For more than military and political victories in the Vietnam war, says a Littlefield soldier just back from a year's tour in that war-torn country.

Army Staff Sgt. Kenneth W. Hutchins predicted a victory first be won on the social front before lasting military conquests of the Communists can be achieved.

The serviceman expressed that opinion last week as his 30-day leave here drew to a close and a new duty assignment awaited him.

Hutchins is the 26-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Hutchins, and two sons, Kenneth Weldon Jr., 3, and Kevin Wallace, 2.

Unlike the military war which is waged with force and hostility, the social war is fought with subtlety and friendship, he pointed out.

Both battles are obviously important to American involvement in the war, and both were a deep concern for Hutchins.

"We've got to show them (the South Vietnamese) that we're their friends and that we're there to help them," he said earnestly, "before we can ever think about winning the war."

of winning friends and influencing people -- even those America is trying to help -- is almost always a task and often an art.

"One of the biggest problems is that they just won't understand what you tell them to do," he said. "Even now, most of the people can't speak English and most of them don't understand a word you're saying."

As a member of the Army Signal Corps, charged with keeping communication lines open throughout the South, Hutchins said he had ample opportunity to work with the natives.

most all parts of the country -- and on occasion -- within sight of the enemy.

"One of our main goals is to try and get the Vietnamese to help us and work with us," Hutchins went on.

The sandy-haired soldier paused a moment as he pondered specific drawbacks to that aim. "They'll always help you," he said finally, "if they can see that money in their hands."

Hutchins stressed natural characteristics of the people as another major stumbling block

ple are about as non-industrious as you can get," he declared. "It's just that everything has been at a standstill so long over there."

He stopped for a moment to grind out the butt of his second cigarette in 10 minutes, lit another, and continued.

"All they want is the dollar and what they can get out of you," he said almost sadly. "They don't seem to have the ambition we're use to over here. They have their way of life set like they're use to and they are slow to change."

His words poured out slowly

Lamb County continues to rake up agricultural honors, with announcement released this week by U. S. Soil Conservation Service that Lamb County Soil Conservation District is grand award winner for Area 1 in The Goodyear Tire & Rubber Company's annual Soil Conservation Awards Program.

Because of the vastness of the size of Texas, the state is divided into three areas, according to Conservationist J. A. Blevins Jr., of Littlefield, while, in some cases, smaller states are combined.

Other state winners were El Paso-Hudspeth SCD, Area II, and Colorado SCD, Area III.

James E. Steffey of Anton, announced as outstanding farmer-cooperator during Littlefield Chamber of Commerce's annual banquet earlier this year, and Merrill P. Brigrance of Olton, chairman of the district's supervisory board, will be two of six men from the areas to be guests of the rubber company in December on a four-day visit to Goodyear Farm near Phoenix, Ariz.

Altogether, 106 men representing top districts throughout the country will observe conservation practices on the 14,000-acre desert farm.

Steffey and Brigrance, along with others chosen, will be presented a suit of clothes and an all-expense-paid trip to the Goodyear farms.

Also, a plaque for the area honor will be presented during the State Soil and Water Conservation Convention Oct. 17-19 at Fort Worth.

Second place winner in Area I was Hale County Soil Conservation District, with Billy F. Sylvester of Plainview named outstanding farmer-cooperator. In last year's awards, Lamb County took second place.

Taking second in Area II was Middle Clear Ford SCD, and in Area III, Calhoun-Victoria SCD.

Soil conservationists here were notified in March of the county's first-place Goodyear win, but were not free to release the news until a letter was received this week giving authorization.

Conservationist Blevins said in order to win the Goodyear honor detailed paper work as well as achievement is required. A committee of state agricultural and conservation authorities make the selection after reviewing accomplishments.

An awards score sheet was filled out in January which was required to be sent to Goodyear by Feb. 15. Lamb County's win is based on accomplishments in 1966. Blevins said the district already has entered for 1967.

Main points in the score sheet are (1) planning for service (2) organizing for service (3) giving service (4) measuring service and (5) narrative of highlights.

Investigating officers were Parsons and F. A. Fitzgerald, Littlefield Police Chief.

Indications are that Martinez left the pickup in the ditch and tried to make his way home.

What happened to him from the time he left the pickup until he was found by his wife and sister is a mystery that apparently can be explained only by the victim, officers said.

Fourth Lane On U. S. 84 Opening Set

New north lane of U. S. Hwy. 84 from Littlefield to Sudan will be opened up the latter part of this week, making that portion of 84 a "true four-lane highway," according to Highway Dept. Resident Engineer Rhea Bradley.

