Kenneth Evins Will Hold Services In Absence Of Rev. Weldon Meers

Kenneth Evins will be preaching at the 11:00 o'clock service of the Littlefield Missionary Baptist Church, XIT Drive and 5th St., Sunday morning in the absence of Rev. Weldon B. Meers, who is recuperating from a recent operation.

Kenneth is the son of Rev. & Mrs. J. D. Evins, 411 East 13th street. Kenneth surrendered to the call of the ministry several months ago. He preached his first sermon to the congregation last Sunday evening. The Lord evidenced a special approval to this young man's call to the ministry when three people confessed Christ as Saviour at the end of his message.

Kenneth has completed one year in Texas Tech College and is making preparation this fall to attend Bob Jones University, Greenville, South Carolina in further preparation for the ministry.

Census Reveals Littlefield Less Than Estimated Average Per Residence Is Lower In 1950

Preliminary totals released by L. D. Whiteley, district supervisor of the bureau of the census in Lubbock, yesterday sets the Littlefield population at 6,580.

"It is usually the case that the preliminary figures are a little lower than official total released from Washington D. C.," Whiteley explained in an interview with a Leader reporter, "but the total will be boosted slightly when the names of residents who are away on vacations are added to the city count in the final tabulation."

Whiteley pointed out that the optimistic estimates of Littlefield's population being over 7,000 were not unusual.

"I have not seen a city or a county that has not over estimated its population," Whiteley said.

He explained that the most common error that resulted in the over estimation was the change in average number of persons to a residence.

In 1940 Littlefield had an average of four persons to a residence while the present enumeration reveals that the average is slightly over three persons to a residence.

When the estimated, 2200 residences are multiplied by three rather than four, it becomes clear why Littlefield's population is not as great as anticipated.

The preliminary total for Lamb county will not be ready for at least another week according to Whiteley as the figures for the district around Spade were not acceptable and required a new enumeration. Whiteley said that it would probably be the middle of next week (Continued on Back Page)

Local Post American Legion Elects Officers Monday Night

At the regular meeting of the local Unit of the American Legion Monday evening officers for the ensuing year were elected as follows:

To Circulate Petition

The group Monday night agreed to draw and circulate a petition asking all Veterans to sign their desires and try to get the commissioner's Court to grant a service officer for this County. Sid Lowery, VA Regional Service Officer, met with the Post at June 5th meeting, and established the fact that the local Post was very much in need of a service officer, and agreed to work with the local group in securing this officer.

All Posts Invited
Bob Kirk, who was elected Zone Commander for this Zone, which includes Lamb and Bailey Counties, asked that the local American Legion invite all the Posts of this Zone to Littlefield for their first meeting, which date will be set later in July.

The new officers will be installed at next meeting, Monday, July 3, by Bob Kirk as Zone Commander. All members of the Post and their families are invited to the meeting. Refreshments will be served.

High Wind Causes Damage On Farm

Total rainfall in Littlefield from precipitation that fell Sunday, Monday and Tuesday was estimated about an inch.

The high winds that accompanied the rain caused some damage in this area. J. L. Manuel, who lives one and a half miles west of Littlefield reported that the wind Tuesday night developed into a small twister and destroyed his barn and chicken coop. The chicken coop was smashed into splinters according to Manuel.

The winds did some damage to trees in Littlefield, breaking off branches in a few places.

Heaviest rainfall in this immediate vicinity was reported south of Anton where an inch and a half was recorded. About one half inch was reported at Amherst and Sudan is reported to have had a heavy rainfall during the three days.

Almost all of the Panhandle and South Plains was hit by rain, thunderstorms, and high wind.

The rains gave little relief to Littlefield from the high temperatures that have been here for the better part of a week. The season's high was recorded on Sunday when the temperature soared to 104.

The temperature for the past week have been:

BULL LAKE PHILOSOPHER ISN'T WORRIED OVER WHAT CENSUS WILL SHOW FOR HIS AREA'S POPULATION

Editor's note: The Philosopher on his Johnson grass farm on Bull Lake discusses the census this week, and we don't mind saying we're publishing his letter only in the interest of freedom of the press.

Dear editor:

I have been readin a lot lately about the census and how a lot of towns and cities is in for a big jetdown, due to the fact there is gonna be a big gap between what the Chambers of Commerce has been claimin and what the cold figures will show. For nine years it's all right to stretch things, but in the tenth year a man with foresight keeps quiet.

