Bula States Terms For EAS Service

Will Not Pay Balancing Fee

"It makes no difference to us whether a physical or carrier system is installed, as long as no money changes hands," D. B. Lancaster, manager of the Bula Telephone Co-op, said in a meeting of the co-op's board of directors.

BCD Hears Industrial C-C Report

Lancaster continued the Co-op began negotiations with General Telephone in 1954 and 1955 about EAS (Extended Area Service) between Bula and Littlefield. No agreement was reached and the service went on a toll basis.

"General Telephone told us in 1956 if we made EAS from Bula to Littlefield then our equipment would be obsolete when they changed to the dial system," Lancaster commented.

He remarked that Littlefield went to the dial system on August 21, 1960, and he wrote to General Telephone on August 29 to inquire if they (General Telephone) had any plans for EAS between Bula and Littlefield.

Lancaster stated that he received an answer on September 7 to the effect that there were some engineering difficulties in connection with the change over but they should be cleared up in 60 to 90 days.

"When a group of our members was in Washington," one of the board members said, "the Rural Electrification Administration said that 60-40 agreements are not fair."

Lancaster said "60-40 agreements are not fair to either party." He then produced four contracts between the Co-op and General Telephone made between the two companies and providing EAS between farming communities and trading centers that have no 60-40 agreements or balancing payment agreement.

"I have figured our yearly costs for operation of both the carrier and the physical set-up" Lancaster stated, "and we came up with a figure of $1710 for carrier and $1685 for physical."

Lancaster read from a bulletin dated February 16, 1959 and expressed the REA feelings in giving EAS with a connecting company. The following terms are desirable and equitable according to the bulletin.

1. Each system should be responsible for its trunk terminations, switching and local exchange plant.

2. Each system should be responsible for one-half of the interconnecting EAS trunk.

3. No charge should be made

ASC Office Initiates Feed Grain Payments

Lamb County grain producers began enrolling in the Kennedy Emergency Feed Grain program Monday morning at the ASC office in Littlefield and by Wednesday evening more than 300 had joined the President's plan.

According to ASC manager, L. D. Aten, more than $65,000 was paid out to farmers as partial payment for retired acres over the initial three-day period.

"About 90 per cent of the farmers signing up are accepting the partial payments," Aten said. "There are still about 2,000 eligible producers in the county."

Aten said that farmers have until May 31 to put his acres into the program.

If all the farmers that are eligible enroll in the program, more than $300,000 will be injected into the county economy through the payment for retired acres section of the bill.

Price support for grain sorghum in the county under the bill is $1.87 per hundred pounds.

A new idea in the index concept was disclosed last week by Aten. Any farmers who can prove that his grain average is over that given him by the ASC will be allowed to adjust his payments to that of his 1950 average.

Retired acres may be planted in a permanent type grass or legume, a temporary type grass or legume or in a small grain, (wheat, rye, oats and barley). The grains may be planted in the fall of 1961 and can be harvested in 1962. In addition, they may be grazed in the fall of 1961.

These are the only grains that can be planted for harvest and marketed in 1962.

A new commander for the city post, James McFarland, will arrive in about two weeks to take over.

Major Stevenson expressed his appreciation for the help that he has received from Littlefield while here.

"We wish to thank everyone for his wonderful cooperation during the time that we were here," the major said.

The army headquarters will remain open with supply help until McFarland arrives.

Chamber Slates Meeting With Bula Farmers

A joint meeting between the governmental affairs committee of the Chamber of Commerce and a delegation from the Young Farmers Association from Bula will be held tonight at 8 in the Reddy Room to discuss the relationships of government to agriculture.

The discussion will cover the subsidy philosophy as a whole, rather than some isolated phases of the commodity credit commission.

According to chamber manager, Gene Garrison, this will be an excellent time to discuss proposed legislation on water pollution.

Garrison said that the late-time (8 p.m.) will allow the farmers to get in a full days work before coming to the meeting.

Soil Stewards Day Is Sunday

"The Reward of the Steward" will be the theme of the annual Soil Stewardship Week scheduled to begin Sunday. Most of the ministers in the county will preach on Stewardship of the Soil.

