HERBERT MARTIN RETURNS TO COUNTY OFFICE

County Attorney Issues Statement To Voters

County Attorney Herbert C. Martin yesterday authorized the Lamb County Leader to announce that he is a candidate for re-election.

Under the caption, "Time to Pick Up," Mr. Martin issued a following statement to the voters of the county:

Years ago I stepped from the train; I was a citizen of Lamb County, Texas. In one hand I held a degree from the University of Law School, in the other a cardboard suitcase.

My first consideration as a young lawyer should become the principles he embodied. I believed that my business should revolve around the central purpose of legal service backed by loyal loyalty to my employer.

My final achievement of that which I sought as a young man can be measured only by the fact that you took me from the practice of law and placed me in the office of County Attorney of Lamb County. I found no difficulty as a matter of principle.

My employer was an individual, a group of individuals, that employer was known as Lamb County. I have tried to render service as your County Attorney for your examination. We have but two basic tests to be met in either private practice or in the service of the county: (1) Does he possess the ability to do the job?

The banquet sponsored by the Business & Professional Women's club, with the cooperation of the Rotary Club, Tuesday evening, in the basement of the Methodist church, was an outstanding success.

The dinner table was a profusion of beautiful spring flowers, furnished and arranged by J. E. Chisholm, Jr.

Red Centennial roses, Sweet Peas and Fern, surrounding a group of six flags, expressive of early Texas history, formed the centerpiece. Bud vases and bowls, containing flowers, were also featured on the table.

Emblematic of early Texas history, Indian rugs and scarfs were also featured in the decorations. A large Rotary wheel of yellow and white was the center of the table.

Six-Inch Snow Brightens Outlook

Additional Moisture Brings Improved Soil Conditions

Littlefield and section was favored Wednesday with the greatest snow storm in several years.

Accompanied by a strong wind from the north, snow began falling early Wednesday, and by late evening it was estimated six inches had fallen, with the moisture still coming down.

The temperature fell to 18, and hovered around that figure all Wednesday and Wednesday night.

Business men and farmers alike are jubilant over the fine fall of snow, which will add materially to the sub-soil moisture, and the prospects for a good crop in this section for 1936. About ten days ago this territory received three inches of snow, so with Wednesday's snow further adds to the good prospects for this year's crop.

The snow was general all over the South Plains and the North Panhandle, from Texline to Childress, and Lamesa, rain falling south of that point and east.

Other states reporting snow were New Mexico, Oklahoma, Kansas, Tennessee, Utah, and the fall reached eastward across the United States, covering the middle part of the country, and as far south as Alabama.

Don't Guess But Know

Whether the "Pain" Remedy You Use is SAFE?

Don't Entrust Your Own or Your Family's Well-Being to Unknown Preparations

THE person to ask whether the preparation you or your family are taking for the relief of headaches is SAFE to use regularly is your family doctor. Ask him particularly about Genuine BAYER ASPIRIN.

He will tell you that before the discovery of Bayer Aspirin most "pain" remedies were advised against by physicians as bad for the stomach and, often, for the heart. Which is food for thought if you seek quick, safe relief.

Scientists rate Bayer Aspirin among the fastest methods yet discovered for the relief of headaches and the pains of rheumatism, neuritis and neuralgia. And the experience of millions of users has proved it safe for the average person to use regularly. In your own interest remember this.

You can get Genuine Bayer Aspirin at any drug store — simply by asking for it by its full name, BAYER ASPIRIN. Make it a point to do this — and see that you get what you want.

Promenade Deck—

gay, my child, and forget about yourself," he implored her. "We're only beginning, and you mustn't feel like this. Let's go out and look at our shipmates. They're sure to be terrible."

The ship was en fete, Chinese lanterns swung on the after-deck, the orchestra played an old Viennese waltz and the sky was powdered with yellow stars four evenings later as the Marencia neared Stromboli. The moon hung low in the sky, like a golden guinea. It was an old story to Dick, leaning against the rail, smoking a cigarette and watching with cynical interest.

His attention wandered over the dancing couples. He wasn't interested in pretty girls at the moment, but he supposed he had to dance with some one. Men were so scarce—His glance came to rest on the little teacher from Cabin 454. She was sitting by herself in a corner, enveloped in a Spanish shawl, with poppies too large for her size.

