Miss Ranel Chaney, candidate for graduation from Texas Technological college at Lubbock in August, has been employed to teach reading and English in the sixth and seventh grades in the Fieldton school.

Bulk Of Wheat Going Under Loan

COLLEGE STATION, July 15—Indications are that more than 90 percent of the 1940 wheat harvested in the major wheat counties of Texas will be placed under government loan.

Reports from county AAA offices and an inspection tour of the major counties indicate that nearly all the wheat producers in 123 Texas counties will take advantage of the loan offered by the Commodity Credit Corporation. P. C. Colgin, state wheat loan supervisor, predicted. During June, the first month in which the loan was offered, 257 loans were made on a total of 295,436 bushels. The supervisor expects the amount of loan wheat to greatly exceed the 15,759,986 bushels, representing 110,807 loans, stored last year in both farm-storage bins and warehouses.

Greater emphasis is being placed this year on the advantages of farm storage of loan wheat, and much of the wheat placed under the loan will be stored on farms in counties eligible for that type of storage. Held over under the extension of the 1939 loan were 187,452 bushels of wheat in farm storage.

Three main reasons why the loan is attracting more wheat this year than last were listed by Colgin: (1) the loan rate is equal to or a little above the current market price; (2) producers who availed themselves of the loan last year netted a profit by holding their wheat for a better market; (3) the loan makes it possible for the producer to realize some cash return immediately and at the same time keep possession of his wheat while awaiting a market upturn.

Scout Executive To Go To Denison

George A. Holland, for nearly two years Boy Scout field executive for the South Plains council, a resident of Plainview but working out of Lubbock headquarters for 20 counties, will be promoted to the executiveship of the newly-formed Red River council, with headquarters at Denison.

Announcement was made Saturday by F. B. Malone of Lubbock, council president. Holland was approved for the executiveship last week by this council and appeared in Denison for the interview of the Red River council board Thursday night.

Holland will go to Denison to take up the new work in August. He became field executive in Lubbock in October, 1938 going there from South Dakota where he had served a school superintendency. Mrs. Holland and their two sons, George and Bill, will move to the new post with him.

Amateur Radio Station At NYA Resident Center

Lubbock, July 17, 1940—Plans have been completed and license received for an amateur radio station to be located at the NYA boys Resident Center on the Texas Tech Campus, according to A. V. Bullock, District Director.

These short wave stations, which offer no interference to radio in any way, will soon be in operation for a point-to-point communication in all National Youth Administration Districts in Texas. By this method, Bullock stated, we plan to train many of our NYA employees to become short wave radio operators as a tie-in with the national defense program.

State NYA officials state that the goal in amateur short wave four by the first of this month radio stations in Texas was twenty with hopes of possibly setting up forty point-to-point stations this year.

Boys on the Resident Center at Texas Tech have formed a club to be known as El Meson Radio Club. Ralph Frank Lee, NYA District Supervisory Employee, is Trustee of the local station and the call letters given the station are W5JBR.

NYA Lowers Youth Age Requirement

AUSTIN, July 15—Unemployed boys and girls in Texas who are 17 years of age and need the work experience and training provided on National Youth Administration projects are now eligible for such employment, J. C. Kellam, State NYA Administrator said today.

With the announcement that the minimum age requirement for work on NYA projects has been reduced from 18 to 17 years, approximately 113,000 Texas boys and girls automatically become eligible for NYA employment, provided they are out of school and need a job, Kellam pointed out.

With funds made available, the National Youth Administration in Texas will be able to provide employment for 15,000 young persons at any one time, it was explained. As youth go off NYA projects into private industry as a result of the work experience and training gained through NYA employment, all eligible youth in the state will have the opportunity to replace them, the State Youth Administrator stated.

"All over Texas, in cooperation with local public and civic organizations, NYA work projects and resident centers are operating to give youth work experience and related training in radio technique, metal work, aviation mechanics, auto mechanics, agriculture, homemaking, wood and iron work and many other fields," Kellam said.