I understand there is more than one Chamber of Commerce which is plannin a night raid on population signs along the highway leadin into town, put up durin the days people was counted by drawin on the imagination instead of goin from door to door. Also, there is a good many cities plain sick over the fact they ain't gonna be near as crowded as they thought they was.

Now what I can't understand is what difference does it make what size a town is? Don't make no difference how big a town is, there's another one bigger, until you get up to New York City, which has won the race and the honor of gettin the first atomic bomb if Russia drops one.

Personally, I never was taken in by big numbers. You take this community out here. Can't say it would lessen my Johnson grass a single blade or improve my naps in the shade if our population doubled. I just don't understand big city people. They don't seem happy until they got a traffic jam. Then they ain't happy if some other city's got a bigger one.

As for me, there's plenty of people out here now, I like it as it is, and you won't find us havin to tear down any population signs after the new census figures come out as we never did get around to puttin up a sign after the census ten years ago.

Yours faithfully,
J. A.

Feathers

By FAITH HELEN FAUST

Feathers was a parrot that lived in a pet shop. He had a long red and green tail and his wings were yellow. There was one white and black feather that stuck up on the top of his head and made him look like an Indian.

Feathers had tried every way he could think of to be sold to some boy or girl. He had tried being noisy, but nobody wants a noisy parrot. He tried being quiet but the shop-owner thought he was sick.

Suddenly he had a wonderful idea! He would teach himself to talk.

"Wak-erk" was all he could say. But then a little boy came in. "Wak-erk! wak-erk! wak-erk! yell-ed Feathers.

He looked around and then said to his friend, "Gosh, I would like to have a parrot like that. Isn't he noisy?"

When he left and the pet shop was closed up, Feathers practiced saying, "Polly wants a cracker," and "Hi ya."

By morning he could say, "Hi ya" but not "Polly wants a cracker."

When someone came in he started yelling, "Hi ya!"

One lad said, "Remarkable!"

A man said, "Hum! That parrot isn't so bad."

Feathers practiced saying things until one day a boy and his mother came in.

"See mom," the boy said. "He says Hi ya" and Polly wants a cr-

Lutheran Group Alarmed About Religious Decline

Expressing alarm over the "spread of the secular spirit and the decline of religious influence among the American people," the Board of Parish Education of the Lutheran Church-Mission Synod, in its report to the national convention of the church body, states its concern for all children attending public schools because only "the children of godless parents are receiving at public expense the kind of education their parents want them to have." The Missouri Synod will consider the report at its meeting in Milwaukee, June 21 to 30.

The report advocates that "the Church be given an opportunity to bring religious instruction to its children in connection with the daily school program. It disavows any attempts to 'impose sectarian religious instruction' upon the public schools. It decries recent Supreme Court interpretations of the First Amendment to the Constitution outlawing release-time religious education on public school property.

The Lutheran agency urges "American Christians not to submit meekly to decisions that are favorable to atheists but unfavorable to the majority of American parents."

Emphasizing the democratic character of Lutheran elementary schools the report calls for "increased attention to Christian education by whatever means it may be offered." It suggests (1) support of an effective program of released time instruction paid for by the churches, and (2) the reestablishment of more full-time Christian schools, which it terms the most efficient method of religious education.

"In maintaining a system of schools," concluded the report, "we are helping to maintain Protestantism in America. Protestant influence gave us our great American institutions. Protestantism has carried forward the banner of civil and religious freedom. We should encourage all Protestant denominations to promote Christian Schools, in which the Gospel of Jesus is brought to children."

The Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod operates 1244 full-time elementary schools with an enrollment of approximately 95,000 children. At the present time Emmanuel Lutheran's Christian Day school is closed, after having operated successfully for many years. Eventually it is to be reopened.

Knights—

Congressman George Mahon said much the same thing.

Their son, Billy J. Knight, married a German girl, Ellnor, while he was serving in the Army of Occupation four years ago and a baby girl named Lorothea was born to them in September of 1948.

Billy returned to Littlefield on a furlough in the spring of 1949. His death by drowning occurred on a fishing trip to Buffalo Lake near Umbarger on May 23.

When Mr. and Mrs. Knight contacted Billy's wife in Munich, Germany they found that the baby was ill and their daughter-in-law was unable to support herself. She was unable to present a marriage certificate which meant years of waiting for the German immigration quota.

The Knights sent as much money and clothing to Germany as they possibly could and enlisted the aid of Senator Johnson who presented a bill to Congress which would allow the pair to enter the United States.

The bill received Senate approval on May 21 and passed the House Tuesday of this week. Its passage was aided by the efforts of Congressman George Mahon.

