GAINING RAPIDLY IN FAVOR WITH VOTERS; BIG INTEREST IN RACE

Chief interest in Saturday's election centers in the contest for state senator from the 30th senatorial district, and in the race for governor.

Reports from all the 24 counties of the 30th senatorial district indicate clearly that Arthur P. Duggan, candidate for senator, is gaining rapidly in favor with the voters over his opponent, G. E. Lockhart of Lubbock.

Don't Like Mud Slinging

The voters, in increasing number are expressing their disapproval of unwarranted attacks on Mr. Duggan which have been made in an avalanche of circulars which have poured over the district, all prepared and distributed in the interests of Mr. Lockhart, but which have proven to be chiefly pieces of mud-slinging paper. The office of state senator is too high a trust to have been pulled through the mire, is the opinion of very high percentage of the voters.

The attacks against Mr. Duggan are lacking in foundation, and are therefore unworthy of thought or consideration. Mr. Duggan's record is clean; he has no connection with any "special interests;" he is a West Texan who has labored zealously throughout the years for the western section of the state; he knows the needs of the farmers; he knows the needs of the business

Mr. Read announces that the public is invited to hear the Amarillo man speak in behalf of the Sterling candidacy.

Rays of Sunshine

A good indication of the fact that normal times are returning is contained in the fact that there is increased interest in the purchase of farm lands. R. T. Badger, of the Yellow House Land Co., reports that the number of inquiries from prospective purchasers of farm lands in the Littlefield section are increasing. The increase in inquiries should be productive of many sales in the not distant future, Mr. Badger believes.

"Business conditions appear to be the most hopeful for many months although, with few exceptions, none are reported normal," according to the crop report for July-August compiled by the department of publications of the Southland Life. "In the main, a spirit of optimism has taken the place of the pessimistic attitude prevalent earlier in the year.

Here's more evidence of the return to normal economic conditions: "From the Mason-Dixon line to the Gulf Coast came announcements of industrial resumption and expansion, new construction projects and a generally improved economic outlook for tobacco growers in South Carolina

And, just think, folks, we have been believing all along that the Leader was the Leader; it sure was a shock to us to learn that it was the "Bladder."

Well, at least we have the distinction of being different. There is not a newspaper as far as we know, and we have been in the newspaper business for more than 20 years, that is known as the "Bladder."

Important progress is being made in establishing the B. E. F. as a permanent organization to serve ex-service men, according to a letter which has just been received by Ed Riley, commander of Richard New Post, American Legion.

The letter, which gives a vast amount of information of interest to ex-service men and the general public, was written by Joseph L. Heffernan, editor of the B. E. F. News, official publication of the B. E. F., which is published in Washington.

One especially important piece of information is the fact that national headquarters of B. E. F. Rank and File of America, Inc., has been established in the Stewart Building, 402 Sixth street northwest, Washington.

City Commission Approves Budget Amounting To $47,370

At a meeting of the taxpayers of the City of Littlefield on August 2 the taxpayers voted to retain the present tax rate of $1.50, but urged that valuations be reduced. Acting on that suggestion all city property was re-assessed, and the City Commissioners at a meeting held August 12 passed a rate ordinance retaining the old rate of $1.50 per $100.00 valuation, and prepared and adopted a budget in accordance with real estate valuations for taxation purposes as suggested by the citizens.

The tax assessments for 1932, as approved by the City Commissioners, total approximately $1,173,000.00, as against 1931 valuations of $1,890,196, showing a reduction in the valu-

THE IMPORTANCE OF VOTING INTELLIGENTLY

Next Saturday, Texas voters will go to the polls for the purpose of making their choice in the run-off primary. It is considered likely that an even larger vote will be counted in the run-off than the record-breaking tabulation made following the first primary held last month.

This publication has taken no part in political discussions, and has favored no candidates. However, it interests itself in the coming election sufficiently to urge every qualified voter to cast his ballot, and to cast it intelligently. Any voter who carefully considers the qualifications and capabilities of his candidate is expressing an intelligent interest in government, and nothing more can be asked.

Intelligent voting is essential to clean, capable, honest government. Those who fail to vote can voice no complaint should the government fall into undesirable hands. It is hoped that, with this in mind, a record-breaking number of voters will go to the polls next Saturday and express an intelligent preference.—The Conservationist.

Official reports show that farm wages have declined 29 per cent last year. Farm products have been much higher during the past few weeks, with livestock leading the advance, says an official statement at Washington.