In a letter from William E. Richards, president of the National Association of Soil Conservation Districts, the reward of stewardship of the soil was expressed as "America has been richly blessed by our Creator with an abundance of highly productive and fertile land."

"As Stewards of the Earth we set aside Soil Stewardship Week each year that men and women all over America may recognize the source and richness of this blessing. The bounty of our land is shared by all people, urban and rural alike; likewise we share the responsibility for keeping it,

God intended, forever fruitful.

"The men and women of America who direct the activities of the Soil Conservation Districts are especially conscious of Gods command to "Dress and Keep the Earth." Appropriately, they are in the forefront of those who each year rededicate themselves to the conservation and wise use of our waters and soil. Success in their endeavors is conditioned upon the widest possible understanding and appreciation of the role that every citizen has in meeting his responsibilities of Stewardship."

Some of the subjects to be brought out during the annual observation will be a sense of responsible contribution to the future, man's faith in God's purpose work on the land, rejection of self-interest.

Concerning the survey run by General Telephone on usage between Bula and Littlefield, which showed Bula residents called to Littlefield on an average of six times out of every ten calls between the two towns, the board members said that many of these calls were "collected" to business houses in Littlefield. One of the Bula residents said he could call 15 Littlefield businesses collect. The only question raised on a 60-40 agreement is whether the 60 per cent should be in favor of the farmer or the business houses. Representatives of the Bula Telephone Co-op agreed to meet with the Littlefield City Council and present their case. Lancaster said he hoped the meeting would concern only EAS and not get off on other points of disagreement. Lancaster further pointed out that his company would have to invest $4000 in carrier equipment or $13,000 in physical equipment. The Co-ops who have accepted 60-40 agreements have done so only because no other alternative was left to them, he commented. A petition bearing the names of 102 Bula residents was presented to the City Manager, J. W. Harrison, this week. The petition said, "We, the subscribers of the Bula Exchange, desire EAS into the City of Littlefield and petition the people of Littlefield to assist in acquiring this service." The City Council will have another meeting with officials of General Telephone Monday morning beginning at 9, according to Harrison.

It appears that the practice of making down payments was known as early as the Phoenicians. In fact, the very word used to describe the practice passed from the Phoenicians into Greek and then into Latin. The word (earnest) means down payment. WHAT DO PEOPLE LIVE FOR? A journalist some years ago conducted a poll to inquire into the purposes for which people were living. He found that over ninety per cent of the people he interviewed were mainly living for some imagined good state in the future. A young man characteristically said he could hardly wait to finish college, marry, settle down, and raise a family. An older married woman said, "Oh, I just hope that I can stand the strain until the children are grown and married, and my husband and I can be alone and have a life of our own." A Hollywood actress replied: "I'm just existing until I can get my divorce and marry Mr. X. Then I'll really begin to live."

In the present-day era, when much of the "thinking" is done by leaders and intriguers, the old story of the Indian who was building a boat may be helpful. The Indian was carving his canoe out of a huge log. A man came along and said, "Chief, I think she's too wide for her length." So the Indian narrowed her down. A little later, another man came along, who said, "Chief, it looks to me that the stern's too full." So he cut down the stern. A third man came, watched the Indian chisel awhile, and giving the canoe a close look, said "The bow's too sheer, Chief." So the Indian changed the bow. When the canoe was finished, the Indian launched it in the nearby river, but it capsized. He hauled it back on the beach, found another log and began again. Once more a man came along and offered advice, but this time the Indian answered, "That boat over there—that's everybody's boat," pointing to the monstrosity on the bank. "This one Indian's boat!"

Unofficial services showed three hotels, six motels, 25 restaurants, two newspaper, one radio station, four contractors, two surveyors, four machine shops, 19 automobile shops, one carpenter shop, five plumbing shops and three tin shops. Others listed were the various churches, two banks, five irrigation equipment shops, three concrete contractors and seven building contractors. City services showed ten uniformed police, two cars, two regular firemen, 25 volunteer firemen, two fire engines and one emergency unit.

STORM of LIFE

"If only I could get out from under, get away from it all, find some island of peace..."

Like everybody else, we want to escape our problems and pressures. We are seeking calm away from the storm of life.

