Thar she blows.... But what is it? Well, just plain ole air, but for a little while at least, the blast at a new wildcat well enjoyed the fame of "maybe" being helium.

2 Wildcats On Elite II

George Kirk, Littlefield's master-mind who led the Wildcats to gridiron glory this past season, reaped a harvest of honors in the aftermath of success last week by being named 1966 Coach of the Year to two South Plains elite elevens.

Kirk was selected as mentor for the Lubbock Avalanche-Journal's South Plains Dream Team and to that newspaper's Class AAA All-South Plains Squad.

Also listed on the Dream Team roster were offensive end Phillip Pace and quarterback Tim Tapley, who made the defensive team as a halfback.

Tapley and Pace proved to be a deadly offensive combination to Wildcat opponents, but both boys also were just as murderous on defense.

Tapley, a 160-pounder, marked 60 points through the season. His running ability netted 536 yards in 108 carries, and he completed 23 of 54 passes for 202 yards.

He also established himself as an able defender and intercepted six passes, returning two for touchdowns.

Pace, a 181-pound senior, was more than half of the Wildcat passing attack, nabbing 14 passes for 183 yards and four touchdowns. He was also a good blocker and made 43 tackles on defense. His other defensive work included four pass interceptions.

Lumsden, one of the smallest linemen on the Class AAA South Plains team, was nevertheless a stalwart in the Wildcat line at 165 pounds.

Commissioners Session Brief

BABSON REPORT SAYS

No Depression Seen In '67

The close of 1966 marks the seventieth consecutive month in the life span of the longest business boom of all time for the American economy. However, "trees do not grow to the sky."

Best readers of this column be tempted to "push the panic button", however, let me state that it would be unwise to expect a major depression in 1967. Our greatly expanded economy still has a considerable degree of momentum.

treat a case of pneumonia when cold pills would be more appropriate.

1. Although business and financial problems loom large in the prospects for 1967, I must first warn readers that the greatest danger for the year ahead does not exist on the domestic front. Surely it will be developments abroad that will hold the gravest threat to our country.

2. I foresee no war between the United States and Russia in 1967. However, tensions between the two world leaders may seem to reach the breaking point as the Kremlin "goes all out" to create diversions to our efforts in Vietnam.

3. I am also hopeful that a direct clash

Resolutions For Women

"Whoso findeth a wife findeth a good thing," declares the Book of Proverbs (18:22). High praise indeed, especially when you consider the source; the sayings of King Solomon, who reputedly had a thousand wives!

Though the man in your life may not have as many blessings to count as Solomon, you can make him feel like a king if you adopt these ten resolutions compiled from a recent survey in which men told what they wished women would--and wouldn't--do.

1. Keep a neat, well organized handbag. You may look terrific from head to toe, but scrambling around for a lipstick in a pile of old tissues often spoils the illusion of an immaculate you.

2. Have glowing hair. If you're timid about harsh dyes, use a color toner to give your hair both body and beauty.

3. Be on time. Perhaps five minutes won't make much difference in his anticipation of seeing you...but 15 minutes will likely change his mood to irritation...and 25 minutes can spoil a whole evening.

4. Wear a light scent. A purse size stick cologne can go on just before you meet your date after work--will last and last--and carry a light note of excitement all evening.

5. Smile when you see him coming. In a crowded public place such as a theatre lobby or street corner, how good a genuine smile from you looks amid all those strangers! Smile even if you've only been separated for 15 minutes.

6. Give him a small present now and then. Commemorate his new promotion and raise with a pair of cuff links -- a trip he enjoyed with a small memento like a keyholder. Show him these events are important to you.

7. Write him notes occasionally. The old-fashioned love letter is anything but passe--but it may occasionally be written on a memo pad or shopping list. Let him know he still has that romantic glow.

8. Offer to do small favors--like shopping for him or even washing the car when he's overloaded with other chores. Helping ease his schedule makes more time for you!

9. Be friendly with his friends. Overlook minor irritations in old buddies--show him that if he thinks they are tops, you think they're tops too. It's a subtle flattery of his good judgment.

10. Don't top his jokes with a better one. Rare is the woman who can just laugh and not say "Oh, that reminds me." If you have a real screamer, wait and tell him in private so he can tell the crowd later!

WHAT'S THE MATTER. BUD... TOO MUCH CHRISTMAS?

AMY'S ADLIBS

A Howling Success

By Amy Turner

Christmas is over, the house and my nerves are equally wrecked, so I suppose it is safe to assume that all was a howling success. And, believe me, howling is the right word. At approximately 3:30 a.m. Christmas morning, we were awakened to the sound of Christmas joy, to be exact, a new transistor radio at full blast, one swinging recording jarring the record player, an electric football game buzzing away, complemented by the zing-zing of a toy gun target game.