Bradley issued a statement this week cautioning the people "to be alert for motorists traveling the wrong way on the south lane until they become accustomed to the four-lane highway."

He stressed the need for careful watch to avoid traffic mishaps.

in quick tones that seemed never to vary in intensity, no matter what they were telling. His casual speech, matched by his casual dress, offered few clues that the man from which it came was a seven-year service veteran.

"All they want is to keep ol' Charlie (the Viet Cong) away from them," he said.

Hutchins observed that the laxity which pervades the civilian population also manifests itself in the military of South Vietnam. He said it was not strange to find a "soldier" sitting at home in his uniform when he was supposed to be training or fighting.

"When they get in the heat of a fight, they are just so liable to turn and run as to fight," Hutchins said of the average South Vietnamese soldier. This he attributed more to lack of training than to cowardice, however.

"And, too, you must remember that these people are fighting their kindfolk," he cautioned. "Discipline is so different from ours," he admitted, shaking his head. "But by our being over there they are able to see how discipline can help in an army." Among the biggest steps taken to date toward South Vietnamese Army reform has been the institution of stiffer basic training programs.

EVER WONDERED what it would be like to stand in a stock exchange watching the board, buying and selling with abandon, snapping your fingers to people running to and fro?

Most everyone is familiar with the scene-- it's an old standby in the movies -- and it's always evoked my curiosity. Only one thing has actually stopped me from "dabbling" in the market ... well, two things to be exact, but they both add up to the same idea -- money!

In the first place, I've never been able to reach the point where money didn't mean money to me. I could never quite see the joy in any game where I am likely to lose MY money and, since the first rule is a willingness to lose, this puts me out before I even get up to bat.

In the second place, I have just never had an overabundance of this particular commodity.

Regardless of all this, I now consider myself an old pro at the "stock market" and I am here to report that there is really nothing to it.

SOME FRIENDS of ours recently received as a gift a new game (at least it's new to me) called, you guessed it, "Stock Market".

The Publisher and I were invited over to try out this new fun-thing, an idea which I viewed with no little horror since it is a well-known fact that I can't add two-and-two.

I had a sneaking suspicion that anything to do with the stock market would also have to do with mathematics but I decided to be a good sport. By this, I mean that I figured I could always sit there and think up clever, witty things to say and maybe no one would notice my gross stupidity.

One look at this particular game and I nearly fainted. There was this board so loaded down with figures that you needed a magnifying glass to find some of them, there didn't seem to be any place to even START trying to figure this thing out so I did the only logical thing.

I smiled . . . and smiled . . . and smiled, all the way through the explanation of this "game", always nodding absolute agreement at the right pauses, and not understanding one word.

I did think to ask mildly about the problem of multiplication. I could easily foresee that the game might stall indefinitely at my turn if I decided to sell 1,909 shares of a stock, valued currently at $1.09 per share. You see, I never did learn my 9's.

Fortunately, there was a large board with all this figured out for you. Both the Publisher and our host condescendingly handed this board to the ladies since, of course, the gentlemen would not need it. Any superior male (and they all are) could figure everything out in his head.

I BLUFFED. This is the only possible explanation for what happened.

The gentlemen in the game knew exactly what they were doing. This was obvious -- they told us so.

Our host was the first one to go under, a fact which seemed to daze him just a bit. The Publisher thought it was hilarious.

He stopped laughing a little later when it dawned on him that he was dead broke and he looked across the board and saw all this lovely money --- in front of the ladies.

It was at this point that he took to referring to us as rich witches, or something like that.

The hostess and I chatted along, playing our simple-minded little game, never forgetting to ask the advice of our better halves.

"I'll take 10 shares of whachamacallit and, oh yes, my dividends or interest or whatever that is. . . you know, dear."

The game ended shortly after our hostess decided to sell a thousand or two shares at some ridiculous figure and simply handed the whole thing to her husband, expecting him "to figure all that stuff out for me."

He looked at her with glazed eyes and opened his mouth, which just somehow seemed to stay that way, so she sweetly asked: "Would you like to borrow that multiplication board you loaned us, dear?"

Moral: Never play the stock market unless you're pretty good at smiling.

OWNER'S REPORT

Power Of Publicity

By Bill Turner

"I'M TIRED of having my leaders selected for me by NBC and CBS television networks."

This complaint, voiced by Clifford L. Alexander, a prominent Negro lawyer, sums up a situation that deserves the attention of the reading and viewing public.

Alexander was talking specifically about the rabble-rouser Stokely Carmichael, who has a highly-developed genius for creating dissension.

"We can't take care of Stokely," said Alexander, "because he's not responsible to us -- and he is described as our leader. Well, I'd like to pick my own leaders so I can kick them out when they get out of line."

