Tragic Accident Is Described By Mrs. Sales

In a very unusual accident on the highway at Midland about nine o'clock Wednesday night of last week, the skating rink owned and operated by Mrs. T. S. Sales, formerly of Littlefield and well-known in this vicinity, was badly damaged.

A big greyhound bus and a sedan automobile collided on the highway near the rink, and the bus crashed into the rink and turned over. Occupants of the car, a man and a woman, were both killed, and seven of the 37 passengers on the bus received hospitalization.

A description of the accident is much more in detail and of much more interest than the average person can tell, in a letter from Mrs. Sales, to Mrs. Maude Street and Mrs. E. J. Newgent of this city. They received the letter this week, and the editor of this newspaper feels that Mrs. Sales' description of the wreck will be of much interest to her many friends here. The letter is quoted in part.

"We are damaged probably $1,800 and are waiting to have the adjustment made. It happened Wednesday night about nine o'clock. We were skating . . . and had about 75 persons on the floor. The electric storm had put out the lights temporarily, but persons in cars outside the rink turned on their lights on the floor and the kids went on skating and (Continued on Back Page)

Cottonoil Mill Resumes Operation For Fall And Winter

West Texas Cottonoil Mill resumed operations at 4 p. m. Tuesday for the fall and winter run, W. D. Watkins, local manager, reported.

The mill was started about six weeks later this year than last, due to the heavy rains in this section, delaying the gathering and ginning of cotton. Operation of the mill started last year September 17.

Machinery in the plant was completely overhauled during the summer months, and has been ready for the fall and winter run for some time. A new and larger seed sterilizer was added to the plant last year, making it one of the most complete in this section. A crew of approximately 75 men are employed.

Joe Clark was recently promoted to third trick superintendent, replacing N. H. Humphries, who was transferred to the mill at Las Cruces, N. M., where he is superintendent. The first lead of cottonseed arrived at the mill from Anton, and much of the seed is coming from the Pop community, where the cotton is earlier.

Meeting To Be Held In Lubbock; Lamb To Be Represented

Greatest Food Production Job In History of World To Be Undertaken

Farmer-committeemen of the AAA and representatives of government agricultural agencies from 19 of the District No. 2 counties will meet in Lubbock Thursday and Friday, October 30 and 31, to lay plans for the Food-For-Freedom campaign in this area, according to W. E. Bentley, chairman of the Lamb County USDA defense board.

The district meeting will be one of the 12 similar meetings being held throughout the state at the same time to get the food production campaign into high gear, the defense board official said. Representatives of the different agricultural agencies in the county will attend.

Following the district meeting, the county USDA defense board, working with AAA committeemen, will undertake a farm-to-farm canvass in the food reproduction pledge sign-up. Farmers in the county will be asked to produce their share of the foods which are needed for defense and for aid to the nations resisting aggression.

"We are undertaking the greatest food production job in the history of the world," Bentley declared. "We have the goals to meet and we will meet them. I believe the farmers of this county will go all-out in their effort to do their share in the Food-For-Freedom campaign."

Bentley explained that the USDA defense board would announce definite plans for carrying on the campaign in the county after the district meeting, but it is anticipated that county and community meetings to explain what is needed will be held in conjunction with the farm plan and pledge sheet sign-up which will be handled by AAA committeemen.

More 'Knittin' For Britain' Needed

WANTED—More people in Littlefield to start "knittin' for Britain"! John Hanks, chairman of the Littlefield area for War Relief Program through the American Red Cross, reported this week that the need for garments to be made would be met, and most all the garments were practically finished, except sweaters. She stated that more were needed, to reach the need.

Approximately 30 sweaters have been started, and the quota is 42, including eight men's sweaters, 10 women's, and 24 children's sweaters. In the Littlefield area will be 24 skirts, 28 baby layettes, 24 bed shirts or hospital shirts.

Hanks expressed appreciation of the work being done by the local churches and organizations. Persons interested in helping with this work are to see Mrs. Hanks or the organizing women, who are in charge of the various projects: Mrs. J. H. Hanks, Mrs. G. M. Shaw, Mrs. A. Hemphill, Mrs. Pat Boone, Mrs. Walls and Mrs. Maud Street. Remember the story re: a young lady who was "knittin' for Britain" and found her "knittin' needles" . . . (Continued on Page 4)

Littlefield-Slaton Game For Crown Title

Littlefield Wildcats won't be on any field comes Friday game scheduled between the Littlefield Cow hands and the locals. The game was called off, after that spectacular game last Friday night, when the Littlefield Wildcats upset predictions and won for the Olton Mustangs, by a score of 28-0. It was the first game ever won by the Olton Mustangs in the district championship game. The Olton squad already has been picked by "those who know" for district champions this year.

But Olton has succumbed—after losing the week before 21 to 13 to the Slaton Tigers, then the last straw for the north 5-A zone title was drawn—but in the wrong direction, for the Mustangs.

Littlefield and Slaton are now tied for top honors in the north 5-A zone. Each team has won three games and lost one, but in points, the locals have the advantage, as they have scored 66 points and held opponents to only six points; while Slaton has scored only 39 points, and (Continued on Back Page)

Under THE DOME At Austin

AUSTIN, Tex., — (UP) — Texas is going to produce much more oil in November but is not going to follow Col. Ernest O. Thompson's advice to produce all the oil possible without physical waste.