Presidential approval seems certain.

The Knights sent as much money as they could to bring their daughter-in-law and granddaughter to Littlefield and care for them after arrival.

Only a little while longer and the Knight will realize the efforts of over a year's work.

Hobgood No. 1 Dedelops Water In Drillstem Test At 6942 Feet

Humble Oil & Refining company No. 1 Hobgood, eight miles southeast of Littlefield possible discovery from the Cedar Fork line of the lower permian, developed water in that horizon, below the section which carries shows of oil and gas, and is now making more hole.

The water came in a drillstem test at 6,942-80 feet. The tool was open two hours. Recovery was 150 feet of muddy water and 1,150 feet of black, salty, sulphur water. That interval did not yield any shows of oil or gas.

No Oil Shows Found
A two-hour drillstem test was run at 6,891-6,940 feet. Recovery was 92 feet of gas cut drilling mud, with no shows of oil or of water.

The prospector is now making hole below 7,001 feet in lime.

It had shows of possible production in drillstem test between 6,570 feet and 6,870 feet. Location is six miles west of Anton and 660 feet from south and west lines of labor 10, league 693, State Capital Lands.

The wildcat is slated to dig to about 11,000 feet to try to find and test Ellenburger—unless it develops satisfactory commercial production before reaching that level.

Elm trees produce wood that is hard, heavy and tough and can be used for many things on the farm. Most elms can be grown from seed.

Hale County Votes To Form Underground Water District

Hale county irrigation farmer have voted to form an underground water conservation district. Mayor Charles Schuler, Jr., informed the High Plains Water Conservation and Users Association.

A county-wide meeting is set for July 10 in the city auditorium at Plainview to discuss the water district further, Schuler said.

Hale is the fifth county to express an interest in forming a water district under House Bill 162. Dallam, Hockley, Lamb and Swisher counties have taken preliminary steps in that direction.

Wolfe Shaw Speaks At Shamrock Church

Singing of funny songs and scared number in particular deepens the musical appreciation of the boys and girls. Hand work hour is looked forward to movie, some entertaining as Mickey Mouse cartoons, other educational with a great delight. An occasional as he use of colors, helps to add interest and information and pleasure to the Bible School.

Emmanuel Lutheran Church Opens Vacation Bible School Monday

Make Jesus the star-boarder in the hearts of boys and girls, Rev. H. A. Heckmann suggested to the children who were present at Emmanuel Lutheran's opening service in connection with the annual Vacation Bible School. It opened its doors this past Monday morning at 8:30 a. m.

The day's schedule last Monday was a bit disrupted due to the registration of the pupils; however, full time was still devoted to the Bible hour. The second day's schedule was carried out more faithfully, allowing sufficient time for all things planned.

Present for the first day was 31 children and a large staff of teachers and assistants. As the week progressed the number of children in attendance showed a steady and marked increase. The school enrolled all who so desired, with special attention given to those who have no religious home of their own.

The School will run thru June 30. Children may enroll at any time simply by presenting themselves at 417 West Third Street at 8:30 a. m. Morning sessions close at 11:30 a. m.

REST CURE

(A Short Story)
By RICHARD HILL WILKINSON

I SUPPOSE some people would call it a break—being assigned to the biggest case the Sharonport police department had had to cope with for years. But when the chief called me in that day I was mad enough to gnaw a chunk out of a blue-nosed automatic.

"Old Man Harvey's son, Jerry, has been snatched," he said. "You're the only man on the force who can contact the kidnapers. They trust you." He waved me to silence. "Oh, I know you were about to leave on your vacation. Forget it. The vacation can wait. Bring in those kidnapers and you get an extra month with pay."

"How much are the kidnapers asking for his return?"

"One hundred and fifty grand."

I whistled. It didn't seem to me that the kid was worth it. Then I tained a fisherman. He came up close and we exchanged pleasantries. After awhile this chap says, "Well, Officer Quirk, what's the racket?" And I says, "Suppose, Jimmie-the-Squeeze, you and I paddle into shore there and have a nice long talk? You know," I added, "that you can trust me."

"Sure," said Jimmie-the-Squeeze, his eyes glinting. "I can trust you, Officer Quirk."

And so Jimmie-the-Squeeze and I paddled into shore and had a nice long talk. At the end of an hour we rose and departed, shaking hands in the most friendly fashion.

I returned to the hotel and paid my room rent a month in advance. Every day I went out fishing and more times than not I'd run across Jimmie-the-Squeeze and we'd have a nice long talk together.

