LEON WALKER EXPERIENCES VERY UNPLEASANT INCIDENT ON TRIP

Was Held In Jail From Early Sunday Morning Until Seven o'Clock That Night Before Identified By Lawyer-Friend Of Norman

Leon Walker of the Littlefield Auto Parts met with a very unfortunate incident on business trip to Okla. City.

When as far as Blanchard, Okla., witnessing a free for all fight, in which about a dozen men were participating, he got out of his car to see what it was all about. When he was getting back in his car a couple of men, who were badly beaten up, asked him to allow them to ride a short distance. Mr. Walker, feeling sorry for them, consented. When about six miles further on he was surprised by Federal police officers, who stopped the car, stating they were looking for a dope peddler, and that his car answered the description of the automobile they were looking for. The officers took Mr. Walker and his two unknown companions to Norman and lodged them in jail. Mr. Walker tried his best to convince the officers of his innocence, and asked that he be allowed to telephone a lawyer friend of his in Norman by the name of Hinshaw. This man would not allow him to do, (Continued on back page)

A meeting of the County Planning Board was called by Judge L. R. Crockett, Monday night at 7:30 at the Amherst hotel for the purpose of organizing and electing a president and secretary, and giving a report of the meeting in Amarillo in connection with the water conservation program.

Judge Crockett explained to the members of the Planning Board the activities of the Commissioner's Court in the past with regards to the water conservation program, stating that they had sent in several months ago, application for a WPA project for a recreational lake, to spend approximately $150,000, and that Lamb county was among the first to apply for such a project.

Judge Crockett stated that this was a tentative application, and all the counties are asked to submit a new inventory or brief application at this time.

Following the general discussion of the water conservation program and discussing briefly a generalized plan for the work of the planning board, the group was asked for nomination for president, and Frank Rogers of Amherst was elected to this office.

The chair was then tendered to Mr. Rogers, and Clint Griffin was elected secretary and treasurer of the association. Soon after the organization of the Planning Board Judge Crockett reported that the Commissioners' Court did not wish to take any part in the selecting of he proposed locations for the lakes, and did not want to influence the Planning Board in any way. The Commissioners' Court then left the room to allow the Board to make their own selections, at which time Project No. 1 was located on Blackwater Draw, within a short distance from the center of the county, and fol-

IMPROVEMENTS UNDERWAY AT THE COMPRESS

Use Only Local Labor On Project; Employ 15 Daily

Around 60,000 additional storage space for cotton will be available to the Union Compress & Warehouse company, when the three units and addition to the Compress are completed, according to the contractor, in charge, B. L. Cogdill.

Only local labor is being used on the job, employing an average of 15 men daily.

The addition to the Compress and one shed have been completed, adding 21,584 square feet; with two additional units under construction. Warehouse officials believe that this additional space will be needed this fall, in view of the fact that should favorable weather prevail, it is expected that the cotton crop in Lamb county and adjoining territory will reach a new high level.

Twenty Cars To Go On Booster Trip . . . Visiting All Cities And Communities . . . Advertising Fair

In a telephone conversation Tuesday morning with Mayor Pat Boone, Congressman Mahon accepted the invitation of the Lamb County Fair association to come to Littlefield Thursday, September 23, and officially open the gates to Lamb county's second annual Fair.

Booster Trip Friday

A booster trip to advertise the Lamb County Fair, to be held here September 23, 24 and 25, will be made Friday, September 17. The caravan will leave the City Hall promptly at 8 a. m.

The Lamb County Fair Association requests 100 people and 20 cars to make the booster trip.

All those able to go, please call Don Harris, or the Littlefield Chamber of Commerce. Let everybody know you want them to visit this city during the fair.

GAS ODORIZED BY WEST TEXAS GAS COMPANY

Commencing Monday, Sept. 20 Will Have Different Odor

As a result of the order of the Railroad Commissioner of the State of Texas, of July 27, 1937, commencing Monday, September 20, all gas supplied by the West Texas Gas company to patrons will be odorized with a maldorant for the purpose of making present in such gas a different odor than heretofore existed, so that any leaks may be easily detectable by the odor.

This announcement was made by R. E. Lewis, manager of the local branch of the West Texas Gas company Tuesday.

Mr. Lewis stated that this program of odorization would be continuous beginning with the above date. He said the odor would not be nauseating, but would smell bad, that it will not be noticed when a flame is burning, but when a leak occurred would be quite noticeable.

Mr. Lewis is predicting that patrons will report many leaks when the odorization takes place, and says that on being advised, the gas company will take care of them as fast as possible.

The gas company is mailing out notices to all consumers of the odorization of the gas, on which they ask that in the event unusual odor is at any time detected in and about premises that the patron immediately communicate with the company, in order that the gas service may be discontinued until proper repairs have been made. The patron is also asked to immediately call a plumber and have him determine the origin of any leak and to repair such leaks that might exist in

To Discuss Farm Program
Congressman Mahon also stated that he planned to have a round-table discussion, while here, with the farmers on the subject of the present farm program.

He will be accompanied here by Mrs. Mahon and children.

To Officially Open Fair

When Congressman Mahon cuts the ribbon across the gates of the Lamb County Fair at Littlefield and officially opens the exposition at 1 o'clock, Thursday afternoon, Sept. 23, the people of Lamb and surrounding counties will have seen the greatest fair and entertainment ever staged in this section. Fair officials are sparing neither money nor efforts to offer the public something worthwhile.

Booster Trip Friday

Just to prove that the show is going to be a good one, 20 cars from Littlefield will visit Anton, Whitharral, Levelland, Whiteface, Morton, Rula, Enochs, Muleshoe, Sudan, Amherst, Earth, Olton, Fieldton and Spade in a one day good-will trip Friday, September 17. Rev. Don Harris heads a transportation committee and is receiving wonderful response from Littlefield citizens. A sound car will be used for advertising, posters and circulars will be distributed, and the caravan will be conveyed over the route by two State Highway Patrolmen.

FEDERAL BLDG. DISCUSSED WITH MAHON MONDAY

Postal Receipts Will Decide When City Awarded New Postoffice

At a meeting at the Hotel Hilton in Lubbock Monday afternoon, at which a number of Littlefield business men conferred with Congressman George Mahon in connection with the obtaining of a Federal building for Littlefield, Mr. Mahon stated definitely that Brownfield will get the post office building already awarded to it; that Littlefield was next in line, but he didn't know when this city would get a new building.

Congressman Mahon stated that it would all depend in the future on the postal receipts, and that should any one of the other ten cities in his district get ahead of Littlefield on postal receipts, that city would get the next federal building awarded, and Littlefield would still have to wait. However, the Congressman concluded by stating he would try to get Littlefield

Special Session Legislation Called By Gov. For Sept. 27

A special session of the legislature has been called by Gov. James V. Allred for Monday, September 27.

In his formal proclamation, the State's Chief Executive ordered the law-makers to reach into the taxpayers' pockets and extract enough cash to adequately provide for:

- (1) Wiping out a general fund deficit of $15,000,000 and make income equal outgo.
- (2) Provide additional funds for old age pensions, and
- (3) Find money for aid to the needy blind, dependent and neglected children and take care of the state's portion of the teachers retirement fund.

Flatly refusing to consider a sales tax, Allred has mentioned boosting the levies on oil pipelines, utilities and railroads and hinted at a corporation income tax. Members of the senate opposed to more taxes have repeatedly endorsed governmental economy as a method to get the state "out of the red."

Gov. Allred blasted back at critics of his tax session and a threatened

DISCUSS IMPROVEMENT TEXAS COTTON

To Be Held At Majestic Theatre 9:30 A. M.

