Acting District Clerk Seeks Election To Office

TO THE VOTERS OF LAMB COUNTY, TEXAS:

I would like to take this opportunity to announce my candidacy for the office of the District Clerk.

I have lived in Lamb county for twenty-one years, moving here from Brown county, Texas, where I was born.

In summarizing the duties of District Clerk the most important thing is typing since every thing has to be recorded. Other duties include the filing of Civil and Criminal cases, Delinquent tax suits, Bookkeeping, certified copies, transcripts, and adoptions. Since the County does not furnish this office with any help, the clerk has all of this work to do.

In 1949 I was employed as deputy in the County Clerk's office where I worked for three years. On August 1, 1953, Mrs. Quigley, the present District Clerk, left the office due to an addition to the family. Because of my experience in the County Clerk's office, which is along the same line of work as the District Clerk's office, she asked me to take charge of the office for her.

I have been in full charge of the office since that time and will continue until January 1, 1955. For this reason I feel that I am qualified to fill this office as your next District Clerk.

Since I am now in full charge of the office and must stay on

Tag Champs Meet Panhandle Team Here Saturday Night

Professor Roy Shire and Bobby Wallace of Evanston, Ill., the tag team champions of the Southwest States junior heavyweight wrestling territory, are not putting up the trophy Saturday night at the Littlefield Sport Arena, but it ought to be a most interesting battle.

Dory Funk, the individual Southwest States champion, is teaming up with veteran Bob Cummings of Seaside, Oregon, to continue the attack against the tag champs.

Funk, who has held the title more times and longer than any other champion, comes from Flying Mare Ranch, near Umbarger, Texas. Cummings, former world's light heavyweight title holder, now resides in Hereford, not many miles away from Funk's cowboy spread.

Neither has any love for Roy Shire, the master-degree graduate of Northwestern University, nor for his partner black-haired Bobby Wallace here last week, and quite a fuss, especially in the "no contest", and each man was held off will be made by and Shire "behave" rules Saturday night.

The tag match runs out of three falls to a limit, and it's almost that Cummings and Shire get together in that war-warm-up-matches. They duled to bat each other in the second of two 15-minute bouts.

Wallace and Funk do first special event, should be interesting.

Pep Girls Compete In Volleyball Meet At Tech Saturday

400 Against One
 Lesson for May 23, 1954

EVERYTHING was set for the great offensive. The cause of the war was beyond criticism, as those days went. The enemy controls one of our cities, and we aim to get it back. Armies and nations have argued like that since the beginning of history. So it looked to the two kings, Jehoshaphat and Ahab, on the eve of their military adventure in Ramoth-Gilead. That was the name of a city which had been in Israelite hands generations before this and now for some time had been under the domination of the aggressive and land-hungry country of Syria. Jehoshaphat, King of Judah, had been a strong and wise king as kings went in Judah; and Dr. Foreman, even Ahab, had as his reputation is in history, had been a rather strong king of Israel. These two, uniting against Syria—how could they lose?

Yes-Men
 Ahab was never bothered by a conscience, but Jehoshaphat had misgivings. He sincerely wanted to know how God thought of all this. He felt in his heart that if God did not approve, the whole venture was sure to fail. So he asked his royal colleague Ahab to find out what was the word of the Lord about all this. This was Jehoshaphat's first mistake, for Ahab was the last man to know, or to want to know, the will of God. However, Ahab, being up-to-date and very rich besides, had a stable of yes-men whom he called prophets, men he hired, men who knew on which side their bread was buttered. It seems ridiculous to call such men prophets, but false prophets look and sound very much like true ones—especially when they tell us what we want to hear! So Ahab called a meeting of these yes-men and asked them the question: Shall I go to battle? Their answer was prompt, it was just what the king wanted to hear, as they well knew. What is God's will? Go, by all means. What will come of it, how will the battle go? The Lord will give it into King Ahab's hands. Two lies; perhaps the prophets knew it, perhaps not. Perhaps they did not care whether it was true or not; all they knew was what they were paid to say, and they said it. "Whom the gods destroy, they first make mad," says an ancient Roman proverb. We could revise that and not be far wrong: Whom God wishes to destroy, he first surrounds with yes-men.