The handsome officer she had seen about the boat was moving in her direction.
"Won't you dance with me?" asked Dick, bowing formally over her. She snatched at the fringe of her shawl and looked at him in confusion. She was much too nervous to rise to her feet.

"Oh, do come on," he urged her. "This is a good tune."
A flock of nervous fears went chasing one another across Miss Mudge's sensitive face; then something propelled her to her feet.

Miraculously Miss Mudge's step was suddenly in tune with the chief officer's, and he had her firmly clasped by the Spanish shawl, whirling her around with such speed that she soon forgot about her feet. Her head swam with excitement and she caught a whiff of tobacco that made her faint. She had never been clutched to a man's chest like this before. Her head brushed his sleeve and she shivered with joy.

When the music ended, he led her back to a little table. She looked about with an elated air.
"What will you have to drink?" asked Dick, disentangling himself from the fringes of her shawl and sipping her pink chiffon dress.

Miss Mudge blushed. "Thank you," she said, "but I never drink. You see, I'm a White Ribboner."
"A what?" echoed Dick.
"A White Ribboned—teetotaler, you know."

"Oh, I see. Band of Hope."
He looked at her with a rising gleam of interest. She was really unique—her spirit twinkled brightly through the faded shell of her flesh. It would be fun to tease her a little.

"But you can't possibly go round the world without having a drink," he protested. "It wouldn't be decent. Let me order you something gentle that won't bite."
Miss Mudge was half-persuaded. Lights leaped in her eyes; she nodded her head. Dick decided to get her a creme de menthe. She sat very straight in her chair, with her hands folded nervously under her shawl. At times she shot timid glances at her companion, not quite sure what he might be going to do next. The drinks came, and Dick toasted her. "Happy days on the Marencia!" he said.

Miss Mudge had never been toasted before, but she smiled, said thank you, and took a swallow. There wasn't very much of it—such a little glass. It surely couldn't go to her head. Suddenly she giggled and set down her drink.
"What's up?" Dick enquired.
"Oh, I was just thinking of Ohonto."

"Ohonto, Wisconsin—the place I come from." She seemed to be saying, "It isn't possible that you haven't heard of Ohonto."
"Nice place?"
"Very. I teach there, but I'm having a sabbatical year to see the world."
"I hope you won't be disappointed."

"Oh, no!" Miss Mudge's voice was fervent. "It's wonderful!"
The music had started again, and his companion's face waved eager signals across the table. He swung her to her feet and they danced again—a waltz this time. She clung to him more confidently now, and he smiled down at her as if she were the only woman in the glittering salon. He took her back to her seat and made his adieux, covering her embarrassment with his protective air. Should she go on sitting where he had left her, or should she slip back to her quiet place by the wall? The chief officer was dancing now with Miss Foster. Her lovely arms were twined around his neck. Nevertheless, he remembered Miss Mudge, sitting alone in her corner, and tossed her a scarlet balloon. She held it aloft for a moment and smiled at him. Then she let out the air and put the deflated bauble in the black satin bag that Agatha had given her for evening wear. Her first souvenir!

Clare, an enticing Cleopatra, was still dancing with Lovat, a Spanish grandee. Angela watched them over her creme de menthe frappe. She could see that her husband's fingers were deeply sunk in an exquisite back. At last he relinquished his partner and moved smoothly towards her.

"How about turning in, Angela? You're looking tired." His voice was solicitous. She was suddenly ravaged under her make-up.
"I am, rather. Dancing at sea makes one very tired—the strong air, I think, and the bumpy deck."
"But you're scarcely danced at all, Angela," said Lovat, a little crossly.

"Yes, but I feel those things, Lovat darling."
She went below and unhooked her period costume. She took off her powdered wig, but it was scarcely whiter than the smooth hair beneath it. Turning her back on Lovat, she slipped into the loveliest of her negligees, black lace over apricot chiffon.

"You'll be gone from me in five days," she told him. "I wonder if you will miss me when you are back in England."
"I shall simply be lost without you," he assured her.

"Ah, Lovat," Angela's voice was a sigh. "How I shall miss you! Besides," I shall be five months older when I come back."
"You'll always be the same to me," he said, and stooped to kiss her hand. She leaned over his head and her lips brushed the dark lacquer of his hair. The mirror revealed the widening path that stretched between them. Angela turned from the sight of his youth. "Whatever happens, I shall still adore you," she said.

