Junior 4-H Club Girls Have Meet Thursday At School

The Junior 4-H Club girls met Thursday, December 8, in the Grammar school music room, with Mrs. Wilson, sponsor, in charge.

Mrs. Wilson gave a very interesting demonstration on the care of the hands and making hand lotion.

Eight club members were present. Following is the hand lotion recipe given at the meeting:

1-2 oz. best flake gumtragacath; 3 oz. pure glycerin; 2 oz. alcohol; 20 drops ether; 10 drops perfume; 20 drops boric acid. Soak gumtragacath over night in one quart hot water.

Beat with egg beater until smooth. Add other ingredients and beat until well mixed. Store in bottles or jars with lids.

Radio Junk Shop Is Fast Disappearing; Garland-White Instal Latest

era of the "Radio Junk" is fast disappearing, and in its place, the Garland-White Auto Supply Co., have installed the very latest equipment, their repair department. It will be educational, for anyone going to their store, to see for themselves the performance of these instruments.

Stall, Garland & White's capable radio technician, says that the use of such highly technical and sensitive beyond natural senses, that in order to check a radio properly, one must have been developed for that purpose. The new Oscillograph installed in the already efficient service panel, makes it possible to check the receiving quality of your radio to the absolute. This instrument was made possible to the service department, one quality of a set was regulated largely by guess. Up to the use of the Oscillograph has been confined to the service of the manufacturers, it is indispensable, as it led the most accurate and means for adjustment of etc. The use of this instrument requires specially trained technicians, few of which this section boast. Thus, in Littlefield we have one of the most and efficient radio shops in Texas.

practical use of radio principles in a wide field. Being used in Talking Movies, Public Systems, Television etc. The use of this instrument has had a large role in communication. Stall has had a long experience and training in the field of sound engineering, and affords this community service in the important maintenance of this important mainstay. This experience has a knowledge of the importance of undistorted reproduction of the enjoyment of the music, and some experience also in the adjustment of some receiver set. Garland hopes to make each and one of their customers "Tone conscious" so that they will be satisfied with half price from their set, but will a full performance for their set.

the time of their rhythm and dancing like a dervish, away from that part of the room and before she knew it he had taken her out through one of the glass doors of the entrance.

"What is the matter? Take me back to Nick."

"I'm going to be fool enough to take you home."

"Mr. Ayleward!"

"Toni Padrona's woman is in there dancing."

"And you're afraid of Toni's fiats?"

"Perhaps, though as a matter of fact, I don't think Toni is present. Certainly it is not Toni who is dancing with her. But I believe Nick would want me to take you home."

"I can't possibly trust you."

"Miss Sandal, if you force me to make a scene you will regret it more than any one. Have you forgotten how angry you were with me once when I involved you in a scene?"

Ayleward stood above to block her view of the glass doors; so she missed the rhythmic passing of Toni Padrona's woman clenched in the arms of Felix Kent, her eyes blazing into his with something that looked like hunger and reproach.

A few moments later she stood outside on the pavement with Jock.

He hailed a taxicab.

"I'll send you home, Miss Sandal?"

"No." She spoke quickly, arrogantly. "To Nick's rooms. I must see him again tonight."

"But, Miss Sandal, I have to go there now myself, at once."

"I'll only be a minute."

"Please go back and ask Nick—"

"I'm not ready for him to leave. He'll hold the party together for me."

In the taxi she asked, "Shall I have to wait very long for Nick?"

"No. As soon as I get back there I'll send him to you."

At the door of Nick's lodging house Jock let her in and in spite of her repelling gesture he mounted with her.

"I'm sorry. I must get something."

The something was an automatic pistol. He took it quite openly from the table drawer, examined it and dropped it into his coat pocket.

Lynda said slowly, "Some day you will see again the inside of that state's prison, I am afraid. And that will break Nick's heart. He thinks you are—pure gold."

"Please give me the gun. I'll be alone here. Quayle may find his way in."

