OIL ACTIVITY

In view of the oil activity in the Morton section, many people will be interested in reading an editorial which appeared in the January 3 issue of the Portales Valley News.

The editorial, which appeared under the caption, "Much Development for 1935," read as follows:

"Indications are that there will be much developments during 1935 in different lines.

"In the oil line there will be a great extension of drilling over a wide territory.

"The oil storage is lower than it has been for many years, and at this time the storage is being drawn from storage to meet the immediate needs of the nation. In proven fields many wells are going down, and there is a move for an extensive wildcatting operation in an effort to discover new fields.

"The News understands that the major oil companies will assist in the development of new fields. It has been a number of years since they have joined in this development.

"Roosevelt county is in line to participate in this development, and The News predicts that within the next 60 or 90 days there will be a number of rigs erected in various parts of the county.

"Over in DeBaca county arrangements are now being made to resume drilling in the McAdo well. In the past week several truck loads of materials have been delivered to this location. The Claudell Development company test 32 miles southwest of Portales is steadily drilling, with the expectation of striking pay in the near future.

"Down in Chaves county is what is known as the three county corner area, there is a prospect of three or more wells going down.

"Prospects for great development in Roosevelt county during 1935 looks good at this time."

CHILD LABOR AMENDMENT

One of the national amendments that seems to be dead of sleeping its last sleep, is the so-called Child Labor Amendment. That amendment may be just the thing in the manufacturing centers to keep child labor from competing with adults, but in the farming centers, it is a political folly. It is coming to a pretty pickle when our farmers cannot use their own children under 14 on their own farms without being nabbed by a government spy. —Terry County Herald.

YEAR 1934 SUCCESSFUL YEAR WITH SOUTHWESTERN LIFE INSURANCE CO.

The year 1934 just closed has been a successful one from a local standpoint as well as one with the Southwestern Life Insurance Company on a whole according to Arthur Mueller, local representative, who states that "the confidence of the insuring public is reflected in the splendid increase in business in force, and business paid for during the past year. The company's Thirty-second Annual Statement vividly verifies this fact."

"As local representative, I wish to express my appreciation to all who so generously saw fit to buy their insurance from the Southwestern Life, and I assure you it will be a pleasure to be of further assistance and render service to all policy holders so far as possible."

Of all the indices of Texas business conditions, perhaps none offers more definite and specific proof of progress than the annual statement of a large life insurance company which for thirty-two years has done business in every nook and corner of Texas, but which writes no insurance outside of Texas. Such a company is the Southwestern Life of Dallas. It is reported to be the largest United States company operating in only one state. By reporting an increase of more than fifteen millions insurance in force during 1934, the first substantial gain since 1930, this Texas institution offers significant evidence of business improvement in Texas.

A record of the Company's size for the past five years writes the history of the depression. Up to the end of 1929, the Southwestern had made large gains annually for many years, having doubled in size during the previous six years. Early in 1930 lapses and surrenders began to be felt, and the gain during that year was small—approximately one-third of that for 1929. On December 31, 1931 the Company had less insurance in force than it had at the beginning of the year. The next year, 1932, generally conceded to be the worst for nearly all lines of business, proved the most difficult for Texas policyholders. Notwithstanding the production of thirty-seven millions of new insurance by the Company's agents, the total volume in force fell off more than fourteen millions. Recovery commenced in 1933 when a gain of fifteen millions for 1934 has just been announced in the annual report to policyholders of President C. F. O'Donnell.

A comparison of the annual statement for 1929 and 1934 reveals some interesting changes in the company's investment practice, due to the introduction by the New Deal of its Government lending agencies. Prior to 1930 the Southwestern Life found a ready outlet for its reserves and surplus funds in the mortgage loan field, and 55 per cent of its assets were invested in loans on Texas farms and city property. At the end of 1934 only 36 per cent of its assets were in mortgages, while the bond item had increased from 8 per cent to 22 per cent.