Lovat studied her as she lay on the pillow—the tenderness of her mouth, her sensitive nose, the way her hair swept back from her ears; but the mask of age was set as she lay in the semblance of sleep.

He slipped into his dressing-gown and sat with a book under the shaded light. Half an hour passed and he scarcely moved. At last he was sure of her regular breathing and the relaxed look of her face. She must be asleep.

He put down his book, snapped off the light, stole to the door and through the curtain that flapped as the ship rode noisily on her way.
Two dark eyes caught his jubilant small-boy air as he slipped past the shaft of light. Angela turned to the wall and burning tears rolled slowly down her cheeks.

"Frisco Kid" To Be Featured At Palace Theatre

One of the most dynamic and colorful dramas of the year, "Frisco Kid", will be featured at the Palace Theatre, Saturday midnight, Sunday and Monday with James Cagney heading the all star cast.

Warner Bros. have produced a number of pictures with historical backgrounds and authentic as well as outstanding characters, such as "Silver Dollar," "I Am a Fugitive from a Chain Gang," "Twenty Thousand Years in Sing Sing" and others. But none surpasses "Frisco Kid" in the intensity of its action, in exciting episodes, in its flaming color and picturesqueness.

Set on the Barbary Coast of old

San Francisco in the early fifties, it is a story of the tumultuous gold rush days when adventurers from the world over congregated on Frisco's waterfront.

In this seething hellhole were gathered criminals, cut-throats, murderers, gamblers, women of the demimonde and every type of human shark who lived by preying on his neighbor. There a band of crimps would slip knock-out drops to an innocent sailor, knock him cold with a billy, rob him of the stake he had saved to prospect the gold fields,

COURTESY IS STRESSED IN ASSEMBLY

Courtesy was the theme stressed in assembly last week, by the following speakers: Opal Carpenter, Hall Rowe, Mr. Jones and Mrs. Nina Young.

These speakers stated that we are not courteous enough in school. They gave us a few points in knowing how to be courteous, and by the way, some hints to the boys too, when escorting a girl. It is hoped some of the boys took heed to this for some needed to be "brushed up" with those facts.

WHAT WOULD HAPPEN IF—

Evonia Hawthorne was star forward on the basketball team?

Kathleen Brewer was a tap dancer?

Alice Lynn Street sang a solo in assembly?

Every student in high school attended one basketball game?

All students took the advice given in assembly Thursday?

Louise Reynolds did not say "you sure do know?"

Bruce Melton didn't know more than every one else in Business Arithmetic class?

Mildred Reid had a special boy friend?

Mr. A. B. Sanders' name was on the headlines of Wildcat Section?

Miss Robnetta didn't work a geometry problem?

Jewel Gibson didn't talk to some boy between periods?

Lacey Burleson walked down the hall without hitting someone?

Loveta Dowdy was very timid?

Four girls were quiet in music class?

Lela Faye Walker was not in detention hall for one week?

Blanton Cogburn and Mildred Reid didn't talk to each other in Press Club meetings?

Mr. Jones could spell "affirmative"?

SUPT. SANDERS SPEAKS TO COMMERCIAL CLUB

A short business meeting was held before the social hour began.

A bean contest was held and which Curtis Anderson won the prize.

Jewell Gibson, 4-H president had charge of the games. Many interesting games were enjoyed.

At the close of the evening delicious pimento cheese sandwiches, cookies and hot punch were served to Misses Jewel Gibson, Ima Bennett, Lucille Gipson, Happy Dow, Emma Frances Weatherly, Augusta Denton, Lela Faye Walker, Helen Siglar, Kathleen and Ida Joë Brewer, Lola Mae Scott, Mrs. J. W. Bennett, Jimmie Walker, Ben Lyman Jr., Buck Gregory, Pat Neff York, Robert Graham, Mike Brewer, Donald Bennett, Curtis Anderson, Clyde Lee, and the hostess, Mrs. Mike Brewer.

HIGH SEVENTH NEWS

The High Seventh grade enjoyed a class party Thursday night, January 23. It was fun to watch Mr. Hobbs and Miss Denton play Maggie and Jiggs.

LOW THIRD GRADE

We have found out that Imogene has the mumps. We wrote letters to her Wednesday.

Mrs. Edwards and Mrs. Davenport visited our room Wednesday, and they went to P. T. A., too. We wanted ten mothers so badly so that we could win a dollar, but we didn't get enough mothers to come. One room had seventeen mothers at P. T. A. So we are all going to try hard next P. T. A. day to get at least ten of our mothers and daddies to come. If a daddy comes, he counts two points.

