"DYING TO LIVE" TO BE PRESENTED AT HIGH SCHOOL

The Home Economics girls and F. F. A. boys of the Littlefield High school will present a riotous farce in three acts, "Dying to Live," in the High school auditorium Thursday evening, April 25.

The entire action of this play occurs in the living room of the Winlock family and in a bungalow on the outskirts of a small town in southern California. Jewell Gibson and Charles Taylor play Mr. and Mrs. Winlock and Winlock's sister, Sylvia is played by Ila Green while her admiring lover, Chick Breen is played by R. Lee Gibson. Other characters that play important parts are Eula Mae Cox as Melva Jones, who has a poetic nature; Farrah Beckner as Estelle Gay, a young movie star; Alvis Tubbs as Montrose Langdon, who is "on the cops," and Savold Yutaka, played by Ramey Wilson.

STUDENTS HEAR LUTHERAN MINISTER
Rev. Walter Luecke, pastor of the First Lutheran Church, was the assembly speaker last Thursday. "The Necessity of the Recognition of God in Daily Life," was the theme discussed.

Rev. Luecke spoke of the two-fold duty of man, that of his responsibility to his associates and his responsibility to his God. "We are under the direct rule and government of the Almighty God and owe to him all blessings that we enjoy," the speaker declared. "Men may be prone to question the plans of God, but if we patiently wait and observe we come to know that His plans are for our good if we permit him to lead us. An urge was made that each person try to establish a closer relationship with God, becoming more intimately acquainted with Him."

DRAMATIC CLUB
The Dramatic Club presented a very instructive program. Clyde Willis presented a fine speech on "An Exalting Dramatist Rises in Theatre."

Ellarene Vause spoke on "Art of Cornelia Otis Skinner." Cecil Hall had a speech on "Charm Begins at 40."

Louise Thornton spoke on "Leading to Vital Healthy Theatre." Opal Carpenter gave a talk on "Hamlet voted most Popular Player." The remainder of the period was spent in study.

CLASSES NOMINATE FOOTBALL QUEEN
Representatives were nominated Friday by the freshman, sophomore, junior and senior classes for football queen. The nominee getting the most votes will be queen of the school. The funds will go toward the buying of a first aid kit for the football boys.

The nominees were: Freshmen, Bernice Gattis. Sophomore, Louise Thornton. Junior, Oma Carpenter. Senior, Lucille Glover.

Classes get behind your nominee and help win this enviable position as queen of the gridiron.

The Universal Car

ONE name comes quickly to mind when you think of "The Universal Car." The description is distinctively Ford. No other car is used by so many millions of men and women in every part of the world. Everywhere it is the symbol of faithful service. . . . That has always been a Ford fundamental. Something new is constantly being added in the way of extra value. Each year the Ford has widened its appeal by increasing its usefulness to motorists. . . . Today's Ford V-8 is more than ever "The Universal Car" because it encircles the needs of more people than any other Ford ever built. It reaches out and up into new fields because it has everything you need in a modern automobile. . . . The Ford V-8 combines fine-car performance, comfort, safety and beauty with low first cost and low cost of operation and up-keep. There is no other car like it.

PEP PERAGRAPHS

(Too Late for Last Week)
A large crowd attended the meeting of the Community Club Friday night. The new president, Mr. Lewis Owen, had charge of the meeting. After business matters had been taken care of a program was rendered. Pie, cake and coffee were served by the social committee, which was composed of Mrs. Jim Bowen, Miss Jean Lupton and A. G. Jungman.

The much discussed trophy case has been placed in the school house, having been made by Mr. Herman Greener. When the medals, ribbons, and certificates won by the students have been palced in the case Pep school will have something to show for its attainments.

Miss Wilma Gerik of West, Texas, is visiting in the Wotipka and Silhon homes.

Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Lupton of Shallowater were week end guests in the teacher's home.