The tendency toward increasing liquidity is revealed in the larger proportion of cash and United States Government bonds, now more than five millions, or approximately 12 per cent of all assets, as compared to 8 per cent at the end of 1929. While the normal income of a legal reserve life insurance company far exceeds its normal disbursements, the companies have been called upon in recent years to meet heavy withdrawals of policy reserves or "cash values." Many millions of dollars have been loaned to Texas citizens on the security of their policies, and doubtless many a business and family budget has been saved by these emergency funds.

President O'Donnell says that the demand for policy loans has been steadily decreasing, however, and the life companies are turning again to long-term investments. With gradual retirement of the Federal Government from the real estate business, the companies are anticipating an improved demand for first mortgages. Properly selected Texas mortgage loans have given a good account of themselves during the depression. The Southwestern Life's figures for 1934 reveal that interest collected on real estate loans during the year yielded a return of six per cent on a total investment of more than sixteen millions. Since organization in 1903, the Company has loaned approximately forty-six millions to Texas citizens on Texas real estate.

SECOND INSTALLMENT

SYNOPSIS .... "Prelude" .... "Love Lightly." Mrs. Church warned gently, and Ellen wondered why? Posing for her talented mother, first as a new baby, then a bubbling child, then a charming young girl, Ellen had lived always in a make-believe land of beauty. Of the outside world her knowledge was meagre. At 17 years of age, posing in a garden, Ellen at last is learning the story of her mother's broken life, the stolen kiss, marriage—then years of loneliness, waiting for the husband to return. Mrs. Church is now telling Ellen of the father. . . . GO ON WITH THE STORY:

"Your father was away when I made my discovery. He'd been away for several weeks on something that he called a 'big deal.' I was expecting him home the very night that I saw the doctor, and I planned to tell him all about you, at once. So I sat in the garden and waited for him, and watched for his train. And finally I saw it—the train that should have brought him to me—sweep across the valley below the house. I saw it stop at the station, and I saw it go on again. And I waited, with my soul full of the news I had to tell—I waited to give him the tidings of his son (for I thought, darling, that you were going to be a boy!) but he didn't come, although I waited all of that night. . . . And the next day, when I got the message that told me he wasn't coming back, ever, I went upstairs, and into my room and locked the door. And I sat down and began to knit a blue sweater for you. And I whistled, hard, as I knitted. I haven't whistled since—and I certainly never whistled before, Ellen! That's why, I guess, you were a girl. . . . A boy wouldn't have had any use for a mother who whistled so badly. . . . A boy—"

All at once Ellen's mother had stopped talking. Her voice had dwindled away into a funny, tragic silence. And Ellen saw her face go oddly white, felt her hand go chill and limp.

It was then that Ellen, starting to her feet, saw her mother's head sag forward.

"I'm going for the doctor," she sobbed. "Your chest. . . . Is it your heart, darling? Is it—?" Ellen's mother had rallied. Her smile was less wan than it had been. "My heart?" questioned Ellen's mother. "Oh, nonsense! Indigestion, no doubt. Something I—"even then she managed a trifle of gaiety, something I ate as a child, no doubt! I'm quite well, now. . . ."

It didn't occur to Ellen in the weeks that passed to ask her mother for the details of what had happened to her father. In her mind she had a vivid impression of some major calamity—of a train wreck or an automobile disaster. Only a calamity could have kept her father from her mother at such a time, she was sure!

And then, perhaps a month later, the special delivery letter arrived. It was the boy from the post office who brought the letter. Because her mother was at work she had signed for it, and dismissed the boy, before she spoke to the woman who painted so absently.

"It's a letter," she said, "a special delivery for you. I guess it's about the drawing you sent away last week. We were expecting some word."

With a start, her mother came back from the land of her own creation, to reality. With listless hands she took the envelope from her daughter, and slit it open. Ellen watched her mother idly—so idly that at first she could scarcely believe what her eyes were seeing! For, as she stood watching, she saw her mother change completely and dreadfully. More dreadfully than she had changed on that other day, weeks before. In a moment she saw a lovely white-haired woman become a broken, shrivelled, parchment-checked figure.