Venetia has been absent all this week. We hope she isn't sick.

Eld Ralph, Bobbie, and Edwin have all missed school some this week because of sickness.

Our map is almost finished. We are making a microphone, a train, an exhibit case and many other things for our exhibit.

Here are some interesting things we have found out about transportation and communication:

A fast steam can cross the ocean in five days. It took Columbus sixty-five days to cross in a sail-boat.

If all the wires are kept clear, a message can go around the world in five minutes.

Some telephone cables are strung in the air. Others are built underground.

People in Africa sometimes travel in a "teapoy." It is something like a hammock, and two men carry it on a pole while one person rides.

Borger Man Here Looking After His Farming Interests

J. A. Dickson of Borger, who owns a farm eight miles north of Amherst, on the Amherst-Earth Highway, arrived from Borger last week, and is spending until Friday looking after business interests here.

Mr. Dickson rents his farm land on crop share basis, and is here selling his share of the feed and stock. He also owns 45 acres, which are in suburban tracts in Amherst.

He plans to return to Borger Friday.

Ford Publishes Farm Almanac; Being Distributed Now

Publication of a "Farm Almanac and Facts Book" which will be distributed to the rural population in all parts of the country has been announced by the Ford Motor company.

The book is of a convenient pocket size, containing 48 pages. It is unusual in makeup and content, presenting an extensive array of handy tables, statistics and charts for the assistance of the farmer and business man. Other sections are designed to aid the farm wife.

This first Ford Almanac is published for 1936 and is now being distributed. It carries a readily available calendar on the back cover and contains tables showing the time of rise and set of sun and moon in all parts of the country every day of the year. Other helpful and interesting astrological and astronomical information is included.

Morris and son, Floye, who have been residents of Littlefield for the past three years, have leased the former Garland-White Service Station on Highway No. 7, and are operating an automobile service station at that location. They are handling Magnolia gasolines and oils, and new and used tires. They are equipped for road service in furnishing gasoline and the repairing of tires.

purple, a gift of the B. P. & W. club to the Rotarians, formed a background for the speakers.

Favors were small silk Texas flags. Dr. W. C. Holden of Tech College who is also Chairman of the West Texas Centennial Committee, was the main speaker for the evening.

He favored the banquet with a very interesting address, speaking of the early history of Texas and the Centennial. He gave a short sketch of the early explorers of Texas, mentioning the establishment of the first mission at San Angelo, which was 100 years before such was constructed in the eastern part of the State. The Yellow House Home Demonstration club met with Mrs. Sam Hampton, January 22 at 2:30 p. m.

Planting berries, grapes, and fruit trees for home use was our subject and the Home Demonstration Agent revealed very interesting information as follows:

"Be sure to get those adapted to the Plains. Water well during the winter. Cultivate throughout the year and provide windbreak."

The overbearing strawberries, Mastador and Progressive, are liked best since they bear over a longer period. However the Annuals, New Klondyke and Premier are the better berries. Early harvest, Dallas and McDonald blackberries, the Austin and May Dew berries.

For blue grapes the Beacon, Carman, Concord and Fern Munson, the latter one should not be planted alone as it is not self pollinating. The pink ones are Delaware and Niagara, White, Wapouka.

Plums and cherries are surer crop producers than peaches, hence more of these should be set out. Early Richmond, Montmorency, Royal Duke and English Marillo are the cherries to set while Gold America, Omaha and Bruce are the plums. Also the Hydrid plums, Sapa, Opata and

SENATE VOTES TO PAY BONDS TO VETERANS

Lamb County To Receive $257,905.66; Treasurer May Pay By June

Accepting the senate vote of 19 as sealing the overture of his bonus veto, President Hoover Monday sent orders down to pay off the $2,491,000,000 "war" bill as quickly as "war" will permit.

World War veterans in 23 Plains counties will receive more than $3,500,000 in bonus payments according to a tabulation made recently in Washington. Lamb county receive $257,905.66.