"Not a chance." But Jock's voice was low and uncertain. "He doesn't know this place."

He took the blunt firearm and slowly, as though her eyes compelled him, lowered it and laid it on her open hand. And over this hand, gun and all, his fingers strongly closed.

Lynda felt a rapture of body and blood. It was sweeter than honey, more heady than wine. She sat still, knowing herself possessed. She was not ashamed; nor afraid. And suddenly she knew why she had come back with him, why she had allowed him to accompany her. Jock came round the table edge, drew down her hand to the other in her lap, fell to his knees and laid his forehead on her hands. She felt his lips moving, she heard him say, "I love you . . . I love you . . ."

And she was conscious of what he said, of its meaning, of the havoc that it caused. She lifted her eyes as though for help.

They met Nick's eyes. He had followed them from the cafe instantly, had come in, had seen them and now throwing himself in one painful contortion across the room set his tormented hands upon Jock's collar and, using all his strength, jerked him up and back.

"You dare to take my daughter here, to make love to her. My daughter! Kiss her with your mouth of a convict, touch her with your hands of a card-sharper."

Jock fairly covered. His face looked dazed. He quivered at the two words as though Nick had used a lash upon him. Then carefully, not to hurt Nick's hands, he freed himself and went toward the door. He said nothing, did not turn to look at Lynda.

"Don't be frightened, little Lynda," she heard her father saying. "He won't touch you again."

She could not speak.

"You did wrong to come to me," groaned Nick. "No matter where I live my life defiles your fingers."

Speaking, he was caught by a paroxysm of physical agony which kept Lynda there in pitiful and sacred attendance until nearly morning. At last she was moving Jock Ayleward had gasped out a most at once she down the receiver

FIFTH INSTALLMENT SYNOPSIS

Harlowe, raised in a convent, at the age of eight was her mother, Marcella, in ark. Worried about her safe-ty she is unfamiliar with the modern world woman, her first wish is to get her safe-ty. Attending her first be-lynn meets Felix Kent, rich and nineteen years older her- self. Encourage by her she and Felix quickly be- ganged. Alone in her apart- ment night, a crieple, Nick enters by the fire-escape, in her that he is her fan- d that her real name is Sandal. Uncertain about she wants to get married- ly, Jocelyn goes to talk over with her mysterious As Lynda Sandal she goes house, climbs three flights and enters a room where sitting with several men in det of a card game. Later, both Felix and her mother ray, Jocelyn returns to have nd visit with her father.

she made Jock Ayleward, bier, from whom she seeks sation about her father's life. s her to a restaurant to her about him, but instead send their time talking about her and dancing together.

impelled by a sudden panic at really losing her.

"I've broken down Miss Harlowe's high mightines, eh?" Roughly he pushed his hand to and fro over her shining head until its repressed curly masses were wild enough to shame a Fiji Islander. "You came here to condescend to me, didn't you, my girl? Have I taken the condescension out of you a little?"

It was the truth and she recognized it.

"Come, Lynda, let's go out. I'm darned if I like the rooms myself. I've had a bid to join some of the crowd tonight at a rather swell joint. Want to come? They'll like to look at you."

"Are you really well enough, Nick?" was her only protest. Re-assured roughly by being told to mind her own business, she went into his bathroom to wash away her tears and to restore passable order to her hair.

In a taxicab which it cost Nick some torturing moments to enter, Lynda forced herself to ask, "Will Ayleward be there?"

"I dare say."

"Nick, do you know his history?"

"A man's history is the least im- portant thing about him, Lynda. But—yes, I know it."

"And you believe his tale of per- secution and of treachery? Do you know whom he accuses?"

"Yes. Your young man."

"Believing that, you let me marry Felix?"

"Let you marry? Is it my busi- ness to let you in any sense of the word? I don't know the truth of Ayleward's tale. I don't care. If Felix used him as a cat's-paw to pull a million out of a bad mine it's probably no worse a start to- ward a fortune than that of many another highly respected millionaire. Having what he wants now, se- curity, wealth and you, he'll be a better husband than a less suc- cessful and more scrupulous man."

