And that is exactly what the cotton industry means to those of us that live on the Plains.

Did you know that everytime you purchase Mellorine, Oleo, or Vegetable Shortening you are using cotton products, and that you benefit the cotton industry . . . almost as much as you do when you buy cotton garments for yourself and your family.

You will always find these products on the shelf at your friendly Piggly-Wiggly Store . . . at prices that you can afford.

First Cottonseed Price $5 Per Ton
 Before the development of the cottonseed crushing industry, cot-tontseed other than planting seed had no cash value. Small quantities were used for fertilizer and fed to livestock. Raw cottonseed however, are of limited value as a livestock feed. Most seed were left at the gins for the latter to dispose of in any way they could.
 The first price reported for cottonseed was $3.00 per ton in 1880. This price was paid, however, only at a low Mississippi River points, from which seed could be readily transported to the few mills then in existence.
 As markets for cottonseed products were developed and transportation facilities improved, the number of mills increased and the quantity and value of seed crushing rose steadily. Cottonseed became the third leading source of cash income in the cotton states, being exceeded in value only by cotton lint and tobacco.