Similar figures for other counties of this area are as follows:

Lubbock, $578,878.92; Borden, $76,638.71; Borden, $22,875.16; Cochran, $29,002.21; Briscoe, $82,609.02; Castro, $581.79; Dickens, $127,105.54; Garza, $82,549.91; Gains, $183,800.21; Hale, $41,353.35; Hockley, $137,405.40; Motley, $182,833.42; Motley, $100,000.00; Parmer, $86,732.09; Scurry, $114.27; Swisher, $108,514.82; Yoakum, $181,272.98; Yoakum, $11,000.00 total, $3,159,407.23.

Within a little more than hours after the senate voted, Roosevelt said in his first statement that the treasury and veterans administration had been directed to pay as soon as possible. He said the "magnitude" of the bill requiring "between 2,500 and additional personnel working approximately six months to do the job." He urged "patience" operators. Refrain from writing up letters after filing an application.

So certain was the outcome taken, authoritative sources said, the government printing office had started its presses rolling applications to be filled in by even before the senate met.

Secretary Morgenthau has said the treasury would be ready to pay off by next June 15—when the bonds are cashable. He estimated a total of 38,000,000 rate bonds will be needed.

Senate Approves Revised Farm Bill

The senate agriculture committee today approved the revised administration soil conservation farm bill by a vote of 15 to 2.

Senators leaving the closed meeting reported the vote and said very few new changes were made in the measure, which was introduced by Senator Bankhead (D-Ala.) after White House conferences.

Although Secretary Wallace and Solicitor General Stanley Reed had expressed opinions the bill is constitutional, several committeemen still considered it outside the bounds of the Supreme court decision invalidating AAA.

The bill vests board powers in the secretary of agriculture to make grants to farmers for economic use of their lands. It is a temporary two-year measure designed to serve as a stop-gap until a permanent program is enacted based on federal grants to states. Today's action was attributed by some senators to demands from the farm belt for a speedy vote.

Applications For Old Age Pensions To Be Available Soon

Austin, Jan. 27.—(Special)—Facing old-age assistance applicants will be the difficulty of proving their ages, Orville S. Carpenter, executive director of the Old Age Assistance Commission, said today when asked what he thought the most difficult problem of old people making application.

Application forms will be distributed to cities and towns over the State and will be available to all who want them February 14, when the law goes into effect. As required by the new law, certain facts must be established by the applicant. The law grants assistance to the needy who are 65 years of age or more, and each applicant must definitely and conclusively prove his or her age.

"There are many ways by which a person can establish his age," Director Carpenter stated. "The Commission will consider any evidence that proves or helps to establish definitely the age of the applicant. However, it will be necessary in each case for the applicant to establish to the satisfaction of the Commission, by whatever means he can, that he is 65 years of age."

A number of kinds of evidence to be used in proving age are the following:

1. Birth certificates.
2. Marriage certificates giving the ages of both parties.
3. Birth certificates of children giving age of parents.
4. Ages of sons and daughters when these are sufficiently advanced.
5. Naturalization papers giving age at time of applying for same.
6. Passports. Service books of immigrants.
7. County records. Baptismal certificates.
8. Insurance papers.
9. Employment records.
10. School records.
11. Records of trade unions, fraternal societies, or other organizations.
12. Federal or State records in the case of those who have been in civil or military service.
13. D-A-R., U-D-C., Daughters of Texas Revolution, etc.
14. Hospital records, or those of physicians.
15. Vaccination certificates.
16. Poll tax receipts that show the actual age of voter and not mere fact that he has passed a certain age.
17. Local census records which may give birthdate and place. National Census Records, Dept. of Census, Washington, D. C.
18. Old licenses of various kinds (such as hunting, fishing, and liquor licenses) sometimes carrying age.
19. Tombstone records when stones have been erected in anticipation of death.
20. Entries in a family bible or other genealogical records or memoranda of families of applicants.
21. Bills of sale as a slave in the case of aged negroes.
22. Such other evidence as the Old Age Assistance Commission may approve.

Annual Report of C.H.D.A.

Farm Food Supply

At the beginning of 1935 thirteen demonstrators and 215 cooperators planned to provide from the farm and garden an adequate supply of vegetables, fruits, meat, poultry products, dairy products, and grains to serve their families a balanced diet during the current year. The majority of the group had produced their hogs and beaves and had already canned and cured the meat or were ready in January to do so. During the month of January the Farm and Home Demonstration Agents gave several method demonstrations on cutting and canning meat. The demonstrators and cooperators canned 8556 quarts of meat and cured 32,967 pounds for use during 1935.

