Mrs. Bernard Borum Honored At Bridal Shower At Spade

The school gym at Spade Thursday last was the scene of a unique and lovely shower honoring Mrs. Bernard Borum, the former Miss Ina Merle Cooper, teacher at Spade.

Mrs. Jack Garrett, Mrs. H. A. Sherfield and Miss Waddell were in charge of the entertainment program, ably assisted by Mrs. Lester Patterson and Mrs. C. B. McCoy.

Mrs. Sherfield presided over the bride's book, a lovely and clever little book, creation, fashioned and presented by Mrs. A. A. Webb of Littlefield.

Bessie White as ashes of rose gown.

The flower girls were little Janith Greer wearing pale blue and Patsy Dawn McCoy wearing powder pink.

After the vows were exchanged the minister and the bride and groom took their places at the side of the honoree and the rest of the procession marched slowly out.

The gifts were spread out on a lace covered table, centered by a large table lamp, the second and third grade's gift to their teacher, and were presented to the honoree.

Refreshments of sandwiches, punch and potato chips were served to the following: Mesdames E. C. Hardman, G. H. Poteet, Louis Farr, Delbert Mouser, J. A. Greer, Jim Nelson, W. M. Weatherly, G. W. Jackson, Jack Fowler, V. T. Lynch, Wright, Claud Parks, G. M. Vann, R. C. Roberts, W. M. McCoy, Elmer Cottrell, T. T. Harrison, Bob Mann, W. F. Adams, Ben Mouser, L. A. Smith, G. W. McCoy, and Misses Allene Bowers Mabel Waddell, Polly Nisbett, Melba Green, Robbie Rivers, Cleone Martin, Wanda Mae White, Edith Roberts, Mr. Kavanaugh and Mr. Waldon and the honoree, Mrs. Borum.

The little folks were served at a special table.

Many sent gifts who were unable to attend.

Made up entirely of small folks, each one, with the exception of the groom, representing a teacher at Spade, their crepe paper costumes were complete in every detail and successfully created the illusion of a really "swank" and impressive wedding ceremony.

The minister, J. D. Greer, representing Mr. Kavanaugh, officiated. Clad in black and holding a small Bible, he lent a solemn dignity to the scene.

The bride, Mary Anna Corey, representing Miss Cooper, wore a white tiered wedding gown. Her veil was fastened by a halo of pale pink gladioli buds and her bouquet was white fairy lilies. Her train bearers were Barbara Kavanaugh, wearing a pale pink gown and Earlene Roberts in lemon yellow.

The groom, Master Billy Gene Greer, representing Mr. Borum, was impeccably attired in striped trousers and black frocktailed coat.

Master Dorman Weber served as best man.

Miss Melva Joyce McCoy was maid of honor. She wore an azure blue gown with a corsage of roses.

The bridesmaids were Miss Joyce Whitlock wearing orchid and Miss

Wildcats Host To Anton Eleven Friday Night

Locals Win First Game Of Season From Morton 27-0

With their first win of the season, a comfortable 27 to 0 victory over Morton, tucked under their belts, the Littlefield Wildcats are going through extensive practice sessions this week in preparation for their game here Friday night with the Anton eleven. The fray will be a non-conference affair.

While the Anton grid combine has failed to display any great show of power this season, they have a well-balanced crew and are expected to provide both the Wildcats and local fans interest a plenty under the lights at Seely Field Friday night.

Farrell Compton and Roy Hutson became Littlefield's 'touchdown heroes' in Friday night's win over Morton. Compton romped through a stubborn Indian defense for three counters, while Hutson tallied the other.

Late in the opening quarter, Hutson received a Morton punt on their 45 yard stripe, cut sharply to the left and streaked untouched down the sidelines to pay dirt. Donald James, end, place kicked perfectly for the extra point.

Just as the gun sounded ending the first half, Compton culminated a long drive downfield by plunging for a counter from the Morton 5. Again James place kicked the extra point.

Before the final gun, Compton scored two more counters, one on another 5 yard plunge and the other when he caught Babe Hammons' bullet pass and crossed the double stripe. James kicked another extra point after the third touchdown, but missed conversion of the fourth.

The entire Littlefield team played better ball than it has in the past two games. Line play and pass defense was much better, as was the blocking when the Wildcats were on the offensive.

Following the Anton game, the locals open a road schedule which will carry them to Brownfield, Oton and Sudan before they return to Seely Field for a game with the tough Levelland Lobos on November 8.