Messrs. A. G. Jungman and G. C. Keith attended a meeting of A. A. A. committeemen in Levelland Saturday. At the instance of Mr. Jungman they were accompanied by Ed Blakney. We heard later that A. G. was afraid he and Mr. Keith couldn't push the car out of the sand without some help.

Mr. J. J. Lynch was in Levelland Saturday attending to business.

Don't fail to attend the play, "Always in Trouble," which is to be put on Friday night, April 26. This is a 3 act comedy and is composed of splendid talent. Under the able direction of Mrs. G. C. Keith, the young people are giving this play to raise funds for the benefit of the schools, and a small admission fee of fifteen cents for adults and ten cents for school children will be charged.

BLUE BONNET NEWS

A word to mothers

"Electric cooking is clean!" This statement probably has a greater appeal for most women than anything else we could say about electric cooking. All the actual burning of fuel is done in the power house far from your home.

The New Waldorf
gives you cooking at its best

Electric Cooking
is fast

Women who have just experienced for the first time the thrill of cooking by electricity say they had never dreamed that the kind of range could make so much difference in the quality of their cooking. Whether you bake, or roast, or broil, the Waldorf oven turns out food with a flavor and tenderness not even approached by any other form of cooking.

In designing the Waldorf Electric Range, cooking speed was given first consideration. The main purpose was to provide a cooking device that would be as far ahead of ranges already on the market as the modern motor car is ahead of the horseless carriage.

Application of the new 'ultimate' electric rate makes electric cooking cost you little additional, if any, to your present service bill.

Final Instalment

Ellen wasn't thinking for herself any more. "Let's go quickly, Dick," she said. That was all. "Let's go!" There was a knock on the door. It was a knock that carried hysteria with it...

its progress was like a flaming sword thrust into Ellen's heart. Every car that crossed their path was like an angel of deliverance.

The cigarette was thrown away, another one lighted. Her feet made a terrific clatter on the bare tiled floors, and her voice sounded unnaturally loud in her own ears...

Walking rapidly, with Dick and Jane somehow falling in behind her, she went to a desk. She smiled mutely at the attendant who gave her a room number and asked a question.

The elevator was made of polished steel and smelled of disinfectants. It stopped at several floors and white-gowned nurses stepped into it. They also smelled of disinfectants...

There was a long corridor. It was dark, and there was a strong smell of ether. As she walked through that long, dark corridor, with its ethery smell, Ellen began to talk. Nobody else had spoken for quite a long while...

"Just two nights ago," Ellen babbled, "Tony asked me about my house in the country. He said if he were destitute maybe I'd let him come up there. Wasn't that a funny thing for Tony to say?"

"Steady, Ellen!" he said. That was all. But Ellen was babbling, now at Jane. "There's a big garden full of flowers," she said. "Maybe he might get well if we could sit together there among the flowers. Wouldn't that be funny?"

They had stopped walking along the corridor, they had paused in front of a white door and on the door was a little placard that said, "occupied." It was a door which bore the number of Tony's room. Ellen forgot that there might be such a thing as hospital etiquette and hospital laws...

Without any hesitation, she reached out a small, quivering hand and turned the knob and walked in and shut the door behind her. "We'll stay here," said Dick to Jane. Ellen opened the door and into the room. At first she didn't see, because the room was dark after the dark of the corridor. She stood very still for a moment. Her eyes wide and blinking...

"Hello," said Tony. "Hello, Ellen! I'm just a failure—that's all. I can't live over a good suicide..."

Ellen stared at him. She just stared at him. And as she there was something in her that burned away every other distress that two silly young people had ever known...

"That's taking an unfair tangle," said Tony, weakly. "You know I can't get up..."

Ellen was sitting in the garden. Her hands were folded in her lap. Her eyes, oddly shaped, winglike, were fixed upon her husband's face. Tony was sitting beside an old stuffed chair, transfixed stretched out on bright covered cushions...