But we can't escape from life. We can't run away from the storm but we can find calm in the storm. When a hurricane sweeps across the countryside, its circling winds lashing out in destruction, there is always in the center, an area of quiet. In the eye of the storm there is calm.

Faith is not an escape, a running away into religion. It is finding the presence and adequacy of God to face life triumphantly. It is finding an inner center of peace while the winds blow outside.

The Church points the way to peace. It helps us to find the inner experience of faith.

"I have found my island... an island of peace in my heart. I have found calm... the calm of God in the storm of life..."

THE CHURCH FOR ALL... ALL FOR THE CHURCH

The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Plan to go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

From Your Chamber Office

By Gene Garrison

My experience as a debate coach and judge of Interscholastic debates is meeting a very strenuous test in General Telephone and Five-Area Telephone Co-op discussions. As you will note in comparing last Sunday's newspaper report with today's, the different concepts are quite complex and confusing.

Each group has their own set of standards and apparently some evidence to substantiate their position. I maintained from the outset and still do, that a joint meeting is essential so we can see all the conflicting information in one contest.

In debate circles, we would say that the ideas haven't clashed as yet. It is like trying to watch two horses galloping in different directions simultaneously. Clarity is a tendency of fading into a haze of confusion.

It appears that there has been a long period of negotiation and re-negotiation between the two telephone companies. We, in Littlefield, are not concerned with the past negotiations, but, of course the companies of necessity must consider these previous dealings. The fact that they have filed to agree over the Morton exchange for so long only adds to complexity of the problem.

The only thing I can say for certain at this point is that everyone wants the service consumed. General Telephone Company the Five-Area Telephone Co-operative; the Young Farmers Association of Buda; the Jaycees, who are the Littlefield sponsors; the residents of the rural community; the City Council; Chamber of Commerce and the businessmen I have contacted; to the men have stated that they desire to be able to call to and from Littlefield without a toll charge. As a matter of fact, the Five-Area Co-op has submitted a petition to this office with 109 signatures requesting that we do everything possible to consummate the Extended Area Service Agreement. We certainly intend to make every effort to help this 264 square mile area of our customers.

To add to the complexity, but also to make the project more valuable, General is planning to allow us to call Whitharral without a toll charge. (Whitharral can call Littlefield toll free now). General also plans to offer telephone service to a large number of our rural customers who do not presently have telephone service available.

The Five-Area Co-op plans to add over 50 customers of their own who do not now have telephone service. These people live in the Beck Community.

The sum total of all of this extra service would be valuable in that it would put us in much closer contact with our customers in these areas. It would be much better for our businessmen to be able to pick up the phone and dial their customers and potential customers. The Agricultural Producers would be benefited also because of our buying and selling market. Toll service, such as we now have, inhibits all but essential calls.

Since both General and the Co-op express a desire to serve their customers, and customers of both areas have expressed a desire for the service they should be able to agree on a contract that would not distrust either company, and make their customers happy.

her sister Mrs. Hayes.

Cancer Drive At Olton Climbs To $600 Mark

OLTON -Percy Parsons, local cancer chairman, reports that around $600 has been raised for this fund. The goal set for Olton was $1000.

Parsons was assisted by members of the New Century Study Club. Mrs. Fred Thompson, president of the New Century Study Club mapped out the town and the club members made a house to house canvass Friday night.

Club members helping with the drive were Mmes. Elmo Bryant, Elmer Moore, J. C. Brown, A. J. Spain, Don Spain, Frank Struve, Fred Thompson, Owen Jones and Edd Thompson.

Parsons reports that the business section of Olton will be canvassed this week. Helping him in this will be Bill Turner and Glenn Exter.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Hipp, Karen and Mike, and Mrs. Pauline Jones were guests in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Schreier at Abernathy Sunday.

Thirty nine members of the Olton Senior class left Sunday morning at 4:15 for Austin, San Antonio and Bandera for a weeks trip.

They are making the trip by chartered bus. Accompanying the class are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Harper and Mr. Richard Bentz.

These students have worked at many activities the past four years raising money to make this trip.

Two senior boys unable to make the trip were Bobby Wayne Brown and Billy Elmo Bryant. They left Friday for Amarillo to enter the U. S. Army. Two other students have married but will be present for graduation exercises.

