CANNERY IS NOW COUNTY PROJECT; TO OPEN SOON

Will Be Operated On A Percentage Basis By Experienced Man

The entire canning equipment used in the operation of the PWA canning project here was turned over to the County Monday, and will be reopened and in operation in the near future.

The County Commission's plan is to lease the cannery to a competent man, who will operate it on a percentage basis, 60 per cent to go to the producer; 30 per cent to the operator who does all the work and furnishes the cans, and 10 per cent to go to the County to be used for charity.

The application of Middleton J. Watts to take over the operation of the cannery was considered at the County Commission meeting Monday at Olton, and it was decided to accept his application provided he could fill the necessary requirements.

Mr. Middleton comes well recommended, having been employed for the past two years as manager and operator of the Home Packing Company, Fort Worth, for Texas Relief, and for four years previously to that was with Armour & Company and Wilson & Company.

Valley Gin Destroyed By Fire Wednesday Noon

The Valleyview Gin, 15 miles southwest of Littlefield, owned and operated by R. E. McCaskill, was completely destroyed by fire Wednesday about 1 p. m.

The cause of the blaze which is believed to have started in the boiler room is unknown. "The gin was not in operation at the time, but cotton was being hauled from the gin to town," Mr. McCaskill said.

The fire was first discovered by a farmer driving past the gin, who notified Earl Hopping, who had worked all night Tuesday hauling cotton seed, and was sleeping in a room adjoining the Valleyview store at the time. Mr. McCaskill was in Littlefield, and Mrs. McCaskill was at home when the fire occurred.

The Littlefield fire brigade was called out to the scene of the fire, but the building was too far gone to save when they arrived.

The Valley View gin represented an investment of about $22,000, and was only partially covered by insurance.

G. M. Shaw returned Friday from a ten day business and pleasure trip to South Texas. While gone he visited Houston, Beaumont and Orange, Texas. He spent some time with his mother, Mrs. Julia Shaw, of St. Petersburg, Fla., who was visiting in Orange.

PLANT MORE TREES

"Plant A Tree!"

Does the foregoing appeal to you as a slogan for a campaign of beautification throughout Lamb county?

Inauguration of such a movement in Lamb county would bring about the planting of thousands of trees in one season.

Such a campaign should not be restricted to one city or community; it should be county-wide in every respect; it should be a five-year program, and should be fostered and encouraged by every civic, farm, and social organization in the county.

There should be a county-wide meeting called and plans made to carry out an intensive campaign.

Every city property owner, every farm owner, should be encouraged to plant several trees this year, and in the next few years.

This is a young country, with the vast majority of the citizenship acquiring and paying for city or farm homes. Hand in hand with the buying and paying for a home should go a program of beautification. And there is not anything more beautiful, with exception of flowers, than trees, properly located and cared for. In addition to their beauty, trees serve many purposes, including protection from wind.

This is Centennial year, and thousands of people will visit our state.

We believe that the visitors would find in young, growing trees ample testimony that Lamb county is a very progressive subdivision of the great state of Texas.

We urge all civic, farm, and social organizations to consider the suggestion that a tree planting campaign be inaugurated, and take steps to bring about such an activity in the interests of beauty and progress.

"Riffraff" Opening At Palace Theatre Saturday Midnight

The sea, man's last unconquered frontier, is once more the background for the vital beauty of Jean Harlow.

With Spencer Tracy as her leading man, she appears in Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's "Riffraff," opening at the Palace Theatre Saturday midnight and continuing through Sunday and Monday.

It is a story of the primitive emotions of men and women who go down to the sea in ships, wrestling an existence from the constant struggle with the deep.

Like "China Seas," in which she starred with Clark Gable and Wallace Beery, "Riffraff" gives Miss Harlow a tremendous opportunity to display her dramatic ability. This story is by Frances Marion and was directed by J. Walter Ruben.

Guiding Principles Of Curriculum In Texas

By Supt. A. B. Sanders

This week finds us considering the second guiding principle used in the thinking of the curriculum revision commission of Texas. This principle is also kept in the minds of teachers who are cooperating with the program of the State Department of education in the curriculum revision movement.

The Principle states "The curriculum shall provide educative experiences for effective participation in social life and which will serve to perpetuate and improve the ideals and practices of our democratic society." By this it is meant that the curriculum shall attempt to develop the individual in harmony with his social environment.

The experiences that will be prepared for him in school are calculated to make a participating member of the community in which the pupil lives. The curriculum is the ideal gateway to the refined life of the participating American citizen. By participating in the activities of the school room the individual will form the habit of participating in the activities of the group with whom he is associated. In this manner he will develop the traits of character that will enable him to make a valuable, contributing, cooperative citizen of the state, community and nation.

