Quick Action Under Plans Is Objective

Food Dealers Allowed 48-Hour Work Week, Dry Goods, Etc., 40

WASHINGTON (AP)—Quick spread of the retail code which went into force Tuesday by order of Hugh Johnson, recovery administrator, was being sought by his assistants with the expectation that soon every type of public sales agency will be blanketed under its terms.

Major development following the order which yesterday brought a majority of dry goods and department stores and other retail enterprises into two temporary agreements to remain in force until hearings held, was presentation of a separate code to govern the country's five and ten cent stores. It was stated authoritatively this was to call for longer work hours and lower wages than the general retail agreement. One of the officials said "they must all come under 40 hours work limit except food dealers."

REACH FOR A LUCKY

The office of state tax commissioner, once an almost forgotten post, has bloomed out as one of the important places in the state. For many years its chief duty was looking after the intangible assets of railroads and their distribution among the counties for tax purposes. As the valuations were based on several year periods of earning, the variations were slight from year to year.

Henry P. Edwards of Dallas, present tax commissioner, however, has a real busy man's job. Pipe line valuations now must be taken under a new law. When the race track law becomes effective, it will also be his duty to look after revenues from that source and he is a member of the commission to supervise racing.

The department now is seeking suitable quarters as it has outgrown the small fourth floor office it occupies in the state capitol. W. J. Rutledge of Dallas has been designated as state tax attorney.

Vice-President John Garner will not go on the stump in the campaign for ratification of the 21st federal (prohibition repeal) amendment. This word has been sent to Youkum, where he had been invited to address an anti-rally. Further, it is said from an informed source here, the vice-president will make no speeches while in Texas.

The stork has been paying visits to persons known in state affairs. To Senator and Mrs. George Purl of Dallas he has delivered a boy, and Sergeant-at-arms Joe White and Mrs. White, Harlandale, now have a second daughter to go with their son.

Miss Mauldin Is Married To G. E. Morgan

Ceremony Performed At Methodist Church Sunday

Miss Louise Mauldin, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. L. Mauldin, was married Sunday morning at 10:45 to G. E. Morgan of Amarillo in the study of the First Methodist church.

Dr. J. Richard Spann, pastor of the church, performed the ceremony in the presence of the bride's parents. In view of recent serious illness from which the bride's mother has not fully recovered the rites were private.

The bride was gowned in an attractive costume of steel gray with silver and eren accessories. She is a native daughter of Big Spring and a member of a well known pioneer family. She attended high school in this city but finished her precollege work in the McMurry Academy in Abilene. After two years of college work at McMurry she went to Kidd Key in Sherman to major in music. She studied under Harold Von Micklewitz at Kidd Key for one and a half years, becoming one of his "A" students. Her health prevented her finishing her musical studies.

She was a member of the First Methodist church and sang in the choir. The groom whose home is in Emory, attended East Texas in Commerce after finishing his same firm.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Edwards and daughter, Virginia, motored home Monday evening. Mrs. Edwards and Virginia who had been in Los Angeles met Mr. Edwards in El Paso.

FIFTY-TWO HOLIDAYS

What, asks a headline, will a million workers do with 13 million hours of new leisure each week? The question was addressed in behalf of the textile allied workers, whose new wage and work-day scheme went into effect a few days ago.

The question applies with equal force to millions of others, who will find themselves with spare time on their hands when the recovery program gets into its stride.

The problem is fairly simple, as it concerns the individual; but in the mass it will require a bit of doing. The individual, with a full day of leisure each week, to say nothing of shorter working hours on the other days of employment, may solve his problem for himself. Some will elect to stick around the place and do gardening, tinkering or anything else that suits their fancy. Others will want to spend the extra holiday in travel and recreational pursuits. These latter will furnish the real problem on a grand scale. Are we to have fifty-two Fourths of July every year, instead of one? Will our highways be choked with traffic every weekend, aggravating an already serious problem in many communities?

It looks like prosperous times ahead for gasoline sellers, operators of recreation centers, theaters, and ocean beaches. Millions of people with an extra day of leisure will spend the extra day pretty much as they spend ordinary holidays, and that means a great mass movement in every section of the country not two or three times a year, but every week.

Perhaps the joys of home life will be rediscovered, after the first Lydia E. Pinkham's Tablets Relieve and Control Periodic Pains

Under The Dome At Austin

By GORDON K. SHEARER

AUSTIN, (UP)—For all the declarations of former Governor Dan Moody that he has not been recommending federal appointments at Washington, some of the appointees are among his close spurge of holidaying hither and yon.

One of the things the depression years seems to have taught American business men is that the newspaper advertisement is the surest and most effective means of reaching the consuming public.