The cats, Day and Nite, were pretty excited, too, and they had climbed up on a shelf, displacing a few what-nots, and were merrily singing along to the record.

The children, however, were very considerate. They were tip-toeing all over the place.

AS WITH all Christmases, it was a pretty long day.

By actual count, I played 42 games of checkers, 3 games of chess, loved a new doll 14 times, read 2 children's books aloud and memorized that record.

The Publisher was quite taken with the electric football game and I have no idea how many games of that he played.

It all ended about 6 p.m., however, when he and the son started to fight...they were both trying to cheat.

WE THOUGHT we had all eaten too much, as you expect to do on Christmas, but the truth is, we never eat enough.

Why is it that all that turkey and trimmings looks so good one day and so dismal the next?

I have read recipe after recipe for using left-over turkey and all I ever get is left-over turkey. There just seems to be a certain unmistakable flavor to "second day" turkey that defies all my culinary talents--which I will admit are not extensive.

The Publisher admits this too. In fact, he has been known to expound on the theme--usually when sitting down to turkey hash, turkey salad, turkey pie, turkey soup or turkey sandwiches.

WE SPENT Christmas day without any company this year. The grandparents and some of the other relatives used to come to visit us on the holiday but they have apparently given this up.

Last year, Mother and Papa came up from East Texas to be with us.

I really don't remember anything very unusual about the day but I did notice their smiles got a little strained after awhile.

But they were real nice about it. Just as they were leaving, Mother did say: "Well, dear, it's been interesting, even unusual, one might say."

Mother and Papa stayed home this year.

Teach A Man To Fish

BY PAUL HARVEY

Young man, if you have any guts you'll get into business.

You want to solve poverty problems, it's business which produced, on seven per cent of this earth's land, more than half of this earth's wealth.

You're interested in the public welfare, it's business that provides seventy-two million jobs. It's business that packs every factory parking lot with a rainbow of recent models. And it's business which finances the inevitable freeloaders.

So you want to do something worthwhile for your fellow man, get into business.

You see a lot of young people these days fanning moonbeams with their hats--chasing hidder and yon at taxpayers' expense--trying to help somebody else.

They play patry cake with poor people; "I'll hold your hand, then you'll feel better."

Hold hands, nothing! You want to develop the underdeveloped, give 'em a job!

You hear social-minded beatnik types professing to prefer some "ism" other than ours; they're the underdeveloped ones. Anybody who wants government to take care of him hasn't been weaned yet.

Our American "ism," with six per cent of the world's population and seven per cent of its land owns 71 per cent of its cars, 56 per cent of its telephones, 83 per cent of its TV sets, 90 per cent of its bathtubs.

It's up to us who know better to stand up and challenge these mop-topped nincompoops and their asinine theories.

And don't let factions claim credit for America's magnificence. Labor did not build the United States; management did not build it; Republicans didn't build it; and Democrats didn't either.

It was We, the People of the United States who put rivets in the American dream. Every man and boy of us who dug the holes and set the forms and poured the mix and, one bucketful at a time, built skyscrapers over the blacksmith's shop.

Each American, seeking to outreach the other for a place in the sun, caused us all to grow tall.

You talk about a "happening." Youngsters with guts, in Junior Achievement, have recently started 5,746 companies in 410 communities. Junior Achievement businesses are set up like America's corporations, with boards and officers, and they issue stock, and the organize, and they produce--then they market and sell and keep records and sell and pay taxes and sell and sell... and 80 per cent of those businesses profit and prosper!

President Richard De Vos of Amway Corporation is a sparkplug in Junior Achievement. He remembers he and Jay Van Andel started the Amway business in a home basement seven years ago, and today it's a multi-million dollar enterprise providing employment for 80,000 people! "Yet," says De Vos, "Horatio Alger still lives in this country! The American dream is still good."

All we need is more people with more guts. The horizon has never been so limitless. Half the products we'll be using 20 years from today aren't even in the dictionary yet! Our nation needs nothing to keep on keeping on except more people with enough guts to get into business.

It's an old American proverb: Give a man a fish and he eats for a day; teach him to fish and he eats for a lifetime.

(Copr. T-M, 1966 Gen. Fea. Corp.)

OWNER'S REPORT

A Few Well Chosen Words

By Bill Turner

"GOOD WORDS do more than hard speeches, as the sunbeam without any noise will make the traveler cast off his cloak, which all the blustering winds could not do, but only make him bind it close to him."

So declared the eminent Scotsman, Robert Leighton, more than three centuries ago. No one has a monopoly on words. They are a common heritage, available to all. And often the right word will prove a magic key to success.

If we pound on an empty barrel it will make much noise. The air space inside the barrel carries the sound waves back and forth, increasing the noise.