Reduced admission prices will be in effect for the Anton game, school officials said this week.

All of the four undergraduate classes of the school showed large increases this year with the freshman class having approximately 2,300 members, the largest in the history of the school.

Financial Condition Of Amherst Said Good

Financial condition of the City of Amherst is good and the bonded indebtedness, refinanced two years ago, is being paid off on schedule, according to Mayor Aubrey Loyd. A bond issue of $57,500 was voted in 1938 and arrangements made to pay a lower rate of interest than charged before. Rate was cut down to 4 1-2 percent. The city street paving bonds were included in the bonds voted for a water system.

Interest charges being met, the mayor said, with the $1,000 a year payment paid on time. Another payment is due in April. Operating expenses of the city comes from water system revenue leaving tax levies for the sinking fund.

U. S. Is Haven for These Students

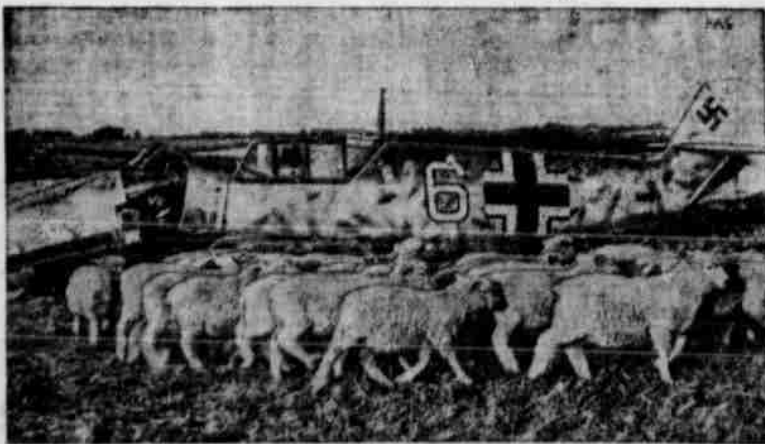

No more eager newspaper readers can be found on the Texas State College for Women campus than these six students from foreign countries who find the daily papers a much better medium for keeping up with war-torn homelands than the slow and censored mails.

Silvia Marquez, looking on from the rear, is from Puerto Rico, wants to be a court interpreter. Conchita Genoves fled Valencia, Spain, in January 1939 with her mother and brothers while her father was still a political prisoner.

Sonja Alken, front row left, hasn't been home to Venezuela since the summer of 1939. Claude Hegar of Brussels, Belgium, came to Connecticut to spend a holiday, thinks it safer to stay here. Maria Luisa Garzon's parents are still in Madrid, Spain; letters from them are always censored. Marthe Thomas, French girl from Algiers, had her education in French and German universities interrupted by war. All are glad to be in the United States.

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND . . . A strange contrast indeed, as harmless sheep wander past one of the Nazi bombers brought down during the raids on England.

The SNOOPER SAYS . . .

I had never thought about it, but it was just twenty years ago that women were preparing for their first vote in a presidential election!

Someone has already asked us, "When will Thanksgiving be observed this year in Littlefield?"

Think this over—A well-known factory is supposed to have produced an automobile that was completely assembled in something like seven minutes. That's still far short of the records set by some of this country's reckless drivers who can dis-assemble the same car in seven seconds!

Next Wednesday young men will start registering for military service in Uncle Sam's army.

A South Plains scribe recently wrote that young men today would be far better off in a military training camp, than riding in "beat-up" jalopies, about town, wearing their shirts over their pants, (slack suits) and singing and yelling.

To me, these "beat-up" jalopy days are the happiest in a youth's life, and they are care-free and happy, before taking manhood too seriously. Some local boys have "God Bless America" painted on the back of their "town" car, and the song that has won so much fame is still a favorite among the youth of Littlefield, who listen to it played on nickelodeans.

And, they will be the same boys who first register in this town for military service, I'll wager, because they have been taught loyalty all of their lives.

Rev. Donald Harris, local Presbyterian Minister, read the marriage ceremony for Miss Marilyn Fry and J. Holt Waldrip at Floydada Saturday morning at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Fry.

Rev. Harris also performed the ceremony for the marriage of Miss Maxine Fry to Hugh McCulloch, at this same home in Floydada August 21. That same day he officiated at the wedding of Miss Fredda Charles Bills to Paul Timmons, at the home of Miss Bills' parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Bills in Littlefield.