At the same time the average size family prepared to raise a 500 pound beef and two 200 pound hogs to butcher for 1936. Larger families needed to raise more meat and smaller families less. But beef and pork alone doesn't constitute the meat supply. A family of five needs to produce 100 chickens and other fowls for the table. Many of those were used as broilers and fryers, some were roasted and some baked, while numbers were canned and used in sandwiches, chicken loaf, and salad. The canning was mostly done at culling time. It was economical to can them and use them at home because they made good eating but were worth very little on the market. After selling a number of her culled hens on the market at a very low price, Mrs. H. K. Irvin, member of the Sod House Club remarked that she simply wanted to cry because she could have derived so much more from them by canning them and using them at home.

But meats alone, no matter how great the variety, do not provide a balanced protein diet, so each family planned to serve one egg to each member of the family at least one pint of milk to each adult and at least a quart of milk per day to each child, and to provide about 10 pounds per person of dried peas and beans.

In order to supply the dried peas and beans for the protein food and to supply leafy, starchy and other vegetables to use fresh and can, a garden was necessary. At the February club meeting the agent assisted all the demonstrators and cooperators in making a garden that would supply the family with 145 feet of leafy vegetables, 145 feet starchy vegetables, 145 feet other vegetables, and 145 feet garden fruit for each member of the family. They were also assisted in making canning budgets that would guide them in canning and storing sufficient amounts of the different classes of foods to supply the family a balanced diet during the non-productive months, gave thirteen method demonstrations on making and laying tile for sub-irrigation. Though the sand storms were terrible and goggles had to be worn for protection on all except one of those thirteen days, there was good attendance at the demonstrations. A great many people were interested and eager to put down a sub-irrigation system. But the sand storms and droughts prevailed until so late in the spring that little time was left for putting down irrigation systems, as it was necessary to plant the gardens and crops as hurriedly as possible after the small rains came. However, nineteen sub-irrigation systems were laid by demonstrators and cooperators. Mrs. A. F. Wedel, of the Yellow House Club, says, "The first thing I did on my demonstration was make 450 feet of tile for sub-irrigation. And I say right here that it is certainly a time saver that every busy farm woman should have, and it is an excellent and inexpensive method of irrigation." Mrs. W. C. Barton, of the Springlake club, writes: "My husband played a very important part in filling my pantry by making and laying 1000 feet of tile for sub-irrigation. I want to say that the sub-irrigation has proven very successful and we hope before another gardening time to have more tile laid."

With the gardens planted and beginning to grow, some time and thought was given to preserving and storing the food supply for the non-productive months. In June the Agent gave demonstrations to all the clubs on "Storage Space to Accommodate the Family Budget." This included information on storing cured as well as canned products, and standard recipe and bulletin files. As a result 38 recipe files were made, 13 new cellars dug and 1249 feet of pantry shelving added. "I think I enjoyed more than anything else about my club work, arranging the jars and the cans on the shelves as they should be, fruits on the top shelf because they are most easily kept, tomatoes next, preserves and jellies third, pickles and relishes fourth, leafy vegetables next, then other vegetables, with starchy vegetables below these, and meats on the bottom shelf for that is the coolest place," relates Mrs. Chas. Reynolds, of the Olton Club. Mrs. Reynolds adds, "I have been accused of making unnecessary trips to the basement just to look at my filled shelves. Always before, I have had my canned products packed in boxes and stacked around first one place and another and I am denying any charges relative to my admiration for my pantry shelves." Mrs. J. R. Melton of the Rubydale Club, writes, "Until I got my cellar with 154 feet of shelf room, I had to keep what I canned in boxes under the beds or stacked up in the corner and of course never could find what I wanted without moving a lot of boxes. But now I can go in the cellar and get what I want without any trouble which saves a lot of time." "I had some shelves built in my cellar," says Mrs. A. D. Melton of the Sandhill Club, but didn't have them built right. On one side of the cellar I had two ten inch boards put together, I had five of these shelves. So when Miss Westbrook, Home Demonstration Agent, gave the demonstration on storage space at my house in June, I learned how my shelves should be built. So I asked my husband one day to fix my shelves." He said, "why you have shelves," but I told him that they were not convenient as they should be, so he told Earl, the hired man, to fix them for me. I showed Earl how I wanted them fixed. He took one of the ten inch boards off of each shelf and made a set of shelves on the other side of the cellar. My shelves were then ten inches apart. After Earl had finished, I took my husband down there and showed it to him. Of course he thought it was nice. Now I can get my food on the shelves and don't have to reach so far back, and everything can be seen.