Figures just made public by the Bureau of Advertising of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association show that newspapers received 59 per cent of the total advertising appropriations of 423 national advertisers in 1932 and constituted the preferred advertising medium of 19 of the principal trade groups in the United States.

Newspapers, for example, got 82 per cent of the automobile advertisements, 74 per cent of the gasoline ads, 92 per cent of the railroads' ads and 87 per cent of the shoe and clothing advertisements.

The figures are a remarkable tribute to the "pullin' power" of the newspaper advertisement.

Under The Dome At Austin

friends. R. M. Kelly, Longview, was one of the original Moody men in his campaign for governor. He accompanied Moody on a trip East a number of years ago and was a frequent caller at the governor's office during the Moody administration.

The influence of Amos G. Carter, Fort Worth publisher, also a foe of Ferguson, is seen in the designation of Ike Ashburn of Houston to be a member of the Texas Advisory Board on Public Works. Ashburn was formerly a Fort Worth newspaper man. He attended college at the old Polytechnic College at Fort Worth and then was on the staff of the Fort Worth Record, now one of the Carter publications. Later he went overseas as a major in the 90th Division, was wounded, returned after the war and became commandant of the Texas A. & M. College corps. Subsequently he was engaged in various business enterprises in Houston including chamber of commerce work.

Appointment of S. A. Goeth of San Antonio likely had the strong endorsement of Vice-President John N. Garner, while the designation of John Shary of Mission is likely due to the apparent intention of the government to back the irrigation and drainage improvement works in the great citrus belt that has been developed in that section. Shary has been a pioneer in the citrus development.

Creation of the new Congressional district for Bexar county has resulted in a flood of prospective candidates for Congress from that district. It now is represented by Congressman Richard Kieberg of Corpus Christi, but the county will be taken out of his district.

It is common report about the state capitol that all the San Antonio state representatives are out for the place. Two of them, Pat Dwyer and Harold Kayton, met in the capitol a few days ago. Each asked the other about how his race was going.

Kayton, still believes a state sales tax will be enacted. He says conditions will force it. He advocated such a bill at the regular session, his measure differing considerably from that sponsored by Governor and former Governor Ferguson. He eliminated the pyramiding feature and provided for a division of the tax with the counties and municipalities.

Dwyer is a member of one of the oldest Bexar county families. If he went to Washington, he probably could call by Christian name any constituent who might visit him.

Report has it that another scion of the pioneer Texas family, Maury Maverick, will also be in the race. Thurman Barrett, brother of A. P. Barrett, now of Fort Worth, is a candidate. A. P. Barrett ran for Congress in the San Antonio district election a number of years ago but was defeated. P. L. Anderson, co-author of the state beer bill, is also mentioned as a likely candidate.

The office of state tax commissioner, once an almost forgotten post, has bloomed out as one of the important places in the state. For many years its chief duty was looking after the intangible assets of railroads and their distribution among the counties for tax purposes. One of the most places at luncheon time these is the outdoor dining room of hotel Chatham. There under of umbrellas you will always large crowd of well-dressed.

The smartest costumes are all neatly assembled by a few rules. They gave a cool appearance without looking though they belonged in the try-no all-white costumes and small sport outfits.

One of the smart women wore sheer silk, either plain or red. As a general rule they need them with brimmed hats handed in the dark blue of the dress. If the dress is tailored dark sheer it was ably relieved by a large white or a little white jacket.

TODAY and TOMORROW

By WALTER LIPPMANN
The Administration's Appeal

From the beginning those who have been planning for industrial recovery have felt the pull of two more or less distinct ideas. One was to stimulate a quick revival of industry. The other was to lay the foundation of an industrial reconstruction. When the idea of a quick revival has been in the ascendant, attention has been centered upon employing more men by reducing the hours of those who are employed and upon increasing pay rolls by raising minimum wages. When the idea of permanent reconstruction has been in the ascendant, the emphasis has been upon eliminating the wastes of competition by a co-operative organization of industry under a new body of industrial law.

In the first stages of the discussion last spring the idea of quick revival through a blanket limitation of hours and a basic minimum wage predominated. But the discussion showed that it would be difficult to apply such general rules to the almost infinite variety of industrial conditions, and the project really required an amount of sacrifice from employers that many of them could not or would not make. So attention was turned to the idea of legalizing organized action among employers. In effect, employers were persuaded to approve the idea of shorter hours and higher wages in return for a suspension of many features of the anti-trust laws. The National Industrial Recovery Act, as it was finally approved, was a kind of treaty in which the promise of a better working conditions was set off against the promise that the government would henceforth approve a much higher degree of combination among employers.