"You're ill!" Ellen cried, as she started forward. "Was there bad news in the letter? You're upset—"

But when the answer came it wasn't an answer. For Ellen's mother her hand pressed to her breast, was rising. And as she rose to her feet, she was looking beyond Ellen. She swayed slightly—and then, as if she couldn't help it, she sat down again. But her voice was steady, though toneless, when she spoke.

"It's that indigestion, I guess," she said gaspingly. And then—Bring me my check book dear."

Ellen didn't speak. She sensed a desperation in that toneless voice, a need of hurry. Turning, she ran into the house, scampered to the desk where the check book lay. She brought it, and a fountain pen and stationery, to her mother, and watched as her mother's shaking hand wrote a check—wrote it to what, in Ellen's knowledge of the household finances, was an alarming amount. It was only after the check was carefully made out to a strange name and as carefully blotted, that the woman spoke again.

"Ellen," she said, "dear. Get your hat and take this at once to the post office in the village. And send it special delivery, and register it!"

Ellen, in the face of her mother's tragic hurry, couldn't quite grasp the seriousness of the letter. Her mother's sudden illness seemed so much more important.

"Too bad I didn't ask the boy to wait," she said. "He could just as well have taken a letter back."

"I couldn't have trusted it to anyone else, this letter! You'd have had to take it anyway. . . . And I'm glad, remember that always Ellen!—that it is just about all the money I have. I'm utterly grateful that there was enough. And—I don't want a doctor. I'm not ill. I'm never ill. . . ."

She rose again. She turned heavily away, toward the house. And Ellen, with no other word, but clutching the envelope, went out of the garden and started toward. She walked so fast that she didn't have time to think of anything. But she reached the post office with a good margin of minutes, and followed her mother's instructions soberly, and started back home.

The way back led past the doctor's square white house. He wasn't in. But she left a message with the doctor's aged housekeeper—who eyed her with a frank curiosity—and hurried on.

"Mother'll be cross," she told herself, as she scuffed her feet along in the dust of the road—"because I've asked the doctor to stop by. But she can't go on, having these funny spells! I wonder who the letter was from?"

The letter! Ellen couldn't help being curious about it—couldn't help feeling that it held the elements of mystery. It didn't, of that she was sure, relate to business, for what business dealings could have to do with such a large check? It must be something strange and ominous. It might almost go back across the years to her father. And yet. . .

The house lay in the last light of the setting sun, it was her world. Its four walls bounded all of her life, and her childhood, and her fragile store of experience. It was her home—surrounded by her garden.

Down the path she went, with its border of fading beauty, and in through the wide open door. In the hallway she paused a moment before a dim mirror and automatically fluffed her hair. Suddenly, without knowing why she did it, she was calling wildly, was running toward the stairs. Screaming—

"Mother! Mother, darling! Where are you! Where are you—"

There was no answer, only a whispering echo from the quiet stairs and rooms. Ellen, with the cold fingers of dread touching her heart, found herself running up the flight of stairs that led to the second floor.

Ellen knocked, not too softly, upon the panel of her mother's door. And then when she heard no sound from within, she jerked the door open and paused, panting, upon the threshold.

At first, as she stood there, she knew a great sense of relief. It was as she had supposed—her mother was lying on the bed, resting! As she tiptoed across the room, Ellen thought that her mother was really asleep. For her lips were smiling very beautifully, with their old magic; and her eyes were softly closed—it was as if, in truth, she were the sleeping beauty.

was asleep. And then suddenly she knew completely and utterly, and with an overwhelming sense of aloneness, that her mother was not sleeping!

Perhaps it was something in the sweetness of her mother's smile. Perhaps it was something in the chill magic of the room. But Ellen knew surely. . . . And yet, knowing, she did not touch that still figure, and neither did she cry out. Instead she walked very close to the bed. And as she came close she saw her mother's fingers held a letter, ever so slightly crumpled. It was the letter that had come only the space of a few hours ago.