THIS RAISES a significant point. Carmichael is no "Negro leader" because of the democratic process. No one elected him to anything.

He's active in an outfit called the Student Nonviolent Coordinating Committee, but it would label the Negroes of this country to say that SNICK speaks for them. This is what the Communists call an "agitprop" operation, designed to agitate and propagandize, and that is precisely how Carmichael has played it.

With, we hasten to add, the generous cooperation of TV and certain segments of the press. Thanks to the free publicity they have given the ineffable Stokely, he has been lifted to national eminence as "a Negro leader."

It will be said that Carmichael is "news" and that neither he nor his threats against "Whitey" can be ignored. But Carmichael is news only because of the buildup he has received. This is what causes crowds to gather when he shows up, and this is what provides the tinder that constantly erupts into riots wherever he meanders.

WE VENTURE to predict that if this fellow were ignored by TV and the press for six months his capacity for trouble-making would dissipate to the point of no return.

People would ask, "Stokely Carmichael, who's he?" And the same treatment might properly be accorded other creatures of publicity, including the compulsive Martin Luther King.

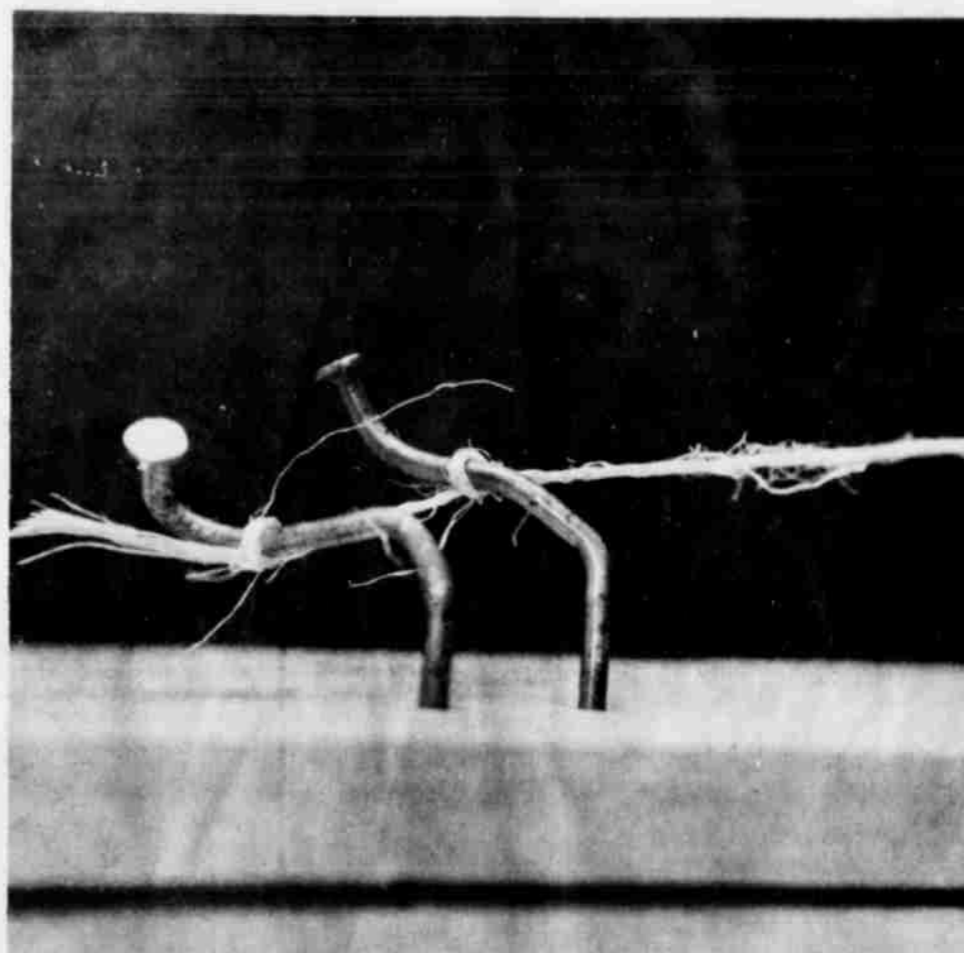

So long as these people have microphones they'll soon be deflated to their actual size.

It is remembered, for example, that Fidel Castro could never muster more than 200 followers, roughing it in the hill country of Cuba, until Herbert L. Matthews publicized him in the New York Times. Supporters then flocked to him.

By the time they realized what a phoney he was, it was too late.

'Things' Have Gotta Go

HOMALU HOOD

'Things' Have Gotta Go

As we grow older -- well, let's not put it that way -- as we "grow up," (that's better) we learn to be more patient with our fellowman. Generally speaking, that is. I know I did.