Once the act was passed the work of organizing and codifying began. The assumption was that a better organized industry, which by code had eliminated wasteful competitive costs, would be able to pay higher wages for shorter hours. This assumption has not been abandoned. But the experience of the past thirty days has shown as the President put it, that "it takes a good deal of organizing and a great many hearings and many months to get these codes perfected and signed." It could not have been otherwise. The formulation of a new body of industrial law can not be done in a few weeks.

The discovery that it could not be done made it impossible to give employers those advantages of combination quickly enough to induce them, for economic reasons alone, to shorten hours and raise wages.

to be set down so that they will lag behind. I do not know how Washington will do this, except in the relatively simple case of the highly organized industries.

If Washington is relying upon propaganda and boycotts to force the enormous number of small employers into line, it is greatly to be hoped that it will think twice before using such dangerous weapons carelessly. It is one thing to use the pressure of national opinion to compel great anonymous corporations. It is quite another thing to set people against each other who must go on living together as neighbors.

For my part I do not like that kind of coercion. I do not like to hear the Administration using scornful epithets to browbeat men whose difficulties no one in Washington can conceivably have understood. I do not like government by propaganda which may in a thousand communities incite discord and jealousy and hysteria and fear among the people. A government should govern by the use of the lawful powers and not by unleashing popular emotions.

So, I venture to say, be careful. Be very careful not to carry moral coercion too far. Be on guard against those who love the excitement and enjoy coercion for its own sake. It will be easier to call them forth than to restrain them later. It is easier to touch off hysteria and rancor than to quell it. Nor is it worth while to resort to such measures. What can be done by an appeal to reason and through moderation of feeling is worth doing and will help somewhat. But anything that requires a propaganda of intolerance is worse than useless. It is monkeying with dynamite.

Communications From Readers

Sunday, July 30.
To the Editor
Daily Herald
Big Spring, Texas.

I have just completed reading of the code of fair competition, adopted by retail grocery stores, appearing in Sunday's issue of your paper. I must commend the grocers on their code and hope it is adopted 100% and that it will stay so.

The public is keen for this blanket code and will watch activities very closely. They will watch how they spend—whether or not the merchant with whom they trade is trying to be fair and live up to their pledge and to the indigna they have earned.

However, in the retail grocer's code no concessions were made for "employing" members of the store owner's family, such as wives, daughters, sons, etc. That point should be watched closely by the buying public and competitors who are trying to help the situation. General sentiment leads us to believe that merchants who use such unfair tactics of trying to save on their pay roll in this manner will lose more patronage than hiring legitimately will cost them. We know of a case in Big Spring where a merchant "employing" about five members of the owner's family to only one "outsider," whereas this same merchant could employ, say two efficient men, that earnestly try to make livings for their family and would really save by doing so, besides helping the cause and their standing in the eyes of their customers.

Seeing this letter in print will be appreciated; and an article in your columns warning employees of this practice would be effective, we believe. Sincerely, HARLEY C. BARNES.

Sustained Activity Reported In Eleventh Federal Reserve District

By JOSEPH L. MYLER
Staff Correspondent
ALIAS (UP)—Sustained activity in business and industry was reported for the Eleventh Federal Reserve district in the monthly report today.

The report also noted "increasing optimism generated by the distinct rise in the price of the district's commodities such as cotton, wheat, oats, wool, mohair and others near importance."

Department store sales, it continued, "reflected a season decline of 17 per cent from the previous month, and were slightly higher than in the corresponding month last year."

Wholesale distribution in a majority of lines, however, showed a gain over the previous month, although receding from a substantial margin.

Merchants are enlarging stocks in care of the expanding consumer demand and in anticipation of the fall trade.

Collections evidenced a further gain over the previous month. Retention of the improvement in trade industry, charges to deposit accounts at banks in larger centers showed a further increase of 10 per cent over May, and exceeded those in the corresponding month last year by 1 per cent.

"Some improvement in the district's business mortality rate along with the betterment in trade and industry occurred during the month. The number of defaults and the amount of liabilities were not only smaller than in either May this year or June last year, but were lower than in any month in nearly three years."

"Construction work showed a noticeable expansion during the past month. The valuation of building permits issued at principal cities was 62 per cent larger than in May and was 49 per cent greater than in June, 1932. Increasing activity was also noted in other industries, including textiles and lumber."

Dry goods led all lines in increased wholesale turnover with a 76.9 per cent gain over June, 1932, and a 12.6 gain over May, 1933.