He is one of the most popular preachers in this entire section, and since he came to Littlefield three years ago, has read a large number of marriage ceremonies.

But you know that old saying about "often a bridesmaid, but never a bride?" — Well, — it might read like this — "often the officiating minister, but never a bridegroom."

After driving to the end of Main street Sunday afternoon, and seeing the many, many cotton pickers from the south, camped on the lots adjoining the depot, I'm wondering if there will be a shortage of cotton pickers for farmers this week.

One farmer approached a group down there recently, and they asked him if he had a house for them to live in. When he told them he did have, the "man of the house" asked, "Well, do you have electric lights in it, because we like to play the radio at night after work."

The farmer didn't take that group. He has been thankful the past year that he could have rural electrification in his own home. He isn't selfish — maybe he didn't think about wiring the houses for cotton pickers. He will know before another fall.

It is quite probable that your small child will, in the near future, want nursery rhymes and fairy tales sung to them before they go to sleep, instead of the usual telling, that has come down through the years. Kids these days are modern in every sense of the word, and now that Dan Gillis, director of the Musical Varieties of Texas, tells these stories in music, mothers will need to learn them, too.

Could be called streamlining nursery rhymes and fairy tales!

Notes at random — Health and beauty articles advocate many ways to get soft, white hands. However, the best recipe is to do nothing — It has been remarked that the war is apt to develop into contest to determine who can take the most without squealing — Why is it that when a limb is mentioned, men never think of an arm? — Frankness is the child of honesty and courage — Go to your bosom; knock there, and ask your heart what it doth know.

The group, composed of at least thirty teachers from the Littlefield, Spade, Fieldton, Anton, Sudan, Muleshoe, and Bula schools, will leave Littlefield Friday night, November 1, returning home Sunday night, November 3.

NATIONAL DEFENSE CONTRACTS FOR $7,610,787 AWARDED TEXAS FIRMS

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 2 — National defense contracts totaling $7,610,787.61 were awarded to Texas concerns during the six weeks' period which ended September 15, Governor W. Lee O'Daniel reported today to his local industrialization committees throughout the state.

Transmitting figures furnished by the Office of Government Reports, the Governor announced that this brought the amount of such contracts awarded in Texas since June 13 to a total of $41,298,848.

This does not include the contract let on September 9 for the construction of twelve destroyers at Waco, the Governor said. The contract price for these vessels has not been announced.

The Governor's office is serving as state headquarters for the National Defense Advisory Commission in Washington, and the staff of the Texas Industrialization Program organized last February, has taken over a great variety of duties in this connection, Governor O'Daniel stated.

Industrial mobilization for national defense, as it pertains to Texas, will continue to receive major emphasis during the period of the crisis, it was indicated.

National defense awards during the six weeks which ended September 15 covered a great number of projects and items of different size and nature. The largest single contract was that awarded for the construction of the naval air station at Corpus Christi. The estimated cost of this project is $23,318,000.

During the period covered in the Governor's report, the Crawford-Austin Manufacturing Company of Waco received two more orders for canvas folding cots, the amount of the first being $78,977.20 and the second $656,000. This company also received an order for canvas cot covers to cost $22,050, and for cotton mattresses costing $190,921.50.

Supplementing other orders received earlier in the summer, the Taylor Bedding Manufacturing Co., of Taylor was awarded a $183,150 contract in August and a $375,115 contract in September for mattresses required by the United States Army. This company received also an order from the United States Navy for mattresses to cost $20,174.85.

The Works Progress Administration authorized the expenditure of $5,000 for construction and improvement of buildings and for facilities and grounds at Ft. Ringgold, near Rio Grande, Texas, and $84,051 for similar work at Ft. Clark at Brackettville.

The H. M. Zweig Company of Dallas, will make denim coats for the United States Army to cost $14,953.92 and denim trousers to cost $16,137.33.

The Conro Manufacturing Co., of Texas, Dallas, received one order, amounting to $29,882.39 for denim coats, and another in the amount of $14,111.92 for denim trousers.

R. W. Briggs & Co., Pharr, was given the contract for earth excavation and hauling at Kelly Field for $14,987.25. (This was included in the allotment to Kelly Field, listed in a July report and therefore is not included in the grand total.)

One-piece working suits will be made for the Army by the Waco Garments Manufacturing Co., at Waco under a contract which amounts to $75,172.50.

The United States Navy ordered 24 small boats from the Livingston Shipbuilding Co., at Orange to cost $118,824. The Navy awarded a contract to the Coastal Refineries Inc., of Taylor, for fuel oil in the amount of $5,750.