Because by the time I reached the growing-up stage, I already had done -- twice -- everything I could possibly think of to criticize others about.

And, because of the "growing up" business, we learn to recognize our own faults.

IN MY CASE, a day never ends when I've left myself room to criticize someone else, doggone it.

Now, this can become a very frustrating situation. It can cause ulcers, apoplexy, strokes . . . .

But there is a defense against these hazards, a sort of natural tranquilizer. And I was fortunate enough to be born with a built-in antidote.

YOU SEE, I hate "things."

Like that ornery, contrary, no-good, sadistic water heater in our kitchen.

Oh, it's a schemer. It waits until it knows I'm going to walk in the front door completely bare, fit for nothing but kicking off shoes, wriggling out of "restricting garments" and collapsing on the couch.

That's the asthmatic monster's favorite kind of a day.

ONLY I DON'T just open the front door and walk in. That confounded sorehead door spends half its time swelled up at the world.

So I shove and I kick and I cuss. I huff and I puff and finally the cotton-pickin' thing comes open and sheer momentum crashes me headlong into the living room teetering for balance like a tight-rope walker, frantically juggling packages and purse and trying like crazy not to squash my little dog "Doc" who, by now, is bouncing with joy against the back of my knees like he hadn't seen me in a week.

And then mother's voice wails from the kitchen.

"Oh, Homalu -- I'm so glad you're home. The hot water heater has gone out again!"

XQXXZZZQXXL So -- having miraculously managed not to fall flat on my face, I get rid of purse, packages and dog and clomp into the kitchen. Then comes the fun.

I set that smirking control on "Off," then wait five minutes. Time passes.

I maneuver into a prone position on the kitchen floor -- a five-foot human mop -- strike a match, twist it back into a pretzel, press the little red button, stick the match in the only hole I can possibly see, and the match goes out.

I cuss.

I RAISE UP to get another match and by now the door to the heater's enclosure has sneaked up behind me. So I bang my head against it, yips, make a quick swivel and tear a six-inch square out of my last pair of hose.

Well, by this time I've smarted up and I run my finger all over that blasted heater's controls and spot the carefully hidden pilot opening. I strike a match, push the red button real, real hard (it's that kind of button), stick the match in the hole and sigh with relief when it "whooshes."

Then, with all my might, I press on that button one minute.

Would you believe -- after that I have to pry my finger loose and can't straighten it for 15 minutes? That's when Mother says, "Now -- there's no use talking like that. It doesn't help a thing."

BUT THE SORRIEST, hatefulest, orneriest, most no-good critter the good Lord ever let plague mankind is a camera.

You get your subjects all lined up, just so, everyone wearing gorgeous smiles -- you get the shutter speed and light reading perfect -- everything is A-Okay -- you press the trigger . . . . and the blasted flash won't fire.

It takes everything you've got to keep from throwing that camera from here to eternity.

YOU TRY AGAIN. By now the lovely smiles have become uncertain plastered grins.

You press the trigger, there's a flash, and everyone sighs with relief.

Then comes the clincher. The roller won't turn.

So you cover the lens with your hand, press the trigger again, pray for deliverance of your soul and swear that, Lord willin', next year you're going back to being a bank teller.

George Lets You

By PAUL HARVEY

I don't get to read enough. I pound every word of three broadcasts a day and three newspaper columns a week into a typewriter myself.

I do a lot of talking to myself. But I don't get to read enough.

My bedside reading table is piled high (The pile includes recent editions of the newspaper.)

I do get to do some reading while traveling.

BUT TO FILL this void, Angel does a great deal of reading in my behalf. She may miss but one chapter in a whole book for me to read or, sometimes, scattered paragraphs.

Often she will mark but one sentence in somebody's research paper.

This way I get the benefit of depth research condensed, pre-digested. Thus from what's new she distills what's pertinent.

The his-and-hers cooperation described above will explain the item below. It was left for my perusal the other night, excerpted from an interview with sociologist Dr. Marvin Sussman of Western Reserve University.

ASKED ABOUT an instance where somebody is in distress or in danger and crowds of people just walk right on by, Dr. Sussman replied, "The victim might have been better off if there had been only one passerby instead of many. In an emergency a person is more likely to take prompt action if he is the only one who can."

Now-- in the margin alongside this observation Angel wrote, "Is this an explanation of why American people fail to oppose government actions, however repugnant?"

IS IT? THIS PSYCHOLOGIST SAYS that when there is a crowd responsibility gets diffused -- "perhaps partly because people hesitate to appear foolish or nosey."