The financial situation at a glance:

Bank debits to individual accounts $469,646,000, up to 9.5 per cent from May; reserve bank loans to member banks at end of month $3,362,742, off 34.9 per cent from May; reserve bank ratio at end of month 87.4 per cent, up 3.5 points from May.

Cotton exports from the ports of Houston and Galveston were in much greater volume than for the corresponding month last year and at Houston were in excess of those earlier, contrary to usual seasonal trend.

Petroleum production for the district declined 5,649,500 barrels in June to 39,061,000 barrels from 44,710,500 barrels in May.

Conoco Garm Processed (Paraffin Base) Motor Oil is a high quality motor oil to which has been added extreme oiliness and penetrativeness. It combines with the metal surfaces, providing lubrication at all times. All other oils drain away—the Garm Process formula is exclusively Conoco's.

The total cost for this oil is but a fifth of a cent per mile.

Buy lubricating qualities—not just quarts—it's less expensive.

CHAPTER 30 Foster had watched Mary with concern and more interest than he had admitted to himself. Not that the radical change in her personal life had affected her services to him. In fact, it seemed that with the realization that her work was her only salvation and the means by which she would retain her sanity in the blackness of her grief, Mary's efficiency increased. She spurred her ambition to a harder pace and drove her strength with relentless zeal.

Railroad's Yearbook Shows Loss Of 49 Per Cent In Freight Income

CHICAGO—The railroads performed in 1932, a freight service equivalent to hauling 1,877 tons of freight for the distance of one mile for every man, woman and child in the country. No figure illustrates more vividly the effect of the depression upon the steam lines, according to the annual yearbook of railroad information just issued by the Western Railway Committee on Public Relations.

WHIRLIGIG—

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) you'll be surprised when you see them. Here's an indication of what to expect. It comes from the first state to report Kansas: There are 3,663 men in the Kansas C. C. C. They make a total of 3,833 allotments to members of their families. (In some cases a man has money sent to two dependents). The number of dependents in the families who get this velvet from 16,894. The money thus sent aggregates $47,644 a month. What this means in business turnover doesn't show in the figures.

Smooth—

Secretary of Interior Ickes is deaf in one ear. He finds it very helpful in administering public works and listening to job hunters. Instead of using a small private office he sits in a huge room. His immediate caller sits at his desk. Those waiting their turn occupy chairs further down the room. When a visitor's errand smells of the pork barrel Ickes cups his hand and asks that things be repeated in louder tones of voice. Finally the visitor is telling his business to the whole room. One senator who got this treatment left with the somewhat irritated comment he didn't care much for "holding a conference: a Child's restaurant."

What you might call slightly deaf but certainly not dumb.

Notes—

Ministers attention! You can even get a canned sermon from the National Recovery Administration. Overlooking no beta, NRA set the most pious-looking man in its publicity department to work preparing a screed for the Blue Eagle that would fit a Sunday pulpit. You guessed it—he took his text from the Golden Rule. The Navy Department was pleasantly surprised when bids were opened on the new fighting ships. They were 20 per cent lower than had been anticipated. It was explained that ship builders got a better price on steel. Those who maintain contracts with both Washington and London whisper that British Ambassador Sir Ronald Lindsay is on the toboggan slide. You'll place him from the news pictures. He's better than six-foot-six.

Patches—

Some business groups are trying to convert the Blanket Code into a patchwork quilt tailored to their own order. They claim it doesn't fit snug as it leaves them exposed to chilling drafts. Take the New York banks for instance. They want in on the Code because they don't wish to give anybody the impression—least of all Washington—that they are high-hatting the Blue Hawk. But they lament to the skies—in private—that they cannot guarantee their employees a forty-hour week. If a clerk's books aren't balanced at quitting time the clerk must stay till they are—code or no code. And they say they cannot pay overtime for such work. Otherwise no clerk's books would balance until far into the night. The thought of mounting labor costs pains them no little. They are looking hard for loopholes on the "unfair handicap" principle. Some banks are looking harder than others.

The Federal Reserve Banks will probably step out soon with a suggested wage and hour system for the general use of banks. They are working on it now. The "suggestions" will be as binding in effect as a Stalin decree. That way all the banks will start even and pleas for special exemptions won't register. Some departments in the large banks are absurdly under-staffed. The foreign department of one of the biggest rarely gets home before nine P. M. and sometimes later. Plenty of new jobs can be created by a revision of such conditions according to the Code.