In the new order we find that a new leisure has been created. The school is taking its turn at providing the necessary leisure activities that may be transferred to adult life for future use.

Last and probably the most important phase of this principle is that the new school will attempt to teach the pupil the freedom of thought that will enable him to contribute to the needs of society. The child will be taught how to think but not what to think.

Mrs. R. W. Mitchell Elected Club Sponsor For 1936

"If you sleep under light weight, warm cover you will feel more rested in the morning," Miss Bernice Westbrook, County Home Demonstration agent, told the Hart Camp 4-H Club at the Hart Camp School building, January 7.

Light weight warm cover allows better circulation which makes rosier cheeks and better dispositions. Feather comforts makes the best because it holds more still air than other materials. Wool is next best. Cotton comforts are fair.

The club elected Mrs. R. W. Mitchell club sponsor for 1936.

The president appointed Jimmie Burke reporter, and the following committee members were appointed:

Answer: It is a lamp that was created by the Illuminating Engineering Society (a non-profit organization) for the sole purpose of giving you the abundant, glareless light that your eyes need when you read the evening newspaper.

It gives you a more useful light than a light bulb by itself.

It gives a comfortable, well-diffused light.

It provides a general illumination throughout the rest of the room.

It gives you light where you need it.

It gives you beauty that will blend admirably into any room.

It will NOT correct faulty eyesight but WILL prevent defective vision.

Former Resident Hates To Miss Even One Copy Of Leader

Among the Leader's large family of readers is W. A. Clark, who until recently lived near Littlefield, getting his mail on Route 2 and has been a steady subscriber of the Leader for the past seven years.

Recently he moved to Coleman, Texas, and through some oversight, his address was not changed. The Leader felt complimented at reading the following card from Mr. Clark: "Before leaving Littlefield I changed the address of my county paper, to Coleman, Texas, but I have failed to get last week's paper of January 2nd, I haven't received a copy yet, and I sure hate to miss even one copy of the Lamb County Leader. We enjoy it so much.

Hoping you will give this your attention; and send me last week's issue.

Yours sincerely, W. A. Clark."

The Leader wishes to thank Mr. Clark for his kind words regarding this newspaper, and will certainly see that he misses no more copies.

Hauptmann's Plea For Clemency Is Denied Saturday

The State court of pardons decided Saturday that Bruno Richard Hauptmann must die for the Lindbergh baby murder.

After an all day session the court issued a short announcement that Hauptmann's application for clemency was denied.

This decision ended all but the most forlorn hopes for the Bronx carpenter escaping the electric chair Friday night. His only hope lies with Governor Harold G. Hoffman and the courts.

Better Class Of Cattle Being Raised

The Government purchase of cattle during the drouth enabled the ranchmen and farmers of Texas to cull their herds which has resulted in a better class of beef cattle, according to George W. Barnes, Extension animal husbandman.

Barnes in outlining a few things to be done in 1936 for further improvement of Texas beef cattle, also said, "County agricultural agents are taking advantage of the Government culling job and are encouraging the use of better registered sires."

The Extension animal husbandman went on to outline a few tips on raising good beef animals. He said, "The better the quality of the calf the longer it can profitably be fed. A six months' beef will be required to fatten well bred 400 pound steer calves. If calves are as light as 350 pounds when started on feed, seven months will be required. Heifer calves of the same weight and quality will finish 30 to 50 days earlier than steer calves.

"More rapid gains may be secured on steer calves the second 90 to 100 days of feeding than the first. In the fattening period a calf should at least double his weight. A gain of two pounds per day may be considered satisfactory. The amount of feed necessary to fatten a calf will depend upon the condition, quality and weight of the calf and the ability of the feeder. Under ordinary farm conditions, it will take 1,500 pounds of shelled grain, or one ton of grain sorghum heads or ear corn, 300 pounds of cottonseed meal and from three-fourths to one ton of roughage per head.

SIX PER CENT GAIN IN OLTON POSTOFFICE RECEIPTS FOR 1935

Postmaster Wiles of Olton reports a gain of more than six per cent in postal receipts during 1935 over those of 1934.

At the half period, or the end of the first six months of 1935, receipts were still trailing those of the previous year, but the last six months showed sufficient growth to overcome this and climb to a gain of nearly 7 per cent.