Thompson's recommendation at the statewide oil hearing of the state Railroad Commission lacks a majority vote in the commission. Thompson, as commission chairman, has only equal voting power with each of his colleagues.

Commissioner Jerry Sadler, who has been acting chairman during Thompson's absence on military duty, said frankly that he disagreed with Thompson's recommendation. Sadler said the government had made no request of him for all-out production and he knew no demand for such production as Thompson sought.

Commissioner Olin Culberson feared that the commission's proration program might get into another turmoil if each field were permitted to produce up to its ability without waste. He announced he will stand by the present yardstick, which classifies types of oil and distributes the demand for it among fields that produce the type of oil needed.

The meeting brought an open assertion that the federal bureau of mines does not use the same system in forecasting market demand for Texas oil and for Oklahoma.

Paul McDermott of Fort Worth made the assertion. He based it on an explanation given by the Bureau of Mines for allowing more oil to Oklahoma than it is able to produce. The explanation was that an allowance was made for production of oil to offset the amount that had been withdrawn from storage.

If that allowance was made for Texas, McDermott said, the Federal Bureau of Mines estimate of demand for Texas oil would be more than 1,500,000 barrels daily. The Federal Bureau has recommended 34,600 barrels daily increase for Texas for next month. Latest Texas production was reported as 1,494,000 barrels a day.

Thompson declared that no patriotic oil man would retard unproductive production for the purpose of creating a shortage that would raise prices.

It was recalled that when he returned from the meeting of the oil states compact commission at Fort Worth, Gov. Coke R. Stevenson said big-wigs in the oil industry sought to convince him that oil ought to be advanced to $1.25 a barrel, with a resultant $5,000,000 a year addition to the state's oil tax.

Stevenson remarked they failed to convince him—so the Governor and the commission chairman appear to be harmonious on that topic.

A rotating exhibit has been furnished to the Texas Memorial Museum on what is known as a permanent loan basis. Such a loan gives the museum uninterrupted display of the exhibit with title remaining with the loaner.

The rotating exhibit is a collection of lustreware gathered by Mrs. D. F. Strickland of Mission. Her collection, one of the largest in existence, cannot all be shown in the museum at one time for lack of space, so it is being displayed with frequent changes. Two large cases are displayed at a time.

Mrs. Strickland's collection of lustreware is said to be largest outside the Field Museum in Chicago.

The University of Texas' ultra-modern music building literally has a new wrinkle in construction of its radio broadcasting room.

Its walls are fluted or scalloped so that they resemble one side of a stack of large pipes. The convex surfaces presented form reflecting boards that are said to be most near perfection that yet has been attained in radio acoustics.

A report on the system was the subject of a paper presented to the Acoustical Society of America at its meeting in New York this week by Dr. Paul Boner, University of Texas physicist and research technician.

Many hours were spent in testing and measuring sound before the final result was obtained. Two graduate students, Frank Sea of Dallas and Charles Rutherford of Mt. Vernon, assisted Dr. Boner in the research for the new type broadcasting room. Similar construction has been adopted for stations in Dallas, Harlingen and Shreveport, La.

Out of each $5 being expended by WPA in Texas, two dollars goes to national defense, according to a compilation by State WPA Administrator W. P. Drought.

Listed among defense projects in which WPA has assisted are 245 dormitories, 25 hospitals, 74 recreational buildings, 139 storage buildings and 13 community halls at military establishments. Twenty miles of water and sewage pipe has been laid at army camps.

WPA has assisted in construction of 586 miles of road designated to be of military importance and in rehabilitation of 737 miles of such highway. Airport construction has been aided at 32 flying fields. Thirteen airport buildings have been erected, 364 modernized, and 640 boundary lights installed.

A recent report that Alameda County, California, will deny the voting franchise to all persons living on federal property—military bases, veterans' hospitals, and the like—recalled that Texas National Guardsmen and the organized reserves retain their voting privilege, according to an opinion by Atty.

Smiths Outstrip Joneses In Texas Tech's Register

The Smiths outstrip the Joneses in Texas Tech's fall registration with 46 students bearing that surname. In fact, thirty-two Williamses push the Joneses into third place with 31. Next most popular last names for Tech students this fall are Miller, with 22 registrants, and Allen and Martin with 21 each. The Johnsons and Johnstons combined total 22, and 14 each of the Thompsons, the Hills and the Browns are enrolled.

William is the most popular first name among men students and Mary, with variations, for women.

Nature lovers will find in Tech's roster Field, Hill and Dale; Forrest Woods, Range and Lane; Brook and Pool; Rose, Flowers, Blossom, Oakes, and Moss. Among the beasts are Beaver, Buck, Bullock, Fox, Lam and Lyon. Birds and insects are represented by Crow, Parrott, Robbins, Martin and Fly.

Weather prophets may find Ice, Frost, Fair, Dry or Rainey, and calendar watchers May, Day, Winter, Spring, and Falls.

Elder, Young, and Younger are also enrolled, as are Hyer, Large, Little, Long, Short, and Stout. Mingling with Mann, Folk and Gentry are a King, a Duke, Squires and Nobles.