Truth No Matter What
 Jehoshaphat was still nervous. Unanimous opinion about a debatable question is suspicious in any language. So he asked if the king had any more prophets. Well, yes, there was one, a man named Micaiah—only you will never hear anything good from him, said Ahab. However, Micaiah was sent for, and in his coming and in what he said he put his name on the honor roll of history. Micaiah had everything against him; the vote in the Prophets' Association was 400 to 1; the king would not believe him, the war would start, and would fail, anyhow; and furthermore Micaiah himself would never be thanked for telling the truth and might end his days eating bread and water in jail. Nevertheless, Micaiah, being a true prophet, knew what the truth was, knew God's will and mind, and dared to speak it out. The world needs Micaiahs. We have any number of men who will tell the truth when it is popular, when people will believe them, when it "gets them" something.

400 to 1
 This story shows, moreover, what a mistake it is to decide what is right and what is wrong by counting votes. Even if the vote is 400 to 1, the one man may be right. Even if Micaiah were silenced (as he was) and his "sour note"—as Ahab thought it—no longer disturbed that beautiful harmony of the 400 yes-men, they still could not make a lie true by agreeing on it. In a democratic country like ours we tend to forget this. We decide so many things by popular vote, that we come to suppose we can settle what is right and what is wrong, by popular vote. We read in a book that a great majority of people interviewed by the author do what we have always known was wrong.

During a Shampoo Baby Should Coo

By VIVIAN BROWN
 Ap Newsfeatures Beauty Editor

Give your baby a head start with shining, healthy locks. Some youngsters scream in anguish every time they are shampooed. Often that is because Mom fails to make the head-washing a relaxed session and Junior builds up a distaste for the performance. Soap in the eyes and an over-energetic Mom who massages the scalp a bit too briskly are likely to be baby's chief objections.

But hair cleanliness must go on no matter how the junior member of the family feels. Baby is outdoors more in spring and summer, perhaps, and he may need more frequent cleanings than a once-a-week shampoo to rid his little scalp of accumulated dirt and scale.

Brush baby's hair every day to help aerate the underneath layer of the hair and polish it into a healthy luster. Brushing is stimulating and aids the circulation which feeds hair roots and helps hair to grow. Use a brush with strong bristles that are not too stiff for tender scalps.

Use one of the new baby shampoos designed for tear-free hair washings. The liquid is formulated so that it does not burn or irritate the eyes. When youngsters discover this new magic, temper tantrums should cease.

If Mom dreams of a curly-haired baby, she may help train her tot's locks by brushing hair gently around her finger as it is drying. In between curls she will need to use a good absorbent towel to blot baby's hair dry. The just-before-dry stage is the ideal time to set curls or ringlets.

A good time to wash baby's hair is after the bath. If hair is shampooed first, baby is likely to shiver through the bath session. It is important, too, to make sure that baby is not in a draft and is kept happy during the entire performance.

Mom should keep up a rapid-fire conversation in answer to baby's every coo, offsetting probable wails. A toy plopped in the wash basin just as the shampoo begins may distract him for a little while.

Recipe of the Week
 Blackberry or Dewberry Jelly

Select a mixture of slightly under-ripe and ripe berries. Prepare a small quantity at a time (6 quarts is a good amount). Wash quickly and carefully in a colander. Drain. Remove the caps.

To extract the juice use the proportion of one pound of the prepared berries to one-fourth cup water to firm fruit; add no water to soft fruit. Put the fruit and water (if used) in a broad flat-bottom pan. Bring to a boil. Boil 5 to 10 minutes. Stir to prevent scorching. Pour hot cooked fruit into a jelly bag made of cotton flannel or 2 or 3 thicknesses of cheese cloth. Let the juice drip in a bowl. When the dripping has almost ceased, press the jelly bag to obtain all the juice. Restrain the juice through a fresh, wet bag. Do not press bag. Test the juice for pectin by adding 2 tablespoons cool fruit juice to 2 teaspoons sugar then adding 1 tablespoon Ephom salts and stirring until dissolved. Let it stand 5 minutes. If a solid mass of jelly is formed the juice is rich in pectin and is good for jelly.

To prepare the jelly use 4 cups blackberry or dewberry juice and 3 to 4 cups of sugar. Heat to boiling using a large flat-bottom pan that permits rapid evaporation. Stir only until the sugar is dissolved. Boil rapidly until jelly stage is reached. To test for jelly stage dip a large spoon in the boiling syrup and left the spoon so that the syrup runs off the side. When the syrup no longer runs off the spoon in a steady stream but separates into two distinct lines of drops which "sheet" together, stop the cooking. Pour into hot sterilized jelly glasses, seal with paraffin, label and store.

