The SNOOPER SAYS

Just in case you didn't see these stories in the papers—
W. J. Roach, real estate and oil lease operator, who has been at Whiteface and Sundown recently, tells this story. While in Denver City last summer he stayed in room 14 at a hotel. When he went to Sundown two weeks ago, he thought a building looked familiar. It was—a hotel that had been moved from Denver City. He inquired about a room and the proprietor said he had only one room left—Room 14! He felt at home while he stayed there.

Not only has Bailey county a record representation in the Army, Navy and Marines, but the livestock are getting patriotic!
Wesley Herrington of the West Camp community has a herd of mixed Jersey and roan dairy cows. Recently three calves were born, one red, one white, and one blue. That should be some kind of a record!
What did you say? Three Cheers for the Red, White and Blue!
I read this too—When a woman "stoops to conquer" it usually means she's reducing.
A local man and his wife have already promised to have an organ with chimes placed in the new Methodist church when it is completed.

Then there was the story in a recent issue of a state paper about the Duchess of Windsor having her face lifted—and I didn't like the story!
What if the charming Duchess did have her face lifted? That is her personal business, and many women in America have undergone similar operations.
Every year thousands of dollars are spent by the women in this country for services from beauty shops, to help with their general appearances.
American women have followed the Duchess with pride the past few years—her clothes are copied by fashion experts and she has set the trend of styles in hats, shoes, etc.
And, after all, why shouldn't the women be justified in admiring her. She is an American woman who upset the British throne.

One of the things we are missing this year is the cry of the auctioneer at the C. M. Edwards farm northwest of Littlefield.
Mr. Edwards has staged auction sales there, through the winter and spring for five years, but this year, the horses and mules seem to be all gone and the people are not selling cows and hogs.
A trip to see Mrs. Edwards is almost equal to going home, for she always has something interesting to tell to get my mind away from my worries.
Durwood Howell is already planning to organize a baseball league for the summer, composed of the four Cub Scout packs.
One of the most tragic things in my mind, that occurred during a recent week end, was the Salvation Army fire in Dallas, that claimed ten lives.
About 18 other persons who fought their way out of a second floor Salvation Army hotel received treatment at a Dallas hospital.

The people who were staying at the hotel were homeless transients who had gone there, knowing the Salvation Army would provide for them.
The Salvation Army has probably done more for suffering humanity than any other organization in the world today, for when you think of those who are helped daily in our own nation, then the work that is done overseas in war torn areas now, as well as back in the other war, you will indeed realize, and we all already admit it is a great work.
Then for an unavoidable fire to claim the lives of nine men and a boy while they were enjoying and appreciating the comforts of a night's lodging, it is both pathetic and tragic.
Latest fashion note: Old sheep dressed up like spring lambs don't fool anybody. Be yourself!
Goodbye now.
MARGIE.

All Mason First Scout On Plains

Marshall Mason of Post the first Boy Scout troop south Plains, for Mason, of the South Plains Council Board and a merchant at the first Scoutmaster, returned a Troop back in 1911 year after the founding in America.

"I saw a piece in the news- paper about Scouting," K. N. Clapp, a veteran of Scouting said, "and he just up- ped a troop with the boys had."

As a council came to the plains in March, 1925, when the deputy regional execu- tive, Dallas, came at the beck- ing of L. S. "Pop" Harkey and some 300 men met at High School, then the High School. When Sim- mons, the first council failed to show up, Clapp and has played a large part in Scouting since.

Harkey, now Scout Executive at San Antonio, had the first troop in Lubbock and J. D. Dyer, district commissioner now at Lamesa, had a troop there. H. B. "Baldy" Palmer was employed as Scout Executive. A campaign for finances lasted one and a half hours and $3,000 was raised.

Presidents of the council in order were L. G. Williams, who later act- ed as executive when the council had no executive during 1929, W. P. Knox was executive from 1927 to 1929. Harkey became president in 1928 for a short time, while R. J. Murrey, Lubbock, took over for 1928 and 1929. The next two years no executive was employed. This was during the depression.

T. A. White was president from 1930 to 1931, while W. G. McMillan took over for 1932 and 1933 with D. T. Jennings as Scout Executive. Earl McClure came as executive in 1936 and left April 1, 1939 when Jack O. Stone came to take over the professional reins. F. B. Malone succeeded McMillan in 1933 and has been president since.