Ellen, scarcely knowing what she did, reached over and took the letter from her mother's hand. She smoothed out its wrinkles very methodically, and read.

And then, suddenly, she was lying on the floor, beside her mother's bed, sobbing out all her heart ache and her disillusionment and her pain.

For the letter, written with brutal frankness, in an untaught hand, was from a woman. A woman who told of a man's death in a cheap lodging house in another state. "Toward the last," wrote the woman, "he spoke of you, often. But still and all, there wasn't any reason why he should have seen you! He'd stopped loving you—and he did love me. Maybe he thought you were well to do—and, at the end, he hadn't anything. And after all, you were his wife, for there was never any divorce. And now that there's no money for funeral expenses—well, of course, if you want charity to bury him. . . . But a grave and a marker and all the rest—" here she named a sum of money, a sum that Ellen had seen her mother write upon a check.

"I don't suppose, though," the letter ended, "that it matters much now. Only he was sort of proud, always. Ellen sobbing, understood at last.

But Ellen was never to know the details of her father's final degeneration, or of his death, or of his burial. All that she ever knew was that the last check her mother had written was returned, duly endorsed by some distant firm of undertakers, to the bank.

She never knew the final chapter of her mother's tragic story! But she did know, at last, why her mother had crept away from the city, from people—why she had tried to shield her only child from cities, and from people.

The darkness creeping ghostlike into a room of sadness and death and despair, brought with it a swift memory of the garden, the garden as it had been a month before.

Through that darkness Ellen could hear the approaching rumble of the doctor's Ford. But she was aware of it subjectively. The only actual sound that she heard was the echo of her mother's voice speaking, saying—

"Love Lightly! Don't get intense about love. Don't give anything. . . . Take everything, but don't—"

Oh, it had been a magnificent lie! Ellen's hand, wet with her own tears reached up to touch her mother's chill fingers that had been clenched upon a cruel letter.

SLENDER DAYTIME FROCK

Pattern 8379—Women of larger build like a simple, dignified frock for general wear. They know that the conservative style is most becoming and inconspicuous and for that reason they choose a model like the one sketched. The soft graceful revers and the vestee together with the simple turned back cuffs, give a nice contrasting color note and add gaiety to an otherwise plain frock. The double-breasted closing of the waist is continued in effect by the panel in the skirt. The back of the skirt also has a panel and there are pleats in both front and back. There is nothing more slenderizing to a large figure than panels. Small tucks at back of neck give an easy fit. A rough crepe silk in dark tones either printed or plain will look well in this design.

For PATTERN, send 15 cents in coin (for each pattern desired), your NAME, ADDRESS style number and also to Lamb County Leader, Pattern Dept. 115 Fifth Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

Maytag washers at the retail value of $1,225.00 were sold in 1934 by Texas Maytag Dealers, it was reported at a year end conference of Maytag Managers and officials of Maytag Southwestern Company, Dallas, distributors in Texas. "This was the best year in Maytag history in Texas despite the severe drouth," Walter Rogers, President Maytag Southwestern Company, said. Dealers and managers throughout the state were enthusiastic over the outlook for 1935 and predict a half-million dollar increase for this year.

"Outstanding in the records for 1934 were the volume of sales made by small town dealers, many in the drouth area. A number of dealers in scattered population sold 100 washers and one sold over 500" Mr. Rogers said.

A national record was hung up by Texas Maytag Dealers when 78 per cent of their sales in 1934 were made on the cast aluminum square tub washer which is the higher priced model, and only 22 percent on the lower priced model. The Maytag Company, manufacturers, at Newton, Iowa, pointed out that this is the best record of any state in the country.