Eight weeks passed thusly. By this time other kidnapings and shootings and stuff had crowded the Harvey match off the front page. It seemed that editors and readers alike had given him up for dead. Then one day I received a long fat envelope through the mail and upon opening it discovered a bundle of something that made my eyes bulge. That afternoon I met Jimmie-the-Squeeze again and handed him the bundle of stuff, and that night a fine, big, healthy looking young fellow walked into my room and said his name was Jerry Harvey.

I couldn't even tell the chief the real facts of the case. The matter was pretty well hushed up. Only Old Man Harvey and I knew the truth. You see, the old man had used his common sense. I mean various things Jerry had said in his letters of appeal, the old boy got the idea that his kidnapers had him up in the air and he was where. And he figured that they were making just what he had help. Now, it seems that for years Harvey had been thinking of sending Jerry off in the woods to one of those rest cure camps, posturing so doing only because of reflected that Jerry was his old man's offspring and Mr. Harvey was dead and—well, with a set-up like that a parent can't be expected to act normal.

That afternoon I had a talk with Old Man Harvey. It was the first time I'd ever met the old boy and I was impressed. He's quite a guy—far from being the irritable, unreasonable grooch that he is reputed to be.

FIFTH AND XIT DRIVE
LITTLEFIELD

From where I sit... by Joe Marsh

Maybe This'll Wake Us Up!

Because a couple of thoughtless drivers threw a newspaper out of their car yesterday, Miss Gilbert, our school principal, nearly had a had accident.

She was following them on the highway and the paper flattened over her windshield, so she couldn't see. In a minute her little coupe was across the line—right in the path of an oncoming trailer-truck. It missed... but only just!

The parties were recognized and soon as I heard about it I ran over to Sheriff Harper—demanded they be brought up on charges. But Harper says: "Hold on, Joe. Let's talk this out, over supper and a glass of beer at Andy's."

He pointed out that those men aren't criminals. Just careless. Like a lot of us seem to be getting these days, judging from the trash you see along roadsides. From where I sit, this near accident may be the lesson we need to make us stop littering our roads—and start showing a little tolerant consideration for our neighbors!

Joe Marsh

San Angelo, wrote: "Due to the late cold weather in March after having a mild February which caused our bass to spawn early, I estimate we lost about 75 per cent of the baseeggs. Our brood bass were all in fine condition and were full when we put them into the hatching ponds.

We had several ponds that we had three different times. They were ruined in the sudden drop in temperature wind."

Henderson's estimate contrasts with the 400,000 from that basin.

Late 1950 Cotton At 700,000 Bales

reports, a mini-crop of 700,000 bales, or less than $100,000,000 worth, is expected for the South. The discovery that the crop planted in the state is estimated at 200,000 acres is a government estimate. The government is deeply into the cotton business. It was made by an observer since Clayton & Clayton firm, after community surveys above the territory.

Lower-than-expected yields may reduce the crop by 50,000 to 150,000 bales. Farmers shared the total harvest may be less if moisture is more favorable than during the past year.

It is estimated that the irrigated crop will not be harvested until later than the dryland crop. Earlier forecasts of the irrigated crop would exceed 698,000 bales. The irrigated land was planted last year.

It is shown that 1.5 million acres of irrigated land have been planted since April, 1949. The total irrigated land in the cotton belt is 13,885,000 acres. It is reported that a great deal of irrigated land is being planted in the cotton belt. The irrigated land is being planted in the cotton belt.

Production from unirrigated lands has ranged from an average of more than a half-bale per acre when moisture has been timely and abundant to crops sometimes not worth harvesting during drought years. The average yield during an "average" year has been about one-third of a bale per acre.

Except in scattered dryland areas, there appears little danger that the crop this year will be a total failure. Most lands have received a good deal of moisture.

As of now, according to the consensus of numerous observers, 250,000 bales seems a conservative estimate of the production which reasonably may be expected from

Thus, a conservative estimate of the minimum total ginnings above the Caprock appears to be 700,000 bales—450,000 from the irrigated land and 250,000 from the unirrigated.

A general two-inch rain within the next 10 days would make a million-bale crop a better-than-even bet.

Both figures are far short of the 1,744,000 bales ginned last year when approximately 3,100,000 acres were planted and more than 2,750,000 were harvested.

But even the minimum figure would mean a crop substantially larger than the 500,000-bale average above the Caprock during recent years.