Plans Underway To Raise Church Funds

At a meeting of the stewards of the First Methodist church held recently, plans were discussed for the further financing of the build- ing of the church structure. It was decided to start a campaign at once for funds with which to pay for building materials and labor.

Rev. Jim Sharp, pastor, stated that there were now 8,000 tile and 48,000 brick on the ground, and paid for, but that it would be necessary to raise money for materials and labor.

In order to arrive at the cost of materials necessary for the build- ing including windows and doors, Reverend Sharp and Ivan Fowler made a trip to Amarillo to get the prices.

An addition to be used as an auditorium 65x50 will be construct- ed and joined to the present struc- ture, and a two-story overall con- structed, which will have floor space of 107x54 feet.

Rev. J. H. Sharp, local Methodist pastor, received the invitation to urge local young people to partici- pate in this event, from Jeff Davis, executive secretary of the United Texas Drys.

Local Citizen Submits Plan For Benefit Of Cotton Farmers

Murdock, well known local man, recently made extensive study of the facts and problems of the cotton farmers on the plains and he puts the result of his thought into a plan and in-standard of living. (b) American agriculturists buy most of their equipment and supplies in protected markets. The first tariff act as passed in 1789 was revised upward or downward the extent of about 35 percent of the value of the goods.

(c) Examples follow:

1. A pair of cotton pants that the foreign manufacturer would deliver to this country and sell for...

Figuring the import duty . . . $1.00
We would have cost to dealer35
TOTAL $1.35

With tariff protection, American industry can raise its prices to the same level of $1.35. He uses the extra 35c to pay for wages and more profits, and the industrial worker can pay the extra 35c for pants because he gets better wages while the American agriculturist still sells his goods at the world level, or the old $1.00 level, which leaves him 35c out of the balance.

2. Suppose the American agriculturist borrowed money at the bank and paid 35 percent interest. We would all see readily that he could never prosper.

3. Suppose a plantation owner would run a commissary and add 35 percent above what other mercantile establishments wanted to sell the same article for. Do you think those tenants could ever prosper? No. They would not be likely to get ahead; much more likely to get in debt.

(d) When American agriculturists sell their cotton, wheat or any other thing to a foreign country,

It be shown where the plan is wrong. My mind and I am not claiming that it is perfect. I do think it is a consideration. My idea of getting the money is original that I especially ask you to consider very carefully. The part of the idea is one discussed by many and generally accepted, but just administer and finance it is a matter of considerable discussion. I am humbly hoping that it may prove beneficial in these problems.

Though the whole idea is more original, I have had considerable help in the composition of this opportunity to thank those responsible.

if they cannot buy from that same country, and bring it back without at the water's edge, paying our government 35 percent of the value thereof, to permit them to enter and take it to their homes, it looks as if the same condition exists as is mentioned above. The writer believes that this condition is the principle reason that the large percent of the farmers in America owe from one-third to two-thirds of the purchase price of their automobiles tractors, and farm land.

HOW TO FINANCE

Article 2
(a) The writer holds that all tariff levies, whether enacted for the purpose of protection or for the purpose of revenue, are all protective, and that the economic burden created thereby, finally falls to rest on agriculture. Therefore pay the subsidy to agriculture with the funds collected through the tariff levies. The writer does not know at this time how much will be required to finance this program but will give below figures of money collected on tariffs from 1933 to 1939, inclusive:

Calendar Year
1933	$283,681,000
1934	301,168,000
1935	357,163,000
1936	408,127,000
1937	470,509,000
1938	301,380,000
1939	328,034,000

(b) The writer objects to the funds to pay subsidies being raised through a processing tax. The protective tariff was put on to help the manufacturer pay the laborers a better wage. If that is taken away from them by a processing tax, it will leave them in the same condition the farm laborer is in today.

HOW TO ADMINISTER

Article 3
(a) Arrive at a domestic allotment similar to the Bankhead.
(b) Give each farm a domestic allotment.
(c) Give each tenant on the farm, an equal share as per acres cultivated.
(d) Let them produce what they wish for export, and sell at world prices. If one farmer does not wish to produce for export at the world price, he is not forced to do so.