KITTIES SECOND AT MEADOW; WILDCATS LOSE OUT

LADIES BOW TO ROPES GIRLS IN FINALS AS CATS DOWNED IN FIRST ROUND BY LUBBOCK

Coach Robnetta's scrapping Kitty cagers carried off the second place trophy at the Meadow invitation tourney held Friday and Saturday while Mentor L. T. Barksdale's unlucky Wildcats were eliminated in their first bracketed Anton tourney match 29 to 18 by the powerful Lubbock Westerners. Shallowater, Spade and Ralls won first, second and third respectively at Anton.

The Ropes lassies took first place at Meadow by trouncing the Kitties 52 to 32 in the finals, after the Littlefield girls had swamped Idalou, 26-6, overcome Meadow's A team, 25-15, and easily beaten Pettit semifinals. The Kitties, heavy favorites of the fans, were prevented from a better showing by technicalities in score keeping.

Ill fortune dogged the Wildcat trail from the start. Slated to meet Idalou in the first round Friday, the local boys were forced to play the Speedy Lubbock five in a switched arrangement. Yantis, Hall, Pierce, McKnight, H. Walker and Foust saw action.

For the Kitties, Genave Mason, forward, rung up 54 points. Oma and Opal Carpenter, forwards, followed with 48 points and 25 points respectively. Others who saw action during the tourney were Hays, Willis, McCurry, Edwards, Kimmel, Wharton and Cooper. The Kitties worked more smoothly as a unit on this trip than ever before, declared Coach Robnetta.

Loboes Revenged in 25-23 Lubbock Tilt

Levelland's Lobo cagers Saturday revenged themselves on Lubbock, recent Wilson tourney winners, by nipping the Westerners, 25 to 23 on the Lobo floor.

The Loboes, who will play Littlefield's Wildcats, during the season came from behind in the final minutes after trailing eight points at the half.

Amherst Evens Count in 26-22 Fireman Fray

Hot from a defeat handed them here earlier, Amherst's big independent cagers flipped a brace of field shots in late stages of a return game here Wednesday night of last week and walked off the floor four points to the good in a close 26-22 contest. Craig and Horton paired smoothly at forward posts in running up a big margin of Amherst points. Littlefield fans saw Woody and Howton split scoring honors. Other players on the Smoky roster included Aldridge, Brazeal and Scott alternating at guard with Dow jumping the entire game.

Fireboys Smoked Out 52-30, By Anton There

The Coch brothers and a couple of more players from Anton worked heavy havoc among the Fire ranks in a cage affair on the Anton floor last Thursday evening. Final count was 52 to 30.

The brothers Couch, two forwards and a guard, teamed with Lida and Rich in smearing the Littlefield defense with monotonous regularity. No doubt existed about the outcome after the first half.

Howton, forward, Aldridge, guard and Woody and Payne Wood, forwards scored in the relative order named. Scott played center throughout the affair.

Sudan Lassies To Be Here For Scrap With Kitties Friday Night

Littlefield's Kitties are being put through stiff workouts against the invasion of the fast Sudan girls at the Littlefield high school gym Friday evening. The Wildcats, at present, are not booked for a performance this week.

Although hampered by the loss of little Walta Marie Carruth, star forward, who was claimed by death last Christmas morning, the girls from western Lamb County will have scoring power and a world of deception to release against coach Naomi Robnetta's best when two quintets vie for the opening tipoff at 7:30 p. m. Admission is 10 cents to all.

Fireboys, Local Girls To Play Anton Fives

The flame eating Fireboys and Capt. "Sug" Morgan's Littlefield independent girls were scheduled to meet the Anton lads and lassies in a double card on the Littlefield high school floor Wednesday evening.

Watch next week's Leader sport page for full details of both games.

SPORT WORLD

By BILL NORRIS

Local sport backing, slightly dormant since the close of the football season, has taken a hand in the Littlefield high school basketball situation with characteristic swiftness and thoroughness. Result: The Wildcats stand a much better chance of a top showing for the last half of the season than in the first half. Cheers!

Here's the story:

Coach Barksdale had grimly tried to whip into shape a first class cage outfit and, at the same time put down the old finance bugaboo which dogs the heels of every average-sized town on the South Plains—a big task, say you? Right?