"Through these varied projects we are seeking to help boys and girls

NAGGING BACKACHE
May Warn of Disordered Kidney Action. Don't Neglect It!
Modern life with its ceaseless hurry and worry, irregular habits, improper eating and drinking, exposure, contagion, skatol, keeps doctors busy, hospitals crowded. The after-effects are disturbing to the kidneys and sometimes people suffer without knowing that disordered kidney action may cause the trouble.
After colds, fever and similar ills there is an increase of body impurities the kidneys must filter from the blood. If the kidneys are overtaxed and fail to remove excess acid and other harmful wastes, there is poisoning of the whole system.
Symptoms of disturbed kidney function may be nagging backache, persistent headache, dizziness, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of strength and energy. Other signs of kidney or bladder disturbance sometimes are burning, scanty or too frequent urination.
In such cases it is better to rely on a medicine that has won world-wide approval than on something less favorably known. Use Doan's Pills. They have been winning new friends for more than forty years. Be sure to get Doan's. Sold at all drug stores.

Special Edition Of Weekly Dedicated To Harley Sadler
Austin, Texas, July 12—A man's neighbors know him best, and the Hickory Grove neighbors of Jerry Sadler wanted to tell Texas about the home-town boy who was making a bid for the highest office within the gift of the people.
No oil has been struck at Hickory Grove and Jerry Sadler's neighbors are still men of the soil—wanted to help and let the people know what they knew about the boy who rode a cotton truck in to Nacogdoches just a few years ago to go to school, the home town boy who is now running for governor of Texas.
The Elkhart Record, a country weekly was their paper. The editor, Artie Davis had fished with Jerry Sadler and wanted to help all he could, but profits from a country newspaper are not great and Davis said a special edition of his paper could not be put out "because advertising is pretty scarce."
"Bedagged with advertising," the Rev. Joel Bowman, a farmer-pastor who is pastor of the country church where the Sadler family attends, said. "We got to tell them about Jerry."
The talk continued. The Rev. Bowman had a sow and five pigs, another neighbor had two yearlings another had a bale of cotton left from the year before, another had "about a load of black-eyed peas, he could pick," and a few had a few dollars.
And that is the way the special edition of the Elkhart Record dedicated to Jerry Sadler was published. It contains no advertising, but it gives a fair idea of what the citizens of the Hickory Grove and the Elkhart Community think of their entry in the governor's race.
CONDUCTS MEETING
Rev. C. T. Jordan, pastor of the Earth Baptist Church, and Rev. L. Lemons of Plainview conducted a revival meeting at the Baptist Church at Big Square last week.

MAKES APPLICATION TO BUILD PIPE LINE IN COCHRAN COUNTY
Application was made recently with the Commissioners Court of the Texas-New Mexico Pipe Line Company to construct and maintain a pipe line in Cochran county. This company is one of the larger enterprises of its kind. Last year much development followed when this company laid pipes to the big Bennet pool, Big lines were run to Seagraves from Hobbs.
Recently significant oil developments, the most important since discovery of oil in this section are indicative that this territory has one of the largest and richest oil pools in West Texas as a result of connecting the Slaughter and Duggan areas during the last few weeks. One of the recent wells by the Magnolia Company in the southeast corner of the county is believed to be the best well yet drilled in this section.
The oil development in this part of Texas can now be said to give promise of extensive development should favorable economic conditions in the next few years adjustify expansion.
The application for rights franchise also calls for authority build telephones and telegraph lines which will be used in opening the pipe lines.
Although a pipe line runs from the Levelland Refinery to Morton fields has been in operation for some time it is not so important an affair as the new promise to be—a company that already played an important part in oil development of nearby Texas and New Mexico fields.

CHAPTER 3

Rollins, tennis ace, is torn between two desires. He dreams of Europe with the Davis cup to help win the cup for America, and he is in love with the Grace Worthington, who is to defy her family and marry him if he will give up tennis. Fate seems to decide the matter when in a match game he injures an ankle so seriously his doctors say he can never play again. He gets a job at Talbot's sporting goods shop—selling equipment, and he and Grace married. Len is eating lunch with two old friends run into him.