SEVENTY-SIX MILLION ACRES IN PASTURE

A recent acreage shows that 76,000,000 acres in Texas are devoted to pastures. R. R. Lancaster, Extension pasture specialist, says that these figures are an indication of the importance of pastures to Texas farms and ranches.

Lancaster pointed out that pastures in the State may be improved by controlling or removing the weeds, stumps, trees, erosion, marshes, stones, dead grass, rodents, insects, stomach worms, poisonous plants, loss of manure.

METHODIST CHURCH

J. W. Hendrix, Pastor

Christmas and New Years are over and we are well into the first month of 1936. We have that thru last year and know its weakness; that is, what we did during the last year which added very little to the sum total of human good—added very little to our own good. It wouldn't be a bad time to begin over. As we go about we find people who have certainly resolved to do differently—better, and they either relate these resolves or of some such resolve of their friend. Yes, something goes on in the spiritual life of most people! Why not put these resolves into action?

Next Sabbath morning offers you the opportunity to begin over. Meet us at the house of worship. The Church school opens to you at 9:45 p. m.

Then public worship at 11 a. m. and 7:30 p. m.

The subject of the morning sermon, "How to Produce Pagans." Must one live across the sea, in foreign lands, must they be of foreign blood? Are there any pagans in our U. S. A.? Do we have any in our way of growth? Do pagans dress differently? Do any wear tailored clothing? Let's look into this Sunday morning.

Evening worship will offer you an excellent opportunity to associate with a large group of interesting people. The large choir of young people will sing, and the pastor will speak.

Texas Farmers Are Advised To Take Out Group Insurance

College Station Texas, January 13.—In planning the agricultural program for 1936, Texas farmers can and should take out "a $250,000 group insurance policy," H. H. Williamson, director of the Texas Extension Service, said today.

This, he explained, means simply the adoption of a "Live at home" program on every Texas farm. Such a program of "insured or protected" farming, outlined and stressed at all of the Extension workers conference in December when plans for the new year were being considered, is in the light of present conditions, especially important he added.

"In this immediate period of uncertainty and confusion engendered by the abrupt halting of the agricultural adjustment program, the economic importance of a live at home program on the farm is emphasized more than ever," Williamson said.

"Such a program is not only economically sound but it is controversy. Immediate decision of the part of farmers to adopt such a program would represent a definite and a sound step in planning for the new year, irrespective of whatever may happen insofar as government crop control is concerned.

Over 2500 Yards Material Received By Sewing Room

Seventeen are now employed at the community sewing room, fourteen under the WPA project, and three girls under the National Youth Association.

The WPA projects calls for employment of 40, and it is expected that additional helpers will be assigned at an early date.

The National Youth project started last week, and under this project Misses Loreen Gibson, Bessie Williams and Faye McGuire are employed.

Twenty-four sewing machines are in use, and the schedule for the week is:

Monday, overalls; Tuesday, shirts; Wednesday, dresses; Thursday, underwear and Friday infant wear.

To date, according to Miss Lula Hubbard, in charge, 2504 yards of material have been received, from which 814 yards have been used. This yardage has made 297 garments, or an average of 2.7 yards per garment.

Miss Hubbard further stated that 127 garments had already been transferred to the Relief Department, from where they are distributed to the needy.

Quilt patches are cut from the scraps of the material left over from cutting the garments, and those too small for quilt patches are chipped up and used to make baby pillows. In this way every possible bit of the material is utilized.

On this project $722.50 has been received in payroll checks.

An appropriation of $14,623.45 has been allotted to this project by the WPA.

FIRST INSTALLMENT

A whistle sounded across the harbour, the signal for the Marenia to slip from her moorings. Its booming note spread tumult through the midnight stillness and startled a flock of sea gulls into flight. Two snub-nosed tugs prodded the ship's sides and eased her slowly into mid-stream, where he paused for a throbbing second, a dark monster riddled with rings of gold.

Along her decks, passengers leaned at the rails. The band played and the music drifted faintly back to those who stood at the end of the pier, waving good-bye to their friends who were starting out on a cruise around the world.

Keith Macduff turned away from the rail and climbed to the boat deck, where he could breathe the lead night air without distraction. The Woolworth Tower, old and friendly, went shimmering past, as the Marenia cleared the tip of Manhattan Island.

Macduff breathed deeply and his chest swelled under his ulster. There was no one in New York that he would miss; that was one of the great advantages of going through life without ties. He had boasted to Hamish Inghis that he would sail around the world and never speak to a soul.

Hamish had laughed him to scorn, telling him that there was nothing more difficult to down than the overtures to one's fellow travellers on a cruise. As a solace, he had made him a list of the best cocktails of every port.