DOCTORS KNOW

Mothers read this:

THREE STEPS TO RELIEVING CONSTIPATION

A cleansing dose today; a smaller quantity tomorrow; less each time, until bowels need no help at all.

Why do people come home from a hospital with bowels working like a well-regulated watch?

The answer is simple, and it's the answer to all your bowel worries if you will only realize it: many doctors and hospitals use a liquid laxative.

If you knew what a doctor knows, you would use only the liquid form. A liquid can always be taken in gradually reduced doses. Reduced dosage is the secret of any real relief from constipation.

Ask a doctor about this. Ask your druggist how very popular liquid laxatives have become. They give the right kind of help, and right amount of help. The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It contains senna and cascara — both natural laxatives that can form no habit, even in children. So, try Syrup Pepsin. You just take regulated doses till Nature restores regularity.

KIPLING IN AMERICA

The cables report that Rudyard Kipling, who died yesterday at the age of 70, left an estate estimated at $4,000,000. Every dollar of it he earned by his writing, and the greater part of it came from the American readers of his poems, stories and novels. And that is the reason, because Kipling had a love and admiration for this country such as no other British writer has expressed. He knew and understood America. His "American Notes," written back to his newspaper in England when he was a young man looking for a newspaper in this country, breathe a spirit of understanding of America in every line.

"Oh, be good to an American wherever you meet him," he adjured his readers back in India. He married an American girl, built himself a home in the Vermont mountains and would have become an American citizen but for an unfortunate lawsuit begun by his brother-in-law over the title of a few acres of land, which disgusted him with the particular kind of Americanism.

Everybody is more or less familiar with Kipling's "If," but few realize that the ideal man who inspired it was George Washington.

No writer of modern times has written so much of the stuff as did Kipling. One hundred years from now the lovers of stirring poetry and penetrating prose will be reading Kipling.

THIRD INSTALLMENT SPIS — A luxurious five-cruise around the world ab-
"Marenia" brings together of passengers for adventunautic, entertaining — and Like in "Grand Hotel" passengers offer a study in actions and reactions which ously bare their souls — characters are aboard the ship;
four Scotchman, single, of age; Miss Mudge, school tea-ending the savings of 20 years; Angelia, faithful wife of Lo-vat, gigolo; Dick Charlton, first officer; Clare, a person of experience; Joan, a dissipated flapper;

Jenny, run-away wife and Peter;
Captain Baring, master of the ship
—and his soul—NOW, GO ON WITH THE STORY.

Miss Mudge seemed uncertain of herself and shot a birdlike glance along the table, but no one was paying any attention, except to push her out of the way. As soon as she felt the pressure of bodies around her, Miss Mudge took hold of herself and produced a handful of counters from her bag. She'd show Monte Carlo.

Macduff wondered how long she had been playing this game. He could see from the expression on her face that she had decided her counters were as good as anyone else's. She picked her numbers with care and distributed them defiantly. The wheel spun, and she watched it with a puckered, myopic gaze. The counters disappeared with amazing speed and left no trace. Miss

Mudge dived into her purse, then shook her head. Her grey straw hat was slipping over one ear from all the pushing and shoving, but she and proceeded to record her impressions of the day.

The Marenia was easing out of the harbour and the lights were flickering like a forest of lighted candles. The coast line was slowly engulfed in the night, and the boat began to toss in a Mediterranean storm. In a stateroom amidships on C deck, Jenny and Peter Rumford were unpacking their things. Jenny stopped every few minutes to look a little tremulously at Peter, whose worry so much now, Jenny. There's nothing like the lift of a ship's anchor to lighten the heart."

Jenny moved to his side and slipped her hand beneath his chin. Her voice was beseeching. "Peter! You'll never let me regret what I've done.
Your love will justify everything.
You'll never let me down—not now, after what I've done." She clung to him, panic in her voice.

"Angel!" said Peter in his most convincing tones. "I shouldn't be running away with you if I weren't prepared to spend the rest of my life in making you happy."

He tightened his hold and his head drooped over hers. Her fears were lulled and her heart sang with sudden melody. She closed her eyes and sank limply in the circle of his arms. She dimly remembered the starved months of her marriage, and the hatred she had for her husband.
There was nothing to regret where he was concerned. Her baby was another matter.