This is also true of people. Persons who have not learned much are always noisy. They talk and talk but have never quite learned to say the right word.

They do not think of other people. They yell, talk, laugh loudly and make all kinds of noise. When a person's mind is full of knowledge, of politeness, of refinement and good manners, he remembers to say and do the right thing.

ONE SATURDAY, a businessman looked out his office window and saw three boys with shoeshine kits across the street. He noticed that one of the boys was continually busy shining shoes.

As soon as he had finished with one custommer, he had another and was back at work. The other two boys landed a job occasionally, but the one never seemed to lack customers.

HIS CURIOSITY aroused, the businessman decided to investigate. He found that the two boys who were idle most of the time were as eager and energetic as the busy one, but they merely inquired; "Shine, Mister?"

The one boy first seemed to observe the prospect and his need for a shine, and then smilingly and quietly greeted him with: "Shine for Sunday, mister?"

Well chosen words, spoken at the right time, usually do the trick.

OFFICIAL PAPER? WE'VE BEEN handed an official-looking paper with the heading, "Government Poverty Application", form No. 7908-571-30-MC-495-L.B.J.

It's addressed simply "Dear Citizen" and says:

"This form is being provided for your use if you have reason to feel you can qualify for government poverty grant. May we ask that you carefully study the important questions on this sheet and answer them to the best of your ability. If it can be determined that you qualify as a poor, a government representative will call on you to determine how much money you need."

THE FORM asked four questions: Do you eat as well as some of your neighbors?

Do you know of other people who have more than you?

Do you need more money to spend?

Do you find it difficult to pay your monthly bills?

Do you know of any reason why you should not be able to qualify for a poverty grant?

And then there's the proper instruction: "Please sign or place your 'X' in the space below."

In case there's confusion in filling out the form, it lists the proper answers below: "No" to the first and last and "Yes" to the other three.

There is an incentive offer, too.

"Do you know of three friends whom you think can qualify for a poverty grant?" the form asks.

"If so, please send their names and when these people qualify, we will send you another $100 poverty bonus."

The fellow who brought the form to us didn't say whether it was official or a joke. We're not sure.

The High Plains Water District will hold its annual elections on January 5, throughout the 13 counties in the district. Lamb County will elect one man to its five-man county committee. Names to appear on the ballot are Roy McQuatters, Jay Phillips and L.J. Swanson, all of Rt. 1 Littlefield.

25 Years Ago

With only a few days remaining until closing date, Texas farmers are swinging into last stages of 1941 wheat, barley and cotton loan programs.

Approximately 15 or 20 baskets will be distributed to the needy by the Lions Club on Christmas morning. Toys which were exchanged among the Lion members at the tree at last week's meeting will also be given to children in the community.

January 12 is the date set for the case contesting the legality of the election on October 14 which resulted in authorizing the City of Littlefield to issue $275,000 in revenue bonds for the establishing of a municipal light, power, and distribution plant.

CAPITOL COMMENTS

Christmas Big In The Capitol

By Larry Fuhrmann

Our State Capitol Correspondent

Christmas went over in a big way in the Capitol, where a gigantic tree, 34 feet high, was the center of attention beneath the dome. The tree was donated by a former state employee.

Governor Connally was on the scene for the annual Christmas Carol Program, sponsored by the capitol chapter of the Texas Public Employees Association. The governor read "Yes, Virginia, There is a Santa Claus," to the high school choir which performed.

"Several hundred" persons will be uprooted in the coming months as razing begins prior to construction of the Lyndon Baines Johnson Library complex at the University of Texas. The entire area has to be vacated by June 1, with those persons living on the actual building site having to be gone by Feb. 1. Most of the property was acquired in an "eminent domain" acquisition program authorized in 1965 by the 59th Texas Legislature.

"La Huelgas," although it has lost many families who left the state in order to find any kind of work, is still in progress as demonstrators continue to fly their flag in front of the Capitol. The strike by the Rio Grande valley farm workers has won the attention of many in the college group, who have been sponsoring food, clothing and money drives for the approximately 150 families in Rio Grande City.

United States Senator Ralph Yarborough is calling for a state minimum wage law. "Texas is the only state with a large population and the only large industrial state without a minimum wage law," he said at a meeting of the American Federation of Government Employees. "The results are obvious. We are the 6th state in value of yearly production, but we are 32nd among the states in our average money income per person yearly."

"We have 688,000 families in the poverty bracket where the total earnings of all members of the family, pooled together, are less than $230 a month. These 688,000 families in the poverty bracket in Texas total 3 1/2 million people, or one-third of all the population of Texas."