A light breeze was ruffling the water's surface and Macduff looked back at the sparkling towers that were now no more than a trail of phosphorescence. New York was the place for work, he reflected, thinking of all the pleasant things that a man could do when he lived by himself.

He would miss his peaceful existence in New York, and his pleasant evenings with detective stories under the battered lamp that Susannah wanted removed in favour of something she called a bridge stand. His thoughts ran back over his years in New York. Each one was locked in a dark chamber in his mind, and it was only at rare intervals, when something unusual was happening to him, that he switched on the lights; then things sprang to life like pictures on a screen.

Macduff looked back towards New York. It was only a phantom of light on the water's edge now, but he knew that its tiers of stone and panes of glass aspired to the drifting clouds. For a brief flash he could see through it all, as if the walls had collapsed before his eyes—bright rooms inhabited by people chattering about nothing; men and women quarrelling, making love, reading and dancing; bands playing; radios spreading din; children making a noise. Such a race for huddling! They did not know what it was to spend an evening alone, or to seek quiet with a book. Must have comfluttering fingers over a straw suitcase lying open on her narrow bed. Her black eyes gleamed from a nest of anxious folds, for she was near-sighted and had decided to avoid her glasses as much as possible. Somewhere she had read that glasses were a hindrance to romance, and nothing must interfere with the full enjoyment of her trip around the world.

In a spasm of anxiety her hand moved to her waist. She took off her belt, undid her skirt, and fumbled for the small chamois bag that Hortense, the seamstress of Ohonto, Wisconsin, had made for her, along with her travel wardrobe.

At last she had dug her way man who skippered the ship was an artist at heart. They thought he was made of ice—hard to chip, slow to melt, but a capital seaman.

The Marenia creaked a slow refrain from bow to stern. His heart rose suddenly to the tune of the sea. Here, at least, was something that fitted his mood—master of his boat, sailing the seven seas!

The Marenia was three days out and her passengers were settling down to the routine of life at sea. The unwary were rushing heedlessly into friendships which they were soon to regret.

Clare had scarcely left the top deck since sailing. She sunned herself till her skin had the warmth of a pomegranate. The flame of the dying day flickered in her half-veiled eyes as Dick studied her attentively.

"It's an odd thing about sunsets," he was saying, "one can never remember them. They're marvellous for fifteen minutes, and you think that all your life you will hold their beauty, but try to summon up the picture the next day! It's gone."

He was staring at the sky, and she thought with impatience that he was lost to her—a missionary like Hugh, the most tiresome kind of man. They were always floating off in their mental airships when one most wanted their companionship.

"How often have you been around the world?" she pursued.

Dick looked at her, suddenly and his thoughts receded like fading pictures, in the presence of this dazzling creature with skin like honey. "This is my seventh cruise with the Marenia, and before that I knocked about the world a bit on other boats."

She measured him with her eyes. "What a wise young man you must be—knowing all about love!"

"What rot! I scarcely believe in love."

Clare laughed.

Dick looked down at her. "Women are constantly building up the fiction of enduring love," he said, "but it really doesn't endure, unless one's life is so deadly dull that there's no chance for romance. Usually women destroy their own images by holding on for too long. They should always be first in knowing when things are over. However, it's an instinct in which they are totally lacking."

"You haven't told me half enough," she observed. "Tell me more about women. Tell me you think of American women."

Dick threw back his head and laughed. "I wonder if you would be offended if I tell you them a little overbearing—tent on their looks, their careers, their ambitions. I haven't words to describe they treat their men, with their self-respect, leading to the noses, making them wait hours for the merest whim."

"You're rather extreme, you?" said Clare, laudably. "Dick's tirade, and you're so polite. Take my word for it, men are beloved by the prettiest and most clever and chic, more independent, or having more time."

"That's it," said Dick. "They're self-sufficient, well-ed and frozen over with a He was watching her with a of amusement. Clare's mood to annoyance."

pany, must make whoopee. Bah! He turned away. He saw a fur coat and a huge bunch of orchids curled against the rail.

Clare Langford, lost in thought, watched his receding back for a moment, then turned her attention to the sea. Dick Charlton, the chief officer, came stalking along the deck and leaned against the railing, several yards away. His cap was tilted over a profile as sharp as the blade of a knife.

"Are we near Quarantine?" she asked, aware of his presence.

"Just about there." He moved responsively in her direction.

Clare turned her face towards him. It was pale and oval in the half-light, marked only by the full curve of her lips.