Countries represented are Germany and Holland. Three others sent ambassadors as English, Roman, Britton, and Scott.

Ecclesiastical minded persons may revel in such surnames as Aaron, Abel, Anthony, Daniel, Eden, Judah; Alters, Angel, Christian, Devin, Monk, and Pope.

Last names of several Techsters represent professions or trades: Archer, Baker, Barber, Butler, Boatman, Bowman, Carpenter, Carter, Cartwright, Collier, Cook, Corder, Crocker, Dyer, Fisher, Gardner, Glover, Porter, Skinner, Taylor, and Wagner.

To whet the appetite, the roster offers Bean, Cherry, Coffee, Hamm, Oats, Rice, and Raspberry.

To serve these viands are a Cupp and a Glass. For the biologist are Legge, Head, Foote, Cheek, and Forehand.

Gen. Gerald C. Mann last spring.

Selectees, regular army, navy and marine men cannot vote in Texas elections. But members of the citizens' militia can do so if they pay their poll tax. The National Guardsmen number only about 13,000 men; but Gov. W. Lee O'Daniel was elected to the U. S. Senate over Lyndon Johnson by a smaller plurality in the state's most recent election.

The Texas National Guard's year of service will be over in November, but the war department has been authorized to extend all terms of service for 18 months, which will cover the 1942 elections.

There is little prospect that the whole National Guard will get home any time soon. The 45th Division—composed of National Guardsmen from Oklahoma, Arizona, New Mexico, and Colorado—finished its first year on Sept. 15 and still is in training at Camp Barkley.

Numerous individuals, however, are being released from the 36th Division, which is made up of Texas National Guardsmen. The 36th recently has been releasing men over 28 years of age, as prescribed by Congress, at a rate of nearly 75 a day. A smaller number is going home because the bread-winner's military service works an undue hardship upon dependents.

Texas' new Home Defense Guard already has climbed pass the number that was in the National Guard when the latter went into federal service. At the last accounting, the Home Defense troops had 997 officers and 13,800 men. The war department has issued enough rifle bayonets and first aid kits to furnish one for each two men. The state furnishes a small amount of equipment, but the men buy their own uniforms and drill at least one and one-half hours weekly.

Nearly 700,000 farms and other rural users in the United States are connected with REA power lines operated by farmer cooperatives.

NEWS IN THE WORLD

By W. W. Reid

"The church needs to rethink and restate the needs of men," believes Dr. Edgar M. Wahlberg, pastor for more than eleven years of Grace Methodist Church, Denver, Colo. "Until it has done this, it will be jostled out of the way in these areas by the onrush of movements that crystallize those needs, give vitality to Communism and Fascism in Europe, and threaten similar phenomena in America. If democracy is saved in America, the church must take a hand. If it does, it will have to know, perhaps not less about God, but certainly more about men." Dr. Wahlberg's ministry is in Denver's most congested and poverty-stricken district where 40,000 persons live within a few blocks.

Two year's supply of paper for the printing of the Bible in High Malay, in Javanese and in Tobabatak — three of the most widely used native languages of the Netherlands Indies—has been shipped to the Far East by the American Bible Society. This is an American gift to the Netherlands Bible Society which has been unable otherwise to secure paper for this purpose. The American body will also care for the printing of the Bibles, a service formerly carried on by similar societies in Holland and Great Britain. Practically every Christian denomination in the United States has contributed to the emergency fund from which the Society provides this new field of service.

The Thailand (Siam) Mission of the Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. has carried on more normally than other missions of the denomination in the Far East, despite the war tensions there, reports the Board of Foreign Missions of that Church. The Board has given the missionaries permission to evacuate children and mothers, but to date the workers have not felt it necessary to leave. There are fifty missionaries and thirteen children of the Presbyterian Church now in Thailand.

Dr. W. Wilson Cash, general secretary of the Church Missionary Society, London England, believes that the present war period is the forerunner of a new era in the development of the Christian church throughout the world. He points out that the Napoleonic wars were followed by a period of missionary expansion; that after Crimean War there was a great expansion in Christian work among the Moslems of the Near East; that in 1900, while the Boer War was on, his own Society sent out 100 new missionaries and other agencies had many missionary recruits; and that the period of 1918 to 1941 was marked by financial stringency on one hand and the growth of the Christian community throughout the world on the other hand. "Millions more are working in the Christian cause today than even a century ago," he says.

Failure to live the religion we profess is the cause of the incredible situation of the world today—the cause that has sent the whole world "into a tailspin," according to Archbishop Francis J. Spellman, of the Roman Catholic archdiocese, New York City. In a recent address he said: "We have allusions to religion in the Declaration of Independence and in the Constitution. It is not enough to have written and spoken words about religion. Religion must be lived . . . By our example, by our works, we must rekindle righteousness, so that God will bring mankind out of the tailspin."

In 1919, a member of the staff of Severance Union Medical College, in Seoul, Korea, sent one and one-quarter ounces of Korean lespedeza—used there for pasturage—to the U. S. Department of Agriculture. That seed was carefully planted and nurtured, and today its "descendants" are used widely by

Churches

METHODIST CHURCH

As we have thus far escaped the Nazis detention camps, to which all preachers, priests, and rabbis are destined if the Nazis New Order is installed throughout the world, we are making our weekly announcements for this week, hoping that the saints may yet be free awhile to assemble together and have their old freedom in worship and praise.