BY DAVID EATON

We have received a lot of requests the past week about spot oiling of Johnson Grass in cotton. Since there has been so much interest in this subject, we will try to give you a full discussion in this column.

Application of an effective herbicidal oil to the crowns and the first few inches of the stems of established Johnson Grass kills this grass at the ground line. Repetition of such treatment at intervals of 10 to 15 days as needed to control regrowth, will eradicate root-stock infestations of this grass in a single season. Six or more consecutive treatments are usually required. Lion 1, Esso 38, Lightfoot 23, Var soil 1, NO HO, Lion 7, Tulsa, Texisol, and many other herbicidal oils are satisfactory for this purpose.

Cotton can not be expected to survive the spot oilings required for the most effective treatment of established infestations of this grass. Basal treatment of the grass, however, can be successfully made in cotton rows with the accidental spraying of only an occasional cotton plant. Knapsack sprayers have proven satisfactory for use in making treatments of this type.

Stems of established Johnson Grass can be "cut" with oil applied from a hand sprayer faster than they can be cut with a hoe. Also, repeated oiling eradicates established Johnson Grass. Hand hoeing, as done by an ordinary field hand, only temporarily delays the growth of the grass. The oils suggested for use in spot treating Johnson Grass are volatile and have little or no residual effect on the soil.

The knapsack sprayer is carried on the operator's back. It is light and easy to carry if it is not overloaded with oil. The spray tank usually has a capacity of three gallons, but in spot oiling established Johnson Grass in cotton rows, the operator seldom needs more than a gallon of oil with him at any one time. A gallon is enough to oil the established Johnson Grass in the rows of one-fourth to one-third of an acre of cotton, in most cases. Adding a small quantity of oil to the spray tank every few "rounds" from a reserve supply at the end of the rows is much more efficient than for the operator to fill his sprayer to capacity.

The knapsack sprayer is equipped with a hand pump which is conveniently activated by the operator with his right hand as he walks. The pump on the sprayer is capable of developing 60 or more pounds of pressure per square inch, but to maintain such pressures by hand is both fatiguing and undesirable. A pressure of ten pounds per square inch or less is more desirable than higher pressures in spot oiling Johnson Grass in cotton. Such pressures are easy to maintain with only infrequent strokes of the pump handle.

The operator's left hand is free to manipulate the spray wand and the spring tension valve in the spray line. Only a single nozzle should be used on the end of the spray wand. The nozzle should be equipped with a 50-mesh screen and a fan-type Teejet 8002 nozzle tip, or its equivalent. Nozzle tips with this size orifice are seldom sold with a knapsack sprayer and may have to be purchased separately.

The operator prepares to treat established Johnson Grass in a cotton row by placing a gallon of suitable herbicidal oil in the sprayer tank, putting the sprayer on his back, taking the spray wand in his left hand and the few strokes on the pump handle will develop adequate pressure for him to open the valve to test his spray nozzle. He is then ready to proceed down a cotton row until he comes to a clump of established Johnson Grass. With spray pressure on the line, he points the spray nozzle at the base of an individual Johnson grass stem so as to treat the crown and the lower inch or two of the stem. Next, he depresses to spray tension valve handle just enough for his spray nozzle to discharge some oil. Just as soon as he had thoroughly wet the crown of the Johnson Grass he releases the valve lever and stops the oil. Only an instant is required to make an individual treatment. He then repeats this operation for each and every stem of Johnson Grass growing in the cotton row.

If he is alert, the operator can treat the Johnson Grass without treating any cotton plants that are 2 or more inches away from a Johnson Grass stem at the ground line. In the beginning the operator may have to stand still while he is making a treatment, but he will soon learn to treat the grass as he walks along the row. He will, of course, have to slow his pace and occasionally stop at intervals along the row where the infestation is heavy. After he has gained some experience, the operator may use his right foot to push cotton plants aside where they are very close to a Johnson Grass stem.