"I'm so glad to be leaving New York!" Her admission was as swift as the blaze of her eyes. Then she remembered herself and was quenched. She turned to the rail again and forgot that there was anyone else on the top deck. Dick moved quietly on his way. A shiver ran through her frame. She was glad to be leaving New York, and to be going around the world. It was an excellent thing to be getting away from Hugh. Four months were too many to have devoted to him.

She looked back at the trail of light that marked New York and could see him returning alone to his apartment. How had she ever come to throw in her lot with him? It was so unlikely—a dusty scientist who had turned to writing and worldly living, after a lifetime in his laboratory. Her friends were continually telling her that his mind was gay and enterprising; they had discovered that from his books.

"Poor Hugh!" she thought, as she leaned over the rail. "He looked so mournful as the boat moved out. What will he do with himself now?" But Hugh was less at a loss than she imagined. Soon after meeting Clare, one of his oldest friends had warned him that she was the wrong woman for him, and that he must not neglect his work for her.

Clare was suddenly weary. Yes, she was glad to be getting away. There was no excitement for her in the ethereal beauty. "I think I shall turn in," she thought, looking around to see if anyone were in sight. "I wonder if I couldn't have my deck chair up here. It would be quiet, and more romantic under the stars."

The passengers were disappearing for the night, until only a sprinkling remained on deck. The Marenia was heading for the sea, and her four jewelled strings of light were showing blanks above the water line, as one porthole after another went dark.

In a minimum rate cabin on D deck Miss Alice Mudge bent with through tapes and buttons and had reached the chamois bag. Twittering, she turned it upside down on the bed, having first made sure that the cabin door was locked. Before her lay five hundred dollars in crackling bills which Mr. Brown, the banker, had given her with a flourish, remarking that it was not every day that Ohonto had a citizen leaving for a trip around the world.

Her ticket, which had cost two thousand was safe in her handbag, ready to be turned over to the purser tomorrow. It had taken her twenty years of saving and scrimping to accumulate twenty-five hundred dollars, though now it seemed like a day. By being very careful, Miss Mudge would see the world sumptuously on her surplus of $500.

The boat was beginning to heave and Miss Mudge wondered if she should take her Soaxyl now, or wait until she felt ill. No, the directions said to take it before feeling ill. Had she been wise to have her hair bobbed before sailing, or was it frivolous and out of keeping with her years and occupation? It was too late to worry about it now. Besides, she rather liked it, and, whatever happened, she was going to be utterly frivolous for the next five months. No one could stop her.

Her cabin was comfortable enough although her bunk seemed perched at a great height. She lay on her back and at last she turned out her lights and murmured a little prayer. She was so thankful to Providence for letting her go around the world at last. With the words, slipping over her lips, she fell asleep, lulled by the pounding of the engines.

The Marenia began to creak and roll in answer to the sea. Sandy Hook was left behind and the pilot had taken off. Captain Mark Barling, standing on the bridge and straining his eyes into the darkness that lay ahead, was the least cheerful person on board. He saw five hard months ahead of him, care and responsibility, strange harbours and the monotony that drove crew and passengers to erratic behaviour.

A panorama of faces swept before him—middle-aged women starved for romance, travellers who had been everywhere and who made him a target for their ill-assorted knowledge, women who talked too much, women who laughed too much, and, above all, women who drank too much.

He lived in a world of his own and escaped when he could from the ship's festivities, but the cocktail parties, the teas and dinners, were a necessary part of ship routine that he could not avoid.

Only his intimates knew that he played a muted violin in his own quarters, and that there were times when he wrote verse. One of the crew suspected that the quiet, hard

A. BRIAN BEFORE MEMBERS

A. Brian spoke before the P. T. A. Wednesday on "Some Fundamental Principles of a Democratic Government." The speaker referred to the observance of fundamental principles of democracy under the present day pressure. He said, was once mysterious and undefined. Autocratic Sovereigns government and enforced their despotic will. Today of a democratic government institution operated by elected individuals to carry out the will of people. Wilson's eight reasons for government were given as follows: to keep order and for the safety of persons and property and to prevent robbery. To fix the legal relations between husband and wife, and between parent and child, and to regulate the holding transmission and interchange of property, and the determination of its liabilities for debt and for crime.

- To fix contract rights between individuals.
- To define crime and provide for the punishment of crime.
- To determine the political duties, privileges and relations of citizens.
- To provide for administration of justice in civil cases.
- To regulate the dealing of the state with foreign powers, to preserve the state from external danger, and to advance its international interests.