"It's nice out here, isn't it?" "Nicer than it ever was," said Ellen. She smiled. "Nicer than I ever knew it be."

"I was afraid," Tony's voice serious, "that you'd be mean, with me. I was afraid your mother—" he fumbled words, "would be just a little close. That you might be for her."

"Not too close," said Ellen, her head was suddenly above her knitting. For moments she had visioned a white-haired woman upon a canvas that the ead be.

"Let's not talk about my said Ellen, "not just enough to know that we and that she knows we are she understands. We've done going backwards. Tony, forward for a while."

Perhaps five minutes. Perhaps ten. The cigarette thrown away and another one was lighted. And then Ellen conscious of the opening of the garden gate. She struggled her feet and stood waiting. She waited, she saw an apparition figure coming toward her down garden path. It was a man boy in the rural idea of a three years! Ellen recognized as the youngest who was around the post-office.

"It's a letter from the told Tony as she took a square envelope from the boy's hand. Her eye she slit it open, glanced it.

"It's from Claire," she said. "It's full of news. Nice of you isn't it, to be writing?" She she and Gay are sending me a ding present."

"It's about time somebody said Tony. He spoke companion. Ellen went on, ignoring the interruption. "Claire says," she told "that she's taking Dick out to weekend to Long Island to her mother. I didn't know a mother..."

"I wonder what that meant," Tony. Ellen moved over, very until she could rest her head on Tony's cushion-propped knee. She sighed ever so gently, but she heard the sigh.

Fourth of a Series of Statements on the New "Ultimate" Rate for Residential Service

Here's What You Can Do With Additional Electricity at No Increased Cost!

The added current will help pay for the extra lamps, the new refrigerator and other electric appliances you have always wanted and needed. Put in higher wattage lamps and see what a big difference good lighting really makes.

The inauguration of the new "ultimate" rate not only brings better lighting, but opens wide the door to a fuller use of electric service by any person who wants it. More readily possible now is convenient and healthful refrigeration. Automatic electric cooking—and the pleasures of cooking in a clean kitchen, comfortable both in winter and summer—is within the reach of every woman.

We want you to know how the new "ultimate" rate is at your service in a practical way, not in theory. If you have read our announcement in previous issues of this paper and desire further information, please inquire of our local office for complete details.

Application of the new rate will be reflected in your service bill received May 1st and thereafter. We know that when you appreciate the benefits under the rate you will avail yourself of its advantages more and more.

With the coming of May, festivals will be held all over the state. But in keeping with the spirit of the 100th birthday of our State, an unusual twist has been added to pageants in Texas this year. Instead of Queen of the May, a Queen of Texas will be selected by popular vote.

The names of seven comely young ladies, representing seven social and business organizations of Littlefield, have been put up as candidates for this honor.

Your poll tax is one penny per vote, and you may cast as many votes as you wish for the young lady you favor as Queen of Texas in Littlefield. Voting boxes have been placed in several downtown business houses.

Vote freely and often, then come to the High school auditorium Friday night, May 3. You will witness the most superbly beautiful May pageant ever staged on the South Plains. Members of the Junior Study club, sponsors of the pageant, began rehearsals of the gigantic pageant early last week.

Vote to your heart's content, then attend the pageant . . . you'll never regret it!

Beautification Plan Suggested by Local Wowan's Study Club

In cooperation with the State Federation of Women's Clubs, which is urging that every city plant a "Cycle of flowers," so as to have some plant blooming successfully throughout the city from spring until frost, the Woman's Study Club, offers the following suggestive list of flowering Perennials and annuals to the flower lovers and gardeners of the city. To make a preliminary "tryout" in our beautification program in 1935, in order to enable us to perfect our plans for making Texas beautiful for the 1936 Centennial. Every yard should be a small park, and the yards of homes along the highways leading into Littlefield should present an attractive appearance.

The Zennia has been chosen as the city's adopted centennial flower because of its variety of color, hardiness and long blooming season. This does not mean, however, that Zinnias only are to be planted.