A fan-type Teejet 8002 nozzle tip will develop approximately a 15 degree fan that will have a maximum width of 2" inches if the operator maintains a spray pressure of 10 pounds or less in the line, has the nozzle at the proper height and angle and "cracks" the valve open just wide enough. Such a spray fan facilitates the treatment of individual stems of Johnson Grass and helps the operator to avoid the treatment of cotton stems. If the spray pressure is too high, at 30 to 40 pounds, the nozzle held too high or the valve opened too wide, the spray fan will be too wide and treatment will unavoidably be made to cotton stems as well as to Johnson Grass stems. Both the cotton and the Johnson stems will be "cut" when this occurs and also oil will be wasted. However, there is no justification for this happening to a responsible operator the second time if he understands that this is a possibility. Most operators soon acquire the "feel" of their equipment.

The use of a low pressure and a nozzle tip with a large orifice (i.e. an 8002 instead of an 80050) makes the nozzle more responsive to the closing of the line valve and avoids "bleeding" of the nozzle due to pressure built up in the line between the valve and its nozzle. This saves the operator's time and helps him treat the cotton. If a high line pressure, i.e. 40 pounds per square inch, and a nozzle tip with a small orifice, i.e. an 80050, are used, the nozzle will continue to bleed off the pressure in seconds after the operator closes the line valve. It takes this time to bleed off the pressure in the spray wand. If the operator moves the nozzle during the "bleeding" period he very likely will kill several stalks of cotton adjacent to the Johnson grass stem he has been treating. If he waits until the nozzle stops discharging spray fluid, he loses time. The use of a low spraying pressure and a nozzle tip with the proper size orifice avoids these difficulties.

Two rows should be taken at a time in spot oiling established Johnson Grass in cotton except when the cotton is over hip-high. The operator can manipulate the spray wand from one side of the middle to another and in between the cotton stalks in the should never get out off his middle. Otherwise, he is apt to lose "track" of where he has treated the grass and where he has not. Too much of the Johnson Grass is left untreated were the operator attempts to watch four rows at a time. Some of the Johnson grass stems will escape treatment even when an operator is watching only 2 rows. The treated stems are usually dead the day after treatment or at least show that they are going to die. A second trip to the field the third day after the initial treatment is nearly always needed to treat the Johnson Grass stems that were missed the first time. After that the field need not be spot treated again until 3 to 4 inches of regrowth has been made from the root-stocks of the treated Johnson grass. This usually means that an infested field must be spot treated every 10 to 15 days during the growing season, two trips over the field each time.

Eradication of root stock infestations of Johnson Grass in the cotton rows is the reward for close attention to spot treatment throughout the season. In experimental trials in the Brazos River Valley near College Station, the per acre cost for labor and oil per season has not graded the Johnson Grass with a hoe. The flexibility of a hand sprayer and the freedom of the operator to travel at varying speeds along the rows are needed to succeed Johnson Grass in the cotton rows.

Chinese Setting For Dinner Feting Amherst Study Club

AMHERST—The basement of the old Methodist church building represented a garden of ancient China when the Amherst Junior Study club entertained their "mother" club, the Amherst Study club, with a dinner party Tuesday night.

Colorful Chinese lanterns shaded the drop lights and a large U-shaped table was decorated with a Ming tree, ceramic Chinese figurines, fans and boats filled with spring garden flowers.

Place cards were decorated with tiny Chinese sandals and the program and menu booklet was covered with a pagoda design.

Mrs. Doyle Tapley, club president, welcomed the club's members and guests.

Mrs. Randall Crawford introduced Judy Tapley who, dressed in costume, gave a reading "A Chinese Treat."

After the dinner was served by a committee from the W.S.C.S., the club's officers for next year were installed in a unique ceremony by Mrs. Davis Egger, a member of the senior club.

They are president: Mrs. Jim Lamarr Kelley; secretary, Mrs. Walter Bentley; corresponding secretary, Mrs. Randall Crawford, Federation counselor, Mrs. Norman Hatch; treasurer, Mrs. Bill Tadlock; reporter, Miss Helen Davis; and parliamentarian, Mrs. Winsten Cummings.

Several local guests attended

"Things Which Are Not Seen"

By Tommy Williams, Minister

"For the things which are seen are temporal; but the things which are not seen are eternal" (2 Corinthians 4:18b).

In an age of searching scientific investigation, it seems difficult for many to accept the existence of that which is not demonstrated through physical law. Science has done much for the world, but the greatest benefits and the most vital truths have come to mankind through faith; not through science.

We do not see God, but he is real. We see the positive, undeniable evidences of his reality. We do not see the spirits of men, but the reality of their existence to give life to bodies cannot be denied. We do not now see the eternal blessings God has promised, but our acceptance of them by faith is the greatest factor for good in our lives. The unseen realities are more important than those which we see.