"I know him well enough to dis- believe Jock's story utterly. But it is not easy for me to meet Jock. There is a sort of disloyalty in my knowing him at all."

"I wish," she said with coolness, almost with nonchalance, "that you'd get rid of Ayleward, pay him off and start again."

"Why so, gracious and gentle lady?"

"He has been in prison. He is a professional gambler. I hate to think that you are dependent up- on his charity, that you live by what he STEALS."

"A gambler doesn't steal, Saint Lynda. He eases people from their money only by their own consent. In other words, you are ashamed of me, my life, my friends and my condition?"

"No."

"Then why try to change them? I've no intention of changing any- thing for the sake of Mrs. Felix Kent."

"We musn't quarrel."

"Ah, so you do love me a little! 'm not angry now, nor hurt. On- ly, Lynda, don't try to change me. As to young Ayleward, if you fell in love with him—"

"In love—with him!"

He went on evenly, "then I should be forced to free myself of you. Never of him. Now, listen, the boy is GOLD."

"You did not say that before, Nick. You said that he was not the man that Felix is. You said that he had a poor outlook on life and a character that might be called unstable."

"Well, all that is true. And of all possible husbands—"

"But I should never dream—"

"Of all possible husbands for Miss Jocelyn Harlowe I can imag- ine none worse. A man with a grudge against life is not a happy partner for any woman. Better far a man who has given life a grudge against him."

"What does that mean?"

"A man who has put his foot on the neck of life and thrashed the hide off it!"

"You think that Felix Kent is such a man?"

"From what I know of him Felix Kent is such a man."

The "swell joint" was really rather pretentious though Jocelyn suspected it to be rarely frequented by people known to her mother or to Felix Kent. Through glass doors the supper room appeared, decorated quite charmingly to look like a formal garden with a narrow pool in the center where a fountain played.

Lynda was of course enchanted. To one of the retired tables Nick led her. Here were already Jock Ayleward with two of the men Lynda had met on her first visit; James Drury and Gustav Lowe, looking extraordinarily sleek and solid and greeting her with a good deal of startled gallantry.

Almost immediately two other men joined them, young fellows in well-cut evening clothes, very slightly the worse for liquor, with the grace and the tang of gentle folk and the flexible frank faces of youth at revelry. They seemed to Lynda predestined victims of the ancient game of Fox and Geese, two goalings ringed by the hard- eyed three. Lynda was the only woman at the table and these newcomers visibly rejoiced.

One on each side of her they sat and made love pleasantly. They were not so far gone in wine that they had lost their wit and gentle- ness. Lynda would have liked to warn them; but this seemed not only treacherous but an act of such peril that her heart fluttered at the thought. And Jock already hated her? He obviously wished her anywhere else. Why, she heard him mutter to Nick, had he brought the girl?

"She'll be all right. I'll look af- ter her."

"It's not her safety I'm thinking of. It's business."

Jock tauntingly rose and asked her to dance. His expression dared her to refuse him. They danced together smoothly and in silence.

"You've learned," said Jock pres- ently, speaking close to her ear, "you've learned to bear the touch of a jallbird. You can even let one hold you in his arms."

"I've come here. I must go through with it. I do not enjoy this dance."

"I think you do."

"Really?" She looked straight up into his eyes.

"Some of you enjoys it," he went on in spite of her icy look. "We dance well together. We both love music. If you could forget everything you think you know about me, if you weren't jealous of me—" she half stopped, "with Nick—" they went on, "and if you weren't a little bit afraid—"

"You're wrong. I'm not a bit afraid."

"Then why don't you tell Mr. Farleigh and Mr. Judson that they are the guests of some peculiarly adept gamblers and that before daylight they will certainly be sadder, wiser and poorer gentle- men?"