Pioneers

Developing a territory, building a city requires the "hand in hand" efforts of those interested. During the years the Texas Utilities Company plunged whole-heartedly into every move that was designed to further develop Littlefield and trade territory. Along with others who pioneered here, this company has had a part in developing Littlefield from a very small place to the thriving little city that now compels the attention of the Plains country—even the entire West. In truth Littlefield has become, through the combined efforts of those who have had its development at heart, "the Pulse of the Plains."

was very low. "If I found him, Gil—" "Yes, John—" the words were expectant. The boy paused intense. "I'd kill him!" John Breen rose abruptly, his fists clenched, his face flaming.

Then the two men stepped off, at a brisk pace, down the hill toward Greenbough Farm. Van Horn walked a pace or so behind John; tears were in his eyes, he could not speak. The boy started to dogtrot ahead of him, but he did not follow as was their custom at the end of a hike.

"Hey, Jack." Pug pounded at John's door a few days later. "Charlie's brought up a letter from Van Horn. A special on it, for you." Pug burst into John's room.

"Well?" Pug was expectant, as full of curiosity as Eve. "Read it, Pug."

"What tha—say, John, I don't know. What's it about?"

"Here, let me read it. 'Dear John. It's about a talk we had the day before he left. 'Dear John, I have been thinking about what you said. I won a lot on you in those scraps, and have been trying to figure a way in which I could use the money. If you will enter Columbia, this fall, I'll see you through engineering. You can pass the entrance, perhaps with a few conditions. I'm placing a credit in Pug's name for five thousand, to pay the way. Don't hesitate to take this. You really earned every cent of it. Merely a little speculation of mine.

"I'm sailing on the St. Louis tomorrow. Will be at sea when you get the letter. Going abroad for a few months with my niece Josephine."

Put sat on the cot, looked around the room, the rickety book shelves, the familiar figure of his assistant. "Great God, John, I knew them damn books would take you, some day."

"Never, Pug, never." Tears stood in the boy's eyes. He rose, put his arm over the bent shoulders of the trainer; the gray head was down. Pug looked at the rag carpet, his own eyes moist. John bent down and kissed the gray hairs of Malone. That tough citizen rose suddenly to make a swipe at him as he ran out and down the corridor to the showers.

For several weeks following his admission to the schools of engineering, after his bout with the entrance examiners, John Breen moved in a strange, imponderable world.

Then came the great day of the flag rush between the freshmen and sophomores and Breen's great strength and superb physique, made him the hero of the school. John caught a glimpse of Gilbert Van Horn waving to him. He stood beside the golden statue. "Boys, let me down." John kicked free and ran across to Van Horn. A great many people stood about. John suddenly realized he was not on the gym floor at Greenbough, that his attire was not only scanty, but scandalous; he was practically in rags. One shoe had disappeared in the battle, he had not noticed it until his feet touched the stone steps.

"Josephine, this is John Breen. John, my ward, Josephine."

John stood speechless. He held the hand extended to him. Blue eyes, laughing eyes, smiled at his predicament. Miss Lambert was completely aware of the striking situation as she felt the tense grip of the hero of a college moment. The freshmen rushed up to John an dhoisted him clear of his embarrassment. He turned and waved at Josephine and Van Horn. They waved at him in return. The crowd was scattering as Gilbert Van Horn and his ward walked down the broad steps to the curb. Josephine looked at her white glove, soiled by the fingers of John Breen. They were silent on the ride home; Gilbert Van Horn looked out of the window of the car. Josephine still felt the tingling grip of the young man in rags. His smile, his tousled yellow hair and white teeth, and his con-fusion, and his superb arms and body, seemed to flit across her memory, a vivid picture. He was not at all like the John Breen she had expected to see.

That night Gilbert Van Horn sat in the library until long after midnight. Josephine had played for him that evening, she too was in a reflective mood, a romantic girl, a young woman of eighteen. He smoked and dreamed and planned. Gilbert Van Horn was determined upon a course of action in which every atom of cleverness he possessed would be required. At last he had achieved an absorbing occupation.