"Eye hath not seen, nor ear heard, neither have entered into the heart of men, the things which God has prepared for them that love him" (1 Corinthians 2:9).

GARDENING HINTS

By Dr. George Elle
Professor of Horticulture, Texas Tech

How many times have you read or heard gardening advice such as this: "Cultivate deep. This will force the roots of the plants deeper into the soil."

The apparent logic of this statement has duped home and commercial vegetable growers by droves. They know that, as individuals, we can be brought to do something we otherwise would not do if we are deprived or threatened, and they assume that the plant has our capacity to reason.

What happens to the plant when we shove the cultivator blades too deep into the soil?

Deep rooting is of utmost importance, but most vegetables are basically shallow-rooted crops. For most, 80 percent of the root system is in the top six inches of the soil and as high as 40 to 50 per cent in the top three inches!

A three-inch cultivation, therefore, can prune away one-half of the feeding roots and result in an immediate stunting of the plant from which it may not recover for weeks.

It has been proven, time and time again, that the only constant effect of deep cultivation and the resultant root pruning, is reluctant growth and poor yield.

How then should you cultivate the vegetable garden?

Just as shallow as possible. Scrape the surface with a hoe. If powered equipment is used, set the cultivator blade only as deep as is necessary to kill weeds.

How then do we get deep-rooted plants?

Good soil preparation is essential—plenty of organic matter, plowed deep, is valuable—but the most important way is thru irrigation.

Roots grow where there is water, and they will not grow through dry soil to reach water. The "chronic sprinkler," who sprinkles the surface only, prevents deep rooting. Roots will grow in the top few inches he wets, but they stop when they reach the dry area below.

The water must reach the entire root zone area. When plant is young, this area is a foot or so deep. Mature root and leafy crops (carrots, lettuce, mustard) need water to a depth of two feet. Crops which grow all season (tomato, squash, canteloupe) need water two and one-half to

Here's Party Dresses for Every Day

THESE DRESS-UP STYLES CAN TAKE IT . . . Here are two party styles for the younger set in easy-to-care-for nylon sheers. Left, enchanting pastel sheer with flocked vine pattern in a perky frock with its own beruffled petticoat and wide bertha collar trimmed in nylon lace. Right, smart outfit for a style-conscious junior high charmer, with dainty white bodice, navy or red skirt with flocked white dots.

By Dorothy Roe
Associated Press Fashion Editor

Time was when those dainty, frilly party dresses for little girls were reserved strictly for state occasions. Mothers couldn't face the prospect of weekly washing and ironing of the beruffled and lace-trimmed organ-dies and batistes.

Today's easy-to-care-for miracle fabrics have changed all that, however, and this year among those attending the Sigma Epsilon Alpha sorority party given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Hevern last week. Mrs. Mann is a member of the sorority.

Little Kelley Rosebaum spent a few days last week with his grandmother, Mrs. Bob Wagner, while his parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. W. Rosenbaum of Spearman were on a fishing trip.

Dr. and Mrs. C. C. Craig and son Steve were in Dallas, early last week. Dr. Craig attended the Texas Dental convention while there.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Hardwick had as their guest early last there are more varieties of the new man-made fibers than ever before in children's dresses. Favorites for pint-size party dresses are the nylon sheers, which come in plain and printed fabrics, in dotted swiss effects, in shantung dimity and seersucker weaves.

They are being used in the crispest, daintiest kind of Sunday-best frocks which can be washed and dried in a few minutes and need little or no iron-week Ray Johnson of Brentwood California.

Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Mitchell of Lubbock and Wade Britt of Portales, N. M., visited Wade's mother, Mrs. D. L. Britt, last weekend.

Mr. and Mrs. Nolan Harlan of Bula stopped for a short visit April 26 with her mother, Mrs. D. L. Britt. They were enroute to Graham to attend the funeral of his uncle, Bill Sanders.

Larry Atkinson of Los Angeles Calif. flew here last weekend for a short visit with his parents Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Atkinson and sisters, Mrs. L. C. Rhodes and Mrs. S. D. Coffey.

In addition, the fragile-appearing fabrics retain their crispness and have unusual tensile strength, so that they can be worn every day, if desired.

Most of the new children's clothes in nylon, Orion and Dacron are budget-priced, appealing on still another score to thrifty mothers. Many come with their own beruffled petticoats or detachable crinolines, to give the skirts that important bouffant look.