Other projects approved by the WPA, in connection with the national defense program, included:

Construction and improvement of buildings and facilities at Wm. Beaumont General Hospital, El Paso for the Army—$1,000; Camp Hulien National Guard Training Camp at Palacios for the National Guard—$35,338; airfield facilities at San Antonio Municipal Airport, San Antonio — $6,929; rehabilitation and improvement of the State Hospital at Ft. Sam Houston, San Antonio, for the Army—$20,709; reconstruction and improvement of roads at Ft. D. A. Russell Military Reservation, Marfa, for the Army—$29,116; development of army post for air training, at the San Angelo airfield—$75,000.

Among those planning on making the trip are Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Chesher, Mr. and Mrs. Art Chesher, Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Hendricks, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Fowler, Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Watkins, who will be joined at Dallas by Mrs. Chesher's sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Walter Nashert, and other friends of Oklahoma City, as well as friends of Mr. and Mrs. Art Chesher from Hobbs, who will all be guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Lyne, sister and brother-in-law of Mrs. Chesher and Mrs. Nashert at their home in Dallas at a dinner party.

ORIGINAL ROTARY RIG TO OPEN
45TH OIL INDUSTRY ANNIVERSARY

FORT WORTH, Oct. 5 — Oil's first rotary drilling rig will "spud in" the celebration here Oct. 31-Nov. 2 of the 45th anniversary of the birth of the Texas oil industry.

Powered by a blind mule hitched to a pole, the original rotary rig will drill again to open the anniversary convention of the Texas Mid-Continent Oil and Gas Association. The ancient rig, which was located at Corsicana by President E. L. Smith, of the association, will be set up on a vacant space near convention headquarters here and drilling of a wildcat oil test started under supervision of the rig's owners, J. E. and C. E. Rittersbacher of Corsicana. Positively no stock in the wildcat test will be sold.

Making up the crews will be pioneers of the Texas petroleum industry who will don overalls again to work a "tour" apiece. Several Corsicana old timers, who either worked on Texas' first commercial oil well there, or watched it drilled, are expected to come to Fort Worth to see that the job is done right. The wildcat well will be drilled as deep as the rig and the crews permit.

The rig, built in 1883 for water well drilling in South Dakota, was brought to Corsicana when news spread of the discovery of oil there.

It was used to drill a number of oil wells at Corsicana, and was the predecessor of the rotary which brought in the Spindletop field near Beaumont a few years later. Driven by a mule or horse, like a scragham mill, the old rig is in decided contrast to a modern Diesel-powered rotary which weighs forty or fifty tons and will drill up to three miles into the earth. The original rotary can be lifted by hand.

Other pioneer pieces of equipment used by Texas oilmen also will be on exhibit at the convention Mr. Smith said. Talks by national petroleum leaders and discussions of current industry problems will make up the convention program, while entertainment will include a golf tournament, dinner dance and several receptions.

A. C. Martin, formerly of Raymondville, purchased recently the Bledsoe Gin from Gage and Gooderich, and is now in possession, and operating same.

Mr. Martin was in the gin business in Raymondville for three years previous to going to Bledsoe.

He was in Littlefield on business Friday and stated that cotton in that section was very good, that from all prospects a bumper crop would be gathered in the Bledsoe territory.

Specialist Gives Remedy For Lice

Lice are prevalent in exceptional numbers in many poultry houses at the present time and in many cases have caused egg production to drop sharply.

Geo. P. McCarthy, poultry specialist of the Texas A. & M. Extension Service, recommends one of these three treatments: dust the birds with sodium fluoride; dip the birds in sodium fluoride mixture, prepared according to the directions on the package; or paint the roosts with nicotine sulphate.

To dip the bird in sodium fluoride, hold the fowl by the head with the fingers over the beak, and by the legs, and draw through the mixture backward. This will force the mixture into the feathers. Such dipping is recommended only during warm weather.

Large poultry producers prefer the nicotine sulphate method, especially if they have houses in which they can control the air circulation. It is most effective on still nights.

The roosts are painted lightly with nicotine sulphate about 30 minutes before the hens come in at night. When they perch on roosts, the fumes from the chemical penetrate the feathers and kill lice. The treatment should be repeated in ten days to take care of any lice that have hatched out in interval. If the ventilators are closed during the treatment, they should be opened about 10 o'clock the same night to allow the fumes to escape.

