Give Dad A Gift On Father's Day

Sunday, June 20, is Father's Day.

This day is set apart for the special honoring of the fathers of the Nation, and had its origin as an outgrowth of Mother's Day, which started in 1897, and was given official designation as a national day in 1913 by Congress.

There are various ways in which honor is bestowed on the fathers of the Nation, and one of these is the sending of gifts.

Littlefield stores have always carried a wide variety of gifts suitable for fathers, and this year their stocks are large than in any previous year.

Give dad a gift on Father's Day. He will be immensely pleased that you remembered him in a special way.

He is a good merchant in a good town. You will always find his stocks complete, and among the other good things to eat will appear such items as the full line of Pecan Valley products—Butter, Fresh Canned Blackeye Peas, Cut Beans, Fresh Potatoes, Vinegar and Coffee—the complete Pecan Valley line.

Special Prices Are Offered In All Store Departments

Manufacturers and wholesale dealers in many lines are cooperating with the local Piggly Wiggly store to make it possible for extra special prices to be made in connection with the expansion celebration to be staged at the store.

Readers of the Lamb County Leader will note the double page ad in this issue used by Piggly Wiggly to attract patronage to the big expansion sale in celebration of the completion of enlargement and modernization features.

J. O. Garlington, owner and operator, expressed a high degree of faith in Littlefield and this area, and issued a statement of thanks to the patrons who have given his store such a substantial growth since 1931.

Garlington Is In Close Touch With Store Details

A Littlefield citizen of whom his friends and neighbors are proud indeed is J. O. Garlington, owner and operator of the Piggly Wiggly food store here.

Mr. Garlington is always in close touch with all the details pertaining to the conduct of his business, and is known to all his customers as a careful, painstaking, courteous merchant.

He gives personal attention to the buying in all departments of the large Piggly Wiggly store. In view of the fact that he also buys for his other stores in Morton and Tahoka, he enjoys a large buying power that gains him many discounts and trade advantages tending to bring food to the ultimate consumer at a low cost.

New Equipment Provides Greater Health Protection

Vegetables, fruits and meats get unusual attention in the new set-up that Piggly Wiggly has installed for the better service of its customers.

Two large modern meat counters with a total length of 23 feet provide proper temperature and humidity for meats on display. These are said to be of the most modern type, and were installed in order that Piggly Wiggly customers might have the advantage of the latest developments in this line.

The cooling system used for the protection of fruits and vegetables is of a newly developed type. Refrigerated air rises through wire racks on which the fruits and vegetables are placed while waiting sale. This air is kept properly chilled and humidified to give perfect freshness and crispness of the fruits and vegetables.

Ladies' Lounge Is One Of Many New Features

Several new additions to the facilities for serving the public are included in the program of expansion just completed by Piggly Wiggly.

For one thing, the comfort and convenience of Mrs. Shopper is looked after and provided for by a ladies' lounge. This room is 12x16 feet, and is equipped with all restroom facilities, lavatory, chairs and other items to make Mrs. Shopper's visit to Piggly Wiggly a comfortable one.

For the convenience of male patrons a men's room is located on the main floor of the newly modernized store. Thirsty patrons will find drinking fountains for both white and colored visitors to Piggly Wiggly.

Another advantage that will especially appeal to out-of-town patrons is the fact that a special room is set aside for the checking of bundles and parcels while patrons transact their other business in Littlefield.

Another special room is located at the rear door and will be devoted exclusively to the handling of eggs, thus eliminating much confusion and labor for producers who sell to Piggly Wiggly.

Policy Explained In Interview With Owner-Manager

When interviewed regarding the policies under which his business is operated, J. O. Garlington, owner and operator of the Piggly Wiggly store, said:

"Our policy is to buy for cash, taking every possible discount and other advantages, and selling for cash only at the lowest possible price so as to net 3 to 4 per cent.

"Besides the Littlefield store we have the Piggly Wiggly store at Morton, where Lloyd Reid owns one-third interest and operates the store. At Tahoka we have the Guarantee Food Market, which will be converted to a Piggly Wiggly store on June 20, as we have bought the Piggly Wiggly franchise there. Roy Young owns an interest and operates this store.

"With three stores to buy for, each selling for cash and paying cash, real economy is effected and passed on to our customers. We invoice monthly and keep a complete set of books on each store, so we can tell to a penny what the current profit or loss is. This allows us to adjust our prices quickly. It is our policy never to earn a net profit of more than 4 per cent. We try to net between 3 and 4 per cent.