"We are playing catch-up in the nation being 32nd in average earnings and 32nd in education. A state minimum wage law will help both categories by helping prevent poverty and helping prevent school drop-outs brought on by poverty."

Yarborough pointed out that "there are certain areas of work that are particularly suited for state protection. The federal laws are designed to fit the entire nation and can never cover many local situations."

"Texas should protect her own, and not wait and force the federal government in," the senator said.

Some 90 students spent the first few days of their Christmas vacation in Rio Grande City; the students had come with the caravan bringing cash of about $2,000 and four and a half tons of food supplies from Austin, Houston and points along the route. The cash contributions were enough to last the families about two weeks.

Migrant workers are not eligible for social security benefits or unemployment compensation and they are not protected by the National Labor Relations Act, the Child Labor Law or the current Federal minimum wage law. Chances for a state minimum wage law passing in the upcoming legislature appear to be dim at the present time.

The University of Texas has been named recipient of a $5 million federal grant to become a "center of excellence" in the field of science. The grant is from the National Science Foundation.

Congressman, J. J. Pickle, in announcing the grant, said, "This grant gives the University of Texas national recognition for becoming a school of eminence in the fields of engineering and science." National Science Foundation director Dr. Leland Hayworth said, "This support is granted to an institution judged to have substantial potential for elevating the quality of its scientific activities and maintaining this new high level of excellence. The grants are made to help a limited number of already good institutions to advance rapidly."

The application by the University of Texas had asked for funds in four specific areas: molecular science (the basis of cellular development); genetics and anthropology; the study of the genetic basis of human development; and communications science, the translation of languages by computer methods.

Governor Connally, when speaking to his daughter's civics class in an Austin high school, found some of the questions posed to him to be as hard as the real thing. When asked why he did not call a special session of the legislature to consider minimum wage legislation, the governor said he "did not feel that, in my judgment, the minimum wage issue fell in the category of a dire emergency for which special sessions are intended to be called."

He had proof of his visit to Sharon's school in his wallet. She had forgotten her lunch money that day.

Greater state responsibility in the field of salaries, particularly those of educators, is being eyed in Austin. Supplementation of state salaries, especially in the field of higher education, has become a major factor in the operation of Texas government.