Psychologists John Darley of NYU and Bibb Latane of Columbia recently exposed test subjects to cries for help. They were answered more promptly when only one person heard the cry than when several did.

NOW, back to the question: Could this explain why American people fail to rush to the rescue of their own endangered government?

When they see it spending itself broke-- When they see it losing wars it could win-- When they see enemies within--

When they see Uncle Sam about to get his fingers burned--

When they see a world of grinning baggages conning him out of his bankroll--

And home-grown arsonists touching matches to his Constitution.

WHY DON'T WE, The People, raise a great hue and cry to alert Sam-- to protect him from himself?

The psychologists may have the answer. We let George do it. George counts on us to do it.

So nobody does.

The Countrywoman

By LIBBY MUDGETT

SHE gazes across the green fields of summer and wonders what they looked like a century ago when grass and buffalo were everywhere.

Did someone live close to her homestead a hundred years ago?

Who roamed the land where these fields are now?

What will it all look like a hundred years from now? Who will dwell in this country then? What people?

SHE returns to her home in the country after a visit to the city.

Her eyes have been filled with many and wondrous sights; her nostrils have been filled with various and sundry scents; her ears have been filled with strange and constant sounds.

Her attention has been given to first this and then that and her feelings have run the gamut from here to there.

Many glorious things the city has, but there is one thing it lacks; verily, verily, it has no quietness.

THE ABUNDANT LIFE

Give Flowers Now

By BOB WEAR

Most people, perhaps all people, have some feeling of gratitude toward somebody or for something somebody has done.

Nevertheless, much of this feeling is never expressed.

All of us who try to be useful and helpful, and this includes most people, have great need to hear some expression of gratitude for what we do.

The neglect in giving voice to our right feelings of appreciation is probably the greatest single source of loss in human strength and well-being. It is loss for those failing to express the gratitude, and also loss for those who should be openly appreciated.

It may be that many of us permit ourselves to be so distracted by self-seeking, self-pity and other forms of selfishness that we simply fail to be grateful.

This is also a very great loss in human strength and welfare.

INGRATITUDE has nothing to commend it, and is deserving of every possible ugliness of description.

Of course, it should be noted that gratitude unexpressed is very much the same as ingratitude.

Young said, "He who is ungrateful has no guilt but one: all other crimes may pass for virtues." Many knowledgeable persons have addressed themselves to the evils of ingratitude.

For all practical purposes, we can classify unexpressed gratitude along side, and companion to ingratitude.

It is also significant that ingratitude never stands alone, but is always surrounded by a host of evil companions.

OBSERVATION leads us to conclude that most of us have many feelings of thankfulness, but the same observation reveals that these feelings often die without being expressed.

Most of us have friends, neighbors and loved ones to whom we are grateful, and for whom we feel great admiration.

We are constantly receiving kindness and considerations from others. We recognize the value of, and are grateful for the good we receive from others, and for the good they contribute to the general welfare.

How often do we express these good feelings? Do we ever tell these people how we feel?

It is very important to us and to them, too, that we express our feelings.

THE URGENCY for expressing our feelings of appreciation has been well stated in the exhortation, "Give the flowers now."

I have stood by the open casket many times and listened as survivors confessed their neglect in failing to express gratitude during the lifetime of the deceased.

This failure is one of the most common tragedies in human experiences, and regret is very poor compensation for failure.

An anonymous writer has given a very good thought in the following.

"It is better to bring a cheap bouquet to a living friend this very day, Than a bushel of roses, white and red, To lay on his casket when he is dead."

You may be thinking of someone now who is due an expression of appreciation from you. A phone call, a visit or a note will bridge the gap that has gone unspanned so long.

IF WE feel gratitude for anything, we must not keep it secret; but reveal it.

According to Inspiration, "Open rebuke is better than secret love."

SANDHILLS PHILOSOPHER

Communist Phone Booth

Editor's note: The Sandhills Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm is surprised to learn a new fact about Russia, his letter this week reveals.

Dear editor:

I got tired of listening to the United Nations debates on television, where every delegate is "distinguished" and every nation is "peace-loving," and figured if Premier Kosygin could walk out when something came up he didn't like I could do the same and shut the set off and went out on my front porch and read a newspaper which an insurance salesman left here the other day when he was trying to sell me a policy which would pay off even in the event of an atomic war.

I never could get him to say who'd be around to pay off.

Over on an inside page I ran across one of those articles that always throws me off balance, which is hard to do when you're sitting with your feet propped on the banister.

According to it, the police in Russia have been bothered with culprits stealing receivers out of pay telephone booths, and what bothered me about this was not what anybody would want with a telephone receiver or that there are petty thieves in Russia, but that there are pay telephones.