Several Amendments To Be Submitted To Voters In August

Austin, Tex., June 15.—(UP)—Texas voters have been asked again to doctor the state's constitution. Several amendments will be submitted to popular vote on August 23, 1937. At the next general election, voters will decide if they want to keep an anti-duelling clause in the state oath of office. This ancient oath, a survival of Texas revolutionary days, has been sworn by state officials since the beginning of statehood. Affairs of honor were not entirely stamped out for many years after that time. A return to the much-condemned system of paying officials by fee instead of salary is one change under consideration. Reinstatement of the fee system, abolished two years

County judges complained that officials were not so active since fees began to be placed in the county treasury as they were when fees could be retained by the officer. The state found it a heavy burden to supplement the local salaries for the state services performed by local officers. Gov. James V. Allred estimated that the cost increase was as high as 70 per cent. Strangely enough, it was not the officials who asked for return to the fee system. Mostly, they indicated, they prefer the more certain return of regular salaries.

Other proposed amendments will permit the state to cooperate with the federal social security board in aiding needy adult blind and underprivileged children.

Bank investments would be encouraged by another amendment which would remove the double liability now placed on state bank stockholders to make good losses to depositors through bank failure.

One amendment would affect only one county. It would permit Harbiliousness, sour stomach, bilious indigestion, flatulence and headache, due to constipation.

ADMIRATION — TRIPLE-SEALED IN "CELLOPHANE"

DECISION GOES TO THE Bag . . . ON POINTS

The first three rounds were a draw between the two favorites: Coffee-in-Bags and Coffee-in-Other-Containers. In the first round, the quality of the two was the same. In the second, both had the same oven-freshness. In the third, fragrance and flavor were uniform in both. But in the fourth . . .

Coffee-in-Bags won the decision on price!

When the housewife finds that Admiration Coffee in the moisture-proof Cellophane bags is the same fresh, fragrant, delicious coffee as that packed by other methods, she will certainly choose the bag at about 4c the pound less. Methods of packaging, plus Admiration's fast truck delivery service, assure her of an equally good coffee at a more economical price.

Buy it in the bag and save the difference.

Admiration Coffee comes packed three ways: vacuum glass jars, slip-covered tin cans, and in triple-sealed Cellophane bags.

Leashed Guns—

that some of them are on the move already, intending to be the first on the new ground. We've got to get control of the Circle L and the Dot H Dot, or all our plans and work will go for nothing. We've just got to do it, I tell you!"

Starbuck laughed harshly. "Yuh an' Brockwell go ahead an' get 'em then," he said mockingly. "Me? I'm about through. I sat into this plan in the first place, willin' to do my part, 'cause I figured I was sidin' in with men who had some savvy an' brains. I found I was mistaken. 'I'll still play the game with yuh, as far as I can swing it. But I'm sittin' back an' sayin' nothin'. The finish is up to yuh an' Brockwell, damn him. He ain't played fair at all. He won't even leave the Vasco stage alone. An' folks are beginnin' to look at me sorta outa the corners of thier eyes, because I ain't roundin' up the jaspers who are pullin' them hold-ups."

"We fixed one of them hold-ups once on an innocent man, Slim Loyale. But that game ain't gonna get over a second time. Nope, I'm keepin' my coat tails in the clear from now on. Yuh can tell Brockwell that, an' to hell with both of yuh!"

Saying which, Jigger Starbuck stalked out of the door and crossed to the solitude of his own office.

That same morning, Mona Hall had just finished her breakfast when Abe Fornachon clanked into her room. "Mornin', Miss Mona," he drawled, his deep eyes flitting over her wistfully. "I hear there was trouble along the trail last night."

Mona started up, her face white, her hands going to her throat. "Slim?" she gasped. "Slim isn't—"

"Slim's all right," broke in Abe gently. "Brockwell's crowd was layin' for him, but between him an' Roy O'Brien they fazed 'em. There was one casualty. Range Deade got rocked off by Roy. Shore, there's bad trouble brewin'."

Mona nodded, her eyes tight. "I've sensed it piling up on this range, Abe, for a long time. Ever since they sent Slim to prison I've felt that sinister cloud hanging above us all. I'm afraid, Abe—afraid."