Gilbert Van Horn, wiser than most men in some matters, left John very much to himself, except at holiday periods when the two friends met at Greenbough. As for his ward, he arranged things so she saw but little of John Breen. The boy was in training, so Van Horn argued, and to break training was nothing short of bad sportsmanship. Long trips, visits to Newport, the social activities of a select few in the great city—these occupied Josephine, and at times she pleased herself by a long look at the full length photograph of Fighting Breen, in ring togs, taken just before his battle with the Quaker. This stood on the dresser in Van Horn's room. But the John Breen of the cold eyes, looking straight ahead, his pompadour as still as a shoe brush, was of the past.

"Breen, you're looking stale." Harboard of the graduate schools dropped into the room of the student. It was close to midnight and John bent over his work table, his tired eyes scanning a maze of formulae in theoretical mechanics. "What are you digging at?"

"Usual stuff." John took off his eye shade, evidently with relief. He had plunged into the work of the schools with determined energy. Feeling himself grow stale, he pushed onward with the utmost vigor, actually working himself to destruction.

"I'd like to tell you something." Harboard drew a battered briar from his pocket and tamped down a half-smoked charge of tobacco. He lit this and puffed contentedly. "Four years—" Harboard rolled the words over his tongue—"leading to—"

"The degree of civil engineer," John sensed a question and supplied an answer.

"Leading to a complete ossification of the mind," Harboard continued, ignoring John's words. "I've watched you for some time, Breen, especially this last year. I'm studying, or am trying to study the art of teaching. I came here from a small southern college, you and ninety-nine per cent of those here would not know the place if I mentioned it: one horse all the way through, and poor. Poor, my boy, in money." He smoked thoughtfully for a few minutes. "What's back of all this junk," he nodded at the few books, sweeping his pipe over the litter, "what are you going to do?"

For a while the two friends sat in silence. John had tossed his eye shade aside and searched for a pipe. He had no particular answer for the question. He was going to get through, he was getting through to, well, to do something, but just what he did not exactly know.

"Well, Breen, if the things you are doing are a fair example of the work of our schools of technology, our highest schools of industrial training, driving you at constant overload, I don't wonder at some of the things we see about us. You don't mind me saying this, do you?"

"No," John thought a moment. He had an intense admiration for a great many of his teachers, earnest hard-working men, just, and often woefully underpaid. "You said something about the things we see. What, for instance?"

"Well, if you wish, failure is what we see—the costliest failure in the world. We see prime youth dumped into a machine and sweated and ground and pounded until every original impulse and idea is packed down under a concentrated layer of stupidity. I've made a study of education and have practiced it on others with some results, but what I see here is a farce. The brain is intended for use, not for the stowage of freight. The structure of the mind needs development through action, in thought and reason. Why, dammit, man, they seem to be stuffing you with the accumulated facts of the ages, regardless of how, or why, they were discovered." Harboard paused, filled and relit his pipe while John sat in silence.

"The worst of the whole thing is the awful hopelessness after you are through here. You are sweated, you are driven and you survive. But what do you survive for? Well, in the course of time your strained technical brain has to do with the work of men.

"X MARKS THE SPOT" IS RATED HIGH AS PICTURE OF NEWSPAPER ADVENTURE

A thrilling newspaper drama, Tiffany Productions' "X Marks The Spot," will be shown at the Palace theatre Friday and Saturday. This picture ranks as an excellent piece of picture craftsmanship in every detail. As entertainment it holds the audience from the opening until its close. The story has a speed and pace which sweep the observer with it. There are drama, thrills, comedy, mystery and action—every essential of absorbing screen entertainment.

Headed by Lew Cody, the cast is a notable and capable one. In the foremost role is Wallace Ford, star juvenile borrowed from Metro-Goldwyn for the role of "Ted Lloyd," a newspaper columnist. Although a newcomer with but two pictures to his credit, Ford delivers a performance that stamps him as a real screen find.

The story revolves about Ford in the character of Ted Lloyd, accused of killing a notorious show girl. Under tremendous obligations to a gangster, Ted later discovers that his benefactor is guilty of a sensational murder. He refuses to disclose his discovery, but later unwittingly leads the police to the hiding place of the killer. The murderer thinks Lloyd has betrayed him and vows revenge.

State Sets Out Requirements of the Election Law

The Lamb County Leader is in receipt of the following letter from the Secretary of State, Austin:

"In an effort to forestall the repetition of the disgraceful wholesale violation of the ballot in the coming primary, we are asking the Press to cooperate in giving publicity to the requirements of the Election Law for the selection of supervisors of the election. We enclose a memorandum of these requirements, and we will appreciate it if you will bear down on this point from now until the election on August 27, so that proper persons representing the opposing sides can be selected for this important post of inspecting the polls."