HOW FARM LABOR WOULD BE BENEFITTED

Article 4
(a) After agriculturists have been weighed in the balance with industry, then they will be able to pay more wages for farm labor.
(b) Let the wage and hour law be applied to agriculture.
(c) This would put the whole country back in balance, and the writer believes this would stimulate a feeling of good will and cause a state of happiness and prosperity to reign as never before.

END OF PLAN

The writer has reasons to believe that the foreign cotton producing countries of the world, could produce enough cotton to supply the needs of the world, if we, the United States, wanted to quit, or they can, and will gladly produce any part of it that we do not wish to produce.

The above is a brief summary of the writer's views as to a plan to subsidize agriculture on domestic consumption, and place the carrying charge on the cause bringing about the need of such subsidy.

In the event interest is aroused as to such plan, its merits or demerits, the writer will be glad to go into any phase in detail.

MARRIAGES EXCEED DIVORCES

It may be of interest to a few people, at least, to know that despite the large number of divorces granted in Hollywood and in other large cities, that in Cochran county at least, the marriage licenses sold in 1940 far outnumbered the divorces. Seventy-two marriage licenses were sold while only seven divorces were granted.

Housekeeping Aide Project Moved To New Headquarters

The WPA Housekeeping Aid project moved the local headquarters from the building across the street from the cannery to the first house southeast of the new postoffice recently.

This project, sponsored by the City Commission, now employs 19 women. One day each week the women are given training in the following subjects, foods, clothing, child care and health, laundry and cleaning, and home improvement.

When the women are not in the project center, they are in the homes of the needy, giving assistance in general housework and care of children. All of the referrals are made, or cleared, through the welfare office here.

The training received in the center is passed on to the needy homes and it also better prepares the aides for private employment, Miss Alma Byers, local supervisor, reported.

The housekeeping aide helps with the simple home care of the sick, under instructions of doctors and nurses, and it often eliminates the necessity for hospitalization, or at least shortens the period, thus effecting a saving to the community.

Production of rubber is being encouraged by a new Latin-American division created last month in the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Do you have to "TUCK YOUR CAR IN" at night?

Not if it's One of these Four New Additions to the BUICK SPECIAL Line that Compact Automobile Bigness into Fewer Bumper-to-Bumper Inches

HERE of late the modern automobile has been giving a pretty good imitation of a man getting up in the morning.

It has stretched and s-t-r-e-t-c-h-e-d—until today you almost have to have a shoehorn to get a car of any size tucked away in the family garage.

We thought something ought to be done about that.

So today in Buick dealers' showrooms you'll see four new models, additions to the 1941 Buick SPECIAL line.

They are typical Buicks on every count—steady, tireless travelers with a big 115-hp. Buick FIREBALL straight-eight under their bonnets. But by the simple step of compacting all this ability, goodness and value on a 118-inch wheelbase, we've trimmed inches off the over-all length—and dollars off the cost.

We're passing those dollar savings on to you, which makes three reasons for going to see these honeys now: You'll go for their ability—your wife will go for trim size and easy handling — and both will stand up and cheer for the easily-reachable price.

HALE CENTER, Feb. 17—Hale Center's Lions Club's second annual boxing tournament will be held in the ward school gymnasium here on Tuesday and Wednesday nights, March 4 and 5, and entry blanks have been mailed to high school coaches, boxers and others interested, in several neighboring towns. Hale Center Future Farmers chapter is co-sponsor with the Lions club in this year's ring feat.

Last year's program, which drew an entry list of approximately 30 top fighters of this region, was declared the best tournament on the Plains by boxing fans who saw tournaments in Lubbock, Littlefield and Plainview, and other cities.

Valuable prizes of handsome jackets will be awarded first place winners in all weight divisions, and fine medals will be given second place winners. The tournament here will be run off on rules and regulations governing Golden Gloves events, according to Al H. LeMond, chairman of the Lions Club committee in charge of the affair.

Others on the committee are P. L. Pollard, Walt Larson, Manuel W. Ayers, D. L. French, R. L. Burgess and Vic Lamb.

A survey of 50,000 Negro farm families last year showed their net worth has increased from $451 to $752 since inauguration of the Department of Agriculture's rehabilitation program.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture reports that 2,200 of the 50,000 bales of cotton Spain imported in the first three months of the cotton year were from the United States. The remainder came from Argentina.