Rollins, as I live and breathe! Wheatley cried.

"The hell are you!" Don gripped his hand.

"Frank! It's good to see you," Frank demanded, "have you been doing with that? Of course you know you that rich Worthington."

"I'm a happy old married man," Don said, "and I've had a fairly good job."

"Don't you ever get the old life, Rolly?"

Len shook his head.

"I mean to say," Don pursued, "that you never feel sort of up? Never miss traveling the way you used to? You—Bermuda, Berkeley, New York, Europe . . ."

"I'm ashamed about that," Don said, "but it's broken in irrevocably. One of those things," Len said. "They happen, I guess."

"But why did it have to be you?" Clark exclaimed. "Why those who didn't mean anything to the game? With you, Rolly, could bring back the cup for me, I think."

"Frank Wheatley's gaze was on him, heard the chunky older man say: 'You're right, Rolly, it's good thing to happen to you, really happier than we are, substantially happy, if you want I mean.'"

"Len repeated, 'I'm happy, I know what you mean.'"

"I said: 'I'd change places with you in a minute.'"

"Old Wheatley! what a guy!"

"Didn't you Don?" Frank asked, turning to his teammate.

"I'm eyes lit inquiringly on the older man, read something there, vigorously."

"I talked then of politics, the war in Europe, of books and many things. The clock spun around at last Len's time was had to go back. Back to work. He stood up and mugs, but I'm a hard-guy with only an hour left. How about coming in with me at the store sometime? 'house?' He gave them the number but knew they'd never have time."

"Frank Wheatley asked, 'the ankle stand the strain lessons? Nothing drastic. A rich kid, you probably old man—Dayton Richmond.'"

"I looked down into Frank's face. How nicely he and I could use some extra money. I might give it a try, Thanks."

"Call Richmond tomorrow. The book. I'll get in touch with this afternoon and tell Len's mind remained in a ferment of doubt the rest of that day. He knew Grace would be opposed to his going back to tennis even if it was just a matter of tutoring. But the money for each lesson certainly would add mightily to their meager income. With it they could do a lot that they had not been able to do before.

Surely Grace would be reasonable.

Finally he decided to take the coaching job and not tell Grace anything about it. For Christmas he would buy her something really nice. Surprise her. She loved surprises. How her eyes would glow! Yes, he'd tutor young Bob Richmond, save the money, and give Grace the most beautiful Christmas present he could afford. Certainly she deserved it.

As to his arriving home late evenings a week, he could pretend it's gone only half or three-quarters around?"

"You read that somewhere?"

The boy nodded. "Bill Tilden had an article on it in the newspaper once."

"It's good advice," Len said. "You try to follow it; I'll help you along. And don't forget, when you stroke, always make sure your body is sidewise, facing the net. All right now, we'll hit a few. And don't mind where they go, or how many you net. Just stick to the points we've covered. After a while you'll get the knack of it and the ball will behave."

Grace had waited dinner for him and they ate in a leisurely manner, exchanging news of the day. She asked whether he had had many customers. He answered that things had been rather slow.

"I don't see why they make work overtime, then," she

He could pretend he was working overtime at the store

he was working overtime at the store. It was lying in a sense, and Grace hated people who lied. Too they had solemnly promised never to hide anything from each other. But this really wasn't lying—a white lie never was. And, after all, wasn't he doing it entirely for her? Exhilaration flowed through Len as he pulled on white woolen socks firmly laced the low-cut tennis shoes, slipped into flannels, drew a light sweater over his head. The feel of the racquet in his hand was good. He bounced a ball, the gut humming as he stroked it against the ground.

Bob Richmond was waiting for him at court number four of the spacious Park Avenue armory. It had been arranged that every Tuesday and Thursday at six o'clock the son of the wealthy Dayton Richmond was to receive an hour's instruction.