Vitamins Are In Vogue; Let's Get the Facts

In recent years, the term "vitamin" has become a household word. To nearly everyone it means vim, vigor, vitality, and all that goes with good health. What are these vitamins anyhow? What is the story back of them?

The existence of certain unidentified substances having superior nutritive properties was suspected long ago. As early as 1600 B.C., Egyptians and Chinese hit on the discovery that eating livers would improve one's vision in dim light. Today we know that the liver supplied vitamin A, recognized as a protective food factor for night vision. About 1720, Kramer, an Austrian physician, found that when certain fresh foods, such as vegetables and fruits, were added to the diet of persons suffering from scurvy, this disease was cured. Today we know that these foods supplied vitamin C. These and other instances of earlier times afford an interesting background to our present knowledge of vitamins.

Word Coined 28 Years Ago

It was only 28 years ago that the word "vitamin" was coined. And since that time, the nation has become "vitamin-conscious." Scores of scientists are engaged in vitamin research. New discoveries are being made, and the subject has aroused such interest, that the public last year spent about $75,000,000 for vitamin products in drug stores.

For a long while, vitamins were looked upon as something quite mysterious. Today, although there is still considerable mystery, a great deal is known about them.

Several Kinds of Vitamins

We know there are several kinds of vitamins, and that each has its own specific function in the body. They help children to grow, give endurance and stamina, stimulate appetite, build body resistance, and have other values. Taken into the human body, they act somewhat like the ignition spark in an automobile.

Outstanding among recent discoveries are those of Dr. C. A. Elvehjem of the University of Wisconsin. He found, in studying the B vitamins, that meat is the richest source of these important factors. The three on which the most information is available are thiamine (B1), riboflavin (B2), and nicotinic acid. The findings of Dr. Elvehjem and others have revolutionized the whole vitamin picture. The accompanying chart, carrying the seal of the American Medical Association, is a brand new one. The figures show the vitamin content of many of our common foods.

Vitamins Have Many Functions

The vitamins featured in this chart are all necessary for growth and health. In addition, vitamin A

We Are In the War

The United States is at war. Let us face the facts. It is all very well to talk about "measures short of war" which this nation is taking to aid the British in their defense against the Nazi-Fascist powers of the Continent, but in effect they amount to actual participation in the war.

Regardless of our "neutrality" laws, the United States has definitely taken sides in the most momentous struggle between nations in all history. Nobody can question that. Most Americans are heartily in favor of it. Except for sending troops to fight abroad which are not needed, and for sending our navy, we are as much at war against Germany and Italy as we were against the Central Powers in 1917-18.

Consider: American factories have been shipping fighting airplanes to England for a year and more; lately our Government has been sending many planes out of our own Army and Navy equipment. We have been selling Britain field artillery left over from our World War stocks, with ammunition to fit. We have delivered great quantities of rifles and ammunition out of Government stock to the British. A dispatch from London told of a German plane having been brought down by soldiers armed with American Springfield rifles.

Then we sold England 50 reconditioned destroyers, taking in exchange the rights to naval and air bases to protect our Atlantic coast line. We have made what amounts to an alliance with Canada, which is actively in the war guaranteeing to go to her defense if needed. We are practically, though not technically, allies to England.

Who can doubt that if Hitler and Mussolini defeat Britain they will consider, and rightfully so, that the United States has been an active participant in the war against them, and that ours is an enemy nation? There seems little doubt that official Washington looks at the prospects in that light.

Mrs. Tom Ham—Yellow House Club on tea ring.

During the judging of the products, the women present received much valuable information and tips from Miss Phipps and Miss Saine as to contents and methods of cooking the various kinds of breads and cakes, as well as from Mrs. Perry, Lamb County Home Demonstration Agent.

In the judging of the yeast breads, Miss Phipps said: "Hard wheat flour will make good yeast bread, because it has a higher gluten content, and that doesn't necessarily have to be high priced flour. You need a soft wheat flour for making cakes. It makes a softer, more tender texture. You have to have the elasticity of the gluten to allow your yeast breads to rise. Most of the flours on the market are "all purpose" flour and not so good for making yeast bread. Extension Service recommends having a hard wheat flour for yeast bread, and a soft wheat or cake flour for cakes.

At the close of the show Saturday, Mrs. H. M. Packard of Spring Lake presented Mrs. Perry with a basket of beautiful fresh strawberries grown in her garden at Spring Lake.