All historic spots should be marked, and our children taught to know them.

For those who wish a bed of perennials, the following is suggested:

Cycle of perennials— (1) narcissus and Jonquils; (2) violets and dwarf iris; (3) darurns single tulips, hyacinths; (4) peonies; (5) perennial poppies; (6) perennial or everlasting sweet peas; (7) verbenas and columbine; (8) perennial flocks in all colors; (9) delphian, or perennial larkspur; (10) foxgloves and Texas bluebonnets, (11) shasta daisies; (12) chrysanthemum (mistletoe variety); (13) goldenglow; (14) false dragon head; (15) baby's breath.

For those who plant flowers each year we suggest the following "Cycle of Flowering Annuals:"

(1) Pansies, (2) larkspur, (3) petunias, (4) nasturtiums, (5) zinnias, both dahlia flowered, small, and dahlia flowered, giant; (6) asters; (7) snap dragon; (8) marigolds; (9) calendulas; (10) lantana.

For bulbs which flower in mid-summer and fall: (1) Mexican tube rose, gladiol, dahlias, and cannas.

It has been suggested to make early and late plantings.

The appreciation of the Woman's Study Club for the above lists is extended to Mr. Burgett of the Littlefield Floral Company, who assisted in making the lists.

The Woman's Study Club invites every one to come to the club room in the public library on Saturday, April 26th, to exchange seed plants and bulbs. Come and bring your surplus plants and make our flower exchange a real beginning for a city beautiful.

GABLE, BENNETT STARS IN "AFTER OFFICE HOURS"

One of the finest newspaper and murder mystery stories produced in years, "After Office Hours," will be presented at the Palace Saturday Midnight, Sunday and Monday.

In the starring roles are Clark Gable and Constance Bennett, possibly two of the greatest drawing stars of the talking screen, and they are ably assisted in this newspaper yarn by comedian Stuart Erwin, Billie Burke and Harvey Stephens.

Clark Gable in this story knew every woman's weakness—perhaps that's why they were so strong for him! But when a woman-tamer like Clark meets a man-charmer like Connie anything can happen, and does! A red-blooded Romeo and a blue-blooded debutante matching wits and lips—going the rounds of big city excitement and romance—for 1935's bright new entertainment treat, Stuart Erwin as the newspaper photographer supplies the comedy highlights.

grass land, building of trench silos and surveying and preparing windbreak tree sites, and several other features under the new long federal program.

Farmers in the Littlefield area are getting behind the petition to have a camp established here.

Farmers of each branch of agriculture in the county will finance a Washington trip for one man to back up legislators and inform the administration about what is needed along agricultural lines in the area.

"Four cents per farmer, if all of them in the county will get behind the move, will be enough to finance a man to represent Lamb County as a whole at the national meeting," according to the county agent. The affair is the result of an invitation issued by federal farm heads to find out conditions in the South, and sentiment favoring proposed farm legislation.

Businessmen of the county are expected to finance a trip for a man at the meeting.

Showers Fall Here Sunday Afternoon

Showers fell in Littlefield and immediate vicinity late Sunday afternoon, the moisture here measuring about 12/100 of an inch.

Light showers were reported for about 30 miles northwest of Littlefield, including Sudan and Amherst, and also to near Anton on the east.

More moisture is promised this section at an early date, according to official weather man, L. C. Cawthorn.

mers are allowed by the government 10 cents per acre to buy feed or fuel, with which to plow their land to help check wind erosion. Yesterday we signed up 20,000 acres.

"If the CCC camp is erected here it will be the beginning of the CCC soil erosion program in this section. They will do such work as running teraces and contour lines, gully control, using native brush and vegetation, re-sodding and re-vegetation of land desired to be taken out of cultivation, surveying and preparation of windbreak tree sites, planting of trees, etc."