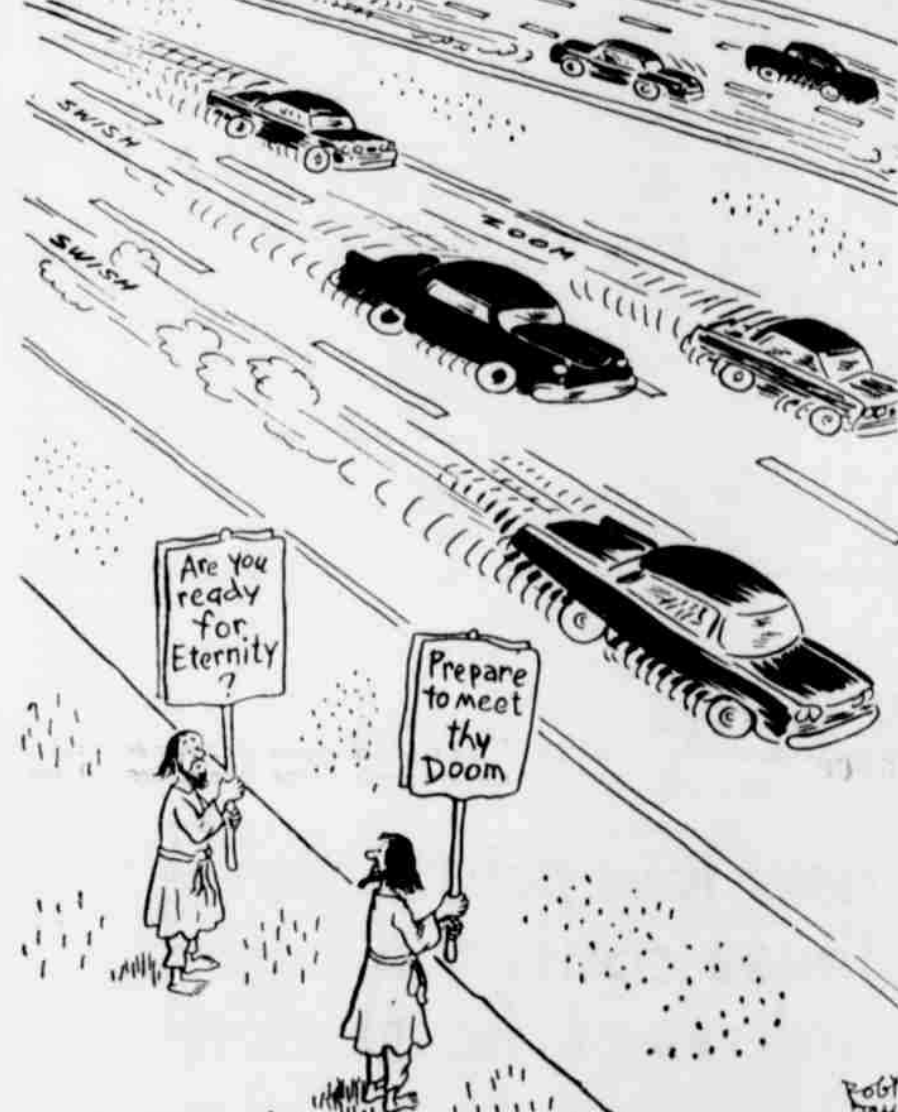

Salary requirements for many top-level positions cannot be met from state funds, and are supplemented by private sources. Recently, the Legislative Budget Board agreed to recommend to the legislature that the governor's salary be increased from $25,000 to $40,000 annually so that he could remain the highest paid state official.

The chancellor of the University of Texas system, however, will draw $42,000 in the 1967 fiscal year, partly from state and partly from private sources.

"If the true facts were known hundreds of deans and other top people at these schools are receiving supplements from some kind or another. You just have to do it to keep these people," one educator said.

Lt. Gov. Preston Smith wants the state to "pay its own way" and so does House Speaker Ben Barnes; but rather than lose the personnel entirely, he is in favor of the supplements. Governor Connally has said he does not foresee it happening anytime soon. Those who supply the outside funds might, someday, expect something in return, some have speculated, although it likely will never happen.

'Love In Action' Moving Ahead

SUDAN -- A Christmas program attended by 137 was held by the movement "Love In Action" known as the LOTW, Love Overcometh the World organization Saturday morning at the LOTW Center.

Joe Salem, president and founder of LOTW, stated this is the largest number to attend a meeting since the beginning of the movement, conceived in 1947 and put into action some three years ago. The 137 included 60 boys and forty girls from ages 2 to 18.

Thirty-two adults were present including those who assisted with the program and parents of the children and other townspeople who wished to see the program. Mrs. T.W. Dunaway led in group singing and gave leadership in Books of the Bible. Four ministers of different faiths were present and assisted, including the Rev. Jack Riley, minister of the Methodist Church, who gave the Christmas message.

The Rev. Willie Hazel, minister of the First Baptist Church, gave the invocation and Rev. D.A. Dobbs, minister of the Church of God of Prophecy read the Scripture of the Christmas story. Father Howell of Littlefield Sacred Heart Catholic Church gave the benediction. Elizabeth Hines, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Emmitt Hines, led the group in the Lord's Prayer. J.T. Hines, five-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmitt Hines, sang a solo.

Also appearing on the program was Mrs. Jay House who played the accordion and sang "Noel". Over 100 bags of candy, nuts, and fruits were given and booklets of the book of St. Luke were distributed.

Others assisting were Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Burgess, Mrs. W.O. Willingham, Mrs. Joe Salem and Mrs. W.V. Terry.

According to Salem, one boy reported to him Saturday morning that he had been meeting with Salem since the age of five years and over a period of 11 years. Twenty-two of the youths attending the Christmas program Saturday morning were attending the meeting for the first time.

Joe Salem is president and founder of LOTW, Kenneth Burgess serves as vice-president and Beth Salem is secretary and treasurer.

LOTW is a voluntary ministry and the program is explained by Salem in the following story: "This is a 'Help and be Helped' program of service and sharing, out of love of God and people.

"The participants, mostly boys and girls of different races and background, have improved remarkably in discipline, industry and spirituality during this three-year period. They are learning the importance of work and earning the pocket change they receive during our weekly programs. Some have learned to lead in the Lord's Prayer.

"Our policy is to turn no one away--to help people to help themselves to a better spiritual and physical life. This has also helped us as leaders and broadened our vision of Christianity.

"Since June, 1963, we have had 307 registered participants, 193 boys, and 70 girls, age two to 19; 44 adult leaders and co-workers.

"Attendance has varied but usually 30 to 40 are present; they come on their own. To the tune of religious and popular music, they are registered and given service assignments. They enjoy available reading, singing and a spirit of hope and belonging. "Then after inquiring into our needs, we are led in prayer and a short devotional. We close our meetings with the Lord's Prayer in unison before going to assignments in businesses, homes or the farms. We reassemble and each proudly reports on their work or training.

"During last year's Christmas program, three ministers assisted and the program was attended by 64 members. The Second Round-up Day was attended by more than 80. Catholics and protestants participate in our programs. One boy has come to us continually for 11 years. The first girl came to us with her brother in 1964.