... beauty of the country -side, dignity of man, unity of the family, strengthening the community and the character of a nation as pertains to the soil.

"The main purpose of Soil Stewardship Week," Roland Willis district soil conservation official, said, "is to set aside a period when businessmen and farmer, alike, can think about the value and sensibility of soil conservation."

A special section will be devoted to soil conservation in Sunday's edition of the County Wide News, complete with pictures and stories about what has been done this past year and what lies ahead so far as conserving the soil.

About Your Health

AUSTIN - Texas is hip-deep in the business of spot checking air, food and drink for radioactive content.

Public health engineers are managing air sampling stations in Austin and El Paso, milk monitoring stations at Austin and Dallas, and studying the total dietary intake of radio-activity of a school age test subject in Austin.

Every day of every week for the past five years, state and local health department engineers in Austin and El Paso have filtered 85,000 cubic feet of Texas air through vacuum cleaner devices, trapping tiny particles of matter and measuring its radiant energy. Both stations are part of a sprawling coast to coast network set up originally to measure increases in atmospheric radioactivity due to nuclear weapons testing.

Although no nuclear tests have been conducted in the United States since 1958, the network has proved so valuable that it has continued on a year-around basis to study "background" levels of natural radiation, including that which originates from cosmic sources in outer space.

Daily readings from the sampling devices are interpreted for use in Texas and then forwarded to Washington where Public Health Service radiation specialists make more discriminating analyses.

The Austin station clearly de-

TECTED fallout from the French bomb tests in the Sahara Desert last spring.

Radioactivity in air sampled at most stations within the national network including those at Austin and El Paso - has now reached the point where it is barely measurable.

In the milk monitoring network, specially trained persons collect composite samples of milk from at least 90 per cent of the dairies supplying the test area. Both Austin and Dallas stations have consistently reported radioactivity levels well below the tolerances set by the National Committee on Radiation Protection.

Austin is also one of eight American cities measuring total radioactivity a test subject consumes in food and drink. Equal portions of everything the subject eats or drinks for seven days each month are quick frozen and sent to government laboratories in Montgomery, Alabama, for analysis.

The dietary study is just beginning. Sponsors say it will be several months before any conclusions can be drawn from it. (A weekly feature of the Health Education Division, Texas State Department of Health.)

Use long, free strokes and work upward. Rinse the paper with clear water, but do not scrub. Generally, they are difficult to answer because not enough specific information is given about the nature of the stains and the types of wallpaper.

Not all wallpaper should be cleaned the same way. There are three basic classifications of paper that determine the method of treatment. They are listed as water-resistant, water-sensitive and plastic-treated papers.

Water-resistant paper is the kind usually referred to as "Washable." This does not mean that it can be scrubbed with a strong soap. Instead, after first removing loose dirt with a vacuum cleaning attachment, apply a mild soap solution with a cloth or sponge.

Water-sensitive paper is, as the name implies, non-washable. But it can be cleaned in a special way. If the paper is only slightly soiled, it can be cleaned with stale bread from which the crust has been removed. Rub large pieces of the bread over the paper and, as the bread becomes soiled, fold under to a clean section. Use wide, sweeping strokes and overlap the clean portions.

For larger and more stubborn stains on water-sensitive paper, use a special type of cleaner available in most hardware stores and where wallpaper is sold. This product is similar in substance to putty. When it is rubbed lightly against the paper, dirt adheres to it. The putty should be constantly kneaded in the hand so that a fresh, clean surface is used. After the paper is cleaned the loose crumbs can be easily brushed off.

Plastic-treated paper is either plastic-coated or plastic-impregnated. In either case, the paper is highly resistant to most kinds of grime, dirt and stains. But should hot fat or grease fall on such paper, it should be wiped off at once to prevent even the possibility of penetration. Most other soiled areas, including those

How do you know what kind of wallpaper you have? That's something you should determine when you buy the paper. Look on the backs of samples, and you'll see the type specified. Where the wallpaper was already up when you moved in, always make a test in some inconspicuous area. Rub with a damp cloth and see how the paper stands up under it. If it begins to shred or crumble a little, it's probably water-sensitive paper. If not, it's water-resistant. Plastic-treated paper is another soiled areas, including those parent to the eye.