Len took one side of the court, the youngster the other. For a time they hit the ball back and forth, young Richmond often netting the ball or knocking it out of bounds. After fifteen minutes of this sporadic volleying Len called the boy to the center of the net.

"There are many faults we will correct eventually," he explained, "but you handle your racquet naturally, and that's a good sign. Two glaring weaknesses we will work on first, before going on to the lesser ones. You stand with the front of your body toward the net when you stroke instead of sidewise; and you fail to follow through after making a shot. But we'll let that go for a minute. The grip of the racquet is of major importance and we'd better make sure yours is right before we do anything else. I'll teach you mine. They're the same that four out of every five players use."

The next fifteen minutes were devoted to the backhand and the other grips that constitute a tennis player's equipment. When Len felt that young Bob had grasped these well enough he concentrated on the follow through. "When stroking," he instructed, "let your arm go all the way around, or up or down as the case may be—but all the way. If I were teaching you boxing I'd say don't pull your punches. Do I make myself clear?"

"You mean, Mr. Rollins," the boy said, "that I don't keep my racquet moving, that I stop it when pouted. "Do you get paid for your overtime, Len?"

"No." Damn women's curiosity, anyway! "That is, we don't actually receive pay," he amended, but they give us a dollar for dinner. And we're going right out to spend that first dollar as soon as we get these dishes cleared up. We haven't been to a movie for weeks. I wish, darling, that I could take you to a play. I know very well you don't give a hang about pictures."

She smiled tenderly. "Next year when we're rich, we'll be able to go to all the good plays, won't we?"

"You bet we will. And perhaps an opera or two?"

"Oh, Len," she breathed. "That would be nice." She clung to him. "I'm so terribly happy, darling."

He kissed her passionately. "And so am I, Gracie. Now get your hat and let's go."

"But the dishes—"

"Throw them out the window," he said smilingly.

During the weeks that followed every Tuesday and Thursday evening found Len Rollins at the armory court tutoring Bob Richmond. After the first dozen lessons the youngster took to the game amazingly well.

They were out on the wooden court now, two days before Christmas, and young Bob Richmond at thirteen was a tennis player any other boy might well envy. As Bob's tennis had improved, so, proportionately, had Len's bank balance entirely depleted by furniture purchases. Back and forth went the ball—back and forth.

On Saturday Grace was buying a suit. And just the other day he had seen in one of the Fifth Avenue shop windows exactly the sort of fur scarf he knew she would like and appreciate—the soft, fluffy silver fox—

At noon the next day he went to the bank and drew a hundred dollars. Then he made his way directly to the shop where he had seen the fur piece. Yes, it was still there in the window, stretched out in all its soft luxurious beauty. Five minutes later he stepped out of the modern red and silver interior, a long narrow box tucked cautiously under his arm, and walked quickly to the Metropolitan.

"Happy Christmas from the boss of 4-B," he said to Grace that evening, handing her the box.

Her eyes widened. "Oh, Len! Len, what is it?"

As naive as a child opening the box containing her first doll, Grace tore nervously at the strings. At last the cover was off, now the tissue paper hurriedly was thrust aside. She was overwhelmed, staring at the lovely contents—pleased, stirred.

She lifted the soft fur out of its wrappings. "Oh Len, darling," she breathed, "it's beautiful! How did you ever—"

She draped the scarf around her shoulders. "It looks twice as lovely on you," he claimed.

"I think," her voice still quivered with emotion, "that I saw a card."

The silver scarf still draped around her shoulders, she took the card from the box—a plain white one on which was written simply "Merry Christmas." But what made it differ from all other cards were the two yellow pasteboards attached to it with a clip. "La Boheme," he said simply.

"Oh, Len!"

He smiled. "I suppose I'll have to drag the soup and fish and the ivory collar out of the mothballs."

"I—I suppose you'd better," she replied, her eyes starry.

This was Tuesday, one of Len's late evenings. If Grace walked slowly, however, and window shopped on the way she'd get to Talbot's too early. They could have dinner out. It would be fun; the change would do them both good.