Announced by Donald County Agent, a wide cotton improvement meeting will be held at the Majestic Theatre, Thursday, Sept. 23, at 9:30 a. m. at which time Roy E. S. D. A., F. E. Lichte, Cotton Gin specialist, E. Extension Agronomist, Kilgough, Cotton Breeder, Agricultural Experiment Station present and discuss the improvement program.

Meeting is called in view that the quality of Texas cotton has deteriorated to such an extent that many spinners in place orders for cotton, specify Texas or Oklahoma cotton in the sale. Texas cotton are still on the market, and according to authorities, it is necessary for cotton farmers in this section to improve the quality of cotton to meet the increased competition of foreign countries.

United States Department of Agriculture, the Extension Service, are doing everything possible to correct this situation, and finally concerns the welfare of the farmers of the state. Cotton farmer, ginners, oil miller, cotton buyer, and interested are urged to attend the meeting.

BOY SCOUT TRAINING COURSE TO BE HELD ON HERE

Four Boys Here Deputed To Take Part In Program

A meeting of representatives from two Boy Scout Troops held at the First National Bank Tuesday evening, plans were made to meet out the deficit that has accumulated over a period of several months. A committee will be organized by J. C. Elms, local financier who was in charge of the meeting.

Explained that a number of members of the sustaining fund had dropped out and for the last few months the town has been short as much as ten dollars a month on their allocation to the Scouting program.

The additional number of Scout age in town there is a need for a large Cub Scout pack for expansion of the program. Plans are awaiting the raising of necessary funds to carry on the Commission Will Employ Health Nurse; Urged

Regular Meeting of the Commissioners' Court Held Monday at Olton, it was decided to employ a Health Nurse for Lamb County at an expense to the county of $1,000 per year, the balance of her salary to be paid by the state.

Decision was arrived at when members from the P. O. and other organizations over the county, numbering in all 37, met with the Commissioners' Court, and requested that the county employ a health nurse. Following a conference regarding the matter, after considerable discussion and investigation, they found where they could cut expenses of 75 per cent of the nurse's salary, and decided to employ the County Nurse, who will be sent to Lamb county from the Health Department, Austin.

In an interview Tuesday, Judge Crockett stated the County Nurse might possibly be here to take over her duties in about 30 days.

The delegation which attended the Commissioners' Court and urged the appointment of a County Nurse, were composed of the following Lamb county women:

- Mesdames G. L. Hinson, N. F. Cleavinger, W. R. Kirkpatrick, J. P. Tooley, R. A. Reed, L. V. Hays, P. Tooley, M. E. Kelley, Bruce W. F. Rudd, M. E. Jones, Higgins, J. W. Roberts, H. T. Jones, T. L. Free, T. S. Alair, W. L. Edeimon, J. M. Whitfield, J. L. Crossman, J. M. Whitfield, L. A. Daniel, Lester LaGrange, L. A. Daniel, J. M. Stokes, E. J. Foast, F. O. Boles, W. V. Terry, F. C. Broyles, J. here." "Don't tire her, please, Inspector," warned the nurse.

"Oh, it won't tire me at all," said Lydia Lane, "for there isn't anything to tell, hardly. It was dark, and Mr. Henderson came home with me."

"We walked to Fifty-seventh Street, and got a taxi. We came right over to my apartment."

"Did Mr. Henderson go in with you?" the Inspector interrupted.

"No, I didn't ask him in. I was feeling too tired for company, and besides there was a pin or something sticking into me and I was crazy to find it and get it out. So he said good night at the door."

"My maid, Adele, was just going out, but I got her to help me find the pin that had been bothering me, before she left. Then she went away and I got into my kimono. I was going to make a cup of tea, but I felt sleepy, so I thought I'd lie down for a minute. I remember that I didn't even stop to put my slippers on, but just flopped on the chaise longue. And that's all I remember, absolutely, Mr. Flaherty, until I woke up here with my head all queer and a horrid pain in my arm."

"You saw nobody, heard nothing, knew nothing of what was going on in your apartment, from a little after six o'clock on?" asked the Inspector.

"I didn't hear a thing. I must have been dead to the world."

"You hadn't eaten or drunk anything that might have sent you into such a deep sleep?"

"Not a thing, I had lunch with a girl friend about half past one, and went from there to Mr. Henderson's laboratory and didn't eat or drink a thing, not even a glass of water, all afternoon."

The nurse came in again, with Max Michaelis' note. Inspector Flaherty read it with a puzzled expression. Then he turned to the girl again.

"When did you first feel that pin sticking in you?" he asked.

"Why . . . let me see. It was just after we got out of the taxi. Some people were coming along the sidewalk and somebody bumped into me and that was when I felt it first. I remember, because I thought someone must have dropped a pin on the taxi seat and it had caught in my dress. It was where it might be if I had sat on it."

"You don't know whether it was a man or a woman who bumped into you?"

"No; it was quite dark and there was rather a crowd—several people passing just then, I mean."

"When you got to your apartment you say you were feeling unusually tired. Do you mean fatigued, or that you were sleepy?"

"Sleepy would be a better word, I guess. I just felt languid, not at all ill."

"Did you telephone to Archie at any time last night?"

"No; I intended to, but I went to sleep before I could do it."

"When you were making voice tests at Mr. Henderson's laboratory, what did you say? What words did you use?"

"Why, phrases and expression from different parts I have had recently."

"Did you use anything out of the picture you are now working on?"

"Yes, I used several bits from that. It was easier than to think up new things, and besides it gave a chance to compare Mr. Henderson's system with the one we are using in the studio—to see how the same voice recorded the same words by different methods."

"Can you remember some of those words?"

The pale forehead wrinkled for a moment. "I don't know why I can't think of anything but one foolish bit," Miss Lane said at last. "That is where I scream for help through the telephone. I say: 'Come quickly! Hurry! Something terrible has happened!' Then I scream. I did that several times at Mr. Henderson's."

"Do you remember Archie's telephone number?" The Inspector snapped the question at her.

"Vanderbilt four-five-nine-three," was the instantaneous response, although the girl's eyes had closed and her head had dropped back on the pillow with fatigue.

"Thank you, Miss Lane. I won't bother you any more," said the Inspector. "Would you like to see Archie? He's waiting down stairs."

Her lovely eyes opened and lighted with pleasure. "Indeed I would like to see him!" she exclaimed.

"I'll send him right up, then," Dan Flaherty promised.

He found the others in the waiting room, eager to hear his report.

"Says she doesn't know a thing from the time she laid down at a little after six until she woke up here," the Inspector reported. "I don't know why I believe her, but I do. She'd like to see you, Archie. You might run for a minute."

Doane was half way through the door before Flaherty had finished the sentence.

"I don't see where we've got any father, Max," the Inspector went on.

"Did you ask her the questions I suggested in my note, Dan?" inquired Michaelis.

"Yes," he replied. "She rattled off Archie's telephone number like she could say it in her sleep. She's as crazy about him as he is about her, if you ask me."

"And those other things," he continued, "she says she felt the pin sticking in her just after she got out of the taxi at her door. Somebody bumped into her in the dark. And the words she was using in her test at Henderson's were out of the picture she's working in now. Only ones she could remember were just what Archie heard over the phone."

"Make anything out of that?"

"Yes, I think that the whole thing up, take the telegram I've got, No. 10, to you later. I think I'll check up with Henderson or two points in her story. He may be able to give a description of the people who ped into them on the one thing. Say we go place? I'll take a chance Archie with his girl if right with you, Dan."

here." "Don't tire her, please, Inspector," warned the nurse.

"Oh, it won't tire me at all," said Lydia Lane, "for there isn't anything to tell, hardly. It was dark, and Mr. Henderson came home with me."

"We walked to Fifty-seventh Street, and got a taxi. We came right over to my apartment."