Through the aid of the general mission board heads and the kindness of the local editors we are beginning a new weekly column of Missionary News and Religious World News. Thanks to them and these for this new enterprise and we hope that this will be inspirational, informative, and all that we look for it to be.

Our finances are still improving in spite of the unfavorable crop conditions. We have two or three collections a service sometimes and still we get some money. Thanks for these and we are sending this to its destination.

People are answering many calls to all needs of church and world now. It was Keith Falconer who said, "A call, what is a call? A call is a need, a need made known, and the power to meet that need." He also said, "While vast continents are shrouded in almost utter darkness, and hundreds of millions suffer the horrors of heathenism or of Islam, the burden of the proof lies upon you to show that the circumstances in which God has placed you were meant by him to keep you out of the foreign field."

We shall miss you if you are absent from any of the services. If we can help call us, or may be we can get help, if we cannot get it.

Lamb County has been selected by the Prairie States Forestry project to receive shelterbelt plantings for 1941. ### Tragic Accident were having the best time. Mr. Gee decided to only run one session as it had been raining and the lights were slow in being turned on, but just before he blew the whistle a bus and car collided in the intersection above the rink and the bus plowed up the bank and turned over just as it reached the rink . . . it crashed into the skate room but fortunately there was no one in it at the time. Mo was there but not directly in its path so escaped uninjured. It pushed most of the floor off of the blocks and buckled the floor at every section . . . tore all the corners of the tent away and splintered every piece of wood that it touched. There were 37 people in the bus and seven of them had to have hospitalization. The man and the woman in the sedan were killed. The man was city secretary of the city of McCamey. They drove onto the highway from the Andrews road and when the bus and their car collided they spun around and around on the pavement, throwing them out. They breathed a few minutes, but were dead by the time they reached the hospital. Mr. Gee and the County sheriff broke open the windshield and helped some of the bus patrons out through the rink . . . the others climbed out through windows. The bus was lying on its side. We expected an explosion or fire but fortunately none came . . . and the lights came on about the time the bus settled down in the rink. It really was a mess . . . I guess if it hadn't turned over the bus would have sailed clear through the rink and maybe killed many persons . . . I managed to remain calm through it all . . . never had any kind-of bad reaction . . . although I saw the dead scattered on the pavement, and saw the condition of my rink and saw the injured . . . but everybody was marvelously calm. They didn't seem to blame anybody . . . just took it for granted. There were several soldiers and sailors on the bus . . . cute boys . . . all were helpful . . . and before a minute had passed half the town was out there.

Football—

their opponents have scored 20 points.

But—The opposing team that scored the six points against the Wildcats was the Slaton Tigers. So, there may be another game in the air, after the district committee checks both sides, and makes a decision.

However, Littlefield has two more conference games on their schedule, Muleshoe and Levelland. This week's Levelland-Slaton game should clear up the situation a bit for the judges, for in the event the Slaton Tigers should bow to Levelland, then the team to the south will be the Wildcats biggest foes. The Loboes could clinch the crown with victories over Littlefield, Slaton and Olton.

The Loboes will clash with the Wildcats on their own gridiron November 14. The locals next tilt will be with Muleshoe here November 7.

The Wildcats scored almost at will Friday night and ended the three-year reign of Olton's Mustangs as District 5-A north zone champions.

Everything from Olton came to Littlefield Friday night, except the Lamb county courthouse, and when those approximate 1,200 fans returned to Olton after the tangle with the 38-0 defeat, they decided that all they had over this town was the Lamb county courthouse!

Littlefield "trimmed Olton's Hedges", for those Wildcats held that line against the Hedges Twins who have played spectacular football the past three years, and were staked to lead the Mustangs to more victories. But the locals were just too much for them.

Jimmy Yarbrough and Roy Hutson paced the smooth-functioning Wildcat attack with two touchdowns apiece, while Douglas Bales and Hugo Beyer chipped in with counters. Beyer's score was on a pass from Yarbrough.

The Wildcats pushed to the four-yard line early in the game, but were turned back; later in the first quarter they were stopped on the one-yard line.

Two touchdowns came in the second, and Littlefield led at half-time, 12-0.

Coaches Abe Murphy and C. L. Storrs used every man on their squad and the reserves seemed to function as well as the regulars. Littlefield piled up a 16 to 3 margin in first downs.

Another Huge Defense Plant Dedicated

Flags, speeches, cheers and the roar of the bombers over the $12,000,000 Douglas Aircraft "blackout plant" was dedicated at Long Beach, Calif., and went into full operation. Typical of the speed the defense program is taking was the fact that on the same day, the first concrete was poured for the plant that will double the size and capacity of the plant. Here planes of big planes will be turned out.

As announced by Supt. F. A. Hemphill Monday, the football game scheduled for Friday night between the Littlefield Wildcats and the Lubbock Cowhands has been cancelled, due to the fact that the local team is tied with Slaton, and if it should remain tied for the rest of the season, the local aggregation would want to have a game left to play off the ties.

Supt. Hemphill stated that those who bought a season's ticket will be entitled admittance to another game, or a percentage of their money paid if requested.