STATEWIDE MEETING TO BE CALLED BY W. T. C. C.

Complete Budget Campaign Will Be Launched For State

Bill Being Drafted To Be Submitted To Legislature Soon

Good government in Texas, how it is needed, how it may be had, is engaging the close attention of the West Texas Chamber of Commerce. The organization is, this year, giving unusual emphasis to its long-time work program of fostering better fiscal management and budget making in state and local governments. In the making is a complete plan to be submitted to the people of Texas and to the legislature, covering these objectives:

1. Providing centralized control and up-to-date budget procedure of already drawn and approved by officials of the West Texas chamber is the plan submitted by Dr. George C. Hester, counselor of the WTCC's Public Expenditure Commission, and D. A. Bandedeen, manager of the organization, for reorganizing the financial management functions of the state. This was local political sub-divisions the debt-incurring and debt-paying practices for the benefit of the taxpayers, state receipts and disbursements.

2. Giving greater standardization to and mandatory requirements for budget making in local political sub-divisions.

3. Setting up adequate provisions for the collection of delinquent taxes, and basing of local budgets upon 100 percent collections.

4. Modernizing and improving for announced by WTCC's president J. S. Bridwell, in Fort Worth, after an all-day meeting with Jas. D. Hamlin, chairman of the Public Expenditure Commission; Dean J. Thomas Davis, vice president of the WTCC, and Hester and Bandedeen.

The general objectives of the plan—Point No. 1 in the WTCC's whole program—as announced by Bridwell, are:

1. To achieve a modern, scientific and complete budget for the state containing all of its financial plans, instead of piecemeal, incomplete and separate plans as at present.

2. To achieve centralized control and supervision of all state receipts and disbursements, instead of diffusion of this control in more than 100 different departments and funds.

3. To achieve centralization, and control of accounting and independent auditing, instead of uncorrelated auditing and accounting scattered through the many departments and funds.

4. To achieve more effective centralized control over things being purchased, and over personnel by a classified civil service system, instead of decentralization and the spoils system with state employees.

5. To achieve better budget management and execution, with savings and unspent balances reverting to the treasury of the state instead of no-budget execution and expenditure of balances as at present.

6. To achieve reorganization, consolidation and coordination of administrative agencies so as to eliminate unnecessary duplication of work, personnel, rentals, traveling expense and other overhead items which admittedly is needed in the state's governmental structure. President Bridwell said the main virtues of the plan being offered are:

(a) That it utilizes the constitutional and other offices and boards already created insofar as practicable, and reduces the number of agencies in the state's administrative system.

(b) That it enables getting the job done in the democratic way rather than through dictatorial procedure, yet enables a strong executive budget as contemplated by the constitution of the state.

(c) That it makes possible better legislative procedure by enabling the legislature to obtain full and complete information upon which to determine policies and make appropriations, while at the same time giving the legislature its rightful check on administration through the auditing function.

Much information has been collected and exhaustive studies have been made by Hester and Bandedeen on financial practices in other states, and the WTCC plan to be submitted blends the best experiences in other states with the Texas constitution and practices. President Bridwell said: "Full explanation of Texas conditions as they now exist, the remedy proposed and practices in other states, will be published soon. A bill is likewise being drafted for submission to the legislature for putting the plan into effect. On issuance of our pamphlet covering the and preparation of the bill, a statewide meeting will be called by the West Texas Chamber of Commerce to launch a campaign for passage of the bill."

CHECKERBOARD LOVE

JOSEPH M'CORD

CHAPTER IT SYNOPSIS

Audrey Swan, nicknamed 'Cygie', the only child of a highly respected horse trainer, whose farm was the estate of Judge Castle, Judge's only son, Jeffrey, has Audrey's close friend since childhood. After a trip in Europe, Audrey is back in Parville to work in her father's law office. He is interested in Olive Cooper, whom she met abroad. At a dinner at the Castles, Audrey meets her friend, Vic Quinn — and her friend, who is a week end guest. At the party comes the Swan to jump their horses. Olive is thrown and her mare's leg is broken.