"Did Mr. Henderson go in with you?" the Inspector interrupted.

"No, I didn't ask him in. I was feeling too tired for company, and besides there was a pin or something sticking into me and I was crazy to find it and get it out. So he said good night at the door."

"My maid, Adele, was just going out, but I got her to help me find the pin that had been bothering me, before she left. Then she went away and I got into my kimono. I was going to make a cup of tea, but I felt sleepy, so I thought I'd lie down for a minute. I remember that I didn't even stop to put my slippers on, but just flopped on the chaise longue. And that's all I remember, absolutely, Mr. Flaherty, until I woke up here with my head all queer and a horrid pain in my arm."

"You saw nobody, heard nothing, knew nothing of what was going on in your apartment, from a little after six o'clock on?" asked the Inspector.

"I didn't hear a thing. I must have been dead to the world."

"You hadn't eaten or drunk anything that might have sent you in to such a deep sleep?"

"Not a thing. I had lunch with a girl friend about half past one, and went from there to Mr. Henderson's laboratory and didn't eat or drink a thing, not even a glass of water, all afternoon."

The nurse came in again, with Max Michaelis' note. Inspector Flaherty read it with a puzzled expression. Then he turned to the girl again.

"When did you first feel that pin sticking in you?" he asked.

"Why . . . let me see. It was just after we got out of the taxi. Some people were coming along the sidewalk and somebody bumped into me and that was when I felt it first. I remember, because I thought someone must have dropped a pin on the taxi seat and it had caught in my dress. It was where it might be if I had sat on it."

"You don't know whether it was a man or a woman who bumped into you?"

"No; it was quite dark and there was rather a crowd—several people passing just then, I mean."

"When you got to your apartment you say you were feeling unusually tired. Do you mean fatigued, or that you were sleepy?"

"Sleepy would be a better word, I guess. I just felt languid, not at all ill."

"Did you telephone to Archie at any time last night?"

"No; I intended to, but I went to sleep before I could do it."

"When you were making voice tests at Mr. Henderson's laboratory, what did you say? What words did you use?"

"Why, phrases and expression from different parts I have had recently."

"Did you use anything out of the picture you are now working on?"

"Yes, I used several bits from that. It was easier than to think up new things, and besides, it gave a chance to compare Mr. Henderson's system with the one we are using in the studio—to see how the same voice recorded the same words by different methods."

"Can you remember some of those words?"

The pale forehead wrinkled for a moment. "I don't know why I can't think of anything but one foolish bit," Miss Lane said at last. "That is where I scream for help through the telephone. I say: 'Come quickly! Hurry! Something terrible has happened! Then I scream, I did that several times at Mr. Henderson's."

"Do you remember Archie's telephone number?" The Inspector snapped the question at her.

"Vanderbilt four-five-nine-three," was the instantaneous response, although the girl's eyes had closed and her head had dropped back on the pillow with fatigue.

"Thank you, Miss Lane. I won't bother you any more," said the Inspector. "Would you like to see Archie? He's waiting down stairs." Her lovely eyes opened and lighted with pleasure. "Indeed I would like to see him!" she exclaimed.

"I'll send him right up, then," Dan Flaherty promised.

He found the others in the waiting room, eager to hear his report.

"Says she doesn't know a thing from the time she laid down at a little after six until she woke up here," the Inspector reported. "I don't know why I believe her, but I do. She'd like to see you, Archie. You might run for a minute."

Doane was half way through the door before Flaherty had finished the sentence.

"I don't see where we've got any father, Max," the Inspector went on.

"Did you ask her the questions I suggested in my note, Dan?" inquired Michaelis.

"Yes," he replied. "She rattled off Archie's telephone number like she could say it in her sleep. She's as crazy about him as he is about her, if you ask me."

"And those other things," he continued, "she says she felt the pin sticking in her just after she got out of the taxi at her door. Somebody bumped into her in the dark. And the words she was using in her test at Henderson's were out of the picture she's working in now. Only ones she could remember were just what Archie heard over the phone."

"Make anything out of that, Max? I don't."

"Yes, I think that's the whole thing up, take the telegram I've got. No, to you later. I think I'll check up with Henderson or two points in her story. He may be able to give a description of the people who ped into them on the one thing. Say we go to place? I'll take a chance Archie with his girl if right with you, Dan."

CHURCH NEWS

METHODIST CHURCH

The pastor will preach at the morning and evening church hours next Sunday. A part of the morning service will be devoted to holding a called session of the quarterly conference.

The evening service begins at 8:00 p. m. with the church school at 9:45 a. m. Now that school has started, and most every one has returned from summer vacations, let every one be in church and Sunday school next Sunday. Our church school is showing a gradual increase, with the interest at the church services growing. Six new members united with the church last Sunday, they were: Mrs. I. T. Shotwell, Mrs. H. R. Birkbeck and daughters, Misses Mary Beth and Joy Dell, and Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Rogers. We are glad to welcome these and others to find here a church home.—Marvin B. Norwood, pastor.

Rev. Brian Performs Wedding Ceremony From Hospital Bed

Miss Anna Faye Haywood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Haywood, of Claene, and Lloyd Eibert Lambert, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Lambert of Whitharral, were married here Sunday afternoon, September 5, at about 4:30 o'clock.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. A. A. Brian, Baptist District Missionary in the Payne-Shotwell hospital, where he has been confined to his bed, recovering from an automobile accident.

The ceremony was performed in the presence of Lloyd Murphy, Miss Lorene Lambert, Miss Pauline Davis, Lawrence Haywood, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Lambert, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Harris, Floyd Lambert and Mr. and Mrs. George Earl Geron.

Cadet Bridges To Assist Capt. Trummell Here

Cadet Reita Bridges of Tyler, Texas, arrived Tuesday and will assist Capt. Trummell in general Salvation Army work here.

Cadet Bridges was an assistant to Capt. Churchill at Lubbock for a year, and has had considerable experience in this work.

A welcome address will be held Friday evening at 8 o'clock, and Cadet Bridges will bring the message.

Salvation Army Sunday school opens at 9:45 a. m.

Morning service at 11 o'clock. Young peoples meeting at 6:30 p. m.

Evening service, 8 o'clock.

LUTHERAN CHURCH NEWS

Sunday morning the pastor will speak on the epistle lesson for the day, recorded, Eph. 4, 1-6. The sermon theme will be, "Be Diligent to Hold the Unity of the Spirit." Sunday night at 8 o'clock an address will be held on "Witchcraft." Choir practice will be held after the night service.

Walter J. Luecke, pastor.

To Elect Church School Officials Here Next Sunday

At the close of the class session next Sunday there will be held a special session of the Quarterly Conference for the purpose of electing the church school superintendent and three assistants for the Methodist church for the coming year. Members of the board of Christian education will also be elected at that time.

The new church school year begins October 1, at which time all officers and teachers of the church school will be installed in a special service at the morning service October 3. Several classes have elected their teacher and officers for the new year.

Mr. Floyd Hemphill, who has made a very effective superintendent for the past several years, will be renominated by the pastor for another year. Mr. Hemphill is very popular with both young and old, and has succeeded in building a very successful school in the Methodist church. The superintendent will nominate his three assistants, one of each of the three age group divisions of the church school. It is likely the Mrs. Hemphill will be continued as the superintendent of the children's division. She has done splendid work, with her corps of workers in that division. A new superintendent of the young people's division must be elected, and likely a new adult superintendent, as Mr. Chisholm, who has been serving in that capacity has been elected chairman of the board of stewards, and teacher of the Men's Bible class, succeeding Mr. L. T. Green, recently removed to Lubbock.

Following this election a meeting of the board of Christian education will be called to elect or approve all the other officers and teachers of the church school, and make plans for the new year's work.