The Cancer Called Income Tax

A move is underway, spearheaded by certain conservative elements to abolish the Sixteenth Amendment to the Constitution—the income tax amendment.

With subsidizing arms that reach from Afghanistan to Zanzibar, how could the American government keep up its purchase of friends abroad without this "payment through the nose" from the American citizenry that ranges from 20 to 91 percent of their daily incomes?

It couldn't. If such a move were to sweep the country, America would have to cut down on its handouts, start minding its budget, and quit trying to give away millions of dollars that half of the recipients don't want anyway.

Let's take a look at the progress that has been made in taxation in the 48 years that it has been the law of the land.

On October 3, 1913 taxation was put into effect in the U.S. The law, as put on the books then, called for exemptions of $3000 for all single tax-payers and $4000 for married tax-payers.

The rate of taxation began at one percent with a top limit of six percent.

Since then the minimum rate has skyrocketed to 20 times what it was while the maximum has gone up 15 times what it originally was.

Actually, income tax for Americans was not a new thing when it was added to the Constitution in 1913. In 1893, a taxing law was passed that called for a two percent levy on all incomes over $4000, but it was immediately declared unconstitutional by the Supreme Court.

Arguing the case against the government, a lawyer put his thesis before the Court in these words (remember this was in 1893):

"This law (income tax) is Communistic in its purpose and tendencies and dependent upon principals as Communistic and Socialistic as ever have been addressed to any political assembly in the world."

The Court apparently believed this as evidenced by its decision.

Delivering the Court's decision on the matter, the Justices said:

"If such a law is ever permitted in this country, it will mark the hour when the sure decadence of (the) present government will commence."

Today, the laws have progressed to such carnivorous proportions that they gobbled up, in 1959, $91.8 billion from Americans, or, $540 from every man, woman and child in the country.

To add to this, President Kennedy was quoted recently in commenting on his tax-tightening measures before Congress as saying:

"The slogan 'it's deductible' should pass from our scene."

And, on and on the bubble grows.

If we are to ever battle the foes that surround us on every corner of the globe, we must start with our national cancers and cleanse them from the body of America before we are able to combat the viruses of communism and socialism.

The biggest, and best, cancer to eliminate first is the sore of Taxation.

STATE CAPITAL Highlights AND Sidelights by Vern Sanford TEXAS PRESS ASSOCIATION

AUSTIN, Tex. - Capitol hands are engaged in a legal and dead-end serious type of "numbers game." Object is to figure out how much money certain tax bills will bring in. Also what the legislature needs to round up in order to meet the state's obligations. Then, find out how much additional cash is necessary to foot all bills. Any number of persons can play this game - and a good many are. Looks like all Texans will be affected.

Gov. Price Daniel, who takes a dim view of the House-passed 2 per cent sales tax, said it still would leave the state $50,000,000 short of needed revenue. Rep. Charles Wilson of Trinity, sponsor of the sales tax, offered it as a means of raising $127,000,000 a year.

Texas Research League, which has made a continuing study of state finances, estimated Wilson's bill would raise $265,000,000 in the next two years, with $22,000,000 more coming in the League, leaving some $106,000,000 gain of $50,000,000 a year in state revenue.

Wilson has also put forward another tax bill that would repeal the corporation franchise tax and substitute a 4 1/2 per cent corporation income tax for a net gain of $50,000,000 to the general revenue fund over a two-year period.

His plan calls for (1) passage of the twice-defeated excise bill, (2) doubling tuition at state colleges, (3) shifting the $15,000,000 farm-to-market road spending from the general fund, (4) requiring county school superintendent expenses to be paid from local funds, (5) collecting $3,000,000 from families able to pay for care of relatives in state hospitals and schools, (6) diverting one per cent ($12,000,000) a year from the permanent school fund for current expenses and (7) revising or shifting several other school fund allocations.

HOUSE PASSES BUDGET BILL - House passed a general appropriations bill calling for the spending of $2,520,000,000 during the next two years.

Sen Robert Baker of Houston had more difficulty with his bill that would admit the University of Houston to the state college system. Senators Hubert Huddleston, Wardlow Lane, Charles Herring, and W. T. Moore teamed up to "talk the bill to death."