The following is the memorandum from the Secretary of State:

The Election Law (Article 2942) authorizes "any one-fifth of the candidates whose names appear on the official ballot," on or before the day preceding the election, to agree in writing signed by them upon two supervisors of election. The two persons so selected are required to take the oath as election officers, along with the presiding judge of elections before the opening of the polls. They must be qualified voters of the county and election precinct in which they serve and subject to none of the following disqualifications:

1. Must not be a holder of an office of profit or trust under the United States or this State, or in any city or town in Texas (except a notary public), nor have held such an office within the last thirty days;
2. Must not be a candidate for office.
3. Must have paid poll tax.

While the election is being held they are required to remain in view of the ballot boxes until the count is concluded. When any voter permanently disabled from marking his own ballot is assisted by the presiding judge of election, they are required to be present to see that the ballot is marked in accordance with the wishes of the voter, but such supervisor must remain silent except in cases of irregularity or violation of the law while so in attendance. It is also made their duty to see that each ballot is correctly called, and if they note any fraud or irregularity whatever in the conduct of the election, they are required to report it to the next grand jury.

derful man; he tells us all things about ourselves that we didn't know a gosh ding thing about. He calls Mr. Duggan "Sir Arthur." And A. P., living in a democratic country, hadn't the least idea that he had been knighted by the King of England. That's about the only way we know that A. P. could become "Sir Arthur."

But let's get back to this "Bladder" business; that sure interests us. Section 14 of a recent Lockhart volume of anti-Duggan prop-er-gander, reads as follows:

"14. The Lamb County 'Bladder,' a supposed to be newspaper, published at Littlefield, temporarily, at least for the purpose of advancing Sir Arthur's campaign for the Senate, took up practically a page and one-half last week telling its readers that I am slinging mud at Sir Arthur and trying to convince its readers that Sir Arthur would make a great Senator and as proof of this it refers its readers to the record breaking vote that Sir Arthur got at the first primary election. Well, Brother, if you will check the returns from Lamb County, you will discover that Sir Arthur only carried the County by 255 votes. But the most amusing thing about the Lamb County 'Bladder' was that in the same issue on the second page was given the result of a city election that was held in Littlefield some time ago and Sir Arthur was a candidate for Mayor of the City of Littlefield and in this contest Sir Arthur received four (4) votes. Some candidate! —wasn't he? But the Bladder had a good line of advertisements from the 'special interests' that are supporting Sir Arthur, among others being Texas Utilities Company, West Texas Gas Company and all the railroads in Texas. By the way, the public, and especially the readers of your paper, would like to know how Sir Arthur came out that time he ran for County Judge of Lamb County. In your next issue please let us know how many votes he got. Did he make as good a race for County Judge as he did for Mayor?"

We have learned through the anti-Duggan prop-er-gander volume that the Lamb County Leader is "a supposed to be newspaper, published at Littlefield, temporarily, at least for the purpose of advancing Sir Arthur's campaign for the Senate."

And, just think, folks, we have been publishing "a supposed to be newspaper." What sort of a publication is that? Light, Brother, light!

We have heard about a man named Moses crying out in the wilderness. Well, beside us, Moses was on a week end picnic.

The Lockhart oration says that Mr. Duggan carried Lamb county in the first primary by 255 votes. In reply to that statement, we refer the voters to the official returns. Here they are:

ARTHUR P. DUGGAN.....2,026
G. E. LOCKHART.....517
James H. Goodman.....167
Jens C. Levens.....759
Clyde E. Thomas.....274

The anti-Duggan prop-er-gander also points out that a number of years ago Mr. Duggan obtained four votes for mayor of Littlefield. Mr. Duggan was not a candidate; four friends wrote his name into the ballot on that particular occasion. Was there anything wrong about that?

And about that county judge business. Mr. Duggan was a candidate for county judge. And, moreover, he didn't receive sufficient votes to elect him. THAT COULD HAPPEN TO ANYBODY.

Yes, Mr. Lockhart, we do carry advertising inserted by the Texas Utilities Co., the West Texas Gas Co., and the railroads. We have carried advertising for a great many folks.

MR. LOCKHART, WE ARE EVEN CARRYING YOUR POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENT. THAT'S ADVERTISING. AND SURELY THERE CAN BE NOTHING WRONG ABOUT THAT AS YOU DO NOT REPRESENT "SPECIAL INTERESTS."