Marrying Mark

Violette Kimball Dunn

CHAPTER X Synopsis

After Mark Alexander's beautiful wife Ellen died, her whole family became interested in Valerie, Ellen's daughter by a former marriage and in the trust fund left Valerie. All are anxious to adopt Valerie, all save Shirley, but Mark will have none of it. Mark hires Tracy Tredway to tutor Valerie and keep Lucy in the house, much to Tracy's dismay. Elise meets Mark at the office and drives home with him, criticizing Lucy all the way. Mark leaves her at her door and lives on, half amused, half dis-

He relaxed more completely. Whatever it was he was not in for another lecture on the proprieties. "I didn't want to speak before Valerie, in case you didn't approve of what I was going to say." "Wonderous wise—you, I mean," he said softly. Shirley smiled at him. "Rather stupid, really. However—I just want to give a little party for her. And Lucy too, of course, if she cares for anything so juvenile. That girl's a wonder, by the way." "I'm glad you think so," said Mark. He wondered if she knew how glad.

Valerie was filled with alternate shivers of delight and dread at the thought of Shirley's party. She loved to dance, and the prospect of going off alone just to be amused was stupendous. She relayed Shirley's invitation to Lucy, who wisely declined it. Lucy telephoned Shirley when Valerie was out of hearing. "You're sweet to of all sorts of things. Youth, and summer—" "Humph!" said Mrs. Banwood. Mark looked across to where Lucy rested, arms behind her golden head. She looked hardly more than the wraith of a girl, for they had turned off the terrace lights and there was only the faint gleam of the little moon, and the glimmer of low hung innumerable stars. Scents drifted up to them with every slightest stirring of air. The almost unearthly perfume of roses, and the fragrance of late-blooming honeysuckle floated about them.

It came over Lucy with a sudden stab that she would sometime leave this for that drab world where there were bills to pay and work to do. Nothing that she did at present was the least like work. Life was just a sort of unbelievable interlude where beauty and kindness were like the air they breathed.

"Don't be a goat," said Mark angrily ask me" she said "but I can't think shan't come. You'll understand how it is. I've been longing for her to know children her own age. But I didn't know just how to go about it."

"I wish you'd told me," Shirley's voice came back warmly. "I'd love to help whenever I can. Maybe you'll have lunch with me some day soon. There are some things I might be able to tell you."

Something in her tone made Lucy agree eagerly. "I'd love it," she said. "Call me when you want me and make it soon."

Valerie went off in state, driven by Catlet. She looked rather like a pale pink cloud in her flesh-colored dancing frock, with a tiny string of pearls about her throat. It wasn't until Chiltern announced dinner that Lucy realized she was sitting down to her first meal alone with Mark. It was early September, and summer was still in the air. Lucy wore white and her eyes were dark under the gold of her hair.

It was the purest gold Mark had ever seen. Neither platinum or honey, but the color of an old burnished coin. It lay in smooth waves against her little head, and Mark found himself suddenly longing to touch it. The gold of Ellen's hair had been pale and exquisite, and her eyes a curious, almost purple blue. But the gold on this girl's head was like a crown.

Lucy rested him just because she had missed beauty by the merest fraction. Her skin was delicate and white, and the contrast of her eyes and hair would always set her a little apart. Taken one by one, her features were charming. Assembled, they somehow lacked the intangible quality of beauty.

"The modern spirit, I suppose you would call it," said Mrs. Banwood to Chiltern. He had just carried the big silver tray with its shining coffee service out to the terrace, where Mark and Lucy relaxed in long chairs of split bamboo, and watched the tiny crescent of the moon.

"The world's gone on since your time and mine, if that's what you mean," agreed Chiltern amiably. He knew quite well that she was registering disapproval of affairs on the terrace. And he knew she dared not voice them more explicitly without encouragement from him, which she would never get. So he smiled blandly and went back to see if there was something more he could get for Mark and Lucy.

There was, for they both declined a second cup of coffee; and presently he went back to Mrs. Banwood, carrying the tray before him like a shining shield. "A beautiful night," he said sentimentally. "Sets one to thinking

She was delightfully conscious of Mark, but only as an accompaniment to her thoughts. So she started when he got up and dropped down on a stool beside her chair.