Mrs. H. H. Knox has returned from a visit with her son Boyd and family, in Friona.

Mrs. Claude Coffey and Martha Ann of Farwell were Amherst visitors April 28.

Rick Hatch, young son of Mr. and Mrs. Norman Hatch is improved after several days illness.

Mr. and Mrs. Eustace Conloop and son Gilbert (Little Chief) visited Mr. and Mrs. Doc Bowman and Mr. and Mrs. Lamarr Kelly last week. He is on the coaching staff at Wellman school and served on the local staff before going to Wellman last year.

Woman's Club Hears Rev. Henry Haupt Speak On 'The Uproariously Righteous'

Woman's Club met at the Community Center Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock, with the president, Mrs. Roy McQuatters, sr., presiding.

She announced that Mrs. J. W. Walker of Plainview will be guest speaker at the May Breakfast, which is to be held May 15th.

The Club voted to co-operate with Jaycees to "make May Day Pray Day."

Mrs. McQuatters gave the highlights of the report she gave for the club at the district convention at Dalhart and talked briefly on the convention.

Mrs. T. L. Dunlap, chairman of the May Breakfast, announced the committees who will function at that time.

The attendance prize was won by Mrs. Don White and was given by Mrs. Acrey Barton and Mrs. T. L. Dunlap.

Mrs. Doc Wright and Mrs. W. A. Wolf were hostesses for the meeting.

Guest speaker for the afternoon was Rev. Henry Haupt who had been requested to repeat a sermon, "The Uproariously Righteous", which he had preached before the congregation of the First Presbyterian Church.

Rev. Haupt compared the present situation of the world to that of the City of Ephesus during St. Paul's time, that the masses were in a mob (not thinking as individuals), that "the expedient thing is what we should do" rather than the calm, proper and right thing. To illustrate, he said a mob intent on lynching an individual thinks only "we are right", without reasoning, and theirs is a destructive force rather than constructive.

"We have fear and destruction in our Government rather than calm, collective action," Rev. Haupt stated.

Investigate Gin
Trash For Steer
Fattening Rations

COLLEGE STATION — Ground gin trash versus cottonseed hulls in steer fattening rations recently was the subject of investigation by the El Paso Valley Agricultural Experiment Station. The tests show the financial advantages of feeding the two cotton by-products to be dependent upon the relative price of available roughages and the seed content of the gin wastes.

The feedlot gains by animals fed gin trash and ground alfalfa hay averaged 2.11 pounds daily. Steers on cottonseed hulls and alfalfa hay made 2.19 pound of gain per day. Warm carcass weights averaged 667 and 676 pounds for the two groups, respectively. Hull-fed steers also showed a slight advantage in carcass grades.

One and seven-tenths pounds less roughage was consumed by the gin trash-fed animals. Feed costs per 100 pounds of gain ran $28.01 and $30.40 for the gin waste and full-fed steers, in order.

Since the material may harbor pink bollworms all wastes from cotton gins, under current regulations, must be burned or ground to destroy all insect life. Depending upon season, area, maturity of cotton, harvest method and other factors the physical and chemical composition of the trash varies widely, the test shows. It also indicates that gin trash with the highest percentage of seed is the most valuable for feeding.

Immature lint in the wastes caused some difficulty in grinding and feeding.

Something New for Cookie Time

By Cecily Brownstone
Associated Press Food Editor
PASS THESE COOKIES with a cup of tea and your family and friends will be pleased. It's a brand-new recipe, made with cottage cheese. The cheese, combined with margarine as the shortening helps to give these cookies delightful flavor.