The honorable gentleman from Lubbock tells the folks, in substance, that everybody is out of step but him. Well, Thank God, there is one perfect man on earth—THE HONORABLE G. E. LOCKHART, OF LUBBOCK, TEXAS, CANDIDATE FOR STATE SENATOR FROM THE 30TH SENATORIAL DISTRICT.

Because there are so many rumors circulated by my opponent's friends, concerning the books of Precinct No. 3, I wish to make this statement:

The Lamb County Commissioners Have Had Their Books Audited.

The auditors appeared before the Grand Jury at this term of court and stated that the books are correct; they also complimented the county on the manner in which the books were kept.

However, the Commissioners Might Have Made a Mistake in the Selection of the Auditors. The men who are scattering the rumors might be more eligible for auditing the books than the present Bonded Auditors, who have done the work.

"FREE: A DOLLAR BILL"

By BRUCE B. BREWER, Vice Pres., Ferry-Hanly Advertising Co.

This is an old story to newspaper men, but it bears retelling now. It is about a merchant who did not believe in advertising, because he thought no one read advertising. So the editor of his weekly newspaper suggested a test.

"You write an ad with a lot of copy in it," was the newspaper man's challenge, "and somewhere buried in the copy, offer to give a dollar bill to everyone who reads the ad and brings it in. If you'll do that, I'll run your ad free just to prove that people read advertising."

In spite of the warnings of the newspaper editor, the merchant accepted the challenge. The ad contained so many words that it had to be set in type even smaller than that in the regular news columns. But buried away down in the ad was this offer, "To everyone who brings this ad, we will give a one dollar bill." That was all that was said about the dollar.

The paper hadn't been distributed an hour before the store was jammed with people waving copies of the ad. The experiment cost the merchant almost $1,000, but it proved to him, as nothing else ever had, that subscribers to his local weekly read it from cover to cover.

If you don't believe people read advertising in the best read advertising publication in the world, the small city weekly, just try this experiment. But first make certain that your bank account will stand the strain. Or, even better, suggest that the bank cashier make his headquarters in your store for the day, for there will probably be more money changing hands there than in the bank.

Funeral Services Held for R. E. Hood Thursday Afternoon

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the Littlefield cemetery for Richard Elza Hood, aged 75, of 4 1-2 miles northwest of town, who died Tuesday night about 9:27, following a short illness. Services were conducted by a Christian Church pastor.

Deceased had been ailing for a few days, and had been attended by a local physician, but his illness was not considered dangerous, and he died quite suddenly. Heart trouble was given as the cause.

He had been making his home with his daughter, Mrs. J. H. McClanahan, and Mr. McClanahan, who have been living in this community for the past nine years, coming here from Coleman County. His wife had died 32 years ago in Hood County, and since that time he had lived with his children. He had been living in the McClanahan household a year and nine months previous to his death.

UNEQUAL REGULATION IN TRANSPORTATION CAUSES DISORDER AND CONFUSION

The instability, confusion and disorder which unrestrained truck transportation has brought about is responsible in large measure for much of the distress in which all business finds itself today. Texas has moved to find a remedy and all concerned in the welfare of this state and its institutions should cooperate in the effort to restore stability and order to our transportation systems.

The Texas Railroads, in these advertisements, have endeavored to place before the people of this state some of the reasons why the existing laws, regulating motor transportation, should be upheld and enforced.

1. The railroads are necessary for the successful marketing of the enormous production of this state, which is used and consumed in every other state in the union.

Uniform, published, non-discriminatory transportation service rates are essential to the orderly conduct and welfare of business.

Unregulated truck transportation inevitably results in discriminatory charges and practices, rebating, unfair and unbusinesslike competitive methods, bringing about losses and commercial insecurity.

The wholesaler, jobber, retailer and local merchant suffer from the unfair competition of truckers and peddlers who, for the most part, are non-residents, pay no taxes and contribute nothing to the community welfare.

The farmer and agricultural producer must have at his command facilities adequate to transport crops and produce which move long distances in large volume, at low cost, by rail.

2. The railroads build and maintain their own roadways, pay heavy taxes for the support of state and municipal governments and institutions, and expend millions of dollars for payrolls, materials and supplies. Railroad workers are substantial citizens, home owners, and valued members of their communities.