Costal Bermuda Suggested For Retired Acres

Farmers who participate in the feed grain program and are having trouble deciding on how to handle the conservation acres might find it very profitable to establish a good field of Coastal Bermuda.

George McBee, extension pasture specialist, says this hybrid grass continues to make new friends because of its adaptability and high yielding characteristics. Spring, he adds, is the best time for planting Coastal in most sections of Texas.

Under the feed grain program, the farmer may receive up to half of the expected payment at the time he signs up to divert corn or grain sorghum land to soil conserving uses. This money can be used to establish the new field of high yielding, quality forage that Coastal can provide, says McBee.

He points out that Texas farmers have always been satisfied with satisfactory feed grain, are often disappointed in quality and price of age.

Plantings made in the grass time to be planted before the beginning of the summer season. McBee recommends that only good quality be planted. The seed should be prepared and clean. What is a limiting factor is a difficult to obtain a strong irrigation is available.

He suggests planting 42 inch rows with 36-inch intervals in the spacing will require 10 shells of sorghum per row spacing will require 10 sprigs but will in a ground cover and less from weeds.

McBee recommends that the farmer be carried out with soil test. He says it is ideal to put fertilizer especially side and below where are to be planted. It is advisable to wait until the grasses are established and grasses are expected problem. He says a cast fertilizer on land to Coastal.

Extra money would be used to hire more state inspectors, upgrade barber college standards, said Rep. Ben Jarvis of Tyler, sponsor. He said barbers favored it.

Jarvis' bill also would eliminate effort toward legalizing horse-racing and parimutuel betting was killed by the House. It sent back to committee a proposal for a state-wide referendum on racing.

Fines of from $25 to $200 could be levied on policemen who trap speedsters by waiting in a hidden spot under a bill proposed by Rep. Collier Adams of Lubbock. Texans would begin their days an hour later, use an extra hour at the end of long summer days under a daylight savings time bill introduced by Rep. Joe Ratcliff of Dallas.

Texas' general revenue fund deficit would be taken care of by a commission empowered to issue bonds to raise money to cover the shortage under a measure proposed by Rep. Ben Lewis of Dallas.

People who move from Texas would be allowed to vote absentee in Texas until they qualify for a vote in their new residence under a constitutional amendment proposed by Rep. Fred Quillen of Lubbock. This privilege would last for only 24 months and would apply only to presidential elections.

Rep. Grainger McIlhenny of Wheeler has introduced a new bill to exempt farm trailers from licensing requirements. It is a substitute for a similar bill vetoed by Governor Daniel. New bill includes a number of safety, weight and speed limitations.

Higher Barber Licenses - House passed on second reading a bill that would double the license fee for barbers. Present charge is $10 for examination

A Legislative Check List

Perhaps you are trying to decide which, if any, of the bills introduced in the legislature are good for you and your fellow citizens. The following check list may help you decide:

- 1. Is it necessary? Or is it something that is not really needed, or, perhaps, already being provided for.
2. Can we afford it? Remember, there is no limit to what we would like, but there is a limit to what we can afford.
3. What will it cost ultimately? Many proposals are like icebergs—only a small fraction of the total cost is apparent on the surface.
4. How will it affect basic liberties? If it imposes unreasonable or illegal restraint on your life or that of others, it should be vigorously opposed.
5. Is it in the best balanced interest of all? If it is designed to benefit a small group or special interests while taking unfair advantages of others, work for its defeat.

6. Is it a 'foot-in-the-door' proposition? Compromising a little now and may bring an oppressive burden later in more regulations or more taxes or a combination of both.

7. Does it place too much power in the hands of one individual or group? Once decisive power is granted to a non-elected public official, a commission, board or council, the private citizens lose effective control.

8. Does it recognize the importance of the individual and the minority? This is a cornerstone of our Republic.

9. Is its appeal based on emotional propaganda or facts? The farther a proposition gets away from the facts, the more critical one should be.

Federal Aid To Impacted Areas

From the Wall Street Journal

There's a new twist to the Department of Health, Education and Welfare's customary annual report on Federal aid to so-called impacted areas, where defense installations create unusual local school problems. For the first time, the report includes a breakdown of aid payments by Congressional districts.