"Bored?" he asked. It was a different voice from the family circle one he used every day. She looked at him in amazement.

"Bored?" she echoed. She thought she could hardly have understood him.

"Well—I just wondered. There are always the village movies, you know."

"If you think I could even pretend to want movies, with all the pictures the night makes in this gorgeous garden, you must think I'm a good actor," she said.

"I think you're a bad actor. That's why I like you such a lot." It startled him to realize he could almost have said "love" even without meaning it.

Mrs. Banwood's passion for the radio was now audible on the air. It was pleasant to sit there peacefully in the half dark, and listen to the beat of dance music coming from city canyons so many over-heated miles away.

The music was a little louder now. It came lilting through the night with its haunting rhythm. Mark got to his feet, and stood in mock formality beside her.

"Like to dance this?" he asked. She swung her silver sandals to the terrace flags and faced him. "Love to, of course," she said.

He took her in his arms, and they slid smoothly over the smoothly laid floor in silence. Lucy felt she had been waiting all her life just to dance with Mark. She was glad he didn't want to talk. Always, she thought, she would remember this night. She wanted to hold it tight, to let it sink deep, to be able to shut her eyes and live it all again when it was gone. The night, the bewitching little moon, the scent of the roses and Mark's arms.

Just before Thanksgiving, Valerie had a birthday.

Ten couples were asked for dinner and dancing. Valerie invited Shirley too; but she declined, saying she didn't believe in too many adults at a children's party.

Lucy was all for putting in a quiet evening in her own rooms, but Valerie's disappointment and Mark's dismay were so real that she changed her mind.

She and Mark had their dinner at a small table before the library fire. Valerie quailed a bit at the idea of being left alone with a dinner party, but Mark and Lucy told her she might as well begin her apprenticeship as a hostess. As she grew used to the idea, she began to enjoy it. Mark received the youngsters who overflowed the place. The house was fulfilling itself for the first time he thought, with a twinge at his disloyalty. When they had found their place cards, and had encircled the old oval table in the dining room, he went back to Lucy by the library fire.

The contrast between the laughing young mob he had left, and golden-haired Lucy in her peach-colored frock, waiting in the quiet room, struck him so that he stopped in the doorway to enjoy it. He detached himself from the domesticity he had come to take so happily for granted, and looked at the scene as a stranger might.

Lucy glanced up and caught the slight self-consciousness with which he came toward her. She smiled at him, and everything swung into place again. He pulled out her chair, and Alice came in and began to serve their dinner. From the dining room on the other side of the great hall young laughter rose faintly.

They were just finishing their coffee with a very special old liqueur in honor of the day, when to their dismay, the draperies at the library door were pushed aside to reveal Elise in slim black velvet, a white ermine cloak off her very bare shoulders. She stood without speaking, her sultry eyes on the domestic scene before her.

"So there you are," she said at last. Her voice broke a little shrilly as she came into the room. Mark got to his feet. He did a mental leap after his vanishing sense of hospitality. The woman was in his house. It was almost as hard to remember as when he was a child, with unwanted guests thrust on him. Since she had met him at the factory gates, Wide Acres had been mercifully free of Elise. As a matter of fact, he had almost completely forgotten her.

She barely nodded to Lucy, who could scarcely believe that she was there. When Shirley had refused, it seemed incredible that Elise had come uninvited. She slipped out of her coat, and draped herself over a near-by chair. Her glance rested first on Mark, then Lucy, and last on the small table sitting so cozily by the fire.

"What a domestic scene," she said.

"Isn't it," agreed Mark amiably. "I hope I'm not too terribly in the way," she went on wistfully. "I never dreamed you'd be entertaining. I just felt so lonely on this dear home day, I longed for a glimpse of something real."

"Of course I'm frightfully embarrassed," Elise seemed to be doing all the talking. "Dashing in on a party where I wasn't invited. But I never dreamed—with dear Ellen gone—and all—" "Don't be a goat," said Mark angrily. "Anybody can see with half an eye it's only a children's party. Why do you suppose Miss Tredway and I are hiding here?" "I—really wondered—" murmured Elise. She was a little frightened after she had said it; but Mark gave no hint that he had heard, and it made no difference whether Lucy had or not.