We are finding today that these fundamental principles are hard to adjust because of strong minority groups, super-imposition of utter selfishness, and colossal magnitude of laws resulting in such tremendous waste of time in legislation and court action, the speaker declared.

Some fundamental principles that need our immediate attention are a revived conscience upon the marriage relationships and a strenuous and continuous educational campaign upon the scientific use of the ballot.

Other parts on the program were numbers given by Band Master, Taylor's band and a playlet by pupils from Mrs. Mallory Etter's room.

IN SYMPATHY

The entire student body and faculty wish to extend sympathy to Mr. A. B. Sanders, Mrs. Sanders and J. D., in their recent sorrow in the loss of the former's father.

EXAMINATION TIME SOON TO BE HERE

Mid-term examinations will soon be here with plenty of hard systematic thinking to be done, except, for those who are fortunate enough and smart enough to be exempted. These will be the best students who make ninety or above on this semester's work. Being such students, they surely deserve this privilege. Those who are doubtful should with foresight "hustle up" and make the grade. "Make the grade" because it is fairly steep and mid-term exams are more so.

My! But its lots of fun to go home, loaf around, or play while the other fellow is doing such hard mental work just because he failed to make the grade and top the hill of exemption.

Bro. G. A. Dunn spoke to the Littlefield High School students Thursday afternoon, January 9 in assembly.

Nervous, Weak Woman Soon All Right

"I had regular shaking spells from nervousness," writes Mrs. Cora Sanders, of Paragould, Ark. "I was all run-down and cramped at my time until I would have to go to bed. After my first bottle of Cardui, I was better. I kept taking Cardui and soon I was all right. The shaking quit and I did not cramp. I felt worlds better. I gave Cardui to my daughter who was in about the same condition and she was soon all right." Thousands of women testify Cardui benefited them. If it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

sembly on "The Successful Life."

There are varied reasons why students attend school but the intelligent boys and girls are in school because they want to learn. The one word "faith" is back of all achievement. Faith is divided into three major units. (1) Faith in God. (2) Faith in one's fellowman, and (3) Faith in self. Some results of faith are great inventions, as the airplane, locomotive, steamship, and ocean liner. Faith has built everything that has ever been and where there is no faith, and no dreams there is no accomplishment. Many great men and women that have accomplished things worth while were once boys and girls of humble circumstances, the speaker declared.

Rev. Dunn also stated that we should be thankful of what we in America have compared to the conditions of the other countries. Our poorest times are usually better than the best conditions the people in foreign countries enjoy.

PUBLIC SPEAKING CLUB

The Public Speaking club met Tuesday, January 8, and had a very interesting program. They also played some games, which taxed the thinking powers of each one present.

Our club regrets to announce the absence of our sponsor, Miss Cooper, who is recovering from an appendix operation. We are hoping Miss Cooper will be with us at our next meeting, January 18.

OUR COURSE IN HOW TO KEEP WARM

- Chop your own wood—it will warm you twice.
- Let your furnace go out, the wife will make it hot for you.
- Try to raise $10,000—this is guaranteed to make you sweat.
- If you don't like our course you know where you can go.

Bob McKnight won't make any New Year's resolutions because he hasn't used up the ones he made last year.

F. F. A. CHAPTER HAVE INTERESTING PROGRAM JANUARY 7

The F. F. A. Chapter had a very interesting program January 7, which consisted of jokes by Bobbie Pierce. Two songs by Mitchell Sis-son, who played his own accompaniment on the harp.

William and Wilson Frong joined our chapter as new members. They each gave us some idea on how they conducted their program at Bartlett, Texas, and they said that our program compared favorably with their's there.

The F. F. A. club boys are planning to help the 4-H club girls put on a play in the near future.

At the end of the period Mr. Leach and the boys discussed a recent A. A. A. program legislation.

COMMERCIAL CLUB HAS SOCIAL

A short program consisting of an interesting talk, "Monuments to Business" was given by Cora Cunningham at the last meeting of the Commercial Club. Also a reading "Arithmetic" by Iva Dell Barton.

A social took up the rest of the period. Refreshments of candy and pop were served to the entire club.

A debate resolved; "That Accuracy is more important in first stages of Typing than Speed," is to be given next time. Ola Neel and Cora Cunningham have the negative and Lola Neel and Ersey Cawthorn the Affirmative.

PROGRESS IS BEING MADE ON WPA PROJECTS

Adult Education Project Is Being Planned Here

At the Chamber of Commerce luncheon meeting Tuesday, presided over by Pat Boone, president, several matters of interest were discussed.