"The Shack (a small cottage on the Salem property), our first meeting place, soon was overcrowded and we moved to larger quarters, now called to LOTW Center.

"We are proud of the garden these youngsters helped raise on the farm, supervised by Kenneth Burgess, and the vegetables taken home.

"All enjoy playing games, including baseball, and seeing color movies of themselves and their experiences. This ministry has humbled and uplifted all of us, knowing that human dignity, love and equality reflect the very nature of God, the Creator of us all.

"Assistance is given in gifts, loans, work assignments and moral support--not on worthiness or merit, but upon need. We give people the benefit of the doubt. Some abuse this privilege, but most of them are grateful. They seldom forget the favor and want to try to reciprocate. We are trying to build lives by ministering to all areas of life, especially the spiritual. Such was the mission of Jesus on earth. We hope to lead the unchurched to Christ, and the Church of their choice, as some have already been led to make a choice. All this has not come about the easy way, but it is rewarding and probably the greatest work we have ever done. We thank God and the good people of Sudan and the neighboring cities for their contributions of time, abilities and substance towards this badly needed effort. Most of the gifts supporting our budget have come on a volunteer basis. A kind official of one of the Lubbock stores volunteered and gave 30 upholstered chairs for our center. A hat rack and desk have been donated.

"Twenty-eight Sudan business men, housewives and farmers have given of their time and skills to help these boys and girls in their service chores. While some, without much of a chance in life, came to play and not work, with such opportunities they are learning how to work creditably and are becoming responsible American citizens. Some of our officials have told us that delinquency has become almost nil since the beginning of the program.

"This is a good visualization only because God is in it, this pioneering movement filter into other areas. "If the God-fearing each community will their own, in the teaching of love of many of our ills will conflicts resolve. I hope and freedom over hate, falsehood and enslavement, if live our faith. We God with heart, soul and strength and self, if His kingdom on earth."

Pickup Truck Flips On 84

A 1965 Chevrolet pickup truck went out of control and apparently overturned two times about 6 p.m. Dec. 24 on Highway 84, one-fourth mile west of Delano.

Driver of the truck was Ernest Elmo Jones of Littlefield.

Officers said the vehicle was going west on the 84 by-pass when Jones said it went out of control and rolled out in the ditch. Damages were estimated at $200. No injuries were reported.

BJSON REPORT

Red China and the U.S. can be avoided. Internal dissensions are rampant in Mainland China, and a great power is in full swing. Sabre-rattle may help to unify the people; but problems of low productivity, plus the problems of her nuclear program, should be avoided from direct attack upon Red China from the United States.

The struggle for leadership of the Communist world will continue unabated in 1967. Full political attack will be launched by the Kremlin against Peking. It is touch and go, however, whether we can persuade her wavering satellites to a final manifesto reading Red China the Party.

Recent elections in West Germany have turned the embers of nationalism into a tiny spark. This has surely thrown a scare into the leaders. I predict that they will take a new line against Germany in 1967 than they have in the past. I feel that we should particularly watch General de Gaulle, who is playing a game closer to Moscow from month to month.

Heavily armed with Soviet weapons, the Middle East—squared off against the United States—presents a grave threat to world peace. Nevertheless, I do not believe that the United States can afford a direct confrontation at this time; hence my forecast that the smoldering conflagration there will erupt into World War III.

While all reasonable people are hoping for genuine peace in Vietnam, I predict the issue will not be resolved in 1967. The tide of battle is swinging in our favor, but we may be forced to increase our commitment in order to retain this upper hand.

I predict, therefore, that military spending will be raised in 1967. This can help to ease the impact of any easing in the private sector of the economy.

Turning now to domestic conditions, I see a definite deceleration in business activity in 1967. The fantastic boom is in need of a rest. Instead of the strong upturn of the past years, I look for a high level of industrial production early in the year; but unless some new stimulus is introduced, I fear a cresting-over pattern is likely to develop in 1967.

I forecast a continuation of the tug of war between inflation and deflation in 1967. Credit, and increased productive capacity resulting from the flood of business capital expenditures in recent years, are deflationary. However, I can see no substantial relief from the inflation in labor and other rising costs. In short, we can have "cost-push" inflation co-existing with deflation.

A key factor in the business and financial outlook for 1967 is taxes. With defense spending climbing, I look for a rise in corporate and personal taxes in 1967. Moreover, I forecast that various levies at the state, local levels will continue to increase.

The tightening tax squeeze on all fronts worsens as the year advances. And there are rising complaints from both business and employees that social security taxes are becoming unbearable.

Results of the recent elections indicate the leading run of the Great Society program must take a breather along with the economy. Gains scored by the Republicans have altered the balance of power sufficiently to give a more sober look to public spending.