"We won't have another week end game here," stated Supt. Hemphill, "but will play Muleshoe here Friday, November 7."

PALACE THEATRE TO FEATURE "CITIZEN KANE" SATURDAY MIDNIGHT SUN., MON.

The Palace Theatre will feature "Citizen Kane" with Orson Welles, also new March of Time Saturday midnight, continuing through Sunday and Monday.

The film opens with impressionistic interpretations of the great castle in Florida of a fabulously wealthy, art-collecting publisher, who has just died after an amazing career which wielded a vast influence on public opinion. A newsreel editor seeks a new "angle" in his film story of Charles Foster Kane and sends a researcher after the source of the one word "Rosebud", which Kane had uttered just before he died.

The highlights of the life of Kane, with a skillful characterization of Welles, include the development of the first of a long chain of newspapers; his political aspirations, which included a drive for the Presidency, but which were stymied in a campaign for Governor of New York by the revelation of his

PUBLIC HEALTH ENEMY NO. 1

It's a strange thing that doctors can perform operations which are miracles of skill and knowledge, but seem unable to find the remedy for a common, ordinary cold.

Probably more money is expended each year on research to find the cause and cure for colds than on any other medical study. And probably more money is spent by the public on medicines to relieve colds than on any other type of medicine. But the cold still remains a mystery and its prevention or cure still remains unsolved.

On this very day, if the law of averages is holding out as it usually does, 10 per cent of the people in this town are suffering from this common malady, which health authorities consider Public Health Enemy No. 1.

There are of course many medicines offered for the relief of colds, and there is no doubt that some of them do make breathing easier and living more pleasant while a cold is wending its way through the human system. There are also drug products which retard coughing and temporarily get rid of a tickle in the human throat.

But that's about as far as remedies go and that's why the Federal Trade Commission frowns upon any advertiser who claims to be able to stop a cold or cure a cold. With 1941 equipment, that just can't be done.

One of the leading companies selling a product for the relief of colds made an extensive analysis not so long ago of thousands of people who used their particular product for a cold as compared with thousands of others who did not use it. It was found that those who used the product suffered a little less from colds than those who did not—but there was little evidence produced that the product hastened recovery from colds.

Some day this cold mystery probably will be solved. Meanwhile, we all might as well use our favorite remedies and hope that we have the one which makes having a cold least unpleasant.

Normal Building Of Homes Is Not Banned By Order

Analysis of the recent policy statement by the Supply, Priorities and Allocation Board (SPAB) on the exercise of control over public and private construction shows that the order will leave repair, remodeling, farm building, and normal residential construction practically unchanged.

The real purpose of the SPAB release was: (1) To prevent the passage of "pork barrel" legislation now before Congress providing for river and harbor improvements, flood control and power projects which would use a substantial amount of critical materials, particularly structural steel. (2) To discourage the planning, promotion and requests for priorities in respect to the building of all unnecessary public and private projects such as factories, warehouses, office buildings, etc., which use an appreciable amount of critical materials. Even in the construction of such buildings, if wood can be substituted for the critical materials, construction is OK. (3) The term "residential construction" is aimed at larger homes, costing under $6,000, involving only a small quantity of metals, plumbing, lighting and hardware in relation to the amount of other materials and employment furnished are not banned under the order. (4) The order concerns solely the granting of future priorities to replace material used in construction. Where dealers, builders or contractors have the material, such construction can go ahead. Where there is a need for housing in defense or non-defense areas, such housing can go ahead, but priorities will not be granted if it uses an appreciable amount of critical materials. Dealers, builders and contractors must eliminate all metal possible. They must use simplified plumbing, substitute other materials for metal wherever possible. Unnecessary speculative building must be eliminated. (5) There is no ban on farm and rural construction. In fact, all farm construction is encouraged as necessary for the health and safety of the public and to create further food and other farm reserves for war and after-the-war rehabilitation purposes. (6) The majority of modernization and repair materials, such as lumber, paper and paint are materials on which there is no shortage and no limitation whatsoever.

Therefore, Mr. Owens stated that there are no limitations NOW on normal construction in our area which would limit the majority of the building needs of our community. "If construction is largely of wood and furnishes employment, this is still OK. On homes costing under $6,000—which most of ours are—and on repairs and remodeling, and on farm work, it is still possible to build. Some delay may occur and substitution of designs in plumbing, hardware and lighting fixtures may be necessary. But normal construction work is still possible," said Mr. Owens.

CHAPTER II

SYNOPSIS
Friday afternoon, September 4, Harry Longstreet, member of the firm of Longstreet, Brokers, invites his friends to a hotel to celebrate his engagement to Cherry Browne. The party includes DeWitt, Cherry's friend, Christopher Lord, Ahern, a middle-aged man of vaudeville fame, and Michael Collins, a brawny Irishman. A sudden storm breaks the party. A Ford Forty-Second is overturned. Between Ninth and Tenth avenues Longstreet puts his hands in his pockets. He starts thickly, "What in the name of heaven could've happened?" Drury Lane, a Shakespearean actor, offers to take Attorney Bruno and Inspector Thumm to the scene. The details are relating to him.

"You killed him! You did it! You hated him!"