Supt. A. B. Sanders reported on the WPA educational project, stating that the plan was to put on an "adult educational" plan, asking that any unemployed teacher who was interested in working up such a program, to get in touch with him, and that he would give them every cooperation. All teachers would have to come from the relief rolls, with the exception of the supervisor who would not. In the event such a Project could be worked up, the School would be conducted at the CCC Camp.

A committee, consisting of Supt. A. B. Sanders, Rev. J. W. Hendrix and E. A. Bills, was appointed to go into the educational project.

Rev. J. W. Hendrix spoke on cooperation and the necessity of cooperation in building a city.

Mr. Boone reported on the road projects, stating the work order was received for the improvement of the road from Amherst to the gin north of town; and that work orders had been asked for various other roads; that the government employment official had been here and was returning Tuesday afternoon, and that a number of men were being assigned to this road work.

Mr. Hal reported on the Centennial tree planting program.

Supt. Sanders reported on the progress attained on the school stadium. He stated the water system had been completed, curb laid, holes dug for the fence, and that the workers were waiting for the fence material and for the bleachers.

Mr. Hale reported on the Centennial Cannery here was now owned by the County as the equipment had been turned over to the County by the Federal Administrator from Lubbock. He stated it was the plan to reopen the project, and lease the building to a competent man to operate it on a percentage basis, giving the producer 60 per cent; 30 per cent to the operator, and 10 per cent to the County for charity.

Mr. Hale reported that at the County Commission's meeting Monday that the application of Middleton J. Watts for the position of operator of the cannery had been considered.

COUNTY; After much thought and consideration of the many solicitations from friends and voters I have decided to make the race for sheriff of Lamb county.

I do not believe in making a long list of promises, conditions sometimes prevent the carrying out of well made plans.

All my life I have tried to use due diligence and consideration in making all decisions.

I need the support and cooperation of all law abiding citizens now, and if I am elected to this office will continue to need the same.

I am under no obligation to any person or group of persons and have not been since taking this office in June of last year.

I intend to make a clean race whether I have one opponent or a dozen. If you know of anything in my favor, will appreciate your telling others. If you have anything against me will appreciate your coming to me with it.

Your vote and support will be greatly appreciated.

Thanks,
F. A. LOYD.

the experience, and have the interests of the taxpayers uppermost in my mind, as I announce to become a candidate. I do not claim to be the only man qualified for the office, I do claim to be, however, equally qualified with anyone who has or may announce for the office. Dozens of good substantial citizens have already assured me of their support.

"Most of you who read this announcement, already know me personally. To those whom I have never met, I just wish to say in introducing myself, that I will do my best to properly fill the office if elected, and believe that my qualifications entitle me to ask not only for your vote, but your support.

"I have been a resident of Lamb county for 12 years.

"During all that time I have lived in Precinct No. 4.

"During five of those years I have worked with and for commissioners court, giving me ample opportunity to become familiar with the duties of the office and the needs of the county.

"Both before and after the election, I will be appreciative of your help and suggestions.

"Respectfully,
"W. H. (Hiram) Bell."

Key—

two years, 1932 and 1933 when I lived on a farm, 12 miles west of Littlefield, January, 1934, I moved back to Littlefield and bought the Littlefield Furniture Company that I now operate.

"Feeling that I am not a stranger to most of the people in the county and more especially to those who live in Precinct 4, I believe that I am in a position to know their needs and to cooperate with them in every way possible. My business has caused me to be all over the county and the adjoining counties and I have a fair knowledge of the entire county.

"My promise to you as your commissioner, if elected, is to fill the place to the very best of my ability; be fair to everyone alike, keeping in mind at all times the interest of Precinct 4 and Lamb county, as a whole and to make every dollar spent bring its full value.

"As to the roads, the building and maintenance of them, there is always some little thing around every farm that the commissioner or the men running the graders cannot detect. It would be a great help if the farmer would point this out, particularly the high water dangers.

"I am going into this race on my own merits and not my opponents' demerits; not being solicited by any click or clan of any kind and promising the voters, if they will elect me, to stay clear of any such thing, I will endeavor at all times during my administration to transact my duties in a way that when I am finished it can be said, 'Well done. You have kept your promise to us.'

"My desire is to serve you in the capacity of your commissioner and when you go to the poles to vote, I will appreciate it if you will leave my name on the ticket.

Sincerely,
L. E. Key."

We Think—

some publication — perhaps it was Confessions True, or Bang Whiz, or Western Yarns For Gullable Easterners.