"Valerie had a birthday a couple of days ago," explained Mark. "Ever since Shirley gave her a party, she has trotted about, and she wanted to return a few invitations. No grown-ups allowed. Even Shirley did not come and she was really responsible." (To Be Continued)

MR. AND MRS. J. H. CARPENTER CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING FEB. 8 AT CLYDE, TEX.

A large number of friends and relatives attended the Golden celebration Saturday, February 8, honoring Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Carpenter, parents of Mrs. E. S. Rowe and Mrs. Wayne Carlisle of Littlefield.

Open house was observed Saturday afternoon at the Carpenter home, 12 miles south of Clyde. A beautiful two-tier wedding cake was served with punch to the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter received many lovely gifts for the occasion, and their children and their families presented Mr. Carpenter with a gold engraved belt buckle, and Mrs. Carpenter with diamond ear screws.

The couple, who are both 72 years young, have lived in Callahan county the past 28 years. Mr. Carpenter was precinct commissioner six years, and county judge 12 years. During that time they have continued to operate a modern farm which is located 17 miles southeast of Abilene.

They were married February 8, 1891 at Cuthbert in Mitchell county by Rev. J. C. Burkett, Baptist minister, who read a double wedding ceremony. Mrs. Carpenter's brother, John Elland, was also married at that time.

Among the relatives who attended this delightful affair were Mrs. Carpenter's sister, Mrs. Will Johnson of Dunn, Tex.; her nephew, Albert Johnson, and Mrs. Johnson of Big Spring; her niece, Mrs. Bill Hunter and Mr. Hunter of Columbia.

Besides the two daughters residing here, Mr. and Mrs. Carpenter have four other children, Mrs. John Loving of Clyde; Ed Carpenter of Big Spring; Frank Carpenter of Clyde and Mrs. L. E. Floyd of Odessa. They also have 18 grandchildren.

All of their children attended the celebration.

The death message was received at the Otto Jones home, and was carried by Mr. Jones to the Bartlett residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett left the same night for Southland, the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. I. Bartlett, to which place the remains were taken for burial.

Further particulars were not available at going to press.

Plans for the road include a 24-foot caliche base, with a 32-foot asphalt top, with no curb and no gutter.

The City is building the same type of road from highway 51 to the Union Compress & Warehouse Company.

Would Employ Caretaker For Local Cemetery

A petition was placed in circulation this week for the signature of citizens in Littlefield and sections, urging the employment of a regular caretaker for the local cemetery.

It has been pointed out, that inasmuch as this city is growing rapidly, and, incidentally, the number of graves increased, that a full time caretaker was believed necessary.

LITTLEFIELD, LAMB COUNTY, TEXAS, FEBRUARY 20, 1941

NUMBER 47

More Than 1,000 Draftees Go Thru Lubbock Office

More than 1,000 Northwest Texas men drafted into the U. S. military service under the selective service law, have been handled by the Lubbock induction office through Wednesday of last week, Major Walter Jesse, induction officer, said in reporting 899 draftees from 55 counties had been sworn into the service and sent to preliminary training centers.

All of the volunteers from Lamb county who have entered selective service training were inducted through the Lubbock office.

In the three calls there were 1,008 men reporting in Lubbock. 899 were accepted after passing physical examinations and 109 were rejected for physical and other reasons. During the first call 137 men were accepted and 26 rejected; 593 men accepted and 57 rejected in the second call and 169 accepted and 26 rejected in the third call, which was completed Wednesday of last week.

Replacements for the first and second calls are reporting, 83 in number. Some of the men were sent by county draft boards last week when the February quota reported. Replacements are to be examined by Feb. 21.

Fifteen of the 895 men were negroes, going to Fort Huachuca, Ariz., and the remainder were sent to Fort Bliss.

Draftees are to spend four to six weeks in preliminary training before being assigned to units. Most of the first group have been sent to their outfits and others of the January call will begin to be assigned by the last of the month.

Induction work there is to close Feb. 28, Major Jesse said he was advised by the state office. All of the work has been handled by the regular recruiting staff, augmented by men from sub-stations in the area. A detail of an officer and five enlisted men helped with the examination, as did a number of National Youth administration clerks.

Lieut. Phillip C. Rawlings of Fort Sam Houston, was the induction officer giving the oath of allegiance to the draftees and also giving them a lecture on their life in the army. A reserve officer has been at Fort Sam Houston giving similar work to newly enlisted recruits there.