DeWitt stood stonily, his small hands clenched. Ahern and Lord struggled with the heavy body and managed to haul Longstreet into a sedan. Longstreet was gasping weakly; light flecks of foam bubbled from his lips.
The growing uproar penetrated into the car. Suddenly a man with sergeant's stripes stepped through. He had been riding on the front platform with the driver.
Inspector Thumm stiffened again, then came quite rigid. The sergeant brightened up, scowling. "He caught it, Uh-huh!" He held up the hand of the dead man's left hand. "More than a dozen tiny trickles of pulsating blood laced the skin of his palm from as many tiny punctures, each swollen a little. 'Murder, like I don't want anything to get off this car.' He said to the motorman: 'Don't open this car, and see that those windows are kept shut—stand!' Then he yelled: 'Run down to the station and tell traffic cop there to phone the precinct and tell it to get Inspector Thumm at headquarters. That's straight! Wait—I'll let you myself. I ain't taking any time on somebody giving me the goods.'"
Inspector Thumm, out in the rain, called for Tenth avenue on the corner.
Inspector Thumm, water streaming from the visor of his cap, was hanging on the rear doors. A policeman stood by his side. The sergeant admitted them and closed the doors at once.
Morrow reporting. On duty at Tenth avenue.
Inspector Thumm said for the Green car to take the car to the Green car barn at Forty-second and Tenth. He'll meet you there. Says to touch the body."
When the car reached the huge garage a group of men in plainclothes were waiting. Sergeant Duffy led the door-lever and Inspector Thumm forged into the car. The man whispered into the inspector's ear. Thumm thudded to his feet, taking out a flashlight, and the material of the dead man's open patch-pocket, pulled the light wide, and directed the penlight into the interior. Putting the flashlight, he produced a penknife and with the utmost care slit the stitching along one of Longstreet's pockets. Two gleamed in the ray of the light—a silver spectacle case and a small ball of cork, one inch in diameter, riddled with at least a dozen needles, the tips of which protruded from the cork a quarter-inch around, making the total diameter of the weapon an inch and a half.
The tips of the needles were red with a reddish-brown sticky substance. With the point of his penknife Thumm prodded the cork around. The needles on the other side were similar.
Inspector Thumm straightened up, explored the man's pockets, and produced a pair of pincers and a packet of cigarettes. He dumped the cigarettes into his pocket, lifted the cork out of Longstreet's pocket with the pincers and slipped it into the empty cigarette packet. Inspector Thumm wrapped this in a dozen thicknesses of newspaper and handed the package to the driver.
"Handle it that way, You're responsible for it."
A few minutes later Inspector Thumm had waded out the members of the Longstreet party. They were escorted to the rear of the garage where two detectives were waiting. Thumm then surrounded the exodus of the occupants of the car. They filed into a large general room on the second floor, guarded by a half-dozen detectives.
Inspector Thumm was back in the sedan with the sprawled figure when there was the sound of an ambulance and two men in white hurried into the barn, herded by a short fat man. Thumm called: "Dr. Schilling! This way!"

The medical examiner of New York county puffed into the car followed by the two internes. He bent over the dead man, then said: "Where can I take this stiff, Inspector?"
Thumm's eyes twinkled with grim humor. "Dump him in that private room upstairs with the rest of the party. That ought to be interesting."
As Dr. Schilling superintended the removal of the body, Thumm beckoned a detective. "Have this car gone over with a fine-comb, Peabody. Collect every piece of junk in it. Then go over the routes the Longstreet party and the other occupants took in passing to the rooms. I want to make absolutely sure that nobody dropped anything."
The Longstreet party sat about in varying attitudes of misery and strain, but all were silent.
Inspector Thumm surveyed the party with almost disinterested speculation. "Sergeant, you told me that some gentleman here had identified the dead man as Harley Longstreet. Who was that?"
Duffy pointed to John DeWitt sitting beside his wife on the continuing bench that flanked the four walls.
"You saw that peculiar cork of needles I took from Longstreet's pocket in the car," Thumm said. "Have you ever seen it before?"
DeWitt shook his head. "Anyone else here?" All shook their heads. Thumm rocked a little on his heels.
"Miss Browne, Mr. DeWitt says that he saw Longstreet and you dash for the car, and that you held your fiancé's left arm until you both got into the car. Did you see his left hand at all?"
"Yes. When he searched for change and didn't find any. Just after we got on the car."
"His hand was clear—no blood?"
"No."
"The weapon," volunteered DeWitt, "must have been slipped into my partner's pocket while he was on the car."
The inspector grinned without humor. "Exactly. Miss Browne, why did your fiancé take out his glasses in the car?"
"He wanted to see about a certain stock."
Thumm clucked encouragingly. "Do you know the name of the stock?"
"It was International Metals." She stole a swift look at where Michael Collins sat sullenly studying the floor. "And Harley said, when he saw it had dropped a lot, that Mr. Collins might need help."
Thumm regarded Collins with curiosity. "I thought working for the Income Tax Department kept you busy. Where do you come in on this?"
Collins bared his teeth. "I'm not sure it's any of your business, Thumm. But if you must know, Longstreet advised me to buy heavy in International Metals—he'd been watching the stock for me. And the bottom just dropped out of it today."
DeWitt was regarding Collins with frank surprise. Thumm said quickly: "Did you know about this transaction, Mr. DeWitt?"
"Certainly not. I'm astonished to hear that Longstreet advised buying International Metals. I foresaw its collapse last week and so advised a number of my personal customers."
"Collins, did you speak to Longstreet today before you saw him at the hotel?" asked Thumm.
"Yes," ominously.
"No words, I suppose?"
"Oh, for God's sake!" shouted Collins. "You're barking up the wrong tree! Are you trying to pin this thing on me?"
Cherry Browne was on her feet now, eyes wild and face writhing from the sudden sight of Longstreet's livid clay. She brandished her finger at DeWitt, ran forward and clutched his lapels, shrieking into his blanched face: "You killed him! You did it! You hated him!"
Thumm and Duffy pulled the screaming woman away. Throughout DeWitt stood like stone.