3. Rail transportation is the most efficient and economical in existence for the movement of traffic in volume by land.

4. Texas highways belong to the people and are built and maintained at heavy cost. Their use for commercial purposes is a privilege, not a right. They should be kept safe for general use and not prematurely destroyed by heavy trucks.

5. The stability, security and orderly conduct of business require reasonable control and regulation of all transportation agencies.

LITTLEFIELD SCHOOLS OPEN MONDAY AUG. 22, WITH TOTAL ENROLLMENT OF 1176; SLIGHT INCREASE OVER 1931

Registration of the Littlefield high school students took place Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, August 17, 18 and 19.

A faculty meeting was held Saturday morning at 9 o'clock for the purpose of discussing the organization of the school Monday morning, and the procedure for the first day of school.

The total enrollment Monday morning, when school opened for the fall term, was:

High School students 309; Grammar School pupils 446, and Primary Department 421, making a total of 1176, as against an enrollment of 1129 (including 403 in the Primary Department; 425 in Grammar School and 301 in the High School) on September 7, 1931.

B. M. Harrison, Principal, announces that according to the census last March there still remains 575 white children in this district who are not in school. However, it is his opinion that others will be added to the roll from time to time.

The members of the Faculty of the Littlefield Schools for the 1932-33 term are:

Grammar School—W. E. Heatly, Principal; Mrs. R. E. Riley, Sidney Hopping, Miss Gladys Jones, Mrs. T. R. Collins, Miss Dahlia Hemphill, Miss Mittie Sullivan, Miss Gladys Wales, Mrs. B. D. Garland, Miss Mary Belle Montgomery, Mrs. J. M. Tunnell.

Primary Department—Mrs. W. G. Street, Miss Ruth Matthews, Mrs. B. L. Cogdill, Miss Gladys Porter, Miss Eddythe Walker, Miss Margaret Teal, Mrs. Ray Jones, Mrs. R. A. Davis, Mrs. Janie Power, Miss Emma Ruth Jones, Mrs. B. M. Harrison and Mrs. Harry Wiseman.

men; he was selected as a candidate for state senator by popular choice and not by any group or groups, and he will go to the senate and serve his district faithfully and honorably.

There are instances without number which offer a wealth of evidence that Mr. Duggan has worked unselfishly throughout the years in the interests of the people of West Texas.

One of the most recent examples of his service is the fact that mainly through his efforts a reduction in freight rates on cotton was obtained, resulting in saving over $400,000 to the farmers of this district.

County Contests

In precinct and county politics there are several contests.

These include run-off contests between A. H. McGavock and Simon D. Hay for county judge; between J. E. (Bert) Dryden and Herbert C. Martin for county attorney; between J. W. Hopping and Stanley A. Doss for county clerk; between C. E. Strawn and O. D. Brown for commissioner of precinct No. 3, and between W. W. (Whit) Matthews and W. H. Bell for public weigher of precinct No. 4.

Gun Battle—

Sheriff Bob Miller, Lamb county officers, were in the thick of the gun battle in which Bolin was killed and others wounded.

Pebworth was indicted by the Lamb county grand jury for alleged participation in the Olton bank robbery, and it was in an effort to arrest Pebworth that the gun battle developed.

Pebworth and Stanley Headrick, who is alleged to have participated in the gun battle, are in the Portales jail. Headrick is charged with resisting officers.

Henry Reed, arrested last Wednesday by Lamb and Hale county officers, is charged with participation in the Olton bank robbery, and was indicted by the grand jury. He is in jail at Olton.

Others are being sought by officers for alleged participation in the Olton bank robbery.

Wednesday of last week Hale and Lamb county officers arrested Reed and Pete Val, both of O'Donnell, at a ranch 14 miles northeast of Olton. At the same time they recovered about $150 in merchandise alleged to have been stolen from a filling station at Tahoka on the night of Saturday, August 13. Those participating in the arrests were Deputy Sheriffs Bob Miller and Charles Edwards, of Lamb county, and Chief Deputy Sheriff Kelly Hooper of Plainview, and Officer Bolin. In making the arrests, officers also recovered three pistols and a rifle. Val was indicted by the Lamb county grand jury for alleged robbery.

Sheriff Crim, Deputy Sheriff Miller and Officer Bolin went to Portales Friday night. At Portales they were joined by Deputy Sheriff Jack Howard and Deputy Sheriff Hollis. The party of officers went to the Pebworth ranch and lay in waiting until daylight.