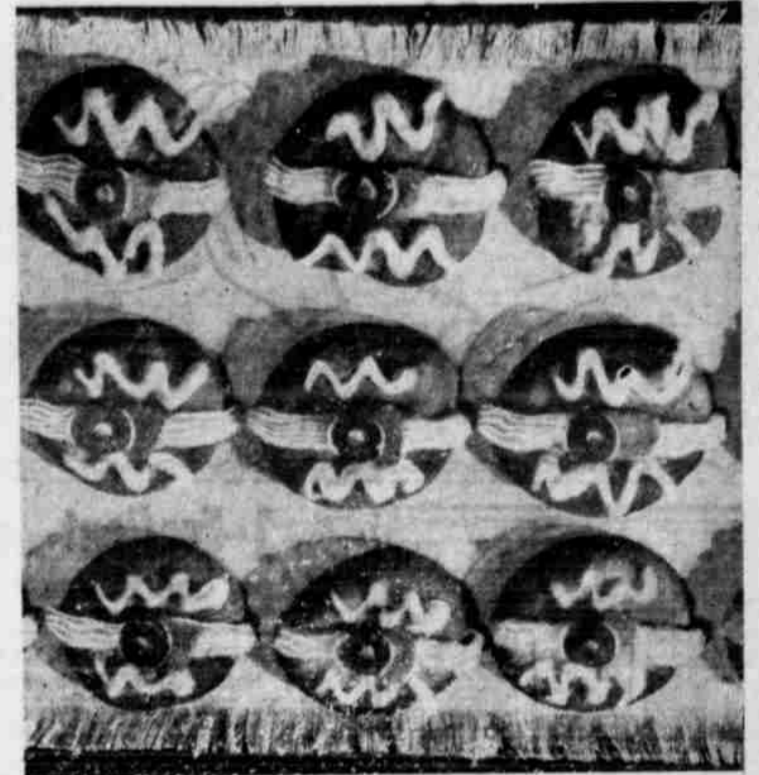

This tea-time treat is easy to make. Just cream the margarine until it's fluffy, blend in the other ingredients until you have a smooth mixture and drop the cookie dough from a spoon. No rolling and cutting!

Serve the cookies crisp and warm from the oven "as is". Or cool them and decorate as suggested in the recipe.

COTTAGE CHEESE
DROP COOKIES

Ingredients: 1 1/2 cups sifted flour, 1/2 teaspoon baking soda, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/2 cup margarine, 1/4 cup creamstyle cottage cheese, 1 cup sugar, 1 egg, 1/2 teaspoon vanilla, 1/4 teaspoon lemon flavoring, 1/2 cup chopped candied pineapple, confectioner's sugar frosting, extra pieces of candied pineapple and candied cherries.

Method: Sift together flour, baking soda and salt. Cream margarine until fluffy; blend in gradually and well. Beat in egg thoroughly, vanilla and lemon flavoring. Add sifted flour mixture to creamed ingredients, about one-fourth at a time, mixing smooth after each addition. Stir in 1/2 cup candied pineapple. Drop by teaspoonfuls, about 2 inches apart, on greased baking sheets. Bake in moderate (375F) oven 10 to 12 minutes. Remove to cookie racks and serve warm

Lately I've been using margarine in an old Viennese recipe with excellent results. I cream a quarter pound of the margarine with a three-ounce package of cream cheese and a dash of salt; if you have an electric mixer let it do the creaming. Then with a wooden spoon I work in feeding are major "keys" to the recovery of low producing, drought ravaged grasslands.

Livestock raisers in areas of recent rains can put their moisture to work two ways, says A. H. Walker, extension range specialist. Under favorable moisture conditions, supplemental pastures of rapid growing grasses like Sudan will furnish abundant grazing. And, while livestock are on the supplemental grazing permanent ranges are idle, allowing them to recover at the fastest possible rate.

Range plants must have top growth before they can put down roots, Walker says. When it rains plants may grow quickly, but unless livestock are held off and grasses given a chance to reestablish their root systems, they may be worse off than before.

"Just which pasture should be rested first? The one in best condition, Walker replies, since these make more progress toward recovery in less time. Poorest grasslands, which will take two to five years to recover, should be rested later.

Many producers may be tempted to jump back and "grab a quick buck", but the specialist advises these raisers to "breed back rather than buy back into the livestock business."

County agents have a handy bulletin on the subject, C-320, Range Management Versus Drought, which contains helpful information on range care during and after drought.

"Okay, Pop! Kick your feet."

Soft-Shoe Routine

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

NICE FOTWORK . . . Soft felt slippers are top favorites with the teen crowd, easy to make at home

Have you ever tried a soft-shoe routine? Maybe vaudeville isn't your long suit, but felt slippers are favorites on or off stage, especially with the teen set. They are a breeze to make at home, following these directions worked out by local sewing center experts:

You need one-third yard felt, 36 inches wide. For the sole, use 1/4 yard buckram. Mercerized thread in a color to match the felt, plus strands of yarn in contrasting color will complete the slippers.

Cut two pieces for each toe section, according to the diagram shown. Stitch the two pieces together along the center edges, leaving 1/4-inch seam allowance on each side. Press seam open, and top stitch 1/4-inch from center seam. Make two rows of top stitching around the edges.