When she arrived outside Talbot's at seven fifteen it was dark inside. Probably, through they worked in the back somewhere, or upstairs. She waited. No one came out. Minutes went by. Still no one emerged. Quarter to eight. Where in heaven's name was Len- He'd never been this late before. (Resolutely she went up to the big door and rattled the handle of the brass knob; knocked as hard as she dared against the window panes. After about five minutes a wizened old man opened the door.

Eight Thousand Farm People Attend Farmers Short Course

COLLEGE STATION, July 15—Eight thousand farm people took in the annual Farmers' Short Course at Texas A. and M. College last week.

The number was made up of three thousand 4-H Club boys and girls who registered for the junior section during the first two days of the week and of that many farm men and farm women who registered for the adult section. In addition, it is estimated that 2,000 people from surrounding counties attended without registering for rooms.

Frozen food lockers, land use planning and conservation headlined the program with speakers divided about equally between men and women of national importance and farm people.

Special groups who made the short course the occasion for meetings included the Texas Home Demonstration Association, Texas Agricultural Writers, Texas Agricultural workers, Master Farmers of Texas and Hereford Cattle Breeders' Association.

County agricultural and home demonstration agents gathered for their annual conference, as did workers of the Agricultural Experiment Station. Several hundred members of land use planning committees and some 500 AAA county committeemen also attended. The Texas County Agents held a business session.

Nickel-A-Bale War Chest For Cotton On Way

Council President Calls For Universal Service In Battle

Cotton firms and cotton farmers of Littlefield and surrounding area were called on recently by President Oscar Johnston of the National Cotton Council for "100 per cent allegiance in cotton's total war for increased consumption."

In a message addressed to local producers throughout the country, President Johnston declared that "the raw cotton industry is arming as never before in its history to smash down the blitzkrieg of substitutes, surplus and foreign competition."

The message came simultaneously with the National Cotton Council's announcement of a "universal service" plan to provide funds with which to carry on the fight during the coming year. The new plan, to go into effect August 1, calls for a defense fund of five cents on every bale of lint and three cents on every ton of seed, mobilized with the help of each of the five primary raw cotton interests.

Under the new plan, arrangements have been perfected enabling the producer to make his nickel-a-bale contribution at the first point of sale, either to the cotton merchant, large or small, or the ginner or warehouseman, acting as merchant. This contribution is carried on from merchant to compressor, who remits the accumulated funds to the Council when the bale is first compressed, or from merchant to textile mill which remits on the compressed cotton.

Similarly, contributions on cotton crushers, are assembled and remitted to the war chest by the mills.

"For fifty years we cotton farmers have been talking about an organization like the National Cotton Council to defend our markets and find new ones through judicious advertising, intelligent research, and organized opposition to restrictive legislation. At last we have it, and in two years equipped with modern weapons, it has accomplished what was possible in so short a period."

Improvements Add Much To Yellow House Land Office

Considerable improvements have been carried out at the Yellowhouse Land Company's suite of offices here the past two weeks.

The furniture has been rearranged; the entire suite has been remodeled, including redecoration, and new lighting fixtures installed by the Hill Electric.

New inlaid linoleum of a beautiful, mottled design has been laid and plans are underway for the refinishing of the office furniture.

The improvements have made an entirely new suite of the office quarters, making it much cooler and more convenient, both for Mr. R. T. Badger, manager, the personnel of the Yellowhouse Land Company, as well as clients of the company.

WELCOME

American Legion and Auxiliary

TO THE
 19th. DISTRICT CONVENTION TO BE HELD AT THE LEGION HUT, LITTLEFIELD,
 SATURDAY, JULY 20

Abraham Lincoln, at Gettysburg, spoke words to which he attached no world-stirring significance. They were merely the expression of thoughts which, to him, were a creed. Those words, taken up by students of government, and practitioners of liberty were shown to the world as the American Creed—the interpretation of her belief.

In the last war, many of our beloved, gallant young men gave their lives that that creed should flame anew. To those of you who fought bravely, and came back, we honor this day. You too, risked your lives, and your homes that our government should not perish from the earth.