After sunrise the officers observed four men and two women leave the house and go to a cow pen. The six were ordered to give themselves up, but after the women had left the cow pen, the officers, who had partially surrounded the pen, were fired upon. Previous to the shooting Headrick attempted to get away, but was stopped by Officer Bolin. However, he broke loose from the officer when the shooting started.

In the first round of firing Bolin was shot over the right eye and killed, and Hollis was shot through the right groin and through the face.

The cornered men were fighting with rifles and pistols, while the officers used rifles.

Acting to save Hollis' life, Sheriff Crim and Deputy Sheriff Miller pulled the man out of danger behind a corn stack. The corn stack was shot to pieces by the besieged men.

Pebworth and Headrick got away in Pebworth's car. Deputy Sheriffs Miller and Howard went to Portales for a doctor and to spread the alarm of the escape of Pebworth and others. Sheriff Crim obtained a car and started for Portales with the body of Bolin and the wounded officer. The car was met several miles out of Portales by an ambulance and doctors.

Deputy Sheriffs Miller and Howard, immediately on reaching Portales, had sent out the ambulance and doctors, and organized a posse to search for the escaped men.

Sheriff Crim and Deputy Sheriff Miller joined the posse and were in the territory when Pebworth and Headrick were arrested near Tatum by Sheriff Bob Beverly and Deputy Sheriff Clarence Shannon, of Lea county, New Mexico. Pebworth was taken to a Clovis hospital and Headrick placed in jail at Portales.

Just think—you can get for a limited time only, six magazines together with the Lamb County Leader—all for one year—for the small sum of $1.75.

That Now Famous Four Votes For Mayor

Those who are opposing the election of Arthur P. Duggan as senator from the 30th senatorial district are making capital of the fact that eight years ago Mr. Duggan was given four votes for mayor of Littlefield.

Mr. Duggan was not a candidate for the office and his name was not on the ballot. But four residents of the then small town wrote Mr. Duggan's name into the ballot. That could happen in any election.

The matter was considered of no significance at that time, and had not been thought of since.

But sometimes previous happenings of no significance are seized upon in a political campaign and much capital made of them. That is what happened two weeks ago when the Lamb County Leader in its "Eight Years Ago in Littlefield" column published the result of the vote in Littlefield's first municipal election. And, naturally, the figures included the fact that Mr. Duggan received four votes for mayor.

THAT'S ALL THERE IS TO THIS BLA-BLA ABOUT MR. DUGGAN HAVING RECEIVED "ONLY FOUR VOTES" FOR MAYOR OF LITTLEFIELD.

Improvements Being Made at Gin Here

Extensive improvements are being made at the Lowrimore & Irvin gin. A new concrete block engine room is nearing completion, and a 165 horsepower Fairbanks Morse oil engine will replace the 120 horsepower Fairbanks Morse oil engine, which has been in use at the gin. Joe Wells is building the new engine room.

DISTRESS AFTER MEALS Relieved By Black-Draught

"I had sour stomach and gas," writes Mr. Jess Higgins, of Dawsonville, Ga., "and often I would have bilious spells. I read about Theodor's Black-Draught and began to take it. It relieved me of this trouble. I keep it all the time now. I consider it a fine medicine. I take a pinch of Black-Draught after meals when I need it. It helps to prevent sick headache and to keep the system in good order." Get a package at the store. Try it! Now you can get Black-Draught in the form of a SYRUP, for CHILDREN.

W. H. BADGER WILL RETURN TO CITY FOR THE WINTER

LAND CO. MANAGER
SEES GREAT FUTURE
FOR THIS AREA

W. H. Badger, manager of the Yellow House Land Co., who has been recuperating in Austin, following a severe illness, will return to Littlefield October 1, and will spend the winter here.

Mr. Badger, in a letter to his brother, R. T. Badger, points out some of the advantages of the Littlefield section over other parts of the country, and says that the people of this section are fortunate in living in such a favored part of the country. As time goes on this fact will become more and more in evidence, Mr. Badger says.

Mr. Badger's letter reads in part: "The Lamb County Leader, Chamber of Commerce, business men and citizens of Littlefield deserve much credit for the way they have stood up against the conditions which have existed. You cannot keep a town down with this kind of spirit. It can be slowed up, of course, but only to come back stronger than ever when conditions will permit."