Make 9 yarn tassels for each slipper. To make tassels, wrap several different colors of yarn around a 1 1/2-inch wide strip of cardboard 10 times. Tie at top, and cut loops on other end of tassel. Wrap yarn around tassel about 1/4-inch from top; sew to top of slipper 1/4-inch from top edge.

Now turn top edge under 1/2-inch to wrong side; stitch 1/4-inch from raw edge.

To make a pattern for the sole, first trace around your foot on a piece of paper. Then, ignoring the toe outlines, trace a smooth curve around the front part of the foot, shaping the sole as shown in the diagram.

Cut three felt soles and one buckram sole for each slipper. Trim one felt sole and the buckram sole 1/4-inch all around; sandwich these two pieces between the untrimmed pieces of felt, and baste. Now lengthen your stitch to about 8 stitches per inch and sew pieces together, starting close to edge of sole and filling in with rows of stitching 1/4-inch apart.

Place top to sole, center fronts matching. Stitch 1/4-inch from edge.

Make other slipper to match.

For a college girl, local sewing center experts suggest making the slippers and yarn trim in her college colors. A red and white color scheme would be wonderful for a Valentine surprise, or stitch them in all white for a winter bride. For gifts or bazaars, these slippers are a gay midwinter sewing project.

Job Huntin' Do's and Don'ts For Girl Graduates of 1954

By SANDRA NEMSER

AP Newsfeatures

Today's women college graduates head for the big city full of ambition and bright ideas—but often they don't know what they want to do, says Alice Gore King, executive director of the Alumnae Advisory Center in New York, an employment service for 21 colleges.

Miss King, who has advised almost 2,000 girls in their vocations, gives these tips on the do's and don't of getting a job:

1. Your letter to an employer is you. Carelessness, misspellings, crossed-out words all help to give a future boss the wrong impression.

Letters have come into the Advisory Center unsigned, without stamps, addressed "Dear Alice", at the wrong address, or sometimes with no address at all.

2. When you get to the interview stage, make an appointment first and don't be late. Wear appropriate, clean, neat clothes, straight stocking seams, and a hat. Employers always seem to like a hat. And don't smoke unless invited. An interview is the only demonstration an employer has of the way you do a job. And it demonstrates quite a lot if you wear the wrong clothes, chew gum, or make mistakes on your application form.

3. College graduates who want a job in New York or some other large city should learn shorthand and typing. This will come in handy, especially in crowded fields.

Most popular jobs now are in publishing, international relations, radio, television and advertising. Miss King points out, however, that the greatest needs are in fields of teaching, merchandising, mathematics and secretarial work. She says:

"Too many girls come here for the glamor of the city and go home discouraged. They are misled by articles about $5,000 realize is that while there may be 10 million jobs, there are 10 million persons working in them and 10 million more job hunting."

If sweaters or hose must be worn soon after washing, fold them in a turkish towel and run them through the ringer, changing towels if necessary.

Lipstick Logic . . .

One sign of good mental health we're told, is not to let our emotions bowl us over.

Many of us can lay claim to having whipped some emotional upsets—such as those caused by love, jealousy, even anger. But hardly anyone we know can honestly say she never gets thrown by any of them.

Fear, in times like these, is chronic. Atomic weapons, enemy aliens, tornadoes—no one of these dangers is actually lightened by fear of it. If anything, they're increased because afraid we're more vulnerable. Once we can look at danger without panic, we're much more likely to act intelligently.

Two of the most workaday emotions—quit and worry—are the two we'll most likely give in to.

We live with a guilty conscience, yet half the time we aren't at fault. The baby trips over a toy and skins his noggin. We should have noticed that danger, we tell ourselves guiltily. The spouse comes home from work with a headache. We should have reminded him to wear a hat because the air is colder. We borrow guilt because we're distrustful of our own judgment.

Worry is another overworked emotion, yet there's hardly ever anything to be gained by it. We know one man who goes to a murder mystery movie to get rid of worry. Then, he says, his own problems seem so simple by comparison that he gets back his perspective. Another who works with people and ideas says he likes to paint a fence build a shelf or mow the yard when he's worried. A job so easily brought to a successful conclusion reassures him, and he no longer feels inclined to worry.

Maybe the mental hygienists shouldn't deprive us of our emotional upsets—it tests our ingenuity so to restore emotional balance.