MRS. CRANE MOVES TO NEW RESIDENCE JUST COMPLETED

The four room house and bath under construction on East Eighth Street for Mrs. Lula Crane has been completed, and Mrs. Crane and her father moved to their new home Monday.

Cicero-Smith are reported to have furnished the materials. Mr. Henderson and sons to have done the carpenter work and Mr. Francis the decorating.

Drs. Nelms & Nelms Open Sudan Office

Drs. Nelms and Nelms, local chiropractors, opened a branch office in Sudan last week for the convenience of their patients in that territory.

The office is in the Sudan hotel with office hours from 1 to 6 o'clock Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday afternoons.

"Sleeping Sickness" Is Killing Stock

Morton, Tex., Sept. 14. — The "sleeping sickness" among horses that has wrought such havoc among stock in counties in this section has invaded Cochran county and five deaths have been reported to date, three this week. Horse owners here were warned before hand that the disease was active in adjoining counties and a number of farmers had already given preventative measures to their animals.

There seems to be but one certain remedy, and that is to immunize the stock by vaccination. The toll of infected horses is heavy and only a small per cent are said to survive.

The County Agent will gladly tell you what to do to save your work stock, in most cases, if you seek this information soon enough.

New Location For Test Well In Bailey County

A new location for a test well has been announced for the southwest section of Bailey county, one and three-fourth miles north of the Cochran county line and two miles east of the state line on the McCelvey holdings, on block 12, lease 162, Presidio county school lands.

This is twelve miles west and four miles south of the Enochs well. The contract calls for 3,500 feet and operations are supposed to begin before October 1, while no definite date is known.

MORTON SEWING ROOM MAKE 222 GARMENTS IN 8-DAY PERIOD

Miss Allie Monroe, supervisor in Morton sewing room reports that for the 8 day pay period during the latter part of August, her twelve sewing women turned out 222 finished garments. They operate only six machines, but the remainder of the women not using them were employed in cutting and hand finishing the various articles of wearing apparel.

Mr. and Mrs. Dewitt Reid of Hobbs were visiting relatives and friends in Littlefield Tuesday.

Rev. A. A. Brian Is Released From Hospital

Rev. A. A. Brian, who was injured in an automobile accident about three weeks ago, and who has since been confined in the Payne-Shotwell hospital, was able to turn to his home in Plainview today.

"Wee Willie Winkie" Stars Shirley Temple, McLaglen in Heroic Adventure

Story Brought to Screen by Twentieth Century-Fox
Spectacular Production of Gallant Action
At India's Untamed Khyber Pass

Kingling's colorful characters live glamorously, adventurously and courageously on adventure's last frontier Twentieth Century-Fox picturization of his famed "Wee Willie Winkie," which opens Saturday midnight at the Palace Theatre and continues through Sunday and Monday with Shirley Temple and Victor McLaglen in the lead roles.

At the heart of mighty India, where the British raj ends and the border is immediately ablaze with crimson warfare, with McLaglen's life being one of those lost.

Feeling that both Khoda Khan and her grandfather would prefer peace, Shirley takes a desperate step to end the killing, and sets out at night for the Pathan camp. When her departure is discovered, the Highlanders set out grimly for Khyber
Pass, graveyard of many a soldier, determined to rescue her or die in the attempt. With lives at stake, Shirley makes one last desperate gesture to save them and restore peace, bringing the picture to a thoroughly thrilling climax.

the spectacular production of Shirley Temple has yet another "Wee Willie Winkie" gigant. McLaglen a powerful and fearless, fighting fool, takes splendid opportunities to show his skill. June Lang, Shirley Smith, Cesar Romero, Con-stantin and young Douglas at a frontier army post in India too happy for Shirley to be so far from her mother June Lang, grandfather, C. Aubrey is a gruff old disciplinarian.

Shirley decides that the only way to win the Colonel's approval is to become a soldier herself.
Her friend, Michael Whalen, a sergeant, turns her over for training to the burly sergeant
Victor McLaglen who dubs her "Wee Willie" because of the quality she has of screwing up when she asks questions.
Shirley gets into plenty of trouble
but wins the gratitude of the captured chieftain, Khoda
when she returns his lost brother. In a surprise raid on the pride chieftain is freed.

Advertising Rates Given Upon Application

Subscribers who change their addresses, or fail to get their paper, should immediately notify this office, giving both new and old addresses. Communications of local interest are solicited. They should be briefly written, on only one side of the paper, and must reach this office not later than Wednesday noon of each week. The right of revision or rejection is reserved by the publisher.

Advertising that does not show in its text or typography that it is paid for must be marked as an advertisement. All local advertisements remain in this paper for the time specified or until ordered out. All notices, matters not by whom nor for what purpose, if the object is to raise money by admission fee or otherwise, is an advertisement and when sent in for publication must be paid for at the regular advertising rate per line for each issue printed.

Obituaries, cards of thanks, and resolutions of respect will also be charged for at the same rate.

Any erroneous reflection upon the character, standing or reputation of any person, firm, or corporation which may appear in the columns of the Lamb County Leader will be gladly corrected upon its being brought to the attention of the publisher.

In case of errors or omissions in local or other advertisements, the publisher does not hold himself liable for damage further than the amount received by him for such advertisement.

J. H. DOWNS OF NEAR FIELDTON BRINGS IN SECOND BALE OF COTTON

The second bale of cotton to be ginned in Littlefield this season was brought in by J. H. Downs of three miles west and one north of Fieldton, weighed 505 pounds, and was ginned by the Littlefield Farmers Cooperative Gin.

Mr. Downs says he has eight more bales to bring in now. He did not have to plant over, and says his cotton is farther advanced than that which was planted the second time due to the heavy rains.

Street Decorations Being Made This Week

The streets and business houses of the city are rapidly being decorated with flags and bunting in preparation for the Lamb County Fair which is slated to open here Thursday of next week. Mr. Lloyd Lea, Hobbs, New Mexico, has charge of the decorations and a splendid job is being done under his supervision, and the city will soon be in her "holiday dress."

Night Classes Open Tuesday In Commercial Work

Commercial night classes at the local schools opened Tuesday night at 7 o'clock with 22 enrolling for the work, which is open to anyone within the Littlefield Independent School District.

The classes include typewriting, bookkeeping and shorthand. C. B. Ramsey, high school teacher of the commercial department in high school, is the instructor.

The classes will meet Tuesdays and Thursdays of each week from 7 until 9 at the high school building. The course will cost about $8.50 per month, there being a minimum fee, according to the number of enrollees.

According to Supt. F. A. Hemphill, the classes are organized to suit the public, and there is still room for about three more pupils.

D. C. Lindley And Miss Turner Are Elected To Teach

At a called meeting of the Littlefield school board Monday night, D. C. Lindley was elected to teach mathematics and social studies in the fourth and fifth grades, and Miss Geraldine Turner of Lubbock was appointed to teach language, arts and social studies in fourth and fifth grades. A vacancy was declared in the high school and primary department because of crowded conditions necessitating another teacher.

SUDAN ROTARY CLUB RECEIVE CHARTER FRIDAY

F. O. Boles In Charge Of Program Put On By Littlefield Club

The Littlefield Rotary club presented the program at a banquet Friday evening, Sept. 10, at the Chamber of Commerce hall, Sudan, when the Sudan Rotary club received its charter from J. Edd McLaughlin, district governor of the 127th District Rotary International, at which affair a large number of Rotarians and Rotary Anns were present.

F. O. Boles, president of the local Rotary club, had charge of the program.

The meeting was presided over by L. Arnold Purtell, president of the Sudan group.