I had thought the people owned everything over there and you can see what a shock it is to learn that a Communist phone booth is no different from a Capitalist booth-- it takes a dime to make one work.

When information like this slips out from behind the Iron Curtain, it makes me more and more doubtful about everything else that comes out.

For example, how long does a Russian permanent wave last? Can the Arabs depend on Russia to help them whip Israel? Will Russia use parking meters, if she ever builds enough cars to produce traffic? When a Russian barber charges for a hair cut, who gets the money?

It's a little thing like learning Russia has pay telephones that makes a man wonder why the Arabs believed the Communist leaders were on anybody's side except the Communist leaders.

Yours faithfully, J.A.

Dear Mr. Turner: I appreciate your sending me a copy of the June 8 LEADER with the story in it about the former Littlefield resident who was living in Egypt at the outset of the Middle East confrontation.

The story is quite interesting, although it is not too specific about alleged malpractices within the United States Embassy in Cairo regarding the sale of embassy provisions on the black market.

As you probably know, CARE is a private agency over which the U.S. government has minimal control.

Nevertheless, I would be interested in hearing more details of Mrs. Parker's black market experiences with U.S. government-imported products. Would you perhaps be kind enough to pass this on to her. She can either contact me directly, or through the LEADER, if she prefers.

Thank you for writing.

Paper Uses

June 26, 1967

Dear Mr. Turner: I am referring to the owner's letter in the June 22 paper, about what was said in old newspapers. You failed to mention a very important one; papier mache. In your chair show, "Brigadon," the sets made of this. These sets included chairs, rocks, tavern, shed and house. People do not know exactly what papier mache is.

What is required are newspapers, torn into strips, flour and water for paste, and also a very messy. The newspaper strips are put into the flour and water paste and to whatever object one is working on. The entire object is covered, until the thickness is desired or until it is completely covered.

These strips of newspapers were used in these sets. I know ... I worked on them.

You are probably thinking that this is a household item, but it can be used for anything from jewelry to napkin rings. Even a mutation fruit for the kitchen table can be made from papier mache.

Other items that can be made from newspapers are collages. This is a surrealistic made up of heterogeneous fragments, and newspapers may be one. These are made up and arranged with related lines and color.

If anyone else had uses for old newspapers, let me know ... so I did!

An avid reader,
Leona Harm

What You Get For Your Money

How much did Lamb County residents pay, on the average, in Federal, state and local taxes in the past year?

What did they get back for these payments in the form of roads, schools, protection, health care and other public works and services?

This relationship, between tax burden and benefits, is the subject of a special national study just completed by the Tax Foundation, a non-profit research organization that serves as a watchdog on government finances.

Its figures show that the taxes paid and the benefits received do not balance each other except for families with net incomes of about $6,000.

Below that level, the benefits derived are greater than the costs. Above it taxes exceed benefits.

Residents of Lamb County, whose incomes averaged $7,017 per family in the past year, after deduction for personal taxes, had tax bills of approximately $2,030 per family, according to the Tax Foundation's figures.

This takes into account all taxes, direct ones and hidden ones, collected by all levels of government.

In return for this outlay they received benefits estimated at $1,870 per family.

For local families with net incomes of $14,000, taxes amounted to $4,420 in the year and the benefits received came to $2,880.

Those with incomes of $4,000, on the other hand, had taxes of $1,080 and benefits of approximately $1,600.

In the Tax foundation study, the benefits are divided into two broad groups -- specific and general.

In the specific category are education, highways, public welfare, veterans benefits, labor and manpower, agriculture and social insurance.

The general benefits are the ones that result from government spending for health and sanitation, national defense, commerce and finance, civilian safety, international affairs and general government administration.

For most people in the United States, earning the money to pay their taxes takes the biggest part of their working day, the Tax Foundation states. On average, 2 hours and 25 minutes of work is needed to meet Federal, state and local taxes.

'Texas' Opens Friday Governor Will Attend

PALO DURO STATE PARK-- The Governor of Texas and Mrs. John Connally will attend the Gala opening of "TEXAS" Friday in Palo Duro State Park.

Mr. and Mrs. Connally are coming as guests of Mr. and Mrs. L. P. Gilvin. Gilvin is President of Texas Panhandle Heritage Foundation which produces the "TEXAS" show.

Opening night will find six flags flying over the Pioneer amphitheatre in the Palo Duro Canyon State Park representing the six flags which have flown over Texas. They celebrate the production "TEXAS" the noted playwright Green, which plays on June 30 through Labor Day night of the week except days.