Well, here it is—
"A citizen of Dallas, Texas, who evidently lives near a railroad track, recently wrote an open letter to the officers of the road through the columns of the Times Herald. He didn't sign his name to the letter and will therefore be forgotten, but the letter itself will become a part of the picturesque literature of the land, to wit:

"It is absolutely necessary, in the discharge of his duty day and night, that the engineer of your yard engine make it ding and dong and fizz and spit and slang and bang and buzz and hiss and bellow and wail and pant and rant and yell and howl and grate and grind and puff and bump and clink and clank and chug and moan and hoot and toot and crash and grunt and gasp and groan and whistle and wheeze and squawk and blow and jar and jerk and rasp and jingle and twang and clack and rumble and jangle and ring and clatter and yelp and croak and howl and hum and snarl and puff and growl and thump and boom and clash and jolt and jostle and shake and screech and snort and snarl and slam and scrape and throb and crink and jangle and quiver and grumble and roar and rattle and yell and smoke and smell and shriek like hell!"

"J. T. Craycroft,
"Dallas, Texas."

PERHAPS YOU CAN HELP—
Mrs. Ellen S. Quillin of the Witte Museum, San Antonio, has appealed to the author of this column to assist her in obtaining drawings of ranch brands used in Texas and information as to the origin and history of brands.

"The Witte Museum of San Antonio," writes Mrs. Quillin, "is seeking all the ranch brand records of Texas, as one of its contributions to Centennial History. We have worked on this project for the past year and up to now have 380 complete records."

If you know a brand, and better still the origin and history of that brand, Mrs. Quillin would appreciate a drawing and all the information that you can furnish.

"We have a good many brands, but no information," continues Mrs. Quillin. "For instance, who owned the Tin Cup brand? Rocking Chair? Scissors? Pick and Fan? Camp Kettle? Forked Lightning? Okay? Half Circle Six? Keno? Seven-up? Open A? Lazy F? Running M? Bridle Bit? Cotton Hook? Frying Pan?"

"Also, we do not yet have the brands of well known ranchmen, like the King Ranch, Goodnight, Schriener.

"Won't you send us those you know? We want to get our information in book form for the Centennial so that visitors coming from the North and east can spend a good hour in the museum studying our Texas 'Coat of Arms'."

Gattis—

ery borrowed from Precinct No. 4. "I am now trying to make arrangements so that I can grade the rest of the roads in Precinct No. 3 just as fast as I can get to them.

"I wish to express my deep appreciation to the people of Precinct No. 3 for their loyalty to me in what I have tried to do in behalf of our precinct, and for their patience with me in the things I could not do.

"For the benefit of newcomers, I wish to state that I have been farming in Precinct No. 3 for the past 13 years. I hope within the next few weeks to become personally acquainted with all the newcomers in our precinct.

"I have endeavored in every way to render the maximum in service to the people of our precinct, and I appreciate the excellent cooperation that I have received in all my undertakings.

"Your vote and influence will be greatly appreciated.

"Sincerely,
"Roy L. Gattis."

Gilbert—

best that I can give in service and friendly cooperation.

"There is much more to the office of Tax Assessor and Collector than the assessment of property and the collection of taxes.

"As an employee of the citizens of Lamb county I feel that my office must at all times be ready to render every possible service that can reasonably be expected of such an office. We have cooperated with the citizenship of Lamb county in every possible way, we will continue to do that this year, and if I am re-elected the same policy will be carried out in the next term of office.

"We know and feel that it is our duty and place to assist everyone in their problems or questions, making complete and intelligent explanations of things which are not clear to them relative to any tax charge which may be made by the state and county.

"We have made every effort to render prompt, efficient and courteous service, regardless of whether a request was made personally or by mail. We never allow requests to go unanswered. It has been our constant policy to reply to all mail on the day that it was received in order that there could be no possible delay causing the party or parties concerned inconvenience or expense.

"We maintain the records of the Tax Assessor and Collector's office according to suggestions and recommendations of the State Comptroller's Office. Our financial records, as are all other records in our office, are complete, up to date, and correct in every manner, and any person is at liberty to make any investigation or inspection that they may desire.

"I wish to assure you that I have always been a pleasure in the affairs of the county and I pledge to continue you my best efforts if turned to office.

"May I at this time express my sincere thanks to my fellow voters of Lamb county for their support in the past and for their confidence in the coming year to the new voters of the county who refer to me as a man and as a qualification to continue in the office which I have had the honor to fill.

"My platform will be to perform the duties of my office diligently, and courteously.

"Again let me sincerely thank you for your vote and influence and assure you that it will be appreciated.

"Sincerely,
Roy Gilbert."