The program opened with the group singing "America," followed by the invocation by Rev. Leroy Brown; club singing led by Mancil Hall, and introduction of toastmaster, W. D. Biggers, by Arnold Purtell. The introduction of Rotarians, Rotary Anns and guests then took place, which was followed by the dinner.

After the banquet Dr. F. R. Malone of Lubbock addressed the gathering on "What Rotary Means to Me." Mancil Hall favored the group with a vocal solo, and Mrs. R. E. McCaskill gave a talk on "What It Means to be a Rotary Ann." A piano solo by Morgan Layfield, and the presentation of Rotary club charter by J. Edd McLaughlin, Ralls, district governor, 127th district, Rotary International, concluded the program.

Officers and board of directors of the Sudan Rotary club were named as follows: L. Arnold Purtell, president; Herbert B. Teal, secretary-manager, and Forrest Weimhold, sergeant-at-arms.

Directors were: L. Arnold Purtell, W. V. Terry, Herbert B. Teal, Dennis L. Brown, Dr. F. R. Green, Joe T. Salem and W. D. Biggers.

Wildcats to Clash with Tahoka Sept. 24

WARRANTS TO BEST LOCALS OCTOBER 1

Should Have One Of Fastest Teams

Wildcats will clash with the Tahoka eleven on the 24th, for the championship of the season. The team from the local winning team is unusually heavy. The line averages some 175 pounds and the backfield about 148 pounds. The starting lineup for the opposition is as follows:

Center—Eter.
 Guards—Lacy Burleson, O. Walker.
 Ends—B. Graham, E. Evans.
 Tackle—Baize.
 Fullback—Lee.
 Halfback—E. Burleson.
 Quarterback—Elms.
 Runningback—Henson.

Schedule for class B football is as follows:

Sept. 14—Littlefield at Tahoka.
 Sept. 15—Lubbock Cowhands at Littlefield.
 Sept. 16—Littlefield at Slaton.
 Sept. 17—Littlefield at Brownsville.
 Sept. 18—Ralls at Littlefield.
 Sept. 19—Littlefield at Crosby.
 Sept. 20—Olton at Littlefield.
 Sept. 21—Littlefield at Leveland.
 Sept. 22—Post at Littlefield.
 Sept. 23—Lamesa at Littlefield.

Littlefield should have one of the best teams in the conference this season. The Wildcats are in excellent condition and everything is running smoothly as a whistle. Replays at Littlefield at Tahoka and Lubbock Cowhands at Littlefield. Three good teams, two good

Muleshoe To Friona Oct. 1

Sept. 11. (Special)—Candidates of Muleshoe school are being put through preliminary paces by Coach C. R. ... who is looking to the first game at Friona October 1.

The Muleshoe squad in the last year has won 14, lost 14 and three games of the 31 played. The offensive score to 346 and 299 for defendants.

Temporarily listed on the first are: Woodie Lambert, Hooper Raymond Brooks, R. L. Hicks, McAdams, Clayton Hill, Myron Bayless, Don Moore, Bert Parsons, Claude Riley, Frank Prescott, Owen Bell, and B. Winn, Alvin Chitwood, Taylor, Johnnie Tucker, Kennedy, Bob Starkey, John Starkey, and Charley Long will be watching in attempts to make the first stringers, said coaches.

The team will play Morton, Amberst, Spring Lake, and Farwell, playing three of the games at home. Other games are to be scheduled.

Wildcats to Clash with Tahoka Sept. 24

SUDAN 'HORNETS' WILL BE IN CONFERENCE

The Sudan eleven are out this year to give the other teams in the conference some tough competition when it comes to kicking that old pigskin around. This will be their first squad since 1930 and the prospects for a winning team looks good. John Tucker, former coach of Littlefield will be at the head of the coaching staff. The fact that Sudan has been without a team for the past six years makes us believe that they really have something up their sleeve this year. Nevertheless, the first game of the "Hornets" will be against Muleshoe on the 29 of this month.

John Tucker will be remembered in Littlefield as he was connected with the faculty of the local schools for some six years. The first practice, which was held last Wednesday week, was attended by some 35 husky "Hornets" ranging from 150 to 200 pounds in weight. The "Hornets" will be dyked out in new equipment this year.

ORGANIZE BOY SCOUT TROOP AT AMHERST

Club Announce Many Prizes To Be Offered

Amherst, Sept. 15.—(Special)—At a meeting of a representative group of fathers of boys of Scout age here Monday night, plans were completed for the organization of a troop of Boy Scouts, C. A. Duffey, chairman of the committee who called the meeting announced.

The troop will be sponsored by the Business Men's club here. Other men that have been selected on the committee are Allen White, and Roger Britt. Two additional committeemen will be selected to assist these men in the operation of the program.

C. M. Wagner had been selected as temporary Scoutmaster of the troop. A permanent Scoutmaster and Assistant will be selected right away, Duffey announced.

Approximately 40 boys were present at an organization meeting Monday night. In a survey that was made at the school Monday of 58 boys of Cub and Scout age it was found that 54 boys desired to take a part in the Scouting program. This was 93.1 per cent of the group that filled out the survey blanks.

Allen White was selected as finance man and Roger Britt as program man. The town's part in supporting the council budget was set at $10 per month. It is the objective of the finance committee to double this amount in order to create a reserve fund for the use of the local leaders in buying necessary books and equipment to carry on a successful program.

The troop will be a part of the northwest district, being the tenth and eleventh troop in the district. This district has more troops than any other district in the council with the exception of the central district including Lubbock county that has fourteen troops. The date for the next meeting of the troop has not been set.

MORRIS MORGAN PURCHASES STOCK OF CUENOD'S DRY GOODS COMPANY; MANY YEARS IN DRY GOODS BUSINESS

Announcement was made Tuesday of the sale of the stock of the Cuenod's Dry Goods company by J. H. Ware, who recently purchased the merchandise from Mr. and Mrs. T. S. Sales. The purchaser was Morris Morgan, well known Littlefield business man, who assumed charge Monday morning.

Mr. Morgan is a dry goods man of long experience. He was connected with a local concern for seven years and for the past two years has been a traveling representative of the Allen-A company. However, for the past several months Mr. and Mrs. Morgan and young son have been making their home in Littlefield.

Besides being experienced in the general dry goods business, Mr. Morgan is a specialist in the fitting of shoes, and has gained for himself a wide reputation in this section along that line.

Under his management the store will carry a very large stock of merchandise, featuring many widely known and popular lines.

In an interview Tuesday Mr. Morgan stated that all departments would be completely stocked with national lines within a few days.

L. C. Hewitt will have charge of the program, which will include a musical history of "Man's Life" by Mrs. C. E. Payne, with Mancel Hail singing the solos, and accompanied on the piano by Morgan Layfield.

Wednesday, the local club will also go to Lubbock to an inter-city meeting.

"BULL" STORY IS TRUE EXPERIENCE OF JUDGE SIKES; FAVORITE TREE IS DESTROYED AND JUDGE BECOMES IRATE

Judge J. B. Sikes was telling a very interesting "bull" story here Monday from an experience he had with an educated but an unwise bull at his home Saturday night, therefore the Judge is advising all owners of such animals to keep them under control. Here's what happened to Judge Sikes—or rather to his favorite shade tree, Saturday night:

About nine o'clock the Judge was reading his favorite magazine when he heard the bull come roaring up to his home on College Addition and stop at a shade tree on his lawn. Thinking that he would chase the bull off of his premises he went out in the yard where he saw the tree that he had so lovingly nursed these many years, swinging back and forth as if the bull was horning it. He yelled at the bull, but the animal refused to move. It being quite dark the Judge felt a little timid about getting near the "brute" as he was probably calling the intruder by this time, so he picked up a grubbing hoe and hurried it at the bull but the animal still stayed close to the tree.