Legionnaires, we welcome you, and we salute you!

Preparations are underway in a big way to make this the first District Convention of the American Legion and Auxiliary in Littlefield an outstanding success.

Over five hundred visiting Legionnaires and Auxiliary members are expected. Two registration booths have been arranged; one downtown and one at the Legion Hut. Registering will start at 1 o'clock P. M., when badges will be presented the delegates. Registration fee, 50c per person.

A number of District officers are expected. American Legion members will meet at 1 o'clock at the Legion Hut for the business session, while the Auxiliary members will meet at the same time in the Presbyterian Church.

Following the business sessions, the visitors will be honor guests at a chicken barbecue at the Legion Hut, followed by a dance in the evening.

Littlefield Wins Second Place In Softball Tourney

District Contest Opens At Lubbock Thursday, Aug. 8.

In the annual invitation softball tournament held every year at Fox Park in Lubbock, Littlefield split a double header losing to the Humble Oilers of Andrews to the tune of 10 to 0, and winning from Central Labor in a tight one, 10 to 9.

This winds up the tournament with Littlefield coming out second. Our boys made more tallies than any other team, but some of them were top-heavy scores on our side, which left us two games in which to come out losers. Nevertheless, the Panhandlers brought us the second place trophy which will be on display as soon as it arrives at City Barber Shop.

The teams and scores in the tournament were:

Littlefield 25; Hub Laundry 9. Littlefield 24; Morton 4. Littlefield 10; Central Labor 9. Olton 14; Littlefield 13. Andrews 10; Littlefield 6.

The district softball tournament opens August 8 at Lubbock's Fox Park, with the following counties in this district:

Lamb, Hockley, Lubbock, Crosby, Hale, Floyd, Lynn and Dickens.

In this tournament any team from any county may enter, and the inside opinions indicate that Littlefield has an excellent chance of winning because the only team they feared in the invitation tournament was Humble Oilers of Andrews, which won't be in this district. It is considered likely, however, that Andrews' one-man team, L. D. Cunningham, the one-armed pitcher, will carry his team to the state play off.

He received emergency treatment at the Littlefield hospital, where it was necessary for Dr. Wm. N. Orr, dentist, to remove several of his teeth. He is not confined to the hospital.

Beware The Fifth Column

We read frequent references to the "Fifth Column." It is a new phase in the language, and its meaning is not clear to everybody without explanation. It is the title of a book by Ernest Hemingway, an American correspondent in the Spanish Civil War. Its significance is derived from a remark by General Franco, who said that while he had four columns of troops besieging Madrid from without, there was a "fifth column" inside the city walls which was doing more effective work than all his soldiers.

The "Fifth Column" in modern warfare is made up of the spies and traitors at work within a nation to destroy the morale of the people. They work in divers ways. No one can identify them. They look, dress and act like ordinary citizens. They may be prominent in their communities. No one knows but that his next door neighbor is a member of the "Fifth Column."

The job of the "Fifth Column" is to spread rumors, stir up internal antagonisms, especially religious and racial, and to create a feeling of insecurity and distrust among the people of the land. They may be, and usually are, natives, or have lived long enough in the country to pass for natives. But they are in the pay of the nation's enemies, and when the time comes to strike they are the ones who furnish information to the invaders show them where the weak spots are in the defenses, and how to direct the attack at the weakest points.

Hitler made effective use of the "Fifth Column" which he had planted in Norway long before invading that country. There were "Fifth Columns" in Belgium and France. There is ground for believing that there are Nazi and Fascist "Fifth Columns" in many Latin-America countries, engaged chiefly in spreading antagonism toward North America by false rumors and gossip.

There seems to be a considerable "Fifth Column" in the United States, also. Nobody can identify its leaders with any foreign government, but there never before has been such an undercover campaign in progress.

We do not fear that an invasion is imminent. Yet no one has yet gauged the length of Hitler's arm or the speed with which it can strike. Our safety lies in unity. We shall have only disunity if we heed the whispered innuendoes of the "Fifth Column."