Abe stared somberly out of the window. "Don't go to losin' your courage, Miss Mona. I admit there's a lot of polecats on this range, but there's quite a count of white men also. No, I wouldn't worry too much, was I yuh?"

Still later that morning, almost noon, in fact, a buckboard rattled up to the Doc H Dot. George Arthur, dressed in a voluminous linen duster and a narrow-brimmed Stetson got out of it. There was a sharp, nervous impatience in his eyes, his thin lips were set, Mona met him on the porch, murmuring a perfunctory greeting. Arthur wasted no time in getting to the purpose of his visit.

"Miss Hall," he rasped, "are you prepared to settle the note I hold against your ranch?"

Mona's heart sank. She shook her head. "No, I'm not, Mr. Arthur—at least, not immediately. But with a little more time—"

Arthur halted her with uplifted hand. "Impossible," he snapped. "I regret this, of course, but conditions are such that I can extend you no further time. I shall have to foreclose immediately."

"B-but you said—" Mona was fencing rather frantically, but Arthur cut her short again, with almost brutal directness.

"What I may have said in the past has absolutely no bearing on the present, Miss Hall. Again I am sorry, but business exigencies force this step upon me, I am giving you ten days' notice. On the twentieth of this month I will take possession. Good day."

He was gone before Mona could collect her wits, leaving her feeling more desolately beaten than ever before in her life. It wasn't that the blow was entirely unexpected. Mona had known that the ax would fall sometime, just as she had intimated to Slim Loyale. But she was human enough to have hung on to one last thread of hope that something might turn up to avert the foreclosure.

She turned wearily back to the house, her eyes dimming with tears, her throat convulsed with sobs. Two hours later she hunted up Abe Fornachon. "Abe," she choked, "we're all done. The old Dot H Dot Ranch is about to change proprietors. Arthur is foreclosing on the twentieth."

"You'll have to tell the boys; I haven't the heart. Of course, if they want to gamble on Arthur retaining them after he takes over the place, they can. But I can't afford to keep them another day. I've just got about enough money to pay them all off, including you. Oh, Abe, it hurts me so!"

She began to sob again, little choked sobs that set lines of grim, white suffering about Abe Fornachon's lips. He laid a big hand on her bowed shoulder. "Don't yuh worry none about us, Miss Mona," he told her gently. "We'll make out."

THE CLASSIFIED SECTION BUY AND SELL HERE

"Me, I've seen this comin', an' I ain't a mose surprised. For that matter, neither will the boys be. Of course, it ain't exactly my business, but why don't yuh make a deal with Slim Loyale? He's got plenty of ready cash. I know Slim would be tickled to death to help yuh out."

Mona shook her head. "I couldn't. Abe, Slim would help me; he already offered to. But he has had so much trouble himself, I can't add mine to the load. Besides, there are other reasons that make it—well, I just can't; that's all."

"I see," nodded Fornachon, even though he didn't. "Well, keep a stiff upper lip. Mebbe somethin' will turn up."

"No, Abe; nothing will. That's the trouble. I've been waiting too long now for some good break to come along. They just don't; that's all. If I had stepped out with ruthless hands and forced my own break, things would be different now."

"Mebbe," nodded Fornachon. "Mebbe yuh're right. Well, I'll tell the boys. An' some day I'm gonna cook up a reason to punch that lawyer Jasper to a tall, thin peak."

Mona went back to the house. As soon as she disappeared, Abe sadly a bronco and rode off, apparently in search of the Dot H Dot punchers, to give them the bad news. But as soon as he was out of sight of the ranch buildings, he headed straight for the Circle L.

He rode rapidly, and about halfway between the two places overtook another rider, a tall, keen-eyed man of middle age, dressed in dusty, worn range habiliments. The stranger's hair was bleached to a straw yellow, as was the long drooping mustache that bracketed his thin, strong mouth.

At sound of Abe's approach, the stranger turned in his saddle and stopped. When Abe came up he nodded. "Amigo," he drawled, his voice deep and slow. "mebbe yuh can tell me where I can locate a feller named Arthur—George Arthur."

Abe looked the stranger over keenly before answering. "Yeah, I can. Yuh'll find him at his office in town."

"Town called Pinnacle?"

"Yeah, Over thataway, a good two hours' ride."

"Shore, I'm off the trail. But I understood he owned a ranch hereabouts—the Dot H Dot Ranch."

Abe stiffened. "There must be a mistake somewhere. Arthur don't own the Dot H Dot, yet. How long since was it yuh got that word?"