Falling in all his efforts to remove Mr. Bull from around the tree, the Judge said that he prevailed on Louis Culp to take the automobile and bump it into the bull, and when this was done, the animal jumped around, and then discovered that he had tied himself to the tree, and this is how he did it. The Judge had a smooth wire tied at the middle of the tree to a slab in the ground to prevent the tree from bobbing, and the bull had pulled the slab up, and threw the wire in such a way on his horns as to tie him in the middle of the tree. In the effort to get away from his predicament the bull completely destroyed the tree which had reached the height of about fifteen feet.

When the Judge discovered the bull's plight he phoned City Marshal Ab Anderson, who, with Tom Matthews, Constable, and Mr. Cook went to the Sikes home but about ten minutes before they arrived the bull had loosed himself, after fighting with the wire about an hour.

The Judge says the above story is true—believe it or not—he is lamenting the loss of the tree, and blames it on the bull being both educated and unwise.

FALLS Home Laundry

The PENTHOUSE MURDER

by Caleb Johnson

TENTH INSTALLMENT

SYNOPSIS: A card game is in session in Elmer Henderson's penthouse atop a New York skyscraper. The players are: Henderson, Police Inspector, Flaherty, Martin Frazier, Archie Doane, Max Michaelis, and his friend Williams, a stockbroker.

They are waiting for Stephen Fitzgerald. When he fails to appear, a telephone call brings the information that he is out with a girl. Fitzgerald and Henderson are both romantically interested in Lydia Lane, the famous actress, but Archie Doane reveals that she is engaged to marry him.

Doane leaves the party early when Fitzgerald fails to appear. A short time later he telephones Inspector Flaherty with the frantic news that he has found Fitzgerald and Miss Lane dead in Lydia Lane's penthouse apartment.

When Flaherty and the medical examiner reach the apartment, they find that Miss Lane is still alive. She is rushed to a hospital where blood transfusions and care promise to restore her.

All circumstantial evidence points to Archie Doane as the murderer, especially when the murder gun is found carefully planted in the chimney clean-out in the basement.

Miss Lane's French maid, Adele Marceau, has been overheard threatening to shoot Fitzgerald if he did not stop annoying her. The janitor reports that Mademoiselle Marceau works in a night club on her day off and that she had talked to him in the basement on the night of the murder.

"But yes, I have seen it or one like it at the studio where M'sieur Doane shoots it at M'sieur Fitzgerald."

"Look at it, and see if it is the same one."

The girl shrank back in alarm and withdrew her hand as the Inspector proffered her the weapon.

"Must I touch it?" she demanded. "I am afraid. It might go off and make a great noise."

"If you feel that way about pistols, what did you mean when you told Fitzgerald you would shoot him?" Flaherty demanded.

"Oh, that. That was a manner of speaking. I would not shoot anybody, but I would scratch his eyes out if he got fresh with me again, and he knew I would do it—the beast."

"You are not sorry that he is dead, then?"

"I am sorry that anybody is dead, m'sieur, but it is a better place for girls, this world, with M'sieur Fitzgerald out of it. That is what I think of him."

"Anything you want to ask her Max?" inquired the Inspector, turning to Michaelis.

"Miss Marceau, this pin that was in Miss Lane's dress—do you know how it got there?"

"Indeed, no, m'sieur. I cannot think how it could be there. It had no use there, but there it was."

"Did you notice anything unusual in Miss Lane's appearance. Did she seem ill, or excited, or especially nervous, when she came in?"

"Only she said, 'Adele, do find that damn pin. It's driving me crazy.' Then she sat down on a chair and said 'I don't know why I feel so tired. I think I'll slip into a kimono and lie down a while.' And that is all, m'sieur. She was taking off her dress when I went out."

"Sounds straight enough," commented Inspector Flaherty, as he instructed Martinelli to let the girl go but to see that a police eye was kept on her.

"We've verified his gun," the Inspector continued. "Checked up on the factory number with the property man at the Highart. He hadn't missed it. And our pistol expert says both bullets were fired from it."

"We've got the Weather Bureau report on the snow, too. It began to fall at 8:13 and stopped at 10:42.

"And that's all we've got so far. I can't see that we've pinned anything on anybody except Archie, so far. How does it look to you, Max? You've got something up your sleeve; I can tell by the way you've been gloating ever since you came in. What's your theory? Or have we punched it full of holes?"

"On the contrary," replied Michaelis, "but I can't disclose my theory just yet, for Miss Lane's story may knock it galley west. I think we should go up to the hospital."

Larkin, the Inspector's secretary came in. "I called your house, Mr. Michaelis," he said, "and your butler says there is a telegram there for you."

"Thank you, Larkin. Will you call him again, please, and ask him to bring the telegram to Roosevelt Hospital at once and give it to me there!"

"I'm crazy to see Lydia, naturally," said Archie Doane, as the party consisting of Inspector Flaherty, Max Michaelis, Martin Frazier, and himself drew up in front of Roosevelt Hospital. "Won't you see if I can just get a word with her after you are through?"

The Inspector agreed and the others entered the waiting room. Michaelis' man arrived a minute or two after Flaherty had gone up stairs, and gave him the telegram. The others only observed that it was a long message. The lawyer read it over twice, then stepped to the reception desk in the hall and asked for a sheet of paper. He wrote a brief note and asked to have it taken at once to Inspector Flaherty in Miss Lane's room.

"Good news?" asked Frazier, casually glancing at the yellow envelope.

"Good news for Archie," replied Max Michaelis. "My theory still stands up, stronger than ever."

Though her face was still almost as white as when he had last seen her in her own bedroom, Lydia Lane's wide blue eyes were open and clear when Inspector Dan Flaherty entered her hospital room, and their expression changed from curiosity to pleasure as the nurse introduced him.

"I've heard Archie speak of you, Mr. Flaherty," she said. "Where is he? I got the lovely flowers he sent me. Mr. Henderson sent me some, too. Everybody is perfectly lovely to me, but I do want to know what happened. I suppose you've found out all about it by this time."

"Don't you know?" asked the Inspector, somewhat taken aback.

"Why, didn't they tell you? The doctors? I don't remember a thing from the time I laid down in my own room until I woke up here. I only know that somehow I got my arm hurt. Was it a burglar, or what?"

"That's what we are trying to find out, Miss Lane," replied the Inspector. "I wish you'd tell me everything that you can remember, from the time you left Mr. Henderson's laboratory until you found yourself

Eidelweiss Dinner Club Entertained at Potter Home Thursday Evening

As a courtesy to members of the Eidelweiss Dinner club, Mrs. T. Wade Potter was hostess to the group at a dinner party Thursday evening at the Potter residence on East Ninth Street.

Following a chicken dinner with all the trimmings, bridge was enjoyed. Mr. and Mrs. R. E. McCaskill scored high in the games.

Attending this social event were: Mr. and Mrs. Bob Lewis, Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Hilburn, Mr. and Mrs. J. O. Garlington, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Barnett, Mrs. Pat Doone, and Mr. and Mrs. McCaskill.

Eastern Star Send Funds For O. E. S. Chapter

At the regular meeting of the local chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star, held Friday evening, over which Mrs. J. G. Singer, Worthy Matron, presided, a report was made that $20 had been raised and sent towards the maintenance fund of the International Eastern Star Temple at Washington, D. C.

A called meeting will take place this week, at which initiation will be carried out.

Mrs. Earl Hopping Entertains Club At Bridge Luncheon

Complimenting the members of the Thursday luncheon club, Mrs. Earl Hopping entertained at a bridge luncheon Thursday at 1 o'clock at her home at Roundup.

Garden flowers adorned the entertaining rooms for the occasion. High score in the games was awarded Mrs. Oscar Wilemon, while Mrs. William Rumback carried away second prize.

