NEUTRALITY LAW HELPS, BUT HARDLY ENOUGH

The neutrality bill passed by congress is a step in the right direction—but only a step. If we expect too much of it, we may ourselves open for an unpleasant surprise some day.

NEUTRALITY LAW HELPS, BUT HARDLY ENOUGH

Probably the best way to see how it would work in actual practice is to go back 20 years and imagine what would have happened if it had been passed in 1915.

Next, the bill prevents American ships from carrying embargoed articles to the ports of warring nations, and forbids Americans to travel on the ships of belligerents except at their own risk.

And it was that trade, far more than the trade in munitions, which made us in effect the silent partner of the allies, and persuaded Germany that the chance of victory by submarine warfare was worth the risk of bringing us in as an avowed combatant.

VISION IN BUSINESS THE CART BEFORE THE HORSE

If a farmer waited until he raised bumper crops before seeding anything but his garden plot, a bumper crop would never be raised.

If business men wait until business gets good before they tackle the unemployment problem business will never be as good as it should be.

Business opportunity is limited only by the number of people in the territory, and their problems are mutual. Working people means prosperity — Loafing people means ultimate bankruptcy.

Weather Men Burn Mid-Night Oil To Warn Of Dangers

WASHINGTON (AP)—Hurricane Roaring winds... flying wreckage... death... destruction... terror in thousands of hearts along America's gulf and south Atlantic coasts.

Now, when a hurricane roars up from the Caribbean or out of the " doldrums " region off the African coast, the weather men never sleep. Casting off all night in the forecasting office, they cut code messages constantly tick out code messages from ships at sea: "Barometer falling rapidly; sky overcast; wind velocity 85 miles per hour; direction south, southeast."

This new 24-hour " hurricane " forecasting service was set up under direction of Weather Bureau Chief Willis R. Gregg.

Under the old system, reports of the storm's progress might come in all during the night to the central office, but they would not be analyzed until morning, and meantime the hurricane might have travelled 125 miles or more.

1,000 People Attend Von Roeder Annual Picnic, Rodeo At Knapp

KNAPP, Tex. (Sp)—A crowd of about 1,000 attended the Von Roeder annual picnic Friday. People coming from the south side of the Colorado river had to be ferried across in a wagon since the river was too high for automobile passage.

Following a rodeo, the crowd was feted to an old fashioned lunch, followed by a big watermelon feast. Chief feature of the celebration was an exhibition of Von Roeder's Texas Mammoth cotton.

Yield per acre is not so much as several other strains, yet it is said to show up far better after gleaning. Added to this is a staple that averages an inch to an inch and three-sixteenths.

They have three separate breeding blocks for about 15 varieties of other seeds. Experiments have shown the Texas Mammoth to have a faster growth and earlier maturity than other varieties.

Skeptic

One little word slipped into the bill repealing the Volstead Act's no longer effective provisions may rout the bootleggers who have hung on since repeal of prohibition.

The Treasury has gradually obtained Congressional authority to check up on sales of alcohol and the raw products—corn, molasses, etc.—which go into its manufacture. But it has had no way of following up the supplies of "alky" sold for use in the manufacture of tonic, toilet preparations and medicines which might later be re-cooked for beverage purposes. That is where the dike has leaked since repeal, especially in New York, New Jersey and eastern Pennsylvania.

But in the new bill Treasury lobbyists inveigled Congress into giving them power to require reports on all "articles" made from alcohol. As a result, every maker and retailer of a hair or beauty or stomach tonic must file accountings of their sales and purchases. And if any section becomes too zealous in developing its hair or stomach or beauty it will have to explain to Henry Morgenthau, who is a bald-headed skeptic with an excellent digestion.

Notes

The order requiring spending agencies to report to the Budget Bureau gives that bureau no power to stop the spending. . . . But it gives FDR a line on how fast the money is going out. . . . Chairman Buchanan, head of appropriations, says he'll be darned if he will stand for $3,000,000,000 more for work relief—and he was the last who killed off the cotton-wheat grab. . . . Reception

Financial New York's zest for the new issues offered by the Treasury in exchange for the final billion and a quarter dollar installment of called. Fourth Liberties was decidedly weaker than published reports indicated. The conversion will be adequately successful—but more because of the Treasury's cagy strategy than because of investors' enthusiasm.

Secretary Morgenthau was bold—and smart—in throwing a $500,000,000 issue of 1-1/2 per cent notes at the market (apart from those offered for conversion) within a week after a comparable offering of only $100,000,000 had fizzled badly. The larger issue was over-subscribed two and a half times—thus sponging the bad psychological effects of the earlier flop clean off the slate.

The astonishing discrepancy in the reception accorded to the two offerings can be partly ascribed to three technical differences between them—so minor as to seem absurdly trivial to the layman but quite important to bankers and bond dealers accustomed to the intricate details which affect bond values.