Sixty actors, singers, dancers and horsemen make cast and tell the story of the Texas Panhandle. They play on a stage of a 600-foot bluff which is the sound so the acoustics are perfect and a penny dropped where on the stage can be heard in any one of the 1,400 Actors can whisper and mumble and show microphones and still be heard.

Palo Duro Canyon is 100 long and 1,000 feet deep. A myriad of colors at dawn in the evening hours crowds are gathering for performance. Against background of beauty, the scene re-lives the humor and hardship, and satisfaction of the settlers in the place through the tale of a rancher's niece, his son through striving and standing, and his friendly cast of cowboys, Indians, and wandering musicians.

This is the second season "TEXAS." More than people saw it in 1966.

City Manager

VICTIM OF DELUGE -- Saturday night's heavy deluge and Sunday's continuing rain left this farm house almost half submerged in water although it is located on a slight rise above the lake around it. The unoccupied house, property of B. Y. Fields, stands about one mile south of the Spade Highway (54) approximately four miles east of Littlefield and is visible from the highway. More than five inches of rain were gauged in parts of that general vicinity.

He has applied a complete conservation plan on his farm, consisting of conservation cropping system, crop residue use, underground irrigation pipeline, land levelling, irrigation system, surface and sprinkler, irrigation water management, diversion terraces, contour farming, pasture and hayland management, cover crops and stubble mulching.

That 'Littlefield Smile'!

IT'S THAT FACIAL suggestion so typical of all the fine folks of our friendly city. Newcomers, visitors, folks here on business or for conventions, tourists, traveling businessmen can "see it ON OUR FACES." We welcome them. We are all so glad to see them HERE... IN LITTLEFIELD! Just go along our streets in the morning or in our places of business... and cheerful "Good Morning's" greet you. It's such a FRIENDLY noise... the greetings from everyone in this friendliest city in Texas! In the afternoon, it's more of that SAME gladness. One "gets it" from everyone; that friendly smile (The Littlefield Smile) that makes you feel good. And that's one reason The Leader-News is sponsoring the "Friendliest, Most Courteous" employee contest underway here -- to find out which man employee and which woman employee have the biggest, brightest, friendliest smiles!

... Vietnam

ect obstruction of American efforts often gives way to open opposition. Varying degrees of resentment of foreigners are especially evident, he said, during Vietnamese religious holidays.

"Once in a while they will protest," Hutchins added. "Something like the ones at Berkeley, I guess." He said he had seen some of these protesters, though they were rare and generally harmless, gathered outside gates of military posts to prevent normal operations.

"But then people would sometimes come up to us and express their appreciation for what we were doing," he said. Hutchins noted that these people were usually from the better educated segments of the population and had a "better idea of what was happening."

"It's not hatred," Hutchins added after his frank analysis of South Vietnamese actions. "They don't understand. They see the things we have and don't understand why they can't have them, too. But they don't have the education to get them."

Hutchins reasoned that some hostility and resentment is due to the fact that Americans' superior buying power is wrecking peasant economy which cannot hope to compete.

"We are instructed in indoctrination programs not to try and raise the economy of the Vietnamese," Hutchins noted. To prevent competition with native merchants, servicemen are urged to buy only through the base exchanges.

He conceded that this also was an attempt to control the black market, which he said existed in every village. "But the profits of the black market go to the chiefs and seldom filter down to the community," he said.

Hutchins pointed out that, with American help, an educational system, including English classes, is now being built.

He noted the Signal Corps has done its part by extending telephous communication facilities into villages as well as between military installations.

Hutchins ground out another smoke, thought back on what he had said, and concluded: "You can see you're getting somewhere with the people, but the process is so slow. And they have so far to come."

Five-State Convention To Begin

The 15-congregation circuit of Jehovah's Witnesses from Wichita Falls to Muleshoe will meet with other circuits from five states for a district assembly in Amarillo, today through July 2.

They are expecting 7,000 persons at the Tri-State Coliseum for the "Disciple-making" District Assembly.

Lloyd Lowery, presiding minister of the Littlefield Congregation of Jehovah's Witnesses, said whole families from more than 200 congregations would be in attendance with Bible and notebook to receive instructions on the art of teaching and making disciples.

Convention officials are preparing for a mass baptism of newly dedicated disciples who in recent months or years have undergone disciplinary teaching and training for the ministry.

The convention highlight will take place Sunday, 3 p.m., when a public address entitled "Rescuing a Great Crowd of Mankind Out of Armageddon" will be presented to both English and Spanish sessions.

MEET THE MINISTER Missionary Baptist Pastor Returns To 'Promised Land'

Rev. Charles K. (Ken) Johnson, 31, new pastor of Littlefield Missionary Baptist Church who is beginning duties here after pastoring Dry Valley Baptist Church in Rossville, Ga., two years, apparently is pleased to return to his native Texas.