Those attending were: Mesdames Dennis Jones, Payne Wood, Manell Hall, Jack Henry, William Rumback, Oscar Wilemon, Glynn Pass, and Mrs. Raymond Barrier, sister of the hostess.

Junior Study Club Enjoy Dinner Party at Amherst Hotel Friday Evening

The Amherst hotel dining room was the scene of a delightful dinner party Friday evening, when members of the local Junior Study club staged their first meeting of the new club year.

Members of the General Arrangements committee were: Mrs. F. S. Fowler, Miss Marie Rutherford, and Mrs. Bill Stubbs.

Mrs. Ivan Fowler acted as mistress of ceremony. Plate favors were corsages of shasti daisies, while the place cards featured autumn leaves.

The program included: club collect-roll call, answered by favored jobs; talk by Miss Thelma Killough on "Looking Backward"; "The Duties of Officers," by Miss Johnnie Pace; "Responsibilities of a good Club Member," by Miss Laura Virginia Bills; and "Looking Forward to the Club Year," by Miss Ruth Matthews.

Attending the dinner party were Mesdames Quinton Bellomy, F. S. Fowler, Ivan Fowler, Jack Johnson, and Bill Stubbs, and Misses Laura Virginia Bills, Velma Cook, Erna Douglass, Lois Kirkpatrick, Thelma Killough, Ruth Matthews, Mary Belle Montgomery, Johnnie Pace, and Marie Rutherford.

Rev. and Mrs. W. J. Luecke motored to Lubbock and Lamesa on business Monday evening.

Miss Luzelle Bryan Honored At Surprise Party And Shower

Complimenting Miss Luzelle Bryan at a surprise party and shower, the G. A. Girls of the First Baptist church entertained at the home of Mrs. T. A. Henson on East Eighth street Thursday afternoon.

The occasion was also a farewell courtesy to Miss Bryan, who left Sunday morning to enter Baylor university, Waco.

The honoree received a large array of beautiful and useful gifts. Attending the affair were: Misses Ruth and Evelyn Griffin, Juanita Terrell, Dorothy Fraley, Phonita Ray, Margaret Coffman, Josephine Roberts, Frances Barton, Thelma Crockett, Velma Lowe, Carlene Parker, and Mrs. T. A. Henson and Mrs. Viggo Peterson, to whom refreshments of ake and ice tea were served.

Four Local Business Men Celebrate Birthdays at Hilarious Affair Sunday

When it was learned last year that their birthdays came on the ninth, tenth, eleventh, and twelfth of September, respectively, four friends decided that this event should always be celebrated each year. This makes it easy, for Sam Farquhar, a barber, par excellence, gives the haircuts and shaves that fixes them up for the party; Lon Campbell, noted chef, and restaurant owner, brings the eats; E. C. Cundiff, eminent dairyman, furnishes the drinks (or was it milk in all those bottles), and as everyone knows Bob McCaskill, being a ginner.

With a setup like that it was no difficult task to have the dinner party last Sunday night in the McCaskill's back yard. Besides being greeted with smoke and the aroma of chicken being barbecued the ig-

Edgar Walters Returns Thursday From Air Races

Edgar Walters returned Thursday morning from Cleveland, where he attended the National air races. Mr. Walters left Friday evening, September 3 at 5:49 p. m. from Amarillo by air, arriving in Chicago at 11:26 that night, where he had to wait over until 3:26 a. m., getting into Cleveland at 6:10 Saturday morning. He spent two days at the races, witnessing stunt flying, formation flying by Army and Navy, trophy races. He witnessed a fellow jumping out of a plane 10,000 feet, coming down on bat wings, and also saw 30 parachute jumpers drop at same time from three tri-motor planes.

Mr. Walters, after staying two days at Cleveland, went to Toledo, where he attended the National Federation of post office clerks Monday and Tuesday. He went from Toledo to Chicago by train, and from that city to Amarillo by air on the return trip.

A. C. Rose arrived Wednesday of last week from Weslaco, Texas, where he has been buying cotton the past several months. Mrs. Rose and son, Billie, accompanied Mr. Rose. They will make their home here during the cotton season.

hoted lawn was festive with the flower laden tables, and flowers were banked on the walls of the stone fence, making a most beautiful setting for the dinner. It was strictly a stag affair. Mrs. McCaskill fading out of the picture early in the evening. She cannot yet understand why the moving of her husband's picture should have gummed up the water system in her bathroom.

From the comments of the guests it was evident that it was one of the most hilarious parties ever given here, and, if for no other reason their friends hope they will live many years if they are to be entertained each year in the same manner that the Cundiff's did last year, and the McCaskill's this year.

Those enjoying this party were: "Pud" Hanks, Pat Boone, Troy Howton, Ed Seely, L. C. Grissom, Norman Renfro, Earl Wilson, Ab Anderson, Clint Griffin, F. O. Boles, Carl Arnold, J. H. Ware, Ben Lyman and the "Four Horsemen."

Mr. and Mrs. D. B. Paxton and children of Denver arrived Tuesday to visit Mrs. Paxton's mother, Mrs. T. A. Henson, and family.

Family Reunion To Be Held At J. W. Arnn Home

A family reunion is being planned at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Arnn for Friday and Saturday of this week.

Bill Arnn, who has been in the Marine Corps for the past four years, returned home Sunday night from San Diego, Calif., where he has been stationed. This is the first time Mr. Arnn has been home since he left.

Mr. and Mrs. Tom Arnn of Tyler arrived Monday, and will remain here until Saturday. Mrs. W. W. Free, a daughter, of Childress arrived Friday and will visit in the Arnn home until next week. Mr. and Mrs. E. J. Arnn, V. L. Arnn and Mrs. E. N. Arnn and children and W. W. Free will arrive Friday. Mrs. Roy Trigg, formerly Miss Lora Arnn, will reach Littlefield Thursday to be here for the family reunion.

I Thank You

In announcing that I have disposed of the stock of machinery and equipment composing the Tremain Implement company to John R. Mayo of Floyd county and L. L. Collins of Lubbock, who have taken possession.

—I wish to thank each and every one of my customers and friends, who have made the 12 years I have been in business in Littlefield pleasant and profitable. The good will and friendship of the farmers, and other residents of this section, have made my business relations with them very pleasant, and in disposing of my business I feel I must thank everyone who has contributed to my success.

I will continue to make my home in Littlefield and have established my office at rear of my residence.

SCHOOL FOOTBALL TEAM WILL BE HEAVY THIS YEAR; FIRST GAME SEPTEMBER 24TH

Sanders Putting His Charges Through Daily Workouts; Quarterback Lee Still Remains On Side Lines Account Of Wart

The nine teams that face the Littlefield football team will be put down by the Littlefield football team from the first whistle.

With thirty-eight men out for practice each afternoon with the boys who will no doubt make up the team averaging about 175 pounds in the line and 153 in the backfield it can be expected that plenty of weight will be put on the team. Having many of last year's players back in uniform this year, the team is full of good players. The team is mixed with those who were with the team last year and those who were new to the team.

Coaches met in Lubbock Saturday and ironed out conflicting schedules so all will be satisfied—and it is hoped they will. Tahoka says they have another game that date but things may be changed about so the game will remain as Littlefield's first opponent.

Olney Practice

Over a week ago the local squad went to Lubbock and scrimmaged with the Olney boys who play in class "A". First Littlefield would have the ball for twenty minutes and then Olney. Those on the side of the field liked the way Littlefield went down the field. They gained about twice as much ground against Olney as the Olney boys did against them. This speaks well for the Littlefield boys who have the fair and square manner of fighting hard but still playing clean football.