The matter of sending a delegate or delegates to Washington to thank the administration for their assistance rendered the farmers in the form of production control under the AAA program, and to urge the continuance of the processing tax and also the extension of the control program.

It was pointed out at the meeting that New England States are putting pressure to bear on the government that relief is not needed in the Southern States, and that a train from the South into Washington is scheduled for about May 20, which will carry delegates from the various districts, who will urge the continuance of assistance to the farmers.

J. S. Hilliard, chairman of the meeting, stated he would name a committee in the near future to take care of the appointment of one or more farmers to make the Washington trip.

Carl Hill, supervisor of the Emergency Feed & Seed Loan, was a guest of Mr. Cunningham at Tuesday's luncheon, and made an interesting talk on soil erosion.

He also stated he had taken 300 applications for loans to date.

Mr. Hilliard urged the importance of securing rights of way for the north and south highway, stating that the small amount of money the county might spend in the procuring of such rights of way would bring around $200,000 into the county.

Federal Charges—

denied by the son before the grand jury.

Sheriff Irvin and Deputy Sheriff Walraven both emphatically deny all accusations. Mr. Irvin also voiced an emphatic denial that his son, Driscoll, was guilty of any wrongdoing.

"It's a settled fact that we've caught Vernon Herman and had him indicted, and we made it so hot for him he went to Lubbock county, and Sheriff Tom Abel caught him," Sheriff Irvin said.

Herman was arrested by a raiding party led by Sheriff Irvin and Deputy Walraven two and one half miles southeast of Littlefield January 30, 1934, during a raid. Forty gallons of whisky was confiscated.

Sheriff Abel of Lubbock county arrested Herman and a brother, Bun Herman, south of Lubbock, April 11, 1934, during a raid. Vernon Herman was indicted for transportation and for manufacture of whisky.

When the cases were called in district court at Lubbock December 6 last year, he pleaded guilty, and was sentenced to serve one year in each case. He was released on appeal bond and while at liberty Herman was granted a conditional pardon by Governor Miriam A. Ferguson, January 11, 1935.

When Herman was arrested by Sheriff Irvin and Deputy Sheriff Walraven he was charged with possession of whisky. The case was dismissed in district court at Olton on account of Herman having been sentenced in Lubbock county.

The charge against Constable Hutson is that of alleged failure to enforce certain articles of law which caused the government to be defrauded out of taxation.

Declaring that he was innocent of the charge, Constable Hutson said: "I have no apology to make for my efforts in the enforcement of all laws."

Mr. Hutson said that he had obtained indictments against some of those named in the federal indictments, and that he had engaged in liquor raids.

"I even asked the commissioner at Lubbock to send Federal men to Lamb county," he said.

All defendants who are charged in the federal indictments as enumerated above, with the exception of Constable Hutson, are alleged to have violated various articles of the Federal liquor laws.

Sheriff Irvin, Deputy Sheriff Wal-raven, and Driscoll Irvin went to Fort Worth Sunday and Monday made bond of $2500 each.

Warrants on others indicted were served Monday and Tuesday by United States officers and the defendants made bond in Lubbock. Bond was set at $2500. Attorneys T. Wade Potter and E. A. Billings, some of the defendants who appeared in Lubbock to appear in Federal court at Littlefield, 20, it is stated.

"Gentlemen:

"We have before us your letter of March 2, regarding the specifications of lubricating oil we recommend for our Farmall tractors.

"We do not recommend any particular brand of oil for our machines, but we do recommend the use of S. A. E. 20 or 30 during the winter and S. A. E. 40 or 50 for hot weather.

"We will again say that we have never recommended any particular brand of oil in our machines."

The above quotations are from a letter received from the International Harvester Co., of the above date and signed by the service manager of said company. We have this letter in our files for your inspection, and we invite you to come in and read it.

We have sold our 100 Per Cent Paraffin Base S. A. E. Tractor Oils over a period of years on a money back guarantee and refer you to our many satisfied customers.