Inspector Thumm towered above the quivering woman. "How did you come to say that, Miss Browne? Did you see Mr. DeWitt put that cork into Longstreet's coat?"
"No," she moaned, shaking from side to side. "I only know he hated Harley. . . Harley told me so dozens of times."
Thumm snorted, looked significantly at Sergeant Duffy and snapped: "Everybody stay here until I get back," then strode to the general room.
The inspector stamped loudly for attention.
The conductor, questioned first, revealed himself as Charles Wood, Number 2101, in the employ of the company for five years. He was a red-haired man of perhaps fifty. He remembered the dead man as having paid fares for ten people out of a dollar bill.
"Ever see the man on your car before?"
"Yep. He's been getting on pretty often at that time for years."
"Recognize anybody else in his party as a regular passenger?"
"Seems I saw another man, a weak little guy. Gray-haired, sort of. I've seen him come on pretty steady with the guy that was dumped off."
Thumm then questioned the passengers. No one, it seemed, had seen anything slipped into Longstreet's pocket. Detective Peabody came in.
"Any luck?" asked Thumm.
"Dry as a bone. Whatever this bunch had on 'em when they left the car is still on 'em."
"Only one thing to do," Thumm said. "Search everybody in this room. Look sharp for cork, needles, anything that's out of place or out of character. Get busy."
But the search produced nothing.
Thumm returned to where the Longstreet party sat miserably waiting. Dr. Schilling was standing before the screen putting on his coat. He crooked his finger, and the two went behind the screen.
"Death from respiratory paralysis, but that's a detail." The doctor bobbed his head in the direction of the bench; the weapon had been unwrapped and lay, innocently enough, at Longstreet's stiff feet. "There are fifty-three needle-ends around the ball of cork. Their tips and their eyes, projecting from the cork, were dipped in nicotine—nicotine in I think a concentrated form. The fresh pure product is a colorless and odorless oily liquid. But in water or on standing it soon becomes dark brown and you can smell the characteristic tobacco odor. The needles pricked the palm and fingers in twenty-one places; the poison made immediate entry into the bloodstream. Thumm, my friend, I don't envy you. Unless this poison was secured through legal channels, it will be untraceable. Pure nicotine is hard to buy, and if I were a poisoner I wouldn't get it from a chemist. It would be possible, of course, to distill it from an enormous quantity of tobacco, which normally has a nicotine content of four per cent. But how are you going to trace a nicotine-cooker? The easiest way is to buy a can of—" Dr. Schilling mentioned a well-known insecticide, "and you have nicotine without much trouble. It has a thirty-five per cent content to begin with, and by evaporation you would get just such a resinous sticky mess as the needles are smeared with."
"How long would it take for this poison to act, Doc?"
"Not more than a few seconds ordinarily. But if the nicotine was not wholly concentrated, and Longstreet was a very heavy smoker, it would have taken three minutes or so, as it did."
Inspector Thumm went out to the Longstreet party and signed to DeWitt. "As Longstreet's partner you're probably best equipped to tell me about his habits. The conductor has often seen him on his car. How do you account for this?"

Canada Is Building Tanks

Canadian industry performed a miracle when it fashioned its first heavy infantry tank. At the outbreak of war, the Dominion had no facilities for the manufacture of such military monsters as tanks and no means of making armor plate such as tank specifications call for. But brains, perseverance and expediency combined to make possible the overcoming of these serious obstacles and today, not only is Canada producing tanks at the rate of three per day but Canadian engineers have introduced improvements which are said to make these tanks faster to build than any of the size yet produced on this continent or in Great Britain, and there is a possibility that the United States may adopt the design of the Canadian Cruiser Tank. The Canadian tank program calls for the production of 800 infantry and 1000 cruiser tanks. The photograph shows workmen putting the finishing touches on one of the heavy infantry tanks.

Attend Regional Institute Thursday

Dr. W. N. Orr, J. C. Elms and Jim Douglass attended the 1941 Regional Institute of the West Texas-New Mexico section of the Boy Scouts of America at the Hilton Hotel in Lubbock Thursday.

Dr. James E. West, the Nation's No. 1 Boy Scout summerized his 30 years experience with scouting, including his personal contact with President Theodore Roosevelt, whose conquest of physical disabilities inspired the young West to overcome his own ailment.

Dr. West told his listeners that a militant aggressive defense of Democracy is required in this country.