Well, it wasn't working out. It was too much for one human being to do. The Littlefield mentor was getting a mite discouraged. He tossed the situation into the lap of the Athletic Council and School Board—under the circumstances, the only thing left to do.

These two bodies knew what to do, and did it. Every penny that could be spared from the balance remaining in the athletic appropriation set aside from the school budget was placed at Barksdale's disposal, and money the Littlefield coach had dug from his own jeans for team expenses was voted for refunding.

Further, these bodies voted to send girls into the street for ticket sales on the day of each home game in an effort to boost gate receipts. And gate money, plus the allowance from the athletic fund, should see the Wildcats through the remainder of the season. That is, providing no unreasonable amount of play is booked from here on out.

A marked tribute to Barksdale's prowess as a coach was paid by trustees and councillors alike at the session in Madden's Drug Tuesday night. A clear understanding of a rather delicate situation was reached, and the Wildcats, with no financial worries looming on the cage horizon, should finish the season with a better standing.

We believe with all our might that they will. A hearty slap on the back to these school officials and this sport body for their fine attitude in this matter.

This leaves the whole thing up to the boys. In the past, some of them have been able to help finance themselves on tourney trips, and others haven't. Their money worries have been lifted and a better working squad should be the result. How about it, Wildcats?

Spelling List Ready For Distribution

Advice from the Interscholastic League headquarters in Austin states that 200,000 copies of the current spelling list have been printed and are now ready for distribution, according to Mr. Clifton Patterson, recently elected director of spelling for the League in this county. The price of the spelling bulletin of sixteen pages is the same as it was last year, i. e., one cent a copy when ordered in lots of one hundred or more copies. It would be well for schools needing less than one hundred copies to club their orders so as to get the benefit of the cent-a-copy rate.

Teachers of spelling are cautioned that the League spelling contest involves also a plain writing feature. Certain errors in writing are listed in the spelling rules of the current Constitution and Rules. It would be well to drill pupils to avoid the errors there listed.

The words included in the list have been carefully selected and graded and form an excellent supplement to the State Adopted Text. None of the words in the State Text appear in the spelling list of the League.

It is hoped that there will be wide participation in this contest in this county. All one hundred percent papers produced at the county meet are sent to the State Office of the League where the papers are re-graded, and, if adjudged perfect, a suitable award is given.

A picture of the Alamo instead of the usual state seal is used on the cover of the biennial report of the State Board of Control, recently issued. It is believed to be the first state document issued without the seal.

TRUSTEES AND COUNCIL VOTE CASH TO AID FLAGGING SPIRIT OF WILDCAT CAGERS TUESDAY

School Board trustees and members of the Athletic Council Tuesday night placed at the disposal of Coach L. T. Barksdale all available money in the athletic fund from the school budget in a swift move to bolster flagging Wildcat strength caused by low finances.

With about $35 of the $300 originally set aside for athletics remaining, the board and council voted to allow girls to sell tickets on home game days as a further step toward lifting the high school boys team out of a financial slough.

Enough cash remains in the Athletic Council fund to provide sweaters for the football players. The allowance made Tuesday night plus gate receipts at games is expected to see the local boys through the season's remainder.

School Board and Athletic Council members present at the session were Homer Hall, Supt. A. B. Sanders, Secretary Carl Arnold, W. E. Jef-

Firemen Slip Past Spade Quintet To Snatch 38-29 Win

Slapping in four baskets and a free toss in the last two minutes, Aldridge and Woody et al, brought for the Firemen a 38-29 victory over the Spade five on the home floor Tuesday evening.

The brothers Yeager, plus the sterling playing of McCurry, forward, and Stevenson, center, failed to stop the weird brand of one-armed goal shooting of Woody and the deadly eye of Aldridge, who converted a 28-26 disadvantage into victory in a last minute whirlwind rush of goals.