This new information probably will be used in an attempt to embarrass Congressmen who approve aid to "impacted areas" within their districts while opposing such across-the-world Federal school aid as the Kennedy Administration proposes. Supporters of the Administration plan may accuse Congressional opponents of "inconsistency." And there's even talk of using the threat of curtailed aid to "impacted areas" as a weapon to gain support for the Administration's broad education measures.

In view of the fact that 311 of 435 Congressional districts contain "impacted areas," the threat, if it develops, could be a powerful one. Many communities rely heavily on this Federal subsidy to meet their school budgets. But is such aid a handout, pure and simple? And does acceptance of it also compel acceptance of the "principle" of Federal aid to education in general?

We think not. The location of military bases and defense plants is determined by the Government to suit its own necessity and convenience. Any community near a defense installation faces mixed blessings. While the Federal payroll boosts local trade, the sudden demand for expanded utilities and school facilities is a heavy burden on local resources.

Whatever one may think of Federal aid, there is at least a measure of practical justice in the arrangement whereby the Federal Government, which pays no local taxes, helps to meet the demands thrust overnight upon the local community. It is also worth considering that the guest who came unbidden, needing more classrooms, may suddenly pull up stakes and go elsewhere, leaving empty schools behind.

Aid to "Federally impacted areas" is, by definition, special aid to communities which find themselves with special problems caused by the Government. Such aid is in no way comparable to proposed Federal aid to education for communities across the country; the one has nothing to do with the other.

Let's have at least that much clarity in the debate over Federal aid to education.

'Nobody Can Accuse Farmer Of Price-Fixing' -- Philosopher

Editor's note: The Sandhills, if it's as hard as I let on and the chances of breaking even are as slim as I claim, but that's because they don't understand all of the advantages.

It's true farming out in the open under the uncertainties of the weather is a hazardous undertaking, about like trying to run a drygoods store without a roof or a bank without a vault, and it's true that insects are as smart as men and while man is staying up all night in a laboratory developing an insecticide that's bound to work, it turns out the insects stayed up the night before developing an immunity to it. As I've found out long ago, every time man comes out with a new insecticide, the insects come out with a new insect.

Moreover, a lot of people distrust a farmer. If he gets ahead, he's responsible for the high cost of living; if he fails, he's incompetent.

I could go on, but by this time you're probably wondering what are the advantages of farming?

Well, I won't have room this week to list all the advantages, not to mention time to think them up, or the imagination to manufacture them, but there is one advantage that occurred to me the other day and I've been basking in it ever since.

It's this: the farmers will never be fined on by the United States government for price-fixing.

You're not going to catch us inviting the wrath of Attorney General Bobby Kennedy by getting together and deciding how much we ought to charge for what we produce. We've out-smarted all the lawyers in the government, and in all the history of agriculture since man first found out if you put a seed in the ground it'd sprout to the present day when we can produce more than the country can handle, no farmer has ever been guilty of deciding what the price of what he has produced should be. We haul it to town and ask somebody. Lots of times we don't get near enough, but we sure stay out of court.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Cotton Group Slates Meeting

Lubbock from all phases of the $29 billion U.S. cotton industry will meet before the 27th annual meeting of the American Cotton Congress in Lubbock, Texas, May 8-9.

The congress, a soundly organized board for the cotton industry, is headed by Chairman Burr S. C. Jackson, Hillsboro.

The opening session of the congress, on the morning of May 8, will include the keynote address by Mr. Jackson and a discussion of agricultural research problems by Wm. Rhea Blake, Memphis, Tenn., executive vice president of the National Cotton Council of America.

The second session that afternoon will feature Sterling Emens, Jr., of Lubbock's First National Bank, discussing cotton financing; Frank Gray of the SCS in Lubbock, speaking on the growing of cotton; Dr. Harold Loden of Paymaster Farm, Plainview, discussing variety developments and Claude Welch of the National Cotton Council, Memphis, Tenn., telling of cost reduction potentials.

James T. Ralph, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture, Washington, will speak at an evening session at the Lubbock Country Club. The morning session on May 9 will include a talk on mechanization in cotton marketing by Dan Davis, Plains Cotton Cooperative Association, Lubbock; a discussion about markets and distribution by F. Marion Rhodes, president of the New York Cotton Exchange; a talk of use of cotton mills by Robert W. Smith, president of Lowenstein Cotton & Storage Corp., Anderson, S. C. and a discussion of retail potentials for cotton goods and fabrics by Larry Aubuchen, purchasing department, Sears, Roebuck & Co., Dallas, Texas.