Local Women Attend Party At Lubbock Wednesday

Mrs. G. T. Cunningham and Mrs. Casto Sparkman entertained with a bridge party at the home of Mrs. Cunningham in Lubbock last Wednesday afternoon, July 10, honoring her husband's mother, from El Paso.

The entertaining rooms were beautifully decorated with garden cut flowers. Mrs. Mallory Eiter, Lubbock, scored high in the games. An assorted plate lunch was served.

Those attending this delightful affair from Littlefield were: Mesdames R. T. Badger, J. T. Elms, V. S. Cassell, E. O. McIver, R. W. Badger, Quinton Bellomy, and Gladys Young.

The SNOOPER SAYS...

It was the Plainsman in the Lubbock Evening Journal, who said that when he went to school the board of education was a shingle.

Did you know that in a year the "average woman" washes an acre of dirty dishes, three miles of clothes and one mile of glass, and scrubs and washes five miles of floors.

Young people may sow wild oats, but sometimes they are old men and women when they harvest them.

I wish winter time would come.

Reunion Of Huggins And Dunn Families Near Muleshoe Sunday

A friendship covering sixty-six years gave rise to a reunion of a remnant of the Huggins and Dunn families at the home of "Uncle Judge" Huggins seven miles northeast of Muleshoe July 14. This friendship had its beginning when these families became neighbors at Rock Creek, Pike County, Arkansas in 1874. They helped subdue a wilderness and bring civilization to a then new country where homes were far removed from one another.

They traversed the same trail through the "Gap" to the old Markham Mill, traveled the same winding road to old Salem log church, in the winter time the women preparing a feast of good things for the men at the community log rolling. Those were days when friends were real friends and neighbors meant something to each other. The ring of an axe and the whistle of the chopper were "music for the Gods."

When a settler found another added to his number friendships sprang up under such circumstances that express themselves in numerous ways through several generations. So it was with these two families, though not akin in the flesh, yet closely akin in many ways, have had personal contact most of these years without even a ripple on the sea of Peace to disrupt their relations.

Among those present on this delightful occasion were Mr. and Mrs. George Huggins of Muleshoe, A. J. Dunn and family of Port-very soon. The reason—because of those baked navy beans I'm going to enjoy for breakfast the first cold morning at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren Rutledge.

Mr. Rutledge learned to bake beans while he was in the navy but he tells his wife that he improved on the navy, some. At any rate they are acclaimed to be very delicious, and although they might not sound so good for breakfast, most people who have eaten them declare they are more delectable than any grapefruit or cereal.

He bakes them all night, with seasonings that add an extra flavor to them that makes them taste good in the morning. I'll tell you more about them when the "frost is on the pumpkin."

Lubbock sports writers are in Littlefield's citizens' dog houses and how so far back they can't be fed with a bean shooter even the local postmaster declared null and void on the first line in the following news item that appeared in a recent issue of the Lubbock Evening Journal.

"David Storey of Lubbock, defeated Sid Leberstein in Albuquerque, N. M., 6-2, 6-3, for the city junior singles title in the annual open tennis tournament at Albuquerque Sunday afternoon July 7, Imogene Dalton, Canyon, downed defending champion Ena Dellinger, 6-3, 6-4, for the women's title."

David is a student in Texas Tech in Lubbock completing his freshman year there last year. He is a son of Postmaster and Mrs. W. D. T. Storey of Littlefield and graduated from the local high school with the class of '39. His home has been here since he was a bare-foot boy in the 4th grade. And now Lubbock is trying to claim him. I don't blame them, though he is such a nice young man, and has always played tennis—remember how he used to easily walk away with the county championship in tennis every year, while in school here? And David will always belong to Littlefield.

Recently the Leader ran a story about a ship scuttled 120 years ago that is going to be brought to the surface. The ship is one that Jean Lafitte scuttled while trying to escape a U.S. revenue cutter, and is located in Lake Charlotte, which empties into the Trinity River, into Galveston Bay.