As he spoke this word which recalled to Lynda her first use of Kent's name in Jock's hearing, her very expert partner made a mis- step, glanced doubtfully down at her, recovered himself and almost with violence drove her, doubling

Brotherhood Of Laymen Of First Baptist Organized

A group of men of the First Baptist Church met Monday evening at 7:30 P. M. at the Church for the purpose of organizing a Brotherhood.

Before this new organization was started the Junior Brotherhood rendered a very helpful and inspiring program on the subject, "Reviewing Past Accomplishments and Meeting Present Needs of Our Church Work." Those taking part on this program were: Strauss Atkinson, J. G. West, Jr., Avery Sullivan, Buford Humphries, Howard Latimer.

The District Missionary, Rev. A. C. Huff, brought a brief message and led in the new Senior Brotherhood organization. The following officers were elected: W. S. Patrick, president; first vice president, G. C. Vaught; second vice president, W. E. Heathman; secretary and treasurer, Deway Hulse.

The time of meeting of this new organization will be first Monday in each month, 7:30 P. M.

G. A. Luman Looks After Farming Interests Here

G. A. Luman, son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Oscar B. Luman of Erick, Okla., and daughter, Mrs. E. H. Snow of Shamrock, Texas, left Littlefield Monday after spending the week end here.

Mr. Luman, Sr., owns a farm of 308 acres six miles west of town, which is being worked by Hugh Capes.

Mr. Luman said: "the crops were pretty good for a dry year such as this." He said he had made 17 bales off 71 acres; had 25 tons of kafir already headed, and 25 acres more to head.

Mr. Luman has been coming to Littlefield every fall to look after his farming interests. He is a man of 80 years old, but is active and looks 20 years younger.

Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Snow are planning on spending Christmas and the holidays at Porterville, Cal.

Preparedness For—What?

We do not know, nor does anyone else, how imminent the danger of a war involving the United States may be.

We hope that there is nothing of the kind in the offing. But it is apparent that the folk who are running things in Washington believe that this country should put itself in a position where it can protect itself if necessary.

Sometimes the best way to keep out of war is to be prepared to fight if threatened—and to let the other fellow know that we are stronger than he is. We get the impression that some such theory underlies the revived talk of a great program of national defense.

We do not understand that anyone fears an actual invasion of the United States, though Gen. Malin Craig, Chief of Staff, says we ought to have a lot more anti-aircraft guns and searchlights to guard against attack from the air.

The President has suggested that we need a much larger fighting air force than we have now. There is talk of asking Congress to appropriate money to increase our military planes from the present goal of about 2,300 to nine or ten thousand.

At the same time we are building the biggest navy America has ever had. Six new battleships, 40 new destroyers, 16 new submarines, four new cruisers and a lot of smaller vessels are already either under construction or authorized.

The question naturally arises: What do we need such a big navy for if we do not expect to be attacked? We certainly don't expect to attack anybody.

The answer is found in the recent utterances of the President on the subject of the solidarity of interest of all the nations of the American continent, north and south. It has been a fixed policy of the United States for more than 100 years that we will not stand for any European nation establishing colonies or otherwise getting a foothold anywhere in America.

Under the Monroe Doctrine it is up to the United States to resist any attempt by Germany, Italy or any other country to get control of any part of South or Central America.

There have been many signs indicating that one or another of the totalitarian nations is eager to get possession of Brazil. If this country has to fight, it seems more likely that it will be to protect Brazil and other South American nations from foreign penetration than to repel invaders in the north.

Apparently we are getting all set for defense, and that fact alone may be enough to prevent any nation from trying to put something over.

SCHOOL DAYS

PRAIRIE WEEDS

Gathered by OLE DRIFTER

For the past two months I have made life rather miserable for 21 local amateurs who were cast in the three plays that I presented on December 5th. Then, they came through with as smooth and fine a performance as I've ever seen during more than 40 years that I've fooled with the stage. Honestly, I am so proud of each and all of them that I have to put my hat on with a shoe horn. I think that, without exception, they will put the evening down as a truly joyous one. They did something, while than the which, there is nothing finer in all the world. Now, they are eager to go on to even bigger and better things. Watch our Little Theatre blossom into an organization that will win recognition throughout the United States. What is more, we will supply our own folks with fine entertainment. You may expect big things. I will not disappoint you.