"Darling," he said, what are you thinking of?"

"Quite a lot, Peter." She dragged her thoughts back to the present.
"I'm seeing myself as a small and selfish worm. In fact, I'm seeing myself as I am."

Peter could detect the fright in her voice. He laughed at her. "Morbid again! I wish you wouldn't nalyse yourself so much. You know, if you keep it up, I shall regard you as a little egotist. Women all are, or they wouldn't think that what they do matters so much."

He leaned over her absorbed face and kissed it to a healthy glow. "Be without becoming technical . . .

Will you please tell me what a kilowatt hour is?

certainly, madam, we'll be glad to!

A kilowatt hour is a unit of measurement. Just like a pound of butter, a peck of potatoes, a quart of milk. That's all—just a convenient unit to measure the amount of electricity you use at your home each month.

True, you can't measure it with your eye as you can a quart of milk or a pound of butter, but you can measure the work it does for you.
For example:

ONE KILOWATT HOUR (or KWH as it appears on your bill) WILL

- Light a 100 watt lamp for 10 hours
- Run an electric clock for more than 2 weeks
- Run an average-sized electric refrigerator about 20 hrs.
- Run a 10-inch fan 27 hours

Kilowatt hours now cost less than ever before.
In fact, some add nothing to your bill! By using all the electricity to which you are entitled you get the greatest benefits from the new ultimate rate now in effect.

"You must shake off your fears," said Peter.

seemed in hilarious spirits, excited by her surroundings.

She suddenly spied Macduff and recognized him for some one from the Marenia. That was enough for her. In a moment she was standing in front of him, twinkling owlishly through her glasses.

"Just think, I've been losing all my money," she announced, as if that were an everyday occurrence in her life.

"Well, what of it?" said Macduff ungraciously.

"Oh, I beg your pardon."

Miss Mudge stepped back and he felt impelled to make grumpy amends. "Do you want a lift to the boat? I have a car."

She looked at him questioningly for a moment, then brightened up. "That would be kind of you," she said.

Miss Mudge's elation faded as soon as her cabin door was closed. She sat on the edge of her bed and wondered if it had been so clever of her after all, to have lost forty of her precious five hundred dollars.

She hadn't intended to stake more than a quarter at a time, but she had won five dollars at the start, and that had seemed so exciting that she had gone on and on to ruin.

"You're a fool, Alice Mudge," she told herself, severely. "You save and scrimp for years on dyes, and then you spend twenty-five dollars at Madeira for a Spanish shawl, and lose forty dollars at Monte Carlo
as if you were an heiress.

From now on she would have to be economical. Too much of her money was gone and she was only beginning the cruise.

Miss Mudge took out her diary attention was all on what he was doing.

"Well, we're off." His voice had a note of relief. "Perhaps you won't

Water, Water Everywhere

"But Not a Drop to Drink"

A big portion of this plains country has water—lots of water—stored away underground in quantities sufficient to properly irrigate large acres—BUT—the biggest part of the land which can be irrigated is being farmed dry land methods.

So like the sailor—stranded in the doldrums—dying of thirst—with oceans of water all around but no way to make it drinkable—the farmers of the plains have struggled along in drought after drought with plenty of water under their farms but no way to bring it to the surface and put it to work for them.

NOW—at your disposal—on terms within YOUR capacity—YOU can get the machinery (well, pump, engine)—everything necessary to bring this precious liquid—WATER—to your fields—to irrigate your crops—to make MONEY for YOU—to give you that sense of security that comes from knowing a good crop will be harvested.

We are now financing, on terms as long as three years, COMPLETE irrigation plants—

so that by dealing with us you can arrange to purchase a well, casing for that well, a pump that is easy running, sturdily built and cheap to operate, and an engine, all completely installed on your farm. The EXTRA profits will pay for it and leave many dollars besides to buy those other badly needed things.

PEERLESS, leader in the pump business, is the ONLY company offering such terms—cooperation with the Federal Housing Administration makes this possible. This plan, by Act of Congress, expires April 1, 1936. Make your arrangements for an irrigation plan NOW while such liberal terms are available to you.

Mr. Snyder, Factory Credit Manager, and Mr. C. K. Hughes, Panhandle Manager, will be

Hilton Hotel and in Lubbock every Thursday and Friday at the Hilton Hotel.