Utilities—

Like the banks they want to stand up and be counted. Their main worry is whether their operating staffs come under the head of mechanical workers or service employees. The former rate a thirty-five hour week and the latter a forty. Most utility companies are practically on a forty-hour week now. So a change to forty would only represent a ten per cent increase in wage costs which they say they can stand. They claim the thirty-

MARTIAL LAW—

(Continued From Page 1) der for martial law in response to a petition filed by eleven of the twelve members of the grand jury asking for protection from "anarchy in the courts," and requesting destruction of the November ballots. The governor ordered the 'protection' but declined to order the destruction of the ballots, saying "the courts in their final judgment can be relied upon to pay their proper respect to their previous jurisprudence on these questions; if they should not, I have sufficient authority to protect all parties affected thereby." Mayor T. Semmes Walmaley was out of the city and the acting mayor, Commissioner A. Miles Pratt, expressed surprise over the martial law order an hour after it had been issued. He said he had not heard of it, but said he had no statement to make.

JOHNSON—

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE 1) "no official of any of the dominating major oil companies x x x will be suffered to take charge of this industry." Moffett last week resigned his position as senior vice president of the Jersey Standard to accept an appointment to the advisory committee on a disagreement with Walter C. Teagle, president of the company and chairman of the committee. The appointment of Moffett was formally announced late Monday. Johnson told the oil men, representing virtually all phases of the industry, that he was "by no means satisfied with the code" written by himself and his representatives but that he hoped to settle the controversial points remaining before submitting the agreement to President Roosevelt.

Needs—

The Federal Reserve Board didn't stress its latest figures but they are impressive. They show that business activity only has to gain seven per cent to get back to the 1924-25 normal. But employment would have to gain by forty-six per cent and payrolls by one hundred-and-thirty-four per cent over their present level to recover to the same normal. That's the purchasing power story in a nutshell. A New York authority has worked it out on the basis of these statistics that if business were allowed to revert to normal without effort to stimulate purchasing power we would have a permanent unemployment roll of more than nine million people. These facts have begun to sink in deeply among the industrial and financial big-timers. They account for a remarkable change of attitude in the last two weeks. You find very few left who still maintain that nature should be allowed to take its course. (Copyright McClure Newspaper Syndicate)

HOWARD—

(Continued From Page 1) brother served as clerk when Howard was in the 12th district. W. T. Dent followed Mr. Walker, being succeeded by J. I. Prichard, who still holds his office as county clerk. First District Clerk O. Dubberly was elected district clerk when the offices were separated here. His son, Hugh, was appointed to fill his unexpired term when Mr. Dubberly, with his wife, was killed in an automobile crash near Sweetwater. Unopposed in the last primary, Hugh piled up one of the largest votes ever accorded any official in Howard county. Minutes of the first court, on file in the clerk's office, are done in fancy long hand. One term of court convened one afternoon and adjourned the next morning. Juries in those days believed in melting out punishment to violators of the law. One gave an admitted horse thief five years. (Previously all such culprits had been hanged without question). Another let the defendant off with a five year sentence after he had pleaded guilty to assault with intent to rob. And with a streak of the modern, still another jury assessed only two years against the man who pleaded guilty of assault with intent to murder. First divorce petition was granted. The court decree does not record the story old timers tell of how an excited plaintiff fired on the defendant's lawyer and killed a mule across the street. The first man charged with murder in Howard county, jumped bond and left his sureties to pay the sum $5,000. Then and now, $5,000 was a lot of money. First grand jury was composed of Messrs. George Bauer (foreman), J. D. Corkadon, Kelly Hogg, C. C. Johnson, J. J. Meeks, I. D. Maxwell, J. R. Ray, W. T. Stewart, Mood, Isaac Brown, Robert Sealy, and S. M. Brown. Since the first case filed here in 1852, there has been a total of 2770 suits placed on the docket. Judge Brooks' special court, created when the regular court docket became cluttered, dealt with 202 cases here during its two years. Tuesday local lawyers began filing in the 70th judicial district. Two cases, both civil, were filed before noon so that service might be complete before the first term of 70th court convenes here September 18th when Judge Klapphohn calls his court to order. Scarcely anyone save attorneys knew Tuesday that Howard passed out of the picturesque 32nd district. But there were a few old veterans of the bar who fired their pipes and leaned back to reminisce.

Yankees Win Off Senators

18 Hits Collected Off Three Pitchers, Babe Does Heavy Work

WASHINGTON—The champion Yankees collected 18 assorted hits off three Washington pitchers and trimmed the league leading Senators, 13-9 Monday to get an even break in their four-game series and head back to New York just a game out of first place.

Babe Ruth's formidable bat played an important part in the old fashioned Yankee offensive that reached its climax in a seven run barrage in the fourth. As on Sunday, Washington errors contributed to the home team's downfall.

Besides a triple, Ruth rapped out two doubles before retiring from the burning heat after seven innings.