He praised the progress of the United States in material things and commerce, in education and culture. But he emphasized that the three classes of American society, the slacker, the unselfish doers and the non-participants must be more largely converted to doers. "Scouting education is sound and enormously effective," he said.

Following the address Dr. West was presented with a gold tie clasp, token of appreciation from the nine counties represented.

TOM CONNALLY VISITS BAYLOR

Tom Connally, the Eddy boy who graduated from Baylor University, Waco, as an aspiring law student in 1896, returned to the campus last week to be introduced by his former school mate, President Pat M. Neff, as "a key man in international affairs who will make a splendid president of the United States for the next administration."

Connally told the Baylor chapel that prime need in America today is the united stand of her peoples in cooperation with the policies adopted by Congress.

"And the Lindberghs, the Wheelers and the Nyes should stop their guerrilla warfare and join hands behind the wheels of solidarity," he pleaded.

"God bless old Russia," he exclaimed. "She's fighting valiantly and bravely. In this battle for her native land and her people, I pray that God give strength to her swords."

He answered opponents to American aid to Russia with the claim the Moscow government is fighting side by side with the United States in this war against a common foe. "Why stop in the middle of battle and have an argument about politics? We will never adopt the policy of the Russians, just as we'll never submit to the tyranny of Hitler."

Morton Indians Down Levelland Loboes 14-0

Morton's Indians, beaten three straight times in conference play, turned on the Levelland Loboes, unbeaten in District 5-A, Thursday to register a stunning 14-0 victory.

Ridymond Strickland, Morton quarterback, paced a Morton surge that had the Levelland team completely outplayed from start to finish. He plunged over center in the second period for the score that climaxed a 60-yard drive, and took a pass for a second touchdown late in the third quarter.

Morton, taking sweet revenge for a 73-0 defeat they suffered from Levelland a year ago, ran up a 9-3 lead in first downs and gained much more from scrimmage than did the visitors. Outstanding for Morton were Buck, Abbot and Lytle in the line, and in the backfield, Abbot, Russell and Jerden starred along with Strickland.

Amherst Downs Farwell 33-0

James O. Landum Writes A letter

Believing that the following letter will be of much interest to the readers of this newspaper, personally acquainted with James O. Landum, we publish same below:

"Dear friends:
"As some of you know, I left Littlefield last April 1st, (April Fools Day) for a three year hitch in the Army Air Corps. Don't ask me why I picked that particular day, for I haven't the faintest idea.

"A boy from Post, Texas, and I left Lubbock that night for Brooks Field where we thought we would go to school. That was the impression the recruiting officer left with us.

"He and I did some tall planning on that trip down about what we were going to take up in school, but after we had been in "Tent City" a few days under the toughest drill Sgt. I've met yet, we decided that we got some schooling alright, but it was in a different field to what we had planned on. We drilled, made bunks, scrubbed, pitched pup-tents, shined mess-kits, and a thousand and one other things. We were in the recruit camp five weeks then were put into the 79 Air Base Group Special. That's where we started getting our first taste of K. P. and guard duty.

"We left Brooks Field on June 28th by truck convoy for Las Vegas, Nevada, and what is supposed to be our home field.

"You may remember those Govt. trucks that came through Littlefield the morning of June 30th; Well, I was in one of those babies. That was our third day out. We were on the road 8 days, stayed at Army Posts 2 nights, and camped-out the rest of the time. I did K. P. on the trip, and if you've never done K. P. in a field kitchen why you won't know exactly what I mean when I say, "It was rough". We pitched-in and done our work as quick as possible, then went in to see the town. We had a lot of fun on the trip, and the people of every town we stayed in treated us swell.

"We pulled in here at "The Air Corps Gunnery School" about 11:30 A. M. July 5th. We were the first group of men to reach this field, and talk about a bunch being sore and out of humor! After we had just one glimpse of this place, the cussing started. I don't remember when it finally stopped. The barracks were about half completed, there wasn't a sign of a street or walk and alkali dust was ankle deep all over the place. The field is right out on the desert, and the temperature was about 110 degree; all that, and the 8 day trip combined was enough to put everybody on his ear, and talk about a bunch being hard to get along with!

"The first month here was spent mainly in clean-up work, and everyone had his share. The field is almost finished now, and it certainly looks good to what it did when we pulled in here July 5th! The heat has let-up now, and everybody is pretty well satisfied.

"I was given a job as file clerk in "The Tech Order Office" around August 1st and am still working here. We distribute circulars, bulletins, and special orders from Washington to the different squadrons and organizations here on the field. I like my job fine. They seem to be satisfied with my work, so maybe I'm making a hand. At any rate, I'm trying to.

"I haven't had an opportunity so far to, as they say, see the world, but if things keep shapeing-up in Europe, I might see a part of it before long. In the meantime, wish me luck for I'll probably be needing it. Always,
James O. Landum."

The "room-to-spare" interior dimensions of the newest Dodge—and the ease with which front and rear seats may be reached through extra wide doors—are convincingly demonstrated in the above picture. Tastefully upholstered chair-height seats are restful because they conform to the contours of the passengers' bodies. There are no visible running boards. Instead, the door panels are made to curve over concealed thresholds providing safe entrance and exit.