A harvest of even 700,000 bales, based on present market prices and prospects, together with federal supports, would have a dollar value, including seed, of more than $100,000,000.

It would retain for the South Plains the distinction of raising area in the United States.

Insects are causing more uneasiness than usual, due to the exceedingly mild and dry winter.

Texas Farm Women Study Water Rights

Texas farmwomen in an 18-county area which depends on underground water for irrigation are learning about the water conservation law.

Members of home demonstration clubs in the Plains-Panhandle area are studying a bulletin issued recently by the Texas A. & M. Extension Service and titled "The Underground Water Conservation Law." Miss Kate Adele Hill, home demonstration agent in charge of District 2, estimated that the information would reach 2,000 women.

The law, passed by the 51st Texas Legislature in the spring of 1949, has two central points:

First, it recognizes the "ownership and rights of the owner of the land, his lessees and assigns, in underground water."

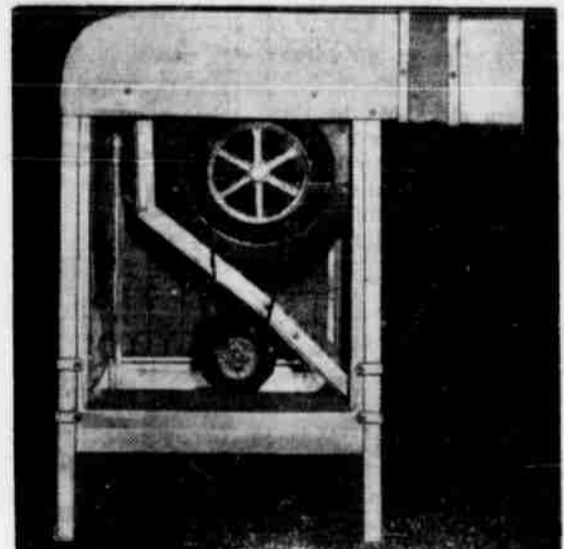

Second, the law lays the framework for organization of underground water conservation districts as local, independent units, assigning them the powers of conserving, preserving, protecting and recharging the underground water in reservoirs over which they have jurisdiction.

Three major powers are designed to insure a continuing abundance of water: The right to prevent waste, by court injunction if necessary; the power to regulate spacing of wells; and the power to put more water underground in recharging projects.

The law limits the districts' powers in that they cannot prorate or allocate water and they cannot deny a permit to drill a new irrigation well, so long as the applicant complies with spacing regulations.

Local Census—

Whiteley were to remain unchanged, Littlefield would show an increase of 2,703 over the 1940 population. A slight increase will undoubtedly be found when official figures are released from the capitol later this year but there is little chance that the figure will be boosted to the 7,000 total expected by many people.

Local Women's Softball Team Defeats Amherst For First Win

Members of the Littlefield Women's Softball team believed that Tuesday night's weather disturbances were partly due to their efforts to defeat the Amherst softball team.

The local ladies who are low in confidence of their own ability but high in spirit downed the Amherst team 21-19 on the home diamond.

It was the ladies' first victory previously losing a game to the Amherst team.

The ladies claim they "stirred up a lot of dust" in defeating the Amherst team and will try to duplicate the feat again tonight at 8:30 on the Amherst diamond.

About 14 women showed up for the game Tuesday night but they would like to see quite a few more interested in the game so that they can make up two teams in Littlefield. That would enable them to hold practice games.

Levelland also has a women's softball team but the local ladies believe they need more experience before playing them. As one lady put it, "We like to play Amherst

Added Team Requires New Legion Schedule

Although Junior Legion ball is already under way the certification of an Amherst team for the north half of district 2 has required a rescheduling of games.

Games already played by the other six teams will count toward districts standings but several extra games will have to be played this week in order to finish district play by the required time.

The remaining schedule is: June 21—Littlefield at Amherst; Plainview at Earth; Muleshoe at Floydada; June 23—Earth at Littlefield; Amherst at Muleshoe; Floydada at Olton.

June 26—Olton at Amherst; Muleshoe at Earth; Littlefield at Plainview; June 28—Amherst at Floydada; Plainview at Muleshoe; Earth at Olton; July 1—Floydada at Amherst.

Southwestern Associated Telephone Co. Installs 100,000th Telephone

With the installation of a new telephone in the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Winslow at Carlsbad, New Mexico, the Southwestern Associated Telephone Company and its subsidiary companies are now furnishing telephone service to more than 100,000 company owned telephone stations. It was announced today by Mr. Roy Autry, President of the telephone company.