High Wind Demolishes Warehouse At Amherst

Cotton warehouse No. 4, owned by the Amherst Farmers Cooperative Gin and located on their property at Amherst, was demolished by the high wind which reached gale proportions Wednesday morning of last week.

The west wall of the warehouse was the only part of the structure which was left standing. Both ends of the roof and east wall of the building were ripped loose from the concrete foundations and part of the material scattered for a considerable distance.

Although located only a short distance from the other three warehouses on the gin property, this was the only one damaged. It was stated that the loss was estimated at about $1,000.

COUNTY OFFICIALS STRESS FARM-TO-MARKET ROADS FOR DEFENSE

Surprises Hotel Owner By Sending $5 To Pay Damage

MINERAL WELLS, Tex., Feb. 17.—Special to Leader—If anyone sees Diogenes please direct him to Louis Gambrell, manager of the Baker Hotel here. Mr. Gambrell has received a letter that will put a happy end to Diogenes' search. The letter, in feminine handwriting, came from a small Louisiana city and had a five-dollar bill attached. It read:

"Dear Sir: Enclosed please find full amount to pay for damage done to a piece of your bedroom furniture which, quite by accident, I was unfortunate enough to have caused while a guest at your hotel. The breakage was not itemized on my house bill but, regardless of that, I would rather remunerate for same. Respectfully (signed) A Former House Guest."

Mr. Gambrell first thought of framing the letter and bill but, on the other hand, a five-dollar bill isn't doing any good in a frame.

The odd part of it is that the Baker has no recent record of any damaged furniture and no registration record of any guest from that particular Louisiana city. And so, from way back comes conscience to gladden the Baker's chequer and intensify the hotel's faith in the honesty of humanity.

Wake Lazy Insides All-Vegetable Way

Thousands turn to this way to get relief when they're lazy intestinally and it has them headachy, bilious, irritable, listless: A quarter to a half-teaspoonful of spicy, aromatic, all-vegetable BLACK-DRAUGHT on your tongue tonight, a drink of water, and there you are! Thus, it usually allows time for a night's rest; acts gently, thoroughly next morning, so relieving constipation's headaches, biliousness, bad breath.

BLACK-DRAUGHT'S main ingredient is an "intestinal tonic-laxative," which helps impart tone to lazy bowel muscles. The millions of packages used prove its merit. Economical, too: 25 to 40 doses, 25c.

This is the second consecutive year that Hendricks has been issued car tags bearing the county's first number, and the fourth year he has obtained the first license plate issued at the Amherst office.

The number of his car is 844-001.

"Tin Pan Alley" Comes To Palace Starring Alice Faye, Jack Oakie

Those great song hits that inspired you yesterday. Catchy tunes that set your feet tapping . . . your hands beating out rhythms. Melodies that will weave a world of fancy for you tomorrow. Ragtime, jazz, jive, where does it all stem from? How are those melodic strains conceived? By whom are they composed?

20th Century-Fox takes you down the street that gives the world its greatest songs in "Tin Pan Alley," which stars Alice Faye and Betty Grable and comes to the Palace Theatre Saturday midnight, continuing through Sunday and Monday. Keyed to the mood of America, this musical of our exciting times depicts in human, dramatic terms the color, romance, heartbreak and glamour which are part of the place where songs are born.

With Jack Oakie and John Payne heading a brilliant featured cast, "Tin Pan Alley" is cut from the same unusual musical and dramatic pattern as was "Alexander's Ragtime Band," produced by the same studio. It is built around a compelling love story between a rising music publisher and a singer of songs.

New York City's West 46th Street—Tin Pan Alley—was recreated down to the smallest detail at a tremendous cost and with painstaking accuracy, just as it was back in 1917 when most of the action occurs.

"The Thing Called Love" Comes To Ritz For This Week End

This thing called laughter is here in abundance! This thing called romance is all over the place! This thing called entertainment sparkles so gaily, you'll adore—you'll love—"This Thing Called Love."

It's so nice—but definitely—"This Thing Called Love"! And especially when its practiced by those experts d'amour—Rosalind Russell and Melvyn Douglas—in their first uproarious appearance together! The hectic new Columbia comedy, "This Thing Called Love" opens at the Ritz Theatre Saturday midnight, continuing through Sunday and Monday.