Pontiac Official Makes Statement At Dedication Of Plant

Linden, N. J., June 15.—H. J. Klingler, general manager of the Pontiac Motor Division of General Motors, made the following statement here at the dedication ceremonies of the Linden plant.

"Opening of the new Linden plant of General Motors promises better service to Pontiac purchasers and dealers along the Atlantic seaboard than has been possible at any time in the past.

"This opening is particularly timely from a Pontiac standpoint because it has taken place in the very midst of the busiest season we have yet enjoyed, and when we are exerting every effort to get sufficient cars out of the parent plant to satisfy a public demand which has steadily risen for seven consecutive months.

"By shouldering a high measure of the burden of Pontiac assembly, this modern plant will relieve the bottle neck caused by a greater public demand than the parent plant can supply at the present time, will make possible wider distribution of Pontiac cars, and will materially shorten the time when the purchaser has to wait for delivery of his new automobile.

"Strategically located in the heart of the best Pontiac car market in the world, the new Linden plant should soon become a major cog in the Pontiac production machine and if present plans mature, we assemble in the neighborhood of 50,000 cars annually in this plant alone. The Littlefield Motor Co., are local dealers for the Pontiac car.

Crack Trains Halt And Gauchos Salute Farley On Birthday

Dallas, Texas, June 15.—East bound met west-bound on a railroad right-of-way in East Texas May 30, and Postmaster General James A. Farley was given the most unusual birthday party in his 49 years.

George Preston Marshall, the Pan American Exposition's $100,000 director of entertainment and international sports program, ordered his Casino Special train, enroute from New York to Dallas for the June 12 opening, into a siding while the Louisiana Limited roared up, bearing the postmaster general, Farley and Marshall are long-time friends.

As general Farley stepped down for a hasty greeting, and to receive a sombrero from Marshall's attractive wife, the former Corinne Griffith of motion pictures, Lyn Murray's twenty-four Singing Gauchos of the spectacular revue company chorused "Happy Birthday, Mr. Farley."

"Thanks, boys, thanks," called Farley enthusiastically. "I'll get Cactus Jack Garner to try and get Maine (Republican) and Vermont (Republican) to join the Democracies of the Americas in celebrating the Pan American Exposition."

CLOTHES CLOSET BUILT OUT OF FLUE

As Claudine Merritt had no separate closet for her clothes, her father helped her with her clothing demonstration by taking out a flue that was no longer used. A closet two feet by two feet was built in that space for a cost of $10.00.

Claudine has a rod across the closet which has ample room for hangers. A shoe rack, which she made, fits underneath the dresses on the floor. A shelf above the clothes rod provides storage space for extra bedcovers and holds two hat stands. Two bags were fastened to the closet door, one for socks and one for soiled clothes.

IMPROVED CLOSET AT NO COST

"I remodeled my closet with shelves that I made from scrap lumber and then I painted it with some paint that had been left over so there has been no expense," Jewell Gibson told the county home demonstration agent on June 5.

A long narrow closet that had only two nails driven into the walls for clothes has been changed into a convenient attractive storage place. After the nails had been removed Jewell provided a long rod on which she hangs her clothes with wire hangers. Shelves were added at the sides and are used for storing extra bedding, winter clothes, as well as hats and purses. Jewell plans to fasten her shoe rack to the door of her closet so it will be easier to reach.

Jewell is the clothing demonstrator for the Littlefield Senior 4-H club. She lives north east of Littlefield.

Littlefield Defeats Lubbock Nine 6-5

Behind handy support from his team-mates, Tommy Hale neatly pitched the Littlefield Panthers to a 6-5 victory Sunday over the Lubbock Tip Toppers at Littlefield Park. The close score, however, fails to tell the story.

Tommy went all the way, and exactly 28 Lubbock batters were all that ever had the chance to face him, eleven of these fell by the wayside via the old strike-out route. It was nearly a case of three-up-three-down when Lubbock took the field.

Things looked a bit dark in the bloody fifth, when Lubbock bunched their bingles to push a pair of tallies across the plate, but in their half of this chucker the Littlefield lads retaliated with a rally that put four markers on the board and saw two homers sail over the fence in the general direction of Kansas City. Here it was that Lubbock threw the blankets off a dark horse pitcher, who, despite nice work, failed to save the game.

Locals Cash In

Littlefield scored in the first after two were out on infield grounders. A lucky (for Littlefield) error in center field stretched a single to a double, and the following single scored the runner on second.