Scott, smoky tipoff, was a marvel, while Brazeal and Swanner, guards were a defensive bulwark throughout. fries, Jr., Jack Brannen and W. H. Madden.

OUR COACH By O. K. Yantis Dedicated to L. T. Barksdale

We've got a coach, mark ye one and all. Yes, He's good; and does he know football?

When we get out in the field we try to do our part, Because our coach is backing us with all his heart.

There are other men that are backing us too, And we truly thank them for the things that they do.

But when it comes to helping us all his waking hours, Brother, there is no coach half so good as ours.

METHODIST CHURCH

J. W. Hendrix, Pastor

SOLOMON said in his day, "There is nothing under the sun." Dispute this notice we are about to relate something which sounds new, and so far as we are able to learn is new. Here it is. "ALL THE PREACHERS OF BAILEY AND LAMB COUNTIES MEMBERS OF ALLIANCE ARE GOING TO EXCHANGE PULPITS". This is to take place this coming Sunday — Jan. 13. We don't know who is coming to our church at the morning hour. A committee was appointed to arrange this scheme and it is done. This is for the general interest of the moral movements in these counties. There are some things that must stop and some other things that must not begin.

At the evening hour the pastor will be in his own church and the subject of the sermon will be, "A Kingdom to Let." At each service the choir will bear their part in the worship period. You will enjoy the novelty of some one coming to help the morning service of whom you now know nothing. Give him your utmost support. Then your pastor in the evening.

Church school opens at 9:45 a. m. There was a feeling last Sunday that we wanted to be on time. Ten minutes earlier would add half the attendants at the devotional period. Ten minutes haste!

The Leagues meet at 6:30 P. M. Three of them in their places. If you are twelve or past this includes you somewhere on the list.

We Think—

mentation for a professorship in any dog college under the shining sun, matters not if the sun is shining in Anton or on back steps of Mussolini's home.

That dog lights cigarettes on the sidewalk by creating friction, ACCORDING TO JIMMY;

That dog winds alarm clocks, places it besides Jimmy's bed, and when Jimmy shuts the clock off in his sleep, Bosco shakes Jimmy out of his sleep. ACCORDING TO JIMMY.

That dog reads the True Story Magazine and for some light reading turns to Webster's Dictionary, ACCORDING TO JIMMY.

And he has expressed the opinion that Bill Thomas should stop quoting "Time" and "Today" in attempting to win every argument, ACCORDING TO JIMMY.

Now, of course, Bosco has other accomplishments, but by this time we are all aware that, ACCORDING TO JIMMY, Bosco is an exceedingly CLEVER, INTELLIGENT DOG. A YOUNG MAN OF THE LETTERS AND SCIENCES.

GOD BLESS YOU, WILL—

Will Aldridge says that 1935 is going to be the best year since 1929.

That the first part of this year is going to be reasonably good, and that the last half of the year will be something to set our clocks by.

All signs point that way, Will says. Part of his bright outlook on the future is based on the government's program for putting folks back to work; the other half is composed of his faith in West Texas to do the right thing by its citizens; his faith in the people of this section to continue to carry on in a progressive manner and his capacity for realizing that every cloud has a silver lining.

YOU CAN GET MORE FUN OUT OF AN ELECTION WHEN YOU HAVE PAID YOUR POLL TAX AND VOTED—

That's the reason Mike Brewer is down at the Grand Drug Store writing out poll tax receipts. Go down and see Mike; he's a pretty good sort of a fellow.

There'll probably be an election or two in which you will want to vote, and the most of us cannot vote without a poll tax receipt.

And, by the way, Mike is also issuing automobile tags.

ARCHIBALD, IN THE ABERNATHY REVIEW, SAYS:

"Remember when the young folks used to gas on the steps instead of step on the gas."

AND NOW WE WILL HEAR FROM C. E. COOPER—

Here's how Mr. Cooper terminated a discussion relative to irrigation for this section:

"I don't know a d— thing about irrigation, but I do know that it takes water to grow crops."