Heard a good one the other day; here it is:—Man driving an automobile, was hit by a reckless driver coming behind him. The guilty driver went on at full speed without waiting to see whether there was any injury or damage. After a few minutes the man who was hit, came to—he looked out of the car window and saw three hitch-hikers. This is what he asked them: "Say, do any of you bums know who that gentleman was who hit me?"

I'm losing a lot of valuable time these days. Everytime I walk a block or so down Phelps Avenue, a dozen or more youngsters go out of their way to greet me and show me how particularly well behaved they can be. They are so nice and affectionate I can't imagine what's got into the dear younguns. You don't suppose it could be the season or the nearness of Santa Claus? Confidentally I'm getting a whole of a kick out of it. If this sort of thing happens to you, why just do like I do. I make believe that its 100 per cent love and goodness and, it usually is, really.

See where France and Germany kissed and made up. Of course, we have known for a long time that Latin people are inclined to be passionate and of a demonstrative nature, and they kiss fluently. You know its customary, in the second act of any great drama, to introduce some confusing piece of business so that the audience can't guess what's coming next, or how it's all going to turn out. Well, now that we have had the surprise love scene, bring on the quarrel, we're all tired of waiting for the last act, and want to get back to our regular work.

Speaking of the Franco-German love feast, did you notice where the French are building Dual-Purpose war planes with an expected

This Convict Is A Mother

Ed Davis, an outlaw who is awaiting trial at San Quentin prison, recently wrote a letter to the mother of a man who is serving a 25-year term in Oklahoma. In this letter, the condemned Davis, assumes full blame for the crime that tunate prisoner in Oklahoma was convicted Philpot, the innocent man, is 55 years old. When he was arrested, he pleaded not guilty and that he was working on a farm when the bank robbery was committed.

Davis is a typical outlaw with a long and record of crime. In trying to make his way out of prison he killed one of the guards; was convicted of murder, and is awaiting his execution in the death cell at San Quentin. There is not a single act or circumstances in his career of crime.

But there is an old, old mother, Mrs. Julia Davis, who, I am sure, will have a light in the window of her heart, for the man in California when he is released.

"Thirteen Steps." We know that Davis goes to his doom with a heavy heart, but perhaps, the mother of an innocent prisoner, for him, some credits in the Celestial Ledger, will be given. We sincerely hope so.

speed of 468 miles per hour? In the news report of the latter event, there is no explanation as to whether they intend to use this maximum speed getting to the scene of battle or getting away from it.

Virgil Jordan, president of the National Industrial Conference Board (whatever that is) told the National Association of Manufacturers, that this country was surely headed for the dimunition of Bowwows; that the New Deal was just the samey like Nazism and he used three or four thousand good long words to the same effect. In other words; he is "agin it." Personally, I have never been in a National Conference, and far be it from me to question Virgil, but after all, there is a limit even to my patience, when hearing these stiff-necked and-fork orators knock administration that we ever had. I'm getting so let's change the subject, you ever know anything from the state of Delaware?

lieved the cause of her death.
 Mrs. Martin had been making her home with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Rasberry, three miles east of Littlefield.

Funeral services were conducted at the First Baptist Church here Monday afternoon, December 5th, at three o'clock, Reverend Roy Shahan, Pastor, officiating, and interment in charge of Hammons Funeral Home, taking place in the Littlefield Cemetery.

Mrs. Martin was born May 11, 1866, at Liberty, Miss., and with her parents came to Texas when a child, settling at Rosebud, Texas.

As Miss Leila Alice Everett, she was married to J. M. Martin in April, 1897, to which union were born four children, two sons and two daughters, all of whom are living.