"I can't say. It may be no more than a sprain, or there may be broken bones or torn ligaments."
"Listen, Swan," Jeff whispered somewhat irritably. "What was the matter with that darned mare, anyway? My man brought word that you said she was O. K. at the jumps. Were you watching. She acted as if she had never been put at a fence."
"There was nothing the matter with the mare whatever, Mr. Jeffrey." The last word scarcely had left his lips when the silence was punctured by the distant crack of a rifle. "She'll not be jumping again," he added with grim bitterness.

standing by the sideboard when her mother entered. "Audrey, did you have a chance to get acquainted with that woman?"
"Mrs. Cooper, you mean?" she returned guardedly. "Why, no. I didn't have much of a chance at the dinner. And you know she had that spill only a few moments after they came over."
"She's pretty," Martha admitted. "But I hate to see Jeffrey taking up with a divorced woman."
"Oh, that's nothing these days." Audrey was thinking of what Vic had to say regarding modern marriages. "Besides," she added with a faint smile, "she isn't divorced yet."
"Then she should wait till she is. Before she lets men start fussing around her. Jeffrey's clear out of carry her to the house," was Audrey's order to Jeff. "Audrey, go with him. Lay her on a cot and call the doctor. I'll be waiting." The last was to Audrey as Anthony ran over and a quick look at the prostrate mare. "I fancied as much," he retorted grimly. "Mr. Quinn will be good enough to stop at the house and ask for Jim? Tell him a broken leg. He'll know what to do."

It seemed as if the report might have startled Olive into wakefulness, for her eyelids fluttered, then

"He told me I was a cute number."

opened wide. There was a helpless, dazed expression in the large dark eyes. She must have recognized Jeff for she called his name faintly and he dropped to his knees at her side. "Olive. Are you all right?"

his head over her. Your father is really upset about that horse."

When Anthony Swan hurried in the front hall he encountered the wife at the foot of the stairs. "No doctor, yet? I'll have a look at the girl. Where did you bring her?"

"What happened?" She was looking wonderingly at the others. "Oh! I remember."
"You had a spill," Jeff explained hurriedly. "You're all right now."

"I don't wonder," was the grim retort. "That was rotten! I suppose she didn't know any better, but . . ."

Jeffrey laid her on Audrey's bed. Martha led the way.

"Fancy that wretched mare refusing an easy jump like that! said Olive. "I hope she broke her neck. Oh! My ankle!"

"Did you hear what she said about it?"
"Yes, I heard."
"Do you know," said Martha, "I would have liked to see more of Mr. Quinn. He talks a heap of foolishness, but anybody with half an eye can see there's a lot to him. He's smart. A lawyer, did you say?"

Jeffrey watched her father part with Audrey with cautious strokes, the boot off carefully and then she turned to her. "You can do a better job, getting that stocking off."

"You stay right where you are, Mrs. Cooper," Martha directed. "I think that's Dr. Bardsley coming up now," as steps were heard on the stairs. "Yes, it is. In here, Doctor."

"Hello Mrs. Castle," she called with attempted gayety. "Aren't I a mess?"
"You poor darling!" The other woman hurried forward and brushed a kiss on the patient's cheek. "Are you in great pain? I'm so relieved to know that you are not badly hurt."

Jeffrey pulled a knife from his pocket and opened its sharp blade. He looked up apologetically at Jeff. "I'm sorry to cut a new boot like that, but it's uncommonly tight. I'm afraid to drag it off."

The others, save Jeff, left the room as the physician entered and Audrey found herself being escorted below stairs by Victor Quinn. "Audrey," Vic said, "my equestrian ignorance is depressing. But I couldn't help thinking from some remark your father made that this accident shouldn't be charged fairly to . . . to the horse."

"Well, for . . . Audrey, isn't that Mrs. Castle's car?"
Audrey turned quickly, in time to see a blue limousine roll past the windows. A chauffeur in smart livery, a portly white-clad passenger in the rear.
"It's her Royal Highness," she reported briefly.
"I've never done more than speak to her!" Martha recalled in sudden consternation. "You go to the door. I'm not dressed."
"Why, good morning, Mrs. Castle!" Audrey tried to put delighted surprise in her tones. "Come in."
"I just heard about this dreadful thing and drove right down," the caller began a trifle breathlessly. "Is the poor child hurt?"
Doctor Bardsley said, "The young lady appears to have a badly wrenched ankle. I was just suggesting to Mr. Castle that it would be well to drive her to the hospital and let them take an X-ray as soon as she feels up to it."