ATTENDS BROTHERS FUNERAL

Eugene Latimer, post office employee and secretary of the local Civil Service, and family returned Sunday from Joaquin, Shelby county, where he attended the funeral of Mr. Latimer's brother, Clyde.

Clyde Latimer, 28, was taken by death Saturday, Dec. 29, after a six years illness of arthritis and neuritis. He was buried the following Sunday afternoon in the Joaquin cemetery.

Bilious Attacks

For bilious attacks due to constipation, thousands of men and women take Theford's Black-Draught because it is purely vegetable and brings prompt, refreshing relief. "I have used Black-Draught," writes Mr. T. L. Austin, of McAdenville, N. C. "There is a package of it on my mantel now. I take it for biliousness. If I did not take it, the dullness and headache would put me out of business. It is the quickest medicine to relieve me that I know."

Prof. F. O. Boles Attends State Meeting in Dallas

Prof. F. O. Boles, County Superintendent of Schools, attended a State meeting of all County Superintendents of the State at Dallas Monday.

The purpose of the meeting was to study the new Rural Aid Bill.

Mr. Boles returned to Littlefield Wednesday night.

L. A. Ratliff Appointed School Truant Officer

L. A. Ratliff, deputy on the county sheriff's force, was last week appointed truant officer for the Littlefield Independent School District. His appointment grew out of need for enforcement of a state ruling that all children between ages of 8 and 16 must attend school at least 100 days each term, officials said.

There are some 50 children listed on both the relief and scholastic rolls who have not been attending school in the past. Ratliff urged Friday that motorists observe a state ruling to the effect that no automobile should pass a school bus on a public road while school children were being taken on or off the bus.

C. of C. Meeting—

Texas booster organization. The Littlefield organization voted against all four proposals. They are:

1. In lieu of the State ad valorem tax from which source is collected $20,559,737.71, do you favor a 2 per cent general sales tax on the last retail sale, which 2 per cent is estimated to raise an amount equivalent to the state ad valorem tax.

2. In connection with the sales tax and in order to observe the fundamental principle of the ability to pay, would you favor a State Income Tax, the amount being 25 per cent of the Federal Income Tax at this time?

3. In order to reach notes and bonds which do not appear on the tax rolls, would you favor a registration fee or a stamp tax to be affixed to each mortgage or bond of say 1 per cent of its value, that tax to be in lieu of all other taxes on said mortgage or bond?

4. Would you favor an increase of 1c per gallon on gasoline to be used in the payment of the remainder of all road bonds of every kind and description?

Mr. Hilliard also discussed the oil mill project for Littlefield, stating that a committee composed of A. R. Hendricks, chairman, Pat Boone, J. T. Elms, and H. C. Crews, had been appointed to take care of the promotion of such a project.

The first shipment of soda ash and caustic soda ever made from Texas to the Eastern seaboard was made by the new Southern Alkali Corporation, Corpus Christi.

Senator Duggan To Introduce Tax Bill

A bill prepared by Sen. A. P. Duggan, Littlefield, chairman of the senate tax committee, to establish a board for public tax interest being looked upon with favor will be one of the first to come up when legislative mills start grinding soon. State Tax Commissioner R. P. Edwards originated the idea.

Should the board function properly, tax measures would be soundly their effect made known to all interested before they came up for vote in the legislature, Duggan and other backers of the plan believe.

"The corporations have all the better of the tax situation in past years while the people's interest has been neglected," Duggan said recently, and other parties believe the measure would correct this defect.

DR. HOLDEN TO TALK ON "YAQUI INDIAN"

Dr. Holden of Tech College will lecture at the City Hall, Littlefield, Wednesday evening, January 10, 7:30 o'clock, on the "Yaqui Indian."

This lecture is sponsored by Women's Study Club, who extend invitations to all members of the Junior Study Club, Business & Professional Women's Club, Rotary Club, Teachers, and all others who would be interested in hearing this lecture.