She was graduated from Baylor University in 1886. Converted when a child she joined the Missionary Baptist Church at Rosebud, Texas, where she held membership at her death.

Mrs. Martin's father was a surgeon in the Army during the Civil War.

Surviving deceased were: her husband; two daughters, Mrs. J. B.
 Rasberry and Mrs. G. F. Hodges,

Littlefield; two sons, R. M. and E. L. Martin, of Rosebud; and a sister, Mrs. W. T. Carter, Memphis, Tenn., and four brothers, E.
 L. Everett, Memphis, Tenn., Will
 and R. J. Everett Waco, and E. J.
 Everett, Tyler, Texas.

Mrs. Elizabeth
 Branham Passes Away December 5

Mrs. Elizabeth Branham, aged about 63, former Littlefield resident, but recently of Tahoka, passed away at at local hospital about 9 A. M. Friday, December 2, as a result of a stomach ailment, from which she had been ill about four weeks.

Mrs. Branham had been brought here two days previous to her death by her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Thompson, of seven miles southeast of Littlefield.

Funeral services were conducted at 10 A. M. Saturday, December 3, at the First Baptist Church,
 Littlefield, Reverend Roy Shahan, Pastor, officiating, and interment in charge of Hammons Funeral Home, took place in the Littlefield Cemetery.

Mrs. Branham was born December 7, 1875, in Tennessee, but moved to Oklahoma with her parents when young, settling in what was then Indian Territory. As Miss Sarah Elizabeth Ousley, she was united in marriage to Sam Branham in January, 1893, at Anadarko, Okla., and moved to Crawford, Okla., where her husband filed on land on the South Canadian River, where they spent the greater part of their married life.

To the above union were born five children, two sons and three daughters, one daughter dying in infancy.

Mrs. Branham was converted at the age of 52 years and united with the Missionary Baptist Church.
 She held membership with the Magnolia Baptist Church of Crawford, Okla., at the time of her death.

Mr. and Mrs. Branham moved to this section in 1926 and farmed near Littlefield during 1926 and 1927. Leaving here they returned to Crawford, Okla. Last winter they came to the Plains and visited with their daughter and son-in-law, and also lived west of town for a few months before going to Muleshoe, and then to Tahoka, where they had made their home since.

Mrs. Branham has been a good mother, a faithful wife and a devoted Christian.

Surviving the deceased were:
 her husband, Sam Branham, and two sons and two daughters, Mrs.
 Edgar Harper of Odessa, and Mrs.
 C. C. Thompson of Littlefield, and Dan of Odessa and Hoyle of Ta-hoka.

"Bobtail" Ceremonial To Be Largely Attended By Plains Shriners

"Khiva" Temple at Amarillo, will be the Mecca of Shriners from all the towns in the Plains next Friday night. The "Bobtail Ceremonial" and banquet will probably draw an exceptionally large attendance due to the Masonic Home-Westerners football game which will be played at Lubbock on Friday afternoon.

Quite a number of Shriners will attend from Littlefield. Mayor Pat Boone, E. O. McIvor, W. D. T. Storey, J. S. Hilliard, L. C. Hewitt and others, will likely be seen at Lubbock and Amarillo next Friday.

LAMB FARMERS VOTE IN FAVOR OF MARKETING

Report Shows 71 Per Cent Majority; Total Of 940 Ballots Cast

Lamb County Cotton Farmers favored marketing quotas by approximately 71 per cent majority, with 940 ballots cast for and 369 against the AAA program for 1939, in the election Saturday.

South Plains farmers who since the plow-up campaign back in 1933 have cooperated with the AAA and other government agricultural agencies on soil conservation and crop control, have profited to the extent of twenty-nine and a half million dollars, a report from state AAA headquarters, show.

A dozen of the 21 counties received more than a million dollars each, from 1933 to the close of the crop year of 1937. Lamb County received the most of any of these counties, with a total of $3,318,195. Three other counties received over two million and five over a million and a half dollars.

Figures were secured by V. L. Cade, a member of the State AAA committee.