One of the primary reasons for expected deceleration in the economy is the likelihood that business capital expenditures may be curtailed. Tight credit, suspension of accelerated depreciation guidelines, and suspension of the credit on business capital outlays will pose obstacles to surmount.

Except in defense industries, I look for an abrupt switch during 1967 from a loose policy of inventory accumulation to one of inventory liquidation.

I forecast that scarcity of credit will continue to be a problem with which business must contend in the early part of 1967. Money managers should keep enough credit available for legitimate business needs, but I expect no early radical easing of credit.

However, I do foresee enough of an easing in credit to permit more orderly business conditions. If the economic situation worsens badly, money rates will, of course, go downward sharply.

I predict that commercial and industrial spending will trend lower in 1967, reflecting tapering off in capital outlays.

Mortgage money should remain scarce in 1967. Hence, residential building should be another disappointing year.

1967 opens with the building of single units in a state of crisis. Starts are down from year-earlier levels. As a result, I forecast that the Administration will use no stone unturned to stimulate construction of houses as soon as possible. At the same time, however, it may be midyear or after this important part of our economy contribute much strength to over-all growth.

Although new housing starts may remain in the doldrums for most of 1967, I forecast that the year will see the beginning of a great boom in the construction of new, modern nursing homes.

Despite President Johnson's request for a "backlog" of public construction should enjoy a very good year; the emphasis will be on dams, and water and sewer systems.

The expected declines in residential building and in commercial and industrial construction notwithstanding, I forecast that residential property will remain a good inflation hedge.

Labor stands at the crossroads at the year opens. Things never looked better in the past, but record wage and fringe benefits, however, neither the public nor the Congress is in any mood to tolerate long, hard, and inconvenient shutdowns. I freely predict that there is more likelihood in 1967 of restrictive labor legislation than at any time since Taft-Hartley was put on the books. Union chiefs are aware of this, and they act with more strike restraint than most people now expect.

1967 promises to be a year in which management will be fighting a "rear-guard" action to control climbing labor costs. In some industries, but even more in others, the defense buildup will maintain hiring pressure which will be wielding the paring knife. I forecast that the net result will be a rise in unemployment next year.

I do not look for price and wage controls in 1967, unless our defense expenditures rise far above what is now contemplated.

An encouraging aspect of the 1967 outlook is the affluence of consumers. I forecast cast a further upward trend in personal incomes due to higher wage rates. However if taxes are raised, take-home pay may not show a rise commensurate with the gain in gross pay.

28. Retail trade held up well in 1966, but there was a note of lethargy throughout the year. The pattern is not expected to show much change in 1967... with gains in dollar volume largely reflecting price inflation. Though consumers will have more money to spend, tight credit, high borrowing costs, and higher price levels could cause some tightening of purse strings.

29. Spending for food, apparel, and general merchandise should be greater in 1967. Also, consumers will devote a goodly portion of their spending budget for leisure activities, vacation, and travel.

30. Durable goods may not fare so well. Demand for home appliances, color TV sets, and furniture may be hampered by tight credit and high borrowing costs, plus the lethargy in new home building.

31. I forecast a decline in new auto sales. However, with the increase in the population of driving age, and with the record rate of personal income, new car sales could hold within 10% of the 1966's.

32. Soaring living costs will hit the headlines more often in 1967. Ire will be directed most strongly at runaway service expenses—especially medical—and at advancing red meat prices.

33. Despite new highs in the cost of living, I predict there will be many signs of deflation in the midst of inflation. Chief among these will be sliding profits, rising bankruptcies and foreclosures.

34. Industrial commodity prices should be firm to slightly higher. Selective price mark-ups will be necessary to offset wage hikes.

35. Profits began to wobble in the final half of 1966. I am convinced that hesitancy will give way to decline during the year ahead. Big squeeze on margins will come from soaring costs, especially labor.

36. But profits results will also vary widely from one company and one industry to another, as sales volumes sag, hold, or advance. For example, I am willing to "stick my neck out" and say that oil companies will enjoy a sales rise, but that the auto makers will be struggling with a volume slump all year.

37. The combination of less vigorous business, pinched profit margins, and stringent credit conditions points to an increase in business failures, shaking out the financially weak and inefficient.

38. Collections may be more difficult in 1967 on business accounts, consumer installment and charge accounts, and mortgage debt. I forecast a further rise in nonfarm real estate foreclosures.

39. Barring crop failures, I forecast another good farm production year. Farm prices should rule firm to slightly higher in 1967, but higher costs may result in a slight drop in net realized farm income.

40. Nevertheless, farm equipment manufacturers should enjoy good business. Sales of fertilizers and insecticides should post gains.

41. 1967's stock market promises to be one of vicious selectivity. I am expecting the old aristocracy of the blue chips based on past performance to be replaced by a new aristocracy of super-able management based upon hopes of good future performance.