Boys Show Well

Evans, and Lacey Burleson, have been showing up in workouts this week. Lacey Burleson at the full back position, six-foot three inches tall, is slated to land a perfect punt at one of the end backs. This tall boy is showing passes out of the back in grand style and much to the credit of him during the season.

Bill Cheshier returned Tuesday from Dallas, where he had been a week on business, booking pictures, etc. for the Palace and Ritz Theatres.

Hart Camp Will Entertain Plateau Singing Convention

Hart's Camp will entertain the Plateau Singing Convention Sunday in an all day sing song. There will be dinner on the grounds.

All interested in singing are cordially invited, and asked to bring a basket well filled to help Hart Camp to entertain as this is a county affair. There will be singers from a distance present, including quartette leaders; and a great time is expected by all. Hart Camp is rated as one of the best communities in Lamb county, and it is the desire of the county committee that the citizens of this section turn out in large numbers, and help entertain the gathering. Each one is asked to bring enough food for their own family, and a little to spare, and there will be plenty to serve the large number expected.

RODEO TO BE BIG EVENT IN LAMB COUNTY FAIR'S PROGRAM

Everything is in readiness for the big rodeo to be staged by Curley Daugherty in the ball park adjoining the fair grounds, during the three days of the second annual Lamb county fair.

In an interview with Mr. Daugherty Wednesday he stated that there will be 15 bucking horses, 30 head of Brahma bulls, 20 head of Loughorn Chihuahua steers for bulldogging, also plenty of good stock for the other events.

A number of the best cowboys in the world will take part in the various events.

Sponsor Radio Program
Radio will play its part in building up attendance when the Fair Association sponsors a 30 minute program over Station KFYO at Lubbock on Sunday afternoon, September 19, at 2 o'clock. The program will be dedicated to the towns of Lamb county and will feature Miss Kathryn Darby, charming little singer from Spade. Morgan Layfield of the Littlefield high school faculty will be accompanist for the program while musicians from other communities of Lamb county will be guests on the entertainment.

To Decorate Town

In keeping with the rodeo and fair spirit, merchants of Littlefield are dressing up the town with special flags and draperies. Loyd Lea, well known in New Mexico rodeo circles, is not only decorating the town but will accompany the boosters on their trip Friday and will announce the rodeo as well as furnish music for the performances. Curley Daugherty, who has staged seven annual rodeos at Olton, will be arena director for the three afternoon shows.

To Honor McQuatters

As a special tribute to the farmers of this section, a dinner is being sponsored by the Fair Association for Mr. and Mrs. R. B. McQuatters of Littlefield, who were selected recently as this year's master farmers from 19 west Texas counties. Congressman George Mahon will attend this dinner as well as the Assistant State Agent, the district agent, the district home demonstration agent, county agents and home demonstration agents, and Eugene Butler, editor of the Progressive Farmer. Mr. Butler will present a silver plaque to the McQuatters.

Visit Newspapers

The Fair management has just closed an extensive tour of towns from Clovis to Amarillo, to Lubbock, and to Brownfield when Misses Benny Frances Dunn and Mildred Wiseman called on Newspaper editors. The young ladies were dressed in cowboy outfits.

Organize Women's Division

Mrs. Floyd Hemphill, general superintendent of the Women's Division, announces her departments well organized and under the supervision of very capable superintendents who predict exceptionally fine exhibits. Bountiful crops and intense interest among farmers also insure splendid exhibits in the agricultural departments. W. H. Cunningham, secretary of the State Association of Certified Seed Growers, is in charge of the Agricultural Departments.

Children Admitted Free

All the schools of Lamb county have been visited by County Superintendent F. O. Boles and Fair Manager Glenn Burgess who gave complimentary tickets to the school children for the first day and invited the schools to dismiss Thursday afternoon for the occasion.

work, Elms said.

Plans were made for a leadership training course to be conducted here October 4 and 5. The purpose of the course is to train additional leaders to assist in the operation of the program. In the afternoon of the fourth and fifth, there will be a Cub leaders training course conducted for the parents of boys of Cub age with the idea of organizing a Cub pack here. Every parent and anyone interested in the advancement of Scouting in Littlefield are urged to attend these training courses and offer their services as leaders and supporters to the movement.

Littlefield has been selected as the host town for the next Northwest District Court of Honor to be held the first week in November, according to a report from Floyd Coffman, District Court of Honor chairman.

Federal Building—

a Federal building this year. Rural electrification was also discussed at the meeting Monday, and Congressman Mahon reported that there are about three times as many applications in at Washington as they have money to finance, and that if this section got any rural electrification lines, they would only be short lines, and not carry sufficient power for irrigation pumps.

blockade in the senate. The senators last spring watched the house spend weeks drafting various tax proposals and then calmly killed them when they reached the upper chamber. A balky group also managed to bury repeal of horse race betting on the calendar, forcing the chief executive to call an extra session for that purpose.

Nearly $20,000,000 in the opinion of State Auditor Tom C. King, will be needed by Texas old age pensioners in the next two years. King said today the amount exceeds by more than $5,000,000 the estimated income.

He said in a report and estimate on the old age assistance administration, that $19,817,784 would be needed to finance payments until August 31, 1939, the end of the current biennium.

Estimated revenues total $17,146,740. The fund deficit is $1,626,487.

Leon Walker—

though Mr. Walker believes they did phone Littlefield and talked with Deputy Sheriff Sam Hutson. Not knowing Mr. Leon Walker very well Mr. Hutson was not able to advise the officers just what kind of a car Mr. Walker drove, though he did give them a slight description of Mr. Walker.

At the jail they finger-printed the three, and it developed one of them was an escaped and dangerous gangster, as well as a murderer.

Fortunately for Mr. Walker, the wife of one of the other men came to the jail to see her husband, and the Littlefield resident asked her to phone Mr. Hinshaw. Mr. Walker's lawyer-friend, the woman did so, and Mr. Hinshaw soon arrived at the jail, and convinced the officers that they were holding an innocent man, and thereupon they freed him, after holding him from early Sunday morning until 7 o'clock that night, during which time they put him through a strict grilling.

The Federal officers advised Mr. Walker that it was fortunate for him that they had stopped his car and apprehended the escaped convict, as he was a dangerous criminal to be at large, and that he, himself, might have happened with the same fate that others coming in contact with this convict had.

Mr. Walker arrived in Littlefield Monday night a much wiser man. He is swearing off giving strangers a ride.

Application Made—

Mrs. A. P. Duggan And Arthur Return From Trip To Europe

Arthur Duggan arrived in Littlefield Sunday and is attending to business matters until today (Thursday) when he will return to Austin.

Mrs. A. J. Duggan and son, Arthur, have just returned from an extended trip to Europe, landing in New York Sept. 3, and Austin Sept. 7.

They visited the countries of England, Norway, Sweden, Denmark, Germany, Hungary, Austria, Czechoslovakia, India, Switzerland and France.

In an interview Wednesday Mr. Duggan said: "Of course, I wouldn't want to live any other place than the United States, but if I had to live over there, I would prefer England. The gayest place I visited was Budapest in Hungary. Switzerland is the best place for a summer vacation. Italy has the most interesting atmosphere, historical places and art galleries."

Mr. Duggan said he believed that we get a lot of propaganda here about the relations between Italy and Germany, as he said he gathered from visiting those countries that there was no hard feeling between the Italians and Germans, that they were getting along fine, seemed to be living very happily, have plenty to eat, etc.

Mr. Duggan will leave today for Wichita Falls to attend the Texas Junior Chamber of Commerce Convention which convenes Thursday, Friday and Saturday, September 16, 17 and 18. He is chairman of the Legislative committee of the state group, which office he also held last year when the association met at Corpus Christi.

This is the only state wide organization.

I. B. Holt, district clerk, was a business visitor in Littlefield Wednesday.