At the close of World War II, Southwestern Associated Telephone Company served slightly less than 40,000 telephone stations. Since that time, the company has more than doubled in size by the installation of additional telephones and by the acquisition of more telephone property. The most recent acquisition was the Two States Telephone Company, which formerly had headquarters at Texarkana, and which will be consolidated with Southwestern Associated Telephone Company when details can be completed.

Mr. Autry pointed out that having reached 100,000 company owned telephones there would be no let up in the company's determination to install a continually increasing number of new telephones and to furnish present subscribers with the type of service which they desire.

Southwestern Associated Telephone Company is one of the operating companies of the General Telephone Corporation system, the largest of the non-Bell telephone companies. Southwestern Associated Telephone Company is presently furnishing telephone service in five of the Southwest states, Texas, Arkansas, Louisiana, Oklahoma and New Mexico.

Rainfall ending a long drought has restored vegetation in the Karoo area, which had become known as South Africa's "bald spot."

Littlefield Juniors Take First Loss From Amherst Team, 8-7

Amherst handed Littlefield Junior Legion players their first defeat in a close game Wednesday afternoon on the Amherst diamond.

The Littlefield nine went down 8-7 to give them a record of two wins and one loss.

Glen Bud Barnett, left fielder for Littlefield, and a strong man at the plate, suffered a broken finger on his right hand during a warm up session before the game. He was taken to the South Plains Co-op hospital to have it set. The injury may remove Barnett from Legion play for some time to come.

Bill Jones went the distance for Littlefield again allowing only four hits.

Winning pitcher was Glen Alken of Amherst.

Amherst who entered Legion play this week in the north half of district 2 gained its first victory by defeating Littlefield, having a previous loss to Plainview by 6-2.

CANADIAN CHAMPS... Betty Hamilton, Canada's tennis champ, and Joan Morgan, backstroke swimming champ, pause in New York as they return home from the Empire games in New Zealand. Their stay in the U.S. was brief.

Information For Veterans

Q—I made application for my National Service Life Insurance dividend, but haven't received my check. To what office should I direct by inquiry concerning this?

A—Some NSLI dividend applications have had to go through special checking procedures because payment could be made, and yours may be one of them. Do not write to VA concerning your NSLI dividend until June 30, 1956. If you have not received your check by that time, address your letter to Mr. E. G. Joseph, Director, Special Insurance Projects Service, Veterans Administration, Washington, D. C.

Q—I am a veteran of World War I and have been receiving pension for nonservice-connected total disability. Recently I became paralyzed, and now would like to know if VA will increase my pension to pay for an attendant?

A—The most you are entitled to under existing laws for non-service-connected total disability is $72 monthly after you have been on the pension roll 10 or more years, or reach age 65.

Q—I am a World War I veteran and have been receiving nonservice-connected total disability pension. I also expect to receive workmen's compensation from the State and the total of both is more than $2,500. Will VA continue to pay me a pension?

A—The pension from VA is not to be included in your total income for pension eligibility purposes. For pension purposes, your outside income cannot exceed $1,000 if you are single or $2,500 if you have a wife or minor child.

THE PUBLIC IGNORED

In the years—not so long past—when labor union struck for higher wages, or for other justifiable considerations, without using the inconvenience of the public as their weapon, the American people usually backed them. They even went as far as to permit the un-American Wagner act to be imposed upon them.

Labor leaders are human, and like all humans who acquire too much power, they abuse it. What has been the result of this practice? The American people repudiated the distorted act of the late Senator Wagner and the Taft-Hartley law was passed to take some of the power away from the union leaders and return it to the union members and the public at large. The squawk put forth by the propaganda machines of the leaders and their stooges in Washington "was heard around the world."

But it didn't fool the public, and it didn't fool those members of the unions who had taken the trouble to read the Taft-Hartley law. It probably didn't even fool Mr. Truman. But Mr. Truman likes votes and he seems to believe that the way to get them is to advocate the destruction of the law which labor is beginning to recognize as its Emancipation Proclamation.

One would think these labor leaders would at least learn that the public did not intend to be kleeled around by them forever. But they haven't got that kind of brain. They strike the railroad firemen on a flimsy pretext, and just when the public is allowed to use their railroads again, they stir up the switchmen. When that is settled, they will probably think up another plan to humiliate and to inconvenience the American people. Why don't they "space" these strikes out of consideration for the public's welfare?

Under the Taft-Hartley law, the members of unions can now vote out their officers without exposing themselves to manhandling by goons.