G. R. Sandidge used to live at Liberty, Texas, fifteen miles from Lake Charlotte, and when he was a small boy, he swam in the lake with his companions, and they would see the top of the mast of the ship. He remembers the legends and rumors about the discovery of the ship in its watery grave 90 years ago by Jake Sherman, a farmer. He knew Mr. Sherman 33 years ago.

The vessel now rests 20 feet under the sands of a silt bed. Plans have been made to salvage the pirate ship in legal fashion. It is reported that facilities of modern science can raise the ship.

Mr. Sandidge visited at Liberty five years ago, and he said he still could see the mast of the ship in Lake Charlotte. The lake is three miles wide and seven miles long. Do you know what "dressed lumber" means?

How about Charley McCarthy? That's all now MARGIE

Mr. and Mrs. Hobart Wallen accompanied by Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Harrison of Lubbock, left Saturday afternoon for a two weeks vacation in California.

All three in 8721, have frills in just the right places. All three are completely comfortable, and cute as a dimpled elbow. The pinafore has pockets for trimming and for trophies.

Take a look, mothers, at the pinafore spread out in the little sketch, and you'll see how absurdly easy it is to make, and that's a good thing, because this play trio is so attractive and practical that you'll want your little girl to have three or four made just like this. Gingham, percale, gabardine and chambray are sturdy, sunfast cottons for this. Pattern No. 8721 is designed for sizes 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6 years.

Pattern 8537 — You can create three different, and very necessary sports fashions with this one pattern—8537. First of all, it's a play suit just what you want for active outdoor games. Also, it includes a skirt, and when you button the skirt about you, you're wearing a smart sleeveless dress for spectator sports. Finally, it gives you also a brief, tailored bolero, which transforms your dress into a "little suit."

All three parts of this outfit are beautifully cut and they fit to perfection. Save money by making it yourself—of linen, gingham, sharkskin or denim, and trim all but the denim with ricrac braid.

Pattern No. 8537 is designed for sizes 12, 14, 16, 18 and 20.

Mother Of Sheriff Hutson Instantly Killed In Auto-Truck Accident Wednesday

Sam Hutson received a message late Wednesday afternoon that his mother, Mrs. Jack Hutson, was instantly killed and his father was critically injured in an auto-truck collision four miles from Hereford about five o'clock Wednesday afternoon.

Sheriff and Mrs. Hutson left immediately for Hereford and Amarillo, where his father was taken to a hospital for treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. Hutson had been shopping in Hereford and were returning to their farm home through a sandstorm when their automobile was in collision with a gasoline truck.

Funeral services for Mrs. Hutson are expected to be held Friday afternoon at the First Baptist Church in Hereford. Rev. Barnes, Baptist minister, will officiate and interment will be in the Hereford cemetery.

A family reunion had been planned for next Sunday at the Hutson home near Hereford, celebrating Mrs. Hutson's birthday. She was 69 recently, and Mr. Hutson is 76.

Sam Hutson has been sheriff of Lamb county for the past two years, and a resident of Littlefield for a number of years, and his many friends are grieved to learn of the tragic event.

Four of his sisters, Mrs. Beatrice Wharton of Denver, Colorado, Mrs. Lillie Hoover and Mrs. Sonny Ledbetter of Vega, and Mrs. D. O. Williams of County Line, have been visiting their parents this week, and they were expecting their other sister, Miss Lucille Hutson from Shreveport, for the reunion. She will arrive today to be at her father's bedside, and to attend Mrs. Hutson's funeral Friday.

Besides the daughters and her husband, Mrs. Hutson is also survived by three sons, Sam of Littlefield, Bill of Hereford, and John of Borger; and four sisters.

Mrs. Hutson was born and reared in Dallas county, near Garland. She moved to Hereford 15 years ago, where she was an active member in the First Baptist church, and was a Sunday School teacher for many years.

Both she and Mr. Hutson had been enjoying good health. It was not known at the time of going to press the extent of Mr. Hutson's injuries.