Before leaving Georgia, he told his people, "The Chattanooga Valley Baptist Church sent its pastor to Palestine, Now the Dry Valley Baptist Church is letting its pastor go to the Promised Land -- back to Texas."

Although Rev. Johnson was born at Amarillo, he grew up at Lubbock which is the native city of his wife, Norma. Both are graduates of Lubbock High School.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Johnson, and his wife's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Hubert H. Foster, all of Lubbock. Rev. Johnson said his wife married her associate pastor. The two were married at Lubbock Dec. 20, 1958 while he was associate pastor of Tabernacle Baptist Church there and she was a member of its congregation.

The Johnsons have one child, Beth, a bright-eyed youngster age four and one-half. Although the minister says Beth has become his main hobby, he loves to fish and hunt whenever a busy schedule allows. His wife commented with a not-too-enthusiastic expression, "He likes to rough it." The minister added, with a whimsical lift of his eyebrow, "She prefers modern conveniences."

Before assuming his post in Georgia, Rev. Johnson organized and built Baptist Tabernacle at Colorado Springs, Colo., where he was pastor three years.

Rev. Johnson, who had commented fishing in mountain streams for trout was his favorite type fishing, remarked, "We lived for three years where there was all the trout fishing and hunting in the world. I went fishing about three times and never did hunt -- never fired a shot."

$36 PER DAY Automobile Trips To Cost County Residents More

Vacation costs, for Lamb County residents who will be taking automobile trips this summer, will be higher than before.

According to the American Automobile Assn., which has just completed a survey of such costs, they will have to pay more for food, lodging, gas, and most other items than they did in other years.

Springlake

MRS. ELIZABETH PACKARD
986-2602

Mrs. Ruby Jordan of Earth went to work Monday as new waitress at the Snack Bar in the Springlake Superette.

Percy Harlan, had gone to Littlefield to spend the night with relatives.

Sp. 4 Mason Benton, on leave from Vietnam, and his wife Tresa visited in Wellington Friday and Saturday with his grandmother and grandfather, Mr. and Mrs. Benton, also his uncle and aunts. They went to Amarillo Sunday and visited Mrs. Miller's other grandmother, Mrs. Miller.

Cheerleaders met Friday for a practice session at the home of Lynda Packard. They practiced yells they learned at Cisco Cheerleader School.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Packard and family went to Hereford Sunday to visit Mrs. Leona Packard. They also visited in the afternoon with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Packard and Mrs. Fay Cook and boys from Phoenix, Ariz.

Mrs. Raymon Cooper and Mary Francis spent Friday night with Mr. and Mrs. Howard McClure. Mrs. Cooper was returning from Warren, Ariz., and enroute to her home at Marietta, Oklahoma.

Mrs. Robert Riley and girls have been visiting in the community with friends and relatives. Mrs. Riley's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Price Hamilton of Earth. Mr. and Mrs. Furch Riley of Springlake are Mr. Riley's parents.

Sherri Blackwell spent Saturday night with Lynda Packard. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. ...

All in all, its figures show, a Lamb County couple will need $36 a day to travel comfortably, or about $5 more than was required two years ago, when the AAA made a similar survey. This amount will take care of the necessities but not the frills.

Thus, a two-week trip will cost a minimum of $504 for two people. It is exclusive of any outlays they may want to make for amusements, souvenirs and admission to places of interest.

The cost is figured on the basis of their traveling 300 miles a day and getting 15 miles to the gallon of gas. Provided for, under the $36-a-day budget, is $13 for food, as compared with $10.50 two years ago, $12 for sleeping accommodations, $1 more than before, $8 for gas and oil per 300 miles, also $1 higher, and tips and incidentals, $3, up 50 cents.

The AAA also provides an answer for the Lamb County car owner to the all-important question of how much it costs him to own and operate his car.

Next to feeding, housing and clothing his family, it states, the car is probably the most expensive item in his annual budget.

The study shows that it comes to $1,362 a year, or 13.6 cents a mile on average, for the owner of a car in the moderate-price range, driven 10,000 miles a year.

This takes into account his fixed costs, for depreciation, insurance and the like, which amount to $982, and his variable costs, which include gas, oil and repairs, $380.

In Lamb County, under these average conditions and on the basis of the 9,440 passenger cars now in use, local residents are spending an estimated $12,857,000 a year in this direction.

The growing number of cars has been a boon to local gas stations. Their receipts in 1966 reached $3,396,000, a gain over the previous year's $3,143,000.