42. I forecast, however, that 1967 will still hold many dangers for the speculator. I urge readers not to borrow money to buy stocks, and I urge investors to buy for growth and basic investment values.

43. The safest kind of long-term bonds are available now at prices affording very close to the highest income returns of the century. It is a good bet that there will not be so many top-grade issues on the bargain counter at the end of 1967. Should the 90th Congress boost income taxes, tax-exempt bonds will put on the best performance.

44. World opinion on the future price of gold has blown hot and cold many times in recent years. Though lately in the shade, I predict that gold will again be in the spotlight before 1967 is out.

45. I forecast that the dollar will not be devalued in 1967, but the pound will continue shaky.

46. Certainly, Congress will become more and more critical of the looting going on under cover of the Administration's War on Poverty. The whole program will be subjected to tighter supervision.

47. As 1967 wears along, the high hopes for more constructive conservation action by the 90th Congress will give way to increased doubts as a legislative stalemate develops. Republicans will have enough strength to stop the most liberal Administration bills, but not enough to launch a program of their own.

48. There will be a lot of talk in 1967 about the economy's "still growing". But I warn readers to examine carefully the advance in Gross National Product which I am forecasting here. Biggest part of the increase will come from higher prices and wages.

49. I foresee that a breathing spell in the economy can prove helpful. The prolonged prosperity has bred waste, laxness, and inefficiency. These can be corrected only by a return to fundamentals. Just as the human body requires adequate rest in order to enjoy proper health, so too the economy, and the stock market as well, must undergo periodic resting phases.

50. As the economy cools off in 1967, readers should beware of reassurances that our problems are only temporary and will soon be followed by a decade of boom conditions. The promised land may be only across the river, but it is always wise to test the depth of the water before wading in. That is behind my forecast that 1967 will be good year for businessmen and investors to have strong confidence for the future, but to proceed with cautions and restraint until the uncertainties just ahead have been resolved.

4 Break-ins Reported During Yule Week-end

Four complaints of breaking and entering were filed with the Littlefield police department over the Christmas weekend.

A break-in at Anton Fertilizer was reported Dec. 23. Missing were eight cases and one quart of Treylon or Treflon.

One complaint was made by Leon Durham, who said that his home in the Broadacres Addition and a panel truck had been broken into Christmas Eve. Entry to the house was apparently gained by breaking a door window on the west side of the house. Nothing was reported missing.

Hubert Tanner, Olton Negro man, was charged with felony theft and jailed here Dec. 24. The charge was in connection with missing welding cable at Olton.

Entry to the panel truck appeared to have been gained by breaking out a vent window. Missing were a cross-hatch generator, a box of television tubes, and two caddies full of tubes.

Another Dec. 24 break-in at Askew Service Station was reported by Gene Askew. A door window was broken on the west side of the building and approximately $25 in cash was reported missing.

Man Charged With Theft

A break-in at Union Compress and Warehouse Friday, Dec. 23, was reported by Pete Estrada.

Man Charged With Theft

It was thought that someone had entered the building by the rear door. There was no sign of forced entry. Report said that an adding machine had been moved to a lighted store room and left here and a desk drawer had been opened. Nothing was reported missing.

Man Charged With Theft

As the economy cools off in 1967, readers should beware of reassurances that our problems are only temporary and will soon be followed by a decade of boom conditions. The promised land may be only across the river, but it is always wise to test the depth of the water before wading in. That is behind my forecast that 1967 will be good year for businessmen and investors to have strong confidence for the future, but to proceed with cautions and restraint until the uncertainties just ahead have been resolved.

Otis Floyd Wins Turkeys

AMHERST -- Otis Floyd and Claud Cook went to Farmer County the first of December and registered at a hardware store in Friona for the pheasant hunt set for Dec. 1st to 7th.

Floyd bagged two of the birds and Cook, one, on the first day. They reported their kill to the proper authorities.

An award was being offered for the longest tail feather. So much time had elapsed since the hunt that the local pair had dismissed the thought that Floyd could be a winner. But last week, just in time for Christmas dinner, three dressed turkeys were delivered to him as the award with the winning tail feather that measured 25 1/2 inches.

A two-car accident was reported Dec. 24 about five miles south of Olton on Highway 168 about 10:45 a.m.

According to Highway Patrolman Weldon Parson, a 1966 Dodge, driven by William Lee Moore of Amarillo, and a 1963 Ford, driven by Ysidoro Saucedo of Olton, were both going south on the highway.

Parson said the Ford started to make a u-turn, Moore applied the brakes and the point of impact was about two feet left of the center line. No injuries were reported.

Damages to the Dodge were estimated at $300 and to the Ford at $100.