Another counter popped up in the fourth, when the play went like this: the first batter doubled and stole third while two team-mates were skinning out to infielders and then went home on a Texas leaguer that was good for a single.

Four other pay-offs came in the fifth, as related, the first man up drawing a double, the next striking out, the next tapping a triple, the next taking the count on an infield play—and then came the two homers in a row—right square over the palings, while the last man up anticlimactically bounded out to the infield.

The boys cashed in on every hit and every Lubbock error to play well-nigh perfect baseball.

Not One-Sided

Lubbock marked a span of lucky numbers in the fifth, converting four hits into a pair of runs. First man up struck out, second singled on an infield error, third singled, fourth doubled (later being thrown out as he slid home) and the pitcher tripled, dying on base. The last man up popped one to the outer garden, where it found a home in a fielder's glove.

Lubbock had a golden opportunity to tie up or ice down the old ball game in the eighth, but Hale managed to send their hopes glimmering with a brace of strike-outs just when the rally got going good. The Lubbock chaps were hitting Tommy freely here, and the Littlefield infield made a couple of wild throws to first. To make bad matters worse, one of the Lubbockers went slug-nutty or something and sent one over the fence to hunt the others that had gone that way off Littlefield bats. However, as stated, about this time Tommy took a strike-out powder, calmed down, cooled off and delivered in big league fashion to retire the side with two strike-outs.

The game from start to finish was marked by even-temper umpiring, better-than-average chunking from the mound, slick work behind the plate, and good sportmanship among the spectators, though the fielding was a little ragged in spots.

Get Behind the Boys!

Littlefield has a stout-hearted bunch of fellows out there trying every minute, and they deserve all the support the old home town can give them. Though they won pretty neatly Sunday, they didn't pack the stands, playing to an audience of mediocre size. This observer wants to go on record as urging the local folks to hop in there and go to the games a little oftener and shout a little louder for the local lads.

Claudette Colbert Comes To Palace In 'I Met Him In Paris'

Discovered—the only living descendant of the farmer who visited the zoo, took one look at the giraffe and said, disgustedly, "There ain't no such animal!" He's Gus Anderson, who owns a silver mine in snowy Sun Valley in Idaho, and Gus insists he isn't going to believe that Claudette Colbert is an actor until he actually sees "I Met Him in Paris," the new Claudette Colbert-Melvyn Douglas-Robert Young comedy-romance, which opens Saturday midnight at the Palace Theatre.

Usually in winter, the Anderson home is walled up against the deep snows and biting winds. Mrs. Anderson prepares the meals from the big supply room in the cellar. Once a week the son, Clifford, ventures a mile down the Ranger Road to see if there's any mail in the post-box. But this winter, things have changed.

This winter, Gus was going about his mining one day, when he heard a noise at the top of the shaft. He stuck his head out, and saw a stranger standing there. "My name is Wesley Ruggles," the stranger said. "You're got a pretty spot here, and I thought I'd like to use it for a set."

"Yeah, it's a pretty mine," answered Gus, ignoring the majestic snow-covered hills in the background. "But what do you want it for?"

"A set," repeated Ruggles. "I'm a motion picture director, from Hollywood, and I want to make a picture called 'I Met Him in Paris.'"

"Yes," said Gus. "I've heard of motion pictures. Do you think they're here to stay! What do you want to take a picture of the mine for?"

"I don't want to photograph the mine. We just want to film the scenery."

"Oh, that," Gus nodded. "Sure, go ahead."

A day or so later, a bunch of men showed up with hammers, chisels and nails. Gus, entirely unprepared for this amazing show of activity, stopped some people to ask what was going on. They told him that it was a Swiss village being built, and Gus was more than ever convinced that somebody was crazy.

Bill Passed—

two years and the act establishing the reduction expires June 30, this year, unless the measure as passed by the House is approved by the Senate and signed by the President before that date.

Congressman Mahon stated that the fact that the House passed the bill without a dissenting vote was significant evidence of the continued friendliness of Congress toward farm legislation.

No estimate has been made as to Commissioner loans, but final approval of the 3 1-2 per cent interest provision in the bill would save Federal Land Bank borrowers an estimated $31,700,000 in interest charges during the next year. Congressman Mahon estimated that a saving of $200,000 during the next year would be realized by Federal Land Bank borrowers of the 19th Congressional District.