The congress will close with a noon luncheon meeting at which Edwin Martin, Assistant Secretary of State for Economic Affairs, Washington, will speak.

The American Cotton Congress is an informal organization representing a wide range of interests in the industry. Anyone interested in cotton is invited to attend the sessions. Headquarters will be at the Pioneer Hotel. Reservations for rooms anywhere in Lubbock may be made through Ed Hutchins, manager of the Pion-

Texas Tech Sets Beef Cattle Day

LUBBOCK, Tex. - A two-fold research program on how stock farmers can obtain more beef dollars per acre will be emphasized May 15 at Texas Tech's annual Cattle Feeders Day.

Research reports this year will detail use of different silage crops and efforts to determine which crop gives the most dollar-income per acre, said D.R. Ralph Durham, Tech animal husbandry department head.

A highlight of the day-long program will be the dedication of Texas Tech's new $237,000 Meats Laboratory. The 8,486 square foot brick and tile facility is comparable to a small, but very modern, meat packing plant.

Chief speakers on the program will be John Pierce of Washington, D. C., deputy administrator for the Agricultural Marketing Service livestock division, and Bill Zmolek, Iowa State University cattle feeding specialist.

Loss Of Cotton From Root Rot Can Be Reduced

Cotton losses due to root rot can be reduced. But, points out Harlan Smith, extension plant pathologist, plans must be made and carried out over a period of years to be most effective.

A combination of practices carried on for a number of years is necessary for best results. These include the growing of resistant crops in rotation; turning under a large tonnage of organic matter prior to the growing of a cotton crop and deep plowing during June, July and August of infected land.

Smith advises that none of these practices can be counted on for effective control when used alone. Crop rotation is the most susceptible to root rot. Turned under organic matter needs to be decaying during the early stage of the cotton's life. Effective rains immediately following the deep plowing are needed to get the expected results. This practice, therefore, Smith says, is best.

Producing early cotton most instances, help to escape root rot damage. Control of cotton seedling says, will help get the crop to a fast start and the early crop.

Smith suggests that growers in the areas of where root rot is a problem visit the local extension office and discuss with him a control program. Also pick up a copy of Root Losses Can Be Reduced.

beef carcasses will be Pierce's topic and Zmolek will discuss Corn Belt feeding practices. In other talks, Tech researchers will report on experiments involving silage and various feed additives.

"Our research this year has been two-fold," said Durham. "we wanted to determine (1) which silage gives the most economic gains and the best grading cattle, and (2) which silage produces the most dollars per acre when fed through beef cattle."

Also involved in the feeding tests of 96 Angus and Hereford steers is the results of implanting 12 milligrams of stilbestrol in half of the animals.

"This is to determine whether implanting would increase efficiency enough to overcome the decline in grade," Durham said. Previous Tech feeding-implanting research showed a rambling was hurt by 36 mg. of stilbestrol. The lower dosage was used to see if a feeder can get some increase in gain without affecting carcass and grade.

Conducting these feeding tests are Dallas Powell, animal husbandry senior from Plains, and Wendell Kent, junior animal husbandry major from Sweetwater.

Two sheep feeding experiments using silage and milo, but no implanting of stilbestrol, will be reported by Dr. Frank Hudson, assistant professor of animal husbandry, and students Jimmy Neal of Merkle and Charles Cobb of Lubbock.

Another beef cattle experiment to be reported May 15 will be a study of silage and high cottonseed meal rations as compared to cottonseed meal and hull rations tested in 1959-60 feeding experiments at Tech.

Complete carcass data will be available on each of the 96 steers be scored May 3, as a live animal in the Tech feeding trials. Half of each carcass will be displayed along with cut-out data on animals will be slaughtered May 4 each other half. A photo of each at a Lubbock meat packing house living animal will be exhibited to give viewers an idea of the animals' characteristics.

More than 500 stock farmers and ranchers and meat packing calls for each of the 96 steers to representatives are expected