"Maybe she'll have to stay on with you," Vic suggested maliciously.
"We'll try to take good care of her."
"I was spoofing. Mrs. Castle will have her over there before sundown. You'll see. May I come back? I mean it terribly."
"You will be welcome any time, of course."
"Thanks a lot for everything. You're a cute number, Audrey. Good-by." And he was gone.
Audrey was in the dining room,

she do you think, Dad?"

she do you think, Dad?"

the country ride. I dare say it was one of your father's horses."
"No, Mrs. Castle," Audrey explained quietly, "Mrs. Cooper came over here on one of your horses . . . Jeff's. But it is dead now."
"How shocking. It might so easily have been the other way."
"Yes. They had to shoot the horse."
Mrs. Castle stared uncertainly as this information was imparted, but before she could decide whether or not some implication was intended, Jeffrey appeared on the stairs with Olive in his arms. White-faced and with her hair in disorder, she looked very small and childish. One arm was about her aide's neck, her other hand held her hat dangling by its elastic cord.
"Hello Mrs. Castle," she called with attempted gayety. "Aren't I a mess?"
"You poor darling!" The other woman hurried forward and brushed a kiss on the patient's cheek. "Are you in great pain? I'm so relieved to know that you are not badly hurt."
Olive turned her head and looked at Audrey. "So sorry, dear, to have caused all this commotion. It spoils everything. But you'll come to see me, won't you? And please do thank your father and mother for their kindness."
The late afternoon found Audrey on the side porch trying to forget everything in the pages of a new novel. When the sudden crunch of tires on the gravel drive caused her to look up, she was startled to see Jeff in his yellow roadster.
She was more puzzled when she discovered that her caller was decidedly ill at ease. "How is the lady now?" she inquired dutifully.
"Olive . . . Oh, she's all right. Sleeping when I came away. She decided not to go to the hospital until tomorrow. I believe we left Olive's boot behind in the excitement," he remarked offhandedly. "I thought I'd drop in and pick it up."

"I'll run up and get it for you." She went in and appeared with it almost at once. "Pity Dad had to cut it," she remarked.
"Oh, well . . . you know, Cygie . . . hang it all, I feel pretty rotten about the whole affair. It was my fault, after all."
"I don't see why."
"Sure you do. I know you well enough to guess what it would do to you to see a good horse done in like that. When I sent Eileen over here, I figured that you'd ride her. Same as I knew you wouldn't say she was all right at the bars if she wasn't."
"I had no trouble with her," Audrey observed quietly.
"Olive told me to ask you up to the house if I saw you. I wish you would come, Cygie. Will you?"
"Let's see, Audrey mused. "Tomorrow's Sunday isn't it? I'll run in during the afternoon. Will that do?"
"Thanks a lot, Cygie." He rose to his feet. "See you tomorrow, then."

True to her promise, Audrey drove to the house on the hill.
There was little about Olive Cooper to suggest the invalid. She was propped up in a nest of pillows and wearing a lacy negligee of bright yellow that set off her coloring. Her hair was perfectly arranged, her eyes shining, her cheeks flushed. She extended her nearest hand, her left, in a graceful greeting.
"So sweet of you to run in, Cygie . . . you don't mind if I call you by Jeffrey's name do you? It's so cute. This is one time I really am going to have a chance to visit with you."
"How's the ankle?"
"Doing nicely. We went to the hospital this morning and had its picture taken. Just a bad sprain, but they say I must keep off of it for a time. Its a dreadful imposition on these dear people."
"Terrible!" Jeff laughed. He brought a chair for Audrey, then excused himself for a few moments, saying with exaggerated carelessness: "I know you two girls would like to have an uncensored gabfest for a bit. I'll go down and amuse the old folks with my bright sayings." He went out and closed the door softly behind him.

Mother Of Mrs. W. J. Aldridge Passes Friday Morning

Funeral Services Are Conducted Saturday Afternoon

Mrs. Mat Burgin, 78, mother of Mrs. W. J. Aldridge, passed away at her home near Newsome, Texas, Friday morning about 8 o'clock, following a lengthy illness as a result of a kidney ailment and heart trouble.

Mrs. Aldridge had spent a month at the bedside of her mother, and had been home only two weeks when she received the message early Friday that her mother was passing away, and left immediately for Newsome.

Funeral services were conducted at the Primitive Baptist Church at Providence, Texas, at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, with Elder J. C. Sikes, pastor, Primitive church, Providence, Elder R. E. Rhodes of Farmersville, Ark., and Elder R. E. Reed, Baptist pastor of Newsome, Texas, officiating.

Mrs. Burgin suffered much for the past few years of her life, but bore her afflictions with patience and fortitude.

She was devoted to her husband, children and friends, always thinking what she could do to make everyone happy.