Tiny

Both issues bear a 1-1/2 per cent coupon—but the one that fliedered matures in four years as against three and a half for the one that succeeded. Just that slight distinction makes the rate a fair yield on the latter and insufficient on the former from the viewpoint of gimlet-eyed Wall Street experts. Again, the issue that went over was a direct obligation of the U. S. government while the other was indirect (Federal Farm Mortgage Corp.) but guaranteed by the government. No practical difference to you or me—but many investing institutions and administrators of large trusts think otherwise and that counts even if their reasons are mostly traditional prejudices. Finally, the first offering was sold at auction and the second at a fixed price. The banks much prefer to know exactly what they will have to pay in a market where one-sixteenth of a point is an important fluctuation. Perhaps it shouldn't make sense that these activities should influence financial men to grab for one issue and shun the other. But it does—and Mr. Morgenthau was shrewd enough to realize it.

Push

But these technical differences don't tell the whole story. Insiders say an even more significant part of it is concealed behind Mr. Morgenthau's announcement that henceforth the Treasury will keep its transactions in government securities a secret. They are convinced—though they admittedly cannot prove it—that subscriptions from federal agencies contributed largely to that impressive over-subscription. These are now free to support the government bond market without giving the show away—thus intensifying the value of their support.

Downtrend

The New York garment center strike of shipping clerks and push boys shows indications of radical inspiration and leadership. The strike has been marked by violence—generally playful rather than sullen—displaying a spectacular ingenuity typical of communist organizers and agitators. The projected stunt of stripping a non-striking floor girl publicly for the benefit of the sound news reads was just the sort of bright promotional idea they would have.

Duds

FDR's remarks in his published correspondence with Roy Howard to the effect that his reform program is about completed evoked of other securities—thus avoiding any possible embarrassment on first score—in case the conversion offer should prove less attractive than the Treasury hopes.

The terms of the 2-3/4 per cent 10-12-year bonds were forecast here exactly. As we also prophesied—they give Mr. Morgenthau a chance to gloat a bit about the unprecedentedly low coupon rate without inviting public attention to the remarkable shortening of maturity from the last previous issue of 20-25 year 2 7/8 per cent bonds. New York is a trifle irked about this subtle device and the bonds may not go so well—even for conversion—unless the general market for federal securities is given a push by the Treasury. It undoubtedly will be in case of need.

Criticism

You would hardly suspect that active customers of Wall Street brokerage houses would be much concerned about the social aspects of labor relations. Yet several brokers testify that this is the case. They have been surprised to find that a number of customers decline to follow their recommendations as to the purchase of certain stocks because they don't like the labor policies of the companies in question. In nearly all cases the criticism is that the concern is too reactionary in dealing with its workers—rarely that it is too liberal.

Abolition

Informed observers believe that's the main object—again characteristic of communist tactics. They don't care so much about winning strikes as they do about raising as big a ruckus as possible.

Disturbances

If disturbances of the sort continue—which is quite likely—insiders predict the result will be to drive the garment industry away from New York. This would sharply accentuate the persistent downturn in the city's importance as an industrial center.

themselves to lease or buy out un-economic units in their territory. As a result, the report that was to solve all the problems of this harassed industry becomes just another public document.

The committee's only recommendation pleasing to the industry was the proposal that we negotiate a gentleman's agreement with Japan on imports of cheap textiles. But Free Trader Hull is taking his time about that, and he has the support of the President, who once laughed off complaints that oriental competition was a serious menace to domestic manufacturers.

Cloture

Elliott Roosevelt's decision to quit Texas politics revives a question which important Democratic politicians don't like to discuss publicly. But it has caused them a great deal of misgiving.

The political activity of the President's family has brought many protests and warnings to Democratic headquarters—to both the men's and women's divisions. If the party strategists spoke their inner thoughts they would suggest that Mrs. Roosevelt and the two boys—Elliott and James—leave all politics to the head of the family. So many people think a woman's place is in the home that they write to Washington—and the papers—about it.

On the other hand there are many who admire Mrs. Roosevelt for her tremendous interest in civic questions. Those who note

An election is being held at Chalk Saturday to vote on raising more cynical chuckles than applause in New York. Insiders expected something of the sort as the opening gun of the President's campaign to recapture business support—as predicted here.

Comment runs that he'll never breach conservative walls—with such cream puff ammunition—and confirmed right wingers are confident that all his shells will be duds.

She is a former student of Iran high school. Both girls plan to become teachers.

John Camp Adams, salutatorian of the class, and James Thompson will also enter Tech. John Camp will take up business administration and James petroleum engineering. Frances Jones, a former student of State University, will go to Tech this year. Bobby Asbury and James Madding of last year's seniors will enter Drayton's Business College at Abilene.