Supporting the co-stars is an all comedy cast which includes Binnie Barnes, Allyn Joslyn, Gloria Dickson, Lee J. Cobb, Gloria Holden, Paul McGrath, Leona Maricle, and Don Beddoe.

Alexander Hall, director of "He Stayed For Breakfast," and "The Doctor Takes a Wife," wielded the megaphone on "This Thing Called Love." George Seaton, Ken Englund and P. J. Wolfson penned the screenplay from the stage success by Edwin Burke, as produced by Patterson McNutt.

Local Young People in Austin Delegation

Approximately 30 young people from Littlefield Churches were among the 5,000 Texas young people who captured the state capitol at Austin Tuesday.

The group were denouncing liquor and gambling, and offered protest against turning loose the liquor traffic.

Waving placards, they made a friendly invasion of house and senate chambers, paraded down Congress avenue and massed in rallies to demonstrate, in words of a leader, that old women and men were not alone in opposing liquor.

Both branches of the legislature suspended business to hear from the

Others In Contest To Be Given Big Commission For Their Services

The Lamb County Leader "Better Service" Subscription Campaign is off to a fine start with a number of candidates represented throughout Littlefield and trade territory. No doubt most of you have a favorite in the contest whom you will support. From now until March 24 is the great vote getting period, the time to give your subscription.

Up until March 24, 500,000 extra votes will be given for each $15 turned in on subscriptions. That is really an enormous lot of votes so subscribe now in order for your candidate to receive the most votes possible on your subscription.

There is still plenty of time for real workers to enter this contest. The only investment required is spare time during the next few weeks. You can be the first prize winner if you set your mind toward that goal.

No—it's not a dream. Any individual can and will make that amount of money in the next nine weeks if they will do One Thing. That is—go out and work for it. While others are hanging back, then is the time to push ahead. During your first five weeks in the campaign any contestant can earn 500,000 opportunity votes for every $15 in subscriptions turned in.

Contestants who are enrolled in this campaign have been highly recommended and are known in this community as conscientious and reliable. They are all going to work hard; support your favorite accordingly. Give them your votes now.

Every person in this contest has a good chance to win the first prize of $500. If they do not win the first prize, there is still a chance to win the second prize which is also worth working for. Then there are two more prizes and a twenty per cent commission. It's up to you.

Farmers Urged To Turn In Records On Cotton Grown

Information Should Be Filled In On Form No. 422, Mailed At Once

The Lamb County A. C. A. office has already notified producers of their 1941 cotton and wheat allotments; at present they are working to get the general feed allotments to the farmers in a few days. The Index on general or the yield on feed will be mailed in the same notice as the allotment.

Aubrey W. Bingham, Secretary of the Lamb County A. C. A., urges all farmers who have not already turned in a record of the cotton produced by them in 1940, to mail this to the A.A.A. office at Amherst at once, stating that this record should be earned in on Form Cotton 422, which was given the farmers when they received their marketing cards. In this connection, Mr. Bingham directs this message:

"Do not get the record from your gin. The ginner has already turned in your production records, but we want your records to compare with them."

Within the next few days all farmers in the country will receive a letter setting forth some of the highlights of the 1941 program and all the information available in the supplemental cotton program.

City Commissioners Receive Petition; Studying Plan

Petitioners Also Ask Paid City Officers Be Selected By Vote

A petition, signed by 159 taxpayers, asking that the City be divided into four wards, was received through the mail Monday by City Secretary W. G. Street.

The petition further requests that one commissioner be selected from each ward and the offices of City Marshal, City Secretary, and City Attorney be elective.

The petitioners did not suggest any plan of procedure and they asked that the Commission take whatever action necessary to bring about establishing of the four wards.

The city now operates under the commission form of government, with a mayor and two commissioners and the office of City Marshal, City Secretary and City Attorney are appointive.

The members of the City Commission, before whom the petition was presented Wednesday, are investigating the legality of the suggested changes before taking any action.

Construction Of Electric Generator Plant Planned

Preliminary investigation is underway looking toward the construction of a steam turbine electric generating plant near Denver City. Water samples are being analyzed and a test well is being drilled on a proposed site.
